ension in Washington Relieved as Details of Sinking Are Known.

Washington, July 1.—Secretary Lansing announced today that until more complete reports had been received from Ambassador Page at Lon- on the torpedoing of the British ner ' menian, in which several ' lost their lives Monday, the ke no action.

Latest re s from Avonmouth detailing how the Armenian made efforts to escape after being ordered to stop caused officials to believe the sinking of the vessel was accomplished in accordance with international law and that the United States might have no reason to take to the subject with Germany, except verify through the admiralty at Berlin the details of the Armenian's reported resistance.

Under the rules of international law, it was pointed out, the Armenian, which flew the British flag, as well as any neutral vessel, could be sunk or refusing to obey a warning to halt and submit to visit and search or capture.

Americans Lose Protection.

Americans aboard such a ship lose protection of their government when the vessel offers resistance.

Ambassador Page reported that the Armenian was engaged "in admiralty business," but the question of how far the vessel was under the control of the British government, by charter or

DAILY LIST OF SHIPS SUNK BY TORPEDOES

Two British and Two Norwegian Vessels Victims of German Submarines.

London, July 1.—The British bark Thistlebank, which sailed from Bahia Blanca, Argentina, April 26, with a cargo of wheat for Queenstown, was torpedoed by a German submarine yesterday at a point off Fastnet, Ireland.

Some of the crew were landed at Baltimore, a small seaport, forty-seven miles southwest of Cork.

The Thistlebank was a four-masted bark built at Glasgow in 1891. She was of 2,430 gross tons.

The British steamer Scottish Monarch, bound from New York for Manchester with a cargo of sugar, was torpedoed and sunk Tuesday by a German submarine. The steamer's crew of thirty-six men took to the lifeboats. The captain and nineteen men were picked up near the Hook Point lightship, not far from Dunmore harbor, Ireland, and were landed at Dunmore. Heavy seas were running at the time.

The Norwegian steamer Marna of Mandal, Norway, bound for Leith with a cargo of pit props has been sunk by a German submarine off Halsund, according to the Christiania correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company. No details are given. The Marna was of 914 tons gross and was 210 feet long.

The Norwegian bark Kotka was sunk yesterday off Fastnet by the gunfire of a German submarine. Twelve men of the crew were landed at Queenstown after being six hours in lifeboats.

The Kotka sailed from Stockton, Me., May 5, for an English port.

WANTS SHIP SENT TO PORT AU PRINCE

Washington, July 1.—Rear Admiral Caperton, on the cruiser Washington, en route to Cape Haitien, to relieve French marines, landed to protect property endangered by the revolution, today requested the navy department to dispatch the survey ship Eagle to Port Au Prince to investigate conditions. The admiral's orders are to thank the French marines for the temporary service and immediately assume responsibility for foreign life and property in Cape Haitien. It is expected that the Washington will reach Cape Haitien tonight.

SPECIAL ENVOY SENT TO BERLIN BY THE GERMAN AMBASSADOR

DR. A. MEYER-GERHARD, Who Has Been Telling German Officials the Feeling in the United States.

WITNESS IN HIGH ANGER

Prof. Marichal Gives Further Testimony in Lusitania Case.

Displeased When Lord Mersey Does Not Believe Him.

London, July 1.—With the object of eliciting further information regarding some questions submitted to the British board of trade in the Lusitania inquiry, Baron Mersey held another public hearing today.

Prof. Marichal of Queen's university, Kingston, Ont., who said he was a retired officer of the French army, caused a diversion by complaining of the treatment accorded rescued passengers of the Lusitania by the Cunard company. He alleged the survivors had greatest difficulty in obtaining dry clothes, food, accommodations or transportation.

Prof. Marichal also said the second explosion on the ship resembled the sound which would be caused by ammunition, "like a Maxim gun." He also charged the company with indifference to the interests of the passengers in carrying a dangerous cargo and criticized the manner of conducting rescue work.

Counsel for the Cunard line then read a letter written by Prof. Marichal to the company after the disaster, in which the writer asked that cash be advanced on his lost baggage or he

MRS. THAW REFUSES TO HONOR SUBPOENA

Says Health Is Poor and She Fears for Her Life.

Malone, N. Y., July 1.—Evelyn Thaw has refused to honor the subpoena served on her yesterday summoning her to New York to testify at the jury proceedings to determine the sanity of her husband, Harry Kendall Thaw.

Mrs. Thaw, it became known today, told William J. McGuire, the state's process-server, that she was in poor health and feared for her life, should she be compelled to undergo the ordeal on the witness stand to which she thought she would be subjected in cross-examination by Thaw's counsel.

She said she would furnish a doctor's certificate if required to do so by the court.

Court Will Decide.

New York, July 1.—Deputy Attorney General Becker, state attorney in the Thaw case, when informed that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw had refused to come to New York, declined to comment on her action. It was understood that whatever action is taken in the matter will be determined by the court.

HUERTA TRIAL IS POSTPONED

Hearing on Charge of Conspiracy Goes Over Until July 12.

Postponement Granted at Request of United States Officials.

El Paso, Tex., July 1.—The case against Victoriano Huerta, Pascual Orozco and four others charged with conspiracy to violate the United States neutrality laws was postponed today to July 12. The defendants were continued under the same bonds.

The postponement was granted on request of attorneys for the prosecution. R. E. Crawford, assistant United States district attorney, stated that the government had been unable to collect and arrange all its evidence or to bring important witnesses into court; that the state would proceed to trial on July 12.

Counsel for the defense agreed to the government's request and briefly explained the status to the defendants who quietly left the courtroom. This agreement was reached shortly before 10 o'clock, the hour set for the hearing. The spectators filed out of the courtroom quickly and the crowd that sur-

GOVERNOR GRANTS BECKER REPRIEVE

Execution of Death Sentence Is Delayed Until July 26.

Albany, N. Y., July 1. — Governor Whitman today granted Charles Becker, the former New York police lieutenant, under sentence of death, a reprieve until July 26.

The governor said he would take no further action in the case than granting of the reprieve. This means that if the United States supreme court does not interfere, Becker will have to die.

NO PROSPECT OF ANY RELIEF FOR STARVING ONES IN MEXICO CITY

No Abatement of Suffering Until Railroad Can Be Reopened.

Insubordination of Zapata Officers Adds to Complications.

Are Charged With Inciting Masses to Deeds of Violence.

Washington, July 1.—Officers of the Zapata forces in Mexico City, disregarding orders of the convention government nominally in control there, are charged with inciting the masses to violence in dispatches carried from the Mexican capital June 25 to Vera Cruz by courier and cabled today to the state department. Insubordination of "some Zapata officers" is said to be rendering the situation more acute.

No prospect of relief for the starving civil population of Mexico City is held out in the dispatches. It is declared that until the railroad to Vera Cruz is reopened there can be no abatement of the suffering. The convention officials, it is stated, "claim to have repulsed" the Carranza forces under Gen. Gonzales. Apparently whatever fighting has taken place around the city has been in the more remote suburbs.

Most Recent Word.

Today's report was the most recent word from Mexico City from any source. What may have happened in the meantime no one here can conjecture. There has been no report of the FRANCE HAS NEVER USED SHELLS MADE IN THE U. S.

Paris, July 1.—With reference to an interview published in the United States in which Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria was quoted as saying that 50 per cent of the shells used by the French were manufactured in the United States, the ministry of war made to the Associated Press the following official statement:

"Neither now nor at any time since the beginning of the war has the French artillery made use of any shells whatsoever manufactured in the United States."

AUSTRIAN GENERAL WITHDRAWN FROM ITALIAN FIELD BY EMPEROR

GEN. DANKL.

London, July 1.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Cervignano says that the Austrian Generals Dankl and Roht have been withdrawn from the Italian field of operations by order of the emperor because of their failure to anticipate and meet Italian surprise attacks at several important strategic points.

A Budapest dispatch to the Post says that the Austrian forces on the Italian front have been considerably reinforced and are assuming the offensive.

ARCHBISHOP'S DEATH IS NOW IMMINENT

Rev. James Quigley Suffers Another Stroke of Paralysis.

Rochester, N. Y., July 1.—James Edward Quigley, Catholic archbishop of Chicago, suffered another stroke of paralysis shortly before 12 o'clock today and his death is imminent.

Hypostatic pneumonia of both lungs has set in. It is not believed the prelate will survive many hours.

RUSSIAN LINES ARE BEING SWUNG BACK IN SOUTHERN POLAND

Ivangorod, City Fifty Miles Southeast From Polish Capital, Believed to Be First Objective of Teutons.

At Present the Chief Holding Power of Czar's Troops Seems to Be Along Line of Bug River.

The Russian lines are still being swung back in Northern Galicia and Southern Poland, in an apparent effort by the Teutonic allies to clear the way for a determined move on Warsaw.

The Russians admit a continuation of the enemy offensive between the Bug and the Vieprz. At the junction of the latter river with the Vistula in Poland lies Ivangorod, which Russian observers believe is the immediate objective of the Austro-German forces in this region. Ivangorod is little more than fifty miles southeast from the Polish capital.

RUSS STRONG ON THE BUG.

Just at present the chief Russian holding power seems to be along the line of the western Bug and the Gnila Lipa in Galicia. Petrograd also records a repulse of an attempt by the Teutons to cross the Dniester near Halics, indicating that the line of the Dniester south of that place is still well held by the Grand Duke Nicholas forces.

A German attack by water on Windau in Courland, on the Baltic, just south of the Gulf of Riga, was repulsed by the Russians, their official statement says. Five cruisers and many torpedo boats participated in the attack and an attempt is declared to have been made to land troops. One of the torpedo boats was blown up before the fleet retired.

NEWS FROM GALLIPOLI.

Eyes are being turned toward the Gallipoli peninsula, from which stirring news has recently come, and there are hints from the side of the entente allies that successes just reported are to be followed by still more determined attempts to carry dominating Turkish positions.

German submarine activity, brought sharply to the front by the sinking of the steamer Armenian with the loss of a number of American lives, is further shown by news of the sinking of the British bark Thistlebank and the Norwegian steamer Marna through torpedo attacks.

The case of the Armenian is being held in abeyance in Washington until the status of the vessel and the circumstances in which she was sunk are fully determined.

TORNADO IN OKLAHOMA SAID TO HAVE KILLED SIX

Muskogee, Okla., July 1.—A tornado that swept parts of Ottawa county, Northeastern Oklahoma, last night, today was reported to have killed six persons. Three deaths have been verified. The casualties were in the rural districts near Miami, difficult to reach, telephone lines being out of commission. Considerable property damage is reported.

American Consul's Wife Ill.

Paris, July 1.—Mrs. Alexander M. Thackara, the wife of the American consul general at Paris, is seriously ill. She is a daughter of the late Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman.

ALLIES PLAN AN ADVANCE

New Offensive Likely on West Front at Any Time.

Recent Gains By French and British Considered Important.

London, July 1.—While the Austro-German armies continue to push the Russians back over the Galician border in their own territory rumors are rife in London of contemplated offensives by the entente allies. The French are credited with the intention of making a formidable attack on account of the enormous expenditure of artillery ammunition to the north of Arras, where a persistent bombardment has been kept up for the last fortnight; while the Anglo-French forces on the Gallipoli peninsula are said to be on the point of making a supreme effort to capture the massive hill of Achi Baba, which dominates all the country south of the narrows of the Dardanelles.

The recent gains claimed by the British and French on the southern end of the peninsula are considered important because they indicate an approach to the hill on three sides.

Warsaw More Open to Drive.

On the eastern front every change leaves Warsaw, the capital of Russian Poland, more open to the drive which

OVER 300 MEXICANS LOSE LIVES IN WRECK

Train Loaded With Soldiers and Their Families Goes into Canyon, Crushing Many Passengers to Death.

Laredo, Tex., July 1.—Three hundred Carranza soldiers and their wives and children were killed and several hundred injured in a wreck of a military train near Monte Morelos, between Tampico and Monterey, according to an American who arrived here today from the interior. The accident took place ten days ago, he said.

The American traveler's story was the first intimation here of the wreck, but this was attributed to the censorship, which has been extraordinarily strict recently. The train was heavily loaded and proceeding at full speed when it left the track, the American said, and tumbled into a small canyon.

The soldiers with their wives and children and scores of women camp followers were being sent from Tampico to Monterey. The train was made up of box cars, women and children crowded inside, and others on top, while many, as is a Mexican revolutionist custom, were slung under the box cars.

Proceeding Slowly.

The engineer, it was said, was proceeding slowly, claiming the track was in poor condition. Some time before nearing Monte Morelos, it was said, the major in charge of the troops placed a pistol to the head of the engineer, demanding full speed. The engineer complied, and just before reaching Monte Morelos, the train left the track.

Passengers and crew fell with the train into a small canyon and many were literally crushed to death beneath the wreckage, the American declared. It was reported the major who gave the command for higher speed was among the killed. None of the crew was known to have escaped.

No further details or confirmation of the reported wreck could be obtained here today.

The national clothes with the American spirit

America leads the world in the scientific manufacture of men's ready-to-wear clothing. Here the industry has developed to a fine art. Here style is king and each year a greater number of men voluntarily enlist under the "flag of fashion."

Styleplus Clothes $17
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
"The same price the world over"

are among the royal family of stylish clothes, but they demand tribute from no man.

Americans are famous for their ability to size up a situation and for quick action. Some few years ago one of the well-known makers saw that the American public could not buy any one suit of medium price with absolute assurance as to its standard of quality and its style. This maker decided, therefore, to center every energy of his organization in standardizing a suit of medium price, of correct style, of intrinsic worth.

This suit is STYLEPLUS CLOTHES $17. The fabrics are guaranteed all wool. They are hand tailored in liberal quantity. And a great fashion artist does the styling.

We are exclusive headquarters and we can fit you sure. Incidentally we will save you some money.

CHECK ALL OLD VOUCHERS

City May Begin Search for All Bills Paid Twice.

Citizen Threatens Appeal to Grand Jury Unless It Is Done.

Unless the city commissioners hire a special voucher clerk to go over all the requisitions paid during the last five years to discover alleged double payments of bills aggregating several hundred dollars, several Duluth taxpayers are threatening to bring the matter before the grand jury this fall for an investigation.

This morning a prominent property owner held a conference with several of the commissioners, explaining the need of correcting back mistakes and taking necessary precautions for the future.

It was suggested that the city hire an expert voucher clerk for thirty or sixty days to go over old requisitions and bills for the last five years, during which time, it is claimed, many bills were paid twice. He will also work as an assistant to City Auditor Campbell and devote all his time to checking vouchers as they come in daily.

"If the council refuses to go ahead with a plan of this kind," the citizen said, "I am going to take the matter before the grand jury. City officials are liable for any money lost in this way and if they have permitted bills to be paid twice, then they were guilty of malfeasance in office."

Another suggestion made to the council is that no bill be paid by the auditor unless the original requisition accompanies the voucher. These must both be stamped by the department and, after paid, filed away by the auditor. In this way there will never be any doubt as to whether a bill has already been paid.

Rumors that new bookkeeping systems are to be installed in several of the departments are also circulating about the city hall and one of the commissioners this morning confirmed the report. He said that as soon as the dull season arrives in the fall he will reorganize his entire office system, to become effective at the end of the fiscal year on Dec. 31, next.

Last Monday the council adopted a resolution making each department head responsible in the future for any bills paid twice. This action was taken following a report by Commissioner Voss that four bills have been paid a second time since a year ago this spring.

ORGANIZATION IS COMPLETE

A. J. Powers Made Foreman of Carriers at Duluth Postoffice.

With the promotion of Archibald J. Powers, local mail carrier, to the position of foreman of carriers, the reorganization of the Duluth postoffice force was completed today. Mr. Powers will draw a salary of $1,300 a year in his new position. He has been in the service for many years, and has been chosen because of his efficiency and faithful application to duty.

The reorganization of the postoffice staff makes the system widely different from that under the former regime. Instead of having several different heads, representing various departments centering in an assistant postmaster, the postmaster will have direct supervision of all departments, and all reports must come to him. The force as it now stands follows:

Postmaster, head of all departments, William E. McEwen.

Division of finances, Martin Meldahl, acting superintendent.

Under this department come the divisions for money orders, postal savings, accounting, stamp, sub-postal stations.

Division of mails, Thomas E. Considine, superintendent.

Under this department head come several sections, consisting of the registry division, E. J. Barker; outgoing mail, Oscar R. Johnson; city distribution, Charles Ehling; city carriers, A. J. Powers.

The arrangements for the reorganization of the office have been under way ever since Mr. McEwen went into office. The department at Washington has been reorganizing offices throughout the country, and the Washington officials declare that the new system is proving far more economical and efficient than the old system.

Because of the greater economy under the new system, the department at Washington was able to grant the increases in salaries to clerks and carriers that occur automatically each year, due to length of service of employes. The last congress provided no appropriation for this increase.

DULUTH FIRM WINS SUIT FOR DAMAGE

Because the Avery Steel & Iron company of Minneapolis failed to furnish McLeod & Smith, Duluth contractors, with certain material necessary for the construction of a school house at Virginia two years ago, the National Surety company, bondsmen for the Minneapolis firm, must make good damages occasioned by the delay.

In Judge Ensign's division of the district court shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a jury brought in a verdict against the surety company and in favor of Ronald J. McLeod and James A. Smith, co-partners as McLeod & Smith, for $829.37, which is equivalent to the amount claimed, with interest for two years.

HEALTH SURVEY IS ABANDONED

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of bad weather and a lack of funds, the United States health service bureau has abandoned for this year a proposed health survey of Minnesota. Word to this effect has been received by Dr. Bracken of the state board of health.

As planned, the Federal bureau was to take a health census of one county in the state. A corps of physicians and experts were to be located in the county, who would personally visit every individual and home and ascertain health conditions. Printed matter was to be circulated and health instructions given.

The Federal bureau is now making such surveys in a number of states in the Union. Dr. Bracken says the abandonment in Minnesota is only temporary. He expects to see the work taken up next year.

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Discolored or freckled skin so common at this season, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, which is applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Greasy creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably young and healthy.

Sun, winds and flying dust often cause squinting and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every line, however caused, by using a harmless wash lotion made by dissolving 1 oz powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.

DEMON RUM SPOILS EXCELLENT HUSBAND

Demon rum spoiled Charles Byron Bean as a kind husband and good provider, according to Mrs. Bonnie V. Bean, who for the second time within the last five year, has brought her domestic difficulties into the divorce court.

In August, 1911, Mrs. Bean sued her husband for divorce on the grounds of cruelty and drunkenness. The case was never pressed. Recently it was dismissed, and a new cause of action started, realleging similar charges. The new case was filed today.

The Beans were married in Chicago ten years ago last September and are parents of two children, Bennie Bean, 9, and George Bean, 6. Mrs. Bean is 25 years old, and her husband is seven years her senior.

In her latest complaint, she alleges that for many years he has been addicted to the use of intoxicants, and that on more than one occasion when he has come home drunk, he has beaten her. She asks for a divorce and the custody of the two children.

LOCKJAW FATAL TO MANY LAST YEAR

"Safe and Sane" Celebration of Fourth Helps Reduce Fatalities.

Agitation for a "safe and sane Fourth" did not make a favorable impression upon tetanus, commonly called lockjaw, in this state last year. There was, however, a marked falling off in the total number of deaths and injuries caused by Fourth of July accidents. This statement comes from Dr. I. J. Murphy, formerly of this city, but now with the Minnesota public health bureau, St. Paul.

"Tetanus caused 25 deaths in Minnesota in 1914 and only 22 in 1913," says Dr. Murphy. "It has been the cause of 147 deaths in this state in the last five-year period.

"Celebrating the Fourth in an improper manner caused a total of forty deaths and 1,466 known injuries to United States citizens in 1914. During the last twelve years 42,786 people were killed or severely injured. Fortunately the number is gradually becoming less each year.

"Enforcement of strict regulations regarding time, place and kind of explosives permissible has helped to make this favorable reduction. However, intelligent newspaper publicity and warnings from medical men have been the most important factor. The result is rowdyism, riot and murder have given away to more befitting American pastimes."

COLUMBIA ANNOUNCES COURSE IN RUSSIAN

New York, July 1.—Columbia university announces that such a demand for practical instruction in Russian has arisen as a result of the European war that the university is organizing work of this kind for the summer session, beginning July 6.

The courses will include both history and language, special stress being laid on Russia's economic growth and the openings for trade between that country and the United States.

WITNESS WANTED IN NEW YORK ARRESTED

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 1.—Heinze Hardenberg, who several weeks ago was summoned to appear before the Federal grand jury at New York to give testimony in the Lusitania affidavit case and who disappeared after being taken to that city, was taken in custody on the street here yesterday by special agents of the department of justice.

The Federal officers said Hardenberg told them he left New York without appearing before the grand jury because he feared the condemnation of his fellow countrymen.

Hardenberg was held as a material witness. He was taken to New York last night.

Hardenberg is expected by the government to impeach the testimony of Gustav Stahl, who in an affidavit said he had seen guns mounted on the Lusitania when she sailed from New York on her last voyage.

When found here Hardenberg was in the company of a man who said he is Lieut. August Von Kressler, a German reservist. He was not detained or questioned.

IN PROBATE COURT.

In probate court yesterday afternoon, Heinri Olson filed a petition asking that she be granted letters of administration in the estate of her late husband, William Olson, who died April 10, 1909, at Sparta, Minn. The estate is valued at about $200.

Mary Matheson, widow of Neil Matheson of Carlton, who died April 19, last, leaving an $1,800 estate in this county, yesterday filed her husband's will with the probate court. Besides the widow, Matheson is survived by two sons, Walter, residing at 115 Exeter street, this city, and Neil J. Matheson of Virginia.

WEST END

RAFT TRIP IS FATAL TO BOY

Roland Carroll Loses Life Attempting to Pole to Scow.

Companions Vainly Strive to Save Him; None Able to Swim.

While playing with three companions on an improvised raft made of logs Roland Carroll, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Carroll, 2714 West Fourth street, was drowned in the bay off Forty-first avenue west, late yesterday afternoon. The body was recovered at 8 o'clock by the members of the United States life saving crew.

Roland in company with Ralph Strum, age 13, son of Oscar F. Strum, 2726 West Fourth street; Ervin Schumaker, age 14, son of Joseph A. Schumaker, 2715 West Fourth street, and Eston Olson, age 14, son of H. E. Olson, 2705 West Fourth street, had gone down to the bay early in the afternoon to play near the water front. Spying a sunken scow out in the bay at some distance, the boys decided to get on it.

Fixed Up a Log Raft.

The Schumaker and Olson boys fixed up one raft while the victim of the drowning and the Strum boy arranged two logs together to make their trip on. These they were poling along, when a swell from a passing boat struck the latter's raft causing the logs to roll. Roland lost his balance and fell in while the Strum boy was able to hang on. Neither could swim.

Hearing the cry from their companion, Ervin and Eston jumped into the water in the hope of saving the drowning lad. For a considerable time they fought with him in an attempt to secure a hold on the lad in such a way that they would not be dragged under themselves. After breaking the drowning boy's hold, the two others had scarcely strength enough left to swim to shore.

The struggle in the water was witnessed by a crowd of about fifty boys, who were unable to render assistance. A call was immediately sent out to the police and life saving station. The life savers worked for four hours before finding the body.

The boy's parents and two brothers survive him. The brothers are Cecil, age 20, and Augustine, age 10. The father is manager of the Duluth Lumber company. The body was taken to Grady & Horgan's undertaking rooms.

Favorite Place For Boys.

The spot where the boys were playing is a favorite place for spending the days during vacations. Hundreds of boys may be seen there almost any fair day. A sandy beach extends for more than a hundred feet out where the greatest depth is not more than four feet. Then there is a sudden drop to about twelve to twenty feet where there has been dredging. The boys were out beyond the shallow part of the inlet when the accident took place.

A requiem high mass will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the St. Clement Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. The body will be taken on an evening train over the Soo line to La Crosse, Wis., the former home of the parents. Funeral services will be held at the Cathedral at La Crosse Monday morning and interment will be made in the Catholic cemetery.

FAIL TO FIND BODY.

River Dragged for Carl Mattson—Uncle Found in Duluth.

Although police of New Duluth spent several hours yesterday afternoon dragging the St. Louis river near the stone quarry at Fond du Lac, they were unable to find the body of Carl Mattson, whose clothes were found on the bank of the river Tuesday evening. The search has been given up and it is not expected that the body will be found until it comes to the surface. This is expected to be about Sunday or Monday.

The account of the drowning as given in The Herald last night was the means of informing Mattson's uncle, August Anderson, 2201 West Twelfth street, of the accident. Mr. Anderson will be given charge of Mattson's personal effects unless other relatives show up.

Mattson's parents live in Sweden. He also has an uncle living in Minneapolis with whom the police are attempting to get into communication. The young man had been rooming for the last two months at the Osborne block. He has been in the employ of the Dunlop-Moore company as tile-setter for the last five years.

WOULD SECURE MORE PAVING.

Commercial Club Will Launch Campaign at Meeting.

The West End Commercial club will meet this evening at the Simonson hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street. One of the principal matters to be discussed this evening will be what action or help the club can take in assisting to secure more paving for this end of the city this year.

A report of the "clean-up" campaign carried on by the boys and girls of the West end will be made at the meeting.

Patriotic Program.

A patriotic program is being arranged for the meeting of the Swedish Sick Benefit society at its monthly meeting to be held Tuesday at the Sloan hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. Several short patriotic addresses, readings and songs will be included in the program. Refreshments will be served.

Will Plan Outing.

The Young Old Timers' association will meet this evening to consider plans for the annual outing to be held by the organization at L. R. Birch's farm on Lester river. The outing will be held on Sunday, July 18. Committees to have charge of the affair will be announced by Charles D. Hoar, president of the society.

Lodge Will Entertain.

The Sons of Sweden lodge, No. 170, Vasa order, will entertain tomorrow evening with a musical and literary program at the Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The program will include selections by some of the best musical talent in this end of the city. The principal address will be given by Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, pastor of the First Swedish M. E. church.

West End Briefs.

Rev. Swaney Nelson and family, 212 West Third street, will leave early next week for a month's outing at Mille Lacs lake, where they have taken a cottage for the vacation season.

Rice's Point lodge, No. 80, A. O. U. W., will discuss picnic plans this evening at its meeting at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The Tabitha Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors this evening.

George Farrington and son, Erwin, of Jamestown, N. D., are spending a few days visiting at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Farrington, 2131 West First street.

The Young People's Society of the Second Presbyterian church enjoyed a picnic supper last evening at Lester park. The supper was served at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Ben Hanson, 3823 West Sixth street, entertained this afternoon for the Seregta Ladies' Aid Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the B. of L. E. will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Woodman hall. Delegates to the recent convention will give their reports.

DOMINION DAY BEING OBSERVED

Canadians Celebrate Uniting of Provinces Under One Head.

Canadians today are celebrating the forty-eighth anniversary of the birth of the Dominion of Canada, but the commemoration will be less elaborate than in previous years, because of the war.

On July 1, 1867, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were united under the title Dominion of Canada, by the provisions of the British North America act, passed the same year. This confederation has been augmented until it now includes eleven provinces.

"With so many of our boys away at war, Canada will not celebrate on so large a scale today," said David Quail, British vice consul at Duluth.

COUNTY SCHOOLS' ANNUAL MEETINGS

Discussions and Elections Due in Country Districts July 17.

Common and independent school districts throughout St. Louis county will hold their annual meetings and elections on Saturday, July 17, this year. Women may attend and vote on all matters brought up at the annual meeting.

In the rural districts a free discussion of all matters of school business is usually engaged in at the annual meetings.

ASSESSORS MAKE REPORT TO AUDITOR

All Their Work Must Be Completed By Next Monday.

Assessors of the 145 taxing districts of the county are making their returns to County Auditor Odin Halden this week. About thirty of them have already sent in their assessment rolls.

Assessors should perform their duties during the months of May and June, and it is the intention of the law that they should complete their duties before the fourth Monday in June when the town board meets. An assessor has authority, however, to make an assessment on his own motion until he returns his books to the county auditor on or before the first Monday in July. After that he has no authority over the assessment books or to perform any official act unless notified by the auditor of an omission. In that event, he is required to ascertain the value of the omitted property and make the necessary alteration in the assessment books.

BETHLEHEM PLANT NEEDS LOCAL ORE

Can't Get Chilean Material Because of Lack of Ships.

Opinions are expressed in some quarters that the Bethlehem Steel company will be a heavy buyer of Lake Superior iron ores during the next two years.

That will be brought about through the delay in filling a contract for the building of a fleet of steamers for hauling ore from the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Chilean mines to the Atlantic seaboard placed with an English shipbuilding firm more than a year ago. All work upon them was suspended when the war broke out, and it is now thought that the contract will be held up till after peace is declared.

In the meantime all the American shipyards have become so busy that they are unable to accept a contract from the Bethlehem Steel corporation. Some of the plants are said to be filled up for two years and the only available capacity of any consequence is that offered by the Cramp company. With the steadily rising prices of materials its officials are not anxious however, to accept any large new business at the present. American shipbuilders claim that Great Britain could keep their yards busy during the next two years and, in fact, that government is said to be negotiating with firms in this country for the construction of freighters.

Development of the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Chilean iron properties, will, it is estimated, involve an outlay of $10,000,000. In the meantime that work is being held up and Charles M. Schwab is contracting for American ore supplies.

Valley City Club Meeting.

Alive to Opportunity

A man who expects to better his condition must be keenly alive to opportunities as they present themselves.

The time when a man can drift along and still make progress has passed.

To get in a "rut" and stay there, shows lack of ambition, grit and perseverance.

Opportunities are coming up every day only to be passed by for want of ready money.

It therefore follows, that the man "alive to opportunity," banks something out of every pay against the time when "ready money" will enable him to take advantage of it and profit accordingly.

SHOWS NEED OF HOSPITAL

Half Day's Delay in Getting Medical Attention for Colbyville Woman.

The need in Duluth for a city and county hospital was never made more apparent than this morning.

About 7 o'clock this morning Emil Nordlund, who was placed on parole yesterday by Judge Cutting, called up Probation Officer Hicks from Colbyville, telling the latter that his wife was very ill and that she needed a physician. He stated that Dr. C. E. Prudden had been out at Colbyville all night, but that he had to return to the city this morning for several operations at one of the hospitals.

Mr. Hicks agreed to help Nordlund and immediately telephoned Dr. Prudden, who confirmed the statement that he had been at Colbyville all night, but that he would be unable to return again until late today. He had suggested bringing Mrs. Nordlund with him to the hospital, but the latter refused to go, fearing the expense.

The probation officer then telephoned Poor Commissioner Cook, who agreed to stand all the expense and told the former to telephone St. Luke's hospital and obtain an ambulance. At the hospital it was suggested that as the woman was reported very ill, it would be more advisable to rush the police surgeon out to Colbyville in the emergency patrol, than to bring her into the city.

Mr. Hicks then went to the city health department, where he was told that the case was out of the city's jurisdiction.

He then called up Mr. Cook again and the latter told him to go ahead and order any ambulance and to bring the sick woman to the hospital. This Mr. Hicks did and an ambulance was sent out shortly after 11 o'clock. The woman was brought to St. Luke's shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon.

In the meantime Nordlund kept constantly telephoning Mr. Hicks for assistance, saying that his wife was dying.

Nordlund was arrested last Tuesday and convicted on a charge of stealing $4.50 from an employer. After being sent to jail, his mother-in-law appeared before Judge Cutting and told the latter a pitiful story of the conditions in the family. The judge then agreed to rearraign Nordlund and give him a new trial. Nordlund pleaded guilty and he was then placed on parole.

Had there been a city and county hospital the woman would have been brought to Duluth this morning by Dr. Prudden.

WOULD REVISE ORDINANCES

Plumbing and Electrical Measures Opposed By Commercial Club.

Committee Would Redraft Measures Leaving Out Some Features.

The municipal committee of the Duluth Commercial club is opposed to the plumbing and electrical ordinances in their present draft, according to H. V. Eva, secretary of the club.

In a communication received by Mayor Prince this morning, Secretary Eva states that the municipal committee met last Tuesday to consider the ordinance and that it found many objectionable features in both measures. The council is also requested to defer final action until the various objectionable parts are eliminated.

The two ordinances have been prepared by local trade organizations and were recently turned over to the mayor by City Attorney Greene.

Mr. Eva's letter to the council follows:

"At a meeting of our municipal committee held Tuesday, June 29, the plumbing ordinance as it is now before the commission, and the electrical ordinance as it is proposed to be introduced were considered.

"The committee, while subscribing to the principle of protecting life and property by proper legislation regulating electrical and plumbing installation, and recognizing many meritorious features in each of the ordinances, believes that in the forms in which they were put before the committee, both ordinances contained such objectionable features as to make their enactment inadvisable. If such legislation is to be enacted the committee hopes that the people interested on all sides will get together and redraft the ordinances so that they shall carry out the primary principle—the protection of life and property—and still avoid those provisions which are objectionable to the public interest.

"Will you please communicate this action of the committee to the other members of the city commission?

"We trust you will defer action on these ordinances until such time as the various provisions objected to are eliminated.

"Very truly yours,
"H. V. EVA,
"Secretary."

LIKELY TO GET LIBRARY

Indications are that Andrew Carnegie will grant Duluth's application for another library.

This morning Mayor Prince received a letter from James Bertram, secretary of the Carnegie Foundation, asking the local executive for a map of Duluth, showing the location of the libraries at First avenue west and at West Duluth and where the proposed building will be erected.

In addition, information is desired as to whether the city has voted a maintenance revenue for the first year and how much will be spent on the structure.

Last month Mayor Prince sent an application for a library building to be erected by the steel king at Twenty-third avenue west and Second street. With the settling of the various questions asked by Mr. Bertram, Mayor Prince expects to receive word that Mr. Carnegie will order the erection of the building.

STEWART ESTATE WORTH $42,500

Dr. Charles A. Stewart, Duluth physician, who died June 22 last at Minneapolis, left an estate estimated to be worth $42,500, according to a petition which was filed in connection with his will in probate court this afternoon.

The will provides that the widow Mrs. Lida R. Stewart of this city shall inherit one-third of the estate and that the remainder shall be divided in equal shares among three children, Milton I. Stewart, a son, and Mrs. Edith S. Wagner, a daughter, both of Duluth, and Mrs. Lyda S. Kopp, a daughter, residing in York, Pa.

The widow and J. W. Lyder of this city are named as executors in the will. Dr. Stewart left no real estate according to the petition which recites that his holdings consisted of corporation stocks worth $29,000 and notes and bonds valued at $13,500.

TELLS ROTARIANS OF FORD SYSTEM

At the noon meeting today of the Rotary club E. J. Filiatrault spoke on the wonders of the Ford automobile factory of Detroit. Mr. Filiatrault has made an inspection of the plant that turns out daily more machines than are manufactured in weeks in some of the other automobile factories of the country, and gave an interesting account of what he observed.

The speaker declared that system, a system that embraces every detail of the huge plant, is the secret of success. Mr. Filiatrault also asserted that Henry Ford is one of the great geniuses of the age.

Preliminary plans were taken up regarding the industrial exposition that is to be held in Duluth during the fall. No definite decision was reached, but a general discussion was held regarding various plans to be pursued.

WILL DISCUSS ST. VINCENT ROAD

County Commissioners Charles Kauppi and W. A. Swanstrom of this city, and R. S. O'Neil of Chisholm will leave tomorrow for Carlton where they will join a committee of Itasca county commissioners and proceed to Aitkin to attend a meeting of the Aitkin county board with reference to the Duluth-St. Vincent road matter. The connecting link, about one mile in length, traverses Aitkin county, and it is desired to have the Aitkin county board pay its share of the construction.

BROTHER OF J. G. ROSS DIES IN VICTORIA

Duncan Ross, brother of John G. Ross, humane agent, and former member of the Dominion parliament from British Columbia, died very suddenly last night in Victoria, B. C.

Mrs. Ross received a telegram last night at her home, 107 South Nineteenth avenue east, telling of his death. No details were given in the wire, and nothing further has been learned.

Through the aid of Chief of Police R. D. McKercher, Humane Agent Ross was located at Moose Lake, where he has been working on a case, and was informed of his brother's death. He will reach Duluth this afternoon.

Upon the completion of his last term in parliament about two years ago, Mr. Ross visited his brother in Duluth, and made many acquaintances.

DULUTH CITY OF REFUGE FOR BELGIAN

Cyrille Van Elsande, 2103 West Third street, is in New York, where he went to meet his father, Victor Van Elsande, aged 76, and his daughter, Alice, aged 13, whom he has not seen since seven years ago, when Cyrille first came to this country. The aged man has been driven from his home in Belgium, his home destroyed, and is escaping to this country for protection.

With the avalanche of Germans pouring into Belgium, the Van Elsande home, which has been in the possession of the family for more than 300 years, has been destroyed. The aged man and his granddaughter arrived in New York yesterday afternoon.

A telegram was received last evening by Mrs. Van Elsande, announcing the arrival. The elder Van Elsande intends making his home with his son in Duluth.

WILL HEAR ARGUMENTS IN ELECTION CONTEST

Arguments in the Windom-Smallwood election contest, which is pending before the supreme court on an appeal from the St. Louis county district court will be presented at St. Paul tomorrow by Attorney H. C. Fulton, representing Judge W. L. Windom and H. H. Phelps appearing for Capt. W. H. Smallwood, municipal judge-elect.

The question which the supreme court will be called to pass upon is whether or not the preferential system of balloting as provided for municipal elections by the Duluth city charter is applicable to the office of municipal judge, who is admitted to be a state officer.

DAN CUPID SETS NEW JUNE RECORD.

June, the month of brides, sweet-scented roses, orange blossoms and trousseaus, broke all records this year.

During the last thirty days Dan Cupid did himself proud. The little quiver bearer attained a high degree of marksmanship. Out of 140 shots, only once was his aim erring.

District court records show that 140 applications for marriage licenses were made in June, 1915. One bride had to be disappointed because she forgot to get a divorce from her former husband. She was the only one turned down.

In June, 1914, 144 licenses were issued; in June, 1913, 132; June, 1912, 114; June, 1911, 124.

RED RIVER RISING; STREAM RUNS HIGH

Grand Forks, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red river at noon today had reached 24.5 feet above low water and still is rising.

It rose over two feet in the last twenty-four hours. While the Red Lake river's great flood of water is practically stationary, the Red river is bringing down a tremendous flow of water and that fact is responsible for the continued rise here. The danger to farming communities in the vicinity of Drayton, N. D., and the lowlands of Red river north of the International boundary grows more serious with the continued rise of the stream.

LAKE STEAMERS ARE SMOKE VIOLATORS

Five lake steamers violated the smoking ordinance during the month of June, according to the report of Inspector J. W. Schneider, submitted to Mayor Prince this morning.

The Lakeport, Tionesta, Juniata, Superior and Northern Wave are the steamers that permitted dense smoke longer than the ten-minute limit. Notices were served by the inspector on the captains of the respective vessels.

In addition the smoke ordinance was violated by two buildings, three locomotives and one tar kettle.

During June, Inspector Schneider issued twenty-three electrical permits and inspected the installation of eighty-nine poles.

For Perspiration Orders

Especially during the summer months, we should guard most carefully against body and foot odors. This is not only a matter of decency and cleanliness, but a duty we owe to those with whom we come in contact.

The very best method is to put a teaspoonful of Benetol into a quart of hot water and sponge the body and feet. Or, better still, use Benetol in the bath. This will leave every inch of your body antiseptically clean and sweet.

Benetol is not perfumed, as no artificial odor can ever agreeably overcome the odor of perspiration.

Benetol is sold, recommended and guaranteed in Duluth by all druggists and leading drug stores everywhere, and you will find many uses for it in your household.

Always read and follow directions. Samples sent free upon request direct to The Benetol Co., 120 Benetol Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE FAILS IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., July 1.—Woman suffrage failed conclusively for this session today when the senate by a vote of 14 to 17, refused to reconsider its vote in killing the Grell resolution.

As a means of expediting the session, the senate adopted a joint resolution providing that new bills may not be introduced except by unanimous consent and except finance measures and adopted another resolution to refer all new legislation except finance matters, to the calendar, thus avoiding sending them to committees.

The senate gave final concurrence to the Nye terminal taxation bill, 25 to 6, against the opposition of Senators Bray and Skogmo. The bill gives additional revenue to such lake cities as Superior, Ashland, Manitowoc and Milwaukee.

The house killed the Albers bill, which would have reduced life insurance taxes, and passed the Mortensen bill to repeal the county board of education law.

FORMER PARK RIVER BANKER IS FREE MAN

Grafton, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Kneeshaw in district court here today granted the motion of counsel for the defense and dismissed the proceedings against C. R. Verry, former Park River, N. D., banker charged with embezzling $10,000 of the bank's funds. The motion was made after the state had presented its case. Today's action is the culmination of a long list of court proceedings that have involved Verry since his retirement from the bank.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE WILL BE HELD AUG. 1

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Aug. 1, sales of delinquent tax property will be held in every county of the state. Notices of such cases were today sent out by State Auditor Preus. The sales, as made, are absolute, and cover property which has been sold for delinquent taxes and which the owners have failed to redeem. Under the old law deeds to such property were given by the state auditor, but this year the state tax commission will furnish them.

TO FIGHT IT OVER AGAIN

Railroads Re-establish Free Storage System at Duluth for Outsiders.

Get "Cold Feet" Because of Lake Michigan Competition.

The old evil of free storage for Twin City houses and others west of here is again upon Duluth, and the old fight, which the traffic commission of the Commercial club thought was won, will have to be gone over again. Five railroads, which have warehouses at this point, have just issued a tariff restoring the free storage, and the traffic commission is getting ready to file a protest with the interstate commerce commission and ask that the new tariff be suspended pending a hearing and decision.

Duluth's fight against free storage extended back over a number of years, and it was thought to have been settled last August, at which time the railroads withdrew the privilege of free storage here and also canceled the rule whereby shippers having consignments in store here could change the point of shipment of goods stored here. This was looked upon as a victory—and it would have been a victory, had it stuck.

Roads Get Cold Feet.

But the railroads began to get "cold feet," according to the traffic men, for free storage was still in vogue at Gladstone, Mich., and that point was getting too much of the business in consequence. When the free storage and its attendant feature were abolished here last autumn, it was believed that the Lake Michigan lines would follow suit, and it looked that way. The free storage here was replaced by a tariff of 20 cents a ton per month and everything pointed to the likelihood that the Lake Michigan lines would put even a stiffer charge than that. But then business began to go along to Gladstone, and the charge feature was "ditched;" so the old incubus is in effect again.

Under the free storage system, it is pointed out, Duluth gets a poor deal. A Minneapolis wholesale house, or an Eastern wholesale house, for that matter, can send to Duluth a consignment of, say, wire, and the line carrying it will store it until it is called for. More than that, when the shipper gets an order for a certain amount of wire, he can send word to the railroad representatives here to ship that much of wire held in storage here to such-and-such a destination, and it is shipped. In other words, a wholesaler outside of Duluth gets stockroom privileges here free of charge, and can compete on better than even terms for business in the surrounding territory with Duluth wholesalers. That is the point which causes the soreness here, and it will be fought, now that the railroads have reneged on their former action.

Under the new tariff just issued, the roads will charge ½ cent a hundred for wharfage on all goods handled in docks, whether they are stored in transit or not; freight stored in transit and handled under joint through lake-and-rail tariffs to points beyond above-lake ports is to be consigned through to the point of destination, but a change of destination or reforwarding in straight or mixed carloads, when from the same shipping point via the same boat line, and from one shipped to one consignee, will be permitted at the through rate in effect, provided the new destination point is on the line furnishing the storage or on connections with such line with whom interchange is made at points other than Duluth. Freight stored in transit, not handled under joint lake-and-rail tariffs, but which is subject to the tariffs of these companies applying from Duluth, may be reforwarded in straight or mixed carloads from said ports at the tariff rates, regardless of the point of origin or delivering lake line.

The roads involved in the new tariff are the Milwaukee, the Omaha, the Soo, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific.

The Old Age Sign Double Crossed

Don't let gray hair make you look years older than you are, for it is now an easy matter to tint gray, faded or bleached hair in a harmless way. The new preparation, "Brownatone," is proving so popular that thousands of people of refinement and many leading hairdressers are now using this wonderful product exclusively.

"Brownatone" meets every demand and fulfills every test required of it, and is so simple to use that no previous experience is necessary. Comes ready for use—no mixing and is entirely free from lead, sulphur, silver, zinc, mercury, aniline, coal-tar products or their derivatives. There is no danger of irritation or a poisoned scalp when you use "Brownatone," because it is guaranteed harmless.

Produces the most beautiful shades from light golden to the deepest brown or black. Will not rub or wash off and cannot be detected. Most all leading druggists everywhere now sell "Brownatone" in two sizes, 25c and $1.00, and in two colors—one to produce "golden or medium brown," the other "dark brown or black."

Get a 25c bottle from your dealer today, or if you prefer, a sample bottle with interesting book will be mailed on receipt of 10c, to help pay postage and packing charges, if sent to the manufacturers, The Kenton Pharmacal Co., 527 Pike St., Covington, Ky.

Sold and guaranteed in Duluth by Orpheum Pharmacy, Second avenue east and Superior street; Lyceum Pharmacy and other leading dealers.

City employes will have spending money for the Fourth.

Commissioner Voss, head of the finance division, said this morning that a special meeting of the city council will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to pass on the June payroll and that Saturday will be payday.

If this special action was not taken, city employes would have to wait until next Tuesday for their salaries.

NO RECORD OF WRECK FROM WHICH "WONDERFUL BARGAINS" OFFERED DULUTHIANS WERE SALVAGED

PLEASE KEEP THIS CIRCULAR UNTIL OUR REPRESENTATIVE CALLS

SALVAGE! SALVAGE!

WRECK OF STEAMSHIP "SULTANA" (BOUND FROM LIVERPOOL TO NEW YORK)

A CARGO VALUED AT $345.000

WRECK OF THE "SULTANA"—This magnificent cargo steamer, under the command of the veteran seaman, Captain Stephenson, was wrecked off the Banks of Newfoundland, in a severe gale, after sailing four days; but fortunately, all hands were saved, likewise the greater portion of the valuable cargo with which the ill-fated vessel was laden. Portions of the valuable and varied stock have been consigned by the Insurance Company to the firm of Messrs. G. J. Campbell & Co., 392 Broadway, New York City, the largest commission salesmen in the world, who for the purpose of effecting a speedy clearance of the goods, have instructed permanent salesmen to sell them at retail or private treaty, at one-third the usual price. The parts soiled and damaged by water have been cut off and already disposed of, leaving a numerous quantity of lengths rendered unfit for the wholesale trade, and which will consequently be offered for sale in this town and neighborhood, and will be found suitable for Householders. Farmers and those engaged in business of any kind. The stock consists of the following—we quote a few of special lines.

TOWELS, STOCKINGS, GLOVES, HANDKERCHIEFS, NAPKINS and FLANNELS

Towels, several thousand dozen, 25c per doz.
Bath Towels, $1.50 per doz.
21 boxes Ladies' Kid Gloves, various sizes and shades for 25c per pair.
Linen Towels, 50c per doz.
Ladies' Silk Stockings, $2.50 per doz.
10,000 yards of Flannels, white, scarlet and stripes; these to be sold at 72c per dozen yards.
600 doz. Gentlemen's Linen Handkerchiefs offered at 25c per doz.
Napkins, 25c per doz.

WOOLENS and SILKS

10 bales of English, Irish and Scotch Tweeds, broad and narrow, of all shades.
Cloth for Gentlemen's Suits, from $15.00 per suit. (Full suit lengths guaranteed)
8 bales of all Wool Serges (Indigo Blue, Black and Gray), from $12.00 per Suit.
These Serges are untearable.
Among them will be offered a quantity of Doeskin, Beavers, Pilots and Patent Evaporable Cloths.
Cloths for Boys' Suits, from $1.50 per Suit.
9 bales of Ladies' Dress Goods in checks and stripes, latest fashions and in all colors.
Broadcloths—Dresses, $8.50 to $10.50. Silks, Satins, Plushes, Brocades, Velveteens.

We respectfully call the attention of the public in general to a large quantity of imported Blue and Black (West of England Serges), worth $35.00 per Suit, which we are selling at $15.00. Also, a large assortment of Patent Scotch Saxony Tweeds for Business Suits and Ladies' and Gentlemen's wear, to be cleared at one-third the usual cost prices.

☛One of our agents will call with samples, when the goods can be seen and purchase made. All orders will be delivered within 21 days, free of all charge for delivery. No money received until goods are delivered.

THE CIRCULAR THAT TELLS OF THE MYSTERIOUS WRECK.

No memorial service is needed for poor old "Capt. Stephenson" and his steamer, the "Sultana."

The Associated Press and other news gathering agencies never heard of this "veteran seaman" or of the wreck of the "Sultana" with her "magnificent cargo." In some way the "magnificent cargo" was saved, but "Capt. Stephenson" was reported to be in a watery grave some place off the banks of Newfoundland, by a circular that is being distributed from house to house in Duluth. It's sad to be drowned at sea, but it's sadder yet not to have anybody hear of it. Not even the shipping agencies heard of the wreck. In fact, they never heard of the "Sultana" as a freight vessel. G. Ashley Tomlinson owns a Sultana that plies the Great Lakes, and is still plying them under the Tomlinson pennant, and carrying ore and grain, but the Tomlinson boat never carried any silks and woolens. Nor did the private yacht of E. H. Harriman, which is the only other Sultana known of by marine men. Any silks she carried were probably worn by some of New York's Four Hundred.

The Duluth retail merchants became suspicious of poor old "Capt. Stephenson" and his "Sultana," and authorized I. Freimuth to make an investigation of the marvelous "bargains" in "salvaged cargo" offered by the men who had heard of the wreck of the "Sultana." Mr. Freimuth took it up with his New York representative, T. S. Morgan, with the result that all plans for a memorial service for "Capt. Stephenson" had to be abandoned. In fact, "Capt. Stephenson" has not yet been born, it is believed.

The salvage sale circular purported to come from the firm of Messrs. J. G. Campbell & Co., 392 Broadway, New York city, "the largest commission salesmen in the world."

The circular advertises at low prices job lots from a cargo saved from the "wreck of the steamship Sultana." It is stated that "this magnificent cargo steamer, under the command of the veteran seaman, Capt. Stephenson, was wrecked off the banks of Newfoundland, in a severe gale, after sailing four days; but fortunately all hands were saved, likewise the greater portion of the valuable cargo with which the ill-fated vessel was laden." It further states that the Sultana was bound from Liverpool to New York.

It has been ascertained by Mr. Freimuth that no vessel by that name ever sailed from Liverpool for New York.

Mr. Freimuth has also been informed that the firm of Messrs. J. G. Campbell & Co. is not located at 392 Broadway, as advertised in the poster, and that 392 Broadway is an address given by a great many fakers operating throughout the country.

It is probable that the matter will be referred to the United States postal authorities.

ARRESTS SET NEW RECORD

With 721 arrests, the June police record in Duluth surpassed all former marks and nearly doubled the number registered on the "blotter" at headquarters during May.

"It was the busiest month, numerically speaking, in the history of the force," said Fred Johnson, assistant secretary to Chief McKercher this morning.

May's blotter showed only 406 arrests, while in April there were 390. In spite of this, the number of serious offenses showed no increase, and in fact fell off slightly.

There were fewer burglaries and cases of grand larceny during June than in April or May, the big increase in trespass cases being the feature of the report issued this morning.

On June 24, the busiest single day since Duluth's police force was established, there were 181 men brought to headquarters and booked for various offenses. Of these, 162 were charged with trespass, being arrested in the "jungle" at Sixth avenue west and the bay front.

Police raids on disorderly rooming houses also made a difference in the record, as the list of thirty-four arrests of females shows. In May, twenty-seven women were arrested and in April there were twelve.

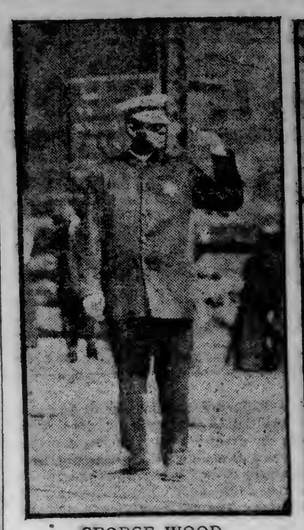

West end officers contributed forty-one arrests, including two of women, to the total, and New Duluth policemen arrested ten. At West Duluth the blotter showed the names of sixteen men and two women.

PRESIDENT ORDERS FULL INVESTIGATION

Cornish, N. H., July 1.—President Wilson has instructed the state department to make a full investigation of the sinking of the Leyland liner Armenian by a German submarine and to keep him completely informed of all developments. He remained in his study during the forenoon in order to be in constant touch with Washington.

President Wilson declined to comment on the incident and will await further information before deciding on the course of the American government.

"THREE NICE MEN WHO STAND ON CORNERS TO PROTECT YOU FROM THE JITNEYS"

GEORGE WOOD.

"PETE" BARBER.

"Three nice men who stand at the corners and see that you don't get bumped by a jitney while you're crossing the street."

That is the way Duluth's traffic policemen were described recently by a young woman from a small Northern Minnesota town on her first visit to Duluth.

In the above pictures the "three nice men" are shown in the second stage of a transformation from blue uniforms to white ones.

First they were given white gloves, and yesterday white hats were distributed, following instructions from Commissioner Silberstein of the public safety department.

The next step in the change will be complete white suits, now being considered by the commissioner, who wants the traffic squad attired distinctively, so that passing automobilists will have no difficulty in seeing them.

As shown, each officer has his own way of signaling for traffic to stop or move on. George Wood's thumb, which he jerks over either shoulder as he turns at the Third avenue west crossing, deserves a place in a police history of the city, as it probably has averted more accidents than could be counted.

"Jimmie" Woods, at the Lake avenue crossing, distinctive because of his beaming smile and a ruddy nose which unkindly sunbeams have blistered, gives the most insignificant of jitneys a generous sweep of his arm.

Officer Barber, special man at headquarters, who relieves the various traffic "cops" during the day, has a wireless signal which strikes a compromise between George Wood's thumb and "Jimmie Woods' arm. He waves his hand.

At the Fifth avenue crossing, L. A. Root, known as one of the most modest men on the force, dodged behind a truck when he saw The Herald photographer. His signal to the driver is different from any of the other three, for he usually nods his head.

Officer Root yesterday was transferred to headquarters as jailer. Andrew Wanvick, former jailer, has elected to go on a beat.

FIND BODY OF SOLVIG BUNKHOLDT

All doubt concerning the fate of 8-year-old Solvig Bunkholdt, who disappeared from the excursion steamer Chicora Saturday, was dispelled this morning when searchers found the child's body on the shore of Ribenack's island, a short distance below Fond du Lac.

The girl, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bunkholdt, 307 Restormel street, was on an excursion with her parents at the time she disappeared. The kidnaping theory was advanced by the father, but it is now evident she fell overboard.

LIQUOR SHIPPER IS HELD TO GRAND JURY

Bemidji, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ole Anderson, accused of shipping liquor into Indian territory in a milk can was bound over yesterday to await the action of the Federal grand jury at Fergus Falls on Nov. 9, by United States Commissioner Hiram A. Simons.

Andrew Paulson of Leonard; J. H. Gray, agent of the Soo line and Western Express company of Bemidji; A. E. Brown, manager for the Bridgeman-Russell company and Deputy Special Indian Officer Benson were witnesses for the government.

Andrew Paulson said that he had filled the bottles at Leonard, with whisky out of a pail that had been given him by Ole or Louis Anderson and that after he had filled the bottles they sent him for a milk can which he borrowed from the store of Lundmark & Isaakson. After the can was packed Ole Anderson told him to take it to the depot and address it to the Bridgeman-Russell company at Bemidji, signing the return address as John Johnson. Paulson took the can to the depot and had the agent, Charley Soper address the tag, which Paulson then tied to the can which was shipped to Bemidji by express.

He said that he did not know where they secured the whisky and that he first saw it in the hotel of Louis Anderson at Leonard. Ole Anderson operates a soft drink place in Bemidji.

Brown Discovers Whisky.

A. E. Brown, manager for Bridgeman-Russell company testified that he discovered the whisky in the can after making an investigation at the Soo depot and that he was first led to suspect that something was wrong by Mr. Anderson's manner when he asked for the can. Mr. Anderson, according to Brown, first asked for the can early on the morning that the can was shipped to Bemidji and said that it was coming to Bridgeman-Russell and not to get it mixed with the other milk. Brown then went to the depot and inspected the can, finding the booze and when Anderson returned in the afternoon, Brown told him that the can was being held for the Indian officers. The Indian officers were out of the city when the can arrived, but as soon as Officer Benson returned to Bemidji he confiscated the can.

Deputy Indian Officer Benson testified as to the part he had in the affair and J. H. Gray identified the can.

Anderson's bonds to appear at Fergus Falls on Nov. 9 were placed at $1,000.

FOUR AUTOISTS ARRESTED.

Four more automobilists came to grief in municipal court yesterday afternoon, two of them through Commissioner Silberstein's watchfulness.

Charles D. Walker, age 18, was arrested on West Superior street Tuesday night by Officer Nystrom, and posted $10 bail for court appearance. He pleaded not guilty to a speeding charge and will be given a hearing July 2.

Walter Benson, age 23, paid a $12 fine for speeding after being arrested by Chief R. D. McKercher, as did Elmer Lindgren, age 28. H. A. Nelson, manager of a local clothing house, paid a $7.50 fine for driving past street car gates when they were open. He was arrested by Officer Harling.

LONG LAKE TRIP IN GASOLINE LAUNCH

Stacy H. Hill and E. E. Pattison, owners of the cabin launch Triune, will leave with a party of young men friends for a trip to Marquette this evening. The party will clear at midnight tonight for Houghton. From Houghton they will proceed to Marquette and thence to Grand Island. The return trip will be made by the way of Isle Royale. The other members of the party are Walter F. Dacey, H. B. Haroldson, R. S. Walker and Roy Mills. W. S. Pattison, owner of the Wasp, another cabin launch, will also take the same trip with a party of friends.

METCALFE CASE IN COURT.

In an attempt to write "finis" in the case of R. N. Metcalfe, former inspector in the health department, vs. the city, Judge W. H. Smallwood this morning heard evidence in an action brought by Mr. Metcalfe for salary alleged to be due him. The story of Metcalfe's dismissal from the health department upon the appointment of Dr. E. W. Fahey as health director, and of the agitation which followed, was told in municipal court by Mr. Metcalfe, Ruben Johnson, secretary of the board of health, and Grant McLean, city treasurer.

When Dr. Fahey succeded Former Director Webster on April 20 last, he discharged Mr. Metcalfe. The latter through W. H. Gurnee, his attorney, notified the city officials that he would fight the case. After an appeal it was decided that Director Fahey could not remove men unless upheld by the civil service board, and the inspector was re-instated.

In the action started today he asks for salary covering the period between April 20 and May 24, when he was reinstated. Judge Smallwood took the case under advisement late today.

Safe and sane buying of "Fourth-of-July" Outfits

It's always safe to buy at The Columbia. Everything here has a guarantee—most things a double guarantee, that of the maker of the article in addition to ours.

It's sane to buy here because you run no chances of getting old styles or poor workmanship, and our merchandise is honestly priced according to its intrinsic value.

Our style garden is in full bloom. What we planted you reap and we were never more particular than this season to give you perfect satisfaction because we realize that not many of our customers can afford to pay for mere luxuries.

Keeping this "safe and sane" policy in mind, perhaps you are ready to pick out one of these Columbia $25 suits. Some of the colors and fabrics are very unusual, but they have had every test but the wear, and we stand behind that.

Suits at $10 This is an EXTRA SPECIAL for "Fourth-of-July" week, made possible by an out-of-the-usual underpriced purchase of fine worsted suits from a New York maker. Come in and find out whether we can fit you from the lot.

Columbo $14.50 Suits

These are an all-year-round Columbia attraction. It's such a splendid answer to the suit question of the young beginner in life's battle, that our business in these Columbo suits grows by leaps and bounds.

Little Columbo $4.90 Suits

They have the same recognized merits as the Columbo suits for the older boys and young men, and are popular with Duluth mothers because they've been tried and not found wanting. An enormous selection makes choosing easy and their value is increased by an extra pair of lined trousers.

Some excitement there was at yesterday's Balloon Event advertising these soft and light Trotmoc 'Back-to-Nature' shoes, so well adapted for summer wear.

Low and high Trotmocs for children, $2 and $2.50; for youths, misses and boys, $3; for women in oxfords and shoes at $3.50 and $4 and high cuts at $5; for men in oxfords and shoes at $3.50, $4 and $5 and high cuts at $5 and $6.

Do not neglect to buy a STRAW HAT for the Fourth. The Columbia's $3 straw is the best $3 straw on all Superior street.

Large Audience Attends Dramatic and Musical Recital

An audience that filled the Y. W. C. A. auditorium last night heard a program given by pupils of Mrs. Mary Adeline Nelson's expression class, assisted by Mrs. Jane Everington Scully, soprano; Miss Bernice Haverty, pianist, and Miss Celia Pennell, violinist.

Mrs. Scully sang "Song of Summer," by Woodson; "Spirit Flowers," by Campbell Tipton, and "Happy Song," by Del Riego, and responded to encores. Miss Bernice Haverty played Chopin's "Revolutionary Etude," and Miss Pennell's violin number was a mazurka by E. Mlynarstr.

The members of the expression class did exceptionally well, and closed the program with a one-act comedy, "The Kleptomaniac," by Margaret Cameron.

Zenith Pays Tribute to Miss Abraham

The Zenith of Central high school contains a full page picture of Miss Rae Madge Abraham, a member of the 1915 class, who died Dec. 16, 1914, and the following tribute from her classmates:

"Because of ill health Rae left us in her junior year, and though she was never again able to take up her school work she retained the same sincere and unfailing interest in her class. She seemed always 'To be glad of life because it gave her the chance to love and to work and to look up at the stars.' Her death removed from us one of our dearest classmates. She stood high in scholarship, but she found time to do other work. The Zenith was one of Rae's greatest interests. Each year as a member of the board she was zealous and untiring in her endeavor to advance its interests and we feel that the Zenith of 1915 would not be completed unless this loving tribute be paid to her."

Young Bachelors' Club Enjoys Dancing Party

Arthur Filiatrault and Louis Filiatrault entertained at a dancing party last night at the Elks' clubrooms for the members of the Young Bachelors' club and their guests. The Esther Gomberg orchestra played a program for the 100 dancers. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Olund and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Filiatrault. The members of the committee in charge were: Mlr. Theresa Marotta, Miss Gladys Dorsey, Miss Ava Gaynor, Miss Alice Murray, Miss Mary Marrotta, Elden Morris, Harold Baker, Ambrose Nolan and Edward Anderson.

This was the first of a series of affairs planned by the club.

Levin-Levy Wedding Guests Entertained

Mrs. Albert Friss of 419 First avenue west entertained at luncheon yesterday for Mrs. W. Album, Miss Marcia Album and Miss Sara Album of Minneapolis, who were guests at the wedding of Miss Hazel Levin and Abe B. Levy that took place Tuesday afternoon. Pink sweet peas were the decorations of the table where covers were laid for ten.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Gust Levin of 431 East Second street entertained at a dinner of twelve covers in honor of Miss Rae Levy and Alfred Rosenholtz, both of St. Paul, whose engagement was announced by Miss Levy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Levy, following the Levin-Levy bridal dinner Tuesday night. Pink Killarney roses formed the centerpiece.

Mrs. Agnew Entertains for Out-of-Town Guests

Mrs. W. C. Agnew of 1735 Wallace avenue entertained at luncheon yesterday at the country club for Eastern visitors who left yesterday on the steamer Morrell for their homes. Covers were laid for eleven, the guests of honor being Mrs. George Wick and son, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hitchcock, Miss Katherine Hitchcock and Miss Frances Hitchcock, all of Youngstown, Ohio, the former home of the hostess; Miss Watson and Miss Dorr of Boston. Red peonies were the table decorations. In the afternoon the guests enjoyed an automobile trip around the Boulevard and to points of interest in the city.

Girls' Choir Will Give "The Christian Pilgrim"

Charles Darnton's cantata, "The Christian Pilgrim," will be given by the girls' choir of Glen Avon Presbyterian church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the church. The choir is composed of fifteen girls, from about 12 to 16 years old, who will present all the numbers of the cantata without the aid of additional soloists. Solo parts will be taken by Misses Verna Appleby, Dorothy Wood, Marian Thomson, Helen Thomson, Emily Tupper, Gertrude Wangenstein, Eloise Lawrence and Marjorie McCabe. R. Buchanan Morton, organist and choir director, will play the accompaniments on piano and organ.

Wedding Reception Held at Home of Bride's Parents

The wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander J. Bethune, whose wedding took place yesterday morning at St. James' Catholic church, was held last night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cumming, 5323 Wyoming street. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Cumming and the bride and bridegroom were the members of the bridal party: Miss Mae Nolan, the maid of honor; Clifford Bujold, the best man, and Tom Lee, Ray Batley and John Allen, the ushers.

The rooms were decorated with palms, ferns, white peonies and bridal wreath. Assisting in the dining room were Miss Hazel Butchart, Miss Eva O'Neill, Miss Helen Rankin, Miss Mollie Doyle, Miss Ida Leonard and Miss Maybelle Bethune.

Mr. and Mrs. Bethune left for a lake trip. They will make their home in Duluth after July 15. The bride wore a green broadcloth traveling suit with hat to match.

Beautiful Tribute Is Paid to Composer at Los Angeles

A beautiful tribute was paid to Mrs. H. H. A. Beach at the biennial of the National Federation of Musical Clubs at Los Angeles, Friday, when Los Angeles school children sang Mrs. Beach's "The Year's at the Spring," at the conclusion of songs of the seasons.

Mrs. Beach is generally conceded to be the foremost American woman composer.

Sunday afternoon 1,000 voices united in the presentation of a program of sacred numbers, which were given under the direction of George Whitfield Andrews. Sunday morning sacred music by American composers was heard in the churches and at night recitals were given by well-known organists.

The musical education of children has received a large share of attention from those attending the musical festival.

Mrs. Barker Will Give Series of Lecture Teas

Mrs. E. Frank Barker of 2401 Lake avenue south will entertain Friday afternoon, July 10, in honor of Mrs. J. C. H. Engel, the guests to be the members of the Duluth Drama Study club, of which Mrs. Engel is a prominent member. The hostess will be assisted by Misses Dorothea Engel, Helen Harbison, Irene Samuelson and Hortense Spiegel. That night Mrs. Barker will entertain again in honor of Mrs. Engel, the guests being the members of the Evening Drama class of which Mrs. Engel is chairman. Miss E. Pearl Preston and Miss Edna May Dryer will assist.

Tuesday afternoon, July 13, Mrs. Barker will entertain twenty friends of Miss Ethelyn Abbott of Grand Rapids, Mich., formerly of Duluth, who is the guest of Miss Alice Olsen.

In July and August, Mrs. Barker will give three lecture teas each week, entertaining the members of various clubs.

All the affairs will be held in her new Japanese tea house.

Becklinger-Bach.

The wedding of Miss Ethel May Becklinger and Adolph M. Bach of Rochester, Minn., took place last night at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Margaret Becklinger, at New Duluth. Rev. A. H. Mustchler of the Duluth Heights Presbyterian church read the service in the presence of forty guests.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, M. A. Becklinger. Little Lois Giddings and Catherine Giddings stretched the ribbons that formed the aisle. Mrs. C. H. Giddings, sister of the bride, and Arthur L. Bach played the nuptial music and C. H. Giddings sang "When Song Is Sweet," by Gertrude San Souci.

A supper and reception followed the ceremony.

The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bach of Owatonna, Minn.; Miss Edith Bach and Arthur Bach of Rochester, Minn.; Miss Carol Bangham of Eveleth, Minn.; Miss Sarah Crumpton of Superior; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Logan, Mc. and Mrs. J. J. Palmer, Miss Alice Glover, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Giddings and family of Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. Bach left for a short trip to Minneapolis and Rochester. They will join the Shriners July 9 for a trip to Seattle, Wash. They will visit the San Francisco exposition before returning to Rochester, where they will make their home after Oct. 1.

Miss Macaskill Will Dance Highland Fling

A feature of the Fourth of July dinner-dance which will be held at the Country club Monday night, will be the Highland Fling, which will be danced by Miss Daisy Macaskill in Scotch costume. Robert Mowbray will accompany Miss Macaskill on the bagpipe.

Bridge Party at Country Club.

Mrs. Robert Duane Smith of Winnipeg and Miss Genevra Johnston won the favors at the bridge game that was played at eleven tables at the Country club yesterday.

Lodge Notes.

Duluth lodge, No. 110, Degree of Honor, will hold a regular business meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Maccabee hall to take in a class of candidates.

Personal Mention.

Rev. R. R. Guild of New York, who will occupy the pulpit of Pilgrim Congregational church during July, Mrs. Guild and their three sons will arrive the latter part of the week. They will be the guests of Mrs. Guild's sister, Mrs. W. G. Hegardt of 1708 East First street.

Mrs. Robert Duane Smith of Winnipeg is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Hugo of 2407 East Third street.

Miss Dorothy Olcott of 2316 East First street returned yesterday from a month's visit in the East. She attended the reunion of the 1913 class of Smith college, visited in Boston several weeks and spent last week at Hanover, N. H., where she attended the wedding of Miss Mary Worthen to Grey Knapp, formerly of Duluth. Mrs. Knapp was in Duluth in May to attend the wedding of her brother, Dr. Thacher Washburn Worthen, to Miss Mary Welles Paine.

Miss Muriel Prindle, who has been the guest for three months of Mrs. W. N. Wood of Boston, has returned home.

Dr. E. L. Tuohy and Mrs. Tuohy, 1923 East Third street, and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Salyards, 2311 East Third street, have returned from a month's motor trip through the East, which included New York, New England and New Jersey.

Miss Mayme Davidson of 124 South Fifty-ninth avenue west is spending a week with friends in the Twin Cities and Bethel, Minn.

Miss Mary McFadden May Become War Correspondent

Miss Mary D. McFadden of St. Paul, formerly of Duluth, will probably accept an offer she has received from the Scripps-McRae newspaper syndicate to go to Europe as one of its war correspondents.

Miss McFadden is well known in Minnesota for the part she has taken in woman's suffrage activities. She took an active part in this work at the last meeting of the legislature.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Old Fashioned Methods Best

Now and then you will hear it claimed that women do not take to labor-saving devices. This is untrue in its broad sense at least. Women do employ all the real labor-saving devices within their means. They cannot afford to buy any of these devices save the inexpensive. On the other hand the woman who can afford to fit her kitchen with everything that will facilitate housekeeping duties is the woman who employs others to do her work. She does not need to concern herself about up-to-date appliances.

Any number of housekeepers will tell you that many labor-saving machines are not labor savers at all. They may accomplish the work they are designed for in good shape, but afterward there is an additional amount of work in cleaning them and putting them in readiness for future use that is not taken into account when one speaks of labor-saving machines. So some of man's inventions are a hindrance rather than a help, and that is the truth.

Some labor-saving devices in relation to their practicability in the home are a source of continuous expense after their first cost has been met. Take, for instance, the washing machine. It is hard on clothes and wears them out quicker than does the old-fashion hand scrubbing. I have rarely seen clothes that have been washed by machinery that appeared to be as fresh and sweet and clean as under the old method, which is called more laborious, but which really isn't, all things considered.

It is not meet that anyone poke fun at the work woman does today by hand after the manner of her great-grandmother. Almost everything that woman can accomplish as well or nearly as well by machinery or a labor-saving device, long ago found its way into those channels. Women are not slow to adopt genuine aids to housekeeping, even though men have been most active in inventing the schemes for saving them work. Many things which require time and labor—labor with one's hands—are eagerly sought. Why? Why, because they are better. This applies both inside and outside the home.

Home-made viands still continue to appease one's hunger better than machine-made articles of food. So while the pie-maker and the bread-maker, the washing machine and the dish washer hold sway in hotels and restaurants, the old-fashioned methods will reign supreme in the home, for the simple reason that nothing has been invented to equal the old way of doing things.

A man writing editorially says, "If every woman was a business man, household problems would be simplified through labor-saving devices." I say that if every man was a housekeeper he would throw half of these devices out of the window as woman has already done.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "East Lynne."

NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.

REX—Photoplay, John Mason in "Jim, the Penman."

Theater Gossip.

Wanted: Two bloodhounds, the more ferocious the better.

Al. Smith, the property man for the Baldwin Players at Lyceum, has almost despaired of getting the proper kind of dogs for the production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" next week.

HARD TO FIND REAL "TOUGH DOG."

"Al." secured two meek and humble hounds of uncertain ancestry and tried to make them ferocious, but they licked his hand and fawned upon him. "I even sang to them to make them vicious," said "Al," "but they just howled. Imagine two playful pups chasing Eliza across the ice. Then Miss Lotus, who will be Eliza, insists on making friends with every dog I get and spoils it. I want two or three big brutes that will growl, froth at the mouth—though that can be managed with a little soap suds—and chew the scenery. That crossing the ice scene won't be realistic unless the dogs are regular maneaters. Nobody will thrill at a tool pointer pup yapping across the stage. I want a real tough dog—the kind that lives on tramps and small children."

A troupe of singers from the Nashville colored boys' school has been engaged for next week and the only feature lacking for the production of "Uncle Tom" is the bloodhounds.

There is a lot to the new bill at the Grand this week and it is all top-notch entertainment. William Morrow and company head the bill in a singing and dancing diversion, "Hogan's Millions." The playlet is bright and witty and the interpolated song numbers and catchy special scenic investure and attractive costumes add to the enjoyment.

GOOD BILL AT GRAND.

Katherine McConnell with her songs and grotesque dancing is different from most singing and dancing acts on the stage. She is full of effervessing fun that leaves one applauding for more.

The Volente Brothers are wizards of the accordion. They play all classes of music ranging from the raggy syncopated airs to grand opera and back again to old-time melodies.

A pantomimic acrobatic skit is the offering of the Three Alvarettas. They alternate good fun with thrills and entertain in a royal manner.

Charlie Chaplin is again the feature on the photoplay bill. This time it is a roaring comedy, "A Favorite Pastime," in which Chaplin upholds his reputation as the peer of all moving picture comedians.

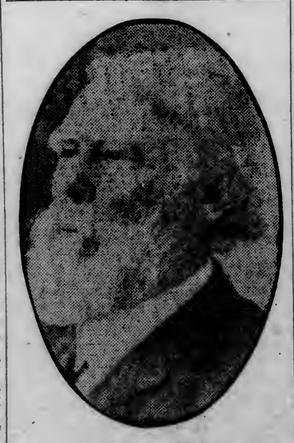

One of the Helen Holmes railroad stories, "Near Eternity," a two-reel subject, "The Struggle Upward," and two comedies are other photoplays on the bill. The Hearst-Selig News of events completes the program.

AT 83 HE IS AN EXPERT ON PEONIES

Starting out when 66 years old as a florist and winning the title of first in the Northwest as a peony expert when 83, is the record of C. S. Harrison of York, Neb., visiting in Duluth today.

When it comes to questions of raising peonies, believed by many to be the most beautiful of all perennials, Mr. Harrison is consulted by amateur, and professional gardeners from all parts of the United States.

Mr. Harrison, in addition to his research work concerning the peony, has specialized in the phlox and iris. He has written monographs about each of these three plants, which can be found in any florist's library.

C. S. HARRISON.

Born in 1832, Mr. Harrison was educated for the ministry, and served as a pastor until 66 years old, when he was placed on the superannuated list. Refusing to be retired, he founded a nursery and in the last ten years has grown to be one of the best known floral experts in the United States, if not in the world.

Each year Mr. Harrison makes a trip to Duluth, to attend the annual meeting of florists. This year he made an extra trip, to enjoy Duluth's summer.

OLD PHONE IN COURTHOUSE

County Building Commission Accepts Five-Year Contract From Company.

When the county building commission yesterday afternoon entered into a five-year contract with the Duluth Telephone company for the installation of a private telephone exchange in the courthouse, a controversy of long standing between the county officials and the Bell interests was terminated.

Since the courthouse was built in 1909 the Duluth Telephone company has been figuring with the county on the matter of furnishing offices in the courthouse with telephone service. It is an iron-clad rule with the company not to furnish service through a competitor's switchboard and the county officials objected to installation of two separate exchanges in the building.

Telephone Monopoly.

For a time there was only one telephone in the courthouse building. Within the last year independent Bell lines have been installed in several of the offices. At a recent meeting of the county board the question of installing a separate exchange was raised. Charles E. Adams, special county counsel, ruled that the matter was a question for the county building commission and not for the county board.

Yesterday afternoon, at its meeting, the county building commission voted to accept a proposition of the Duluth Telephone company and entered into a five-year contract with the privilege of terminating the agreement after three years upon giving a thirty-day notice.

A separate exchange with thirty-five stations will be installed at a monthly rental of 63 cents per station and $15 for five trunk lines.

OBITUARY

John Clinton Gray, widely noted as a corporation lawyer and for twenty-five years a member of the court of appeals of New York, died of paralysis at Newport, R. I., June 28. He was born in New York city Dec. 4, 1843.

JOHN CLINTON GRAY.

Governor Hill appointed him to the appellate bench in 1888 and he served until 1913, when he reached the age limit.

O. G. Cooper, a pioneer and a big cattle and sheep man of Northern Montana, died suddenly in Anaconda June 29. Mr Cooper, up to the time he retired from active management of the Cooper-Martin and E. E. Leech Livestock companies, was one of the largest shippers of sheep and cattle to St. Paul and Chicago markets.

BORDER CITY NOTES.

Wm. Flynn and Miss Lee Wed at International Falls.

International Falls, Minn., July 1.—William Flynn and Miss Emma Lee, both of this city, were married yesterday at the Catholic church. Miss Clara Warnert of St. Cloud was bridesmaid and Steve Pinkoski best man. Both Mr. Flynn and his bride have been in this city for some time and have a large circle of friends. Mr. Flynn came here several years ago from Palmer Falls, N. Y., and has been employed in the paper mill, where he holds a responsible position. Miss Lee has spent several years here, also, coming from McIntosh. The couple left for a visit to Bemidji, McIntosh and other points.

C. M. Grimstad has resigned as cashier of the American State Bank of Ranier, and today George W. Anderson, former cashier of the institution, took charge of the business. Mr. Grimstad has not announced his plans for the future.

A meeting of the syndicate which purchased the Ed Ek homestead up the lake last fall, which sale was promoted by Capt. H. I. Bedell, was held at the latter's office here, and Engineer E. W. Kibbey submitted a draft of the platting of the property, which is to be known as Newport.

Carl Harrison left Tuesday night for a tour of this state and Iowa on his motorcycle. He shipped the machine as far as Bemidji, and from there will leave for the Twin Cities, thence to Iowa, returning through the western part of the state. He plans to take another trip in September.

Aldrich President.

Chicago, July 1.—Dr. Henry C. Aldrich of Minneapolis, Minn., was elected president of the American Institute of Homeopathy, it was announced at the convention of the organization today. Baltimore was chosen for next year's meeting. The convention closes tomorrow.

Summer term. Enter any day. Full stenographic and commercial courses. Extra penmanship work is arranged for public school students and school teachers.

We are proud of the fact that the "Twentieth Century Bookkeeping and Accounting," the system that we teach, has been selected by the Panama exposition at San Francisco, as being the most practical system published in America. Come in and we will be glad to show you all its practical points.

Our shorthand "Spencerian-Chartier" has won its place as being the most up-to-date, easy to learn, easy to read, and as having more reading power than any other system. We have an expert Gregg shorthand teacher for all those who want Gregg.

Write, phone or call, or if you prefer our representative will call at your home and make arrangements to enter any day that would be most suitable to you.

Our new catalog is free to all. Phone or write for one today.

BARBER & McPHERSON.

NOTES OF THE SUMMER TOURISTS WHO HAVE LEARNED "IT'S COOL IN DULUTH"

Chicago and Oak Park School Teachers Give Holland Festive Air; Inventor of Mechanical Waiter Visits Duluth.

The Holland hotel today has the appearance of a young women's seminary. White dresses swish through the corridors; the clerks are more immaculate than ever; and the barber shop and shoe shining parlor are freely patronized by the lobby squad.

The reason?

An interesting party of twenty-five Chicago and Oak Park school teachers is at the hotel. The young women came to Duluth by train and will make the trip down the lakes by boat, being scheduled to leave on the Juniata tomorrow.

The members of the party left Chicago shortly after the close of the school year, when the rays of old Sol were radiating direct heat, and beat it for a place where the cooling zephyrs of the lake cool and soothe.

According to one young woman of the party, Duluth is the most delightful place in the world to spend the summer.

Judging from the appearance of the party, education should have no terrors in Oak Park.

D. C. Dachner, one of the officials of the Statler Hotel company of Buffalo, Detroit and Cleveland, is a summer tourist spending a few days in Duluth, being a guest of the Spalding.

Mr. Dachner has achieved some culinary fame by the invention of an automatic feeder, or waiter. His machine is used in many of the eat-on-the-run restaurants of the country. The idea is to drop a coin and let the machine thus set in motion set the dishes and edibles on the table before the customer.

The Juniata is reported to have a large passenger list. This is expected to be a busy week in the tourist travel, many travelers being booked to spend the holiday here.

ANETA EXPECTS CROWD.

Throng Expected to Hear Twichell-Loftus Elevator Debate.

Aneta, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aneta is preparing to entertain thousands at its fair, which will open tomorrow and which is featuring a debate between Treadwell Twichell of Cass county and George Loftus of St. Paul on terminal elevators, state owned.

The fair is conducted annually and this year the local association has prepared an exceptionally fine program with liberal awards of prizes.

To Depart Hollander.

International Falls, Minn., July 1.—Johan Olnes, the 18-year-old Hollander who was arrested Sunday for breaking into Adolph Krohn's and other stores, has been turned over to the immigration officers and placed in the county jail to await deportation to Holland. He is a citizen of that country and is declared undesirable. Practically all the money stolen has been returned to Mr. Krohn.

Cream Rate Hearing.

Bismarck, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of alleged excessive rates charged by the express companies in this state handling cream shipments will be thrashed out by the state railroad commission on July 16, for which date a hearing has been called. Comparison of rates charged in this state with those effective in Minnesota reveals a marked difference in favor of Minnesota.

THE MONEY COST OF WAR.

One factor that is going to be a mighty influence for the cause of permanent peace when the present war is over is the cost—the money cost.

The cost in lives and woe is vast—far more vast than anybody can imagine. But the world is used to woe, and lives, so far, have been held cheaply—not only in war but in peace.

But the money cost—that is something that is likely to be a more practical stumbling block to further war than anything else imaginable.

It will not be until the war is over and the belligerent nations face the grim task of paying the bills that the world will realize the full meaning of the appalling figures that are being carelessly juggled on men's tongues.

When Great Britain, the other day, arranged to spend fifteen million dollars a day for the next three months, it was stated that at the expiration of the three months the cost of the war to Great Britain would reach the staggering sum of four billions and thirty-one millions in dollars. There is utterly no prospect today that the end of the war will be any more visible at that time than it is now; and now it is not at all visible. Britain's expenditures began at five millions a day and have increased to fifteen millions a day. There is no likelihood that they will decrease, and it is far more likely than they will increase.

This is but one nation of the eleven engaged in war. The total cost at the end of the war will be a figure almost incredible, and wholly incomprehensible.

When the war is over these nations, their manhood shattered by the havoc of war, their industries paralyzed and their financial systems demoralized, will face the sinister task of paying the bills.

When they do that, the world is likely to come to the conclusion not only that war is barbaric and atavistic and anachronistic, but that it is a luxury so costly that the world can't afford any more of it.

It is encouraging to remember that Gen. Hugh Scott has not yet tried his hand in Mexico.

HAVE A HEART!

Red Wing Republican: Must spaghetti and sauerkraut both be tabooed in order to maintain our neutrality? Glad that baked beans still come from Boston.

Now, why go to starting anything like that? Why not leave us in peace of tummy as well as of mind? Why try to give anybody any bad ideas that might result in unhappy complications?

It isn't as if we were a nation of original eaters. Our country has been called the "Melting Pot of the Nations," but when you come to consider us gastronomically we are in fact nothing but a great big iron kettle into which all the different varieties of edibles are dumped at the will of the cooks.

Think of it for a minute, and see what might result from this suggestion of a dietary neutrality. We'd have to cut out the roast beef, for that's traditionally English.

We'd have to do without frog legs, for they are distinctly French, at least in reputation.

We'd have to pass up the chicken, for through their relations to the various belligerents, different parts of Africa are interested in the struggle.

We'd be obliged to go without rice and tea, for the Japanese beat us to both of those.

We'd be deprived of sausage, and in fact of all kinds of pork, owing to the German connections of the swine-flesh.

Turkey would go as a matter of course, and unless the advertisements are wrong, cigarettes would also have to be cut out in this connection.

Peru is credited as the originator of the spud; but Ireland achieved an indisputable conquest there, and as Ireland is part of the British Isles, good night potato!

Even wheat might come under the ban, owing to the prominence in the growth of that article of Canada, Russia and India.

And since there were shepherds in olden Palestine, and that is now under the control of Turkey, no doubt mutton and lamb chops would have to be given up along with the rest.

What does it leave us? Do you realize? What would there be for us to eat except baked beans, dill pickles and corn? And how would you like a diet of that kind as a steady thing?

Don't start anything like this that's suggested. Be merciful! Have a heart!

After all, seeing through a brick wall is mere child's play compared to seeing through some concrete examples.

TAXES AND WATER BILLS.

Water and light bills are paid solely by people who live in the city and whose efforts are building up the city.

Taxes are paid in part by those who do not live in the city, who do not contribute to its upbuilding, but who do own property here which the efforts of those who live here are enhancing in value.

When the city, therefore, levies a tax of half a mill to help out the water and light department, it shifts a small part of the burden of upkeep from resident consumers to non-resident speculative holders of property.

For this reason the city council should think twice, and both times very carefully, before it acts on the suggestion of abolishing this half-mill tax.

Incidentally, the council ought to quit its quarreling. It is not dignified, it benefits nobody, it puts all who participate on the same level of childishness, and it interferes with the orderly transaction of public business, which is what the commissioners are employed for.

Chicago's public library is allowing anybody who wants to to draw ten books at a time during the summer. Why not make it a dozen and give a chance to get the official records of each of the belligerents?

A BILLION-DOLLAR TRADE BALANCE.

Though the figures are not all in hand, there is no question that in the fiscal year just closed there was a balance of more than a billion dollars in favor of the United States in its foreign trade.

While the custom has been to give undue tribute to a large balance of exports over imports, and the benefits ordinarily are not so great as they seem, these figures will throw a little light into the gloom cast by the war.

They are still brighter in view of the fact that the gain is by no means due to the sale of war munitions. Indeed, the statistics available show that it is due almost entirely to the sale of food products; though food is as necessary to a nation at war as powder and shell.

The balance is four hundred millions larger than the largest previous balance. Of course this is abnormal. Our imports have shrunk because Europe couldn't sell, and our exports have grown because Europe had to buy.

It would be unwise either to under-estimate or to over-estimate the importance of this impressive showing. The country needs whatever relief can be furnished from the pessimism the world has been plunged into by war. On the other hand, often the most profitable foreign trade is that which is equally balanced, when both parties to the transaction have profited by the exchange.

Down in West Virginia the law evaders are carrying booze in baby coffins. At that it would be hard to find a more appropriate method.

A PREVISION.

Discussion of the permanent world peace for which the world is beginning to long and to work is centering upon the suggestion of a world organization, somewhat analagous to the Federal plan of the United States government, to enact international laws and to enforce them with an international police force to consist of the only army and navy in the world.

In this connection it is interesting to revert back to a highly imaginative sketch which F. W. Fitzpatrick, formerly of Duluth but now of Washington, contributed to The Herald ten years ago. In this sketch, which consisted of newspaper clippings to be made in the years 1910 to 1914, the story was foretold of the creation of precisely such an organization. Save that the dates were sanguinely premature, the scheme in Mr. Fitzpatrick's flight of imagination ten years ago is almost precisely the scheme the world is talking about today.

This editorial, which was to have appeared in the London Spectator of May 11, 1913, illustrates the point:

> With this new court of The Hague, constituted as it will be, political and national lines will be well-nigh obliterated. To all intents and purposes the civilized world will be one united community or family. • • • The greatest step toward the millennium that has ever been taken. • • • It means the total abolition of armed strife between nations; it means the closest union commercially and with business carried along sane lines; it means a most extraordinary uplift socially; it means, in fine, that we are at last approaching a logical and philosophic mode of living. • • •
> It virtually is a great congress rather than a court and comprehends legislative as well as judicial functions.
> All standing armies are reduced to minimum formations and merely to act as a national police and subject to the call of The Hague court, to serve with any other troops it may call upon to quell disorder that may have gotten beyond the control of the country in which it occurs. • • •

Ex-Secretary Bryan continues to criticize the newspapers, evidently forgetting that if it weren't for the newspapers few people would know Bryan was criticizing anybody.

He Advertised.

Coleraine Optic: There was an old geezer and he had lots of sense. He started up a business on a dollar-eighty-cents—the dollar for stock and the eighty for an ad brought him three lovely dollars in a day, by dad! Well, he bought more goods and a little more space and he played that system with a smile on his face. The customers flocked to his two-by-four, and soon he had to hustle for a regular store. Up on the square, where the people pass, he gobbled up a corner that was all plateglass. He fixed up the windows with the best that he had, and he told 'em all about it in a half page ad. He soon had 'em coming and he never, never quit; and he wouldn't cut down on his ad one jit. Well, he's kept things humping in the town ever since, and everybody calls him the Merchant Prince. Some say it's luck, but that's all bunk. Why, he was doing business when the times were punk. People have to purchase and the geezer was wise. For he knew the way to get 'em was to advertise.

The World War

By Savoyard.

Washington, July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—It will be next thing to a miracle if every nation except China is not engaged in that tremendous war in Europe before the thing is ended, and China would be in it up to the armpit if China could fight. The stake is now become the dominion of the world. It matters not who began it. The thing is how is it going to end? If Germany is victor she will absorb Belgium, Holland and the edge of France as far as Calais. Then she will say to England, "Thou shalt die."

England has the hardest great people to move and the hardest great people to stop when once they do move there is. As yet she has not got her fighting clothes on, as she had them on when in death grapple with Napoleon the Great.

Italy's case is deplorable. She is accused with much plausibility of the infamy of treason to plighted faith. But there are two ways to look at that. The Triple Alliance was the work of the greatest of practical Germans, a statesman of farthest vision of any statesman of any time so far as material things count. It was Bismarck who moved Protestant Prussia to lay Catholic Italy under great obligation, and it was Bismarck who prompted France, after 1870-71, to aggression in the Mediterranean that excited the fears and stimulated the jealousies of Italy. Then Italy fell a prey to his diplomacy, entering into the Triple Alliance and that treaty preserved peace between the great nations for two score years, during which Germany set about and completed her thorough preparation for the present struggle.

When Italy refused to join in the present war as an ally of Germany and Austria, she was marked for the slaughter. Her statesmen knew that. Some of them were active in behalf of Germany, but an alliance between Italy and Austria for offensive purposes was always an impossibility and no one knew it better than Bismarck, the author of the Triple Alliance. Thus when the war of 1914 came it was inevitable that Italy would stay out or join the allies. At once she began to arm, and when her land and sea forces were brought to the highest state of efficiency they were capable of she plunged into the struggle on the side of the enemies of Germany.

Italy, as well as France, is fighting with a halter around her neck, and woe to her if the Teuton wins. In that event the Adriatic, all shores of it, will become as German as the Oder, and the Mediterranean will be as German as the Kiel canal. The same is true of the North sea and the Baltic. And Germany may win. Who knows? Her whole heart, mind and strength have been devoted to preparation for this very struggle for forty years. She is in the center of Europe. One month she can hurl her mighty legions against Russia at the East, and the next she can have the same troops or their survivors on the firing line in France and in Flanders. The allies are depending on time and hope the Kilkenny cat fight will show their cat has the longest tail, as Grant's did.

As for that, the future can tell. On paper in this struggle of attrition the enemies of Germany appear to have the advantage, for they have the most money, the most men and the most ships; but discipline is with Germany, and possibly devotion is with her, too. Certainly England has not yet entered the fight with that grim determination and insensate desperation that were hers a century ago in the struggle against Napoleon.

I am not a military man, but it looks to me that Holland holds the key to the situation and until Holland shall enter the struggle on the side of the allies I do not see how they can beat Germany under two or three years. With Holland in the war, reinforced by a million soldiers from England, the Germans would be taken in flank and their case seemingly made hopeless. But your Dutchman possibly is even slower to move than your Britisher and it is not likely that he will get in the humor to fight for another year. If he does finally fight it will be to get Germany out of Antwerp and out of Belgium, and when Holland enters on that side Germany will already be exhausted.

As for Russia, she is invincible for defense. Charles XII and Napoleon found that out. And for offense she has astonished the world in the present war. In former years when Francis I and Charles V were in grapple, it was a saying that "Italy is the grave of the French." Is it not possible that after the present struggle is over it may be said with equal truth that Russia is the grave of the German? If not, be sure that Germany will emerge from this war not beaten at least, possibly victor.

But the fact is that every European power engaged on either side in this terrible war is fighting, not only for its liberty, but for all its political existence. The passions that are aroused are little less desperate than those that made a charnel house of Europe in the Thirty Years' war, and if the war is not brought to a conclusion within a twelvemonth the savagery may become so desperate that every belligerent will hoist the black flag.

So far our country has kept out of the war which is less than a year old; but if it shall continue for another year the chances are even that we will leap into it with all the other neutrals of Europe and South America. Indeed, we would be in it now but for the placid courage and profound wisdom of Woodrow Wilson. Certainly we would be in it if Theodore Roosevelt had been chosen president in 1912 as he would have been if heaven had not guided the deliberations of the Democratic national convention at Baltimore.

Germany is the one distinctive military nation. The Prussian policy possesses the people and the other states of Germany are one with Prussia. If they lose in this struggle it will be when they are exhausted even more completely than was our South in 1865. They have achieved victory after victory in the bloodiest war of history, and they will achieve many others.

Will they be victors in the last fight? Tell me that, and I'll tell you which side will win.

Cold-Blooded Marriage.

Kansas City Journal: A girl in town had a proposal of marriage Sunday night and asked a week to consider it, before filing her answer, testified T. A. Sawhill. She then organized herself into an investigating committee and commenced taking testimony from the married ladies of her acquaintance. The first one she visited used to be a belle and the most admired girl in the town before she was married six years ago. The cross-examination brought out the fact that she had three children, did all her own work, including her washing and ironing, and hadn't been downtown for four weeks, and that her husband had given her but $2 since she was married and that he had borrowed and forgot to pay back $10 which her brother once gave her for a Christmas present. He bought a new overcoat with the money, while she wore the same plush coat she wore when he was courting her.

Another woman whom she visited quit teaching school three years ago to marry "the handsomest and best-dressed man in town," and she is now supporting him.

A third didn't dare say her soul was her own when her husband was around, though she used to write some lovely essays when she was at school on the "Emancipation of Woman," and the fourth woman she visited was divorced.

After visiting them and summing up the evidence, she went home and wrote to the young man. She will be married to him next month.

A Dinner With the Highbrows

Richard Henry Little in the Chicago Herald.

Dramatis Personæ.

A DISTINGUISHED POET.
A DITTO NOVELIST.
A DITTO PLAYWRIGHT.
A DITTO SOCIETY QUEEN.
A DITTO RICH PERSON.
A DITTO DEBUTANTE.
POOR but WORTHY RELATIVE invited for the first time and trying to make good.

Scene—Dining room of the Distinguished Rich Person with dinner in progress.

DIST. POET—"—and so I said, 'Well, you can't kid me, I've got to get down to the loop.' And I climbed right in."

POOR but WORTHY RELATIVE (picking words with great care)—"I am indeed gratified at the movement emanating from Eastern centers of learning which promises a reform in the crudities of speech which is now so characteristic of America. Nothing is more deplorable than the slovenliness of speech which our common people seem to take such delight in. This decadence in our language must be checked—"

DIST. POET—"And I said, 'Why, prof, you poor nut, suppose it did use to be a fish wagon. She's a jitney now hain't she. Any port in a storm,' and I climbed right in with the bunch and coughed up a dime and off we went. We got to Randolph street and a dame came aboard and handed out a big laff by saying—"

DIST. NOVELIST (to Dist. Debutante)—"Say, don't pull that wheeze on me or I'll go under the table. But I was going to tell you about Jack Poodel. Do you remember Jack Poodel?"

DIST. DEBUTANTE — "Darling, Jack Poodel means nothing in my life whatever. He sounds like something that the dog catchers are after."

DIST. NOVELIST—"Listen, light of my life, you must have bumped into Jack Poodel some time or other. He's crazy about you; he said you made all the other debutantes look like scrambled eggs at a beach party picnic. Now don't hand me that line about not knowing him."

DIST. DEBUTANTE—"Well, it must have been when I was a crawfish and he was a fat angle-worm."

POOR but WORTHY RELATIVE—"Ah, what is the latest intelligence regarding the terrible conflict? It is pleasant to note that the gallant Russians are advancing once more."

DIST. RICH PERSON—"Yes, they're advancing—on the North Pole. Where do you get that noise anyhow?"

POOR but WORTHY RELATIVE—"Well, that is, of course, my source of information may not be entirely reliable. It is hard to get authentic news at present."

DIST. SOCIETY QUEEN—"Write your own ticket, that's the only way. Who are you pulling for?"

DIST. PLAYWRIGHT—"Oh, can the war talk. What's the latest dirt? Say, believe me, people, I have found the tango teacher who is certainly all there. She is certainly some kid."

DIST. RICH PERSON—"Does she teach the Twinkle?"

DIST. SOCIETY QUEEN—"Does she do the London Glide?"

DIST. PLAYWRIGHT—"I don't think she ever heard of the Twinkle or the London Glide. For all I know she interferes when she walks and dances like a giraffe trying to skate. But her eyes!—oh! in the words of that beautiful ballad, 'Sprunkel me with kusses.'"

POOR but WORTHY RELATIVE—"Ahem, have any of you read—I suppose you all have—the new poem by Kjulson, the Norwegian futurist, entitled "Agony?" It has been highly praised by Prof. Iva Spasm as sounding the keynote in mankind's struggle for expression."

DIST. SOCIETY QUEEN—"Oh, that new thought stuff bores me to tears. I was roped in on one of those stunts the other night over on the Drive, and a tall, pale thing that was still wet behind the ears and soft on top of the head got up and walked a lot of his unpublished verse at us until I just tried to forget I was a lady so that I could dash up and bite him in the arm."

DIST. RICH PERSON—"But, dearie, why did you go? We had a perfectly good party over here that night and you were subpoenaed. Nothing like that here. At 12 o'clock we were pleasantly engaged in tobogganing down the hall stair on the chairs and Billy Toggle's chair broke—"

DIST. DEBUTANTE—"Oh, I know your sad story, cross shows where Mr. B. Toggle's nose plowed up three boards in the floor. But go on; you interest me."

DISTINGUISHED NOVELIST — "Don't horn in, life of my life; come on, slip us the terrible truth. Was everybody soused?"

DIST. SOCIETY QUEEN—"Oh, angel pet, how can you say such a thing? But come on; strike up the band. I can stand rarified air just so long and then I want to climb right off and somebody ask me to do the Kitchen Sink. I can stand this highbrow talkey-talk stuff just so long and then I've got to climb right off the platform and pull my collar off and be one of the common pee-pul, p—double e— p-u-l, pee-pul, get me?"

POOR but WORTHY RELATIVE—"Sure! I git you, Liz; come on an' start something. I'm an Indian, you're an Indian; say, I can talk your languidge, kid; listen an' I'll put it over in bunches, whoop-ee, is everybody happy, whoop-ee."

DIST. SOCIETY QUEEN (regarding POOR but WORTHY RELATIVE through her lorgnette—"Mohtimah, it distresses me keenly to speak of the matter, but I feah that this relative you have rashly invited to your house is—ah! intoxicated!"

"This Time Last Year"

London Times: "This time last year" seems, in ordinary epochs, rather like this time last month. Was it really a year ago? we ask. But now, ever since last August, this time last year seems like an age ago, a period in some former existence of which our migrating soul has retained the memory. How far away it is, that old life in a world that on the outside was oddly like this present world, and on the inside wholly different! This time last year we were on the eve of "the most brilliant London season ever known." The nation was face to face with more than one "grave political problem."

There were dinners and dances, at-homes and week-ends. We were all so "busy" and so "full-up," and there were so many momentous things to discuss. Could the ballet get on without Nijinsky? Was county cricket going to look up? Would there be "civil war?" Were there any really good new things to eat? Would A and B get engaged, and would C and D get divorced?

This time last year—well, it was a long time ago, and we were all much younger then. We shall never be like that again, any more than 55 will be 18. That old, light-hearted world is gone forever; and when the good times come once more, we must look for a world not light-hearted but high-hearted. It will have its pleasures. There will be opera and ballet; there will be fine clothes, and good things to eat and drink; we shall dance and laugh and daily with love. But in the new life these will not be the most important things. They will be recreation amid a deal of hard work that will call for steady doing, solace for hearts that ache, as hearts never ached this time last year.

Shouldn't Wait Too Long.

The German-American Vote

Editorial in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

According to the Fatherland, a paper printed in English but published in New York for the kaiser, President Wilson has lost 92 per cent of the German-American vote by his declination to be "neutral" to the point of stopping the sale of arms to the allies. The information upon which the statement is made was obtained by making a canvass of the German-American press, that is to say, newspapers published in the German language in America.

Says the Fatherland:

"Of the publications queried, 208 have replied. These include almost every newspaper of importance. According to the editors these presumably represent 2,110,355 voters. In answer to the question, 130 newspapers, representing 1,161,720 voters, stated that they had supported Woodrow Wilson for president in 1912. Asked whether they would support Woodrow Wilson as the present time, 108 who had supported him in 1912 asserted that they would not. Of all the papers only twelve asserted that they would, two refused to answer, and twelve declared that, because of their nature, they were non-partisan politically; 182 emphatically declared themselves unalterably opposed to Woodrow Wilson. The twelve newspapers that asserted they would support him represent a total vote of only 91,600. In other words, of the original German-American vote cast in 1912 for Woodrow Wilson for president, it may be assumed that less than 8 per cent would be cast for him today. Judging by this straw vote, Woodrow Wilson has lost 1,070,120 votes. If Mr. Wilson were a candidate at the present time he would lose over 92 per cent of the German-American vote cast for him in 1912. • • •

In regard to the question as to whether Woodrow Wilson had honestly endeavored to maintain strict neutrality and to protect the interests of the United States in the present international crisis, the poll shows the following results:

"Forty-fire newspapers believe that he has honestly made such an endeavor. Spaco does not permit us to analyze this vote this week, but it may be asserted that a large percentage of those saying that they believe that the president has endeavored to preserve neutrality indicated that his conception of neutrality differed largely from theirs. • • •

"As to the question whether the president had succeeded in maintaining neutrality and in protecting the interests of the United States, the answers are as follows:

"Of forty-five newspapers who believed that he made an attempt to do so, only twelve are of the opinion that he has succeeded; 154 newspapers do not believe that he has even tried.

"In answer to the question as to the president's sincerity, five newspapers refused to commit themselves. In answer to the question of his success, only one newspaper refused to commit itself. It seems obvious from this that less than 6 per cent of the German-American press believes that President Wilson has succeeded in being neutral and in protecting the interests of the United States. Comment on this result would be superfluous. It may be assumed that before these 2,000,000 German-American voters Woodrow Wilson stands charged with failure."

The kaiser-boosting German press in America has no conception of neutrality and no interest in neutrality. Its attitude is that all who are not aiding Wilhelm II in his insane ambition to rule "ueber alles" are against him.

Fortunately for President Wilson and fortunately for the people of the United States he is as much above the crime of catering to this or that "vote" by conniving at murder as was Governor Slaton of Georgia, when, a few days ago, he declined to have Leo M. Frank executed in response to the demand of the mob. To elect as president man whose conception of duty would admit of his considering the "German-American vote" in such a situation as that in which America has been placed by the recklessly criminal course of the kaiser would be a national misfortune far greater than that of being dragged into the kaiserian war. In its effort to picture the president as a failure in politics, the Fatherland presents him as a striking success in public service.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quintius, the Sunshine Man.

Upon this many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with Him.—John vi, 66.

There comes a time always when any great truth or testimony or cause begins to separate men into classes—those who hear and those who will not hear. Truth divides as well as unifies. Great personalities are centers of magnetic force, acting positively on some natures, negatively on others and causing new human polarizations. The world is never the same after a Plato or an Aristotle or a St. Paul or a Martin Luther; the separations and realignments which such men create reach clear across the field of history. So supremely with Jesus. Surely we find here a revealing light cast backward over what He has been saying about judgment. Already the judgment has begun—those who are for Him, those who are against Him. Light has shone into darkness, and the darkness has comprehended it not.

We cannot read the Gospels carefully without seeing that Jesus wanted all who come to Him to count the cost. He would have no easy, superficial discipleship. He made it hard, with a stern kindness to begin with, that it might not end in failure and disappointment.

Being a real Christian is no easy thing, and real Christians are the only ones who count. Very likely in our haste to build up our church and make a brave showing in statistics we have overlooked the method of the Master. We have names enough, but where is the power? The day of the ebbing of that tide of easy popularity which began with the feeding of the multitude was also the day of the rising of a truer life of power. Hereafter Jesus will have for His followers a sifted group. There will be grave deficiencies of insight even in that chosen group, and they will more than once show themselves wanting in full sympathy with their Lord. But, as our Puritan forbears liked to say, they will have the root of the matter in them. After all, the wheat and the chaff do have to get separated.

Enable us, we beseech Thee, oh God, to count the cost of any discipleship before we commit ourselves thereunto, and when we have put our hand to the plow, grant that we may not look back. In those great times which come to each one of us, when we are tested by some difficult or searching thing, forbid that we turn back and walk no more in the light of our ideals or follow those no longer who would guide us toward better things. Rather may we press on and so reach those fulfilments of purpose and perfection of character which Thou dost keep for those who are faithful to the end.—From Daily Bible.

A Hymn of Hate.

The following parody of the German Hymn of Hate appears in the Toronto Daily Star, with "no apologies to Herr Lissauer":

Carrots or beets we hate them not,
We love them not, we hate them not.
Of all the things that land on our plate
There's only one that we loathe and hate;
We love a hundred, we hate but one,
And that we'll hate till kingdom come—
Sauer Kraut.

It's known to you all, it's known to you all,
Pilgrims on this terrestrial ball;
Full of vinegar in distress,
Making a most unsavory mess,
Come, let us stand in our eating place,
An oath to swear to, face to face;
An oath of bronze no wind can shake,
An oath for all sons of guns to take.
We will never forego our hate;
We have all but a single hate.
We love as one, we hate as one.
And we'll hate that dish if we do it alone—
Sauer Kraut.

Wienerwurst, liverwurst, lager beer,
Many a time hath given us cheer;
Not so bad if made just right;
Bad to take going to bed at night;
Better by far to lunch in—"The Day."
Then there won't be the devil to pay.
But you we hate with a lasting hate;
We will never forego our hate;
Hate of the stomach and hate of the tongue
Hate of the senses every one;
Hate of millions who've choked it down;
Hate of the country and hate of the town.
We love a thousand; we hate but one,
And that we'll hate with hate of Hun—
Sauer Kraut.

No Tantrums.

Political Paragraphs From the State Press

Minnesota Editors Talk About the Next Campaign.

Why Ramsey County?

Thief River Falls News-Press: The boom of Fred C. Stevens of St. Paul for the senate to succeed Moses E. Clapp seems to have been punctured and entirely flattened. This leaves practically no one in the field, and as we believe Ramsey county is entitled to the honor, we suggest the name of Hon. Oscar Hallam, justice of the supreme court. Do we hear a second, and if so will Ramsey county indorse Judge Hallam?

But Not Clear the Air.

Dawson Sentinel: Some of the would-be gubernatorial candidates have evidently gone into cold storage. What has happened to Jim Peterson, Burnquist, Lindbergh and Schmahl? The summer is too cold for baseball; why not start one of those family quarrels which always follow when several Republicans want the same office? It would raise the temperature.

Sam Is for Sam.

Wadena Pioneer Journal: Sam Langum of the Preston Times is booming Samuel Lord of the state tax commission as the right man for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. And Sam, as usual, is not far wrong.

Strange Presumption!

Madison Independent Press: There is a rumor going the rounds that Julius A. Schmahl will be a candidate for governor in 1916. Mr. Schmahl would be a strong man in a political race against any of the other aspirants so far named. Indeed this paper regards him as being the only strong and available man in the Republican party of the state at this time. This statement is made on the presumption that the party wants a winner.

Still They Come.

Preston Times: 'Tis rumored that James A. Peterson of Minneapolis is likely to enter the gubernatorial race next year with a good chance of winning. Peterson made straight Republican speeches last campaign and it helped him. He is especially strong in Hennepin. Lee, Burnquist and Lindbergh are also nibbling.

Logic Irrefutable.

Elk River Star-News: There ought not to be much of a struggle to get on the Republican ticket as a candidate for governor next year as the candidate who wins out will have a most strenuous job to defeat Governor Hammond, if that gentleman keeps his head as well as he has done since his inauguration. The Republican candidate must be a live wire and up with the times. Political wire pulling in the selection of a candidate will not of itself, without other more vital qualifications, win out at the polls, and a strong man who has the confidence of the public must be selected or down goes the house of cards.

A Queer Place for "Jeffersonian Qualities."

Chaska Herald: Our old friend Sam Langum, the able and fearless editor of the Preston Times, is booming the candidacy of Sam Lord of the state tax commission as the Republican candidate for governor at the next election. Mr. Lord surely possesses the Jeffersonian requisites as to character and ability, and is built upon the same lines as our present able governor—Hon. Winfield Scott Hammond. Both are an honor to the state and should be kept in their present positions.

Kinship With Turnips

San Francisco Bulletin: An individual who had a little garden spaded up a corner of it and put in a few rows of carrots, beets and turnips. These were humble vegetables, but he thought that it would give him back some of his feeling of kinship with the ground if they grew, and he could dig them up and use them. Then it rained. The papers said that the rain had added millions of dollars to the wealth of California. He went out to look at his garden and there, sure enough, were rows of turnip leaves sticking up, and plain signs of carrots and beets not far behind them. The leaves did not amount to much. If they had not been in rows he would not have known that they were not weeds. But they were working night and day to turn themselves into food. All they asked was room for a few modest roots, and plenty of air, sunshine and a little water, either in the form of rain or projected from a hose.

The man was a partner rather unimportant in the manufacturing processes by which a seed smaller than a small birdshot was made, for his sole benefit, into a succulent and appealing turnip. He was, as it were, an inmate of Nature's almshouse.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WELCOMED THE HERALD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

One behalf of the officers and men of the Duluth contingent of the Third regiment I wish to thank you for your courtesy and thoughtfulness in providing them with your paper daily while in camp, and assure you that it was appreciated very much. Very truly yours,

THINKS THEM VISIONARY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

For some months past, Allan L. Benson has, mainly in the Appeal to Reason, and lately in his book "A Way to Prevent War," expounded his idea of a scheme through which this gentleman asserts future wars could be prevented. When William J. Bryan resigned from his position as secretary of state he made certain remarks which seem remarkably similar to those made by Mr. Benson previously.

Both these gentlemen confess their belief that war actually could be prevented simply by instituting a "War Referendum" allowing the people to vote for or against war; every man voting for war to be regarded as having thereby enlisted in the army.

Although gladly giving Mr. Bryan and Mr. Benson credit for their attitude against war and their shown interest in the securing of permanent peace, I, as a Socialist, nevertheless must claim that this their expounded belief is entirely utoplan and visionary and cannot lead to the desired result.

Modern wars are caused by commercial interests; certain sets of capitalists are endeavoring to outstrip their competitors. As long as the competitive capitalist system is upheld, wars will occur when the capitalists of a nation are unable to secure foreign markets for their surplus wealth—which is nothing but unpaid labor.

There is only one certain remedy for war, and that is to destroy the causes of war—to abolish capitalism and establish the industrial commonwealth.

Mr. Bryan is an upholder of the present system and can hardly be blamed for not having arrived at this conclusion, but Mr. Benson, who announces himself a Socialist, has shown intolerable lack of logic in the advocacy of his peace scheme. A student of history, as a Socialist must be, ought to know that at critical times, laws are nothing but "scraps of paper."

A true Socialist does not waste his time on reforms under the capitalist system, but works unceasingly for a system under which the workers will produce things for use, not for profit. Then there will be no cause to fight for foreign markets and consequently no more wars. Very truly yours, GUN.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:

"Vashti's Lament," from Mrs. L. C. Gerard-Harris of International Falls.

"My Creed," from a subscriber.

"The Little Au Plaine," from John Doyle of Seney, Mich., who writes the following explanation of the poem:

"This is written from memory, but, though it is twenty years or so since I heard it last sung, I can vouch for it being correct as I heard it. The 'Little Au Plaine' used to be a prime favorite in lumber camps many years ago and it was sung every night and some nights twice where I was in the '90s."

My Creed.

I do not fear to tread the path
That those I love have long since trod;
I do not fear to pass the gate
And stand before the living God.
In this world's fight I've done my part;
If God be God, He knows it well;
He will not turn His back to me
And send me down to blackest hell
Because I have not prayed aloud
And shouted in the market place.
'Tis what we do, not what we say
That makes us worthy of His grace.

Little Au Plaine.

One evening in June as I rambled
Through the fields and green valleys alone
The mosquitoes' notes were melodious
And merrily the whip-poor-will sung
As the frogs in the marshes were croaking
And the tree toads a-whistling for rain,
And the partridge all round me were drumming
On the banks of the little Au Plaine.

As the sun to the west was declining
And shaded the tree tops with red,
My wandering feet led me onward
Not caring wherever I strayed,
Till by chance I espied a fair school-ma'am
Who appeared in terrible pain;
She mourned for a jolly young raftsman
From the banks of the little Au Plaine.

I boldly stepped up to this fair one,
And this unto her I did say,
"Pray, tell me what makes you so
Sad, lonesome
While Nature seems happy and gay?"
"It is all for a jolly young raftsman;
I'm afraid I will see him no more;
He is down on the Wisconsin river
A-pulling a fifteen-foot oar."

"If it is all for a jolly young raftsman
You are here in such awful despair,
Pray tell me the name of your true love
Or the kind of clothes he did wear."
"His pants they were made of two meal sacks
With a patch a foot square on each knee,
And his jacket and shirt they were dyed
With the bark of the butternut tree.

"His hair was inclined to be curly
And his whiskers as red as the sun;
He is tall, square-shouldered and handsome,
And his height was six feet and one,
And his name it was Young Johnny Murphy,
And his equal I ne'er saw before;
He is down on the Wisconsin river
A-pulling a fifteen-foot oar."

"If Johnny Murphy's the name of your true love
He's a man I did know very well,
And sad is the tale I must tell you,
Your Johnny was drowned in a dalle.
We buried him beneath a scrub Norway,
And his face you will ne'er see again.
No stone marks the grave of your true love,
And he's far from the little Au Plaine."

As soon as she heard this she fainted
And fell on the ground where I stood.
I scooped up a hat full of water
And shook it all over her head.
She opened her eyes and looked wildly,
She appeared like one who was insane;
I thought to myself she'd go crazy
On the banks of the little Au Plaine.

"My curse be upon you, Ross Campbell,
For taking my Johnny away;
May the cagles lay hold of your body
And stick it far down in the clay.
May your lumber go down to the bottom,
Never rise to the surface no more;
May all of your creeks and your sandbars
Go as dry as the log schoolhouse floor.

"It is now I'll forsake this location;
I'll teach district school no more;
I will go where I'll never O! never Hear the screech of a fifteen-foot oar.
I will go to some far distant country,
To England, to France or to Spain;
But I'll never forget Johnny Murphy
Or the banks of the little Au Plaine."

Queen Vashti's Lament.

Is this all the love that he bore me,
my husband, to publish my face
To the nobles of Media and Persia, whose hearts are besotted and base?
Did he think me a slave, me, Vashti,
the Beautiful, me, queen of queens,
To summon me thus for a show to the midst of his bacchanal scenes?

I stand like an image of brass, I,
Vashti, in sight of such men!
No, sooner, a thousand times sooner,
the mouth of the lioness' den.
When she's fiercest with hunger and love for the hungry young lions that tear
Her teats with sharp, innocent teeth, I would enter, far rather than here!

Did he love me, or is he, too, though the king, but a brute like the rest!
I have seen him in wine, and I fancied
'twas then that he loved me the best;
Though I think I would rather have one sweet, passionate word from the heart,
Than a year of caresses that may with the wine that creates them depart.

But ever before, in his wine, toward me he showed honor and grace;
He was king, I was queen, and those nobles he made them remember their place.
But now all is changed; I am vile, they are honored, they push me aside,
A butt for Memucan and Shethar and
Meres, gone mad in their pride!

Shall I faint, shall I pine, shall I sicken and die for the loss of his love?
Not I; I am queen of myself, though the stars fall from heaven above.
The stars! ha! the torment is there, for my light is put out by a star,
That has dazzled the eyes of the king and his court and his captains of war.

He was lonely, they say, and he looked, as he sat like a ghost at his wine,
On the couch by his side, where, of yore his Beautiful used to recline.
But the king is a slave to his pride, to his oath and the laws of the Medes,
And he cannot call Vashti again though his poor heart is wounded and bleeds.

So they sought through the land for a wife, while the king thought of me all the while—
I can see him, this moment, with eyes that are lost for the loss of a smile,
Gazing dreamily on while each malden is temptingly passed in review,
While the love in his heart is awake with the thought of a face that he knew!
Then she came when his heart was grown weary with loving the dream of the past!
She is fair—I could curse her for that, if I thought that this passion would last!
But e'en if it last, all the love is for me, and, through good and through ill,
The king shall remember his Vashti, shall think of his Beautiful still.

Oh! the day is a weary burden, the night is a restless strife,—
I am sick to the very heart of my soul, with this life—this death in life!
Oh! that the glorious, changeless sun would draw me up in his might,
And quench my dreariness in the flood of his everlasting light!

What is it? Oft as I lie awake and my pillow is wet with tears,
There comes—it came to me just now
—a flash, then disappears;
A flash of thought that makes this life
a re-enacted scene,
That makes me dream what was, will be, and what is now, has been.

And I, when age on age has rolled, shall sit on the royal throne,
And the king shall love his Vashti, his Beautiful, his own,
And for the joy of what has been and what again will be,
I'll try to bear this awful weight of lonely misery!

The star! Queen Esther! blazing light that burns into my soul!
The star! the star! Oh! flickering light of life beyond control!
O king! remember Vashti; thy Beautiful, thy own,
Who loved thee and shall love thee still, when Esther's light has flown.

The Anti-Fat Business

There must be a score of wonderful discoveries for the reduction of fat marketed in America. The exploiters of these "formulas" of "eminent" but unidentified "specialists" have learned well the lesson taught by the late Barnum.

As a matter of fact there is but one drug known which will appreciably reduce fat, and that is thyroid extract, which, as we have endeavored to say before, is far too dangerous a weapon for anyone but a skilled physician to use.

Several of the most widely advertised anti-fat nostrums depend for their success upon the fact that, along with the medicine, the patient takes a restricted diet or undergoes a system of physical culture which tends to reduce some of his corpulency.

The worst of the fakes in this line is the stuff sold to use in the bath. Anyone with half a grain of common sense in his attic region ought to know that you can't wash away your fat any more than you can wash away your sins without repenting.

Reduction salts, if they reduce anything, reduce only the victim's vitality.

Credulity Vs. Diet and Exercise.

The fact of the matter is that the gold brick agents assume that fat people are necessarily a bit weak in the cerebral end, and they will believe almost anything they are told in a circular. Hence it is that these useless or dangerous anti-fat nostrums find a certain demand for, unfortunately, there are as many "easy" ones among the obese as among the lean. Credulity makes many a fat person part with his money, but only diet and exercise can make him part with his fat. Always excepting myxoedema, of course—but that's another story, which the individual medical adviser alone can tell you.

Questions and Answers.

NOW, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THIS?

H. E. H., not having read the above, of course, writes: How long will it take me to reduce my flesh? I eat one scanty meal a day and do quite a bit of hard work. I take epsom salts. Is it injurious not to eat more than once a day? I do not feel weak or hungry.

Answer—Well, we must guess. We guess you weigh 260 pounds, and that you are 6 feet 6 inches tall, in which case you don't need to reduce, for your figure is first-rate. One meal a day is plenty if you are too stout. Epsom salts is all right, but not to reduce flesh. If our guess is wrong, send in your dimensions and we'll give you a more definite answer.

HE ALSO DOTES ON SALTS.

1. Will harmful effects follow the habitual use of Epsom salts for chronic constipation? 2. Is it objectionable to sit up and sleep in a chair? I cannot lie down and sleep—I am nervous, and start up with some vague dread as soon as I doze away. What would this indicate?

Answer—1. Yes. Chronic constipation. 2. No. Possibly heart disease. You should have your physician look after you.

TONIC FOR AN OLD TOPER.

Kindly inform a reader what is the best thing to tone up the system of a man who has imbibed excessively for years, but, thank God, has kept away from it for many months now.

Answer—Fresh, cold, pure tap water. If the man is not well, of course he should be under medical care.

DISCOURAGED WITH HER ATOMIZER.

Mrs. O. C. writes: I am discouraged with my Devilbiss atomizer. I use it regularly, spraying straight back with head erect, yet I can't get the crusts out. Will you please advise me?

Answer—Yes, for stamped addressed envelope. Catarrh is too vague a subject to discuss in a few lines.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald. All questions will be answered, whether they come from people residing in Duluth or outside, provided they comply with the rules here stated.

Simon Clark has charge of arrangements, and that being guarantee enough that the entertainment would be of a superior nature, one of the largest crowds of the season attended. The affair was for members only, and was in celebration of the clan membership passing the 500 mark.

Those taking part in the musical program were Philip Gordon Brown, Bruce Brown and Frank A. Miller, the latter a member of Clan Cameron, Superior. P. G. Brown and Bruce Brown each sang solos, and also gave a duet. Mr. Miller gave two Scotch numbers.

W. E. McEwen gave a short address on the growth of the clan. His late father was one of the founders of Clan Stewart, and it was considered singularly fitting that the son should be the speaker of the evening on the occasion of the clan reaching the 500 mark in membership. It was also learned through Mr. McEwen's speech that he and she who was "Becky" McKenzie, one of Duluth's noted singers, were christened at the meeting of the Scots of Duluth, which was the first move that resulted in the formation of the clan. At that time, Mr. McEwen said, the old Caledonian club, the nucleus of the clan of after years, was formed. It was on Jan. 25, the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, 1875, and was at the old Clark house, then Duluth's chief hotel. The ministering clergyman that evening was the late and revered Rev. C. C. Salter.

During his address, Mr. McEwen recalled incidents of the early days of the Caledonian club, and late of Clan Stewart, which was formed in 1885, things that occurred in his boyhood days and have been kept fresh in his memory. Mr. McEwen's address was greatly enjoyed by those present, and his tribute to Simon Clark, whom he called Duluth's leading Scotsman and no less leading citizen, was enthusiastically applauded.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TO MEET

Sixteenth National Convention at Atlantic City Next Week.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 1.—Every state in the Union will be represented here next week at the sixteenth national convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, which will open on Tuesday, July 6, and continue until Friday, July 9. Arrangements have been made to care for nearly 25,000 delegates, and the managers of the convention expect it to be one of the greatest ever held by the league.

Under the banner of "A Stainless Flag and a Saloonless Nation," the league hopes to adopt plans to further its campaign against the liquor traffic.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson, D. D., LL. D., New York, is president of the league.

Each local church organization in the United States affiliated with the Anti-Saloon league, each Sunday school, each young people's society, as well as local, village, township, county, city, state or national temperance society or uplift organization is entitled to appoint a delegate and an alternate.

Among those expected to address the four big meetings the convention will hold each morning, afternoon and evening are: Governor Carlson of Colorada, Governor Lister of Washington, United States Senator Sheppard of Texas, Capt. Richmond P. Hobson of Alabama, Former Governor Patterson of Tennessee, United States Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire, John G. Wooley, the author; Booker T. Washington, the negro educationist, Judge Charles A. Pollock of North Dakota, Fred O. Blue of West Virginia, Congressman Perl D. Decker of Missouri, Governor Hays of Arkansas, Former Governor Hodges of Kansas, Dr. J. H. Kellogg of Battle Creek, Mich., and Former Governor Stubbs of Kansas.

"The Message of the Convention to the Country at Large," will be delivered by Rev. P. A. Baker, D. D., of Waterville, Ohio, general superintendent of the league.

The principal meetings of the league will be held on the Million Dollar pier, and it is expected that many meetings will also be held on the beach in the interest of temperance.

One of the plans on foot is for several thousand of the delegates to go to Washington on the Saturday after the convention and march to the White House for the purpose of presenting an appeal for nation-wide prohibition.

LARGE INCREASE IN IRON ORE SHIPMENTS

Lake Superior Mines Show Gain of 30 Per Cent Over Last Year.

Washington, July 1.—Iron ore shipments from the Lake Superior mines show an increase of 30 per cent over the shipments a year ago, according to Secretary Lane in the geological survey's mid-year review of mining conditions.

The pig iron output also is increasing monthly, the report says, while enlargements and extensions at iron and steel plants furnish unmistakable evidence of returning confidence.

General improvement in the copper industry also was noted. Prices, output and wages have shown an upward trend, the report says, and prosperity is the word in the copper districts.

Demand for spelter and lead, with present high prices, has given an impetus to mining in the zinc-lead districts, and the demand for quicksilver has increased.

Loss of bunker coal trade at Atlantic ports has been partially offset by increasing coal exports. Coke production has increased considerably. Production of petroleum is believed to exceed that of last year's period.

"These reports are significant and assuring to all who desire the industrial advancement of the United States," said Secretary Lane.

The report says the general mining advance has been stimulated by the United States being thrown on its own resources for mineral products, the enormous orders for war supplies from belligerent European countries and comparative freedom from foreign competition.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JULY 4.

2 Samuel xviii, 1-15: Absalom's Failure.

CONNECTION.

Years have passed since David came to the throne and since the sin for which Nathan rebuked him. He has a bad boy who has given him trouble; in fact he has had several such boys. His boys had too many mothers and their father had not always lived right. His family felt it. God forgives sins but sins have their ripe fruits that no forgiveness can ever put out of existence. Absalom was one of those boys. He killed a half brother who had wronged the former's own sister. He plotted against his father, winning the attachment of many of his father's old friends with a view to making them his supporters in the revolution he was plotting. He was as charming and fascinating and handsome as he was vain and ambitious and treacherous and without conscience. Under the pretense of going to Hebron to pay his vows and worship God, he started the revolt, led the crowd to Jerusalem, drove out his father and aroused the whole nation. The brilliant and ambitious were with him for they thought David was done for. The latter fled across the Jordan and then he organized the attack that led to the defeat of his son.

I.

David Organizes the Campaign. 1-4i.

"And David numbered the people that were with him, and set captains of thousands and captains of hundreds over them. And David sent forth the people, a third part under the hand of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai, the Gittite. And the king said unto the people, I will surely go forth with you myself also. But the people said, Thou shalt not go forth; for if we flee away, they will not care for us; neither if half of us die, will they care for us; but thou art worth ten thousand of us; therefore now it is better that thou be ready to succor us out of the city. And the king said unto them, What seemeth you best I will do. And the king stood by the gate-side, and all the people went out by hundreds and by thousands."

1.—THOROUGHNESS.—Any one who imagined that the "old man" could not "come back" missed his guess. Absalom was badly mistaken. David rose to the occasion. His genius was at work. His army was large in spite of the slump to the charming young scoundrel. David knew military tactics and he knew men, all except his own boys. It was strategic to divide the army into three parts and have the three greatest military leaders in charge, Joab and Abishai, sons of a sister of David, and Ittai, a Philistine who had stuck to David with true devotion. More than that, the old man was ready to battle himself—"I will surely go forth with you myself, also." Everything was perfectly organized. David was the most versatile genius of all the kings of Israel, and was that not the same as being the most versatile of all kings in the world's history?

2. PRUDENCE.—The organization was prudent in itself, but the people compelled David to be prudent and remain out of danger. Two qualities appear in the people, recognition of his worth and tender regard for his comfort and state of mind. Perhaps they had several reasons for not wanting him to go into battle—his real worth, which was the only thing they spoke to him about as they told him he was worth ten thousand common men such as they were; fear that his heart might fail him when he had his son in his hands; possibly the feeling that he was not really as efficient as he used to be and might venture in he used to be and might venture in over-confidence to go beyond his ability. But it would have been giving everything over to Absalom if David had been killed. It was to his credit that he consented to their wishes and stayed away from battle.

II.

He Commands That Absalom's Life Be Spared. 5.

"And the king commanded Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom. And all the people heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Absalom."

1. FORGIVING.—There are three indications of his greatness, given at this time—his power in organizing the campaign; his willingness to defer to the wishes of his soldiers and stay out of the battle; his care of his wayward boy. After all he had suffered from Absalom—yet it is natural that he should want to spare him.

2. WEAKNESS.—His lamentations show his love for the boy as well as his former indulgences did. In connection with that boy David's first weakness was in marrying the woman who afterwards became his mother, for she was a heathen woman, daughter of Geshur, a Syrian king; his second mistake was in not requiring him to be taught the principles of the worship of Jehovah but in leaving him to the influence of his heathen mother and her people; his third mistake was in not punishing him very severely when he killed his half-brother, Ammon; his fourth was in not requiring him to show repentance when he came back from his voluntary exile; his next was in accepting the statement of the rascal when he said he wanted to go to Hebron to worship; his sixth mistake was in not seeing that the ambitious young man was winning David's people away from him, a thing that everybody else could see; his greatest mistake of all was in having done things that unnerved him in requiring the right kind of lives from his children. Note the Bathsheba sin, the large harem and the general self-indulgence. He had avoided responsibility.

III.

The Defeat and Death of Absalom, 6-15.

"So the people went out into the field against Israel: and the battle was in the forest of Ephraim. And the people of Israel were smitten there before the servants of David, and there was a great slaughter there that day of 20,000 men. For the battle was there spread over the face of all the country; and the forest devoured more people that day than the sword devoured.

"And Absalom chanced to meet the servants of David. And Absalom was riding upon his mule, and the mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and he was taken up between heaven and earth; and the mule that was under him went on. And a certain man saw it, and told Joab, and said, Behold, I saw Absalom hanging in an oak. And Joab said unto the man that told him, And, behold, thou sawest it, and why didst thou not smite him there to the ground? and I would have given thee ten pieces of silver, and a girdle. And the man said unto Joab, Though I should receive a thousand pieces of silver in my hand, yet would I not put forth my hand against the king's son; for in our hearing the king charged thee and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Beware that none touch the young man Absalom. Otherwise if I had dealt falsely against his life (and there is no matter hid from the king), then thou thyself wouldest have set thyself against me. Then said Joab, I may not tarry thus with thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them through the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the midst of the oak. And ten young men that bare Joab's armor compassed about and smote Absalom, and slew him."

1. DEFEAT.—The army of David was ever on the east of the Jordan and thither Absalom's aggregation had followed, so that they were drawn into the very place for defeat and panic, the forest of Ephraim, so called because some of the tribe of Ephraim had taken land, or had left their name, over there after some conquest. The tangled bushes and low spreading oaks caused more deaths than the sword. The followers of the usurper fled before the trained armies of David and Absalom was left alone.

2. DEATH.—It was impossible to ride under the thick, tangled, spreading boughs of the terebinth tree and the mule went on when Absalom was caught by his hair. When some one told Joab and said he had not killed him on account of the promise to David, Joab said something that was the equivalent of "O, go away with your chicken hearted scruples; I've got no time for you." Then he dispatched Absalom with darts in his hand and they covered him up with a heap of stones in disgrace. David's grief is almost too awful to read.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

In every tragedy, there is a crisis, and this came when Absalom said to the king: "I pray thee, let me go and pay my vow which I have vowed unto Jehovah in Hebron. For thy servant vowed a vow while I abode in Geshur in Syria, saying, 'If Jehovah shall indeed bring me again to Jerusalem, then will I serve Jehovah!'" Under the cloak of religion, Absalom inaugurates his rebellion. The spark of reverence has died out and the worship of Jehovah is made the means for the securing of his selfish ends. The prostitution of religion to the furthering of the unholy and wicked purposes of men plumbs the depths of infamy and spiritual degradation.—Weaver.

I was told once of an old man in a Yorkshire village, whose son had been a sore grief to him. One day a neighbor inquired how the lad was doing. "Oh, very bad!" was the answer. "He's been drinking again, and behaving very rough." "Dear, dear!" said the neighbor. "If he was my son I would turn him out." "Yes," returned the father, "and so would I, if he was yours. But, you see, he's not yours; he's mine."—D. Smith.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. How is it that one may get forgivences for sins and not be able to escape the consequences?
2. How can religion be made effective in the home?
3. What are the chief temptations of old age?
4. What is a boy's chief need?
5. Why are we not all pessimists about human nature?

Cost of Opening Hydrants Starts "War to the Knife."

Council Splits on Half-Mill Tax; Settlement Postponed.

After wrangling for nearly two hours yesterday afternoon, without getting anywhere, members of the city council agreed to bury the hatchet.

It was a beautiful, peaceful ending to a meeting filled with threats, accusations and attacks.

Expert to Open Hydrants.

The special session of the council, called by Commissioners Farrell and Merritt for the purpose of settling the argument about a labor charge against the public works division for the turning on of water hydrants, developed into a talk fest filled with everything but business. It was finally agreed that Commissioner Farrell should present a resolution before the council, to the effect that the works division shall have the power to employ an expert workman to open the hydrants for sewer flushing. The water department will pass on the ability of this man, as the utilities division is responsible for all water hydrants in the city.

Mayor Not Present.

Mayor Prince, who is a member of the board of review hearing protests against personal property valuations, was unable to attend the meeting, which was held in Commissioner Voss' office. Others present were Commissioners Merritt, Farrell and Silberstein, Fire Chief Randall and Daniel Keefe and R. A. Casson of the water and light department.

Commissioner Merritt opened the meeting with an explanation as to the reasons for calling the council together. He said that Commissioner Farrell objected to paying a bill for $15.11 covering labor in opening hydrants to furnish the city with $10.67 worth of water. He admitted knowing very little about the matter and declared that he brought Mr. Keefe and Mr. Casson, also having invited Chief Randall, for the purpose of explaining any matters not already understood by the other commissioners.

The argument started when Commissioner Farrell in declaring his refusal to pay $45 for labor, when one of his own foremen could easily have turned on the hydrants, said that he would change the rules to make the transaction businesslike.

"We ought to work together," declared the works head, "instead of looking out for our respective departments. It is all for the city, and we are working for one common good."

War to the Knife.

"And another thing," emphatically insisted Mr. Farrell, "Reed bawled out one of my clerks, and he has no business to do that. My man is working hard and industriously and Reed had better come to me in the future with any complaints. If he does that again, I'll go and settle him myself. I know Reed; I worked for him twenty years ago."

"If all these attacks on the water department are against me personally," roared Commissioner Merritt, "then it's war to the knife and knife to the hilt. I'm afraid of no damn man. I'm willing to do what is just, but instead of working our troubles out together, you go to the newspapers."

"What do you mean?" asked Commissioner Voss.

"You know what I mean," rejoined the utilities head, "that resolution you introduced the other night about double payment of bills was aimed directly at me, and I'll not take my hat off to you or anyone for the mistakes in my department. Your auditor is here to keep the accounts, and I don't take my hat off to any man as far as personal responsibility is concerned."

"You talk like a baby," retorted Voss. "We don't care to hear you prate about your responsibility all the time. We know you are a plutocrat and that you own iron mines,. I haven't it in for you. What do I care about you? I'm here to protect the city funds and that's what I am going to do."

"Well, what'll we do about this matter?" asked Mr. Farrell.

"I don't care a cuss what you do," said Commissioner Merritt, rising.

"We talk like children," interrupted Commissioner Silberstein. "Let us talk like men and work together."

Responsible for Hydrants.

At this point both Mr. Keefe and Mr. Casson explained that the water department is responsible for the hydrants, as they must always be ready for use in case of fires. They declared that other men would break the hydrants, fail to report them, and that as a result the fire department would be unable to fight a blaze. The responsibility must lie somewhere, they said.

"We're responsible for those hydrants," said Commissioner Merritt, "and it is up to us to keep them in condition."

"All right then," proposed Mr. Farrell, "you pay the salary of the man who turns on the water."

"We pay enough now for the water," exclaimed the finance commissioner, "and hydrant rental, without charging the city an additional amount for labor. This was about $360 last year. No matter who pays it, the city as a whole is out the money. The water and light department gets $84,000 a year from the city in payment for hydrants, water fountains and the one-half mill levy to go on the bonded debt. Last year our total 13-mill tax levy brought the city about $690,000. This means that about one-seventh of the total levy went to the water department. We're paying them too much, as it is. Hydrants are increasing, and the cost is getting larger every year. We ought to cut down somewhere. The one-half mill tax for helping the bonded debt is excessive. This money should go to the general fund, which is always cramped. Other departments are cut down as a result, and because of this payment, the city is unable to make street improvements that are absolutely necessary and go begging. I admit that we ought to pay for hydrants and help the department to an extent, but not one-seventh of our total levy."

"You bring that up some other time," returned the utilities head, "and I'll be ready for you. Spring that again and I'll be there to answer you."

"Hydrants have been broken by contractors and street sprinklers," said Mr. Casson.

Capable Men for Work.

"We don't propose to let every 'Tom, Dick and Harry' turn these hydrants on. Capable foremen in the works division will be in charge," said Mr. Farrell. "If they damage the hydrants, they can report just like your men do, and the cost will be paid by the works department.

"Mistakes will happen, as they do in your department, and my men will be just as careful as they can be."

Chief Randall was asked if hydrants could be turned on by anyone, and he declared that a careful workman would have little difficulty.

Commissioner Farrell then suggested that the water department pay the man, and he would hire two workmen to do the sewer flushing, or that the utilities division give him a man and he would hire him.

"Make your proposition in writing; I won't vote for anything here," declared Commissioner Merritt.

At this point it was agreed to prepare a resolution and to present it at the next meeting, when the matter will be amicably adjusted.

Just before the meeting adjourned Commissioner Voss suggested that he and Mr. Merritt have a talk, so that "we can understand each other."

Merritt Smiles at Last.

"I have nothing against him," he said.

"Co-operation for the good of the city is my gospel," said Mr. Merritt, smilingly. "It is agreeable to me."

"Let's sleep on the question," suggested Mr. Farrell, "and have it settled by the council."

Commissioners Voss, Merritt and Farrell held a short conference after the meeting, going over their differences and agreeing to cease their attacks on one another in the future.

Apparently harmony reigns at the city hall and the dove of peace is back in the council chamber. At least, it does today.

SINKING OF BIG OCEAN LINER BY SUBMARINE

otherwise, seemed to be overshadowed, in the minds of officials here, by the reported resistance to capture.

There was a relaxation of tension in official quarters by the news that the Armenian apparently was resisting capture for what seemed to loom up as a possible complication in the pending negotiation over submarine warfare with Germany appeared to be removed.

On Admiralty Business.

Washington, July 1.—The Leyland line steamship Armenian was "engaged on admiralty business" when she was sunk by a German submarine off the Cornwall coast of England, two days ago, with the loss of a score of American lives, Ambassador Page at London reported to the state department today. He had been so informed by British admiralty officials.

Consul Armstrong at Bristol, who sent first word of the destruction of the big steamer yesterday reported to Ambassador Page today that 21 of the 29 men lost with the Armenian were Americans. He gave no additional names, although previous lists included only twenty Americans.

The ambassador's dispatch gave no additional details on which the state department could base consideration of the case. He said that as the Armenian carried no passengers, presumably all Americans who perished were members of the crew.

It was pointed out here, however, that Americans seeking cheap transportation frequently travel upon such ships as passengers, although they are signed on the ship's roll as members of the crew.

Expect Further Reports.

The department expected further dispatches from Ambassador Page and Consul Armstrong giving reports of survivors to show whether the ship was duly warned by the German submarine commander and those aboard her given an opportunity to escape.

Officials of the steamship company have stated that the Armenian was not under charter to the British admiralty, but was sailing merely as a merchantman carrying contraband.

At the White House it was stated that President Wilson was in constant touch from Cornish, N. H., and that no steps would be taken until complete reports had been received. The president probably would not hasten his return to Washington, it was said.

Secretary Tumulty was in communication with the president until late last night, forwarding details. The president was in commuication with the White House offices again early today after Mr. Tumulty had conferred with Secretary Lansing. The situation in Mexico City also was discussed.

Eleven Americans Hurt.

Avonmouth, England, July 1.—There were eleven Americans among the nineteen members of the crew who lost their lives in the sinking of the Leyland line freight steamer Armenian by the German submarine U 38 off Trevose Head, Cornwall, on Monday. Some members of the crew were killed outright when the German torpedo struck the ship.

When sunk by the German submarine the Armenian was carrying a cargo of 1,422 mules from Newport News to Avonmouth, the animals to be used by the French armies in Belgium and France. The vessel had a crew of 72 men and carried 96 men as muleteers.

Quickly Overhauled.

The submarine was first sighted by the man at the wheel and though the ship was pushed to the limit the mosquito craft rapidly overhauled her and commenced shelling. The Armenian's efforts to keep her stern to the submarine were futile.

The faster vessel circled the freighter and the German commander speaking through a megaphone ordered the Armenian's captain to surrender or he would sink the ship.

The skipper of the Leyland liner struggled hard to evade the undersea boat but the latter dropped a shell through a skylight into the steamer's engine room, putting the engines out of action. The Armenian then surrendered.

Lifeboats were lowered and the crew and some seventy mule-tenders, nearly all Americans, scrambled into them.

As one of the boats was being lowered a shell from the submarine cut the falls of the boat. The occupants were spilled into the water and presumably were drowned.

Five boats loaded with survivors got away. The submarine then fired two topedoes into the Armenian and the vessel sank within thirty minutes.

The survivors rowed around in the boats till Tuesday morning when a steam trawler landed them at Avonmouth.

No Help Offered.

Cardiff, Wales, July 1.—Survivors of the sunken Armenian arriving here say that the German submarine ran close to the drowning men, who had been thrown into the water by a capsizing boat, but that the crew of the submarine did not attempt to rescue any of them.

May Cause Complications.

Washington, July 1.—Officials of the Washington government hope to receive today further details concerning the torpedoing of the British freight steamer Armenian, which was sunk off the coast of Cornwall last Monday with the loss of nearly a score of Americans, most of them muleteers.

In many quarters the sinking of the vessel was regarded as likely to add further complications to the correspondence pending between Germany and the United States over the question of submarine warfare.

Twenty-nine Lost.

The Dominion freight liner Armenian, flying the British flag, was carrying mules from Newport News, Va., to England. Twenty-nine men in all were lost and ten injured.

The news created a sensation in official quarters, as it was the first case of loss of American lives since the sinking of the Lusitania. In the absence of information on these points, officials declined to say what effect the sinking of the Armenian would have on pending negotiations between the United States and Germany. Immediate inquiry was directed, however, to Ambassador Page at London to secure more details and when Secretary Lansing returns tomorrow, Ambassador Gerard will be instructed to inquire of the German admiralty as to its reports.

Mules Contraband.

Mules are contraband of war, according to all lists of the belligerents, so there can be no doubt as to the contraband character of the Armenian's cargo. Officials will make an effort to learn, however, whether the vessel was armed and whether she was a part of the British naval forces, before the opinion of the state department on the case will be disclosed.

Those missing from the Armenian are: E. Williamson, St. Louis; J. M. Monroe, New Orleans; B. M. Granberry, Montgomery, Ala.; S. R. Sutton, Carterville, Va.; Harry Stone, New York city; ——— Brown (cattle carpenter), Harrisburg, Pa.; Dr. J. S. Viso, Porto Rico; R. K. Brooks or West (chief foreman of muleteers), London (naturalized American); Henry, Leroy, Jackson and Speed, Richmond Va.; Wall, Foley and Little, Newport News, Va.; King, Small, Rickert and Oakes, Norfolk, Va.; Smith, Portsmouth, Va., (all negro muleteers).

would give evidence "not to the credit of the company or the admiralty."

"Doesn't that imply you wanted money to keep your mouth closed?" asked Baron Mersey.

The witness explained that he meant he would bring a separate action apart from the inquiry unless he was paid, but he denied that he remained silent at the inquiry for that reason.

"I don't believe you," declared Lord Mersey.

The witness expressed indignation at such an interpretation of the letter, but the presiding officer was unyielding and the professor left the stand in high anger.

Chief Carpenter Robinson on being re-examined said he himself had removed the lashings on eight life boats and saw the remainder were being attended to by stewards. He believed all the boats floated after the ship sank.

Capt. Turner, commander of the Lusitania, on being called, was asked whether there were Canadian or other troops aboard the vessel. He replied promptly:

"None whatever."

A board of trade expert testified that a distance of 150 feet, with two bulkheads, separated the hold where the empty shell cases were stowed, and the nearest point struck by the torpedo. This testimony ended the inquiry.

the Germans and Austro-Hungarians evidently are making toward that city.

Along the northern line the Austro-Germans appear to be experiencing the greatest success, for the Russians seem to be making a stubborn fight along the Gnila Lipa, while retreating generally between the Vistula and Bug rivers toward Lublin.

In the west both sides have attacked in the Argonne forest and beyond the Meuse hills without decisive result. The fighting of the past fortnight has been without permanent result, except in the Vosges, where the French have consolidated substantial gains.

From Vienna the Italians are reported to be showing renewed energy along the Isonzo river, they having brought up more men and guns, but no decisive action is reported.

French Statement.

Paris, July 1, 2:38 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of hostilities which reads as follows:

"Last night passed quietly in the north, in the vicinity of Arras, and as far as Champagne. The German attack in the Argonne reported yesterday, was particularly violent. It is estimated that the forces engaged amounted to two divisions. This attack, however, was checked. Furthermore, two fresh movements against our trenches at the east of the Benarville road were repulsed.

"Another violent attack delivered by the Germans in the vicinity of Metzeral has been completely checked. The Germans suffered important losses."

rounded the Federal building, unable to gain admittance, dispersed rapidly.

Although the chief interest here today centered in the case of Gen. Huerta in the Federal court, much interest had developed in the news of the fighting south of Aguas Calientes. Villa reported last night that he had broken Carranza's offensive movement by getting to the rear of his enemy at Lagos.

Took Many Prisoners.

After hard fighting, Villa officials said, they drove Gen. Benjamin Hill's men into a retreat towards noon. Officially it was announced that Villa captured many prisoners, two field pieces and caused Hill to abandon three trains, which were burned, however, before the Villa forces could get to them.

This victory and the reports that Zapata had been able to check the advance of Gen. Pablo Gonzales at the outskirts of Mexico City caused Villa's partisans here to believe the turning point in the struggle with Carranza was near at hand.

Miguel Diaz Lombardo, Villa's minister of foreign affairs, expects to leave today for Washington to place before President Wilson a plan to establish peace in Mexico. He is expected to suggest that a commission of men selected from the ranks of both Carranza and Villa be named to choose a provisional president.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask Boyce Drug company, your druggist, for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

EXPLOSION PROVES FATAL

H. J. Reynolds, Lake Engineer, Killed When Carbonic Tank Bursts.

Flying Pieces of Metal Also Injure Other Members of Crew.

Flying pieces of metal from an exploding carbonic gas tank yesterday afternoon killed H. J. Reynolds, chief engineer of the steamer Thomas Walters, seriously injured Fireman Henry Burkhardt and wrecked the after cabin and steering gear of the ship.

The Walters had just finished unloading a cargo of coal at the Reiss Dock No. 4 on Superior bay, and was moored there waiting to shift to an ore dock, when the explosion occurred. Crosby Irish, second engineer, was cut about the face and arms, as were several other members of the crew who were near the tank when it exploded.

Engineer Reynolds was connecting the tank with the ice machine, and it is believed that in hammering the tank he generated a high pressure. He had been employed by Jones & Laughlin, owners of the Walters, for fifteen years and is survived by his wife. His home is at 1417 West Sixty-first street, Cleveland. Burkhardt lives at 9710 Ogden avenue, Cleveland.

Metal Perforates Men.

When the tank burst, it scattered fragments of metal like a shrapnel shell, literally sweeping the deck clear and filling the bodies of the two men with bits of metal. One large piece lodged in the lung of the chief engineer and was the direct cause of death.

In response to an emergency call from the dock, Doctors V. E. Eklund, John Baird, W. H. Schnell and O. S. Knoe were rushed to the scene of the accident in an ambulance. The two men, with the second engineer, were lowered on stretchers fastened to the davits and taken to St. Francis hospital. The chief engineer died at 6:30 o'clock last night without regaining consciousness, and Fireman Burkhardt was reported to be improving this morning.

Steamer to Shipyard.

Tugs took the Walters to the Superior shipyards and work of repairing the damage will start today, as soon as insurance adjusters finish their examination of the vessel and investigate the cause of the explosion.

When members of the crew searched the stern quarters they discovered that in the dining room farthest from the spot were the tank burst, the tables and chairs had been transformed into kindling wood. All dishes in the galley were lost and piping and machinery in the stern will have to be replaced.

The Walters arrived here Tuesday night.

occupation of the city by Carranza troops, although all rolling stock at Vera Cruz has been pressed into military service and a large shipment of relief supplies of the American Red Cross for Pachucha has been held up for lack of cars. Reports from Vera Cruz said it was hoped the shipment would go forward today, indicating that the troop movements had been finished. If this is true a battle for possession of the city may now be in progress. Much concern is felt for the safety of the 20,000 or more foreigners, including many Americans.

Urging Evacuation.

Advices from the Carranza government to its agencies here say Gen. Gonzales has been instructed to use every effort to induce the Zapata troops to evacuate the capital without endangering non-combatants. The Zapata forces are said to number 25,000 men.

At the Villa agency no word of conditions in Mexico City was received. Gen. Felipe Angeles, one of Villa's military chiefs here, endeavoring to learn the purposes of this government toward Mexico, said the agency was compelled to rely upon state department reports.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE
by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Frank" writes: "Please prescribe for me. A friend of mine told me to write you and you would help me, as you had helped him. I have fever and constant headaches, dizziness, my eyes are yellow and dull. I urinate often, but very little at a time, and it is of an offensive odor. I can't sleep good any more and have pains in small of my back."

Answer: Your trouble is with your kidneys. You need something to liven them up and a tonic to make them strong. You will find just what you require in balmwort tablets. I always recommend them for diseased kidneys and they seldom fail to give excellent results. They come in tubes, ready for use.

"Friend" asks: "What can I take to clean my blood and make it pure? I am constipated and my complexion is bad."

Answer: Your system requires a good blood purifier and laxative. I have always recommended three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). They are laxative; aid digestion, and purify and tone the blood. Get your digestion and blood right and you'll have the basis of good health right there.

"Barber" asks: "Please tell me if there is anything I may use to rid the scalp of dandruff, stop falling hair, itching scalp and promote a natural gloss and color to the hair?"

Answer: The best hair tonic I know of and one I have recommended in my practice several years to stop dandruff, itching scalp and promote hair growth will be found in the use of plain yellow minyol. Thousands have used it with great success.

"Too Large" writes: "I am much too large. I weigh nearly 185 pounds and would like to reduce about 40 pounds."

Answer: Five-grain arbolone tablets are the most reliable, harmless flesh reducers I have ever used in my practice. They have given satisfaction to scores of my patients.

"Office" writes: "If I don't soon get something to make me strong, build me up and give me a new lease on life and ambition I'll not be able to continue my work. I'm overtired, feel weary, and my work and play are irksome. I'm nervous and have a kind of drawing pain at the base of my brain. I am restless and unrefreshed after a night's sleep."

Answer: Your condition appears to be due to overwork, worry, excesses, dissipation or some other such cause. You need a powerful, stimulating tonic and builder. Your system is run down and wants new vigor and nerve force. Three-grain cadomene tablets are just what you require to give the proper vim, spring and life to your entire system and make your mind clear and active.

"Slender" writes: "I'm so slender my clothes just hang on. I should weigh, for my height, 25 pounds more."

Answer: To become stout and have a well-rounded figure I recommend the use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets. They are the most wonderful flesh producers I could suggest. You may increase your weight until you have gained the right proportions and then discontinue their use.

BANKS MUST PAVE THE WAY

Urged to Expand Trade in South America and Orient.

Duluth was well represented at the state bankers' convention in St. Paul the early part of the week. Those attending from this city were H. S. McGregor, City National bank; W. J. Johnson, assistant cashier, First National bank, and J. W. Lyder, cashier, Northern National bank.

Expansion of American trade in South America and the Orient will never be of large proportions until after the bankers of the United States have paved the way by establishing credits as a basis. This was the keynote of the speech made by John J. Arnold, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago. Greater trade with South America, Japan and China was urged by Mr. Arnold, and he advocated the establishment of branch banks abroad through the agency of the Federal reserve bank act.

Large branch banks should be established to take care of American trade that may be developed in those countries, Mr. Arnold declared. He explained that it will never be necessary to have the money really paid in, but that it will be available in case of emergency, and the credit will be established which will promote trade.

George E. Allen of New York, educational director of the American Institute of Banking, spoke on the work of that institution. The work of banking, he said, has become so simplified, especially in the smaller banks, that the general public has become familiar with the business and as a consequence a stronger bond of friendship and confidence has grown up between the banker and his customers.

Charles W. Farnham, St. Paul attorney, speaking on the subject, "Reflections on Banks and Bankers," praised the high character of the present-day banker and emphasized the confidential relations existing between the financiers of the nation and the people. The bank has become a necessity even in the small hamlet, he said, and the bankers in the small villages are looked on as the confidential advisers of the community.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VIRGINIA EXPECTS VERY FINE PARADE

Street Pageant Next Monday to Eclipse All Former Events.

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fourth of July committee has secured the Mathieson building on Chestnut street and will fit it up for a rest room July 5, when Virginia will celebrate Independence day. A man and his wife will be in charge of the rest room, making all visitors welcome and comfortable.

The peanuts and goodies to be given away by the Fourth of July committee will probably be handled through the rest room.

At a meeting of the Fourth of July committee last evening the program in its entirety was arranged and the posters are being printed. The program will consist of a parade, athletic events, a speech, invocation and benediction and in the evening the fireworks.

Expect Fine Parade.

The parade will be exceptionally fine, the floats and decorations exceeding anything seen in previous years. The sports program is good, the prizes are numerous and the events will be interesting.

The speech of the day will be given by Julius Schmahl, secretary of state. Rev. W. J. Power will give the benediction. In the evening the large display of fireworks, which will surpass anything of the nature ever seen on the range, will be given. A log rolling contest will feature the program of the evening. It will be held in Silver lake. Entries in this event are numerous. It is to be between amateurs, most of whom will come from the woods north of this city.

MESABA RANGE OLD RESIDENT CALLED

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. N. Peterson, a pioneer resident of the Mesaba range and of Eveleth, died at his home here on Jackson street, about 4:30 o'clock this morning of apoplexy following an attack of pneumonia. He had been ill of the lung affliction since the funeral about a week ago of his 20-year-old son, George, and had about recovered when he was taken suddenly ill of apoplexy last night and died this morning.

Leaves Five Children.

Mr. Peterson was 42 years old, a widower, his wife having died a few years ago, and is survived by five children. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Presbyterian church, Rev. O. D. Cannon, pastor of the M. E. church, officiating. The services will be at the Presbyterian church because the Methodist edifice is being repaired.

Mr. Peterson was for years engaged in lumbering and mining and owned considerable property here including some mining property. He was the second recorder of the village of Eveleth in 1898 when the town was moved to its present site. He came here in 1895 from Mountain Iron where he lived for three years. He was proud of the growth of the city and always took an interest in its civic advancement.

MOOSE PICNIC TO BE LARGE AFFAIR

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Moose picnic, aimed to be the biggest thing of its kind ever pulled off on the Mesaba range, will be given Aug. 15 at Longyear lake. The picnic by the combined Moose lodges of Hibbing, Chisholm, Buhl, Virginia, Eveleth, Ely, Proctor, Duluth and Superior, comprising in all some 4,000 members.

There will be a band contest which will have as entrants every musical organization on the entire range, Duluth and Superior, in addition to all the other out-door amusements that go with picnics.

State Auditor J. A. O. Preus will be the principal speaker. Mayor Power of Hibbing, ex-Senator Boyle of Eveleth and many other prominent men will also take part.

LADY'S DAY SATURDAY.

Fair Sex Will Be Admitted Free at Hibbing-Chisholm Contest.

Hibbing, Minn., July1 .—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday will be lady's day at the ball game to be played then between Hibbing and Chisholm, according to an announcement made today.

It is expected that this will mean a large attendance at the contest which is attracting unusual attention.

EVELETH YOUNG MEN INAUGURATE NEW CLUB

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Wapahnakee club opened today its suite of rooms in the Rabinowitz building. The club consists of eight young men who will room and board at the building. Four additional men will take meals at the club.

Miss Guthrie, formerly matron of the University club in Minneapolis, will be matron.

T. F. Lynch is the club's president; G. H. Murray, vice president, and L. E. Johnson, secretary and treasurer. Other members are P. J. Boyle, C. A. Mather, Ben S. Ash, Dr. F. T. Farley and R. S. Nelson.

CHISHOLM IDLE MEN TO GET JOBS

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. A. W. Graham appeared before the council yesterday afternoon and requested that the services of Assistant Health Officer Herman Tetzlaff be retained for at least two months longer, as during the summer months he is most needed. It was suggested by Trustee Ulrich that Andrew Haglund be allowed to go and Tetzlaff retained. Dr. Graham suggested that Haglund was a good man for his job and should be retained. The matter went over until next meeting.

Mines to Give Work.

President Fugere stated that he was told by the vice president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, Pentecost Mitchell, that the Chisholm, Pearce and Leonard-Burt pit mines would be opened in a week or ten days and that these mines would take on all the men laid off by the village.

All bids on an addressograph were rejected and the certified checks ordered returned to the bidders.

Policemen Laid Off.

At an executive meeting of the council held Monday it was decided, report says, to lay off four policemen for thirty days. The men will be laid off in batches of four so that each will lose ninety days in the year. This plan was adopted in preference to laying off half the force as suggested by some of the council members earlier in the year. The men were called together by Chief of Police Bergeron Tuesday and informed of the plan, the men accepting the idea in lieu of dismissal.

GREANEY DIVORCE CASE CONTINUED

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The June term of district court was brought to a close yesterday after continuing exactly thirty days. The majority of the cases on the calendar have been disposed of and the number continued is unusually small.

Desire More Testimony.

The case of Marie Evelyn Kelly vs. Albert K. Kelly was held over for further testimony. The divorce case of Mary Johanna Greaney vs. Patrick Greaney was continued to the Virginia term. A divorce was denied Abbie C. French from her husband, William H. French, because their residence was found to be in Canada.

MOOSE IS KILLED IN CITY LIMITS

Two Harbors, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large moose was killed by a southbound Iron Range ore train last evening near the Seventh avenue bridge, within the city limits.

The animal was dazed by the strong electric headlight and remained standing on the track until it was struck.

Several moose and many deer have been seen close to the city during the last few days. The flies are getting very bad in the woods and the deer and moose come close to the city and the lake to get away from the flies.

FORMER ELYITE DIES.

Matt Koski, Who Moved Onto Embarrass Farm, Is Called.

Ely, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Koski, who conducted a saloon here on Central avenue up until a few months ago, died at Embarrass Tuesday afternoon of pulmonary tuberculosis. Mr. Koski had been in poor health for some time. He became worse a few months ago and rented a farm at Embarrass in the hope of getting relief through outdoor life. Mr. Koski was 33 years of age and is survived by his widow.

The body was brought here yesterday and the funeral will be held Sunday afternoon. Rev. Jacob Tirsi will officiate. Mr. Koski was a member of the Moose lodge and the Finnish Accident and Sick Benefit association. The lodges will have charge of the funeral. Interment will be in the Ely cemetery.

EXPENSIVE MOOSE MEAT.

Well-to-Do Ellensberg Man Fined $25 for Illegal Hunting.

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden George Wood yesterday arrested Peyton O'Marra, proprietor of a hotel at Ellesberg, Minn., and one of the biggest property holders in the town, for having moose meat in his possession. O'Marra pleaded guilty before Judge James Carey here last evening and was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $27.50 in all. The meat was confiscated by Wood.

TWO HARBORS FANS PROMISED THRILLERS

Two Harbors, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local baseball fans will see two good games here July 4 and 5, when the fast Virginia ball team will meet the Gopher team of this city. The locals will line up as follows: McDonald, catcher; Griffin and Roberts, pitchers; Woodward, first base; Harry Johnson, second base; But Ginter, third base; Zirath, shortstop; Henry Olson, left field; A. Johnson, center field; Gustafson, right field. The ball game will be one of the main attractions on the Fourth of July program, which will be held on Monday, July 5.

EVELETH NOTES.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. E. Sholund, the Fayal band musician, who composed the "Eagle March," played the first time in public at the Eagles' convention here, will have the piece copyrighted.

The installation of mains to conduct steam from the Home Electric & Heating company's plant to various parts of the city is one of the most interesting pieces of work ever done in the city.

Held to Grand Jury.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—Thomas Evans, age 34, arrested on a statutory charge waived examination in municipal court and was bound over to the grand jury.

Chisholm Tag Day.

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Those in charge of raising funds to support the M. E. church have decided upon having a tag day on Monday, July 5. Handsomely arranged tags have been prepared.

CHISHOLM WORK TO RELIEVE SITUATION

Announcement of Increased Mine Force Helps Whole Range.

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement that the Oliver Iron Mining company will put more men to work in the Chisholm district to relieve the labor situation at Chisholm, causes no little gratification here and at other points as it will mean the employment of many idle men. It is announced that the Glen mine at Chisholm which has not been operated for three years will be worked to capacity.

It was also announced that the Leonard-Burt mine, an open pit, a compound mine owned by the Steel corporation and Arthur Iron Mining company, will resume shipping operations. One shovel will be operated in this mine. This mine is on a forty belonging to the Great Northern Mining company.

The Chisholm mine, a large mine in the city limits of Chisholm will also open within the next few days. It will employ more than 100 men.

All of the men to be employed in these mines must be Chisholm men according to an agreement arrived at by the mining company officials and President Fugere of the Chisholm council.

Opening New Mine.

A new mine is being opened within the limits of Chisholm in section 27. One hundred men are employed in preparing it for operation. It is to be an underground property. A steel and concrete shaft is being constructed and tracks laid and the levels established. The greater number of those employed there at present are engineers. The new mine is to be opened by the Oliver Iron Mining company. It is expected that it will be ready for shipping before fall.

IRON RANGE SHOPS NOW ON FULL TIME

Two Harbors, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commencing today the Iron Range railroad will work all shops six days per week instead of only five days, as has been the practice since early last fall.

The work in all departments has picked up to such an extent that it was found necessary to increase the work to full time.

The paint and car shops have been working full time for the last month, but the new order affects the machine shops, boiler shops and air shop.

SMALL ELY FIRE

Results When Pot of Paint Is Placed on Range.

Ely, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire department was called out about 10 o'clock yesterday morning to Henry Koski's boarding house on West Sheridan street. Mrs. Koski was housecleaning and had placed a pail of paint on the kitchen range. The paint ignited and the fire at first looked as though it would be serious, but some of the boarders quickly extinguished the flames before the fire department arrived.

MARRIED IN IDAHO.

Former Ely Young Woman Is Wedded in West.

Ely, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Elvirae Karlberg and James McKee were married June 17 at Blackfoot, Idaho. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Oscar Anderson of this city, and until a few years ago resided here with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee will make their home at Blackfoot, Idaho, where the groom holds a responsible position.

Moved to Duluth.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—Mrs. Frank Parker and daughter of Superior street left for Duluth where they will join their husband and father and make that city their permanent home. Mr. Parker conducts a cigar store in Duluth. The Parkers have been residents of Hibbing for the past twelve years.

Ely Man Injured.

Ely, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Skogland had a chunk of ice fall on his left hand, injuring it, and he will be laid up for some time before resuming work at the St. Croix Lumber & Manufacturing company's headquarters.

Visiting Chisholm Doctor.

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. C. F. Yates is entertaining his mother, Mrs. R. P. Yates of Sleepy Eye and niece, Miss Naomi Mueller of New Ulm, who arrived Tuesday evening and will remain several weeks.

Chisholm Child Hurt.

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 3-year-old son of Frank Naglch was slightly injured Tuesday when he was struck by an auto truck, while crossing Hemlock street.

Hibbing "Ghost Walks."

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—Village employes of the water and light board will be paid before the Fourth so they can have spending money, the members of the board having met today and passed the payroll.

Land Michigan Contract.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—Kilbride & Forristel, local contractors, have been awarded a contract for cement work at Wakefield, Mich., worth $15,000. They will begin work there at once.

FEDERATION OF FARMERS' CLUBS

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers' club people are planning to make use of the state fair this fall for a series of conferences at which the principal subjects of discussion will be the plan for a state federation of farmers' clubs.

At the farmers' and home-makers' short course, which was held at the Minnesota college of agriculture last January, the question of organizing such a federation was taken up. While sentiment seemed to favor such a union, it was decided wiser to postpone action until short course week next January, leaving the matter to be investigated by a committee in the meantime. This committee met a few days ago and decided upon a series of conferences at the state fair to be held every afternoon, except Saturday, at 4 o'clock.

The subject for Monday will be "Farmers' Clubs and What They Have Done;" Tuesday, "County Federation of Farmers' Clubs and County Farm Bureaus;" Wednesday, "What State Federation of Farmers' Clubs Can Do for Minnesota;" Thursday, "Is a State Federation of Farmers' Clubs Desirable?" Friday, "Farmers' Clubs and What They Will Do Next Winter."

All of these discussions will be lead by members of farmers' clubs. It is expected that through this conference sentiment will be crystallized in the subject of federation, and that by the same means members of farmers' clubs throughout the state will gather inspiration for the promotion of great work in their several communities.

An Easy Way to Increase Weight

Good Advice for Thin Folks.

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aids through its regenerative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient.

Store and other leading druggists of Duluth and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

FEDERAL LOAN PLAN NOT APPLIED HERE

In approving of a rate of 3 per cent for loans of ten days' maturity at the Federal reserve banks at New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and St. Louis, a new departure has been taken by that board.

The subject of establishing such a rate was discussed at the recent conference of Federal reserve bank governors at Chicago, and the idea met with approval. In the opinion of the board the introduction of the plan just at the beginning of the crop-moving season may result in extending material assistance to banks which desire special accommodation for very short periods. The short-term rate is believed likely to be an effective substitute for call loans based on collateral, and is in line with the policy of the board, heretofore established, of progressively decreasing the rate of discount as the maturity of the paper presented is shortened and as its liquidity correspondingly increases. The new plan will, it is thought, be particularly useful to banks that are members of the clearing system and desire from time to time to obtain short-term accommodation for the maintenance of their balances with the reserve banks.

No action has as yet been mooted regarding the establishing of a similar rate for short date loans at the Minneapolis regional bank, but it is believed that if the conditions warrant such a step when the crop movement begins this fall, such special accommodation may also be afforded there. It is noted that Duluth banks were able to finance the requirements of their customers during the height of the crop-moving period last year without recounting at the regional bank. As was shown in their statements of conditions this week, the local financial institutions are exceptionally strong in cash and liquid resources.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

PARTLY CLOUDY

Two whole perfect days! And today starting out as though it means to make it a triple play! Nothing could be much more delightful than the weather this morning, for the air is bracing, the sun is just warm enough, there is no wind to speak of—in short it is typical of the real brand of Duluth weather. Past delinquencies can well be forgotten when this kind of weather arrives, for Duluth's climate has a habit of making up for any unfortunate features in a way that makes the inhabitants of this region forgiving.

A year ago today was rainy. The sun rose this morning at 4:17 and will set this evening at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Moderately warm to rather hot weather prevails in nearly all districts. Temperatures 90 degrees or higher occurred Wednesday in the extreme South, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and Oregon. During the last twenty-four hours showers fell over the Northwest, the Central valleys and Atlantic states; Boston, Mass., reported 2:84 inches."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 1.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler tonight.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Friday; preceded by unsettled in east portion; cooler in east and north portions tonight.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler in north and west portions tonight.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler in east and central portions tonight.

South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Friday; cooler in east and central portions tonight.

Montana—Fair tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature.

Upper and Lower Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Friday.

CATHOLIC EDUCATORS WINDING UP MEETING

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Business sessions of the various departments occupied the attention today of the delegates to the Catholic Educational association, which concludes a four-day convention here tonight.

The following officers were elected: President general, Rt. Rev. T. J. Shahan, D. D., Washington, D. C.; vice presidents general, Rev. James A. Burns, C. S. C., Washington, D. C.; Rev. F. P. Siegfried, D. D., Overbrook, Pa., and Rt. Rev. Mgr. J. A. Connolly, V. G., St. Louis; secretary general, Rev. Francis W. Howard, Columbus, Ohio, and treasurer general, Rev. Francis T. Moran, D. D., Cleveland.

Can't Endure Without Religion.

"Knowledge is a power for the good of the individual and society only when steadied by a will thoroughly consolidated in virtue and religion. This thought is at the very root of the whole educational system of the Catholic church."

This explanation of the purpose of the Catholic church schools was given last night by the Rt. Rev. John P. Carroll, D. D., bishop of Helena, Mont., who spoke at a public meeting of the association. A special invitation to attend last night's session was extended to non-Catholics by Archbishop Ireland.

SHOOTS AT PATRON WHO OWED HIM BILL

International Falls, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a special meeting of the city council held last evening the liquor license of John Harrison was revoked because Mr. Harrison conducted the place in a disorderly manner. It developed that Mr. Harrison shot at Robert McCleary in his saloon Tuesday morning, McCleary, who is employed as sawyer at the mill here, with three companions went into the International saloon about 6:20 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, according to the testimony of all four men, and obtained a drink.

Mr. McCleary asked Harrison to cash a check for $17.50, which Harrison consented to do, but immediately "bumped" onto McCleary about a bill of $1.25, which Harrison declared had been standing for some time. McCleary said that he did not remember it but would pay it if shown that he owed it.

Called Foul Names.

Whereupon, so the men declare, Harrison called McCleary several foul names and struck him on the nose. While the injured man was wiping off the blood the saloon keeper threw a club at him and missed him. He then, it is said, grabbed up a revolver and shot at McCleary, who was running through the door. At the council meeting last night Harrison flatly denied the affair as told by the others, but was put out of business.

MAY VISIT RAINY LAKE ON HONEYMOON

International Falls, Minn., July 1.—A report is current here that the daughter of Speaker Champ Clark, who was married yesterday to Editor Thomson of New Orleans at Bowling Green, Mo., will come here and spend part of their honeymoon on Rainy lake with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Backus in the latter's houseboat. This story is given strength by the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Backus and their son, Seymour, were at the Clark-Thomson wedding yesterday, being old friends of the Clark family.

P. O. EMPLOYES BEGIN VACATIONS

Ideal weather and vacation time combined to make employes at the Duluth postoffice happy today. Each employe in the office will be given a fifteen-day vacation with full pay, according to Postmaster William E. McEwen. The vacation period will continue until July 1, 1916, during which time a certain number of employes will be given lay-offs in shifts.

Because of the rush during the first half of the month, only one clerk in the city distributing and one in the outgoing mail departments are allowed to be off duty. During the last half of the month, three men from each of these departments are given their vacations. Substitutes are furnished the carriers.

There are seventy-eight carriers, fifty-four clerks, eight supervising officers, and thirty-five railway mail clerks working out of the Duluth postoffice. Each year the government pays the postoffice clerks in the Duluth office $2,400 "vacation" money and the carriers receive $3,600 for their "days off," Mr. McEwen said yesterday.

ADVISES SCHOOL FOR DEFECTIVES

Mentally deficient children, including the deaf and mute, will be enrolled in special classes, with expert teachers and an independent building, if recommendations of its committee on schools are approved by the board of education.

Blind children will not be taught in these classes, as a preliminary survey has shown that there are not enough children without sight to warrant a class. The matter will come up for discussion at the monthly board meeting tomorrow night.

"Two specially trained teachers will be employed, if our plan is accepted," said Mrs. T. J. Davis, chairman of the committee. "The classes will be conducted in one of the schools located in the central part of the city, or in an independent building.

"We already have the names of thirty children who can be enrolled in the special class for defectives," she declared.

Aside from this matter and that of the annual school election, July 17, a large amount of routine business will come up tomorrow night, according to Clerk C. A. Bronson.

SMITH GUILTY OF BATHTUB DEATHS

London, July 1.—A verdict of guilty was brought in by the jury today in the case of George Joseph Smith who was charged with the murder of three of his wives. It had been alleged by the crown that Smith had killed his wives while they were in their baths, and had collected insurance money on their lives. Smith was sentenced to death.

FORTY MINES CLOSED IN JOPLIN DISTRICT

Joplin, Mo., July 1.—More than forty mines in Webb City and Joplin now are shut down, the result of the strike of lead and zinc miners. Those closed today were among the heaviest producers of the Joplin district and the week's output of ore will be greatly curtailed. Three thousand men or more are out of employment.

A meeting here last night, the first held in Joplin by the strikers, was addressed by leaders of a movement to organize an independent union. At the meeting it was agreed to march upon other mines at Joplin today, demanding that they close. Operators have predicted that if the strike continues there will be but few mines in Southwest Missouri operating by the end of the week.

Miners of the Joplin district have never before been affiliated with labor organizations and no foreign classes have been employed in the mines. Leaders say they will attempt to organize locals in every city of the district. They are opposing affiliation with the Western Federation of Miners.

The first effect of three days' strike to be felt by Joplin operators came today when the mines of ten big producers were closed. At one place two foreigners were found working and the strikers asked them to leave the workings, with promise to leave the district as soon as possible.

AUSTRIANS BLUFFED BY ITALIAN OFFICER

Geneva, Switzerland, via Paris, July 1.—A dispatch from Laibach, Austria, to the Geneva Tribune reports the capture by Italians of a mountain fortress at Coni Sugna, 2,500 meters northeast of Alajala, in Trentino, which cost the Austrians $800,000 to construct.

The correspondent characterizes the capture as an "audacious affair." He states that an Italian captain with 100 men climbed the steep slope and demanded that the garrison surrender, saying that the fortress was surrounded, which was a bluff, and the garrison capitulated. Concerning other operations, the dispatch says:

"The Italians on the Carnic frontier captured three passes in the Alps yesterday. The Austrians have begun not only resisting, but attacking and the battle around Gorizia is a bloody one, both sides using heavy guns and there being many infantry counter-attacks.

"There is every evidence that the Italians are meeting strong organized forces, especially on the Isonzo, and are still a long way from Triest, although they are within twenty miles of Monfalcone."

OLD TESTIMONY READ IN HARRY THAW TRIAL

New York, July 1.—Transcripts of the testimony given in Harry K. Thaw's two trials for killing Stanford White to prove that he was insane were in the possession of state's attorneys today and preparation had been made to introduce liberal extracts in his sanity trial now in progress. Reading the evidence given by Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, his mother, in the second trial had not been concluded when the court adjourned yesterday and was continued today. Mrs. Thaw in the portions of her story read to the jury told of her son's early life, his eccentric actions just prior to the killing of White and of the insanity taint which affected some of Thaw's relatives.

SPEEDY FORCING OF STRAITS IMPOSSIBLE

London, July 1.—After a trip under Turkish auspices along the whole line of forts guarding the Dardanelles, the Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Telegraph declares that it is impossible to expect a speedy forcing of the straits by the allies.

"The Turks have taken advantage of the past three months to increase immensely their defensive resources until the whole path which the Franco-Britains must travel is one great fortress bristling with artillery, crowded with troops excellently trained, well equipped and undeniably brave," says the correspondent. "The presence of numerous German officers and men is a guarantee that all the preparations are being made with Teutonic thoroughness."

ALLEGES BRIBE WAS OFFERED HIM

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—Representative Thomas Tollefson of West Concord, Minn., is on his way here, it is said, to tell to the proper authorities his story of the alleged attempt made to give him $200 to vote for H. H. Flowers for speaker of the house.

Minneapolis men who are opposed to county option in Hennepin county said that it looked as if the Tollefson story had been introduced at this time to prejudice the vote at the option election which is regarded as certain to take place here.

Bunney County May Act.

Up to date none of the authorities has signified any particular desire to listen to the story of the West Concord representative, but Mr. Tollefson unquestionably will get an audience from the Hennepin county officials.

Mr. Tollefson did not "spring" the alleged bribe story himself and had no intention of giving it publicity at this time, he said, but C. J. Buell, speaking before two Minneapolis meetings this week, said that Mr. Tollefson was offered bribe money and added that somebody had been offered $5,000 to vote against county option. In this latter connection he gave no names.

SWINDLERS ARE STUNG.

Draft They Secured From Minnesotan in Fake Horse Race Not Paid.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—The two men arrested in Chicago charged with swindling William Beyers out of $5,000 on a "fake" horse race did not succeed in getting Beyers' money, according to the Minneapolis police. Beyers is a farmer of Minnesota Lake, Minn., and the two men pretended they wanted to buy his land. He agreed to sell, but they insisted he must come here to have the papers drawn up. While in Minneapolis he was induced to invest in the "fake" horse race, but his suspicions were aroused and the police were notified. The $5,000 draft he gave the men was conceled. The strangers left town so suddenly that their baggage was abandoned.

COLUMBUS, N. D. SUICIDE.

No Explanation for Act of Agent for Elevator Company.

Columbus, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Lofgren, aged 28, agent for an elevator company here, killed himself by drinking strychnine.

He had been in the local position about six years and had made a good record with the company. A few days prior to his suicide an examination of his books showed his accounts were in first-class condition and the cause of his action has not been determined.

Lofgren locked himself in his rooms and took the poison, so it was three days before he was found.

ST. PAUL MERCHANT'S WIFE DIES SUDDENLY

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—Mrs. William L. Goodkind, wife of the secretary and treasurer of Mannheimer Bros., died suddenly of paralysis.

She complained of a pain in the head yesterday morning, and at noon she was stricken. Police surgeons made a hurried trip to the home, 5 Heather place, with a pulmotor, which was used for twenty-five minutes, but the victim could not be revived.

Mrs. Goodkind had been ill for some time. Three weeks ago she returned from Mound Park sanatorium. She was 53 years old.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NEW LAWS IN NORTH DAKOTA

Two Hundred and Seventy New Measures Now Effective in State.

Board of Regents and State Budget System Laws Most Important.

Fargo, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakotans are endeavoring to familiarize themselves with the 270 new laws which became effective today.

One of them went into effect March 5 and three are reported to have been held up by the referendum. One of these is the terminal elevator 1-mill tax, another is that imposing additional penalties on certain violations of the prohibition law.

The other measure purported to have been referended is the immigration bill, which provided for an appropriation during the biennial period of $60,000 for the purpose of securing new immigrants for the state.

Because of the new provision requiring separate votes on emergency clauses, many of the measures to which the emergency clause was supposed to have been attached did not become a law until today, as the right method of enacting emergency clauses was not discovered till about the hour the session adjourned and was then applied only to the budget appropriations.

Board of Regents Law.

The board of regents measure is regarded as one of the best measures the legislature enacted. It provides that a board of five, none of whom are salaried, shall supersede the present state normal board, in charge of three normals, and the five individual boards in charge of the other state educational institutions, along the same lines as the state board of control has cared for the state penal and charitable institutions during the past four years. This board will engage an educational commissioner to suggest better methods of simplying the state's educational system and eliminating the duplication now alleged in the different institutions and to arrange a more economic plan of educating the youth of the state. It will also select a secretary to have charge of the office work and general charge of the business end of all the educational institutions under the direction of the board of regents.

The state budget system of arranging for the appropriations is another advanced step that is expected to look to economy and climinate the old log-rolling appropriations for the different institutions. It provides for the creating of a budget commission, which shall submit to the legislature estimated appropriations for everything, so this information will be in the hands of the members at the opening of the session. It is expected to prove popular and effective.

New Game Laws.

To the sportsmen of the state an exceptionally interesting piece of legislation was the repeal of the old amended and patched-up game laws and the enactment of an entire new measure that codifies all the old laws, amends other sections and enacts a lot of new legislation. Among the latter is an adaptation of the anti-alien gun law of Pennsylvania. It will absolutely prohibit a foreign-born resident of North Dakota, who has not been naturalized, or who has not applied for citizenship, from carrying either a shotgun or rifle. The new game law also provides for the establishment of game refuges for both wild land and water fowl, for the establishment of game farms, and contains many enforcement features that will make the law more effective.

Abolish Capital Punishment.

Examining boards were created for professional nurses and for chiropractors, capital punishment was abolished, drastic legislation opposed to carrying concealed weapons was enacted, a provision for extension work of the agricultural college in co-operation with the Federal Lever bill was passed, the prohibition law was strengthened, there was new legislation regarding the mutual rights of husband and wife and the banking laws were changed to provide more restrictions.

Many of the bills were of an amendatory or remedial character and while some of them were of state-wide importance, the majority were of only local interest.

Among the more important of these were changes reducing the legal rate of interest and some changes in the existing tax laws.

BENA STORE ATTACKED.

Hole Blown Into Wall of Building Presumably By Burglars.

Bena, Minn., July 1.—Fleming's general store was partially wrecked early yesterday by an explosion of dynamite or something equally strong placed outside the building presumably by burglars. Great Northern Agent B. E. Stephenson claims that early yeaterday while passing the store he saw a man in the act of trying to fire the place. The man fled and later there came an explosion that aroused the town. A posse sought in vain for the man Stephenson saw. Fleming was absent and on his return could not explain the reason for the effort to blow up the place unless it was the work of yeggs. The place has been attacked by incendiaries twice in ten years.

TWO HARBORS IN 1916.

Scandinavian Lodge of Good Templars Elect Duluthian Grand Guard.

Hastings, Minn., July 1.—The Scandinavian grand lodge of Good Templars, who have been in session here in the twenty-fourth annual session, voted to meet next year in Two Harbors, and elected and installed the following officers: Grand chief templar, W. P. Carlston, Minneapolis; grand councilar, Gustaf Erickson, Spooner; grand vice templar, P. S. Engman, Virginia; grand superintendent juvenile work, Mrs. P. T. Amundsen, St. Paul; grand secretary, A. M. Wold, Minneapolis; grand treasurer, Ole Brevik, Brevik; electoral superintendent, Albert Nelson, Minneapolis; grand chaplain J. J. Flikkie, Shelly; grand marshal, Miss Anna Anvid, Blackduck; grand chancellor course of study, John Kragseth, Two Harbors; grand guard, Rudolph Nordland, Duluth; grand sentinel, A. B. Rehn, Spooner; grand messenger, Axel Engelstad, Thief River Falls; assistant grand marshal, Miss Annie Swanson, Minneapolis, and assistant grand secretary, Ivar Olstad, Minneapolis.

BRAINERD VOTES WET YET CONTINUES DRY

Anomalous Result of Working of Gopher County Option Law.

Brainerd, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—With one small precinct to hear from, Ross Lake, the result of the vote on county option in Crow Wing county stands wet 1,974, dry, 1,829, a majority of 145 for the wets.

Although Brainerd voted wet on Monday's county option election and the county of Crow Wing wet by the majority stated, saloons in this city must remain closed. This anomalous condition results from the fact that in a local option election several weeks ago the city voted out the saloons and such establishments will not be allowed to run, although the county voted wet, until the local option election has been set aside.

MANY CAR TRUCKS ARE BEING ORDERED

Chicago Man at Summer Home Near Brainerd Boosts Conditions.

Brainerd, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. C. Barber, who has a fine country home, Twin Oaks, at Nokay Lake near here, and is largely interested in the Standard Car Truck company of Chicago, manufacturing car trucks patented by him, says his concern received orders to place trucks on 8,000 cars, principally the Rock Island, and also several Eastern lines.

Mr. Barber says business is picking up and that the general situation is good.

MOOSE LAKER SAVED.

Dr. McKim Is Sinking Third Time in Water When Rescued.

Moose Lake, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—While bathing in the lake Tuesday, Dr. McKim had a narrow escape from drowning. Dr. McKim is not an expert swimmer and when he got beyond his depth was seized with a cramp in his right leg. When he went down he cried for help, but he was not plainly heard as he was passing below the water at the time. However, he came up and it was seen that he was in a bad way. George Foster, who was on the spring board at the time, took the dive as the doctor was going under the third time. Instead of searching immediately, George waited until he would rise a little so it would take less time in locating him. Finally Mr. Foster found him and raised him to the surface, when he was passed to Paul Knutila. Dr. McKim is a good sized man, and when he became too much for Knutila he let him slip back. This necessitated another dive for Foster. After bringing him to the surface three or four times he was finally taken out by Chester Gay, placed on shore and rendered first aid. He was later taken to his room and was visited by Dr. Walters. The doctor is suffering no ill effects today from his experience.

PORT ARTHUR HANGING.

Slayer of Farmer Pays Penalty of Law on Gallows.

Port Arthur, Ont., July 1.—Amelia Palma was hanged here yesterday for the murder of William Leithener, a farmer of Kaminishoula, last fall.

JUMPS INTO RIVER.

Man Presumably Off Mentally, Leaps to His Death.

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 1.—Apparently laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, Frank Trudell, aged 35, a well known timber cruiser, jumped to his death in Thief river a few miles above here yesterday after being ordered away from the home of Alfred Olson because of his queer actions. Olson and Paul Dahl followed him to the river and saw him leap into the whirling waters. Although a good swimmer, Trudell could not breast the swirling water and was swept away. The body has not been recovered. He was unmarried and relatives have not been located.

When Trudell ran to the river bank and jumped in, he left his coat and cap on the bank. These were wet, indicating that he had been in the water before. He started to swim, both on his back and in the natural way, but finally went down.

A party of searchers was formed at once and an effort made to locate the body, but the search was unsuccessful. It is believed that Trudell deliberately took his own life in an effort to escape from some imaginary foe. He came to this city several weeks ago and had considerable money which he spent in drinking. For the last ten days he has practically drunk nothing intoxicating, and was continually muttering to himself.

RED RIVER VALLEY CROPS HURT SOME

It Is Feared Damage Resulted in Lowlands From Flood.

Crookston, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The flood waters in the Red Lake river are slowly receding, the river having fallen about six inches from the high water mark, though Central park and the rear of residence lots in the south part of Crookston are still under water. A heavy shower yesterday afternoon, with some hail, did not help matters any, though the hail was not large enough to cut down vegetation.

That material damage has been done the crops in many sections is feared. The high, wall drained sections are in fine shape, but there are many townships throughout the Red River valley from which reliable reports have been received to the effect that from 15 to 40 per cent of the grain, corn and potatoes had been drowned out completely or very seriously damaged. Probably the potato crop has been damaged to a greater extent than any other one crop.

Corn Growing Rapidly.

The corn is coming on rapidly now, but it will take exceptional weather from now on, and frost later than usual, if the crop will mature beyond the stage in which it will make good silage. There will be plenty for silage but a great deal of the corn now does not give promise of ripening without exceptional weather from now on.

There will be a heavy loss from washed out culverts, and many of the smaller bridges have been weakened and will need repairs, while it will take thousands of dollars to repair the washouts in the rural roads, the water having poured over the grades in innumerable places.

SAYS FILIPINOS ARE GOING AHEAD

Philippine Treasurer, Visiting in Crookston, Talks of Conditions.

Crookston, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. L. Manning, insular treasurer of the Philippines, was here yesterday, the guest of Chris Hagen, who was formerly connected with the department of education in the Philippines. Mr. Manning has been the keeper of the strong box in the Philippines for the last twelve years and is enjoying a three months' vacation in the United States. He says the Filipinos are readily forging ahead and that conditions generally in the eastern isles is improving, both socially and economically.

He says the Filipinos are apt pupils and that within a few years a wonderful change will be noticeable, even more so than during the last few years, as a big start has been made in the right direction.

GOPHER GIRL WEDS CANADIAN SOLDIER

Grand Forks, N. D., July 1.—When the bugle calls at Winnipeg, it will separate Lieut. Charles J. Dancer from his bride of two days.

Dancer, who is an officer in the Third Canadian contingent that leaves for the front today, was married Tuesday in Grand Forks to Miss Elsie D. Ward of Minneapolis. They left for Winnipeg Tuesday.

Webb Goes Fishing.

Negaunee, Mich., July 1.—F. J. Webb, general manager of the Republic Iron & Steel company, is here from Duluth to spend a few days on business at the company's Cambria and Hartford mines. Mr. Webb will spend the latter part of the week on a fishing trip with Charles Levigne at Champion.

New Tenstrike Postmaster.

Tenstrike, Minn., July 1.—A. V. Robideau has been appointed postmaster here, vice F. A. Jenkins, removed.

Pine Shoots Barred.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—State Entomologist F. L. Washburn has been notified that the government will bar the importation of pine nursery stock because of the discovery of the pine shoot moth in recent importations. The ban will be for an indefinite period, but Mr. Washburn explains that it will cause no inconvenience in this state.

Lifer Seeks New Trial.

Bismarck, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Miller, serving a life term in the state penitentiary for the murder of John Karst of Breckenridge, Minn., at Lansford, N. D., last fall, has appealed to the supreme court of the state for a new trial.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Chippewa Falls—The body of Melinda J. Waterman, a pioneer woman of Arkansas, who died in Minneapolis Sunday, was brought here for burial. She was 94 years old and had resided in Minneapolis ten months.

Madison—The contract whereby Madison is to get its electric power for lighting, heating and other purposes from the mammoth dam erected at Prairie du Sac, has been approved by the railroad commission. It is believed the local company will be enabled to receive current from Prairie du Sac by Oct. 1.

Wausau—Tony Fehl, 27 years old, suffered a broken left leg and sustained other serious injuries Tuesday night when his motorcycle collided with a street car. His younger brother, John, who was riding in the side car, escaped unhurt.

Marinette—Joseph Noel, 70 years old, keeper of the baseball grounds, was bound over to the circuit court on charges preferred by four girls, the oldest of whom is 9 years.

La Crosse—City Visiting Nurse Miss Marie Pieerson narrowly escaped death when a bolt of lightning wrecked her automobile as she was speeding to escape the sudden downpour which almost amounted to a cloudburst.

Neenah—Corporal Winch, Company I, First infantry, is leading his company in competition for the season's work on the rifle range. Recently he scored 233 out of a possible 250 points.

Ashland—Warren French, member of the Boy Scout Badger troop, captured the prize offered to the Boy Scout catching the largest bass while on their camping trip. The fish measured 20½ inches and weighed five pounds.

Janesville—A meeting of the Janesville women has been called for Sunday afternoon in accordance with a general call issued by the Christian Women of America in the interests of world peace.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—The city board of equalization reduced the total personal and real property tax assessment in Grand Forks for the year 1915 $700,000.

Pierre, S. D.—To fall upon a rattlesnake and escape the fangs of the reptile was the unusual experience of a little son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Jorgenson of Draper. In falling, one hand of the child was pressed upon the head and neck of the snake, holding it so it could not strike.

Manvel, N. D.—Heavy crop losses from hail were sustained in the country around Manvel during the terrific electrical storm last Sunday. The hail swept through a strip four miles long and two miles wide, doing considerable damage in that territory. Some damage was done in Manvel. Hail stones as large as marbles fell.

Grand Forks, N. D.—C. B. Vlaness, living a few miles north of Grand Forks, killed three half-grown wolves, and collected $7.50 in bounties. Vlaness saw the parent wolf and attempted to shoot her with a rifle, but failed. Finding her den, he tied some kerosene-soaked rags on the end of a long stick, which he ignited and shoved into the hole. The young wolves darted out and he shot them as they ran.

Minot, N. D.—The state Normal school is conducting a six weeks' school at the Harrison school building near the Normal. Instruction is offered in all the grades below the high school to all students of Minot and vicinity.

Leeds, N. D.—The Farmers' Co-operative elevator was struck by lightning Sunday during a severe electrical storm and was entirely destroyed by the fire which resulted.

FARGO WINS FINAL GAME OF SERIES BY 3 TO 1 COUNT

Dumont Holds the Faltering Dooks to Three Hits.

Visitors Bunch Their Bludgeon Efforts on Stonewall Jackson.

Like the girl who copiously weeps through three acts of the melodrama and then turns in the last act and becomes a righteous bear cat with claws that strike for the side of virtue, Fargo turned from a meek and lowly baseball team and rended our side, taking the last game of the series by the score of 3 to 1.

One Dumont was knoll chief for the Uhlans. When Dumont cast his glove into the box the contest was over. The Dooks got three hits, one on the order of the uncertain sisters, and went down in succession in all save one round, the frame that yielded the solitary run.

Stonewall Jackson was knolling for the locals and was found for eight blows. Four of these bludgeon notches came in the third round, producing two scores, while a walk, hit and sacrifice fly parented the other run scored by the visitors.

Dumont Unhittable.

Dumont was hurling unhittable baseball, and right there the story ends. A piece of inexcusable and stupid coaching at third base robbed the Dooks of a run in the seventh, but as the game went, this run would not have made much difference.

Patterson singled to start the bombardment in the third round. He was sacrificed by Fremmer, and then Dumont made his own game somewhat secure by slamming a "cripple" to the fence for two bases, scoring Patterson. Barrett placed one down in right for two bases, counting Dumont, but was thrown out trying to stretch the wallop into three bags. Dries singled and was caught trying to make the middle cushion on the blow.

More of Sad Story.

Dries walked to begin the assault in the sixth. Ottie Clymer got his first hit of the series by crossing up the infield and hitting through the infield on the hit-and-run signal. Dries racing to third on the blow. Unglaub cracked one to Bassey, and Dries chased home ahead of the heave.

In the domestic seventh Bassey got his second hit of the day, a smash over second. Croake lofted out and Wolfe was hit. Chief Williams cracked one to deep right, Bassey racing home, while Wolfe was held a hesitating minute at third and then sent home, the throw from the outfield beating the runner by several feet.

SERVICE A LA CARTE AT REASONABLE PRICES

TO AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

During the last few weeks there have been many collisions and near collisions between street cars and automobiles.

Fortunately these have not been attended with any serious results.

Most of these collisons have been between street cars and automobiles crossing the track on steep avenues. Our motormen are warned to keep a sharp lookout for automobiles at such intersections, but at many corners their view is obstructed until they reach the corner.

Again, there are cases where an auto may be hidden from the motorman by a low obstruction, like a fence, billboard or bushes, but where the larger and higher street car is visible to the automobile driver. Remember the motorman may not always be able to see your automobile when you can see the upper part of his car.

We would respectfully ask automobile drivers to use great care in driving across streets where there are car lines. Slowing up when approaching the street would prevent many collisions. Remember that a STREET CAR CAN'T DODGE. When a motorman is suddenly confronted with the possibility of a collision, he can only go ahead or stop. He cannot change direction. Our streets are becoming so congested that the number of collisions is showing a decided increase, and unless greater care is exercised fatal accidents are very likely to occur. We will try to do our share. Will you do yours?

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Giants Shut Out.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 1.—Pfeffer outlasted Marquard yesterday in a pitching duel and Brooklyn won. Up to the eighth inning the Giants' pitcher had allowed two hits and Pfeffer one, and their support was brilliant. In the eighth Marquard weakened. McCarty sent a fly to Burns and the next seven batters hit safely. Among the hits was a home run by Wheat with two on bases. The fusillade netted six runs. Snodgrass scratched a hit off Pfeffer in the first inning. Grant batted for Marquard in the ninth and made New York's one clean hit. Score: R. H. E.

Divide Double-Header.

St. Louis, Mo., July 1.—St. Louis and Pittsburgh divided a doubleheader yesterday, the locals winning the first game, 2 to 0, and Pittsburgh winning the second, 4 to 2. The second game went ten innings. Butler scored both of St. Louis' runs in the first game. He singled, stole second, and came home on a sacrifice fly in the first inning; singled, stole second again, and scored on Miller's long drive in the sixth.

Collins opened the way for Pittsburgh's victory in the second game. His single brought Schang in with the tying run in the seventh inning and another single from his bat launched a batting rally in the tenth during which Collins and Hinchman scored.

Two Shut-Outs.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 1.—Cincinnati and Chicago divided honors here yesterday in a doubleheader, Cincinnati shutting out the visitors, 1 to 0 in the first contest, and Chicago duplicating the trick in the second, 2 to 0. In the first game the only tally made resulted from Killifer being hit by a pitched ball, Groh's sacrifice, McLarry's fumble of Wingo's drive, and a wild pitch. Other than this slip-up, Lavender pitched good ball, allowing Cincinnati only two hits, while Chicago only obtained three off Dale.

In the second game Cheney was always master of the situation while Schneider was hit hard, four successive singles in the third inning netting the visitors their only scores. Zimmerman was put out of the game for disputing a decision. Scores:

Phillies 8; Braves 5.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 1.—Boston put up a fine up-hill battle here yesterday but lost to the home team, 8 to 5. A drive off Gravath's bat took an ugly bound and struck Leftfielder Connolly of Boston on the jaw. Connolly was rendered unconscious and his lower lip was split. Gravath got three bases before the ball could be returned to the infield. Evers left the game in the sixth inning because of a lame ankle. Score: R. H. E.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

White Sox 8; Browns 6.

Chicago, July 1.—Chicago made a clean sweep of the series with St. Louis yesterday when they won the fourth game from the visitors. For the fourth time in as many days, a triple, this time by Felsch, with men on the bases, put the locals in the running and they forged ahead by bunching more hits. Manager Rickey used four twirlers to check the locals, one a recruit named Koob, who pitched well for two innings. Score:

Whales Win in Twelfth.

Newark, N. J., July 1.—Chicago defeated Newark yesterday, a twelfth inning rally enabling the visitors to nose out the locals, 7 to 6. In the ninth triples by McConnel and Fischer scored five runs and tied the count at six all. Bunched hits off Kaiserling in the twelfth and one off Falkenberg, who relieved him, sufficed to score the winning run. Score: R. H. E.

AMERICAN ASS'N.

Millers Beat Kaws Twice.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—Minneapolis beat Kansas City twice yesterday, the first game going eleven innings. Cashions' single, batting for Massey, drove in the winning run in the first game and the same batter, pinch hitting for M. Williams in the fourth inning of the second game, hit a home run, driving in two runners ahead of him and tying the score. The locals won on a pass, a hit batter, a bunt and Jennings' double. Sensational fielding marked both games, several plays by Jennings, a stop by Wortman and a remarkable catch and throw by Altizer being features. Compton hit home runs in successive innings in the second game. Pitcher Williams, who finished the first game in fine style for Minneapolis, was hammered hard in the second, but the visitors could do nothing with Yingling. Scores:

Indianapolis, Ind., July 1.—Louisville put an end to Dan Tipple's run of consecutive victories yesterday afternoon. After having held to two hits in seven innings, ten of the visitors faced the youngster in the eighth. With one out, four consecutive hits—two of which were for extra bases—an error and two more singles scored five men. Capt. T. L. Huston, part owner of the New York Yankees, and Joe Kelley, scout for the same club, witnessed the first defeat Tipple has suffered this season. Score:

SUPERIOR MAY BE LET OUT OF BURMEISTER CIRCUIT

Failure to Meet Players' Salaries and Assume Other Obligations Likely to Result in Both Superior and St. Boniface Being Dropped From League; Changes May Be Made in Duluth Team.

BY BRUCE.

Superior, Wis., is tottering on the precipice of baseball oblivion. After today the village across the bay may be out of the Northern league. Seven conferences between certain gentlemen wishing to keep the ball club in Superior and John Burmeister have failed to produce money, or enough of it, to close a deal that would give the Red Sox to home lovers and home crofters. Hence the team may go hence.

Today is payday! The heavy marks are placed after payday for the reason that the very word, payday, causes a shudder to run down the quivering spine of magnate and player. Payday and how to meet and greet same has become a vexaticus problem with some of the clubs of our league.

When the payday previous to the Medusa-locked one of today rounded into view, A. L. Steece, former owner of the Swamp Angels, passed the buck and sank rapidly from view. John Burmeister stepped into view and assumed the obligations.

Now another payday is at hand and again there is a quivering and wailing and gnashing of teeth. Superior men don't seem to be able to raise the kale to pay the players, so, unless action is crowded into the picture within the next twenty-four hours, Superior may be without professional baseball for the remainder of the season.

Series to Be Played Here.

Duluth was to have started a five-game series over on the hog lot today. Failure to pay the perspiring players of the Curtis clan has led President Burmeister to order the games scheduled for Superior played at Athletic park. Therefore there will be a double bill at the home park today.

The surging action that threatens to sweep Superior out of the league may also include St. Boniface in the wreckage. About the only thing St. Boniface has drawn in the way of baseball this season is curiosity. If the guardianship and financial support of the Superior baseball team is heaved to the sweating palms of John Burmeister, that magnanimous magnate may decide that for the good of all it will be better to close up the books on the Superior and St. Boniface clubs and finish the Northern league season with a six-club race.

Superior Owes a Tidy Sum.

Including the pay checks that are due today, Superior is about $5,500 away from home. And there's nobody home. It is stated that the business men and others who have been conferring with Burmeister have expressed a willingness to pay down $1,000 and go ahead with the team for the remainder of the season.

It was to this proposition that John said nay, nay, took his feet off the table and left the meeting.

Jinx Tangoes With Dooks.

Jimmy Collins contributed more ill luck to the camp of the Dooks yesterday by springing a sore elbow. The converted third baseman may be out of the game for several days. Harry Wolfe was hauled into the game, playing third, while Dad Ford continues to make shift of the short field job.

Kuhn of Tiffin, Ohio, an infielder, is scheduled to arrive today. Hallman, a Sioux pitcher, and Posten, the flinger who tried out with the Dooks in the spring, are also scheduled to come. Jerry Altman has been released by Grand Forks and may be given a new lease of life with the Dooks. The Dutchman may be played in the series with Superior.

As has been stated several times, no one on the team is sure of a place. The infield may be shaken up and some changes may be made in the outfield. The team is losing and in the effort to produce a winning combination, shifts and experiments are all the rage, like the new summer styles.

GLASS MADE CREW LEADER

Duluth Boy Is Chosen Rowing Captain at Syracuse.

Walter Glass has been elected captain of the 1916 Syracuse varsity eight. This is a high honor that has been won by the Duluth athlete because of brilliant and consistent work as a member of both the freshmen and varsity eights of Syracuse.

Glass stroked the varsity eight last year, while this season he rowed at No. 4, Arthur Osman, another Duluth boy, stroking the boat. Like other Duluth oarsmen who have made names for themselves at Syracuse, Glass rowed under the younger Ten Eyck before going to the older Ten Eyck.

With the announcement of the election of Glass as varsity crew captain, comes the statement that Art Osman rowed through the Poughkeepsie race last Monday in condition that fitted him more for a hospital than a racing shell.

It is stated that Osman was far from well, but that there was no one that could be substituted for him at the last moment. The Duluth boy exhibited remarkable stamina and rowed a wonderfully plucky race.

Osman was a tower of strength to the crew, and when he became ill the chances of Syracuse in the big varsity classic were considerably lessened.

Young Whiteside is being showered with praises for the great race he stroked for the Syracuse freshmen eight. Critics, rowing men and coaches declare that Whiteside displayed physical vigor, remarkable form and coolness and excellent judgment.

It is also said that the Syracuse freshmen eight, with two Duluth boys, Whiteside and Williams, could have won the varsity eight race, had the crew been eligible to entry.

Ten Eyck Has Husky Eight.

Jimmy Ten Eyck has a husky junior eight in the agregation stroked by Nelson. Both the junior eights, the two bantam fours, the junior four, the quadruple four, and the scullers were out last evening.

"THE GOOD JUDGE UNDERSTANDS"

WHEN a man gets the thing he's been hoping for half his life you can't expect him to give it up. Once you've chewed the Real Tobacco Chew you'll know how it is yourself—there's a big satisfaction in a mighty little chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

at the crews and was out last evening, almost immediately after his return from New York, for a look at the boys.

While some of the raw spots stick out in the junior crew that is mainly composed of heavy men, there is lots of power in the boat. There is a suggestion of smoothness that promises great things for mid-July.

The men don't stand up under the oar the way Jimmy would like to see them perform, nor do the boys always wallop her through or shoot their hands out fast and to full-arm length; but the crudities of rowing are being overcome and the Nelson eight and the lighter eight that is fighting for a place, are coming along nicely.

Oeman is expected back this week, as well as Whiteside, and it is expected that the latter may be shifted to the senior eight.

TENNIS SCORES

Deighton won from Gillespie, 6-4, 6-3; Lauren Kennedy defeated McMillan, 6-1, 6-0; B. Johnson won from Stillman by default; Thompson defeated Tell, 6-3, 6-2, and Hegardt won from Turnbull, 6-4, 6-3, in the games played yesterday in the men's singles at Oatka.

All the games of the first round of the singles must be played by Monday morning. The draw for the men's doubles will be made this afternoon. Play is expected to begin on Monday.

TENNIS CHAMPION ACCUSED OF THEFT.

New York, July 1.—Gustave Touchard, national indoor tennis champion and widely known authority on tennis, was arrested here last night on a charge of grand larceny on complaint of his employers, sporting goods dealers, who alleged that he stole a quantity of golf balls, valued at $288, and sold them.

New Swimming Mark.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 1.—M. McDermott of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, set a new mark in the 200-yard breast stroke at the 1915 swimming meet of the Central Association A. A. U., at Broad Ripple Park pool here. McDermott swam the 200 yards in 2:63 1-5, clipping three-fifths of a second off the mark set by himself at Broad Ripple in 1914. C. Browne of the Hamilton club, Chicago, won the 880-yard senior swim, a feature event in 12:41 2-5. The 100-yard senior dash, another feature event, was won by A. C. Raithel, I. A. C., in :57 4-5.

NEW ATHLETIC CLUB FOR DULUTH

Orpheum A. C. Will Open Gymnasium and Club Rooms.

The Orpheum Athletic club of Duluth promises to enter the local athletic field within a very short time. The new club is to have a gymnasium and club rooms on East Superior street and will take up boxing, wrestling and all forms of indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment will be purchased and an effort will be made to secure a large membership list. There are already some twenty-five members of the club. It is planned to make the gymnasium of the Orpheum Athletic club a place where all professional athletes visiting the city can work.

There will be a meeting of those interested in the club in the near future, when it is expected that the final work of the organization will be completed.

Only One Game Played.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 1.—Only one match was played in the national clay court tennis championship tournament here yesterday. A heavy rain, which fell all last night and in the morning, soaked the courts, but late in the day the sun came out, and by burning gasoline, one of the courts was dried out and F. C. Inman of the West Side Tennis club and J. C. Castle of Pittsburgh decided to finish their match, which had been interrupted by rain Tuesday. The match resulted in Inman's defeat by a score of 6-3, 4-6 and 6-4.

Milwaukee Team Changes.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 1.—First Baseman Tom Jones was released by the Milwaukee American Association Baseball club yesterday and will be succeeded by Lou Fiene, who will be used at first base and as an extra pitcher. Fiene formerly played on the Chicago White Sox and Minneapolis teams.

Makes Perfect Score.

Cedar Point, Ohio, July 1.—Breaking 100 targets without a miss, William Ridley of What Cheer, Iowa, won the amateur championship of the Indians' trapshooting tournament here yesterday. Samuel Huntley of Omaha, Neb., finished second with a score of 99 out of 100.

EXPECT BIG FALL TRADE

Duluth Wholesalers Cheered By Favorable Crop Reports.

Current Business in All Lines Makes Good Showing.

Duluth wholesalers aver that current business in nearly every line is running well up to the average, and if the present crop outlook in the Northwest is realized, there is every promise for a busy fall.

Reports from salesmen regarding the crop situation in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana are encouraging, more especially so from those districts of Western Minnesota and North Dakota, where the soil is light. These have been benefited rather than sustaining any ill effects from the heavy rainfalls of the last month. In other parts of the states mentioned, experts are sanguine that any overplus of moisture will be corrected by a period of normal weather setting in now.

While a disposition to hold down orders till the crop situation becomes more definitely defined, current business is mounting up to satisfactory proportions.

Drygoods Orders Good.

It was reported by F. A. Patrick & Co. that its salesmen's reports regarding the general outlook in the Northwest for this fall are uniformly encouraging. Retailers in the agricultural districts are buying drygoods liberally for the fall trade, and future orders are still being booked in fair volume for the season.

Officials of the house are sanguine regarding prospects for the fall in its garment and woolen goods department. The market in all wools is stiff and high at the present, ruling quotations to farmers in the Northwest for unwashed wool fleece being now from 25 to 28 cents a pound as compared with 22 to 23 cents last year.

Hardware Being Marked Up.

Markets in all metal trade are strong with no prospects of easing up in any line, according to the Kelley-How-Thomson company and the Marshall-Wells Hardware company.

Quotations in builders' hardware are up on an average 10 per cent in designed goods, in the smaller trimmings and in butts and hinges. Further advances are also thought likely in some lines of staple hardware due to the advancing markets in basic metals.

Sisal rope has just been advanced a cent a pound in line with the heavy demand being met with from manufacturers of binder twine, and to difficulty in obtaining supplies from Mexico, owing to the internal strife down there.

Enlarging Its Territory.

The Northern Shoe company advised that its future orders now bulk up well ahead of last year, and that the prospects for the fall appear to warrant expectations of general expansion. It is regarded by the management as gratifying that its factory operations throughout the last year have been closer up to capacity than perhaps any other similar concern in the Northwest.

The company has arranged to extend its scope of operations in taking in new territory in Southern Minnesota and Iowa and Nebraska. Two additional salesmen will be put on over those grounds on July 5.

Shoe manufacturers are interested over the outlook for a firm leather market with foreshadowed advances in the near future in some tans. Where tanners were inclined to make price concessions up till a couple of weeks ago, they are now sticking closely to list quotations.

Furniture Outlook Bright.

"News we are getting from salesmen leads us to look forward to a good trade next fall," said C. E. De Witt, president of the De Witt-Seitz company.

He advised that the output of his company's mattress factory and shipments have been running well ahead of last year for some time back. General furniture orders from over Western Minnesota and North Dakota have been picking up in volume of late.

Stationery Business Brisk.

A steady demand from over the territory being covered in building and roofing papers was advised by the Duluth Paper & Stationery company. Sales in paper and stationery lines are also keeping up well. The company is covering its territory closely and is carrying through an active selling campaign.

"FRAMERS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.A." NO. 7

Thomas Jefferson "Father of the Declaration of Independence"

THIS noble founder of the Democratic Party immortalized himself by writing our Declaration of Independence—the document which laid the foundations of Free Government, not only for our own beloved land, but for all the world. His countrymen twice elected him President and will always treasure his memory. Jefferson was the most ardent advocate of Universal Freedom of his time and it was his wisdom and foresight which brought about the Louisiana Purchase. Every drop of his Virginia blood loved Liberty, and because he wanted Americans to be assured of it for all time he championed with all his might and main the signing of the Constitution of the United States. None of the fathers of the Republic were more far-seeing than he and none knew better than he that a mild brew of barley-malt and hops is truly a temperance drink. Hence, in 1816, he wrote President Madison: "A Captain Miller is about to settle in this country and establish a brewery. I wish to see this beverage become common." Jefferson lived past his 83rd year and all his life he was a moderate user of light wines and barley brews. It is unimaginable that were he alive to-day he would vote otherwise than NO to proposed tyrannous prohibition laws. For 58 years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley and hop brews which Jefferson hoped in his day to see the National beverage of Americans. Exactly such a beer is BUDWEISER. Its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor have won its way to the top. To-day 7500 people are daily required to meet the public demand. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

$1,635,000 Hidden

In This Year's Goodyear Tires

Here are amazing facts:

Goodyear Fortified Tires contain five costly features found in no other tire. They have other features not common.

If we omitted those features, this year's probable output would cost us $1,635,000 less. We could add that much to our profits. And you would never know it until troubles came.

This year's improvements alone will cost us $500,000 yearly. Most of this goes into extra rubber—all into extra wear. And we shall spend on research $100,000 this year to find other betterments still.

Users Save $5,000,000

Yet our 1915 price reduction—made February 1st—will save Goodyear users about $5,000,000 this year. And that was our third reduction in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

These extra features—used by us alone—will save users millions more.

That's why Goodyears dominate. They have long outsold any other. They are gaining new users faster than we can supply them. We hope, for your own sake, that they'll soon win you. Any dealer will supply you. (2419)

DID YOU GET YOURS?

Thousands of Samples of Shredded Wheat Biscuit Being Distributed in This City—A Novel and Effective Method of Advertising.

There are many ways of introducing a food product into the home, but none quite so effective and convincing as the method adopted by the Shredded Wheat company, which embraces the distribution of free sample packages of Shredded Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit. This company aims to put a free sample package of Shredded Wheat in every home at least once a year. These samples are delivered from the company's own automobiles by their own men and the sampling is done in such a way as to reach the head of the household. To those who have used Shredded Wheat, the sample serves as a reminder of the product; to those who have never used it it serves as an introduction.

Not all food products can stand up under this kind of advertising, but Shredded Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit stand the test in quality and nutritive value. It is through the sampling, in conjunction with newspaper advertising, that the family is most quickly impressed regarding the cleanliness and nutritive value of Shredded Wheat, the cleanest, most nutritious cereal food in the world. Thousands of these samples are now being distributed in this city. They are delivered from clean, sanitary automobiles by men who are interested in getting them into the hands of the housewives, those who are most directly interested in conserving the health of the children and other members of the family.

Case Begun By United Commercial Travelers on Recent Boost.

The state railroad and warehouse commission has sustained the existing excess baggage charges in Minnesota, with two exceptions.

The matter was brought to the attention of the commission more than two years ago by the secretary of the grand lodge of the United Commercial Travelers, and on Aug. 9, 1913, it took up the matter of alleged excessive charges on its own initiative. Hearings were held beginning March 26, 1914, all railroads operating in the state and the U. C. T. being represented.

When passenger fares were 3 cents a mile the railroads charged 12½ per cent of the cost of the ticket for every 100 pounds of excess baggage carried. When rates were reduced to 2 cents a mile the excess charge was increased to 16 2-3 per cent. It was of this boost the U. C. T. complained.

Federal Regulation.

The question was not only agitated in Minnesota, but before the interstate commerce commission. The Federal commission found no evidence to warrant any interference with the charges, but fixed the minimum at 15 cents per 100 pounds.

The state commission, however, modified this rule somewhat by making the minimum 10 cents, but providing that the maximum total charge on each shipment should be 25 cents.

The railroads also have been computing the charges on fares which are a multiple of five. If the fare is $10.01, the 16 2-3 per cent per 100 pounds is computed on a fare of $10.05. The commission orders this discontinued.

Submarine H-3 Floated.

San Francisco, Cal., July 1.—The United States submarine H-3, which went on the rocks near Point Sur lighthouse, 115 miles south of here, was floated at high tide late yesterday. Previous messages that she was undamaged were confirmed by a radio message to local naval authorities that she was proceeding to San Francisco, her destination. She started from San Diego on Monday.

BARGAIN HUNTING FOR HOUSES IS POPULAR SPORT WITH DULUTHIANS

Real Estate Dealers Say Citizens Are Taking Advice to Buy When Property Is Cheap, and Demand Exceeds Supply.

That there are more houses sought for purchase than there are offered for sale was the declaration of a leading real estate man this morning, and inquiry among other real estate dealers confirmed the statement.

"We hear of tightness of money," said the man mentioned, "but never since I have been in this business have I had so many buying offers going begging. This applies to houses, of course. I have not thought much about other property, but the matter of the quest for houses has been forced on me."

Real estate men in general say that the demand is almost unprecedented. In each office visited, when the question would be asked of the dealer, about the first thing he would show would be a bundle of index cards bearing the names of people who have filed applications for houses, and whose wants have not been satisfied.

Bargain Hunting.

Asked as to the reason why buyers and sellers do not get together, in view of the fact that there are always houses being advertised for sale, one of the dealers declared that the would-be buyers are frankly looking for bargains.

"The people in general," said he, "have evidently remembered old advice to the effect that a good time to buy is when there is a business depression. Usually few can buy at such times for lack of cash, but this time it seems to be different. These people believe that now is the time to buy, believing that they can get houses cheaper than at other times. On the other hand, people who have houses to sell seem to be of the impression that normal times are not far away, and they, for the most part, refuse to sell at bargain prices, and there you are.

Some Get Them.

"Of course there are sales made and good ones. A number of people have managed to get themselves houses at real bargains, but those cases are not frequent. When I say 'bargains' I mean at prices below the normal value. Such cases have occurred where owners have had to have the money to tide them over, or to enter some business where they, too, have found a 'bargain,' or are moving out of the city. The last reason is the scarcest.

"An amazing number of people have ready money with which to make first payments—and substantial ones, for the most part—in such purchases. Some of the delays in filling the orders are caused by reason of the fact that the applicants want houses in certain localities within a certain price, and in many such specified instances, the requirements are hard to fill; others want houses of a certain size, while others want a certain style. But the chief thing is 'bargains.'"

But, whatever the reason, the real estate men have bales of applications and it would seem as though a mania for home-owning is sweeping over the city and that an unusual number of people have money to so invest.

By Commissioner Voss:

Whereas, There is repeatedly being presented to the auditor for audit, vouchers certified by department heads as "correct and unpaid" which are duplicates of previously paid accounts, and

Whereas, Inasmuch as vouchers in settlement of claims against the city are presented to the council weekly, there is, generally, no reason for accounts being, one, two and three months old and unpaid, and

Whereas, It is manifestly unreasonable to expect the auditor to check back from one to six months on every voucher presented to him for audit, in order to assure himself the same has not previously been paid, and

Whereas, This council has previously passed a resolution requiring all departments to keep accounts of their receipts and disbursements, which would leave no reasonable excuse for such carelessness and indifference.

Now therefore, Be it resolved that this council in future will not tolerate such carelessness, and department heads will be held strictly accountable and personally responsible for such errors, and it is hereby directed that the city clerk certify a copy of this resolution to all departments.

Commissioner Voss moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted upon the following vote:

Yeas—Commissioners Farrell, Merritt, Silberstein, Voss, Mayor Prince—5.

Nays—None.

Passed—June 28, 1915.

Approved—June 30, 1915.

By Commissioner Voss:

Whereas, There is repeatedly being presented to the auditor for audit, vouchers certified by department heads as "correct and unpaid" which are duplicates of previously paid accounts, and

Whereas, Inasmuch as vouchers in settlement of claims against the city are presented to the council weekly, there is, generally, no reason for accounts being three, one, two and three months old and unpaid, and

Whereas, It is manifestly unreasonable to expect the auditor to check back from one to six months on every voucher presented to him for audit, in order to assure himself the same has not previously been paid, and

Whereas, This council has previously passed a resolution requiring all departments to keep accounts of their receipts and disbursements, which would leave no reasonable excuse for such carelessness and indifference.

Now therefore, Be it resolved that this council in future will not tolerate such carelessness, and department heads will be held strictly accountable and personally responsible for such errors, and it is hereby directed that the city clerk certify a copy of this resolution to all departments.

Commissioner Voss moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted upon the following vote:

Yeas—Commissioners Farrell, Merritt, Silberstein, Voss, Mayor Prince—5.

Nays—None.

Passed—June 28, 1915.

CATCHES YOUNG FAWN ALIVE AND "SHOOTS" IT

But the "Shots" Were from Camera Only and West Duluthian Has Pictures to Prove It.

How a man can catch a young fawn, tie it while he takes four "shots" at it, and still evade the game wardens, was shown by Dr. E. W. F. Boerner, a well-known dentist in West Duluth, Tuesday.

The scene of action was the Gooseberry river. Dr. Boerner was fishing on the Gooseberry. While intently watching his line for a "bite," something stirred in the bushes back of him. There he saw the fawn, not much larger than a big rabbit. Dropping pole and line, he started on the chase.

Dr. Boerner prides himself on his speed. His training in the gym at the Y. M. C. A. and base-running while a member of a local indoor baseball team stood him in good stead. After running through brush and bramble for about 100 yards, he managed to get close enough to the animal to grab it by the back of the neck.

Picking up the struggling creature, he carried it back to his automobile. After tying it up to the guards, he took the four "shots" with his camera. After getting the photographs, he untied the fawn, which scampered off into the woods.

COUNTY TAKES CHARGE OF WORK

Crew Now Busy Graveling Roadway Leading to Proctor.

A crew of men was put to work this morning graveling the road between Bayview Heights station and Proctor. The work is being done by County Commissioner Kauppi. Considerable delay in having the work started is said to have prompted the county commissioners to begin the work.

Gravel for the job has been hauled to Proctor by the D. M. & N. railroad. The only expense to the county is that of hauling and spreading it. About a month ago the road was graded and ditched by a crew under instructions from Commissioner Farrell.

FATAL ILLNESS DUE TO AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. Claussen Dies as Result of Severe Nervous Shock.

Mrs. Christina M. Claussen, age 53, wife of Louis Claussen, of Bayview Heights, died this morning at her home as a result of heart trouble believed to have been brought on by an automobile accident on March 8 this year. Mrs. Claussen was seriously injured, sustaining a crushed arm and injuries about the body which left her in a state of nervous prostration from which she never fully recovered.

Mrs. Claussen with her daughter, Miss Mamie Claussen, Mrs. William Ives of Bayview Heights, Mrs. William Gadney of Lewiston, Mont., and Virgil Aydelotte were being driven in a large touring car down Earl street when the driver, Philip Gogne, lost control of the car and it turned turtle at the foot of the hill and barely escaped going into Keene's creek fifty feet below. Gogne was demonstrating a new car which the Claussens intended purchasing.

With the exception of Mrs. Claussen, who was pinned under the machine, the other occupants escaped with but slight injuries. Mrs. Claussen was taken to the Duluth hospital where she remained for nearly a month before recovering sufficiently to be taken home.

Mrs. Claussen is survived by her husband, the one daughter, Mamie, and one son, Allen. She has been a resident of this end of the city for twenty-three years. The body was taken to Bell Brothers undertaking rooms, where funeral arrangements will be made this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

MAY FIGHT WILL; CHARGES INFLUENCE

Probate Court Has Estate of Late Mrs. Elizabeth Gilbert Before It.

When Mrs. Elizabeth Gilbert, who died at her home in West Duluth on June 22, last, aged 64, drew up her will two years ago, she cut off two of her three children with $1 each and devised that the residuary estate should go to her only son, Walter J. Gilbert, of this city. The estate is valued at about $2,900, according to a petition filed today by the son in which he asks to have the will admitted to probate.

The two children cut off with $1 each are daughters. One is Mrs. Sarah Jane St. Peters, residing at East Tawas, Mich., and the other Mrs. Tency J. Christman of Lorain, Ohio.

Judge Gilpin of the probate court has received a letter from Mrs. St. Peters, protesting against the will. Mrs. St. Peters threatens to hire an attorney and have the will set aside. She declares that her mother was not in her right mind when she executed the instrument and that undue influence had been brought to bear upon her.

The will was drawn on Sept. 20, 1913, by Attorney Harry W. Lanners of West Duluth.

"AMAZONS" SENT TO THE WORK FARM

Ten days at the work farm was the sentence meted out to Rose Pirronto and Andona Mondose, the women who were arrested Tuesday on a charge of assault. The testimony given at the trial showed that clubs, stones, bricks and an ax had been used in the warfare between the women.

Judge Lanners, after sentencing the women, one of whom had her two children, age 7 and 3 years with her, ordered the children taken to the Children's home for care during the mother's stay at the work farm.

FREE ENTERTAINMENT FOR MORNING OF HOLIDAY

"Kids" of West Duluth will be given a free patriotic entertainment during the morning hours of Monday, July 5. C. F. Beiers, proprietor of the Alhambra theater, announced this morning that all children of West Duluth under 16 years of age would be entertained at the show house during the forenoon. The first performance will begin at 9:30 o'clock.

"Only the 'kids' will be admitted," said Mr. Beiers this morning, "and there will be no necessity of getting passes in advance." He will present exclusively a children's program and will invite children who are musicians to play various instruments in order to fill in the program. Special Fourth of July feature films will be shown. These will be of a patriotic nature.

DULUTH CHILDREN ENJOY SUPERVISED PLAY WITH OPENING OF THREE PUBLIC GROUNDS

GIRLS PLAYING UNDER DIRECTION OF MISS STRODE.

GAMES FOR BOYS.

Duluth's all-year playground and recreational system was in operation this morning.

At 9 o'clock playgrounds at Chester park, Thirtieth avenue west and Fifty-second avenue west were thrown open to the children of the communities under the special supervision of directors. Tomorrow night there will be an official opening at Chester park, with a band concert, addresses and games.

If the plan is a success during the next three months, appropriations to cover the expense for social center and recreational work this winter and next spring will be made by the city council and board of education next September.

J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, took charge of the opening at Chester park this morning, being assisted by Miss Pauline Strode of Chicago, who arrived yesterday to assist in directing the girls and younger children.

Supervised direction of the three playgrounds will be the order for this summer and children everywhere are asked to take part in the games and field sports. Miss Alice and Charles Little will be in charge of the Fifty-second avenue grounds and Miss Louise McGhie and Robert Kerr at Thirtieth avenue west.

Mr. Batchelor this morning made the following statement to the public regarding the grounds:

"The playgrounds are open to the public; plans are all outlined for a busy time for all ages and sizes, it only remains now for the public to use them. In the morning there will be special play time for the little ones, and mothers may rest assured that every effort will be made to protect them from accidents and to make the mornings something to be looked forward to by all the children. It is certain that they will have an enthusiastic time.

"The afternoons will be especially for the older boys and girls. Games and contests will be planned for every day.

"We will also make a big feature of the evenings. Sports and games will be conducted for the young men and women who are busy during the day. We expect this to be the most popular time of the day. Contests in various sports will be conducted each night and a league formed. Family gatherings will be held on stipulated evenings, and, in fact, everything possible will be done to make the playgrounds the most popular place in Duluth this summer.

"All we ask for is the constant cooperation of every person in Duluth.

"Yours for recreation,

"J. R. BATCHELOR."

PICNIC ON FOURTH.

Swedish Mission Sunday School Arranges for Outing.

The annual picnic of the Sunday school of the West Duluth Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Greene street, will be held Sunday, July 4, at Grassy Point. Preparations for the affair are being made under the direction of Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom and officials of the school.

The children will meet at the church at 9 o'clock. From there the members of the school and church will go to the picnic grounds. At 11 o'clock a special service and program will be given. A picnic lunch, will be served at noon, following which a program of sports will be given.

C. E. Will Give Program.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will entertain at a patriotic program in the church tomorrow evening. The program will include patriotic songs, marches, readings and other features. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Will Attend Conference.

Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom, pastor of the West Duluth Swedish Mission church, will leave Saturday evening for Dassel, Minn., where he will attend the annual meeting of the Young People's conference of the Swedish Covenant church. He expects to return home the latter part of next week.

On July 12 a Swedish school will be opened for children of West Duluth at the church, which will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Engstrom. The school will be continued for a period of four weeks.

West Duluth Briefs.

The Plymouth Ladies' Aid society is holding a picnic this afternoon at Fairmont park.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Kreidler returned home this noon from Lake Vermilion, where they have been spending their honeymoon. They will make their home at 5717 Roosevelt street.

Miss Nita Murphy, 5521 West Sixth street, is spending a few days visiting relatives at Stillwater.

Patrolman Victor Isaacson of the West Duluth police station left today for Roseau, where he will spend his vacation on his farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wright of Chicago are guests at the home of their daughter, Mrs. August Hickey, 3907 West Third street.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

CHARGES ARE NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Gunnar Bjornson of Minneota, a Gordon floor leader in the last legislature, does not take seriously the charges of bribery as made by C. J. Buell and Representative Tollefson of Dodge county, in connection with the election of the speaker and the passage of the county option law. He says time has minimized the whole thing.

WOUNDED MAN MAY NOT BE DULUTHIAN

Thomas Gibson of the board of trade is inclined to believe that the story that his brother, George Gibson, formerly of Duluth, and now with the Canadian troops in France, has been wounded, is a result of mistaken identity.

"We know," said Mr. Gibson today, "that there was another George Gibson in the same contingent, and I am inclined to think that it is the other one rather than my brother, who has met with mishap. We have received no further word from our brother, Angus, at the Sault, and he has evidently heard nothing further in regard to the matter. George's wife is in England at present, and it seems certain that we would have heard from her by this time had George been wounded, and we have heard nothing."

Duluth friends of the Duluth soldier are hoping that such a mistake has been made and will assume that it has been until word to the contrary has been received.

PULLS AUTO FROM MUD.

International Falls, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Agriculturist D. B. Jewell returned home this week from the stock breeders' convention in Duluth by way of Grand Rapids. The trip from Grand Rapids to Blackduck was made by auto and the roads were in bad condition in spots, making the trip exceedingly slow. A small block and tackle outfit was carried along and used to pull the car out in a couple of places.

Upon reaching Blackduck, Mr. Jewell boarded the train and reached Northome in time to attend an enthusiastic meeting of the farm club. About seventy members were present and the club at this place is surely a dandy. Another club meeting of the farmers at Island Lake was also attended.

We, the undersigned, Hereby associate ourselves together and agree upon the following certificate of incorporation, under the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of 1905 of the State of Minnesota, and acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, and adopt the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be The Petetal Company. The general nature of its business shall be dealing in any and all kinds of real and personal property, and doing all acts necessary or convenient thereto, including the exploration, platting and leasing of lands, and doing all other acts which may be deemed advisable or convenient for the welfare of the corporation. The principal place of transacting said business shall be Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE II.

The period of the duration of this corporation shall be thirty (30) years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators of this company are as follows: Peter E. Meagher, Alexander Hamfield and Peter G. Pastoret, all of Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The management of this corporation shall be vested in a board of three directors, who shall be stockholders of the corporation, and the President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and such other officers as the board of directors may decide upon. Two or more of said offices may be held by the same person. The board of directors, except the first board, shall be elected by the stockholders of the corporation at the annual meetings. The other officers shall be chosen by the board of directors at their first meeting after each annual meeting of the stockholders. The directors and officers shall hold their respective offices for the term of one year and until their respective successors are elected and qualified. The annual meeting of the stockholders shall be held on the second Saturday in January in each year. W. D. Burr of St. Paul, Milton P. Botsford and Peter E. Meagher shall compose the board of directors until the first annual meeting, and until the first meeting of the directors the said W. D. Burr shall be President, Milton P. Botsford, Vice President, and Peter E. Meagher, Secretary and Treasurer.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock shall be fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00), divided into five hundred (500) shares of the par value of one hundred dollars ($100.00) each, the same to be paid in as called for by the board of directors, either in money or in property.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall at any time be subject is the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00).

CASH WHEAT TURNS STRONG

Scarcity of Old Crop Grain Contributes to Sharp Advances.

Flaxseed Strong at Close on Crushers' Bidding After Early Weakness.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 1.—The market was firm around the close. July wheat closed 2c up. September unchanged and December unchanged. July durum close 3½c up and September unchanged.

Oats closed 1⅞c up at 49¼c for on the track; rye unchanged at $1.10@1.11; and barley unchanged at from 64@69c.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at $1.02¾ and calls at $1.04¾.

Scarcity of old-crop wheat supplies was evidenced in the course of today's markets. The July future sold up 2c locally with good bidding for it reported from Minneapolis. A small lot was advised to have been worked, but business on any scale was precluded through the raising of their limits by Duluth holders. Eastern millers are again looking this way, but no actual business has resulted in that quarter during the last two or three days. With supplies of spring wheat in the elevators at the Head of the Lakes down to 565,000 bu, and only a few odd cars coming in from day to day, holders here are growing increasingly bullish in their views. Another strengthening influence as regards the July future is that owing to the exceptional lateness of the season in the Southwest, dealers now recognize that difficulty will be experienced in making deliveries of the large tonnages already contracted for. Considerable apprehension is in fact entertained on that score. That condition was emphasized in the fact that the first delivery of Southern Illinois wheat was received at Chicago today, whereas a year ago the first car was received on June 16. Cash wheat brought 18c over July on the Chicago market today.

Wheat cutting was advised today at Ashland, Neb., and it is expected to be general in about ten days. New Oklahoma wheat was marketed at Kansas City this morning, and 12 cars of new wheat were received at St. Louis.

After scoring moderate advances during the early trading, the wheat market turned easier on the publication of Snows' report. It was bearish, the winter wheat yield being estimated at 664,000,000 bu, and the spring wheat outturn at 295,000,000 bu. July wheat opened ½c up at $1.31, and it advanced 1½c more up to the noon-hour. September wheat opened ¼c off at $1.05, sold up to $1.06, and then eased off 1c. December opened 1c up at $1.06½, and eased off to the same extent later.

Trading in durum was merely nominal. July opened ½c up at $1.29, and it gained 1c more. No business was put through in the September future during the first three hours' trading.

Flaxseed Trading Quiet.

Trading in flaxseed was featureless, but the market was easier at the start as a result of better advices regarding crop prospects over the Northwest and limited crushers' inquiry. Better inquiry on higher cables developed around the close, and the declines were recovered.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.72¾ and closed unchanged at $1.72¾ bid.

September opened unchanged at $1.76 and closed ½c up at $1.76½.

October opened unchanged at $1.77 and closed ⅝c up at $1.77⅝ asked.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 2¾ up at $1.29⅝ and London 3⅜c up at $1.89⅛.

MARKET GOSSIP.

B. V. Loosemore, vice president of the Quinn-Sheppardson company, has returned from a five weeks' inspection trip over the Northwest, during which he motored over 1,500 miles in North Dakota and 600 miles in South Dakota. He regards the crop promise as never better than at the present. The wheat plant is well rooted everywhere and therefore in position to withstand a lot of punishment later. Outside of isolated cases in a few districts no damage was sustained by wheat through frosts.

"The country looks splendid everywhere and growers are feeling optimistic," said Mr. Loosemore. "One thing I noticed was that practically all the land in the West is under crop, there being no fields under summer fallow as far as I could see. Oats are going to be a bumper crop and they are making good progress. I saw some fields heading out in Southern Minnesota. Some damage was sustained to rye through frosts in a few districts, but beyond that it may be said that everything is O. K. in the West now. Any overplus of moisture in spots will soon be overcome by dry weather."

Broomhall's International Review says: "Future supplies depend largely on weather, and if American winters are further delayed, August supplies are likely to be small. Prospects for distant future supplies are bright as spring wheat crops are developing satisfactorily, and it is becoming evident that the British empire may be entirely independent of foreign wheat during the coming season if present prospects are materialized as the total surplus is estimated at 280,000,000 bu while requirements will not exceed 240,000,000 and perhaps not over 224,000,000 bu."

Oklahoma July crop report as wired by C. A. King & Co. of Toledo—Condition of winter wheat 80 per cent same as in June. Crop is estimated at 47,000,000 bu same as June government report and compared with 42,000,000 bu harvested last year. Crop is 51 per cent harvested with an average yield 15.8 bu per acre. Corn condition is 84 against 83 in June and 82 a year ago. Oats condition is 85, same as a month ago.

At Minneapolis the cash market was about steady. Demand was fairly good but it was not as keen as it has been as country mills are less active buyers. No. 1 northern sold at 11@14c over July, and velvet chaff at 3@5c over July. Flour sales were reported moderate. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from $1.29@1.40 and No. 2 northern at from $1.26@1.37. Stocks in Minneapolis elevators decreased 300,000 bu in five days.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Firmness in America and Buenos Aires and unfavorable American weather caused a firm undertone, but trading is dull. Spot market was firm, unchanged and cargo market firm, winters 4½d higher, Indians and Plates 4½@6d advance, and Manitobas unchanged. Indian offers have shown a noticeable hardening tendency and shipments are expected to be light. United Kingdom prospective supply is adequate for present needs. Corn—Undertone was firm with advancing freights and a general improvement in the demand. Cargo market showed 3@6d advance, Plate holders are selling more freely and this serves to affect conservatism."

J. E. Carney of Keusch & Schwartz company says: "During the past year North America has exported 440,000,000 bu wheat and flour, excepting B. R. Snow's estimate of present crop conditions indicating a crop of 959,000,000 bu, and assuming that the Canadian crop matures as favorably as now indicated, North America for the coming year would be capable of exporting about 600,000,000 bu of wheat."

N. C. Nelson of Lewiston, N. D., was a visitor on the Duluth Board of Trade this morning. He said that the outlook is for heavy grain yields in the Judith valley. Fall wheat is well advanced. Spring wheat is shorter, but it is coming along well as a result of good weather of late.

"There has been a radical change in the agricultural situation in Montana during the last ten years," said Mr. Nelson. "Thousands of acres are being broken up yearly and put under cultivation, and the acreage devoted to ranching is being correspondingly reduced. Prospects for those who have gone into cattle raising to any extent are bright this year, owing to the good prices prevailing and the fine pastures available. That has been so good this season that cattle are now getting fat."

Mr. Nelson moved out to Montana in 1889, and he now ranks as one of the most prosperous farmers of the state, owning a tract of 2,000 acres and a large herd of cattle.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Higher Prices In Liverpool Cause Advance in Wheat Pit.

Chicago, July 1.—Definite announcement that the steamship Armenian sunk by a German submarine, was engaged in British admiralty business had considerable effect today in strengthening the wheat market here. The news was taken by traders as tending to eliminate a disturbing question. Higher prices at Liverpool counted also against the bears. After opening ½@⅝c lower to ¼c advance, quotations underwent a moderate dip, and then rose about 1½c above last night for July and September.

Later a reaction took place owing to estimates that the 1915 crop in the United States would be 9,000,000 bu more than was indicated a month ago. The close was unsettled, at a shade off to ⅝c advance compared with last night.

Corn became firm when wheat started decidedly upgrade. Eastern shipping demand aided the bulls. The opening, which ranged from the same as light night to ¼@⅜c higher, was followed by something of a sag but later by general net gains.

Bearish crop estimates resulted afterward in a setback for prices. The close was nervous, ⅛@¼c to ½@⅝c above last night.

Action of the oats market merely reflected the course of other grain. Business lacked volume.

Provisions held within a narrow range. Fluctuations and trade were both apparently without any real significance.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Holiday Dullness Rules the Session and Movements Are Variable.

Severe Declines Occur in Low-Priced Railways and Specialties.

New York, July 1.—Latest foreign developments contributed towards the heaviness which characterized today's early trading. Sinking of the steamship Armenian, involving further loss of American lives revived fears of renewed tension with Germany. Losses of a point or more were recorded in the initial dealings by Canadian Pacific, American Smelting and numerous specialties, while Reading, Union Pacific and Coppers lost substantial fractions. There were extensive offerings of United States Steel at a moderate decline. United States Rubber, on which dividend action is to be taken today, opened unchanged, then receded a small fraction and as suddenly rose 2½ points.

Dealings in Rubber, Steel, American Can and Miami Copper, the latter at an advance of 2½ points on the increased dividend, comprised 50 per cent of the first hour's small business. Announcement that the Rubber meeting would not be held until late in the day was followed by a temporary setback in that stock. A 10-point advance in General Chemical to 230 was the feature among the inactive specialties. War stocks, motors and unclassified issues were mostly dull. Pressure against Reading relaxed, despite rumors of an impending commerce commission's decision affecting the coal roads. Bonds were heavy.

Standard shares made some improvement under the lead of Steel in the afternoon, but trading fell away to the point of insignificance. Rubber reacted again to within a fraction of yesterday's low quotation.

Holiday dullness ruled today's session with variable movements in speculative issues.

Prices moved more unevenly in the final hour, with severe declines in low-priced railways and specialties. The closing was irregular.

HERALD EXCURSIONS NEXT WEEK TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

SCORES OF REPLIES

AWAIT ADVERTISERS IN THESE COLUMNS

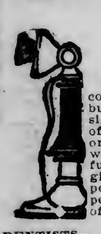

A considerable number of those who insert "want" ads in The Duluth Herald have this paper affix a box number to their ads. This number corresponds with one on a slip of paper handed the advertiser when the ad is inserted. Replies come to the box number, care of The Duluth Herald, and the person for whom they are meant can then secure them. Out-of-town advertisers may have replies forwarded to them by supplying postage for this purpose.

By this plan one can hide his identity and still get results, although where possible to, it is advisable to make investigation as easy as possible by including address and phone number.

The many hundreds of replies sent to keyed "want" ads in The Duluth Herald every week is convincing evidence that every classification in these columns is closely read.

EIGHT MORE VESSELS ADDED TO LONG LIST OF VICTIMS OF GERMANY'S UNDERSEA BOATS

THREE LINERS NUMBERED IN LATEST LIST

Caucasian, the Largest, Bound From Liverpool to Jacksonville, Fla.

Inglemoor and Welbury the Other Two to Go to Bottom.

Crews of All These Vessels Safely Landed at Various Ports.

London, July 2.—Evidence that the Germans are pursuing submarine warfare on a larger scale than ever is apparent in the daily reports of the number of vessels which have become victims of the undersea boats. Five more British ships are reported torpedoed today and yesterday two British and one Italian ship were sent down.

Three British steamers, the Inglemoor, the Caucasian and the Welbury, were torpedoed and sunk today by a German submarine. The crews of the Inglemoor and the Caucasian were landed at Falmouth. The crew of the Welbury is safe.

The Caucasian sailed from London June 28 bound for Jacksonville, Fla.

The commander of the submarine was markedly delighted on learning that the steamer Welbury carried a cargo of sugar. After the ship left Cuba it was discovered that someone had painted inside the vessel's forehold the words:

"You have a cargo of sugar for England, but you will never get there."

The Caucasian, the largest of the

GEN. CARRANZA WILL NOT NEGOTIATE WITH GEN. VILLA FOR PEACE

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF NAVY RECOVERING FROM OPERATION

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Washington, July 2.—The condition of Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, operated on for appendicitis yesterday, continued favorable today. Mr. Roosevelt passed a comfortable night and his physicians look for quick recovery.

TO MINING CONGRESS.

Governor Hammond Names Three Duluth Men as Delegates.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Delegates to the American mining congress to be held at San Francisco Sept. 20 to 23 were today named by Governor Hammond. They are W. R. Appleby, William H. Emmons, Edward P. McCarty and Horace V. Winchell, Minneapolis; Rukard Hurd, St. Paul; F. J. Webb, E. J. Maney and P. H. Nelson, Duluth; John Kleffman, Hibbing, and Charles Trezona, Ely.

Official Denial That Any Movement Is Being Made.

Gonzales Said to Have Defeated Forces of Gen. Zapata.

Red Cross Agents Said to Have Reached Mexico City.

Galveston, Tex., July 2.—Official denial that negotiations looking toward peace are being carried on between Gens. Obregon and Villa, was issued in Vera Cruz today by Gen. Carranza, according to a cablegram reaching the Carranza consulate here today, which adds that no such negotiations will be undertaken.

The defeat of Zapata forces east of Mexico City by Gen. Gonzales and the capture of several cannon and other war material also is reported.

Consul General Shanklin and C. J. O'Connor, representing the Red Cross, are said to have reached Mexico City safely Wednesday night.

Red Cross Relief.

Washington, July 2.—The American Red Cross relief expedition for Mexico City has safely passed Pachuca within the Carranza lines and has gone on toward Mexico City. Whether it has continued on through the Zapata defenses and into the capital does not

ARE MANUFACTURING BUT NOT DELIVERING

Outlook in Lockout of Chicago Carpenters More Optimistic.

Chicago, July 2.—Forty-three of Chicago's largest lumber yards and sixty-five brick making plants were closed for business today, throwing several thousand men out of employment.

The establishments will not make deliveries of any building materials until the strike of 16,000 carpenters is settled. The eleventh hour decision of the allied building construction and material interests to continue manufacturing operations but not selling placed a more optimistic aspect on the lockout against the carpenters and other striking building trade workmen.

GERMANS HOLD ALL TROOPS ON EAST FRONT TO WIN A DECISIVE VICTORY OVER THE RUSSIANS

SAYS HE HAS SECRET IN THE BECKER CASE

—Copyright by the Bain News Service.

SAM SCHEPPS.

New York, July 2.—Sam Schepps, upon whom the state relied during the first trial of Charles Becker to corroborate the testimony of Jack Rose, Harry Vallon and Bridgie Webber, the three informers, was quoted today as saying he held "the secret in the Becker case," and would tell Governor Whitman, should the governor ask him to.

Becker faces death in the electric chair July 26 for the murder of Herman Rosenthal unless the Federal courts intervene.

"I hold the secret of the Becker case and I will tell the governor if he asks me for it," Schepps was quoted as saying. "Whitman can get it for the asking.

"The story is so clear anyone will believe it; but as for proof, say, do you want me to bring Becker back to Broadway and take his place in the electric chair? I hung myself enough in this case and there's nothing doing any more."

The "secret" to which Schepps was quoted as having referred is believed to be what was said at a recent meeting between Mrs. Charles Becker and Jack Rose in Schepps' jewelry store.

All Must Be Vaccinated.

Davenport, Iowa, July 2.—Every child that enters public schools of Davenport next fall must be vaccinated unless satisfactory evidence of previous vaccination can be shown. This order, promulgated by the board of education, is the most decided action that has ever been taken on the fight against contagious diseases in Davenport schools.

REPEATED AND VIOLENT ATTACKS ARE MADE BY GERMANS NEAR YPRES

Spirited Artillery Fighting During Night All Along Front.

French Report Claims All Assaults Have Been Repulsed.

German Grenadiers Make a Desperate Attack at 2 a. m.

Paris, July 2, 2:30 p. m.—The French war department today gave out the following official statement:

"The artillery fighting was spirited all last night at a great many points along the front, notably in the vicinity of Woesten, northwest of Ypres; in the region of Souchez and in the neighborhood of Verneuil, to the north of the Aisne.

"After a violent and continued bombardment upon our positions along the road from Ablain to Angres, to the north of the Bethune highway, German grenadiers delivered an attack at about 2 o'clock in the morning. The result was a complete failure.

"Near La Boiselle one of our mines was successful in destroying the advance works of the Germans.

"In the Argonne there was very violent fighting all last night. One of the German attacks was supported by the use of asphyxiating bombs, as well as large hand bombs. It was driven back.

"In the forest of Le Pretre there was also a forward movement on the part of the enemy which followed a violent artillery fire to prepare the way. This attack also was driven back by the fire of our infantry."

NEARLY 200 CASES OF PELLAGRA IN ARKANSAS

Little Rock, Ark., July 2.—There are now 199 cases of pellagra under observation in Arkansas, according to Dr. C. W. Garrison, state health officer, who, with Dr. Joseph Goldberger of the United States public health service, has taken charge of a half dozen towns where outbreaks have been reported. Dr. Garrison believes that cases not under observation in remote districts will double cases of the diseases known to exist.

EX-PRESIDENT DIAZ OF MEXICO IS DEAD

PORFIRIO DIAZ.

Paris, July 2, 7:40 p. m.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, died at 7 o'clock this morning.

BANK TREASURER COMMITS SUICIDE

Annapolis Directors Wait in Vain for Appearance of Caughey.

Annapolis, Md., July 2.—J. Marshall Caughey, treasurer of the Annapolis Banking & Trust company, committed suicide by shooting, in his room at his club here last night.

At the same hour the directors of the trust company were in session at the bank waiting for Caughey to appear to explain certain matters regarding his accounts.

An official of the bank said Caughey's act would in no way affect the business of the bank.

Caughey was 31 years old and unmarried.

Bespeaks Interest.

Washington, July 2.—President Wilson's proclamation bespeaking national interest in the exposition to commemorate fifty years' achievements of the negro race which is to open at Richmond, Va., next week, was issued from the White House today.

CAPTURE OF WARSAW IS THE OBJECT

Not a Soldier Has Been Sent to Western Zone as Yet.

Austro-German Armies Are Making Steady Advances in Galicia.

Von Mackensen Pushing Steadily Ahead Beyond the Vistula.

London, July 2.—Evidently bent upon a decisive victory against the Russians the Germans are not yet sending troops to the western front, but, assisted by their Austrian allies, are making every effort to capture the Russian Poland capital, Warsaw. Berlin claims further advances by the great Austro-German armies in Galicia while Field Marshal von Mackensen is pushing steadily ahead between the Vistula and Bug rivers.

Artillery activity continues unabated in the Arras region of France but as yet there are no signs of an infantry offensive on that front, although it is scarcely possible that so many thousands of shells are being fired without some such objective. In the Argonne region the Germans on June 30 gained some ground though at the expense of heavy losses.

Colonials Not Checked.

A further report regarding the Dardanelles operations claims that the colonial troops have not been checked in their efforts to advance but that they have been used merely to keep the Turks on their front too busy to send reserves to that portion of the line where the Anglo-French troops made an advance of 1,000 yards.

The London morning newspapers generally print editorials on the sinking of the steamship Armenian by a German submarine, the text of the articles being that the relations between the United States and Germany are bound to be further strained by the latest of German submarine exploits. The editorials, however, evidently were written before the status of the Leyland liner had been settled.

Zeppelin Destroyed.

Amsterdam is responsible for the report that a Zeppelin dirigible balloon was accidentally destroyed by an explosion today when leaving its shed at Brussels.

During the month of June ninety-eight British ships aggregating slightly more than 39,000 tons, were sunk by submarines or mines with the loss of 111 lives.

ONE TURK AS FIGHTER WORTH TWO GERMANS

So Say Army Officers at the Dardanelles Who Saw the Teutons Fight in Northern France.

London, July 2.—The British press representative in the Dardanelles sends a dispatch by way of Alexandria, dated from the latter place Friday in which he describes the battle of Achi Baba. This began with an allied advance June 4 and, the correspondent says, still continues.

The correspondent again emphasizes the difficulty of the allied advance against "an almost impregnable natural fortress," and pays tribute to the tenacity and bravery of the Turks.

"The officers who have been in France say that as a fighting unit one Turk is worth two Germans.

"The force drawn up against the allies," he says, "is the flower of the Turkish army, which, notwithstanding casualties that must already amount to 70,000 is fighting valiantly and desperately, realizing that when the bastion of Achi Baba falls the occupation of the Kilid Bahr plateau becomes a mere question of time and when Kilid Bahr falls the doom of Constantinople is at hand.

"In view of the difficulties which confront the allies, a gain of twenty yards in Gallipoli may fairly be likened to a gain of 500 yards in Flanders, and the 500-yard advance on June 4 was equal in its way to the battle of Neuve Chapelle."

The correspondent tells of the British attempts against the Turkish lines on June 21 when the Turkish casualties reached a total of 7,000 and the fighting lasted from dawn to dark. The result was some gains for the allies.

"In one trench there was a temporary shortage of ammunition," says the chronicler, "but the troops fought with stones, sticks and fists. At the end of the day some 600 yards of Turkish trenches had been taken. One trench, 200 yards long and 10 feet deep, was brim full of Turkish dead. They were valiant, those dead men."

ITALIANS REPULSE SERIES OF ATTACKS BY AUSTRIANS

Rome, via Paris, July 2.—The following official statement was issued last night at the headquarters of the Italian general staff:

"A detachment of the enemy, preparing defenses on the positions of Monticello and Saccorant, was dispersed by our artillery fire.

"In the valley of Padola, barbed wire protected entrenchments were located at Heikofel and afterwards were demolished by artillery.

"Vigorous night attacks against our positions in the defiles of Monte Croce and Val Piccolo with the aid of rockets, searchlights and asphyxiating bombs were repulsed at both points. Our artillery dispersed groups of workers on the northern slopes of Freikofel and Val Grande, as well as on the Raute in the Bombasch valley. The fire on Fort Hensel was resumed with good results.

"At the head of the valley of Sesia an important position dominating Plezzo was solidly occupied by us.

Progress Slow.

"On the Isonzo the forward march of our troops, although not interrupted is very slow by reason of the necessity for snatching the ground inch by inch from our adversary and reinforcing each stage against a return to the offensive on the part of the enemy. Persistent rains are increasing the difficulties of progress and transforming the trenches into torrents of mud. Last night the enemy tried repeatedly but vainly to capture some points recently conquered by us.

"Enemy aviators continue their misdeeds and some of their victims are among the civil population. Our aviators effectively bombarded a column of troops and wagons near Appachiasella and the San Daniel railroad station."

THE REAL CONQUEROR OF MEXICO.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The Germans are hammering away at the French lines in the Argonne region in the apparent hope of breaking through and reaching Verdun. They gained some ground there on June 30 and the latest French statement shows a further attempt to advance through violent attacks. Asphyxiating bombs and large hand bombs were used in one of the assaults by the crown prince's army, according to the French, who assert they drove the Germans back.

The repulse of German attacks in the forest of Le Petre to the northwest of Nancy and on the French positions along the road from Ablain to Angres, where the grenadiers delivered the assault, is also reported.

London observers of military movements do not accept the belief that the Germans are as yet withdrawing troops from the eastern front with the object of sending them to the western. In the British capital, it is believed that the Teutonic allies desire a decisive victory over the Russians, culminating in the capture of Warsaw. In this field the Austro-Germans continue their sweeping advances.

In the fighting in the east there is no indication, even in the Russian official statements, that there is any halt in the sweep of the Teutonic armies northward and eastward from Lemberg. Further south, however, the troops of Grand Duke Nicholas have made what looks like a determined stand along the line of the Gnila Lipa river. Austro-German accounts tell of victories even in that sector of the curving eastern front, but the Russians deny the reverses there were serious, declaring desperate attacks were repulsed with great losses to the Teutonic forces.

German observers believe the Russians are preparing to abandon Galicia, and attribute the desperate fighting north of Ilalicz to a desire to give time for the preparation of strong defensive positions beyond the border. Reports from neutral sources declare that the Russians have recently received new supplies of high explosives which have enabled them in their stand and in their retreat, to swell enormously the casualties lists of the assailing armies.

Five more British vessels, three of them steamers of considerable size, have fallen victims to German submarine warfare. Evidences of the prosecution of this warfare on a large scale have recently come to hand with frequency. Accounts of lives lost in the attacks by the undersea boats, however, have been lacking in most instances, the case of the Armenian, now widely under discussion, being a conspicuous exception, with the stories of her officers and crew indicating that the casualties among them were inflicted while the steamer was in flight after having been signaled to halt.

The craft in the latest group of torpedoing exploits were the British steamers Inglemoor, Caucasian and Welbury, the schooner L. C. Tower and a bark. The crews of all were saved.

The latest statements from the headquarters of the Teutonic allies indicate that there has recently been desperate fighting along the Austro-Italian front. The main effort of the Italians to advance seems to have been northeast of Monfalcone, in the Isonzo region, and the invaders are admitted to have made slight advances. The series of assaults as a whole failed, however, the Austrians claim.

The Italian war office contents itself with claiming ground snatched "inch by inch" from the Austrian defenders, while along the rest of the front the process of consolidating positions and breaking up preparations by the Austrians for defense is proceeding satisfactorily.

Further reports of occupation of Albanian territory have been received, Greek bands having moved toward Berat and occupying villages along the way. This follows closely the recent occupation of Scutari by the Montenegrins and the previous Serbian move into Albania.

The difficulty which Spain is having in maintaining neutrality was brought to light in a statement by Premier Dato, that public meetings would be permitted only if discussion of neutrality was barred.

USING "SIR" NOTHING "TO KICK UP FUSS ABOUT, DEAR FELLOW"

Titled Englishman Visits Duluth But Doesn't Want His Name in Newspaper as He Has No Money to Invest.

Sir Arthur Hurbert and Lady Hurbert of England are unostentatiously in Duluth's midst today.

The word unostentatious is used because of the fact that Sir Arthur stated that he was opposed to publicity and did not care to have his name mentioned in any way. Sir Arthur is a typical Englishman and has lived in New York for a year. He is seeing something of America, his destination being the Yellowstone park. Beyond these few and frugal facts, there was little to learn of the titled Englishman who came up on the Juniata, which docked here early today.

"Give you something to say about me in the newspaper!" exclaimed Sir Arthur. "I don't want my name in the newspaper. About England—I haven't been there for a year. My home has been in New York. I use Sir before my name, but that is nothing to kick up a fuss over, dear fellow. We are just traveling around and seeing the country, like any other tourists, you know, and there is no news in that."

Has Sense of Humor.

Sir Arthur is not without a sense of humor. When the person who sought to make conversation suggested to the Englishman that a titled gentleman did not come to our city on every boat, and that a few words might prove of interest, Sir Arthur cut in quickly, a smile lighting up his countenance—"But I have no money to invest."

Sir Arthur and Lady Hurbert are members of the Raymond-Whitcomb party, there being about forty others in the party. A personally conducted tour of the West is being made. Many of the scenic points of interest will be visited. Sir Arthur asked some questions about Duluth and seemed greatly interested. Both he and Lady Hurbert made the trip over the boulevard in a tally-ho, Sir Arthur confessing that the view was most extraordinary.

Preston Bradlee, a well-known minister of Chicago, is another prominent tourist in the city, the Rev. Mr. Bradlee being a guest of the Spalding.

American Shipbuilding Company Gets Contract on Erie Road Boats.

The American Shipbuilding company has been awarded the contract to cut the steamers Owego, G. F. Brownell, Binghamton and J. G. McCullough of the Erie railroad line for coast delivery. The boats will be delivered to the purchasers at the Buffalo shipyard.

They will be sent to the Buffalo shipyard at the completion of the trips they are now making, and will be cut in two sections, bulk-headed and ballasted to an even keel. The work will require only a few weeks on each ship. The shipbuilders will be paid between $50,000 and $60,000 for the work.

In the negotiations prior to making the contract the shipbuilders submitted bids for cutting the ships and delivering them to the company headed by President Davidson of the Staten Island Shipbuilding company, at the shipyard in Buffalo, at a shipyard in Montreal or Quebec or at the coast.

Mr. Davidson will be manager of the ships. The details as to who is interested with him in the purchase have not been made public. President F. D. Underwood of the Erie railroad has repeatedly stated he is not connected with the new company, but beyond emphasizing this point and to state that Mr. Davidson is the buyer, no announcement has been made.

The steamers Owego and Brownell were built in 1888. They are 326 feet keel length, forty-one feet beam, twenty-five feet six inches deep and are of steel. The McCullough was built in 1890. She is 255 feet keel length, forty feet beam, twenty-four feet deep and is of iron. The Binghamton was built in 1897. She also is an iron boat and is 265 feet keel, forty feet beam and twenty-six feet deep.

HIBBING MAN IS ELECTROCUTED

Jean Ormonde, Electrician of Village, Killed While Trimming Lamp.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jean Ormonde, age 27, an electrician at the power house, was electrocuted this morning while putting a carbon in an arc lamp near the Pool location. Benjamin Milavitz of Virginia, found the man who was not yet dead.

Charles Hugo picked up Ormonde in an automobile and took him to the Rood hospital, where a pulmotor was applied. It is believed a short circuit was the cause of his death. Ormonde had been electrician for the village here some time. He was married.

DULUTH WOMAN DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Mrs. W. C. Colbrath Called Just Before Starting Back to Duluth.

A telegram received here yesterday told of the sudden death at El Segundo, Cal., of Mrs. W. C. Colbrath, 226 Fifth avenue, Duluth. She had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Olive Colbrath Putnam for nearly a year but had been thinking of returning with her daughter, Miss Cora, who has lately started west for her vacation. Mrs. Colbrath had been a resident of this city for many years and was much interested in church work, especially the missionary side. She had been vice president of the Ladies' Guild and the auxiliary societies of St. Paul's church for many years. She was very active socially and had a wide circle of friends.

No details of the death or the funeral arrangements have been received up to this time.

AFTER REBATERS.

Insurance Commissioner Suspends Licenses of Four Agents.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Insurance Commissioner Works today inaugurated a crusade against insurance agents who give rebates by the suspension of the licenses of four of their number. He threatens wholesale suspension if the practice is not stopped.

In order to secure business, a number of agents have been rebating a part of the first year's premium on policies written by them. In effect, it was to divide with the holder of the policy a part of the agent's commission.

This practice is in violation of the state law.

BENTLEY COUNSEL FOR GOVERNOR

Baraboo Man Named to Advise Wisconsin's Executive.

Madison, Wis., July 2.—Frank R. Bentley, Baraboo, attorney and former internal revenue collector for the western district of Wisconsin, was named by Governor Philipp today as his executive counsel for the remainder of the legislative session. He succeeds Michael J. Cleary, newly appointed insurance commissioner.

The senate this afternoon killed the bill intended to prohibit the manufacture and sale of poisonous flypaper in Wisconsin.

For an hour the senate debated the Bray bill to provide for party conventions which were abolished by the primary election law. The bill did not come to a vote, but several amendments were adopted allowing the state central committee to select the convention city, authorizing the committee to fill vacancies in its membership and providing that the officers of the committee shall be selected after the primary.

The senate rejected an amendment by Senator Bosshard allowing the minority in the convention to submit a platform.

Senator Culbertson offered a substitute to the investigating committee's bill reorganizing the state printing board. It consists of the secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, superintendent of public property and one member a practical printer, appointed by the governor for two years.

New bills introduced provide for an appropriation of $5,000 for a livestock display in San Francisco and to pay $60,000 yearly on the state's appropriation of $255,000 for the state fair.

BETTER ROAD TO DULUTH

Cloquet People Hoping Commissioners Will Start Work Soon.

Cloquet, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local motorists and others who go to Duluth frequently are hoping that the Carlton county commissioners at their next meeting, July 12, will decide to proceed with the construction of the North road to Duluth, for which $5,000 has been appropriated.

After the money was appropriated it developed that the road was only two rods wide between here and the St. Louis county line, while the law provides that no state money shall be expended on a road with less than four rods right-of-way.

Heavy rains during the early part of the summer have made the North road almost impassable for heavy cars, but when the $5,000 is expended to repair the seven miles between the city limits of Cloquet and the St. Louis county line, the road will be in good condition for automobile travel.

Cloquet is but seventeen miles from West Duluth and it takes two hours under present road conditions to make the trip with a light car, while heavy cars often are mired.

Sandstone Celebration.

Sandstone, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fourth will be fittingly celebrated here tomorrow, the arrangements having been completed by a committee consisting of J. F. Hawley, B. S. Bohling and Rollie Russell. The Askor band of twenty pieces has been engaged for the day, and Hinckley will play Sandstone at baseball. Attorney S. G. L. Roberts of Pine City will deliver an address, and there will be street races and a free show by Mr. Hawley at night. There also will be a dance. This will be the best celebration in Pine county.

PREPARING FOR STATE FAIR

Grasses Collected and St. Louis County Building Being Redecorated.

Exhibits Being Grown at Three Farms; Thirty Varieties of Potatoes.

The agricultural committee of the Commercial club, and others who are interested in the St. Louis county exhibit that will be made at the state fair in September have already taken important steps toward insuring one of the finest representations of this section of the state that has ever been on display at the annual exhibition, it is claimed.

The matter of exhibits has not only been attended to quite thoroughly, but improvements have been made to the county building on the fair grounds so that it will have few equals in attractiveness when September rolls around. Under the direction of the Duluth Commercial club, the county building has been repainted, renovated, and generally brightened up. New bunting and other decorations are being installed, and some new interior construction is being finished now. It is claimed that the interior of the building will present an entirely new appearance when the fair opens and that it will be scarcely recognizable.

Handsome Interior Fixtures.

Among the interior decorations is a triple arch in the middle of the building. On each side will be two minor arches through which visitors will pass, and in the center will be a huge arch connecting the other two. This triple arch will be handsomely decorated and painted. Other attractive fixtures are also being installed.

As to the displays, the members of the committee on agriculture are already at work arranging for them, and have collected a large part of the display of grasses which will be shown. The present is said to be the best time for making such collections and the grasses this year are declared to be unusually luxuriant. These collections are being carefully prepared for the exhibition and will shortly be put in place in the building. Much of the grass display will be used as a background for other displays, and for decorations. But there will be a huge amount of it on hand where it can be carefully examined by those attending the fair and who take an interest in dairy countries.

Growing the Exhibits.

The committee has plots at three experiment farms planted with vegetables, grains and other things, to be used for the sole purpose of exhibition. These lots are at William Sargent's farm, Louis Christianson's farm, and at the poor farm. Everything indicates a successful crop at each place.

Thirty varieties of potatoes have been assured and these will be prominent among the exhibits shown in the St. Louis county building at Midway in September.

These matters are merely preliminary, but from now on the work of arranging for and collecting the exhibit will move on faster until the whole has been installed.

PREPARING FOR WINTER CAMPAIGN

German Women Employed in Sewing New Furs for Army.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Amsterdam, June 12.—A considerable part of Germany's efforts are now being concentrated upon preparations for the campaign next winter. Women in large numbers are being employed in sewing new furs for the army, while those used last winter, which were carefully collected, are being renovated and repaired at the supply depots.

In connection with this work, the Vorwaerts complains that "starvation wages" are being paid to many of the employed women. Needlewomen working twelve to fourteen hours daily can only earn about 30 cents a day, says the newspaper, owing to the contract system which is employed.

MARRIAGE BROKERS BUSY IN GERMANY

Matrimonial Agencies Are Making Hay While the Sun Shines.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, June 10.—The war has given a sudden and unprecedented impetus to the "marriage brokerage" game, and advertisements for husbands—war invalids in many cases—were never so plentiful as at present. Many women exhibit an irrepressible desire to get married right away and appear to be quite unconcerned about the kind of a husband they get.

Individual women who want to get married at any cost are not the only ones, however, who have taken advantage of the unusual situation. The more or less shady matrimonial agencies are making hay while the sun shines, and apparently stop at nothing in order to turn a questionable pfennig.

Thus many have, in some manner, secured the names and addresses of women whose husbands have been killed at the front, and intrude upon their grief with brazen offers of second husbands. The men for the most part are mere adventurers, but in a few cases are invalided soldiers, either anxious for a home or beguiled into letting their names be used.

WORKMAN DEALT WITH SEVERELY

Sentenced to Prison for Interfering With Output of Munitions.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Glasgow, June 15.—The first case of a Glasgow workman charged with interfering with the output of munitions was dealt with severely by the local court. The workman, James Marshall, was charged with assaulting another workman because he was turning out too many shells. The court's sentence of three months at hard labor was accompanied by the following statement:

"Although you are making 22 cents an hour and have constant work, you are finding fault with a fellow-workman because he is doing his duty to his country in its hour of agony. This assault was committed by you to intimidate him from doing his work like a man. If this happened in Germany—although I think that is hardly possible—you would have been taken out, put up against a wall, and shot. The same thing would have happened in France. I am sorry it cannot be done to you here."

ROOF WORKER KILLED BY LIGHTNING BOLT

Fairmount, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Olaf Hall, aged 31, was instantly killed by lightning while working on the roof of a residence in course of construction near McLeod. His body was hurled from the roof to the ground, and he was dead when picked up by companion workmen.

CLOQUET BALL GAME.

Colts and Cubs Will Meet on Diamond Next Monday.

Cloquet, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Colts and the Cubs will play ball here next Monday morning as a feature of the Fourth of July celebration, lining up as follows:

Cubs—W. Boyer, catcher; Durucha, pitcher; Fryckland, first base; Blinn, second base; Mallory, third base; Graton, shortstop; Cash, left field; Stevens, center field; Sarette (captain), right field.

CLOQUET LOG ROLLING.

Delya Brothers of Eau Claire to Perform There Next Monday.

Cloquet, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the features of the celebration of the Fourth, to be held here next Monday, will be the log rolling stunts of the Delya brothers of Eau Claire, Wis., one of whom, William, holds the world's championship, while the other, Victor, took the third prize at the same tournament.

Eight Chippewa Indian boys have been practicing for two months for the big prize and the championship of the Fond du Lac reservation. Rivalry between the young Indians is keen.

The sports committee has cut a slim spruce pole thirty feet long and covered it with axle grease. This pole will stretch out over the lagoon and a dollar bill be placed on the end of it for the lucky man who sticks to the pole till he reaches the money.

BREEDERS ARE PLEASED.

Minnesota Holstein Authority to Visit New Salem, N. D.

New Salem, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Holstein breeders of this section are elated over being able to have Edward Schroeder of Clay county, Minn., here for an address before the association and later an inspection of some of the more famous herds in this section of the state.

Mr. Schroeder is regarded as a national authority on Holsteins because of his remarkable success with the breed, the prizes his herds have won and the records established by some of his cows, one of which holds a world's championship.

WILL ENJOIN BOARD.

Cass County, N. D., Mortgagors to Fight Being Taxed.

Fargo, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of injunctional suits will be instituted by local people against the county commissioners should that body indicate any intention of seriously regarding the demands of the tax commission and place $20,000,000 additional first mortgages on the assessment books.

Some of those enumerated for large amounts in the tax commission lists, claim the obligations secured by these mortgages have been greatly reduced by partial, and, in some cases, practically complete payments, and there is little due on many accounts for which the total amount of the mortgages is large.

The commissioners are expected to ignore the demands of the state officials on the ground that the law under which these mortgage assessments is levied is unconstitutional.

BELGIAN REFUGEES WILL JOIN THEIR RELATIVES IN THIS CITY

VICTOR VAN ELSANDE.

ALICE VAN ELSANDE.

Driven from their home only after it had been battered to pieces by the shells of the German artillery and being among the army of the refugees from Belgium who drifted from one place to another through Northern France and England, Victor Van Elsande, age 76, and his granddaughter, Alice Van Elsande, age 13, are now on their way from New York to Duluth. Mr. Van Elsande will make his home with his son, Cyrille, 2103 West Third street. The girl on her arrival in Duluth will see her mother for the first time in seven years.

The home of the Van Elsandes was in Boesinghe, Belgium. This is near Ypres, which was the objective of some of the greatest assaults made by the German army in the western theater of the war. The aged man and his granddaughter were among the last of the Belgium people to leave Boesinghe and followed the refugees into France, and finally found refuge after traveling through that country and reaching Bordeaux. From there they took the French liner Chicago for New York after having been forwarded money for passage by Cyrille.

According to letters received by the son in Duluth, it took four shells from the German artillery to raze the Van Elsande home. The first of these dropped into the kitchen. Another destroyed the living room. Another dropped on the roof destroying the bedroom in which Cyrille was born, and the fourth utterly demolished the building.

Alice was in the house when the first three shells struck the house but miraculously escaped without being injured. Taking what little they were able to carry in a small bundle, the two began the weary retreat back of the friendly French and English lines.

The two refugees were met by Cyrille Wednesday afternoon as they arrived at the dock in New York. They are expected to arrive in Duluth either tomorrow or Sunday.

Cyrille and his wife came to Duluth to make their home seven years ago. They then left their daughter Alice with her grandparents. The grandmother died some time ago, and now the aged man intends to spend his last years in this country with his son.

HAINES HIGHWAY NOW COMPLETED

Settlers Are Given Direct Road Leading Into West End.

The Haines road, which connects the Hermantown road with the rich farming country north of Five Corners, has been completed, according to County Commissioner Walter Swanstrom. The road gives settlers in the southern part of the township of Canosia a direct highway into the city leading into the West end.

The commissioner has had a crew of men on this road for the last six weeks rushing the work to completion. The job has cost the county nearly $2,000.

Commissioner Swanstrom yesterday moved his crew to the Proctor road between the power house and Proctor. This road will be surfaced with gravel. The condition of the road during the wet weather is said to have been impassable.

DULUTHIANS WILL VISIT FATHERLAND

Party of Excursionists Take Passage Despite War in Europe.

The war in Europe will not deter many people at the Head of the Lakes from visiting their relatives in the fatherland.

Ten residents of Duluth and two from Cloquet left yesterday for New York, whence they will take the steamship Kristianafjord of Norway.

Passage for the excursionists was booked by John J. Moe, local agent for the Norwegian-American line. The steamer will sail from New York tomorrow evening.

The local people will be joined by excursionists from many parts of the country. The local people left over the Soo Line and will join excursionists from the Twin Cities and Chicago at Chicago. The trip to the East will be made over the Baltimore & Ohio via Washington.

The Duluth people in the party are: Mr. and Mrs. Reidar Holmboe, Ralph Holmboe and Miss Elizabeth Holmboe, Mrs. Laura Pihlfeldt, Mrs. Nathalia Pihlfeldt, Miss Gunhild Pihlfeldt, L. J. Severson, Nels Felliden and Frans W. Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Teygve Narvesen of Cloquet are in the party.

WORKMEN OF STATE INVITED TO PICNIC

Four Duluth Lodges Will Be Hosts at Outing on Labor Day.

A general invitation to Workmen throughout the state to attend the annual picnic to be held by the four Duluth lodges of the Ancient Order of United Workmen on Labor day at Grassy point, has been issued, according to announcement made last night by members of the committee. The general committee met with Rice's Point lodge, No. 80, at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The affair is expected to be the best attended of any ever given by the A. O. U. W. in Duluth. The lodge has nearly 1,000 members in the city, and if expectations of the committee are realized, it is probable that several hundred from the Twin Cities and other parts of the state will be present at the picnic.

Following the business meeting short talks were given by Joseph W. Schumaker, past grand master workman of the order, and others. During the social session cards were played and refreshments served.

FUNERAL FOR DROWNED GIRL.

Services for Solvig Bunkholdt Will Be Held Saturday.

Funeral services for Solvig Bunkholdt, aged 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bunkholdt, 307 Restormel street, who was drowned after dropping from the deck of the steamer Chicora last Saturday while docked at Fond du Lac, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence. Rev. J. H. Stenberg, pastor of the First Norwegian Lutheran church, will officinte. Interment will be at Park Hill cemetery.

The body was recovered yesterday afternoon from the river about four blocks below the dock by C. O. Bergquist, owner of a boathouse.

The child disappeared from the boat while the father had his back turned. No one saw the child go overboard, although there were said to have been about 100 passengers on the steamer. A fruitless search for three days was kept up by the father and police from New Duluth.

DISCUSS SITE FOR LUTHERAN HOME

Church directors and trustees of the various Swedish Lutheran churches of Duluth and Superior will meet this evening at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church for the purpose of discussing several sites that have been offered as a location for an ophans' home. The meeting will be with the Minnesota conference committee, which has full charge of the general plans for the institution.

Several sites have been offered, it is said, but no official action will be taken for some time following the meeting tonight. It is said that options have been secured on some of the property.

Family Relations Topic.

The Baptist Brotherhood of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will discuss "Fatherhood as a Calling" at the church this evening. Several members of the brotherhood will speak on various phases of the subject.

Among the topics will be "The Father in the Home," "The Father's Relation to the School," "The Father's Relation to the Child's Work," "His Relation to the Child's Playtime" and "The Father's Duty to the Child's Church Life."

West End Briefs.

A musical and literary entertainment will be given this evening by the Sons of Sweden lodge, No. 179, Vasa order, at the Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lofgren and family, 2305 West Second street, have gone to Moose Lake, where they will spend two months at their cottage.

Mrs. Robert Carswell of Menomonie, Wis., is a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Victor Juten, 2716 West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Franklin, 1921 West Second street, and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nyberg, 1826 West Third street, will spend the Fourth at Boulder lake.

Mrs. Katherine Kremer, 2814 West Second street, left yesterday for Marquette, Mich., where she will visit relatives for a week.

"ARTILLERY EAR" DEVELOPED BY WAR

Artillerist Can Tell in What Direction Shell Is Headed.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, June 10.—The war has developed what might be termed an "artillery ear," especially among the soldiers in this branch of the service, which enables them to judge accurately what kind of a shell is being fired at them and whether or not it is aimed at their battery or at some other spot. Many lives have been saved by this gradually developed oral alertness.

The artillerist, explains an officer, who has been in the field for months, is able almost instinctively to tell whether a shell is headed for his battery or not. The men have learned to pay not the slightest attention to a shot that gives off the peculiar sound indicating that it is aimed at some other battery or position.

Because of the confusing noise of the artillerist's own battery, the squad tending it usually is divided into two groups, one of which listens for the shells of the opponents, and gives the warning to dive for the shelters back of the guns. The men learn to talk with pauses between each word, listening, meantime, for the tell-tale whistle of the dangerous shell.

Only in the case of the small field cannon, fired at a range of, say 2,000 yards, is it impossible to hear the shell in time to dive into the security of the sheltering "understand." Those shells have reached their mark about as soon as the sound of their discharge.

The 12-centimeter flat-trajectory guns on the other hand give just enough warning so that the men can make one dive. There isn't one fraction of a second to be wasted, but by quick action the artillerist can save himself.

The big howitzers, however, give nearly half a minute's warning. As the officer puts it, one can hear the shells from these guns and still cut off a slice of wurst and take a swallow from one's "field bottle" before seeking shelter. The shelter in this case must be a genuine shelter, consisting of about three layers of heavy wood and two yards of earth and stone.

Else the shelter and artillerists are gone.

Germany leads the world in the number of electric furnaces for steel production, with France in second place and the United States in third.

SUBMARINES CATCH IN NET IN CHANNEL

English Visitor Says Losses of German Craft Not Reported.

German Fleet Bottled Up and Further Raids Are Impossible.

Dardanelles the Key—Predicts War Will End in December.

That German submarines are being sunk daily and nothing is said of it; that a net is stretched across the English channel from Dover to Calais, which has accounted for many submarines, and that England will consider no peace until the German military power is crushed, are the statements of R. K. Bartlett of London, Eng., who arrived in Duluth this morning.

Mr. Bartlett is the English representative of the Zenith Feature Film company of Duluth, and he arrived here this morning direct from London for a business conference with his employers.

"I sailed on the steamer New York of the American line on June 19," said Mr. Bartlett, "and we had an exciting passage. We were escorted by British destroyers for a part of the way, and the passengers, or many of them, went about the ship wearing lifebelts. But we saw no submarines.

No Information Given.

"I don't know whether it is generally known over here or not, but the British government is giving out practically no information about what its army and navy are doing. I do not know the reason, whether it is to increase enlistment or not, but very little real news gets into the newspapers over there. For example, it is a fact well known in England that a net is stretched across the English channel from Dover to Calais, a distance of twenty-one miles. This net is believed to have accounted for many German submarines, which get caught in it and never come to the surface.

"German submarines are being sunk almost daily by destroyers, and nothing is heard of it. Since I have been in Duluth I have been told that one Duluth man has received a letter from a cousin in the navy, to that same effect, and it is true. Potting submarines is considered sport with the captains of English destroyers, and they are constantly going on scouting expeditions, looking for the underwater craft, and they are getting them.

No More Raids.

"Another thing. You have noticed that there have been no more raids by the German fleet. There is a good reason. It is bottled up in Kiel so tight it can't get out. There is an English mine field across the entrance to the canal that is a most effective barrier. You won't hear of any more raids on the English coast.

"Many people have wondered where the British fleet is. It is very much on the job, scattered along the coast of England, and with a good representation at the Dardanelles.

"You hear much talk about the failure to enlist. As a matter of fact England has literally millions of men in the training camps. She has unlimited numbers of men, but she lacks heavy shells and ammunition. She is turning that out just as fast as she can, and there will be no scarcity of men to use it.

"To my mind the key to the situation is the Dardanelles. If the allies ever force the straits, I believe it will go a long way toward ending the war. It will eliminate Turkey from the fighting, release a big fleet for the allies, and turn the scales with the Balkan states. They will realize that they will have to throw in their lot with the allies, or see England and Russia and France in control of Constantinople with no hope of their getting seaports.

Confident of Victory.

"England is supremely confident of ultimate victory, and the people are coldly determined that there will be no talk or thought of peace until the German military despotism is overthrown for all time. They are not worried by temporary reverses, like the Russians sustained. It was simply a case of shortage of ammunition with Russia, and she will retrieve herself. Many countries have driven the Bear into her hole, but those which have gone in after her to fight her in the hole were lucky to come out again.

"Business conditions in England, on the whole, are better than before the war. London is a city of horrible and depressing poverty in peace times. There are thousands of hopeless paupers who simply exist from day to day, the Lord knows how. All of this driftwood has been swept up, and the idle have been put to work doing something. If it is only cleaning out cavalry stables. Those who have suffered most have been the widows and children of men who have enlisted.

"It is surprisingly how good the motion picture business is there. I speak of that, because it is what I am most familiar with. I have to buy about twenty reels of pictures a week for the Zenith company, and that takes all my time, inspecting films and negotiating for their purchase. The soldiers' camps all have motion picture theaters for the entertainment of the soldiers. Then the government bought up all the pictures that showed German scenes. These are shown to aviators so that they may become familiar with the cities they are going to scout over. The people also seem to crave amusement to take their thoughts off the war, and the motion picture men are very busy.

London Still Dark.

"London is still completely dark at night. Not a light is allowed to show, and even the automobiles have tissue paper over their reflectors so they can't cast a glare.

"Before I left London I saw in Kent a huge German Zeppelin that had been brought down during a raid. Nothing had been said of it in the newspapers there. Nothing has been said of a lot of others destroyed, and if Germany ever attempts a serious raid on London by Zeppelins, it will be a sad day for the Zeppelins.

"I believe the war will end before December. I don't believe every foot of German territory will be taken. That would take years and millions of men, but I believe the German military power will be broken before then. I look for the opening of the Dardanelles, the advance of Italy resulting in disaffection among the Slavs in Austria which are waiting for a chance to join Italy, the recovery of Russia from her setback, and increased effectiveness of the French and English attack to turn the trick."

Mr. Bartlett will be in Duluth until Monday, and will then return to England.

Hurt in Runaway.

Ashland, Wis., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nels Olson, town treasurer of Herbster, Wis., is in a local hospital, with both legs broken as a result of a runaway when his team became frightened at a slip of paper flying in the wind and dashed down a hill throwing him out.

REMARKABLE DUTCH ART

Jan Toroop Pictures Horror of the Devastation of Belgium.

Translated Into Poetic Prose By the Dutch Poet, Janssen.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

The Hague, June 14—The Jan Toroop exposition, now being held here, reveals three remarkable works of Holland's most distinguished religious symbolist and modernist in art, devoted to "The Flight From Belgium." Both here and in Amsterdam where they have already been shown, these studies have created comment. Conceived in an exalted symbolism and executed in a modified cubist style, they have both intrigued and captivated the conservative Dutch public.

"After all," said Mr. de Neree tot Babberich, one of the younger and more radical artists of the Netherlands, "how is one to put upon canvas anything which can give any sort of adequate conception of the horror, the suffering and the incredible wrong of the German devastation of Belgium, merely by picturing isolated instances of hideous acts? It is a situation where only the most comprehensive symbolism can possibly give competent expression to the subject offered. It is this that Jan Toroop has attempted."

The Holy Flight.

The most remarkable of the three pictures is entitled "The Holy Flight—1914. During the Belgian Exodus." It has been purchased by the municipal museum of Amsterdam. In general character it is cubist as well as symbolical, though in this instance the artist has not employed that blazing counterpoint of primary colors of which he is so fond in his landscapes. The entire work is a study in browns, with a flat prospective almost Duresque. In the background are seen the roofs and facades of a city, prominent among which is a church, from whose windows the flames are curling. In the foreground is a white-robed, female figure, in no sense idealized, save by a certain asceticism of feature, with closed eyelids and holding a simple, wooden cross tightly clasped to the breast. With the utmost poignancy the figure reveals an intolerable burden of pain, bending at three-quarters length across the whole of the forefront of the composition, in an attitude of the blindest and most precipitated flight. Behind, in the middle distance, are the coifed faces and veiled shoulders of five nuns (a favorite subject with the artist) bent in the haste of even more urgent desperation. The whole constitutes a very effective symbolism of the Belgian exodus, expressing in this way, probably in more enduring form, the spirit of the Belgian people driven before the Prussian armies, than Adriaan Ost—another Dutch artist devoting himself to Belgian themes—has been able to achieve by employing an almost equally striking realism of method.

Dutch Poet Inspired.

"The Holy Flight" has inspired the Dutch poet, Miek Janssen, to a verse written upon seeing Toroop's unusual painting. She has also translated others of Toroop's works into poetic prose, which has been widely published in the Netherlands, adding to the fame which the artist's extraordinary symbolism has secured for him.

Toroop, however, has one advantage over many of the cubists, futurists and symbolists whose work has been a source of amusement to the general public for some time. He not only can both draw and paint, but has done so with success, his careful, realistic work of thirty years ago still being considered as able as that of any of the contemporary school of Dutch painters. It would be difficult to imagine a more striking contrast than that afforded at the present exposition by the exhibition, side by side, of one of the paintings of Toroop's earlier, materialistic manner "The Pickpocket," a piece of admirable realism, and a weird conception in the Aubrey Beardeley style, called "The Deep Sea."

Toroop's personal history is by no means an ordinary one. An "Indo" as the colonial half-breeds are called, hailing from Sumatra in the Dutch East Indies, he began his work as a painter of uncompromising realism. Furthermore, he was himself a pronounced materialist, holding no religious convictions. With his conversion to Catholicism, however, the whole style of his painting changed. He has devoted himself to seeking to express in line and color that liturgy of the Roman Catholic church by a symbolism of his own conception in such of his exquisite, aetherial drawings as "Marriage," "Love," and "The Bridge of Godly Life."

GARDEN ANTS DO LITTLE HARM

They Do Not Injure Plants and If They Disfigure Lawns They May Be Easily Controlled.

Washington, July 2.—An unusual number of complaints have been received this year by the department of agriculture from persons who say that ants are injuring their lawns and gardens. As a matter of fact, these ants do little harm and the injury that is attributed to them is usually caused by something else. In large numbers, however, the small conical nests which they build on lawns are somewhat unsightly and on this account it may be desirable in some cases to destroy them.

Where there is only a small area to be covered the simplest method is to drench the nests with boiling water. Another simple remedy is to spray the lawn with kerosene emulsion or with a very strong soap wash prepared by dissolving any common laundry soap in water at the rate of one pound or one-half pound to a gallon of water. Such methods are particularly well adapted to small lawns and for the ordinary little ant.

For larger ant colonies of other species, bisulphide of carbon, a chemical which can be purchased at any drug store, will be found effective. This substance can be placed in the nest by means of an oil can or small syringe, the quantity required varying from one-half ounce for a small nest to two or three ounces or more for a large one. An oil can with a long spout is a convenient instrument as it can be inserted into the nests and the liquid injected without its being brought close to the operator's nose, for the fumes of bisulphide of carbon although not poisonous, are nauseating. To facilitate the entrance into the nest of the chemical, the ant hole can be enlarged with a sharp stick or iron rod. After the bisulphide of carbon has been injected, the opening should be closed by pressure of the foot in order to retain the bisulphide. This will penetrate slowly throughout the underground channels of the nest and kill all the inmates. It is important to remember that while bisulphide is perfectly harmless if kept away from all fire, it is very inflammable and may, under certain circumstances, explode when ignited.

Except for the unsightly appearance of their nests, however, the lawn ants do no appreciable harm. They are frequently noted on roses and on other ornamental and garden plants, and it is naturally supposed that they are doing harm to these. As a matter of fact, it is not the plants that attract the ants, but plant lice. These tiny creatures excrete a sweet liquid of which ants are very fond and which they collect without injuring the plant lice. For this reason plant lice are frequently termed "ant cows." The analogy is emphasized by the fact that ants have been known to take plant lice into their nests, shelter them through the winter, and return them to suitable plants in the spring very much as men are accustomed to feed and shelter cows throughout the winter, putting them on pasture with the coming of the spring. This is the only way in which ants can be said to injure plants. They enter houses very rarely and, on the whole, may be said to lessen the attractive appearance of the lawn. On the other hand, it is quite possible that by bringing up from the lower depths sand and earth they may distinctly increase fertility by forming a top dressing or soil mulch, and at the same time permit better aeration of the earth.

There Is No Question

FORMER JUDGE WORKS IN AEROPLANE FACTORY

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, June 15. — Lord Norbury, former chief justice of the court of common pleas, has taken employment as a fitter in an aeroplane factory in a London suburb. He will put in thirteen hours daily at his work.

At the same time, Lady Norbury had begun work as a waitress in a soldiers' coffee canteen at Euston station.

POPE SENDS GREETING.

Pontiff Felicitates Catholic Educational Meeting in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—Greetings from Pope Benedict XV were read at the final session of the Catholic Educational association's twelfth annual convention late Thursday. The principal speaker at the closing meeting was Prof. W. J. McAuliffe of Cathedral college, New York, who emphasized the importance of Catholics guarding against legislation unfavorable to their schools.

The 1916 convention city will be selected by the executive board at its November meeting.

METALLIC SKULL CAPS TO PROTECT SOLDIERS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Paris, June 14.—It is estimated, according to the latest figures, that 13 per cent of the men hit since the inauguration of the war of trenches are wounded in the head. Doctors Dentu and Deuraigne recommend the use of metallic skull caps as a protection. Of fifty-five soldiers wounded in the head treated by Dr. Deuraigne, forty-two had no such protection, and twenty-three of these suffered from fractures and nineteen from scalp wounds. The remaining thirteeen were provided with metallic skull caps, and five of these were only slightly wounded. Dr. Deuraigne declares that officers and surgeons are favorable to this protection, and if the soldiers are hostile it is because only two or three sizes are made and in most cases fit badly.

JUNE SETS NEW MARK FOR CHILL

Coldest in History of Local Weather Bureau; Rain Averages.

The month just ended, according to a statement just issued by Weather Forecaster Richardson, was the coldest June in the history of the local weather station, which extends over a period of forty-five years, and for late frost it made a new record. The matter of precipitation for that month has already been dealt with in The Herald, constituting a defense of the late unlamented month against the charges that it was the worst for excessive rain in years. As a reminder, it may be said that last month, while giving a total precipitation of 4.94 inches, was 1.84 inches behind a year ago and was not in it at all with June of 1874, when 10.89 inches fell, June, 1880, when 10.40 inches descended, and June, 1901, when the rainfall measured up a total of 9.09 inches. The normal precipitation is 4.63 inches. So much for the rainfall.

As to temperatures, however, it was a mean month and the mean temperature was 53 deg. The normal temperature for June is 57.7 deg. and a year ago was just slightly less than normal. There was a heavy frost on the 9th, which was unusually late, and the light frost of the 17th established a record for lateness. In his review of the month, Mr. Richardson says:

"Hail of more than ordinary size and amount, which fell on the 5th, did some damage to gardens, flowers and shrubbery. The chilly and wet weather and lack of sunshine retarded all garden and field crops, but grass made excellent growth."

Special note is made of the thunder squall which occurred on the afternoon of the 25th, during which .39 inches of rain fell in five minutes and the wind reached a velocity of sixty-four miles an hour from the west for one minute and maintained a velocity of forty-seven miles an hour for the five minutes of the storm's duration.

During the month there were only seven clear days, fifteen were partly cloudy and eight were cloudy. Rain fell to some extent on fifteen days of the month, and there were dense fogs on the 5th, 10th and 18th.

THIRTY-DAY CREDIT LIMIT

Duluth Grocers Decide on Enforcing Payments After That Time.

Million and Half Outstanding Accounts; Picnic Date and Place.

Because Duluth grocers have an outstanding credit balance estimated at $1,500,000, the thirty-day credit limit will be enforced in the future.

This was decided upon at a meeting of a committee of the Duluth Grocers' association last evening at 312 Columbia building. It was discussed at the meeting a month ago.

"I doubt if there is a class of business men as generous as the grocers," said J. E. Roos, one of the committee. "However, we do ourselves and our customers an injustice to extend credit longer than thirty days, and we have to call a halt."

The grocers will visit the county and city work farm as the guests of Fred Ward, superintendent, on next Wednesday afternoon. According to George Peterson, secretary of the association, about fifty will make the trip.

Picnic Matters Settled.

Lester Park was selected as the place for holding the annual picnic on July 22. Arrangements will be made to take care of about 5,000 guests. One of the features will be an athletic program and another a dance to be held in the evening. La Brosse's orchestra will play.

Children may be given rides to and from the picnic grounds in grocery trucks. During the afternoon, the Third Regiment band will play.

The committee in charge of the picnic consists of the following: M. R. Bush, president; George M. Peterson, secretary; A. M. McEwen, M. R. Bush, Ed Strange, J. O. Johnson, John Logan, J. E. Roos and E. W. Olson.

DRAGGED INTO WIRE, BOY BADLY HURT

Bathgate, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dragged into a mass of old used barbed wire, Milton Heward, a local youth, was so terribly lacerated that it required two hours for two doctors to sew up his cuts. Unless blood poison sets in from the wounds from the rusted wire he will recover. The boy was leading a horse, which became frightened. The rope caught his wrist and he was dragged quite a distance, finally landing in the tangled mass of wire.

Rural Carrier Changes.

Aitkin, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several changes took place July 1 among the rural carriers of mail in Aitkin county. Peter Michaelson is carrying on the Little Pine route, C. A. Nelson from Waldeck to Bain, J. F. Patterson from Cutler to Nichols, Dan Butts from Wealthwood to Cutler, and Titus L. Smith from Glen to Aitkin.

PACKET TRADE DEVELOPING

More Perishables for Eastern Markets Going Out Daily.

Extra Vessel Needed for Dairy Products; Many Features in Market.

Evidence of the trade in perishables being developed in the Eastern markets by Duluth dealers as a result of refrigerator facilities on three of the package freight steamers operating between here and Buffalo, is being afforded almost daily.

The Bridgeman-Russell company reported butter shipments aggregating 418,887 pounds and three cars of eggs on the boats sailing this week. This followed almost equally heavy forwardings made in various weeks since the opening of navigation. It is said that the package freight boats have taken out capacity loads of butter and eggs from Duluth on every sailing so far this season, and that they are being compelled to refuse considerable business offering on account of their capacities being overtaxed.

"In so far as we can judge there is plenty of business offering to warrant an additional steamer being equipped for the service," said H. Bridgeman today. "It is undeniable that the traffic in butter and eggs with Eastern points has been expanded wonderfully on account of the steamer service now afforded. The tonnage of butter seeking an outlet from here is increasing and it would be too bad to have its development retarded on account of lack of facilities to take care of it. Shippers who are informed that space is full are apt to become discouraged after a couple of such refusals and to stop going after the business as energetically as they would otherwise have done.

Butter Is Lower.

The butter market has been marked down locally to the extent of a cent a pound today, creamery quotations being 27@29c a pound. The New York market has just gone off ½c, so that consumers here may be said to have been accorded favorable treatment.

Quotations in eggs are unchanged at 18@20c a dozen. As returns show that there are now 1,000,000 cases more eggs in store in the Associated warehouses than a year ago and receipts are keeping up well for the season, dealers look for an easier market in them later on.

California Fruits Cheap.

Strawberries and California fruits are the features in the market today, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and the Stacy-Merrill Fruit company. Supplies of all California fruits, including apricots, plums and peaches, are heavy and lower prices all around are predicted. Washington cherries are being marketed freely now. The crop out there is large and its quality good. A slight decline in quotations is looked for next week.

Strawberries are now being received from the Lakefield, Wis., district and their quality is said to be much better than the Missouri berry. The season for them will be over in a week or ten days. Raspberries are being received from Washington, but receipts of Minnesota berries are expected in about ten days.

Now Illinois apples are now coming to hand and are considered to be selling on a reasonable basis.

Vegetables Plentiful.

Green vegetables are plentiful all through the list and prices are lower than a week ago. New Texas potatoes have been marked down to $1.25 a bushel and are cheaper than they have been at this time in several years. It is thought that they cannot go any lower as the returns would then be insufficient to cover freight charges and handling and leave any margin for growers. Cabbage is weak, prices having shown a considerable decline during the last few days.

Poultry Cheaper.

Receipts of live poultry have increased materially of late and their quotations are off 1c a pound all around.

The market in meats, with the exception of beef and lamb, has again declined and their present quotations are substantially lower than a year ago. The good pasture available for livestock and falling off in export demand are factors in the trade.

FAVORS TEACHING OF NATIONALISM

Federal Educator Gives His Views in Letter to Duluthian.

That the bureau of education at Washington, D. C., is heartily in favor of the teaching of nationalism in the public schools to foreign born children and children of foreign born parents now in America is shown in a letter received by Dr. D. D. Murray of this city from P. P. Claxton, commissioner of education at Washington.

The plan was suggested recently in The Herald, by Dr. Murray who forwarded clippings to the department of education at Washington. Mr. Claxton's letter follows:

"I have read the clipping contained in your note of June 14. I fully agree with you that the public school should teach nationalism, and that foreign born children and native born children of foreigners who are to make their homes in the United States, should be taught the principles of American citizenship throughout their school life.

"The idea of July fourth as Americanization day has reference only to the granting of citizenship."

ON PLAINS OF ILLIUM

Historic Battle Region Where Fighting Is Now in Progress.

Legendary Memories Bring to Mind the Oddest Contrasts.

Washington, July 2.—Cannon awakening the echoes over Illium's plains, where the allies are trying to pound their way beyond the Dardanelles, stir many legendary memories of this historic battle-region and bring to mind the oddest contrasts. Here, where now modern ordnance is hurling its messengers of destruction, Homer's heroes waged their spectacular, single-handed combats, while admiring armies grouped themselves around to watch. It is a far cry from the romantic siege of Troy to the terribly impersonal battle of today. Yet the old walls of Troy must bring some sort of inspiration to the soldiers fighting in their shadows, soldiers of the allies or of the Turks. Excavated Illium beside the present war's great battlefield is described in a communication to the National Geographic society by Jacob E. Conner. He says:

Trojan Walls Remain.

"The Trojan walls are still in evidence; those same walls that defied the onslaughts of Agamemnon and Menelaus of Ajax, Nestor, Diomed, Ulysses and Achilles, to fall at last by stratagem. They remain as a ruined and abandoned stage minus its paraphernalia, whereon was played so many centuries ago an insignificant little drama compared with modern events; but it was a drama so big with human interest divinely told that the world has never known its equal.

"Wars in these crowded times are for gain—shameless gain—but in the youth of the world, if we take the Illiad literally, men could afford to fight for an ideal. Hence the Homeric warfare was a beautiful, a poetic pastime, seriously resulting to some happy few, who were thenceforth rewarded with immortality in song.

"As the theater of the world's greatest epic poem, Troy deserves a visit any year, every year. In the thoughts and emotions it revives and stimulates, in the aroused sense of indebtedness of all subsequent literature and art, it richly repays a visit. The classical student will leave it in a daze of meditation upon things more real to him than the actual things he has seen and touched."

Nine Layers of Cities.

On the side where the German savant, Schliemann, unearthed Homer's Troy, nine layers of old-time cities were found, one above the other. They were builded, destroyed, and forgotten here during the more than 5,000 years that civilization has lived upon the products of the fertile valley. The topmost layer contained the remains of the Roman city of Illium; two Hellenic villages were found directly beneath it, which flourished here between 1000 B. C. and the Christian era. The sixth city from the bottom was determined Homer's Troy. The bottom layers contained the remains of prehistoric settlements, unimportant villages that have escaped every memory except these few, uncovered, decaying stones. In the second or Burnt City, probably 800 years before the time of Troy, was found a considerable mass of buried treasure, silver jars, gold daggers and wonderfully wrought diadems of gold. Describing the country around Troy, Mr. Conner continues:

Where the Gods Conferred.

"Yonder the summit of Mt. Ida, where the gods in solemn conclave so often sat, where 'cloud-compelling Zeus' sometimes 'thought two ways in his mind at once," or else ended all debate with a nod that shook high Olympus and caused the heavens to reverberate and glow with the flash of his thunderbolt.

"Away over yonder, skirting the ridge of Illium, is Simois' stream, or should be; but the bridge across it shows upon our approach that modern Simois is no more than a creek. Worse than that; following its attenuated course, less than a mile downstream, we discover that it ends in a morass instead of joining the Scamander as of yore. And the latter stream is scarcely less disappointing, for it is no more dignified in size or appearance. In fact, their sluggish currents united can scarcely boast of banks except at occasional intervals, for both streams are now only broad swales merging with the adjacent plain, with no continuous current toward the sea except in seasons of high water, if such are ever known.

"And such beautiful plains! they were well worth fighting for, gently undulating as they retreat from the former river courses, and most homelike, cultivable places for peaceful abode. Little rounded oak trees are studded about the plain in solitary, independent fashion—oak trees resembling apple trees in size and periphery.

"Hill of Illium."

"Behold the ruins at last! A long, low ridge, some four or five miles in length, ends abruptly like a promontory projecting into the sea, above which it rises about 30 feet. The ridge is the so-called 'Hill of Illium,' the sea is the flood plain of the Simois and the Scamander, historically known as the plain of Troy, and the promontory, with its crown of ruins, is Troy itself. You walk around the ruins and make the surprising discovery that if the walking were good you could easily do it in ten minutes. Astonishing! Is this all there was of Troy, and did this little stronghold withstand a nine years' siege and still remain unconquered by force? Impossible! The whole hill of Illium may have been fortified and to some extent populated; otherwise how was the garrison provisioned? Unpoetic details like these never troubled Homer, so why bother about them?"

Within sight, almost, of Tenedos, the island base of the attacking allied armies, and within sound and reach of the big guns, the old ruins are watching over the present fighting, a greeting from the days of the first western siege to the greatest siege of modern times.

"WOODROW WILSON DAY" CELEBRATED AT FAIR

San Francisco, July 2.—A presidential salute of twenty-one guns boomed, a great American flag was unfurled, soldiers presented arms and the composite voice of thousands all but drowned the roar of guns as celebration of "Woodrow Wilson day" was begun yesterday at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

President Wilson, at his summer home at Cornish, N. H., pressed a button which electrically released the flag here as the signal for the program to begin.

Tributes to President Wilson were spoken by United States Senator James D. Phelan, Governor Hiram W. Johnson, Congressman John I. Nolan and Charles C. Moore, president of the exposition. Mayor James Rolph, Jr., presided.

COURT NOW ONLY ONE YEAR BEHIND

Docket of United States Supreme Court Contains 535 Cases.

Washington, July 2.—Adjournment of the supreme court for the summer months marks the completion of twenty-five years' operation of the present judicial system, instituted by the Evarts law of 1890. This law created the nine circuit courts of appeals, which virtually became a sort of sub-supreme courts to relieve the highest tribunal of the great pressure of cases which were congesting its docket and contributing to the law's delays.

At the opening of the new system the supreme court was three years behind in its work, and much more time elapsed before cases were decided. Three years passed between the time a case was docketed there and the time it was presented, complete, to the justices for decision.

Today the supreme court is only one year behind on its work. During the twenty-five years, 10,766 cases have been filed there—an average of 420 a year, more than one for every day. During that time the court has disposed of 11,419, which included 1,200 waiting when the new system went into effect. But for the latter the court now would be abreast of its work.

During the court year just ended, 528 cases were filed and 539 were disposed of and the docket now contains 535, the smallest number during the last six years. Only three years in the court's history saw more cases disposed of. They were 1890, 1912 and 1913.

NUMBER OF SAILING SHIPS HAS INCREASED

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Panama, June 10.—Since the opening of the Panama canal it has been noticed by shipping agents in Panama City that the number of sailing ships to appear on the seas has rapidly increased. All of these have at one time or another passed through the waterway.

Shipping authorities attribute the increase in sail tonnage to the high freights due to the European war with the consequent lack of steam bottoms of neutral countries. It is stated that most of these sailing ships are of American register. They are employed in carrying wheat and other grains from United States Pacific ports to England and case oils from the United States ports to the Far East.

FOUR NAMES ON SCHOOL BALLOT

Board Will Meet to Prepare Ballot—Other Business.

Petitions favoring the candidacy of four men whose names will appear on the board of education ballot July 17 will be accepted and filed at the monthly meeting of the board tonight.

The four men are: Frank A. Brewer, present head of the board; Dr. D. E. Seashore, C. Francis Colman and C. G. Firoved. All but Mr. Firoved now are serving on the board, and have been enthusiastically indorsed by many friends who have approved of their work as directors.

Aside from making arrangements for the election, the feature of the meeting will be the discussion of and action upon a report to be presented by the school committee, advocating the establishment of special classes for the deaf, mute and mentally defective children, with expert teachers.

Mrs. T. J. Davis, chairman of the committee on schools, is heartily in favor of the special classes, and believes that thirty children could be enrolled in such classes with excellent results.

Chairman W. B. Getchell of the committee on schools will report the completion of the new Harriet Beecher Stowe school, foundation work on the Lincoln junior high school, and repairs at the Kenwood school.

No recommendation for a school at the steel plant will be made to the board this year, according to Mr. Getchell. A building will not be erected there for at least another year, and there are no immediate plans for it.

E. R. Cobb of the administrative and financial committee also will give a report.

MICE CAUSE $3,200 FIRE

Nibble Matches and Members of Binane Family Are Routed.

Sleepers Aroused at 5 a. m. and Narrowly Escape Flames.

When mice nibbled some matches in the pantry at the home of P. Binane, 2507 London road, this morning early, they started a fire which routed the family out in their nightclothes and caused a loss of about $8,200.

About 5 o'clock this morning Miss Mary Binane was awakened, and smelling smoke, she went downstairs to investigate. When she opened the door leading to the kitchen, the explosion sent smoke and flames into her face, and she barely had time to rouse the rest of the family.

Assistant Chief Wilson, after an investigation, said that the fire undoubtedly started in the pantry shelves, and advanced the theory that mice were responsible.

Damage to the house was between $600 and $700, according to the firemen, but Philip Hauft, who lives there but who was away for the night, estimated that the loss would exceed $3,000. It is fully covered by insurance.

A large collection of hand-painted and Haviland china, together with the Binane silverware and linens, were destroyed, but firemen, after a record run, succeeded in saving all but the west wing of the house.

WIDOW'S AWARD OF $1,200 SUSTAINED

Supreme Court Upholds Verdict Against Great Northern Railroad.

Although there were no eye witnesses to the accident in the Great Northern railroad yards at Superior on Jan. 14, 1913, in which Anton Kludzinski, section hand, met death, circumstantial evidence supports the inference that he was killed by reason of the railway company's negligence, according to a decision handed down by the Minnesota supreme court today.

As a result of the supreme court's ruling, the Great Northern must pay Elizabeth Kludzinski, the widow, $1,200. She sued for $10,000 damages, but a jury on May 26, 1914, returned a verdict for $2,000. Judge Cant, however, considered the verdict excessive and ordered a new trial be granted unless the widow agreed to having the verdict reduced to $1,200. Mr. Kludzinski consented, but the company appealed to the supreme court.

Kludzinski was working as a section hand in the Superior yards on the day of the accident. A short time before his death, he was ordered to clean the snow from a certain switch. When last seen alive, he was working at this switch. This was about five or ten minutes before his body was discovered, frightfully mangled. His overshoe was found between the switchbar and a tie and there were circumstances to indicate that his foot had been drawn from it and then crushed.

The company claimed that because of the absence of witnesses, the verdict was not justified. The supreme court, however, holds otherwise. Among other things, the appellate court states in its review of the case:

"In such a case, circumstantial evidence as to the cause of the injury is sufficient if it furnishes a reasonable basis for the jury to infer that some wrongful act of the defendant was the cause. The evidence was sufficient to support an inference that deceased was killed at this switch.

"The engineer in a switching yard where men are constantly working upon the tracks owes a duty to keep a lookout for them. His duty is that of reasonable care. The evidence is such that a jury might well find that the engineer did not exercise such care."

PHILIPP MENTIONED FOR U. S. SENATOR

Bennett of Wisconsin Speaks of Him as Candidate in Senate.

Madison, Wis., July 2.—Governor Philipp for United States senator was mentioned by Senator Bennett today.

When the agricultural annexation bill came up, Senator Everett offered an amendment making the state fair board an advisory body and subsidiary to the consolidation board. He asked that the bill be laid over until Wednesday.

"This bill is marked for slaughter, like the rest," declared Senator Bennett. "Senators who are asking to have this matter laid over for the purpose of making slight amendments cannot be satisfied. They are afraid that if all these bills go through, Governor Philipp will be a candidate for United States senator. If they do not go through, he will have to stay at home and fight out these measures in a gubernatorial campaign."

Senator Bennett is a recognized floor leader for the administration and in close touch with Governor Philipp.

The bill was laid over until Wednesday by a vote of 16 to 10.

WITNESSES FOR STATE

Policemen and Others Tell of Irrational Acts By Thaw.

Believed Mrs. Thaw Will Appear in Answer to Subpoena.

New York, July 2.—Justice Hendrick and the jury at Harry K. Thaw's sanity trial had heard most of the state's documentary evidence when court reconvened today. Counsel for the state brought their witnesses in the expectation of calling the first of them this afternoon. Policemen who arrested Thaw immediately after he shot Stanford White were among those waiting to testify.

Satisfied that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be here early next week in response to a subpoena calling her as a witness, the state's attorney had abandoned his preparations to obtain an attachment to compel her presence in court.

Policeman Witness.

After the introduction of further documentary evidence the state called as its first witness James M. Barrett, a policeman assigned to the Tenderloin police station on the night Harry Thaw was taken there after the killing of Stanford White. He gave testimony intended by the state to prove that Thaw, while in his cell was under a delusion that he heard the voices of little girls screaming.

"Thaw asked me two or three times," said the witness, "'Where are those little girls screaming?' I told him there were no little girls. Some women had been arrested and one was shouting and carrying on. I told him they were women and he said: 'Oh, no; they aren't. They're little girls. I hear them screaming.' He asked me who was beating and abusing them."

Thaw, when brought into the station, said the witness, had his head thrown back and his eyes were staring.

Thomas F. Lynch, on duty at the police station the following day, said that Thaw had talked to him also about little girls.

Conduct Irrational.

Thaw's conduct when he was forcibly deported from Canada was described by Frank McFadden, a Canadian immigration officer, who had charge of Thaw while he was in jail at Sherbrooke, Que. When told that he was to be deported, Thaw, he said, "flared up in an awful rage." "He threw a bottle through a window," said McFadden, "and shouted, 'They're kidnaping me.'"

Henry Giroux, one of the immigration inspectors, who took Thaw from the jail, corroborated McFadden, adding that Thaw appeared "dangerously mad."

At the conclusion of Giroux's cross-examination the reading of documentary evidence was resumed and occupied the rest of the forenoon session.

three vessels sent to the bottom by the German submarine today, was a tank steamer of 4,656 tons gross. On her last eastern voyage across the Atlantic she left Port Arthur May 12 and Newport News May 20, for Dartmouth. She was 365 feet long, 49 feet beam and 28 feet deep. She was built at Sunderland in 1899 and was owned by the Petroleum Steamship company of London.

The Inglemoor, according to the latest maritime records, left Bahai Blancha, Argentina, March 31, bound for Naples. She was of 4,331 gross tons and was built at Blyth in 1912. She was 363 feet long, 51 feet beam and 27 feet deep. She was owned by W. Runciman & Co. of London.

The steamer Welbury left Kingston, Jamaica, May 22 by way of Matanzas, Cuba, June 8, for a port in the United Kingdom. The Welbury was of 3,591 tons gross and was built at West Hartlepool in 1907. She was 340 feet long, 48 feet beam and 24 feet deep. She was owned by the Burg Shipping company, Ltd., of Hartlepool.

Schooner and Bark Sunk.

The British schooner L. C. Tower, which left Parrsboro, N. S., June 1 for Newport, Eng., was sunk off Fastnet today by a German submarine. The undersea boat then sank a bark six miles away. The crew of nine of the schooner was landed at Queenstown.

Fourteen Missing.

The torpedo boat destroyer Lightning was damaged Wednesday night off the east const by a mine or torpedo. She is now in harbor. Fourteen members of the crew are reported as missing. Announcement that the Lightning had been damaged was contained in an official communication issued by the British admiralty tonight.

The British steamship Lomas, bound from Argentina to Belfast with a cargo of corn, was sunk by a German submarine Wednesday afternoon, sixty miles west of the Scilly islands.

The submarine first fired two shots, presumably as a summons to haul-to, but the second shell struck the steamer, killing the second officer. The crew took to the boats and were picked up by a Belgian trawler and landed at Milford Haven. The submarine sent the Lomas to the bottom by a torpedo and shell fire.

The Lomas was of 3,048 tons gross, her length being 325 feet. She was built in 1898 at West Hartlepool and was owned by the Buenos Aires & Southern Railroad company of Hull.

Italian Ship Sunk.

The Italian ship Sardomene, timber laden, was torpedoed without warning five miles from Castletown, Bear Haven, Ireland. Two of the crew were killed outright and several were wounded or missing. Seven were saved.

The Sardomene sailed from Bunbury on Feb. 21 for London. She was a vessel of 2,000 tons gross and was built in 1882.

Word has been received from Castletown, Bear Haven, that nine of the Sardomene's crew were drowned and two others died of injuries. The mate is the only officer among the nine survivors, two of whom were wounded. After the submarine had fired on the Sardomene, she disappeared within two minutes. The crew had no opportunity of saving their lives, and but for the timely arrival of a patrol, all would have been lost.

appear in today's reports from Consul Silliman.

A special train of twelve cars loaded with corn which left Vera Cruz yesterday for Pachuca, destined to Mexico City, was accompanied by armed guards furnished by Gen. Carranza. The latter expedition is thought here to be the one Gen. Carranza expects to take into the capital if his troops enter. The state department's announcement today said:

"The train was provided with an armed escort and was accompanied by W. P. Gavin, an American citizen. Mr. Silliman states that the secretary of war and the railroad officials at Vera Cruz gave special attention to the loading and transportation of this shipment, giving a preference over their own needs.

"Consul Silliman also advises that Consul General Shanklin and C. J. O'Connor, representative of the American Red Cross, went to Mexico City on June 30 from Pachuca, taking with them light freight, but leaving heavier articles behind."

To Be Reviewed by President.

There was no direct word today from Mexico City. The texts of reports telling of chaos and rioting that menaced foreigners will not be made public until after President Wilson has had an opportunity to review them thoroughly. All important information coming to the state department regarding Mexico is being forwarded promptly to the president at Cornish, N. H.

Secretary Tumulty communicated early with Secretary Lansing and forwarded all the state department advices to the president.

It was said at the state department that while plans for sending supplies into Mexico City through neutral agencies were under consideration, they had not assumed "very definite form."

Efforts to induce Gen. Carranza to permit sending supplies to the capital from Vera Cruz are to be made, it is declared.

A telegram reaching the state department today and forwarded to the Red Cross here said:

"Just informed that Consul General Shanklin, Joseph W. Rowe, his secretary, C. J. O'Connor of the Red Cross, and C. B. Wood, secretary, left Gen. Gonzales' headquarters this (Thursday) afternoon for Mexico City."

Hospitals in Mexico City are practically without surgical supplies, and the Red Cross delegatjon is taking in bandages, chloroform and drugs, in advance of the supplies of food which are being held up until there is some assurance of transportation into the capital.

Railroad and telegraphic communication between the coast and the Yaqui valley are uninterrupted, Admiral Howard reported today to the navy department, and quiet prevails in the valley where Indian outbreaks against Americans and other foreign settlers have occurred. Apparently steps taken by Governor Maytorena, the Villa commander of the state, have completely checked the Indians.

OFFICIALS WILL VISIT WORK FARM

Council Will Pass on June Payrolls and Be Ward's Guests.

After meeting in special session this afternoon to pass on the June payrolls, the city commissioners will motor to the work farm, where they will be the guests of Supt. Ward at supper.

This will be the first time that the present council has visited the city and county work farm since it took office last April.

The invitation to visit the farm was extended to the commissioners this morning by A. H. Crassweller, chairman of the city and county work farm board. Judge Smallwood of the municipal court will also make the trip.

The special meeting of the council this afternoon is to be held so that the city employes can have their June salaries before the Fourth. Tomorrow will be pay day, it was announced.

ORDER FOR PAVING WILL BE RESCINDED

Kenilworth and Sussex Avenue Property Owners Make Protest.

Because the property owners have filed a remonstrance petition against an improvement this year, the resolution passed June 7, awarding the contract for the paving of Kenilworth and Sussex avenue to Rogers & McLean, will be rescinded at the council meeting next Monday.

Commissioner Voss yesterday prepared a resolution rescinding the former measure and as a result the roadway will not be improved this year. The petition, it is reported, is signed by over 50 per cent of the owners.

The city treasurer is also instructed in the resolution to cancel all assessments against the property to be benefited by the proposed pavement and to refund all money already paid by the owners.

It was planned to pave Kenilworth avenue, from Livingston street to Princeton place, and Sussex avenue, from Kenilworth avenue to Snively road.

MOTOR TO CALIFORNIA.

Couple Wedded at Arnold Are on Novel Honeymoon.

Arnold, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wedding of Miss Elsbeth Hosig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hosig, and Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, Jr., was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents Monday, June 28. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Burnett, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Vaughan, brother of the groom, of Ann Arbor, Mich. The bride and groom are motoring to California on their honeymoon and on their return will reside in Detroit, Mich.

WILL BE KEPT OUT OF MEXICO

United States Will Use Force If Necessary to Keep Huerta.

Not to Be Allowed to Cross Border to Complicate Things.

Washington, July 2.—Gen. Victoriano Huerta, former dictator and president of Mexico, whose defiance of President Wilson led to the seizure of Vera Cruz by American marines and bluejackets, will not be permitted to enter Mexico from the United States at a time when his presence would be a further menace to the plans of this government to restore peace, if the Federal government can prevent it.

Determination to keep Huerta from crossing the southern border of the United States and thus complicating the present Mexican situation with a new revolution, reached the point today where four different ways of detaining the former Mexican chieftain were under consideration by various departments of the United States government.

Secretary Lansing, in referring to the receipt of a formal request for the extradition of Huerta from the military authorities of the state of Chihuahua, intimated that the Federal government could, if it chose, withdraw its present charges of violating American neutrality laws and surrender Huerta to the Villa commander at Juarez.

Secretary Wilson, of the department of labor, has under consideration a plan for deporting Huerta to Spain, under the immigration laws covering the return of undesirable aliens.

Use Force If Necessary.

Gen. Funston of the department of Texas, has orders to use the military forces at his disposal to prevent Huerta from crossing the line while at liberty on bail.

The department of justice is gathering evidence for the prosecution of Huerta under Federal statutes. Until the hearing on July 12, Gen. Huerta will be kept from re-entering Mexico by the joint efforts of agents of the department of justice and the troops of the American border patrol. Fearing that Huerta might forfeit his bond of $15,000 and cross at some secluded point on the Mexican border and join some of the bands believed to be awaiting him on Mexican territory, officials have ordered that a strict watch be kept.

Just how Gen. Funston is to take care of Huerta was not made clear today but it is assumed that American troops not only will be instructed to watch the border carefully but if necessary place a guard around Huerta's home and otherwise keep him under surveillance.

It has not been definitely determined what action will be taken on the request for extradition made by the Villa governor of Chihuahua.

CLOQUET BRIEFS.

Cloquet, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Esther Ohman of Minneapolis and Miss Helga Ohman of Glenwood City, Wis., returned to their respective homes today after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ohman on Sixth street. En route home Miss Helga Ohman will spend a few days in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Doughtery and sons, James and Homer of Glenwood, Minn., arrived here Tuesday evening for a visit with Mrs. Doughtery's sister and brother, Mrs. John McKenna and Tim Chamberlain. Mr. Doughtery returned Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Heine of Faribault and Mrs. E. Quarfoot of Minneapolis were the guests from Saturday until Wednesday of E. Hudberg, Alfred Norman and H. Ornell.

J. T. Sheean left last Thursday evening on a business trip to Maine, New Hampshire and New York.

Miss Mary Shultz and John Dudeais were married Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock at St. Casimer's Polish Catholic church, Rev. Father Szczukowski officiating.

Mrs. Henry Beyers and Miss Charlotte Enroth left Wednesday for Minneapolis to attend the M. B. A. convention. They will visit at Rochester before returning.

John Wendlke of Watford, N. D., visited in Cloquet last week, returning Saturday to his home. Mr. Wendike was formerly a resident of this city, but left eight years ago for North Dakota, where he is farming on a homestead.

Miss Katheryn Bertram was hostess to a number of friends Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Clarence Bertram. The party was in the nature of a linen shower and Mrs. Bertram was the recipient of a number of beautiful gifts.

THIEF RIVER FALLS OFFICIALS INDICTED

President and Three Councilmen Charged With Liquor Law Violation.

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Fred Herrack and Aldermen Frank Effinger, A. Hakele and A. M. Langseth of the city council, were indicted late yesterday by the grand jury charged with issuing liquor licenses to persons convicted of violating the liquor laws within the previous year. All were arraigned this morning and pleaded not guilty. The cases will be tried this term of court.

C. H. Porter and Nick Kessler were indicted for selling liquor without a license although the council granted them a license recently, but they had been convicted of violating the law. Porter was arraigned today and pleaded not guilty.

Doctor Is Indicted.

Other indictments are: Dr. J. C. R. Charest, manslaughter, in connection with the death of Mrs. Howard Gesel, following a criminal operation; Ed. Syveson, seduction; Andrew Friseth, furnishing liquor to Indians.

LOOK FOR GERMAN REPLY NEXT WEEK

Lansing Does Not Expect It Until the Fourth at Least.

Washington, July 2.—Secretary Lansing indicated today that he does not expect the reply of the German government to the latest American note regarding the Lusitania incident will be transmitted until July 4 at least. According to Berlin press advices, the answer is now before Emperor William at his army headquarters. A delay until next week will bring the new German note to Washington after President Wilson's return from his summer residence at Cornish.

MISUSE OF THE AMERICAN FLAG

Matter Will Be Called to Attention of Great Britain in Note.

Washington, July 2.—Representations concerning the misuse of the American flag by British merchantmen will be included in the general note which the United States intends soon to send to Great Britain covering restraints of American commerce in connection with the so-called blockade.

Secretary Lansing disclosed today that the investigation being conducted by the United States government into cases of alleged misuse of the American flag to deceive German submarine commanders had not yet been completed but that evidence in specific cases probably would be called separately to the attention of Great Britain, while the general subject would be included in the new note.

ATTENDING TO STATE AFFAIRS

President Puts in Forenoon Considering Official Matters.

Cornish, N. H., July 2.—President Wilson spent the most of this forenoon in his study at Harlakenden house working on state department matters and other official business sent here from Washington.

The president read carefully reports from the state department on the Armenian incident, studied communications concerning Mexico, and examined a report from Secretary Lansing on data laid before the state department by a committee of importers protesting against alleged British interference with trade between the United States and other neutral countries. This information will be considered carefully in the preparation of the final draft of the note soon to be sent to Great Britain. Later Mr. Wilson and Dr. Cary T. Grayson braved the rain and walked through the woods surrounding the president's summer estate. An automobile trip was to be taken in the afternoon if the conditions of the roads should permit. It was said at Harlakenden house today that the president expects to remain here another week unless pressing business should intervene.

BRIDGE TENDER HURT.

Hurled Into River at Baudette During Storm.

Baudette, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—This section has been visited by one of the heaviest rains that fell here. The Rainy river and its tributaries have never been as high. During the storm last week Ben Brownless, bridge-tender of the International bridge, was thrown into the river as he was swinging it to allow a boat to pass. The bar he held in his hand was wrenched from him as the wind struck the half open bridge. In falling he hit his head on a timber and with much difficulty was able to climb on the bridge again.

Lloyd Robertson received a heavy shock from the electrical storm on Monday as he was working in the Robertson pop factory. The fact that he had wooden shoes on helped to break the charge.

MOTHER GIVEN PENSION.

First North Dakota Case of Kind at Jamestown.

Jamestown, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first mother's pension granted in the state was allowed in probate court here when Mrs. J. Harris of this city was given $20 a month.

Mrs. Harris has two children, the youngest being 2 years old—so that she will receive aid in bringing up her children for the next twelve years, unless she remarries or departs from the state.

McKENZIE COUNTY GLANDERS EXTERMINATED

Schafer, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state livestock sanitary board announces the spread of glanders among the horses of McKenzie county has been effectually checked and the disease will soon be eliminated. Veterinarians have tested hundreds of horses in this part of the county alone, giving both the serum and the opthalmic tests to the animals. Many animals were killed but prompt quarantine regulations prevented the epidemic from becoming general.

NORTH DAKOTA BOY CRIPPLED BY MACHINE

Noonan, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—One leg of the 4-year-old son of Casper Zimmerman was amputated and the other was badly lacerated as a result of a collision with a mowing machine. The boy was chasing chickens in the farm yard, where Mr. Zimmerman had hitched a team to a mowing machine, preparatory to going to the field. One of the chickens frightened the team and when the horses ran the little boy was caught in front of the sickles.

SHIPMENTS FAR AHEAD

Present Ore Season Leads Last By 3,000,000 Tons.

Expectation Growing That This Year Will Show Up Well.

Ore shipments from the docks in this harbor and at Two Harbors up to July 1, are 3,074,901 tons more than at the same date a year ago, and this is taken to mean that the record of last year will be greatly over-topped and that of the previous year, while not equaled, will be within shouting distance. The opening of the season was far better than was expected by the most sanguine, and as the shipping season has developed, still better things are coming in sight.

It appears clearer as time goes on, that 1915 will go down in history as a first-class year for ore; and if orders from plants on the Atlantic coast come along, as is expected, because of the lack of shipping facilities with which to bring up Cuban and Chilean ores, it may be that the current season will become a record-breaker.

The total shipments of ore from this end of the lake to July 1 amount to 8,892,792 tons as against 5,817,891 tons a year ago. The shipments by docks, compared with the shipments of last year, follows:

	1915.	1914.

TRY CASE AGAINST COUNTY.

Farmer Claims Land Was Taken for Roadway.

Taking of testimony in the action brought by John Uylen against St. Louis county was concluded this morning in Judge Cant's division of the district court and this afternoon the case was given to the jury. Uylen claims that the county took 2½ acres of his land for a roadway and that the road builders destroyed a fence, thereby letting cattle into fields of growing crops. Uylen is demanding $923.50 damages. The county claims that Uylen was benefited by the construction of the road and what damages he has sustained, if any, are offset by the improvement. The farm is located in the town of Pine Lakes, south of Floodwood.

ALL RIGHT PRINTED BUT NOT TO REPEAT

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—"What is printed may not always be repeated."

This position was taken in an opinion filed by the supreme court today, and as a result Anna W. Lowry, an anti-Catholic lecturer, will have to submit to a fine imposed by the municipal court of Winona on a charge of using obscene language. Mrs. Lowry appealed from the findings.

The lecturer addressed an assemblage of women in a public hall in Winona. Some of the remarks made by her did not appeal to her hearers, and a complaint was made accusing her of using obscene language. She was accordingly fined for the violation of a local ordinance.

The plea of the defendant was that the remarks made were quotations from a standard work on theology.

Commenting on this claim, the supreme court says that such does not justify. While the same may read properly, their use in public is not always proper.

ADDING TWO DIVISIONS

Naval Militia Will Soon Have Its Complement of Men.

Lindstrom and Crosby Will Be Represented By Deck Divisions.

Within the next ten days naval militia divisions will be mustered in at Lindstrom, Minn., and Crosby.

Capt. Guy A. Eaton, commander of the naval militia, announced today that he had approved the Crosby petition, as had Adjt.-Gen. Wood, and that a full deck division would be mustered in there within the next few days.

Lindstrom men have been working for some time to secure a division of the naval militia in their city, and their petition finally has been approved.

Counting the deck division recently mustered in at Bemidji, and the engineering division planned for Duluth, the two new divisions will fill out the complement allowed Minnesota.

Under a law passed at the last legislature, naval militia authorities were given permission to double the strength of the state organization, increasing the number of divisions from four to eight.

When the two new ones are mustered in, Minnesota will have a company of naval cadets at Pine City, Bemidji, Crosby and Lindstrom, in addition to the four at Duluth. All are deck divisions but two of those at Duluth, which are composed of engineers.

The action of authorities in increasing the naval strength is in accord with the national policy of strengthening the home reserves. Every naval militiaman will be given an opportunity of passing an examination giving him the same rank in the navy that he holds in the militia.

WOULD DIVERT HALF MILL TAX

Voss Will Recommend Its Transfer to Interest and Sinking Funds.

When Commissioner Voss, head of the finance division, presents the 1916 budget to the council for confirmation next fall, he will recommend that the one-half mill tax that is turned over to help pay the bonded debt of the water and light department be diverted to the interest and sinking funds.

"Duluth is one of a very few large cities of the country," said Mr. Voss, "that is now paying rental for water hydrants and bubbling and horse fountains. In addition this city is turning over one-seventh of its 13-mill tax levy to the water and light department to help pay the bonded debt.

"I would be willing to assist the department more than we do now, but our funds don't allow it. On the other hand, payment of about $80,000 altogether keeps the city from getting better streets and necessary improvements.

"For this reason I am going to recommend that the one-half mill levy be turned over to the interest or sinking funds. This will amount to about $27,000 and will still give the water department more than $60,000 every year. With the additional $27,000 next year the city will be able to establish a good garbage system that is needed more than anything else."

It is estimated that the tax levy will be increased about $13,000 next year, as a result of the increased valuation in real estate and personal property expected by City Assessor Scott. He estimates that the total valuation will reach the $54,500,000 mark, being about $1,000,000 more than last year.

The 1916 budget will be presented during the first week in October.

ENTRY TO UNITED STATES MADE LEGAL

The United States immigration authorities let "mercy season justice" today and legalized the entry into the United States of Niek Iwasink and his wife, who were arrested here after undergoing great hardships in making their way on foot to this country. They walked from Luzon, Man., to Lancaster, Minn., a distance of fully fifty miles.

Iwasink told the authorities here, after being arrested by immigration Officer McDonald at the Soo station, that he feared arrest by the military authorities of Canada, as he was eligible for service in the Austrian army. Iwasink was taken to police headquarters and later placed in jail, while his wife was sheltered in the municipal lodging house.

Mr. McDonald was unable to take any other course, and sent a complete report of the case to the department at Washington. The Federal officials decided the best course would be to legalize their entry to the United States and release them.

NOTHING TO DO WITH MURDER

New York, July 2.—Bridgie Webber, one of the three self-confessed accomplices in the plot which resulted in the killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, has said, according to his attorney, that Charles Becker "had absolutely nothing to do with the murder."

A statement to this effect was made today by H. T. Marshall, an attorney.

"Becker," said Mr. Marshall, "had absolutely nothing to do with the murder of Rosenthal. Bridgie Webber, when he employed me as his counsel, at the first trial, admitted this to me and said that he and the others were perjuring themselves in order to save their skins. When Webber told me that I told him to get another lawyer.

"From that time on my mouth was sealed. I could not speak because of professional obligations, but had I not been convinced of Becker's innocence I would not have aligned myself with the lawyers in his defense at the second trial. I never would have entered the case had I not known from what Bridgie Webber told me that Becker was deliberately 'framed up' by Wenner, Harry Vallon, Jack Rose and Sam Schepps."

NEW HAVEN SETTLES TROUBLE WITH CLERKS

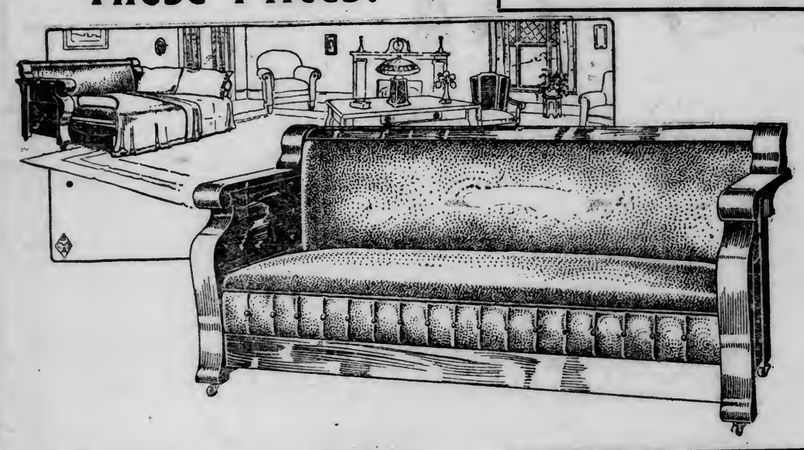

New Haven, Conn., July 2.—After negotiations extending over two months, during which a general strike was threatened, the differences between the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and its freight clerks were finally settled late last night through the efforts of a Federal mediator, G. W. W. Hanger of Washington.

The most important settlement provides that clerks may appeal their grievances, except incompetency cases, to the general superintendent, who shall appoint a committee, of which he may be a member, to hold a hearing and make final disposition of the matter.

Who'd Turn Away Visiting Friends When Davenports Sell at These Prices?

These Davenports Well Built

It isn't the palsy, shaky kind that seems on the point of a nervous breakdown everytime you open or close it. It is a great, big, comfortable and substantially built Daveno Davenport that will give years of continuous service and always look well because it is made as well as one of the best factories can make them.

Handsome Enough to Buy for Looks Alone

Even though you did not use your davenport as a bed throughout the season, you would be justified in buying one of these as a handsome piece of living room or parlor furniture. The beautiful designs and coverings lending beauty and dignity to any room. Being equipped with the Way Sagless spring, they are just as comfortable as a regular bed.

The Credit Terms Don't Equal the Rent of an Extra Room

If you were to rent a new home with an additional room, it would cost you more per month for this extra room than we ask you to pay each month on one of the davenports. At the end of the year, if renting an extra room, you have nothing to show, but at the end of the year if you buy one of these davenports, you not only have an extra sleeping room, but a beautiful piece of furniture as well.

ALFRED HANCHETT told of the convention of the National Advertising Men's association held in Chicago last month and Fred Ward, superintendent of the city and county work farm, told of the work at the farm at the meeting of the Woman's council held this morning in the library clubroom.

Mrs. W. W. Lawrence, vice president of the council, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, who is in California. Reports were given by Mrs. J. T. Watson on the lunches that have been served children of the Irving school district by the Housewives' league, Mrs. Carl Lonegren reported for the dental clinic committee and Dr. Sarah McClaran of the Woman's Rotary club reported on the efforts of that organization to get early closing hours for retail stores on Saturdays.

Talks on Advertising.

Mrs. R. C. Dryer, chairman of the committee on offensive advertising, introduced Mr. Hanchett, who said:

"I think the message of service based on truth is what the advertising men of the country wish to point out as the result of their work during the past year. The interest in economy of attention is growing and the effort is to give news of interest to buyers rather than to cry 'wolf, wolf.' Advertising men are getting away from sensationalism and all that looks like untruth and are advertising from the women's standpoint instead of giving news of the store.

"The audit bureau checks up the circulation of every paper in the country so there will be no dummy subscribers. When there are dummy subscribers and advertisers pay for their advertisements on that standard you are paying more than you should pay every time you buy a package of tea or a sack of flour.

"Advertising has been called a profession by some persons, but the name seems to me to be pretentious as there is no educational basis on which a person may receive the degree, bachelor of advertising. Harvard and other universities have courses in advertising and the courses are becoming more and more practical, and many Y. M. C. A.s have courses."

Speaking of the convention held in Chicago, Mr. Hanchett said that although he had been to many conventions he had never seen one conducted with such poise as was the last one of the National Advertising Men's association.

Work Farm Methods.

Mrs. J. L. Washburn of the work farm committee reminded the members of the council that the first talk about a work farm for the city and county was given at a banquet of the Woman's council. Mr. Ward, whose talk on the work farm was often interrupted by applause, said:

"I am thankful to be able to say a few words in behalf of a class of men not generally understood. I am thankful also that I shall have an opportunity to go home and tell that a great many women had to keep quiet while one man talked.

"It is due to the board, three for the county and two from the city, that we are able to do so many things at the work farm, for the board is not made up of politicians, but of men who are interested in the welfare of the men at the farm.

"The first qualification for an officer is his interest in the men and probably about one-third of the officers are discharged men.

Three Things Needed.

"Every working man must have three things: All the nourishing food he wants, good night's rest and comfortable clothes. Give a man these and a chance to work, and that is about all he wants. Discipline takes care of itself; there is no patent on discipline. We make no threats and carry no firearms, and there are no bolts. Last year less than 6 per cent of the men ran away, this year less than 4 per cent. We are trying to run the institution for the 96 per cent good men. We go on the principle that every man is a gentleman until he proves that he isn't. The institution is there not only to keep men thirty or sixty days, but to put them on their feet.

"We believe amusement is just as important as anything else at the farm and so we have baseball teams, Fourth of July celebrations and a graphonola. Next year we shall try to build a log gymnasium.

"As to religion, it is a mistake to think all men need is external help. Ministers, members of the Y. W. C. A. and men who have been up against it come out and give talks to the men."

The Parole System.

Mr. Ward explained the parole system by which a man gets as high as two-fifths of his time if he works well. A record of the way a man works each day is handed in at night by the foreman of the crew. Some provision is made for the families of men who are serving time at the farm, and the superintendent said he looked forward to the time when every man in such an institution will receive good pay for his day's work. He explained that the 1,000 acres of the work farm is being divided into 80-acre tracts and cleared, it being the intention to provide each tract with a farm house and outbuildings, as the unit system is considered the best and as these tracts, if sold, will attract a good class of farmers. According to this tentative plan when the entire tract is cleared the farm may be located on another tract.

"We hope to have some classes next winter, especially in English, for foreigners, so they will be able to sign their names and know about their time cards. We also hope to have a tailoring shop next year.

"These are only makeshift conditions until we can work out better housing conditions, provide playgrounds and do away with saloons. We legalize saloons and then get after a man when he buys a 'drunk' with his own money.

All Treated Alike.

"Men who want to work, men who don't want to work and men who are physically and mentally unable to work are all treated alike. What we need is an arrangement that will provide employment for those who are willing to work, and a work farm for those who don't want to work. Then money will be left to take care of those who are mentally and physically unfit for labor."

Mrs. Watson reported that more than $300, or $20 a week, had been spent for lunches served to school children by the Housewives' league and that the average attendance a day was forty. The menus, which were based on those served to school children in large cities, consisted of a stew of meat, vegetables and barley, as much bread and butter as the children wanted, milk, jelly sandwiches and fresh or cooked fruit. She explained that this was often the only real meal a child received a day, the other so-called meals being very scant and of indifferent vlands.

Mrs. Watson said a petition is now before the board of education from the Housewives' league asking for the use of a room at the noon hour for the preparation and serving of lunches in any school building where the Housewives' league decided to provide food for the children.

Mrs. Lonegren reported that $524.47 had been taken in for the dental clinic and $380.01 expended, leaving a balance of $144.46.

Dr. McClaran said that many retail merchants, who were asked by the Woman's Rotary club to close early on Saturdays, said they had made their financial plans for the year, but that they would consider the matter next year if it were brought to their attention early enough.

"Hark! Hark! The Oatka Lark!"

"Agony Quartet" and Other Musicians Will Give Wednesday Night Programs.

Beginning Wednesday night, July 7, there will be an "Oatka Lark," in other words, a program of popular music, every Wednesday night from 7:30 to 8:30 at the Oatka branch of the Boat club on a float anchored in the harbor. The programs will include songs by the "Agony quartet," which is the most remarkable quartet and the only one of its kind in the world, as it has only three members. There will be a piano on the float and many of the best musicians of the city will take part in the larks from time to time.

The committee in charge of the "Oatka Larks" extends a cordial invitation to critical musicians to stay away as the programs are intended for amusement and not for a course in the appreciation of masterpieces. If musicians attend the committee will arrange to check their critical instincts at the entrance to the boat house or duck the critics at the first mention of "technique," "register" or "expression."

The Wednesday programs are supposed to be amusement sandwiches of an hour of popular music between picnic parties and dancing for which the Esther Gomberg orchestra will play at 8:30 o'clock.

About ninety were at Oatka last Wednesday for picnic parties and the dancing and the officers expect more than 100 to take their picnic luncheons or get them at the cafe, enjoy the "lark" and stay for the dancing next week.

The regular weekly dancing party, preceded by dinner, will be held at the main house tomorrow night.

DULUTH SOCIETY FINDS "TANGO TOWN" TO BE ATTRACTIVE POT-POURRI OF SONGS AND DANCES

Entertainment Given Under Auspices of King's Daughters for Benefit of Day Nursery Delights Large Audience at Orpheum.

Duluth never saw a prettier chorus than that which graced the Orpheum stage last evening, for the first presentation of "Tango Town," under the auspices of the King's Daughters, and for the benefit of the day nursery supported by them.

The chorus was quite unprofessionally pretty. It was unprofessional in its lack of surplus "makeup;" unprofessional in the fact that all of the members found it unnecessary to wear wigs; unprofessional in its ability to wear exceptionally pretty clothes modestly.

The men's chorus was also most unprofessional. Every man wore a dress suit as if he had worn it before, and every dress suit fitted. It was unprofessionally at home looking in white flannels. It was unprofessionally alert looking, and took an unprofessional interest in the proceedings.

And the entire chorus sang with a most unprofessional spirit. The average auditor gained the impression that they liked it, and were enjoying it all as much as the audience.

It was all very unprofessional, but very lively and very enjoyable. While Donald MacDonald, who directed the rehearsals, was not responsible for the undeniable good looks and grace of the chorus, nor for the pretty gowns, nor the ability to sing, he undoubtedly was responsible for the snap and vim with which the numbers were presented, and full credit should be given him for this.

Mr. MacDonald also contributed personally one of the most delicious numbers on the program—his appearance as "Autumn" in "The Dance of The Seasons." The dance which he did was reminiscent of the "Arrow Dance," also done by a Mr. Mordkin, and the "Bacchanale," also done by a Mr. Volinine, who have achieved some fame in Russian ballets. Mr. MacDonald was clad in brown negligee, and his dance was funny without the least trace of vulgarity. The satire was so subtle that it is doubtful if Mr. MacDonald himself recognized it. His ballroom dances were more— well, convincing, but less humorous.

Song and Dance.

"Tango Town" is a melange of song and dance, the first and third acts being devoted to popular song numbers, and the second act to dances.

The opening chorus, in a very attractive garden setting, was a lively number and put the audience in an expectant spirit for what was to follow.

Miss Marjorie Shipherd, supported by a chorus of men, followed, singing "I Want Someone to Love Me" in a most charming way.

"Love With a Capital L," by Mr. MacDonald and a chorus composed of Miss Helen Wall, Miss Harriet Harrison, Miss Nannie Turrish, Miss Charlotte Wilson, Miss Katherine Van Vleck, Miss Caroline Marshall, Miss Betty Merrill and Miss Marjorie Shipherd was the next number, and was given with much dash.

One of the cleverest numbers on the program was the burlesque on a moving picture show given by Miss Lucile Bradley, Miss Marjorie Morrow, Miss Marjorie Shipherd, Miss Nannie Turrish, Whitney Wall, Jr., Arthur Ryan, Wilbur McLean and Charles Cargill. The detail was well worked out and it provided just the dash of comedy needed.

"Little Girl Beware" was sung most daintily by Mrs. William Pitt Abbott and Mr. MacDonald.

Miss Edna Munsey's strong and clear soprano voice was heard to good effect in "A Wonderful Time," a song written for her by Frank Mandiville. With such a prepossessing stage presence, attractive mannerisms, and vocal equipment, it is not difficult to understand the success Miss Munsey has made in her profession since leaving Duluth.

The final number of the first act was "This Must Be Love," by Miss Marie Clark and the entire chorus. Miss Clark made a most charming stage picture, and sang delightfully.

The first dance number was a very pretty ensemble, called "Dance Des Pierrots et Pierrettes," by Miss Dorothy Davis, Miss Lucy Barnett, Miss Margaret Florada, Miss Charlene Bagley, Miss Nannie Turrish, Miss Katherine Van Vleck, Miss Berta Schmied, Laird Goodman, Wilbur McLean, Mitchell Norski, Whitney Wall, Jr., Carlisle Helmbach, John Hurdon and Paul Otis.

This was followed by a pretty little Chinese fox trot by Miss Katherine Van Vleck and Mr. MacDonald.

Miss Lucy Barnett and John Hurdon gave a very graceful tango number, followed by a dainty and graceful "Pas de Deux" by Mrs. William Pitt Abbott and Mr. MacDonald.

Miss Charlotte Wilson was delightfully pretty and graceful in her Valse Modern with Mr. Hurdon.

An unusual and clever conception was the "Danse Eccentrique," a solo number by Miss Berta Schmied. Miss Schmied's originality was never better evidenced.

This was followed by a most pleasing aeroplane waltz by Miss Lucy Barnett and Paul Otis.

Dance of the Seasons

"The Danse of the Seasons" was the climax of the dance program. It opened with "Spring." Miss Harriet Harrison as spring showed unusual grace and charm, and quite surprised her friends with her toe dancing. Mr. MacDonald was "The Spirit of Spring," and Miss Eulalie Chisholm appeared for a too brief interlude as a spring maiden. The little spring maidens who then trooped on gave one of the most enjoyable bits of the entire program. They were daintiness and grace personified. This chorus included: Miss Mary Towne, Miss Helen Christenson, Miss Charlotte Dowling, Miss Florence Draper, Miss Mary Cotton, Miss Jean Peyton, Miss Gertrude Collins, Miss Patsy Watson, Miss Mary Wahl, Miss Caroline Lyder, Miss Maxine Splenger, Miss Marcia Rood and Miss Elizabeth Ryerson.

Summer was charmingly interpreted by Miss Charlene Bagley, and the summer maidens were: Miss Josephine Cotton, Miss Eulalie Chisholm, Miss Allace Cowden, Miss Frances Turrish, Miss Dorothy Crosby, Miss Frances Sellwood, Miss Louise Burbridge, Miss Katherine MacGregor, Miss Katherine Abbott, Miss Eleanor Curry, Miss Agnes Alexander and Miss Cordelia Collins.

Mr. MacDonald followed in his interpretation of "Autumn" and was driven from the stage by "Winter," most effectively interpreted by Miss Berta Schmied.

The third act opened with a very attractive song number, "Get Me on the Phone," by Miss Jane Van Vleck, assisted by John Hasson and chorus. This was followed by an old favorite, "The Girl From Sherry's," repeated from "Up and Down Broadway." This was presented by Mr. MacDonald, assisted by the chorus, and by Miss Berta Schmied as the shy girl and Mrs. Alan Graeme Darling as the Boston girl. It was followed by a very clever and amusing burlesque on the song by Miss Lucile Bradley as a waitress from Larries, assisted by Charles Cargill and Wilbur McLean. This trio showed real ability as comedians.

Miss Edna Munsey's second number, "Come and Dream With Me in a Persian Garden," was beautifully presented. Miss Munsey was assisted by Miss Vera Lindahl, Miss Eulalie Chisholm, Miss Charlene Bagley and Miss Charlotte Wilson.

Miss Betty Merrill made a most delightful picture in the closing solo number, "I'm Looking for a Heart," and she sang it with real charm. She was assisted by Charles Fitzgerald, Laird Goodman, Frank Fee, M. Ovang, Graeme Darling, Carol Steele, Whitney Wall, Paul Otis, Arnold Fitger, Hartley Seymour, John Hasson, Frank Faleen, Edward Scriven and Carlisle Helmbach, and also by the young women of the chorus, who went "looking" through the audience with searchlights.

The finale was a rousing review of snatches of the songs sung during the evening.

Miss Julia Hunter conducted the orchestra for the song numbers and Leo Schmied for the dancing, and their work added much to the smoothness of the performance, which will be repeated this afternoon and tonight.

Athletic Contests for Boys and Girls at the Country Club Monday

The Fourth of July celebration at the Country club will be held Monday afternoon and night. In the afternoon there will be contests in sports for the children of members and at night there will be a dinner-dance.

All entries for the tennis matches for girls, which will begin at 3:30 o'clock, should be made by 3 o'clock Monday afternoon by signing the entry list in the main room at the clubhouse. In the tournament for girls under 18 years old, single sets will determine the individual matches, the set to be the best two out of three games. The prize will be a tennis racquet donated by the Kelley-How-Thomson company, which will give for the second prize three tennis balls.

The program for boys will be: 80-yard dash for boys under 12 years old, prize for winner, baseball mitt, donated by Pentecost Mitchell; 50-yard dash for boys under 12 years old, prize for winner, official baseball, donated by Fred White; threelegged race for boys under 12 years old, prizes for winning pair, two pocket knives, donated by W. J. Olcott; running broad jump for boys under 12 years old, prize for winner, flashlight, donated by Bagley & Co.

Representatives of Congressional Union Will Speak on Suffrage Saturday

Duluth friends of Miss Elsa Ueland of Minneapolis will be glad to hear that she will come to Duluth tomorrow with Mrs. Gertrude Hunter of Minneapolis and Miss Mabel Vernon of Washington, D. C., for a meeting that will be held in the library clubroom at 3 o'clock. The three women are members of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage that has its headquarters in Washington, D. C. They will explain the union tomorrow and will speak on other subjects relating to the question of woman suffrage. The Congressional union is not connected with the local suffrage organization.

Miss Vernon, one of the organizers, has been holding meetings in the Twin Cities. She is head of the Congressional union work in Delaware and for eight months was organizer on behalf of the Congressional union in the successful suffrage campaign in Nevada. She is a graduate of Swarthmore college.

Among the well known board members of the Congressional union are: Miss Hazel MacKaye, Mrs. Inez Millholland Boissevain, Miss Julia Marlowe, Miss Edith Wynne Matthison and Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. J. George Appel and son, Theodore of 415 Sixth avenue east, left this afternoon for a visit with friends and relatives in St. Paul and in Lamberton, Minn.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Why Old Women Are Cruel.

Older people, older women particularly, have a way of making young people feel small and ill at ease. In fact, they treat them sometimes almost as though they were in the criminal class, or at least of a very questionable character. Whatever prompts them to act as they do may not be laid to any one motive.

I have been shocked and made very angry many times at the ease with which older women speak the word which means the utter loss of reputation for a younger woman. Somehow they seem to have more consideration for women of their own years and older, but a young women, especially if she be prepossessing and successful in a line of work in which they are more or less interested, need expect no mercy from them, for she will get none if there is a thread by which they can hang her.

Quite often these older women count themselves cultured, highly educated, refined and whole-souled, but they strike wide of the mark of true womanhood by their attitude toward their younger sisters.

These older women, through worldly wisdom gained through years, could be veritable guide posts to the future happiness and success of young people if they would but take the right means. Young people are headstrong and in their inexperience are sublimely confident that they know it all and that they can wrest what they will from life without giving very much of themselves in exchange. It is not the easiest thing in the world to advise or make suggestions when you meet these conditions.

Yet I have heard older people give advice in a spirit that I would not blame any young person for disregarding, and then after something unpleasant had happened calmly fold their hands and state that they could not be held responsible. They had done their duty. Chances are, had they really done their duty as it should have been done if undertaken at all, there would be nothing for anyone to regret.

A girl friend of mine told me that she was in an office on business when the wife of the man who occupied the office came in. The wife looked my friend over as though she was a craven image without a single human sense. Being on business this young girl attempted to hurry her errand, but the look in the elderly woman's eye and her whole demeanor embarrassed her so that she had to make a hasty exit. It was a despicable act upon the part of the wife.

BUT IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.

In the fiscal year ending Wednesday the government of the United States spent $35,864,381 more than it took in. In the previous year its receipts were $34,418,677 greater than its expenditures. The net deficit for the first two years of the Wilson administration is less than a million and a half.

This despite the world convulsion of war that has cut off a large part of the imports on which the customs revenue depends.

Partisans, grasping at straws to make capital against the Democratic administration, will ring the changes on the 1915 deficit.

They will not mention the 1914 surplus. They will not mention the fact that there is still a comfortable treasury balance of nearly a hundred millions, so that there is no need to worry.

Above all, they will not mention the fact that if the Republicans had been in power and had held the tariff duties no matter how high, there would have been no Democratic income tax to make up the war losses from customs receipts, and that by this time it would have been necessary either to call an extra session of congress to enact new stamp tax laws or to issue bonds for current expenses.

If Genevieve Clark believes in signs, she will have a lot of excitement explaining to herself the significance of her fiance's participation in a railroad wreck while on the way to the wedding.

MR. BRYAN ON THE SALE OF MUNITIONS.

Mr. Bryan addressed an audience in Madison Square Garden the other night. It was an audience strongly pro-German and considerably anti-president, and though Mr. Bryan talked peace the main thought in the minds of those present, the thought given most emphasis in the resolutions overwhelmingly adopted, was that the United States ought not to permit its dealers to sell munitions of war to the Allies.

Mr. Bryan had nothing to say on this subject, though he talked at length and on varied lines.

Yet Mr. Bryan could not possibly have felt any agreement with the viewpoint of his audience on the sale of munitions of war.

On the twentieth of last January Mr. Bryan, in a letter written to a friend in the senate who represents a community containing a large number of Germans and those of German descent, took issue squarely with the position assumed by those constituting his Madison Square Garden audience. In that letter he said:

> If any American citizens, partisans of Germany and Austria-Hungary, feel that this administration is acting in a way injurious to the cause of those countries, this feeling results from the fact that on the high seas the German and Austro-Hungarian naval power is thus far inferior to the British. It is the business of a belligerent operating on the high seas, not the duty of a neutral, to prevent contraband from reaching an enemy.
> Those in this country who sympathize with Germany and Austria-Hungary appear to assume that some obligation rests upon this government, in the performance of its neutral duty, to prevent all trade in contraband, and thus to equalize the difference due to the relative naval strength of the belligerents. NO SUCH OBLIGATION EXISTS; IT WOULD BE AN UNNEUTRAL ACT, an act of partiality on the part of this government, to adopt such a policy, if the executive had the power to do so. If Germany and Austria-Hungary cannot import contraband from this country, it is not, because of that fact, the duty of the United States to close its markets to the allies. The markets of this country are open upon equal terms to all the world, to every nation, belligerent or neutral.

Down in Kansas it is so wet the farmers are running binders mounted on beer kegs for wheels. The strangest part of which is that there should be any beer kegs obtainable in Kansas.

THE APPEAL TO SMALL INVESTORS.

One reason for the gulf of misunderstanding and lack of sympathy between railroad and other corporations and the public is the absence of a common interest—or, rather, the failure to realize the common interest that exists.

One good way to bridge this gulf is to foster as wide a distribution of corporation securities as possible.

When a railroad issues bonds it places them in blocks with one or more large bankers, who retail them to investors. Usually the bonds are for a thousand dollars each, sometimes five hundred, rarely a hundred. If they were issued in small denominations and marketed so as to make it possible, thousands of small hordes might be diverted to these investments. The small investors would profit and industry would profit also by the wider distribution of interest.

The British government, in its newest money-raising plan, points the way. Its new four-and-a-half per cent bonds are being sold through the Bank of England in denominations of five hundred dollars; but the postoffices offer them in smaller amounts, as low as twenty-five dollars. Further than this, it is made possible for thrifty English people to buy from various selling agencies interest-bearing vouchers for sums as small as five shillings—a dollar and a quarter. These vouchers, when they are accumulated to the amount of twenty-five dollars, are to be exchanged for a regular bond in that sum.

The British postal savings bank pays two and a half per cent. This chance to increase the earnings on savings to four and a half per cent will undoubtedly be seized upon by thousands, and it will pour into the national treasury large sums not now available for any public use.

Various communities have marketed public bonds "over the counter"—straight to thrifty citizens—with good results. The practice encourages thrift, distributes the ownership of wealth, and if widely practiced would help to solve many pressing economic problems. One reason for the amazing thrift of the French people is that it is possible in that country to make legitimate income-bearing investments from the tiniest sums up. In this country the smallest items in security dealings have been so large that the general public was barred out.

Certain New York papers are complaining of the number of murders that take place in that city, and the city is preparing to abolish the office of coroner. But of course there is no apparent connection between the two facts.

THE PLUMBING AND ELECTRICAL ORDINANCES.

The Commercial club, the Rotary club and other civic associations—and above all the city commission—do well to study carefully the plumbing and electrical ordinances that have been submitted.

No doubt they contain some good. There should be careful regulation and inspection of plumbing equipment for sanitary reasons, and of electrical equipment to guard against fires. Proper requirements as to methods of installation, coupled with adequate city inspection to see that these requirements are met, will meet every public need in this respect.

The ground for the criticism that has been made of these two ordinances seems to be that they emanate from plumbing and electrical contracting interests, and therefore that they tend to increase business unduly for such concerns, and even to create monopoly. There should be nothing of this nature in these ordinances when they pass.

As a suggestion for testing the zeal of some of our reformers, why not tell them to try it in Mexico?

AMERICAN SHELLS IN EUROPE.

In an interview with Prince Ruprecht of Bavaria, published in a New York newspaper, he was quoted as saying that half the shells which the French were sending against his troops were of American manufacture.

To this the French ministry of war makes reply as follows, through the Associated Press: "Neither now nor at any time since the beginning of the war has the French artillery made use of any shells whatsoever manufactured in the United States."

In point of fact, while the allies have placed large orders for munitions in this country, it is only within a short time that the first large shipments have been made from Atlantic ports, and it is quite impossible that any such quantity of American shells as Prince Ruprecht declares the French have fired at him could have been in Europe at the time of his interview.

At any rate Mexico has taken the Latin-American revolution out of the comic opera class.

The Income Tax

Indianapolis News: It is now thought that the returns from the income tax will amount to more than $83,000,000. The effect will be to reduce the deficit to comparatively insignificant proportions. And there will, it is thought, be no need to sell Panama canal bonds to replenish the treasury's working balance. With such a revenue as this assured from the income tax it may be possible next year, by the exercise of a wise economy, to bring expenditures within the nation's income. At any rate, the government will, so it is now believed, close its fiscal year with its finances in a reasonably satisfactory condition. And if business improves, the income tax will be even more productive in the future. Of course, much larger sums will be derived from customs duties when foreign trade returns to its normal state. When that will be no one, of course, can even guess.

On the whole, treasury conditions are, considering the disturbance caused by the war, surprisingly good. Nevertheless, it is the duty of the president and congress to do what they can, by proper economy, to make any new or higher taxes, or any bond issues unnecessary. We already have a so-called war tax, and this, of course, will be repealed as promptly as possible after the war is over. But if the theory on which it was levied is correct, peace will bring with it sufficient revenue to make up for what will be lost by such repeal.

While governments ought not to run in debt—when it can be avoided—it is well that they should not be too "flush." While a deficit is a bad thing, a great surplus is almost equally bad. It is the duty of the taxing authorities to leave as much money as possible in the pockets of the people, and to take no more for public purposes than is needed to support the government when economically administered. The ideal condition is when income and outgo exactly balance. There has been a disposition in some quarters to look on the income tax as a sort of extraordinary measure of relief, as when it is said that but for it the deficit would be enormous. This, of course, is a mistake. For the returns from this tax are a part of the normal revenue of the nation. One might as well say that there would be a great deficit but for the proceeds of custom duties.

Archeological Evidence.

Current Opinion: "Oh, yes," said Mrs. Smith, "my husband is an enthusiastic archeologist. And I never knew it until yesterday. I found in his desk some queer looking tickets with the inscription, 'Mudhorse, 8 to 1.' And when I asked him what they were, he explained to me that they were relics of a lost race. Isn't it interesting?"

How One City Runs

Editorial in the Nashville Banner.

Following a flood a few years ago, a good deal of rottenness in the city government and more or less corruption in the management of its affairs, Dayton, Ohio, originated the idea of employing a city manager who should have authority to run the city and run it for its own good instead of in the interest of the politicians, as is customary.

For several months the people looked around and finally decided on J. H. Waite. Mr. Waite is not giving unanimous satisfaction. The Socialists are opposed to him as a party. He has his enemies, as one should reasonably expect to have when he begins to perform his public duty. His enemies say he is a boss, and he is. He differs from the average city boss in that he is not a politician, is not bossing the city for personal advantage or in the interest of his friends, but for the city itself.

In the city building there are five directors, appointed by Waite, who do the things he tells them to do. In the business offices about town are five commissioners who meet with Waite once a week to see if he has anything for them to do. If he has they do it. They approve what he asks of them and their approval means a city ordinance.

How did these men come to do his bidding? A year and a half ago Dayton took advantage of the authorization in the new Ohio Constitution and voted to have home rule. The city adopted a new charter and under it elected five commissioners. These commissioners, under the charter, had the choosing of a business manager of the city. The charter said they could get him wherever they found him, and a good many people hoped they would find him in Dayton. But they didn't. They found him in Cincinnati, where he was city engineer, and they offered him the job and $12,500 a year.

Waite accepted, came to Dayton, appointed five men as directors of the city departments and inaugurated the most novel system of municipal government in the country. There was a fight on the new system from the start. It came principally from the Socialists, who are very strong in Dayton, and have cast as high as 7,000 votes at a city election. They said the new government was undemocratic, un-representative and un-American. A good many people also thought it was un-American to pay anybody $12,500 a year.

The Socialists held an indignation meeting with the purpose of starting a petition to recall Waite. Waite attended it. Those who were there say it was quite a meeting. Reproached with getting $12,500 a year, Waite took the platform and said:

"It's none of your business how much I get. I'm just like you. I get all I can for my services. When I show I can earn $12,500, I expect to get more. Why don't you try that?"

One of the conclusions gained from the experience of Dayton is that a city cannot be run by experts elected, for they can't be elected—they have got to be picked. Mr. Waite is of the opinion that the complex form of city government, copied after the Constitution of the United States, is passing. He says that complexity is the one feature that makes it dear to the politicians.

His solution is to simplify everything; reduce it all to a practical working basis; run the city as you would a mercantile establishment, demand efficiency and honesty and men who are qualified for their positions and who are not employed for the number of votes they can "swing."

Dayton is the only city that has made any headway in the city manager theory, but it appears to be working successfully. The Republican and Democratic leaders are disturbed over the prospect there because the people fail to rally to the call of the ward politician. The people appear to have reason to be satisfied and, assuredly, if it has come to pass that the party manipulators cannot arouse interest in factional tickets, as opposed to a business government, then the new government must be what its friends claim for it.

Our Rights on the Sea

C. E. Hyde in the Yale Review: It is contended today in Europe that existing modes of warfare made possible by new weapons of offense, such as the submarine, the automatic contact mine, and the aeroplane, not only justify unprecedented measures against an enemy, but also substantially impair the right of neutral ships to enjoy the freedom of the seas. Because the submarine cannot easily identify vessels which it encounters, and may be unable to conduct a visitation and search, and is also incapable of offering refuge to the inmates of the vessel which it destroys, it is asserted that neutral ships should keep out of specified zones of the high seas wherein the submarine seeks its prey. The contention resembles that of the automobilist who declares to the pedestrian: "The highways are mine now; I cannot utilize the power of my engine and assure you of safety. Whatever the law used to be, I recognize the validity of none today that gives you an equal right with me; for such a law would not be responsive to my power or my need. Henceforth you cross the highways at your own peril." Such reasoning rests upon the basis that when war ensues, the neutral's right to traverse the seas is dependent upon the unrestricted use of belligerent's weapons of offense. It signifies that the new instrumentalities of the latter create rights which rules of practice, formulated before those instrumentalities came into being, are valueless to restrain. Not merely on the soundness or unsoundness of this argument, but rather on the actual weight which civilization today attaches to it, hang momentous issues. It rests with the United States, for all other neutral maritime states as well as for itself, to examine it and deal with it on its merits. The department of state has already shown with clearness and force that the possession of no new weapon of offense can alter a practice which for generations has made the high seas free and safe for neutral ships. International law has come into being and developed side by side with the invention and use of instruments of destruction. The former has not regarded the latter as the criterion of belligerent rights. Hence it may be fairly asserted that the duty of a belligerent to control, with respect to neutrals, the operation of the newest weapons of offense is no suddenly devised and ill-conceived formula suggested by the letter rather than the spirit of former inapplicable practices, but rather the natural application of a principle founded on the requirements of justice, and therefore hitherto accorded universal recognition.

American Hypocrisy.

Owen Wister in the Atlantic: In great things, as in small, we hide behind phrases; changing the words satisfies us just as well as if we had thereby changed the facts. For instance, "first" and "second" class couldn't be painted on railroad cars; all passengers, being Americans, are equal; it would be "un-American"; but paint "Pullman" on a car, and everybody is satisfied. In like manner we hid behind the word "emancipation," and looked away from the festering unsolved problem. So it is our habit still to stare crookedly (or not at all) at unpleasant truths, to pull the optimistic fallacy over anything uncomfortable, just as we pull the bedclothes over us when we feel cold; so do we still think in terms of sham. The greatest sham we have, the pension of war veterans, is swathed in phrases of the same pious sentimentalism and the same regardlessness of reality that drench the novels of Harold Bell Wright and the speeches of William Jennings Bryan.

Certainly.

Baltimore American: "Pop, Venice is half water, isn't it?"

"Yes, my son."

"Then would it be correct to refer to its large floating population?"

What?

Philadelphia Public Ledger: What protection is any flag against a commander who fires first and asks questions afterward?

Alcohol, Humanity and the Dogmatist

Editorial in the Chicago Tribune.

The Tribune is reminded by G. F. Rinehart, superintendent of the Dry Chicago federation, that there is no inherent demand in man for alcohol; that aggressive and vigorous peoples do not consume alcohol; that the use of it, no matter how general or how long continued in the history of the human race, is fundamentally an error; that thousands of errors have persisted in the world; that slavery, piracy and polygamy were habits long continued, and that there is no consistency in condemning spirituous liquors and praising wines and brews.

We do not condemn spirits. They condemn themselves. They permit no possibility of an argument for them. We do not praise wines and beer. We merely raise the speculative question regarding them, confess in advance that there would be no doubt in the mind of a prohibitionist—as Mr. Rinehart's letter proves—and suggest that the restriction of the sale of intoxicants to light wines and beers would be an interesting experiment.

The issue does not admit dogmatism on the side of moderation, even if it be thought to admit it on the side of prohibition. We suggested that there was something in the universality and continuity of the habit of using alcoholic beverages that might indicate it to be other than a dominating error. Mr. Rinehart thinks not. He thinks that the habit of drinking, like the feminine habit of using feathers and paint, "was handed down through the ages from the savages among whom it was born." A defender of the habit might use this same argument to serve his turn and to prove that there was an instinct in the primitive races which led to the discovery of methods of fermenting grains, vegetables, or fruit, and that this instinct has survived because it was useful.

It used to be a dictum of philosophy that nothing which was wholly error persisted. Alcohol undoubtedly is—to use a convenient word—a poison, whether it be in whisky, gin, claret, or beer. There is poison in coffee and poison in tea, and persons who make immoderate use of either will suffer from the consequences, physical rather than the moral, mental, and physical resulting from alcoholic poisoning.

What is there in the human scheme of things which makes addiction to stimulant general, if not universal? Is this based not only on a craving for stimulant but on an occasional need of stimulant? The questions propose themselves to any inquiring mind and unless the answer be the dogmatic no of the convinced opponent of stimulant of all kinds the speculation remains not convincingly resolved.

Mr. Rinehart's specification of habits which prevailed for a time in human history is not satisfactory. Piracy, we think, he will dismiss upon reflection. Polygamy, he will find, has not been the habit in sex relations but the exception, usually based on economic conditions. Slavery he will not consider as a habit but as another product of economics, destroyed by what created it—force.

The strong races of the world have been addicted to the use of alcohol. We know they were not strong because they used it, but the speculation arises whether the conditions which made them strong did not have in them the impulse which led off in the direction of alcohol.

Mr. Rinehart mentions the Icelanders as the most temperate people on the globe and suggests that the conditions of their life are hard and demand vigor. They do not drink. Hence drink does not appeal more to the vigorous races. This suggestion will yield to the thought that Iceland is peopled by precisely the noncreative, the nonaggressive folk who furnish the contrast with such as the English in their day, the Germans in their day, etc.

These are mere speculations which occur when the whole subject of alcohol is considered. We believe that humanity would be better off if it never had made acquaintance with any stimulating poisons. That belief prevails because the wreckage that alcohol makes can be seen, but it does not clear away the fact that the peoples to whom the world owes the most progress have been drinking peoples.

The world did not progress under them because they drank but something in their composition and in their struggle towards achievement seemingly made the use of alcohol a part of their habit of life.

This has been the case. The question then is, will it continue to be the case, and, if so, sumptuary legislation which restricted the habit to its least offensive and damaging forms would be wise legislation. That is a subject for speculation or for dogmatism, according to the temperament of the person considering it.

The War-Kings Pray

(The Sermon of the Plain People.)

I.

We've all been a-thinkin' it over—the world war that's going along
Where you can't hear the moan of a Peace Dove, an' Hate's in the sermon an' song;
An' the parson, he answers the question of the red handed killers that pray:
"Since David's far time, when the fightin' was prime, they've been prayin' an' fightin' that way."

II.

They think they've got Bible to back 'em, 'an the war kings—they pray in their place;
They kneel on the groun' of the temples burned down, with the war fires lightin' each face;
In the smoke o' the smolderin' temples they pray as they slay, with a will—
The Cain-branded ones—for the Lord o' the guns to send 'em more Abels to kill!

III.

They've lost all the meanin' of Bible: If the fightin' of old you allow,
I hold that the kings—though they'll never wear wings—should surely know better by now!
Yet they pray in their heathen war blindness, an' think that the Lord's on their side,
An' when powder is low an' the bullets won't go, they're shoutin': "The Lord will provide!"

IV.

I can tell 'em a little o' Bible: When kings think they're lifted so high
That the stars shinin' down only shine for their crown, an' they're kings with the King o' the Sky;
When they lose the true touch o' the Human, stone-deaf to the People's world-moans,
There's a Word that'll come to make war-thunders dumb, an' shake 'em from blood-reddened thrones!

V.

That's the Word that'll light up the darkness where now like blind leaders they grope;
It'll come in the strength o' the Mighty from heavenly hilltops of Hope;
With the Hand that is tender an' healin', an' still to the uttermost saves,
It'll strike like the Light through the dark o' the Night, an' War'll hide his face in his graves.

VI.

They think the Lord's justice is sleepin', as they speed in War's fiery cars;
They know that the angels are weepin', an' can't break the bars o' the stars;
But the Lord hears the cry o' the People—to the Throne of all thrones it takes wings,
An' kings, red with blood o' their battles, must answer the King o' the Kings.

—Frank L. Stanton in the Atlanta Constitution.

Wisconsin Clippings

Things the Badger State Editors Are Saying.

Shake, Neighbor.

Antigo Journal: Northern Wisconsin is gaining in popularity as a summer resort region. A party who has just returned from Chicago said today that apparently half of the people of that city would be up here some time during the summer. About all some look forward to is a couple of weeks' vacation in the woods and on the lakes in this part of the state. And good roads are going to promote this business very materially.

Unless You Learn to Like It Better.

Chippewa Falls Independent: Don't worry about the job you don't like. The probabilities are you won't have it long.

And Save Their Pennies.

Weyauwega Chronicle: When a woman has a good figure, her lady friends tell about the high-priced corsets she wears.

Just a Gentle Hint.

New Richmond News: Miles and miles of roads in St. Croix county are just now being utterly destroyed when all they need is a little filling up here and there and intelligent road drag work. A little just ordinary human intelligence coupled up with a road drag will accomplish wonders on the roads of St. Croix county, while what is generally done with a road grader will—well, it isn't fit to print.

What Is the Reason?

Ladysmith Journal: A farmer living near Ladysmith raised the question the other day as to why so much money is spent on the building of roads and so little attention paid to their maintenance. And when you stop to think about it, it certainly is puzzling.

Truth From Shawano.

Shawano Advocate: The Oshkosh Northwestern published a big heading last week in which it struck the truth. It said: "Woods are full of Republicans who would be able to take Wilson's seat." Now that is the truth, but is it true that the woods are full of Republicans who are able to take Wilson's place and fill it as ably as he is now doing? We would say no.

As to Canoes.

Neenah Times: Now there is talk of a state law regulating canoes. That's all right. Regulate them. And make the bill a strong one, with provisions, first—to learn to swim before stepping into a canoe; second—to buy only the safest kind of a canoe, take it home and then scuttle it.

Very True.

Wausau Record-Herald: The thing to consider is not so much the cost of good roads as the cost of bad ones.

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Enoch walked with God and he was not; for God took him.—Gen. v, 24.

The greatest lives are very often the smallest biographies.—Charles H. Parkhurst.

And it came to pass, while He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into heaven.—Luke xxiv, 51.

The parting blessing of our Lord was changed in the moment of its utterance into a pledge of eternal love, of unfailing and ever-watchful love, for the well-being of His people.—John Ellerton.

When the living presence of Jesus was taken away from His own, it was not that they were to have Him less, but in a lovelier, in a diviner way. For when He rose up to heaven, He took there with Him all their hearts, and all their minds, and all their love. So is it with us. He is gone up to heaven, into the bosom of the Father, into the Father's heart of love, and we ascend up there with Him, with all our hearts, and all our love, and rest where He resteth, in the Father's heart. There is there no separation, but one life, one existence, as He is one with the Father. And thus it is that being one with Him we can be as clear, bright mirrors that reflect His glory.—Henry Suso.

Lift up our thoughts, lift up our songs,
And let Thy grace be given,
That while we linger here below,
Our hearts may be in heaven.
—C. F. Aexander.

We do thank Thee, O Savior, for these blessings and pray to Thee that Thou wilt help us to resist the temptations that claim us at times for sin. May we do better in the future and give thanks to Thee for the mercies constantly shown us. Amen.

Fear thou not; for I am with thee; be not dismayed; for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness. (Isaiah xxxxi, 10.)

Errors Not Typographical.

E. E. Kelley in the Toronto, Kan., Republican: Every week the paper—this paper or any other paper—has typographical errors; and there is always someone ready to laugh mirthlessly over it and hold the paper up to scorn and say a blacksmith could do a better job with both hands tied, and proceed to bawl out the editor publicly. And the editor, being meek in spirit and lowly, grins a sun-grin as if no liked it, because he knows the utter futility of explaining. Then he goes back to the shop and bites a nail in two or eats a woolly worm to relieve his feelings; and finally wonders how his tormentors would feel, should he turn critic and point out the typographical errors, so to speak, in the makeup of the hilarious ones. Furrinstance: Hon. Jehu Junkins shaves himself, and last Sunday appeared at church with a patch of unshaven whiskers under the angle of his jaw the size of a grown man's thumb; Sis Stiggins had her hat on crooked and the shoestring on her switch showed through what little real hair she has left. The underskirt of the Belle of the Village hung on one side a full inch below the bottom of her dress; Amri Toots, one of our best known city gents, walked down the aisle with a long raveling hanging to his coat tail; old Ebenezer Stone had blacked the front compartment of his shoes until he could see his reflection in them, while his shoe heels had not had a treatment since he bought them last summer, and they bore traces and the odor of the barnyafd; Billy B. Damm, who ordinarily doesn't give three whoops for anything and doesn't care who knows it, blushed a rosy red when, walking with his best girl, he produced a washrag from his pocket instead of his handkercher; Miss Peachie Peacherino, who is risin' 35 and near-sighted, wafted a kiss to a traveling man getting on the train under the impression that it was her brother, who departed from our midst on the same common carrier. As the poet remarked, we are all poor critters and prone to errors of makeup even as the sparks fly upward and every good and true editor, instead of impaling the kit and bundle on his harpoon to get good and even once for all, will again next week smile his feeble sun-grin when he is publicly roasted and let it go at that. An editor hasn't much sense, anyway. That's why he is an editor.

Governor Hammond's All-Minnesota Idea

State Press Takes Up Proposal and Approves It.

Indorses It.

Virginia Enterprise: Governor Hammond proposes a state development conference. He got the inspiration on his recent trip over Northern Minnesota, where the need for state development work is most pronounced and where the subject is one that is very near to the people.

Governor Hammond has an excellent idea. Northern Minnesota rises up solidly to indorse it. We have heretofore had some lamentable examples of sectionalism in Minnesota, but all the state seems to be pretty well convinced that this is an excellent thing to lay aside. What Minnesota wants, as the governor suggests, is sectional co-operation to the end of state development. Every section of the state, even its oldest settled and richest regions, have their development problems. Certainly co-operation will be a wonderful aid in solving them. Other governors have made state development a hobby and have talked about it on occasions, but it remained for Governor Hammond to put his enthusiasm for state development in concrete, tangible form, as he has in his suggestion of a state development conference at St. Paul. When that conference is held it will be one of the biggest gatherings of the kind, no doubt, the state has ever seen. Northern Minnesota will be there with bells on to do its bit for the general welfare of the state.

"Sound" Suggestion.

Princeton Union: An all-Minnesota development association has been suggested by Governor Hammond, and the idea is a sound one. With all sections of the state harmoniously working for a bigger and better Minnesota, there is no doubt but what gratifying results would be obtained.

May Lead to Something.

Ely Miner: Governor Hammond favors sectional co-operation in state development, and proposes that a state development conference be held in St. Paul. This may lead to something worth while. The governor and party of state senators have just been over that part of the state which is now under development, and to be developed, and they cannot have failed to be favorably impressed with its great possibilities.

Imaginary Line.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel: It is believed that the recent visit of the members of the Minnesota legislature to the northern part of this state will result in eliminating that imaginary line which has for some time separated the northern and southern portions. A religion that separates man from man is not the ideal religion. A government which divides the interests of a state is not the best government. And so on, ad infinitum.

Excellent Idea!

St. Cloud Journal Press: Governor Hammond was so impressed by what he saw up north that he proposes to call a convention that shall boost the whole state, and not any one section. Good idea.

For a Better Understanding.

Winnebago City Enterprise: At the present time, a campaign for a better understanding between Northern and Southern Minnesota, and between city and country, is in its infancy. If ever a state needed a campaign of that sort, Minnesota is that state. The existent jealousy between the various sections of the state has militated to the detriment of this great commonwealth. Minnesota has been held back by the policy of distrust and suspicion. We have not progressed as we should because of the very fact that we have been fighting each other instead of for each other. We have been standing apart instead of standing together. Surely there can be no greater folly than that! Perhaps it would not be a bad idea for some one to call a conference of representative men from various sections of the state, and endeavor to bury once and for all all sectional prejudices. In that conference, which could be very well held in either St. Paul or Minneapolis, town, city and county should be represented. Select men of breadth of view, let them meet and mingle together at this conference, and we believe that the result would be for a better understanding all around. We are all Minnesotans together, and we should be thoroughly imbued with a patriotic desire to have our state stand out alone and supreme in the sisterhood of states. That can be brought to pass. It is easily within the bounds of possibilities. What say you, you citizens of Northern, Central and Southern Minnesota?

PICKING HIS PLAY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Some time ago in an announcement of the roster of plays to be given by the Baldwin Players this season, one of the plays included was "The Thief" by Henri Bernstein.

Being a great admirer of the Bernstein play, and also of the local stock company, I looked forward to the presentation of this production at the Lyceum.

I hope the play will be presented some time during the season, and I think Miss Bronaugh and Mr. Minturn would be excellently cast in the leading roles. Thanking you for space, I am,

WAR REFERENDUM.

To The Editor of The Herald:

After reading "Gun's" communication in tonight's Herald, I agree with everything he says except his conclusions, which are the main thing in every controversial matter. As a Socialist, I believe that the referendum is the rock on which Socialism is based and as Allan L. Benson's anti-war articles are based on the Referendum of the People, I believe he is talking good Socialism, without any adulteration. It would ultimately end in reducing war to the minimum even under capitalism, which all Socialists should work for till a political majority brings Socialism into full control of all political actions. SEND ACCIDENT CASES ELSEWHERE

To The Editor of The Herald:

If, as is evidently true from all reports, and not denied that St. Luke's hospital has not even an interne to take care of emergency cases sent to that institution, why send them there? Why not send accident patients where they can get the benefit of prompt and expert service, and not run the risk of dying while attendants are trying to round up a doctor that they should have at hand? Yours truly,

OBSERVER.

Duluth, July 1.

CARING FOR THE EMERGENCY CASES

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have read the two recent articles by J. D. Tanis with much interest. The answers they have elicited have also been interesting as well as enlightening. Mr. Tanis is a good citizen. Anybody who sees a condition affecting the public that should be righted, and comes out publicly and says so deserves the commendation of their fellow men.

Accidents are continually happening in every city. The unfortunate one may be rich or he may be a beggar, he is then at the mercy of a city's policies. His money or his friends can not help him for the time being. If he can have his choice he had better take the accident on the water here, for then any one will know what to do—call the life saving station. But if on land he may die while various people are trying to determine what best to do.

A hospital without an interne seems almost incredible. They might almost as well have no operating room. With student nurses mostly, what would they do if a patient were to have a sudden sinking spell following an operation, which is so common? Run the risk of busy phones and all the other things that can happen to delay at the most critical time?

We certainly should have a well defined policy regarding the whole problem of the city's responsibility in the matter of sickness and accidents, and I hope it will not be long before the city will assume its own responsibility and not be dependent upon any privately conducted institution. In some cities they have regularly equipped emergency rooms at the police station where the police surgeon or an attendant physician can perform the first scientific aid to the injured.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following decisions were rendered today by the Minnesota supreme court:

ROSEAU COUNTY.

Order and Judgment Affirmed.

Baxter Sash & Door company, respondent vs. Peter Ornes et al, defendants, Bowe-Burke company, appellant, The Gregory Company et al, respondents.

1. Evidence held to sustain a finding that the principal contractor in a building contract agreed that a mortgage in contemplation of execution upon the property should be prior in lien to the mechanics' liens and that such liens would be discharged by such contractor.

2. In the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien there can be no personal judgment with execution until after the foreclosure sale; and the judgment involved in this appeal is construed to intend a personal judgment and execution only after foreclosure sale.

3. A defendant, holding a lien claim, after trial but before findings and adjudication released his lien and elected to take personal judgment against the principal contractor with immediate execution, and judgment was entered accordingly. It affirmatively appearing that no legal prejudice can result to the debtor such judgment is sustained.

4. The building contract provided for the construction at a fixed price, and further provided that if the owner wanted a surety bond the principal contractor would procure it and the owner would pay for it. The owner afterwards required such bond and the principal contractor procured and paid for it. It is held that the cost of the bond is not a lienable claim.

5. The mortgage, in addition to the land on which the building was constructed, included a quarter-section which the owner had homesteaded. The court refused to so find; but in the judgment it was adjudged that in certain contingencies, and the only ones which could arise, the principal contractor, the appellant, should be subrogated to the mortgage. It is held that the judgment sufficiently adjudges the appellant's right of subrogation to all the land in the mortgage, including the quarter-section.

Order and judgment affirmed.

DIBELL, C.

GOODHUE COUNTY.

Statement Properly Received.

Amelia Meyer, respondent, vs. Travelers Insurance company, appellant—

1. The insured in an accident policy was shot by a revolver held in his own hand while in his room. To a friend coming to his room two or three minutes, or not more than a few minutes, later, he stated, in response to an inquiry as to what had happened, that he accidentally shot himself. Held, that such statement was properly received in evidence as part of the res gestae.

2. The evidence sustains a finding that the insured came to his death by accident.

Order affirmed. DIBELL, C.

GOODHUE COUNTY.

Order Affirmed.

John Street, respondent, vs. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, appellant—

1. A decision on a former appeal is the law of the case; and evidence held sufficient to sustain a verdict on a first appeal is sufficient on the second.

2. Applying this rule it is held that it was a question for the jury whether defendant violated G. S. 1913, sec. 4399, R. L. 1905, sec. 2031, in failing to stop its train at a station a sufficient length of time, and whether the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence in attempting to alight while the train was moving.

Order affirmed. DIBELL, C.

WILKIN COUNTY.

Lower Court Erred.

J. P. Lynch, respondent, vs. Monarch Elevator company, appellant—

Under a cropping contract the title of all crops raised were in plaintiff, the owner of the farm, until the cropper had performed the contract which included certain plowing after harvest and working out a road tax. Certain wheat raised under this contract was delivered to defendant after it had actual and constructive notice of plaintiff's rights therein to the extent of $164.04, ($150.00 for failure to plow 100 acres of the farm after harvest, and $14.04 for failure to work out the road tax.) In this action for conversion of the wheat it is held:

The question whether plaintiff waived his rights and consented to the wheat, or its proceeds, being turned over by defendant to the cropper was for the jury, and it does not appear as a matter of law, that plaintiff accepted the personal promise of defendant's agent to retain $164.04, in lieu of his security in the wheat.

The court erred in not submitting to the jury the question whether six acres had been plowed after harvest, also in not receiving evidence upon the question whether 75 acres of breaking, or summer fallowing, came within the provision of the contract requiring the cropper to plow the same, and then submitting it to the jury.

Reversed. HOLT, J.

BLUE EARTH COUNTY.

Evidence Was Sufficient.

First International Bank of Portal, N. D., appellant, vs. D. J. Brown, et al, defendant, Henry Himmelmann, respondent—

1. The evidence is held sufficient to sustain the verdict.

2. The questions involved in this action were eminently questions of fact, which, having been decided in favor of defendant's contention herein, and not having been disturbed by the trial court, will not be questioned here.

3. A careful examination of the record fails to disclose any reversible error.

Order affirmed. SCHALLER, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

Witness Competent.

In re estate of Philip E. Reid. Shelly Williams, respondent, vs. Edward M. Reid, by guardian, appellant—

A "competent attesting witness," under the provisions of section 7240, G. S. 1913, is a competent witness who, at the request of the person making the writing containing the declaration of legitimacy, subscribes the same as such witness.

Judgment affirmed. SCHALLER, J.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY.

Negligence Charge Sustained.

Elizabeth Khudzinski, as administratrix, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant—

1. Action for death by wrongful act. Plaintiff's intestate met death while in the employ of defendant in its switch yard. His last place of work was at one of the switches in the yard. No occasion is shown that would call him elsewhere. His body was found near this switch. His overshoe was found caught between the switch bar and a tie, with some circumstances indicating that his foot had been drawn from it and then crushed. In such a case circumstantial evidence as to the cause of the injury is sufficient if it furnishes a reasonable basis for the jury to infer that some wrongful act of defendant was the cause. The evidence is sufficient to support an inference that deceased was killed at this switch.

2. The engineer in a switching yard where men are constantly working upon the tracks owes a duty to keep a lookout for them. His duty is that of reasonable care. The evidence is such that a jury might well find that the engineer did not exercise such care.

Judgment affirmed.

HALLAM, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Not Entitled to Jury Trial.

Morton Brick & Tile company, appellant, vs. H. A. Sodergren, respondent—

Article 1, section 4, Minnesota State Constitution, continued the right of trial by jury as it existed at the time the Constitution was adopted, but it did not enlarge the right. In actions at law either party may demand a jury trial. In equitable actions neither party may demand a jury trial as of right as to any issue. Where legal and equitable issues are united, the legal issues are triable by a jury and the equitable issues by the court. But to secure a jury trial of issues properly triable by jury, demand must be made that the specific issues proper for trial by jury be so tried.

The complaint in this action alleges an agreement to finance a corporation and failure to do so, a successful conspiracy to wreck the corporation and to procure it to be adjudicated a bankrupt, the fraudulent purchase of the assets from the trustee for a small fraction of their value, that the defendant accordingly held the assets purchased in trust for the corporation, and that he disposed of them wrongfully, and it demands judgment for the damages sustained. Held, the action is one to charge the defendant as trustee, to require him to account as such, that it is an equitable action, and plaintiff was not entitled to a jury trial.

Order affirmed.

HALLAM, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Entitled to Recover.

Enos A. Platts, Respondent, vs. Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis, Appellant—

1. The general rule is that a bank holding an unmatured note of a depositor may, upon his insolvency, offset the deposit against the note.

2. Four farmers in South Dakota gave mortgages on their farms through an agent there to Barnes Bros. at Minneapolis. The agent had authority to receive the money. He directed the mortgagees to deposit the money in the defendant bank to the credit of a bank at Fort Pierre, which had an account with the defendant bank. Barnes Bros. drew their checks on the Northwestern National bank and sent them to the defendant bank, with directions to notify the Fort Pierre bank. The bank did not know of the deposits nor claim them, nor indorse or see the checks, nor make direction relative to them. The defendant bank had no communication with the Fort Pierre bank relative to them. Immediately after they were deposited the Fort Pierre bank became insolvent. It then owed the defendant bank on a promissory note exceeding the amount of the checks and its own money on deposit. It is held that the $2,000 was impressed with a trust, the defendant bank cannot retain it upon the doctrine of equitable set-off, and that the plaintiff, the assignee of the four mortgagors, is entitled to recover.

Order affirmed. DIBELL, C.

KOOCHICHING COUNTY.

Judgment Affirmed.

James L. Price, respondent, vs. Minnesota, Dakota & Western Railway Co., et al, defendants, Minnesota, Dakota & Western Railway Co, et al, appellants—

1 Two causes of action, each for malicious prosecution, held to arise out of transactions connected with the subject of action, and to each affect all the parties to the action, and fore to be properly united in one complaint.

2. Certain motions to dismiss made at the close of plaintiff's case and again at the close of all the testimony, held properly denied.

3. The determination of the trial court and jury that there was no probable cause is held correct.

4. The finding of the jury that there was malice is sustained by the evidence.

5. The defense of advice of counsel was properly for the jury to determine, and the evidence sustains the verdict on this issue.

6. The damages are not excessive within the rule guiding this court in cases of this kind.

7. There was no prejudicial error in the rulings on evidence, in the charge or in the refusal to give requested instructions.

8. A claim of misconduct of counsel can not be urged as ground for reversal unless it is made a ground of the motion for a new trial in the court below.

Affirmed. BUNN, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

Damages Excessive.

Ella Sherwood, respondent, vs. Crescent Creamery company, appellant—

The damages awarded in this case are excessive.

Affirmed on condition. BUNN, J.

SHERBURNE COUNTY.

Jury Meddled With.

State of Minnesota, respondent, vs. Oliver Snow, appellant.

Where misconduct on the part of jurors is without the prompting or the knowledge of the prevailing party, the verdict will not ordinarily be set aside unless there is reasonable cause to believe that the misconduct was prejudicial to the moving party. The use of intoxicating liquors by a juror while the trial is in progress, if it does not result in intoxication, does not vitiate the verdict if without the knowledge or participation of the prevailing party. But where, during the course of a jury trial, a person interested in the result associates much with the members of the jury, meeting with them during the recesses of the court, walking to and from the courthouse with them, talking with them and generally keeping in their company and associating and drinking with them in saloons, the jurors permitting such association and participating in it, there is such misconduct as will vitiate any verdict favorable to the interest of such meddler.

Order reversed and new trial granted. HALLAM, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

Lower Court Reversed.

Oscar H. Lovine, appellant, vs. Goodridge-Call Lumber company, respondent—

1. A notice of expiration of time for redemption from a tax sale directed to "Goodridge-Call Lumber company," the land being assessed in the name, "Goodridge-Call Lumber company," is sufficient.

2. Where the statute requires the notice to be directed to the person in whose name title in fee appears of record in the office of the register of deeds, a notice to the Goodridge-Call Lumber company is of no effect in the absence of evidence to show that the title stood of record in that name.

3. Where the notice is served by publication, it must be shown that the newspaper in which it was published possessed the qualifications required by statute to entitle it to publish such notice, and the requirement that it must "be circulated in or near its place of publication to the extent of at least 240 copies" is not satisfied by showing that 240 copies are published without showing where they are circulated.

4. The affidavit required by section 9418, general statute 1913, to be filed with the county auditor, is prima facie evidence of the qualification of a newspaper only in case it states "the required facts" and showing that such an affidavit has been filed without showing the facts stated therein does not establish such qualifications.

Reversed. TAYLOR, C.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Cannot Maintain Action.

I. Cohen, appellant, vs. Thomas W. Todd, et al., respondents—

1. The assignee of a lease who assumes no obligation by contract to pay rent is liable for rent during the time he holds the lease, but after he makes a reassignment and delivers possession to a second assignee, his liability for rent thereafter to accrue ceases. This is on the principle that his liability during the time he holds the lease is founded on privity of estate, and as soon as such privity of estate ceases, the liability ceases with it.

2. A covenant in a lease requiring written consent of the lessor to any assignment of the lease may be waived by the lessor, and it is waived by acceptance of rent from the assignee with knowledge of the assignment.

Judgment affirmed. HALLAM, J.

WINONA COUNTY.

Jury's Finding Upheld.

Otto Koeller, respondent, vs. Wisconsin Railway Light & Power Company, appellant—

Evidence considered and held sufficient to warrant submitting to the jury the question whether it was negligence to operate a street car in the city of Winona without a conductor, and to justify the jury in finding that it was. Palmer vs. Winona Light & Power company, 78 Minn. 138, distinguished.

Affirmed. BANN, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

New Trial Granted.

Charles Jones, respondent, vs. City of St. Paul, appellant—

1. In an action for personal injuries alleged to have been caused by the negligence of defendant, it is held that the issue of due care on the part of defendant should have been submitted to the jury.

2. The trial court erred in instructing the jury contrary to chap. 245, L. 1913, that the evidence presented a case of negligence as a matter of law.

Order reversed and new trial granted. BROWN, C. J.

WRIT.

Writ Is Vacated.

State ex rel., A. W. Selover, relator, vs. Probate Court of Aitkin County et al., respondents—

Where the probate court of the county of a resident decedent's domicile has first acquired jurisdiction over the estate, the probate court of the county wherein was the temporary abode at the time of death is not thereafter entitled to take jurisdiction of the same estate.

Temporary writ vacated and order to show cause discharged.

WILL AID IN RELIEF WORK

A. M. Frantz of Duluth Sails With Columbia "U" Party.

Noted Physicians and Others Will Help the Stricken Serbs.

A. M. Frantz of Duluth, son of Mrs. A. J. Frantz, sailed from New York with the Columbia University Serbian Relief expedition on the Greek steamship Themistocles, on June 26, accompanied by twenty-four other physicians from different states, by two doctors from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, and by Dr. Harry Plotz, who discovered an anti-toxin for typhus, and Dr. Plotz' assistant, Dr. Baehr. Dr. Plotz gobs from Mount Sinai hospital, where he is pathologist, and he takes with him 20,000 culture tubes of his serum.

A farewell reception was tendered the expedition at the Hotel Majestic, by the association of the Daughters of Oneida, when the young men received counsel and encouragement from eminent speakers and, after partaking of refreshments and having their pictures taken, grouped around Consul General Michael I. Pupin of Serbia, they enjoyed a program of dancing.

The expedition is under the command of Elbridge Colby of Columbia university, and Miss Hannah Mitchell, sister of Secretary Anson Phelps Stokes of Yale university, and her assistant. Their orders will be enforced by the Serbian government, and, warned Prof. Pupin, any man who disobeys either of his guardians will find himself dismissed from Serbia by military measures.

Unlike most of the medical parties that have gone into the scourge-stricken countries, this one will carry its own water-distilling apparatus and its own laundry and cooking tents. This means a degree of care of the health which could not possibly otherwise be exercised. There will also be a third tent for sleeping purposes.

Attached to each Columbia man will be a Serbian, who has been in this country long enough to understand its language and its ways. The twenty-five automobiles which will be used in the work about Nish have been shipped in advance of the party, which will land at Pireus, where they will put their motor cars together and make the trip overland to Nish.

Pettit-Taylor

Former Duluth Woman Weds Chicago Attorney.

The marriage on the evening of June 14, at Holy Name cathedral, Chicago, of Mrs. Saidee Prescott Pettit to Orville James Taylor, Jr., has just been announced. Mrs. Taylor will be well remembered by Duluthians who resided here during the '90s. Her father, D. Clint Prescott, was in the iron manufacturing business in West Duluth, and the then Miss Prescott, a young woman of more than ordinary charm, was one of the most prominent in the younger social set in Duluth. She was married shortly before the family left Duluth, to James Pettit of Chicago, who died four years ago.

Her marriage to Mr. Taylor was in the presence of only the members of the two families, and it was followed by a bridal dinner at the Blackstone hotel, Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are spending their honeymoon in Northern Michigan.

Mr. Taylor is a member of an old and prominent Chicago family, is a lawyer and is a member of the firm of Gardner, Foote & Burns. For a number of years he has made his home at the University club.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "East Lynne."
ORPHEUM—"Tango Town," under auspices of King's Daughters.
NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
REX—"The Arab," photoplay.
LYRIC—Henry Woodruff in "A Man and His Mate," photoplay.

Theater Gossip.

Members of the Baldwin Stock company are enjoying a treat this afternoon. The stock company members are the invited guests of the King's Daughters at the matinee performance of "Tango Town" at the Orpheum. It is seldom that actors get an opportunity to see a performance in another theater when they are working themselves, and the Baldwins were looking forward to the performance this afternoon.

TREAT FOR STOCK COMPANY.

Three more performances of "East Lynne" will be given, this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening. The old time favorite is proving a good drawing card, and it is noticeable that it is attracting many people who are rarely seen in a theater. Many older people are seen in the audiences, and they evidently enjoy renewing acquaintance with the familiar characters of "East Lynne."

Next week "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be the attraction, opening with the Sunday matinee. Mr. Baldwin is planning to give it an elaborate production. He has secured the services of a band of colored singers and dancers for the week, and the stage crew and scene painters have been busy for two weeks preparing the many sets that are used. Much depends on the stage settings in a production of "Uncle Tom" and Mr. Baldwin is not overlooking any details.

The new show at the Grand was greeted by crowded houses yesterday at all performances, and those who saw the many attractive features were highly pleased and pronounced the show one of the best seen at that popular playhouse in some time. Charlie Chaplin appears as "movie" headliner, and the vaudeville was a little better than that of the first of the week.

NEW SHOW AT THE GRAND.

William Morrow and company in "Hogan's Millions" have a clever playlet. Of course, there is a school ma'am in it, and she comes "out West" and has some strange experiences with cowboys and Western ways. The one in this sketch is a Quakeress, and her demure manner and conventional speech offer a marked contrast to the Western slang and unconventalities.

Katherine McConnell is a striking and engaging miss of about 20 summers who does some clever dances and sings dialect songs in a charming manner. An attractive personality and gowns of the latest style add considerable to the interest of her act.

The Volente Brothers play the accordion and make a lot of fun. The Three Alvarettas do a clever gymnastic and acrobatic turn.

Charlie Chaplin appears in "His Favorite Pastime," causing roars of laughter as usual. The Chaplin "bug" seems to have taken hold of Duluth and the popular comedian is a prime favorite whenever he appears on the screen. Helen Holmes appears in another of her popular and thrilling railway episodes, and the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial shows current news events of world-wide interest. Several other good films complete the program.

WESTERN PLAY AT THE LYRIC.

"A Man and His Mate," Mutual master picture, and a great drama of the world-old evil, is the feature at the theater for today and tomorrow.

This drama tells the story of a young college athlete of high ideals and good birth, who becames a physical wreck and a social outcast and finds his way, after many stirring adventures, into the Western wilds. On account of his reckless disregard of man-made laws, he is about to be hanged as a horse thief by an enraged mob of cowboys, when a woman's patience and skill saves him. There are some big stirring moments in the play, and the scenes are alive with action. There is an exciting football match, a running fight on horseback, a man-to-man duel between a crok and a half-breed Chinaman, all laid in the open rugged country of ranch and foothills.

Henry Woodruff playing the lead, makes his first appearance on the screen in "A Man and His Mate." The character calls for the display of dramatic talent of the highest order, and he is said to insure his place as a romantic star of the first magnitude. Gladys Brockwell makes an appealing heroine, and a strong supporting company rounds out this splendid Mutual master picture, which will be at the Lyric Friday and Saturday.

ARAB FILM PLAY AT REX.

The poetry of the Arab and his steed, the temperament of the Orient, the thrills of danger and mystery of fanaticism can be found in the Jesse L. Lasky production at the Rex today and tomorrow.

Edgar Selwyn, author and producer of "The Arab" as a play, here stars in the screen visualization that transports the spectator to Arabia, so realistic is the atmosphere. In fact, "The Arab" is considered one of the most spectacular productions ever made by the Jesse L. Lasky company.

The paramount South American travel boat makes the round trip every hour to Mollendo and Lima, Peru. There will be no stopovers, no hotel bills and no tips.

Bruce Brown is succeeding admirably in pleasing the different musical tastes that gather every day at the Rex. Grand opera selections and simple ballads are rendered by Mr. Brown with equal ease and beauty.

WANT MORE REPAIRS MADE THIS YEAR

Commercial Club Will Ask City to Make Street Improvements.

West Duluth is being badly neglected in the matter of upkeep of streets, according to residents. The street commissioner is said to be handicapped in doing the work necessary because of the lack of funds apportioned to this end of the city and as a result many of the streets and sidewalks that require repairs are being passed up.

Sixty-third avenue west below Raleigh street is said to be in a very bad condition. Holes in the street, some of which are more than a foot deep, exist in many places. A large number of automobile owners use the street in going to their boat houses, and the strain on the machines going over the thoroughfare is said to be very severe.

"It is not only this street but many others in this end of the city that are being neglected," said a member of the West Duluth Commercial club this morning. "John Holmes, the street commissioner, has not been allowed to put on more than three men, and these three men with himself are unable to do all the work necessary. Wooden sidewalks all over the suburb are in need of repairs. This is the time of the year to do this work and not in the fall."

It is proposed to take the matter up at the meeting of the club this evening. The committee on streets will be asked to get in touch with the department of public works in order to have more of this work done this year.

DULUTHIAN CAPTURES HUGE MUSKELLUNGE

FRED DEBOER AND "CATCH."

Fred Deboer, 5602 Grand avenue, lays claim to having caught the biggest muskellunge ever taken from Boulder lake. The big fish shown in the above photograph was caught Wednesday while Mr. Deboer was out on the lake with a party of friends.

The "muskie" measured forty-three inches from tip to tip and weighed twenty-seven and one-half pounds. In addition to this fish several smaller ones were caught by the party.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS ARE REAL "DAUGHTERS OF UNCLE SAM"

MILDRED CAROLINE HUGHES. DOROTHEA GRACE HUGHES.

When the nation celebrates, so do the little Misses Mildred Caroline and Dorothea Grace Hughes. The celebration has now a two-fold meaning to them although it is only a very short time since they believed that the celebration was strictly in their own honor.

The two girls celebrate the day as the birthday of their native land, and also as their own birthday. Both were born on July 4, and although they are just about the same size, there is just a year, lacking a half hour, difference in their ages.

Mildred, who is on the left in the photo, was born at 8:30 o'clock on the morning of July 4, 1907. She will celebrate her eighth birthday anniversary. Dorothea is just a year senior, having been born at 9 o'clock on July 4, 1906, and will celebrate her ninth birthday on the next national holiday.

The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hughes, 815 North Fifty-sixth avenue west. Mr. Hughes is storekeeper for the Duluth Street Railway company.

BABY IS RESCUED.

Taken From Water and Revived After Being Nearly Drowned.

Lester, the 16-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Dahl, 535 South Sixty-first avenue west, has almost fully recovered from his experience of being nearly drowned in the slip back of the Dahl home, yesterday. Rapid work on the part of the parents and Doctors R. S. Forbes and W. E. Judson saved the boy's life.

The child had left the house but a few minutes yesterday, when Mrs. Dahl missed him. A search was immediately begun and the first place thought of was the water front. There floating alongside the dock was the child.

Lester had probably gone there for the purpose of trying to get into one of the boats belonging to the West Duluth boathouse. He had several times before been taken down there by his father and older brothers and liked the experience. It is believed that in attempting to get into the boat he slipped into the water.

The water is only two feet deep at this point. It is thought that the child had gone down at least once or twice and that he was reappearing for the third time when discovered by the mother. The child did not fully regain consciousness until late last evening.

Three Games Scheduled.

The Zenith Furnace baseball team will leave tomorrow morning for Hill City, where the team will play a series of three games. The games will be played tomorrow afternoon, Sunday and Monday. A number of local fans are planning on going with the team.

Returns to West Duluth.

H. G. Schmitz, former proprietor of a restaurant and hotel in West Duluth, who for the last three years has been operating a hotel in Superior, is back in West Duluth. Mr. Schmitz is making plans to open another hotel in this end of the city at 307 North Central avenue. He expects to have the place ready for business about July 15.

Claussen Funeral.

The funeral services for Mrs. Christine M. Claussen, age 53, wife of Louis Claussen of Bayview Heights, who died yesterday morning as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident on March 8, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from Bell Brothers' undertaking rooms, and at 2:30 o'clock from the Westminster Presbyterian church. Rev W. L. Staub will officiate. Interment will be in Oneota cemetery.

OFFICIALS TO OPEN GROUNDS

Mayor Will Preside at Meeting to Be Held at Chester Park.

Demonstration of Games for Children Will Be Given.

Although the three public playgrounds were in operation yesterday in charge of the city recreational department, the official opening of the grounds at Chester park will take place this evening.

The Third Regiment band will give a concert during the evening, it was announced this morning by J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, who will be in charge of the program. Mayor Prince will preside, also delivering the opening address. Short talks will be given by Mr. Batchelor, who will describe the all-year playground and recreational system, and a few other well known Duluthians.

After the program of addresses, Mr. Batchelor and Miss Pauline Strode, his assistant, will stage a series of games, so that the public can see just what work is to be done and how the children will amuse themselves throughout every day of the summer months.

Mr. Batchelor announced today that the official opening of the Harrison playground and the field at Fifty-second avenue west would take place next week. Similar programs and band concerts are being planned, he said.

The three playgrounds will be open every day from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m., excepting Sunday.

The daily programs to be followed out by each director and directress follow:

CHARITY CASES SHOW FALLING OFF

Fewer Persons Asked for Aid During June Than Year Ago.

Sixty new cases were handled in the office of the Associated Charities during the month of June, according to the report of Miss Edna Meeker, secretary. This is nine less than the number for June, 1914.

The sixty cases concerned the welfare of 167 people, of which sixty were men, thirty-two were women and sixty-five were children. Twenty-eight cases came before the society through personal applications and thirty-two through other societies and individuals.

Thirty-three transient men were given assistance and advice during the month, as compared with forty-one for the corresponding month of 1914. Permanent employment was found for four women and temporary jobs were secured for nine women and five men.

During June 304 pieces of clothing, some of it new, and twenty-seven pairs of shoes were distributed. The report also shows:

Visits to homes, 117; reference calls, 207; business calls, 76; calls at office, 851; total number calls of visitors, 400; telephone calls, 749.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

KAUFF IS FINED AND SUSPENDED

New York, July 2.—Following a conference here today between James Gilmore, president of the Federal league, and the officials of the Brooklyn club, it was announced that Benny Kauff had been fined $100 and suspended for ten days. President Ward of the Brooklyn club declared that Kauff would not be traded and would not be permitted to play with any club other than Brooklyn.

Kauff, having a disagreement with the Brooklyn Federal's business manager regarding the amount of salary due him, refused to play in yesterday's game here with Kansas City. Early in the season he caused a baseball sensation by jumping to the New York Giants.

Rain Prevents Games.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 2.—There will be no play in the tennis court championships this afternoon. Efforts are being made to get the grounds in shape for several matches this evening.

ELEVEN YEARS OLD BUT JUST "BORN"

Clyde H. Lawson, who is 11 years, 4 months and 16 days old, was born yesterday.

At least Secretary Ruben Johnson of the health department says he was not officially born, although his birthday was Feb. 13, 1904.

Through some oversight, the doctor did not report the birth and until Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. H. P. Lawson, 827 West Superior street, came to the city hall and filled out a birth certificate, Clyde was not known as a resident of Duluth.

Although physicians often overlook the registration of births and children are 7, 8 or 9 years old before being "born," this is the longest wait called to the attention of authorities recently.

CARLTON PIONEERS TO HAVE PICNIC JULY 10

Cloquet, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—All persons who have resided in Carlton county fifteen years or more are eligible for the old settlers' picnic at Moose Lake July 10.

All the visitors are asked to do is to bring plenty of lunch. People from Carlton, Cloquet, Atkinson, Mahtowa, Harrnum and all Carlton county points are expected. This picnic was planned at the old settlers' meeting at Carlton last winter.

VIRGINIA INVITES SHELL LAKE PEOPLE

Will Entertain Commercial Club Members From Wisconsin Town.

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club of Shell Lake, Wis., which will visit Northern Minnesota next Sunday has been invited by the Commercial club to spend part of the day here as guests of the club. Secretary Gill of the Commercial club last evening at the meeting was instructed to wire an invitation to the Shell Lake club.

It is planned to meet the visitors at St. Mary's lake with several automobiles and escort them into the city. While here they will be shown about the mines, public buildings and an effort will be made to have the Elks and Moose club rooms thrown open to the visitors. They will be about forty-five persons in the party.

Object to Sawmill Refuse.

Messrs. Hendrickson, Linwald and Ekholm, who reside just outside of the city limits northwest of the city, asked the Commercial club to take up the matter of preventing their yards being filled with chips and refuse after each rain. The matter was referred back to them to take up with the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company and report at the next meeting if no satisfactory agreement has been reached.

The stream, which connects Virginia lake with Four Mile lake is the one on which the chips and refuse is carried to the property.

A communication from Senator Fred Vibert of Cloquet thanking the club for its part in the entertainment of the state legislators was read.

President Murphy reported on the road matter and on the Fourth of July celebration, covering matters already published.

AURORA CELEBRATES FOURTH ON MONDAY

Races, Ball Game, Fireworks and Other Events Are Planned.

Aurora, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Everything points to a very successful celebration of Independence day here next Monday.

The committees report that all arrangements have been made for the occasion.

The following races have been announced: 100-yard dash, for men only; 100-yard dash, for farmers only; 100-yard dash, for boys 14 to 18 years; 100-yard dash, for boys under 14 years; 100-yard dash, for girls 13 to 20 years; 100-yard dash, for girls under 13; sack race, free for all, 100 yards; potato race, for boys; potato race, for girls; fat men's race, over 200 pounds, 100 yards; three-legged race, for all under 15; farmer girls' race, 75 yards; obstacle race, 100 yards, three barrels, one turn around each barrel; children's race, under 7.

Baseball Game.

There will be a baseball game in the afternoon between Gilbert and Aurora for a large purse and the children will be given tickets to the picture show. There will be a fireworks display at the baseball park at 8:30. The City band will render music during the entire day. There will be large cash first, second and third prizes for all the races.

TWO HARBORS WILL CELEBRATE MONDAY

Parade in Morning Followed By Speaking at Park and Sports.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to present indications Two Harbors will have a fine celebration on Monday.

All the stores and shops of the Iron Range railroad will be closed all day.

The Socialist local will give an elaborate program in the city park including sports, speaking and music and the committee in charge promises much. The principal speaker of the day will be J. F. Emme of St. Paul.

The parade will form at 9:30 on Cedar street and Seventh avenue, proceed through the downtown district and thence to the park. The parade will be headed by the Two Harbors Marine band and fifty girls carrying United States flags. At 10:30 a. m. the program will commence in the park. There will be several selections by the band followed by the address of welcome by Mayor William Towl. The Varde Male chorus will sing and Albin Walstrom and John Dwan will deliver addresses. There will then be several musical numbers followed by an address by J. F. Emme of St. Paul.

Sports in Afternoon.

In the afternoon a long program of sports will be carried out, including races for men, women and children. Prizes will be offered for the largest family appearing at the program and prizes will be offered for the best fraternal float and the best business float.

Refreshments will be furnished on the grounds and everything will be directed towards the enjoyment of those attending. The Marine band will furnish music all the afternoon in the park. A special attraction for the afternoon will be the ball game which will be played between the local Gopher ball team and the fast Virginia team.

Carl E. Bergren is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

THE AWFUL FIRE OF ECZEMA

Is Instantly Relieved by the New Preparation—NOX-EMA.

Obstinate Cases Have Been Permanently Healed With a Few Applications. Pimples, Salt Rheum, Itching Piles, Chafing, Chapped Hands and all Skin Irritations are Soothed and Healed—Pain Stops at Once.

A Free Trial Package Mailed for 2c Stamp

The awful burning and itching of the most obstinate and aggravated case of eczema, salt rheum or itching piles is instantly relieved with NOX-EMA, and it does not stain or soil the skin or clothes. Has no objectionable odor and quickly heals and restores to health the most obstinate cases of pimples, scaly skin, chapped hands and all skin irritations. Humors, ulcers and old sores that have defied various internal treatments and external applications, quickly disappear when you use Nox-ema.

Nox-ema is not a patent medicine. It is prepared after the formula of a physician of repute who used it in his practice and found it invariably efficient. It is for sale at most drug stores at $1 00 per package or is sent prepaid by mail from the Hegmuth Laboratories, Milwaukee, Wis. If you are a sufferer from eczema or any sort of skin disease you should not delay a day in getting Nox-ema. You suffer unnecessary pain and torture every moment you are without it—it is instant relief.

Abbett's three stores, Brown & Toonen, Jeronimus Pharmacy, Erickson's drug store, Spencer Pharmacy Co.

GIRL AGED 7 WILL BE ON CHISHOLM PROGRAM

FLORENCE KLEFFMAN.

Chisholm, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pupils of the Pearle A. Sheehy studio of music will appear in recital in the auditorium of the public library this evening. They will be assisted by John D. Sheehy, vocalist. The youngest pupil who will appear is Florence Kleffman, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kleffman.

GILBERT GOING TO CELEBRATE ON MONDAY

No Expense Will Be Spared to Make Affair Notable One.

Gilbert, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gilbert will celebrate the Fourth on Monday, and great preparations are being made. A large part of the program will be for the benefit of the children. The boys and girls' races here have become noted all over the range and attract a number of outsiders who come for this feature alone.

A large sum of money has been raised and the committee on decorations is busily engaged.

The parade will start at 9:00 a. m., and will be led by forty-eight girls, each representing a state and directed by the Goddess of Liberty. The high school and Commercial club bands will furnish the music. Various societies and business men will have floats and the members of others will parade. Ed Brown's mixed double octet will sing the "Star Spangled Banner." The oration of the day will be delivered by A. H. Weigal and Alfred Matt will read the Declaration of Independence. The sports in the afternoon will consist of the usual races and a number of new features. The Gilbert baseball team will cross bats with the fast Aurora aggregation. Everything points to the fact that the Gilbert celebration will be the best in its history and amusement will be provided for young and old.

VERMILION ROAD IS IN GOOD SHAPE

Aurora Motorist Makes Trip From Duluth in Record Time.

Aurora, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Vermilion road from Duluth to the range is now in fine condition for automobile travel and many machines are making the trip that way. F. C. Talboys of this place made the trip from Duluth to Aurora yesterday in less than four hours with his roadster. The larger cars come through faster. There has been a great amount of road work this season along the entire road and there are very few bad places now. From here the road on through to Tower and Ely is also in excellent shape.

LAKE COUNTY PRIZES.

Lake County Club Offers Premium Money to County Fair.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake county Farmers' club has appropriated $25, to be paid out in premiums by the Lake County Agricultural society at its next fair, to be held here Sept. 15, 16 and 17. The prizes will be known as the Lake County Farmers' club specials, and will be awarded as follows:

Five dollars for the best collection of garden produce; $3 for the second best collection of garden produce; $5 for the best bushel of Kerson oats; $5 for the best bushel of Marquis wheat; $3 for the best collection of alfalfa or timothy; $2 for the second best collection; $2 for the best collection of stock roots.

NURSES GOING WEST.

Ely and Hibbing Hospital Employes to Visit Frisco Fair.

Ely, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Mary Teresa Russell, who has been employed as nurse at the Shipman hospital for the past year, will leave tomorrow for a trip through the West. She will be joined in Duluth by Miss Wagoner, who has resigned as nurse at a Hibbing hospital. The latter will remain in the West. Besides visiting the fair at San Francisco they will visit the Grand Canyon and the Yellowstone park and will spend several days in Chicago. Miss Russell will return to her duties at the Shipman hospital Aug. 5. Miss Marie Broker, visiting nurse, will have charge of Miss Russell's duties during her absence.

Sues for Lumber Bill.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. A. Remington, a Hibbing lumber dealer, has filed suit in district court against E. J. Cram of Alice for $252.75, alleged to be the balance of a bill of goods sold to the defendant in 1913. The plaintiff claims that only $75 of the bill has been paid. Robert Stratton is representing Remington.

MORE MEN WILL BE GIVEN WORK

Over 100 Will Be Added to Mining Payroll in Virginia District.

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four mines in this district operated by the Oliver Iron Mining company have been allotted an additional tonnage of ore and as a result more than 100 men will be given employment. The mines are the Wanlass at Kinney, the Shiras, the Alpena and the Mesaba Mountain stock pile.

Another shovel will be put in operation at the Mesaba Mountain stock pile and the entire pile will be shipped this year. The shovel is being moved there from the Prindle mine. About thirty more men will be put to work there.

Increase at Wanlass.

The Wanlass will gradually increase its working force until it has about twenty-five more men employed than at the present time. It will then be in shape to work to capacity.

Additional men will also be put to work at the Shiras and this mine will be worked to capacity.

At the Alpena mine the force employed there at present will take care of the additional tonnage, which will be shipped.

The Mesaba Mountain open pit will also be operated.

CHISHOLM BEING WELL DECORATED

Plans Complete for Big Celebration of Nation's Birthday.

Chisholm, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Everything is in readiness for the biggest celebration of the Fourth ever attempted in the village. The main streets and business houses of the village have been decorated.

Promptly at dawn Monday guns will usher in the day. After breakfast the industrial parade and foot races will take place. Then will come an airship flight by Miss Katherine Stinson, a daring young lady aviator. Miss Stinson will make three ascensions on Monday, the first in the morning, the second in the afternoon and the third in the evening. She will start her flights from the high school grounds.

James P. Boyle will deliver the oration of the day at the Chisholm opera house.

Races in Afternoon.

The races will be continued during the early part of the afternoon, after which the big baseball match between the old rivals, Hibbing and Chisholm, will take place at 2 o'clock. There will also be boat races on the lake of single and double sculls and a motorboat race for $50 between the carvel-built Water Wagon and the all-steel Eudora. The former is of 10-horse power and the latter of 12-horse power, and should put up a race well worth going miles to see. The merry-go-round will be running, with its musical accompaniment. The Spanish War Veterans' dance will take place at the opera house.

NEW CITIZENS ARE PLEASED WITH PLAN

Hibbing's Proposed Naturalization Celebration Proving Popular.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Naturalized citizens living here are enthusiastic over the Americanization ceremonies to be held here Monday in connection with the Fourth of July celebration.

"Americanization day will give aliens the spirit of democracy in a way in which they have never before conceived it," Herman Antonelli, a prominent Italians said. "Hibbing has taken a wiser step than it even realizes. Few honors can compare with this and there is little question but that it will make the foreigner feel that he has not come here in vain."

"Citizen's Buttons."

A "Citizen's Button" will be given aliens as a memento of the occasion. J. E. Lawler, secretary of the Commercial club, has ordered more than 500 buttons which will be presented to the foreign born Americans.

From the parade beginning at 9:30 o'clock in the morning to the last sky rocket in the pyrotechnic display in the evening, every detail for the celebration of the Fourth here has been carefully arranged. The sport program to be given in the afternoon and the ball game at 4:30 o'clock, will be attractive features.

Members of the committee in charge have made an appeal to business men to enter floats in the parade. A prize of $50 will be given for the best decorated float while corresponding prizes will be given for other features of the parade.

J. P. Boyle to Speak.

Former Senator James P. Boyle will give the principal address at the Americanization ceremonies Monday. Judge Hughes, who intended to speak, will be in Wisconsin Monday.

Village employes have begun decorating the village for the occasion. Business places and private residences are also being decorated.

One of the features of the parade will be what is believed to be the largest American flag in the state. This flag will be carried by 200 school children. The flag measures 60 feet in length and 25 feet in width.

From various societies come reports that members will take the oath of allegiance at the Americanization ceremonies. Each newly made citizen taking the oath of allegiance will be given a "citizenship button" as a memento of the ceremony.

MINNEAPOLIS WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Mrs. Sinclar Finds Wonderful Remedy in Time to Avoid Knife.

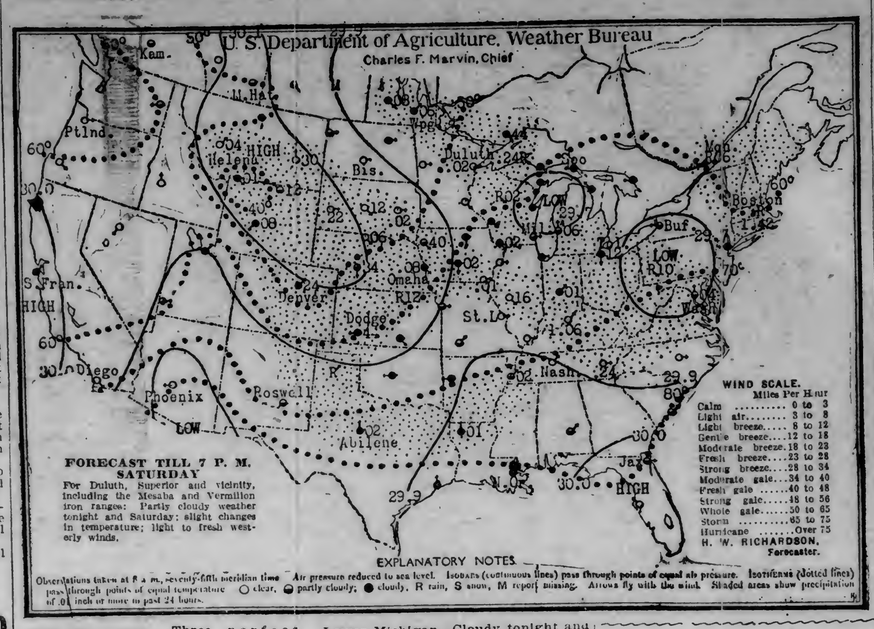

Mrs. Sadie E. Sinclair of 418 East Lake street, Minneapolis, suffered from stomach derangements for more than six years. She became despondent and hopeless. She feared she would have to undergo an operation. Her complexion suffered along with her general health.

Then she discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and took a course of treatment. The first dose brought results. She wrote:

"Only one dose and I slept like a log. And I felt relieved right away. If I should need any more medicine you may be sure I will send for it. It is a wonder one can be rid of such conditions without pain. And my complexion is clearing; they all speak of it—I was so yellow and brown before."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

PARTLY CLOUDY

Three perfect days—count 'em—three; and today is starting out to be even more so. The rain of last night was just a sort of regulator and was only a pleasant downfall of moisture that served to do good to lawns and shrubbery and save the labor of using the garden hose; and then, when its job was finished, it quit. Too much of this weather is not conceivable.

A year ago today was fair. The sun rose this morning at 4:17 and will set this evening at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Temperatures of 90 deg. or higher continued Thursday in the extreme South, Arizona, Nevada and Oregon. The temperature has fallen somewhat throughout the Northwest. During the last twenty-four hours showers fell over portions of nearly all districts from the Rocky mountains eastward. Heavy local rains occurred over Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Massachusetts."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 2.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Minnesota and North Dakota—Fair tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; slightly cooler in southeast portion tonight.

South Dakota—Fair tonight and probably Saturday; slightly warmer tonight.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; warmer in west portion tonight.

Lower Michigan—Cloudy tonight and Saturday, probably showers tonight.

Upper Michigan—Cloudy tonight and Saturday, probably showers in extreme east portion tonight. Cooler in east portion tonight.

GRADING TENTH AVENUE.

Improvement of Two Harbors Thoroughfare Begun By City.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work on the grading of Tenth avenue commenced this week and is being done by the city by day labor as was paving of Seventh avenue and other recent jobs about the city, under the supervision of the city engineer and the street commissioner. As soon as the street is brought down to grade a coating of crushed rock, twelve feet wide, will be put on and thus make it a fairly good road way until more permanent improvement is made. The street is to be twenty-four feet wide with a parking between the curb line and the sidewalks. The improving of First avenue between Cedar and Poplar streets and also the improving of the alley south of First avenue will be started in the near future.

McPHEETERS' NEW JOB.

Agricultural Instructor in Two Harbors School Goes to Hastings.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. A. McPheeters, for the past three years agricultural instructor in the local schools, has resigned to accept a similar position at Hastings, Minn. Mr. McPheeters left yesterday for Stillwater, Okla., to visit relatives and will return to Hastings about July 20.

The departure of Mr. McPheeters will be keenly felt by every farmer in Lake county. During the time he has been connected with the agricultural department of this school district he has done much toward aiding the farmers to realize more profit from their soil. He has been instrumental in the organization of several farmers' clubs and associations in this county, which have proven helpful to the members in many ways.

MONSTER BAND IN PARADE.

Virginia Plans on Great Boosters' Day July 18.

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A 200-piece band, composed of musicians of the eleven bands of the Northern Minnesota Band league, will be a feature of the parade which will precede the double-header between the Virginia and Duluth Northern league clubs here on "Boosters' day," July 18.

In the parade will be Mayor Boylan, members of the city council and other city officers, members of the police and fire departments, the league players and automobile owners. In the morning a band will be sent to all the range towns over the Mesaba trolley line to advertise the occasion.

Special trains will be secured on the Iron Range road from the Vermilion range and Two Harbors, while residents of the Western Mesaba range will make the trip to the city over the electric line or by automobile.

Alderman Ernie F. Murray, father of the day, and manager of the Military band, plans to advertise the occasion at all range towns and points north of the city.

Fungo hitting, throwing and baserunning by members of the Duluth and Virginia teams will precede the doubleheader. It is planned to start the opening game at 2 o'clock.

A banquet will be one of the features of the bands' gathering, with Judge R. J. Montague as toastmaster.

WAITING ON BOATS.

Ore Shipments From Nashwauk District Temporarily Hampered.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the Great Northern ore docks at Allouez being filled to capacity, the Hawkins mine has not been shipping ore and the Quinn-Harrison mine has been cut down to thirty cars per day.

As soon as boats are available ore shipments will be continued as usual from the Nashwauk district.

HAWKINS MINER HURT.

Blast Goes Off Prematurely and He Is Badly Injured.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elnard Rakkala was seriously injured Wednesday afternoon when a blast went off before he could get away. He was charging a gopher hole in the Hawkins mine pit when the explosion occurred, tearing the flesh of his leg and hips and filling his face with gravel. He was taken to the Adams hospital at Hibbing for treatment. He was the only man near the hole when the accident happened.

NASHWAUK STORY HOUR.

First of Programs to Be Given Next Saturday Afternoon.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A story hour will be conducted every Saturday at 1:30 p. m. in the Nashwauk public library. Children are cordially invited to attend. Following is the Japanese program for tomorrow: "The Flower of Old Japan," "The Mirror of Matzuyama," "The Tongue-cut Sparrow," "Princess Moon Beam." The library has received twenty-five new books in the Finnish, Italian and Croatian languages. These books are ready for use.

MINING MAN GOING ABROAD.

Capt. White Leaves Hibbing for Visit in England.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. H. White, formerly connected with the Leetonia mine here, who has also been connected with mines in practically every town on the Mesaba range, left yesterday noon for New York, to sail in a few days for England, to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. White of Plymouth. He will return to the range in about three months. This is the first visit Mr. White has made to his home since coming to America twenty-three years ago. He was 23 years of age when he came here.

Capt. White has been captain of the Cavour mine at Kinney and the Madrid mine of Virginia.

NASHWAUK WILL HAVE BIG CROWD

Nashwauk, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nashwauk's big celebration on Monday, July 5, the program for which was printed in The Herald, promises to be the best in the history of the village and a large number of neighboring towns that are not celebrating are expected here.

BUHL TEAM IS TO PLAY MOUNTAIN IRON

Buhl, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ball games between Buhl and Mountain Iron will be played Sunday at Mountain Iron and here Monday.

In the game Monday James Grant will appear on the mound for Buhl.

MANY CHISHOLM MEN TO GET WORK

Chisholm, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The improvement in iron ore prices has caused the companies operating here to open up some of the mines that have been lying idle for years, among them the Chisholm, Pearce and Leonard-Burt mines.

The Glenn, it is rumored, will also place at work a number of men. In all some 400 men will be used this season. This will greatly relieve the labor situation made acute by laying off men employed by the village council.

CHISHOLM MERCHANT WEDS IN MILL CITY

Chisholm, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—News reached here yesterday that Abraham Sapero of the firm of Sapero & Sons was married to Miss Annette Schaefer of Minneapolis, daughter of Isaac Schaefer, an old-time and highly respected clothing merchant of the Twin Cities, at the home of the bride's parents. There were many gifts from the friends of the bride, who is among the most popular of the younger set of the Mill City. The couple left for Atlantic City, New York and Washington, D. C., for their honeymoon and will return in a couple of weeks.

HIBBING FIREMEN TO PLAY SLUGGERS

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest is shown in the ball game next Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock between the First National Sluggers and the Firemen. Chief McIlharey has announced that he has his men in the pink of condition and will make the Sluggers work for every run. The line-up of the Sluggers will be: Pitcher, Hunt or Rue; catcher, Charles Smith; first base, Harold Friday; second base, Ed Quarters; third base, Frank Kleffman; shortstop, Hunt or Rue; fielders, M. A. Turner, Dr. J. Monroe, Dr. Saylor, Hoskins, Hepworth and Magnusson.

Inspect Buck Lake Road.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Inspector of Roads Lidberg and assistant, John Connors, have been spending several days on the Buck Lake road, making up the final estimate for the contracting firm of McWilliams, Latvalla & Lake, who are now putting the finishing touches to one of the best roads in Itasca county.

Keewatin to Pay Cash.

Keewatin, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village of Keewatin will pay all its employes in cash hereafter and as there is about $17,000 available, this amount will help a great deal to loosen up the tightness of the money stringency which has been experienced for the past six months.

Hibbing Man Buried.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services for William Lappanen, age 67, a pioneer of the range, who died at his home, 343 Stevenson location, Monday, were conducted yesterday afternoon from W. J. Ryder's undertaking rooms. Rev. M. Kortesmaki officiated. Interment was in the Hibbing cemetery.

Buhl Alumni Elect.

Buhl, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Malcolm Morse, member of the graduating class of 1914, was elected president of the Buhl High School alumni. Other officers elected are: Vice president, Anna Rian, '15; treasurer, Gladys Johnson, '14; secretary, Ray Wolff, '15. It was planned to hold an alumni dance.

Chisholm Stores Closing.

Chisholm, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—By unanimous agreement the hardware stores will close every evening except Saturday promptly at 7 o'clock. This movement has been on foot for some time, but hitherto no unanimous agreement could be arranged.

Hibbing Evening Game.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing Juniors will play the Powers' Colts at the ball park Friday evening at 6:30 oclock. This game was postponed early this week because of the rain.

TALES OF WOE TOLD BOARD OF REVIEW

Duluthians Apparently Almost Poverty Stricken and Should Not Be Taxed.

Duluth is poverty stricken.

At least one would readily come to the above conclusion after hearing the protests made against personal property valuations before the city board of review, which has been in session all of this week. Tomorrow afternoon the board, consisting of Mayor Prince, City Assessor Scott and City Clerk Borgen, will officially adjourn for the year.

Up to this noon 100 men and women have appeared before the board to protest against the valuations placed on their personal belongings.

During the first part of next week the members of the board will make personal inspections of several homes and factories, the owners of which have protested against the valuations made by the city assessors, and on which it has been found impossible to reach satisfactory figures.

CARE OF BABIES URGED BY HEALTH OFFICIALS.

July health department posters placed in street cars this morning urge the care of babies.

"The best time to save the babies is all the time. Ask the health department," reads the poster.

Last month the public was urged to eat clean food and get fresh air.

RELAPSE AFTER AN IMPROVEMENT

Archbishop Quigley's Heart Action Becomes Weaker After Noon.

Rochester, N. Y., July 2.—Continued improvement in the condition of James Edward Quigley, Catholic archbishop of Chicago, who is critically ill here at the home of his brother, Chief of Police Joseph Quigley, was announced this morning. Temperature and pulse were better and the prelate's mind was clear.

Physicians in attendance make no secret of the fact that they are baffled at the change which set in late yesterday afternoon, a few hours after the patient suffered a second stroke of paralysis, and regard it as either marking a chance for recovery or the forerunner of a sudden collapse.

At noon the archbishop's heart action became perceptibly weaker and at the same time his temperature took a sudden drop. These symptoms were regarded by the attending physicians as indicating the approach of a final collapse, although the patient's wonderful vitality may enable him to rally again.

LYNCHING POSSIBLE; WARRANT IS HELD UP

Pennsylvania Governor to Consider Case of Requisition of Negro.

Philadelphia, July 2.—Governor Brumbaugh, it was learned today, has withdrawn a requisition warrant issued by Governor Tener in 1913, for Fred Brown, a negro wanted in South Carolina on a charge of murder, after representation had been made that the prisoner would be in danger of lynching if returned to the Southern state.

Counsel for Brown has made extraordinary efforts to keep him out of South Carolina. After his arrest several years ago his counsel pleaded that if Brown was returned to that state he would be in danger of lynching. In support of his plea he quoted public utterances of Cole Blease, then governor of South Carolina. The requisition was finally issued by Governor Tener and Brown's counsel carried the case through all the United States courts to the supreme tribunal which sustained the lower courts in refusing to interfere.

On asking for the withdrawal of the requisition by Governor Brumbaugh, counsel cited incidents in connection with the Frank case in Georgia and a recent lynching in South Carolina. A hearing in the case will be given by Governor Brumbaugh next week.

KNIT FOR POLES AS HE AWAITED DEATH

David Dunn, Aged 20 Years, Electrocuted for Murder of Express Agent.

Auburn, N. Y., July 2.—David Dunn, 20 years old, died in the electric chair here today for the murder of Harry T. Edwards, an express agent in Corning in February, 1914. An eleventh-hour effort to obtain a respite because of belief in Dunn's insanity failed.

Dunn had become reconciled to his fate and met death without flinching. While in prison he contributed considerable knitting work to a collection for Polish war sufferers.

The crime was unusually brutal and Dunn's arrest came as a result of knocking down a telephone receiver. He had gained access to the express office and after shooting Edwards in an effort to get money he knocked down the receiver. The telephone girl, in her effort to learn why the receiver was down, discovered the murder and notified the police, who arrested Dunn in bed in his home not far from the scene.

Cloquet Man Hurt.

Cloquet, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—While working with a block and tackle at the paper mill Tuesday afternoon, John McCullough received a slight scalp wound. He was brought to the city hospital, where the injury was dressed and he is getting along nicely.

Oscar Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newman, was injured Tuesday and an X-ray picture taken at the Cloquet hospital revealed a broken bone in the leg.

FRECKLE-FACE

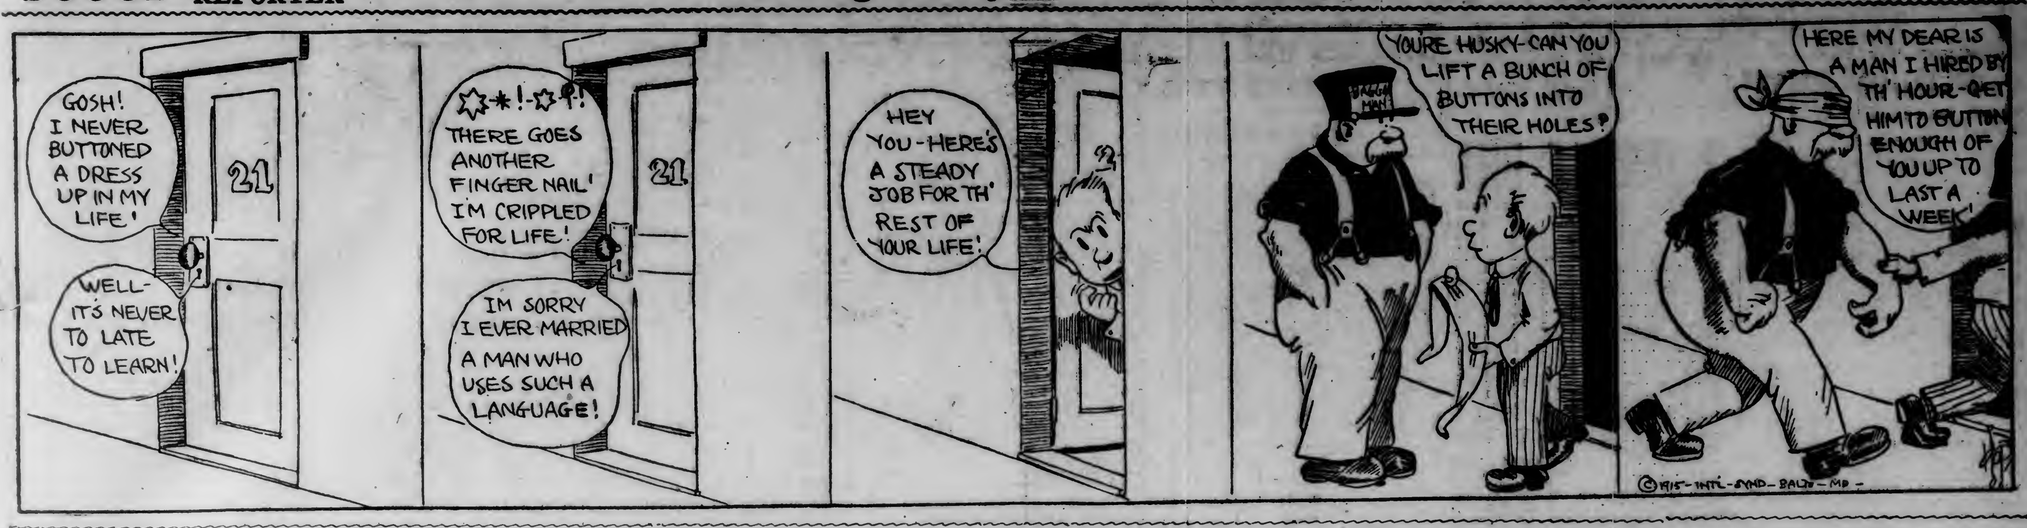

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from Boyce drug store or any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

JOINT DEBATE AT ANETA, N. D.

George Loftus and Treadwell Twichell in Public Discussion.

Twichell Vigorously Opposes Proposed St. Paul Terminal Elevator.

Aneta, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Discussing the question whether the state of North Dakota should establish a terminal elevator in St. Paul, Treadwell Twichell, a Cass county farmer, and George S. Loftus met here today in joint debate. Tomorrow they will discuss whether the legislature should have ordered the construction of this elevator.

Twichell was a member of the last legislature and was opposed to the plan.

The debate is being held at the fair in progress here. Each speaker is allowed an hour and a half, and the management promises there is to be no interruptions. A great crowd was present today. Loftus, taking the affirmative side, spoke first. He advanced the arguments that have been made for some time relative to the location of a state-owned elevator in St. Paul and contended that it would be a great benefit to the farmers of the state, claiming it would relieve them of the alleged monopoly now enjoyed by the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce. His arguments were those which have been advanced at many meetings held in the state during the last few months, though possibly presented even more forcibly than he has done so in former efforts, because of the conditions surrounding this meeting.

Twichell is a fearless advocate of what he believes and has ample ability to defend himself in a public platform contest.

Twichell in Opposition.

Mr. Twichell, in the course of his argument against the St. Paul terminal elevator plan, said:

"The influence of a terminal elevator on the price of grain is measured by the volume of its transactions.

"A state-owned terminal elevator would always be a seller and never a buyer. The value of any commodity is never advanced by an offer to sell, but by an offer to buy above the current market price. An offer to sell a given quantity of wheat by a state-owned terminal elevator would have the same depressing influence on the market as a like amount offered by a private individual or firm. Its offer to buy would have no greater influence on the market than that by an individual or firm. The connection of the state of North Dakota with a terminal elevator would in no wise increase or diminish its influence as a price factor.

"The worth of a terminal elevator proposition or any selling organization created for the purpose of securing better prices for its customers depends on the ability to get purchasers to give more for the grain the producers have to sell. By what line of reasoning is it fair to presume a buyer of grain, now located in Minneapolis, would go to St. Paul to buy grain at a higher price and grain that may have been mixed, when he should secure grain direct from the farmers and in the actual condition from which it came from the threshing machine and unmixed.

"If it is the theory that the state-owned terminal elevators could hold up its grades and establish higher values in the world's markets, what reason can be given for the location of a terminal elevator by North Dakota in St. Paul? Such a terminal elevator would be cut off from export by rail rate either to the seaboard or to the head of the lakes.

"If a terminal elevator, state-owned or otherwise, has no peculiar or unusual influence as a price-making factor—and there is no reason to believe that the erection of a terminal elevator in St. Paul would advance prices—what advantage would such an institution be to North Dakota farmers, even if he did pay for it? If there is to be no benefit in price, the benefit, if any, must be from some other source. The establishment of higher grades would add to the compensation of the farmer, but the terminal elevators now established have nothing to do with grading incoming grain, and all the farmers' grain is incoming.

Clean Grain in Home Elevators.

"We foolishly ship many hundreds of thousands of pounds of screenings which we not only give away, but on which we pay the freight to terminal elevator points. There is certainly no occasion to establish a terminal elevator on side the state to clean our grain. It can be done as cheaply at the local elevators. If the terminal elevator proposition is to consider the value of screenings, I would like to suggest that under the conditions existing or under any proposed regulations the value of the screenings should go to the profit of the state-owned terminal elevators. The profit should not go to the shipper, but to the people of the state in proportion to their taxation for the support and construction of the elevator. If the volume of the business handled by a terminal elevator was sufficiently large it is reasonable to suppose that a fraction of the present commission might be one of the sources of revenue to the state. A terminal elevator is not a part of the so-called open market, but a valuable aid. 'There is, in reality today the same open market for wheat as for potatoes or wool or wood. The owner can consign a car of wheat to himself without having his grain weighed or inspected by the state and can sell it on its merits to any chamber without paying a commission. We could handle grain without any chamber of commerce or market place as we can ship a car of potatoes to market, find our own cars and not pay any commission, but none of us do it that way for the reason that it is generally cheaper and better to entrust the sale to some one in the business conversant with the conditions and acquainted with the trade."

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

AITKIN COUNTY SCHOOL MEETING

School Officers and Summer School Teachers in Joint Session.

Aitkin, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. C. S. Young, superintendent of schools, has arranged for a joint meeting of the school officers of Aitkin county to be held here with the summer school teachers, July 8.

The program follows:

Thursday morning a conference with G. M. Cesander, assistant state superintendent of rural schools, who will answer questions relating to school work.

Afternoon session—"Welcome in Behalf of the Churches," Rev. A. L. Richardson; "Procedure in Building New School Houses," Oscar Engstrom, Kimberly; "School Administration from the Teacher's Viewpoint," Miss Anna Swing, Glen; "Teachers and School Boards," Supt. T. H. Hagen, Detroit; "Value of the Teacher in Dollars and Cents," Supt. R. L. Mason, Aitkin; Aitkin; "General School Administration," G. M. Cesander.

Evening session—Remarks by Dr. H. C. Leonard of the Aitkin board of education; welcome in behalf of the citizens, Wallace Barker; response, Miss Plapp, Eveleth; "The School Teacher as a Guardian of Public Health," Dr. J. J. Ratcliffe; "Education for Efficiency," J. H. Hagan; "Education and the Peace Policy," Rev. W. E. Hammond. Music will be furnished by the Boys' Glee club, and a reception will follow.

The summer school opened this week with an attendance of sixty-four students. Supt. R. E. Denfeld of Duluth will lecture Tuesday morning before the school.

POLK COUNTY FAIR OPENS AT FERTILE

Good Showing of Agricultural Products Being Made.

Fertile, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual Polk county fair opened here yesterday with a good sized attendance.

Despite the backward season, the exhibit hall is packed with splendid farm exhibits, including grains, corn, potatoes, and all manner of grasses and vegetables.

Fine Stock Display.

Equally, or even more significant is the stock exhibit. Both dairy and beef cattle are represented, the beef type including fully half the entries, as Eastern Polk county has gone into beef more extensively and more successfully than any other section of the Red river valley. This is due to the character of the land in Eastern Polk county, the rolling surface and numerous groves and lakes making ideal surroundings, and in addition the farmers of Eastern Polk county went into clover extensively many years ago, and nowhere does clover thrive better than in that section. However, the dairy type of cattle is well represented, and the numerous entries indicate that scores of farmers have thoroughbred herds of milkers.

The showing of horses is also very fine, thoroughbred brood mares with their foals attracting widespread attention. Sheep and hogs make a good showing and the poultry pens are all filled.

Some Good Racing.

The attractive features are good and the race card is the best ever presented. All the race horses that have been tuned up on the Northwestern Minnesota fair tracks at Crookston are entered and the free-for-all Saturday will be as good a race as was ever pulled off in Northwestern Minnesota. The next county fair in this section opens at Ada, Norman county, Monday and the same horses will go there.

SCAFFOLDING BREAKS: MAN ON IT FALLS

Langdon, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jay Quick, aged 22, fell eighteen feet, landing on his shoulder and back. His collarbone was broken twice, and he also was otherwise injured.

Quick was working on a scaffold when the structure broke, precipitating him to the ground.

ADAM WAS UNLUCKY.

Had No Choice of Husband, Declares Preacher at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Spurgeon, D. D., of London, England, delivering an address to university students yesterday, declared Adam was an unlucky man. He had no choice in the matter of finding a wife.

"The men of today," said Dr. Spurgeon, "have it on Adam in that respect. They can make their own choice."

Addressing himself particularly to young women, Dr. Spurgeon warned them against marrying "to reform a man."

FARMER IS STABBED.

Attacked By Two Men He Refused to Remunerate for Helping Him.

East Grand Forks, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Syrstad, aged 37, a local farmer, who was attacked and almost disemboweled by two Finns, will die. The Finns are being held in the city jail pending the outcome of his injuries.

Syrstad was attacked when he refused to pay the men $1 each for helping him push his automobile out of a mud hole. He was horribly stabbed about the abdomen and both arms, and left in his automobile, where he was found shortly afterwards.

Queen or Dairy Maid Ambition the Same

In the expectant mother's mind there is no limit to what the future has in store, and yet during the period of expectancy, much depends upon the physical comfort of the mother. One of the best aids is a remedy known as "Mother's Friend." Applied over the muscles, it penetrates to the net work of nerves, relieves the pains incident to stretching of cords and ligaments, makes them pliant, induces daily comfort, restful nights, a calm mind and pleasant anticipation. You use it with your own hand, apply it as needed, and at once feel a sense of relief.

Mothers who have learned all this from experience tell of the blessed relief from morning sickness, the absence of strain and the undoubted healthful influence imparted to the coming baby.

Get a bottle of this splendid help today. Phone your nearest druggist or send for it. Then write Bradfield Regulator Co., 404 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a valuable book of instruction for expectant mothers. "Mother's Friend" is recommended everywhere by women who have used it. And you can read some very interesting letters if you write for this book.

DULUTHIAN WEDDED TO BROOKSTON GIRL

Brookston, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Esther Larson and Alexis Stynberg were married at the C. T. Larson home Wednesday afternoon at 6 o'clock in the presence of a few relatives and immediate friends.

The bride, who is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larson, has resided here for several years, and she has a host of friends in this community. Mr. Stynberg is a resident of Duluth, where he is in the employ of a large lumber company, and while he is a stranger to most of our people, there is no doubt but what he is a worthy young man. The couple departed Thursday morning for Duluth, where they will be at home to their friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. W. Linder of Duluth. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Stynberg, Mrs. Charles Thorsen and son, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stolz, Miss Bertha Stolz, Mrs. Arthur Sellars and Rev. and Mrs. Linder.

MURDOCK AT CROOKSTON

Former Kansas Congressman Appears on Chautauqua Circuit.

Crookston, Minn., July 2.—Special to The Herald.)—The annual chautauqua is being held here this week under the auspices of the Commercial club, and the great tent is packed morning, afternoon and evening.

Former Congressman Victor Murdock of Kansas, spoke last evening on "Individual Political Responsibility," in which he prefaced his address with a history of his connection with reducing the amount of charges paid railroads for carrying the mails. He was given an ovation when he concluded.

The chautauqua has become a regular summer feature in Crookston, and is receiving generous support not only from the citizens of Crookston, but from the entire countryside, the audience consisting of at least half farmers and their families.

AIM PROVES UNSTEADY.

Ishpeming Section Man Fails in Suicide Attempt.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The attempt of Knute Fossmo, aged 40, married, a section hand on the South Shore, to kill himself, failed and he is in custody.

He has a bullet wound in the left fore arm. Fossmo returned home Wednesday evening in an intoxicated condition. He is said to have threatened bodily harm to his wife. The woman left going to the home of a neighbor. During her absence Fossmo procured a revolver and made an effort to put an end to his life. His aim was unsteady. One bullet went through the arm, and another grazed the head, inflicting a slight scalp wound. When Officers Olds and Lofberg reached the house in response to a call, he was seated in the kitchen with the revolver on a table beside him. A physician dressed the wounds. The injuries are not serious, and Fossmo was taken to jail. There is one child in the family.

CARLTON NEXT YEAR.

Sixteenth District Convention, W. C. T. U. to Meet There.

Brookpark, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sixteenth district convention of the W. C. T. U. held here voted to meet next year at Carlton. Mrs. Carrie Green of Mora was re-elected president; Mrs. Jean Thomson of Sandstone replaces Mrs. Junie Anderson as vice president; the latter going into another district to reside; Miss Altha Hoaglund of Brookpark, secretary, and Mrs. Florence Gray of Pine City, treasurer.

CROSBY ENTERTAINMENT

Program Given for Benefit of Young Men's Catholic Club.

Crosby, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A concert and vaudeville program was given Wednesday night by local talent at the Workers hall for the benefit of the Young Men's Catholic club. The entertainment was well attended. Following was the program:

"Follies of the Day," Rochon's Concert orchestra; mandolin solo, D. J. Rochon; piano solo, Vera Brewsaugh; buck and wing, D. J. Rochon; soprano and alto duet, Marie and Evelyn Sullivan; "Love's Consolation," Rochon's Concert orchestra; violin solo, D. J. Rochon.

"German Lessons," cast of characters: Carl Thalberg, Louis Bauer; Elsie Newcombe, Miss Ina Frenette; Tommy, Edward Perrault. Selection, Crosby Concert band.

MOTOR HOGS TAMED.

Crowd Another Car Into Swamp and Are Called Down.

Aitkin, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—As Mrs. E. A. Gyde and other Aitkin ladies were coming down a hill nearing town Tuesday afternoon, returning from Cedar lake in Mrs. Gyde's car, a touring car, occupied by seven men approached at a high rate of speed and made no attempt to share the road. Mrs. Gyde, in order to escape a collision, turned her car off the road into a swamp, and the big machine grazed the fender as it flew past.

J. F. Stonebraker of St. Paul, who recently purchased a farm here, was approaching behind the Gyde car and saw the proceeding. He immediately "held up" the driver of the big car and was so forcible in his demands that the men pulled off their shoes, waded in and got out of the disabled car. The men then passed through town a few minutes before, driving at a high rate of speed. It is said they came from Duluth. The number of the car was taken.

ON WAY TO NYMORE WHEN CHILD EXPIRED

Cloquet, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Albert Westlund and children of Duluth were here on their way to Nymore to join Mr Westlund and were visiting Mrs. Westlund's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Johnson, when Mrs. Westlund's son, Irving Russell, age 1 year, suffering from whooping cough and complications, died Monday at the home of his grandparents.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Olson of the Lutheran church Tuesday afternoon. Many beautiful flowers were received from friends. Mr. Westlund was notified at once and arrived here promptly.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Jamestown, N. D.—Dora Greeniund, aged 12, had a most remarkable escape from death when her father was killed by lightning, within four feet of her, while a cow, just a few feet the other side of her, also was struck down and killed.

Bismarck, N. D.—The state board of control let the contract to the Washburn Lignite Coal company of Wilton for supplying the penitentiary, the capitol building and a major portion of the supply for the asylum at Jamestown. Summer Foods As Cause of Dyspepsia

Effect on Digestive Organs Responsible For Many Ills

Summer should be the season of most perfect health but impure water and milk, unripe fruit and a tendency to over-indulge in acid foods and iced drinks results in a contrary condition in many people.

The effect of the average summer diet is to constipate even normaliy regular bowels, and disturb the digestion. This condition can best be corrected by the use of a mild laxative that has combined with it the elements of a digestive tonic. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is gentle, yet positive in its action and brings relief in an easy, natural manner, without griping or other discomfort.

A dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin on retiring each night will regulate the digestive organs and insure healthy activity, irrespective of one's diet. A bottle of this splendid remedy should be in every household. It is not expensive and can be purchased for only fifty cents in drug stores everywhere. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 453 Washington street, Monticello, Ill.

SUPERIOR OUTCASTS AND DOOKS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

Visitors Lose First Game 4 to 6 and Win Second By 6-to-5 Count.

Kid Boley Twirls Good Ball While Posten Is Rather Wild.

Fred Curtis and his outcasts came yesterday, played four hours and fifteen minutes of baseball, lost the initial game of the double-header by the count of 6 to 4 and won the second one by the score of 6 to 5.

Red Nelson, a Chicagoan, twirled the first game for the outcasts. Red is accused of carrying emery around with him and applying it to the ball. If Red used emery yesterday, that's all he did use. The natives soused the leather for thirteen blows, while Kid Boley, making one of his first successful starts of the season, came through with a six-blow performance.

Palisade Posten knolled the second game for us and was wild and flighty. Boley went in the last round when a pinch hitter was chucked into the fray for Posten. Hawkins worked for the Curtis clan and was fairly effective, though it required a home run to lift the burden of troubles from the shoulders of Hawk and throw them over on the trembling back of Posten.

All of Superior's runs in the first game were clustered in the eighth round. Nelson flew to Williams but was allowed to go to first on the charge that Sweeley had interfered with him. Burgwald singled over second and the bases were filled when Curtis got a life on O'Brien's error. McGhee flew to Williams. Berger was safe on Wolfe's error, Nelson and Burgwald scoring, but Bassey retrieving the ball and heaving Curtis out at third. Swalm walked and then Kirkham slammed one up against the left field paling, counting two more.

Mickey McGraw was safe on an error by Curtis in the fourth, advanced on Williams' single, went to third on Kuhn's sacrifice and came home on the throw to second that caught the chief off second.

Altman tripled gingerly in the sixth and scored on McGraw's hit. Kuhn came to bat and hit the ball clear over the railroad tracks on the other side of the left field fence. Altman singled again in the seventh, McGraw grounded out and Williams singled. Kuhn got his third hit of the day, counting Altman. Wolf singled, counting the chief and the run-making for the game was over.

The Second Game.

Swalm singled in the second round of the second game and scored on Kirkham's double. Kirkham coming home when Williams permitted the throw at third to get away from him. Posten after hitting two batters settled down and struck out the side.

McGraw dropped Berger's fly in the next round, a wild heave by Posten sent the runner to second, an infield out to third, and a sacrifice fly by Kirkham scored him.

In the seventh round Burgwald walked and Curtis beat out an infield bunt. McGhee slammed the ball over the left field fence and three runs were added to the outcasts' score.

In our first, Bassey singled and Altman was safe on Kavanaugh's error, McGraw singled over second, counting Bassey. Williams whiffed, but Kuhn singled by first and Altman counted. Kavanaugh made another error on Wolf's offering and McGraw came home.

Wolfe walked in the third, stole second and third and counted on the infield out of Sweeley.

Duluth's final run came in the eighth. O'Brien walked, Croake running for the Dook was forced at second. Collins hitting for Posten, singled cleanly to right, sending Sweeley to third. Bassey flew to right and Bert came in.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Bridegroom Wins Game.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 2.—Erskine Mayer, who was married Wednesday night, spent the first day of his honeymoon taking the scalp of the Boston Braves for Philadelphia 2 to 1, as a trophy for his bride, who was seated in the grandstand. Mayer had a battle with Ragan and three times got out of trouble with the bases filled. Cravath brought the battle to a close by hitting a home run into the bleachers in the ninth inning with no one out. Score:

Boston .....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 7 0
Philadelphia .....1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2 8 0

Batteries—Ragan and Gowry; Mayer and Killifer.

All Giants Look Alike.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 2.—Brooklyn pounded Tesreau hard in the third inning of yesterday's game, bunching five hits which netted five runs, and won from New York 9 to 2. Schauer, who succeeded Tesreau, lasted only three innings and Schupp, who replaced Schauer, looked the same to the Brooklyn batsmen. Rucker was hit freely but good support kept down the Giants' runs. Score:

New York .....1 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—2 12 2
Brooklyn .....0 0 5 1 2 0 1 0 x—9 14 0

Batteries—Tesreau, Schauer, Schupp and Meyers, Wentoll; Rucker and Miller.

Reds 5; Cardinals 4.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 2.—With the score tied in the ninth inning Griner hit Killifer, who later went to second on Groh's sacrifice, took third on Clarke's out and scored on Griffith's single. Cincinnati winning the game, 5 to 4. Errors in the earlier part of the game helped Cincinnati in securing its runs. Griner pitched good ball while Benton was hit hard. Score:

St. Louis .....0 1 1 0 0 0 2 0 0—4 11 1
Cincinnati .....1 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 1—5 7 0

Batteries—Benton, Toney and Clarke; Griner and Snyder.

Pirates Shut Out Cubs.

Chicago, July 2.—Pitcher Mamaux of Pittsburgh shut out Chicago, 4 to 0 yesterday by holding the locals to four scattered hits. Pittsburgh's long hits, daring base running and some errors in field by the locals gave the victors their runs. Mamaux fielded a great game and was given good support in the pinches, especially by Wagner, Viox and Hinchman. Score:

Pittsburgh ....0 0 1 0 0 2 1 0 4—10 2

FEDERAL LEAGUE

Honors Are Even.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 2.—St. Louis divided a double bill with Buffalo yesterday, the local team winning the first 4 to 1 and the visitors coming back 13 to 0 in the second game. Buffalo won the opening game when three of their six hits were bunched in the seventh inning, the last of these a triple by Meyers. Plank also walked two men in this inning. Credit for the shutout goes to Davenport. None of Buffalo's pitchers did well, Ehmke winding up by giving five hits, one a homer by Tobin, and walking two men in a single inning. Scores:

Brooklyn Loses Both.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 2.—Weakened by the refusal of Benny Kauff to play because of a disagreement over salary, Brooklyn lost both ends of a double-header to Kansas City here yesterday, 6 to 2 and 6 to 3. Bluejacket was hit opportunely in the first game while Henning was effective. Marion tossed the second game away in the second inning when he issued five passes in a row, following two two-base hits. Wilson checked the visitors, but home batters could do little with Main. Scores:

Whales 3; Newark 2.

Newark, N. J., July 2.—Chicago took its third straight game from the locals yesterday, defeating Newark 3 to 2 in a hard fought twelve-inning battle. Pitchers for both sides held their opponents scoreless until the final inning, when the visitors bunched hits off Reulbach and scored three runs. Newark rallied but was unable to tie the score. Score:

KAUFF STARTS MORE TROUBLE IN BASEBALL

New York, July 2.—Benny Kauff, the crack outfielder of the Brooklyn Federals, who refused to play in yesterday's double-header with Kansas City because of a disagreement regarding his salary, declared last night that he is through with the Federal league, and that he intends to jump to the New York Nationals. Kauff said that he will report to the New York club today.

John Foster, secretary of the New York Nationals, last night declared that Kauff would better not report to the Giants today.

"Kauff may just as well stay away, as he will not be welcome," Foster said. "The national commission has acted on Kauff's case and has declared him ineligible to participate in organized baseball for the next three years."

Kauff caused a sensation early in the season by "unsuccessfully" jumping to the New York Giants.

MAGNATES TO MEET HERE

Important Questions Will Come Up at Sunday Northern League Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Northern league magnates and officials will be held here Sunday. At that time the case of Superior will be taken up and probably disposed of. It is probable that St. Boniface will also be acted on.

Rumors declare that after the meeting here Sunday there may be two clubs dropped out of the circuit. A straight and rigid forefinger points with ominous meaning at Superior and St. Boniface. If such is the case then the schedule of the league will be somewhat revised and the season completed with but six clubs battling for the gonfalon.

Dooks Shifted About.

Changes occur with such frequency in the lineup of the Duluth team these ill-fated days that it takes alert attention to keep track of the goings and comings.

Yesterday Jerry Altman went to left, Chief Williams to third, Wolfe to short and Kuhn to first.

It looks like Kuhn is a fixture on the bag—a fixture just so long as he continues to hit the way he did in the two games of yesterday.

Bud Croake, one of the nicest kids in the world, has drawn the blue envelope. Another pitcher is said to be on the way.

The pennant will be raised tomorrow, barring sky soup. This is the third time that has been set for the raising of the silken orriflame to the masthead. It is said the ceremonies will be short and extremely simple.

WILLIAMS WILL DEFEND HIS TITLE

National Clay Court Tennis Championship Is at Stake.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 2.—R. Norris Williams of Harvard, national amateur champion, and George M. Church of Princeton, intercollegiate champion, will compete on the courts of the Pittsburgh Athletic association here this afternoon for the national clay court championship in singles. Williams worked his way into the finals yesterday by defeating N. W. Niles of Boston while Church was winning from W. M. Washburne. The title match will begin at 3 o'clock.

Play in the women's singles will continue this morning, and matches in the men's doubles are scheduled for this afternoon. Officials hope to get several rounds in the mixed doubles completed before the day is over.

IT LOOKS LIKE ANOTHER GREAT YEAR FOR THE D.B.C.

With Apparently Little to Fear from St. Paul or Winnipeg in the Northwestern, Ten Eyck Will Have a Greal Battle at the Springfield National.

BY BRUCE.

Let it be said right at the start that it looks as if the only battle Ten Eyck's crews will have this year is that which is sure to come at the Springfield National.

Winnipeg will not bring much down to the Northwestern regatta, present conditions assert. Jim Wray arrived in St. Paul on Wednesday to put the finishing touches on the crews of the Minnesota Boat club, but unless the Harvard rowing coach can accomplish wonders in less then a month, the real competition at the regatta that is to be staged on the St. Louis course this year, will be between local crews.

As a matter of fact a glance over the Northwestern regatta programs of recent years will disclose the fact that in several of the events the real racing has been among Duluth crews for first and second places.

In the case of Winnipeg there is grave and sufficient excuse for a decidedly off year in rowing. The Winnipeg Rowing club, for years one of the prime movers in the Northwestern association, has sadly suffered from the war in Europe. Many of its active members have been either killed or wounded on Europe's battlefield. Many others are with the regiments abroad.

St. Paul can plead no such excuse. While the facts in the case are regrettable ones, they might as well be blurted bluntly forth. There has been a decided lessening of rowing interest in St. Paul since 1907 and 1908. The deterioration in the once crack crews of the Minnesota club during the last three years has been marked.

Stories from St. Paul are to the effect that Wray will have little of promising material to work on. It is indeed an unfortunate condition of rowing affairs that will permit a club with so great a name, an organization glory-trailed with so many great wins and whose membership list has been gilded with the names of some of the greatest amateur oarsmen of the United States, to just sort of peter out.

Winnipeg and St. Paul both had their glorious days. Now it is the reign of Duluth. But in the lean years Duluth exhibited remarkable staying powers, pluck and gameness and showed that she was a veritable glutton for punishment by coming back each year and sending a fairly large squad of oarsmen to the regattas.

A great deal depends upon the kind of regatta that is staged this year. The Duluth Boat club is somewhat ambitious for its crews. Offers have been received to join with other associations. With crews holding national titles, it is but natural that Duluth should choose the rowing fields where glory and honor beckons with a pair of outstretched arms and a rose leaf fan.

Go to the National.

Those who have studied the national rowing field this year have arrived at the conclusion that James E. Ten Eyck has a Titanic task cut out for him.

Take the derby event, the senior eight, as a starter. The New York Athletic club has been recruiting college men from Penn and Cornell, while the Pennsylvania Barge club is bending every effort to place a crack eight in the field.

The Union Rowing club will have an eight containing some of the ex-Harvard oarsmen that won at the Henley, a year ago. The Argonauts are sure to come strong, and Springfield, the scene of the regatta, is going to endeavor to place a very strong eight in the senior event.

Williams, who made so brilliant a showing in the Syracuse freshmen eight, will not be back here. Whiteside, who also caused Eastern rowing sharps to comment freely on his remarkable ability as a stroke, is coming back this week, and it is not improbable that Ten Eyck will use the youngster in the senior eight.

It looks as if the senior eight of this year will be one of the greatest that the club has ever turned out. As Duluth has won two national championship senior eight events, the statement is eloquent of suggestion.

Our junior eight looks promising and the quadruple four is ready to match its prowess against the New York Athletic club's crack quad, as well as that of the Union Boat club.

Ten Eyck has confidence in Hoover for the scull events, and of course there is the senior four, the same grand rowing machine that has as yet to taste the bitterness of its first defeat; a crew that has as yet to be rushed home or to be pushed out of its own pace-making by a rival crew.

It looks like a great year for Duluth —another season in which the colors of the local club will be flashed to the fore and its name once more spread the length and breadth of the sporting boundaries of our country.

BIG REGATTA IS PLANNED

Outside Rowing Clubs Will Be Asked to Compete at Duluth.

It was announced today that invitations would be sent to the Detroit Boat club, the Peoria Rowing club, the Grand Rapids Boat club, the Lincoln Park Boat club of Chicago and several other clubs, asking them to send crews here for the Northwestern International Rowing association's regatta, which will be held over the St. Louis bay course, July 23 and 24.

From an unofficial source comes the statement that if several outside crews accept the invitation and send crews, that an attempt may be made to expand the Northwestern International Regatta association to include Detroit, Grand Rapids, Peoria and a number of other boat clubs.

For some time a belief has existed that more clubs were needed in the Northwestern association. New blood is also needed. A greater stimulus of competition is also needed. Every effort is being made by officials of the Duluth Boat club, combined with the efforts of officials of the Northwestern association, to make the forthcoming regatta a great one in every way. To accomplish this end efforts are being made to get outside crews here.

NEW SWIM RECORD.

Chicago Man Sets New Mark for One Mile—Chicago Leads.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—C. D. Brown of the Hamilton club of Chicago broke the Central association A. A. U. record for the one-mile swim yesterday afternoon at Broad Ripple pool. He did the distance in 25:59 2-5, providing the feature performance of the final program of the 1915 tournament. The old record was 27:14 2-5 made by J. D. Handy at Chicago in 1909.

Chicago swimmers captured all honors.

HERZOG NOT FOR SALE OR TRADE

Herrmann Denies Dispatch Saying Cubs Had Chance for Manager.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 2.—Manager Charles Herzog is not for sale nor is he on the market to be traded, according to President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati club. When shown a dispatch quoting President Thomas of the Cubs as saying that he had a "chance to get" Herzog, President Herrmann said:

"That is a joke. There is absolutely nothing to it. I do not know where Mr. Thomas got his information, but I can say that in this instance he has been wholly misinformed. Herzog is not for sale or trade."

WEINERT BEATS GUNBOAT SMITH

Rodel Knocks Out Sailor Fritta and Hemple Batters Jim Johnson.

New York, July 2.—Charley Weinert of Newark, outfought Gunboat Smith of San Francisco in seven of the ten rounds in their open air bout at Ebbetts field last night. Weinert used a left jab effectively throughout and had Smith bleeding after the sixth round.

George Rodel, the Boer, knocked out Sailor Fritta of Brooklyn in the eighth round, and Jack Hemple of California battered Battling Jim Johnson so badly that the referee stopped the bout in the fourth round.

Fast Harness Races.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 2.—Fast time featured the races at Cranwood in the Lake Erie circuit yesterday, four races being decided. Electric McKerron won the postponed 2:20 trot, which was halted by rain Tuesday, but he was forced to step the mile in 2:13¼ to win one of the heats. Don Wilkes won the 2:17 pace in straight heats, traveling one at a 2:12¼ clip. In the 2:35 trot, which went six heats, Lord Brooks made a hot finish winning the last three heats, cutting the time down to 2:14¼ in one of them. The 2:12 pace was easy for The Climax.

Hagen Wins at Brookline.

Brookline, Mass., July 2.—Walter C. Hagen of Rochester, N. Y., former national open champion, yesterday won the Massachusetts open golf championship tournament. His score was 298 for the 72 holes of title play.

WELCOME NEW MEMBERS OF RITE

Lodge of Perfection Gives Entertainment and Reception to Summer Class.

North Star Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite, entertained at a smoker and program last evening at the Masonic temple in connection with its annual meeting and a reception to the twenty-six members of the summer class. About 200 members were in attendance.

One of the features of the program was the staging of two burlesque boxing bouts. Both were fast and furious and afforded considerable amusement. Bernard Silberstein, commissioner of public safety, officiated as timekeeper and R. B. Knox as referee.

Ike Black and Charles Blanchard entertained with short monologues. The evening closed with a light luncheon and a smoker.

Sentence Commuted.

Morris, Ill., July 1.—John Kinsie, 28, sentenced to death for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Pobedinski, Sept. 27, 1914, received word yesterday that Governor Dunn had commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. Kinsie was to have been hanged July 16.

DISPLAY MEN IN CAMPAIGN

Will Educate Merchants in New Methods of Window Trimming.

Special Demonstration Will Be Given at Meeting Sept. 30.

As a part of a plan to "educate" Duluth and Superior merchants in new methods of window trimming, members of the Twin Ports Display Men's association will give a demonstration at a special meeting Sept. 30.

At the annual banquet of the association, held at the Commercial club last night, ideas for increasing co-operation between the "boss" and employes were advanced by various speakers.

Stereopticon views of the prize-winning window displays at the window trimmers' convention in New York in August and the latest modern draping on newest forms will be shown the merchants. Clothing, shoe, sign and card writing demonstrations also will be given.

J. E. Hopkins of the George A. Gray company, president of the organization, presided at the dinner, which was attended by fifteen Duluth and Superior window decorators. Many of the guests gave informal talks. Banquet menus were written on beaver board, used by the trimmers in background work.

A joint committee of Duluth and Superior men was selected to take charge of arrangements for a picnic to be given late in July. Alex McDonald, Ed Barbo and Mitchell Norski, Duluth, and R. Johnson, Frank Johnson and A. E. Ordquist of Superior are the members of the committee.

The meeting last night was the last one until September, as the members have ruled to hold no sessions during July and August. Superior members have extended an invitation to the local men to attend a banquet in Superior in January.

MANY JEWS WITH BRITISH COLORS

One Traveled From Brazil to London to Join Army.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, June 15.—Between 7,000 and 8,000 of the Jews serving with the British colors have registered their names at the Jewish chaplains' department in London, and perhaps as many more have enlisted who have failed to register. The Jewish roll of honor from the list of British slain is published weekly in the Jewish Chronicle, and a Jewish recruiting committee brings in from fifty to sixty fresh enlistments a week.

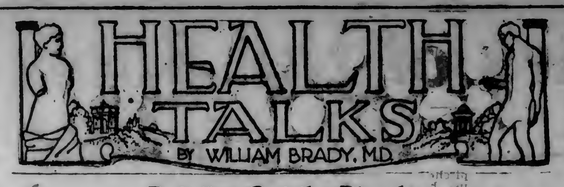

Even the Jewish ministry has also been organized for the war, contributing about a dozen chaplains to attend to Jewish volunteers. The senior chaplain, Rev. Michael Adler, is now in France, but the machine he created is running smoothly. His assistant, S. Lipson, is now in charge.

The United Kingdom, he says, has been mapped into areas, which have been placed under nine Jewish assistant chaplains appointed by the war office. The function of these chaplains is to get into touch with their co-religionists in the ranks, arranging services for them and looking after their welfare generally. They also visit the Jewish wounded in the hospitals.

The young Jews are enthusiastic soldiers according to Chaplain Lipson, who tells of one who quit his job in Brazil and traveled to London to enlist.

"SHIRTSLEEVE FORGER" IS GIVEN TEN YEARS

Milwaukee, Wis., July 2.—Julius Dillman, known to the police throughout the country as the "shirtsleeve forger," pleaded guilty yesterday to passing a worthless check on a local business firm and was sentenced to ten years in state's prison.

Painting Out the Pimples

PIMPLES on the face of an embarrassed young person are generally not due to bad blood. On the contrary they are apt to appear in individuals where the blood is rich and pure.

Blackheads, so-called, are obstructed oil ducts. The "enlarged pore" is a young blackhead which never grows up. When the oil duct becomes sufficiently irritated from retained sebum (the whitish material you can squeeze out of a blackhead like a little worm) and from the multiplication of certain bacteria which are probably always present on a normal skin, you have a nice crop of pimples, alias "acne vulgaris." When this vulgar acne becomes chronic, and leads to the thickening of the skin, particularly on the end of the nose, you have "acne rosacea"—whether you drink like a fish or teetotal firmly.

Bathe the face briskly with hot water and plain soap every second evening. Don't be gentle, but scrub as hard as the skin will stand. Rinse in cold water. Dry thoroughly. Then rub into each pimple and environment any simple antiseptic ointment of a stimulating character, like 1 or 2 per cent ammoniated mercury ointment. Wash this off in the morning.

Hygiene Is More Than Skin Deep.

A cool sponge or tub or shower every morning. Eat what you like, but stop short of satiation always. Don't nibble at fancy stuff between meals, and never eat to please the hostess. Drink two quarts of water daily if you are not obese. Substitute buttermilk in part if you wish. Plenty of fresh fruit, but little meat unless your work is strenuous muscular labor.

Never let slip a chance to get slightly sunburned. And remember cold air and wind and weather makes healthy complexions. Keep the bowels active by means of cereals, fruits, vegetables and fats in the diet, and take a simple laxative regularly if necessary. Exercise is perfectly harmless.

If these measures fail, you may still find relief in the vaccine treatment, which indeed clears up some obstinate cases which resist all other methods. But remember the pimples are almost physiological and nothing to be ashamed of, because the best young people in the world have them more than any one else.

Questions and Answers.

ADVANCE NOTICE ON HAY FEVER.

Now, before the first regiment of Uhlans descends upon us poor hay fever victims, writes A. J. D., why don't you start a propaganda in our behalf? Let readers who have "been there" and know, send in their suggestions, then you edit them with your keen pen and pass them along occasionally.

ANSWER—We can't tell you how much we dread the approach of the season. We don't suffer personally. It isn't that. But we suffer vicariously. Every reader capable of legible penmanship writes in for advice, and we have to worry along with them till a good frost arrives. But your idea is not bad. Who wants to start the movement? Letters must be couched in moderate language and not more than 10,000 words in length. Don't knock. Come in.

BILIOUS, BY HECK!

Weary Old Rube writes: I, 38, have bilious spells frequently. Head swims, feel like I would pitch forward on my face when I get up in the morning. Stools very light color; urine very red; often have dull pain in right side; calomel only gives temporary relief; have a hearty appetite and am otherwise in good health.

ANSWER—Liver not guilty but owner insane. "Bilious" a mere by-word, near-diagnosis, excuse for ignorance. Vegetarian diet advisable. Milk excepted. Fast a day now and then. Auto-toxemia, whether you drive a mule or a Ford. Have blood pressure tested. And take it from the doctor, you're no "rube."

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald. All questions will be answered, whether they come from people residing in Duluth or outside, provided they comply with the rules here stated.

RECEIPTS OF YEAR LESS

Annual Business of Government Shows Deficit of $35,864,381.

Notwithstanding This the Treasury Has Net Balance of $82,025,716.

Washington, July 2.—The second business year of the present administration, which closed Wednesday, showed a deficit of $35,864,381, compared with a surplus in the year ending June 30, 1914, of $34,418,677.

Official explanations will not be issued until the figures for the year are analyzed by Secretary McAdoo, but on the face of the records it is apparent that receipts were much smaller, an enormous reduction in customs revenue resulting from the war, while disbursements were much greater.

Notwithstanding the deficit on the year's business, the treasury now has an actual net balance of $82,025,716. With such a balance on hand and every prospect that it will be increased possibly by $10,000,000, in the next ten days, it is evident that there will be no issue of Panama canal or other government bonds to replenish the coffers for many months to come if at all.

Customs receipts from the last fiscal year amounted to $209,268,107, about $11,000,000 under the estimates made by Secretary McAdoo several months after the war began, and $82,000,000 below the amount received from this source in 1914.

May Restore Duty on Sugar.

With the end of the war apparently remote, it is well known that many treasury officials are convinced that it will be necessary for congress to restore the old duty on sugar at the next session. Sugar becomes free next year, whereas, in the days when it paid duty it brought in about $60,000,000 a year.

The income tax proved the big producer during the past twelve months. Total receipts up to the close of business Wednesday night were $79,828,675, of which $36,318,525 came in on June 30. This is more than $8,500,000 above that total received from the tax last year and there remains ten days of grace in which it may lawfully be paid.

Officials are confident that during this period there will be received in income tax payments at least $6,000,000, which would bring the total $5,000,000 above the amount estimated.

It was said that the personal income tax proved a surprise this year. Last year it brought in only about $28,000,000, but up to date this year, it has produced more than $41,000,000, and that probably will be augmented several millions.

Emergency Tax Law.

Contrary to current reports, it now develops that the emergency tax law also has proved an even better revenue producer than was expected. Despite this, however, internal revenue receipts for the year, $335,828,377, were only about $27,000,000 in excess of last year. One contributing factor is that whisky is not paying the revenue it used to produce by somewhere between $16,000,000 and $20,000,000 a year.

Another thing pointed out by treasury officials was that the postoffice department, usually self-sustaining, has run behind this year and has received advances from the treasury amounting to more than $6,600,000.

Including the Panama canal, expenditures, but deducting the amount advanced the postoffice department, the account shows a net excess of all disbursements for the year over all receipts of about $87,500,000.

Total expenditures for the year were $731,527,572, compared with $700,559,248 last year.

MAY LOSE FREE PHONE SERVICE

New State Law May Affect Orphanage and Children's Home.

St. James' orphanage and the Children's home may be deprived of free telephone service, if the new Minnette-Burroughs telephone bill is interpreted to cover charitable institutions.

A. J. McCulloch, general manager of the Zenith Telephone company, filed a report yesterday with the state railroad and warehouse commission and asked for a ruling on furnishing charitable institutions with free telephones. Officers of the Duluth Telephone company have asked for a similar ruling.

"The new law, which went into effect yesterday," said Mr. McCulloch, "provides chiefly that every telephone company shall permit physical connection, for reasonable compensation, with other telephone companies whenever the public service requires. I understand this to mean that subscribers of either telephone company may obtain long distance communication over the system of the other telephone company whenever such service is necessary."

"The bill is a very good one," said F. E. Lister, commercial manager for the Duluth Telephone company. "I can see no feature in it not beneficial to the public. Of course, we must bear in mind that the law is new and details may develop in the near future which will necessitate changes.

"Only officers of telephone companies are permitted to have free telephones under the new law. Employes are allowed special rates. Where, however, free telephones have been installed subject to a contract calling for special rates the free telephones will stay until expiration of the contract."

EXIT VILLAGE SMITH; ENTER MASTER MECHANIC

Commissioner Farrell Knocks Poetic Character Out of City's Payroll.

Duluth no more has a "village smithy."

After forty years of service the "village smithy's" occupation has gone. In these days of automobiles and modern machinery his place in the sun is usurped by the master mechanic.

Oh, shades of Longfellow and "the spreading chestnut tree!"

To think that Duluth school children must recite that famous poem, but never to see the "smithy!"

"Under the spreading chestnut tree,
The village smithy stands.
The smith a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands."

What fond memories are conjured up in the minds of the men and women of Duluth. The smithy working away at his forge on bright summer mornings has left a picture in the memories of all that will linger forever. The open door, the bellows, the flying sparks and clang of metals—all these are now gone. A prosaic master mechanic has taken his place.

Yesterday Commissioner Farrell abolished the office of village blacksmith, creating the position of master mechanic, which will be filled by Carl Holmstrom. The former office was held by Gus Ek for nearly twenty years, when he was discharged on May 15. Ek threatened to bring the matter before the civil service commission, so the works head decided to abolish the office altogether. Ek, Mr. Farrell claims, is classed as a blacksmith under the civil service rules and can have no claim to the position of master mechanic.

HOME-BUILDING PLAN NOT FEASIBLE

Duluth Builders' Exchange Finds House Building Impracticable.

After investigating a plan to build small homes in new additions of Duluth, to aid the citizen of small capital, members of the Duluth Builders' exchange have decided that the idea is not feasible.

Officials of the exchange this morning stated that the matter had been discussed at length since the June meeting, and that it probably would not come up again. The July meeting will be held Wednesday night in the exchange rooms, Lyceum building.

C. J. Burkstrom, a contractor, started the discussion at the last meeting by stating that the exchange should take a hand in building up new city additions.

"It has been left to the real estate man in the past," he said, "but the time now is ripe for us to take it up as part of our work."

"Under our charter," declared President E. J. Zauft of the exchange, "we have no right to carry on a general building business, but there is no reason why individual members of the organization and outside contractors and material men may not organize an association for the purpose."

The July meeting will bring out a large attendance, it is expected. Considerable business will come up for consideration. Plans for the annual picnic of the organization will be completed.

MAYOR GENERAL ISRAEL PUTNAM

One of the ablest of the Revolutionary war soldiers. Commander at the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Hero of Bunker Hill Brewer and Patriot.

General Putnam, who won great honor and lasting fame for masterly generalship and courage in our war of independence, owned the famous tavern "The General Wolfe," which was a favorite gathering place for patriots.

In addition to his business of "Tapping," he tilled many broad acres and conducted a brewery. In her "Stage Coach and Tavern Days" Miss Alice Morse Earle says: "The Tavern has ever played an important part in social, political and military life . . . . through all the anxious but steadfast years preceeding and during the Revolution gatherings were held in Taverns."

NOTE: Two other noted generals of the Revolution, Weedon and Sumner, also combined the business of brewing and tapping. Thos. Chittenden, first Gov. of Vermont, who did more for the independence and civic welfare of his people than any other, was a brewing tavern keeper. Capt. Steven Fay, landlord of the Catamount Tavern, had five sons at the Battle of Bennington. It was at the Catamount Tavern that Ethan Allen and other leaders of the Green Mountain Boys met after the Battle of Lexington and moved to "unite with their countrymen against the common enemy."

The Taverns were called "nurseries of Liberty" and in front of almost every one a Liberty Pole was planted.

THAT DELICIOUS TASTE OF BEER DRAWN FROM THE WOOD

Fitger Natural Beer, filtered by the Kieselguhr filter, has the wonderful natural taste and aroma of the finest beer as drawn from the wood.

The Kieselguhr filter (first of its kind in America) takes the place of pasteurization, the process used by other brewers for "keeping" bottled beer.

Pasteurization does not preserve the natural taste of beer. Kieselguhr filtration is the only known way to "keep" beer in bottles and preserve its natural taste. For this reason all brewers will in time use Kieselguhr filtration.

Kieselguhr filtration makes Fitger Natural Beer the clearest, most brilliant beer in America.

GARNISHED WITH FIELD FLOWERS

French Ambulance Trains Look Like Traveling Flower Shows.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Paris, June 14.—While there may be no diminution of patriotic sentiment as the war drags on, military spectacles have become an old story to the passing throng in Paris. Italian reservists rejoining their posts recently reawakened the boulevards, because the Italian intervention was new and welcome. But not so many people as formerly stop to greet the limping soldier or to watch sympathetically the passage of ambulances—these have become so numerous. In country railroad towns, however, stations are as thronged on the arrival of every ambulance train as at the beginning of the war, by women, young and old, and children, well provided with sweets and comforts of all kinds and flowers.

A train of wounded from Thann, Hartmannswellerkopf and Donnemarie, passing through the Franche Comte the other day, accumulated offerings of this sort at every station until when it arrived at Besancon every soldier's cloak was garnished, and the racks and windows of every car were filled with field flowers of France; blue bottles, wild poppies and daisies. The roofs of the cars had disappeared under green foliage; the train looked like a traveling flower show.

"JACKIES" ARE COMING

"How Jackies Celebrate the Fourth" might be the title of a moving picture of Duluth-Superior harbor July 5.

U. S. S. Gopher and Isle de Luzon, with several hundred cadets aboard, will be the center of a series of naval maneuvers, featured by a salute of twenty-one guns from each ship at noon.

Tomorrow night the Gopher, in command of Capt. Guy A. Eaton, will clear the harbor en route for Sand Island, near where she will meet the Isle de Luzon, from Chicago, with more than 100 Illinois jackies aboard.

"We expect to meet the Isle de Luzon about 4 o'clock Sunday morning," said Capt. Eaton, "and we will then escort her to Duluth, arriving here about 9 o'clock Sunday morning. We will devote the day to a series of maneuvers and drills, reserving the commemoration for the Fourth for Monday.

"On the morning of July 5 we will dress ship and give the salute."

Officers of the Gopher will be hosts to fellow officers from the Isle de Luzon at a banquet at the Spalding hotel Sunday night.

Lights and Shadows of Police Court

'CLUB' LOOKED LIKE 'BUFFET,' OWNER HELD

Charles Brady Charged With Conducting Unlicensed Drinking Place.

Individual flasks of gin, with the owner's name inscribed thereon, were exhibited by police this morning as "evidence" in the case against Charles Brody, who was arrested at 116 West Michigan street last night by Sergeant John Englert and Officer Kreager.

"This is a club," explained Brody when the officers appeared.

"What kind of a club?" asked the sergeant. "It looks more like a buffet."

Brody, according to police, lived in Duluth in the "olden" days, and recently, with the inauguration of the Silberstein regime, returned. He was brought in May 26 on a charge of selling liquor without a license, but was released.

His "clubrooms" are frequented by negroes, and the officers found several club members on hand when they visited the place.

Arraigned before Judge F. H. Cutting this morning, Brody pleaded not guilty and was held under $100 bail for a hearing July 6 at 2 p. m. He furnished the $100.

"UNDERNEATH THE BOUGH."

Disciple of Omar Is Sent to His Beloved Wilderness.

Today of past regrets and future fears. Today of past regrets and future fears. Tomorrow?—"

John Derry, police court "repeater" and errant versifier, was quoting his old standby, Omar. He addressed his remarks to various dispensers of liquid refreshments along West Michigan street and then to Officer Grinager.

On Monday last Derry finished a 60-day sentence at the work farm for over-indulgence—ninth offense.

On Wednesday morning he faced Judge F. H. Cutting, charged with over-indulgence—tenth offense.

"Please, your honor," he said, "I don't want to stay in jail all the rest of my life. If you'll let me go I'll go back to Michigan and stay, and won't bother you any more."

Touched by the appeal, and, hoping against hope that Derry, who is a venerable appearing old man, had at last decided to straighten up, the judge suspended sentence.

Overjoyed at his release and the prospect of freedom, Derry took just "one little drink."

Three hours later Patrolman Grinager brought him in, still reciting Omar.

When court opened this morning the first name on the list was John J. Derry, charged with over-indulgence—eleventh offense.

"Sixty days," was all the court said.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE—
Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Bror O. Echroeder and Christina Schroeder, his wife, mortgagors, to J. C. Howard, mortgagee, dated October 10th, 1911, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on October 13th, 1911, at eleven o'clock A. M., in Book 257 of Mortgages, on page 53, which said mortgage with the debt thereby secured was thereafter assigned by the said J. C. Howard to the Howard Investment Company, by intrument in writing dated November 4th, 1911, and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on November 6th, 1911, at eight o'clock A. M., in Book 305 of Mortgages on page 182.

Said default consists in the non-payment of part of the principal sum secured by said mortgage and interest thereon, and there is claimed to be due and is actually due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of Two hundred nine and 48-100 dollars ($209.48) principal and interest, and no proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

Now, Therefore, Notice is hereby given, That under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage which has become operative by reason of the aforesaid default, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the property therein described, situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, viz:

The West half (W½) of the Northeast quarter (NE¼) of Section eight (8) Township fifty-one (51), Range fifteen (15), according to the Government survey thereof, subject to whatever rights the Great Northern Power Company acquired through flowage deed dated July 3rd, 1911, and recorded in the said Register of Deeds office on August 5th, 1911, in Book 360 of Deeds, on page 60, (Lot six (6) in Block one hundred eighty-two (182) West Duluth, Seventh Division, covered by said mortgage having been heretofore released from the lien of said mortgage).

Which said property with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, at the office of the Sheriff in the Court House in the City of Duluth, in said county and state on Monday, the 19th day of July, 1915, at ten o'clock A. M., at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and Fifty dollars ($50.00) attorney's fees stipulated for, by and in said mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption within one year from date of sale as provided by law.

Dated at Duluth, Minnesota, June 3rd, 1915.

TWO BOYS SNATCH GIRL'S POCKETBOOK

Third Case in Which Unescorted Woman Was Victim.

Within a few feet of her home at 110 Exeter street, Miss Lillian Nelson was attacked by two boys about 10 o'clock last night.

One youth snatched at her purse, while the other pushed the girl, and then both ran behind a nearby house and disappeared before she could raise the alarm.

This is the third case recently in which unescorted women have been victimized by purse snatchers. The pair secured about $1 in change, a manicure set and several trinkets of small value.

Miss Nelson telephoned headquarters a few minutes later but police were unable to get any trace of the thieves.

LIGHT WAS "LIT UP."

Tower Man Accused of Supplying Oil for Flame.

"When a bad Indian starts looking for firewater, something always happens," declared James J. Kane of Tower in his cell at police headquarters this morning.

Kane is not an Indian, but he has a friend, Johnnie Light, also of Tower, who is, and when Light was discovered much the worse for wear yesterday Kane was accused of supplying him.

Deputy Sheriff Burdash made a trip to Tower, where Indian Agent O. C. Benson swore to a complaint against the white man.

Kane pleaded not guilty before Judge F. H. Cutting in municipal court this morning and will be given a hearing July 6.

Jitneurs Give Police Rest.

Jitneurs and automobilists in general were well behaved yesterday and today.

Mike Jannetto, age 21, was the only one to be brought to police headquarters, and he was arrested by Traffic Officer George Wood shortly after 10 o'clock, on a charge of driving past open street car gates.

Arraigned before Judge Cutting, he pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence.

NEW SUBJECTS LAUD AMERICA

Americanization Program Will Be Big Feature of "Fourth" Celebration.

Details for All-Day Program Are Now Completed.

Elgin Ungar (former British subject) — Americanization day will give aliens the spirit of democracy in a way in which they have never before conceived it.

Helmer Peterson (former Norwegian subject)—We will be loyal to our new country.

Frank Korreschak (former Austrian subject)—I never expected anything like this. America is a grand country with grand people.

Isidor Cohen (former Russian subject)—Men of my race find fair treatment in America.

Details for the all-day Fourth of July celebration next Monday are being worked out today by J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, who is in charge.

The program will open at 9:30 o'clock with the Sunday school relay race, the course starting at Twenty-second avenue east and ending at the city hall. The Herald race will follow at 10 o'clock in front of the city hall.

At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon the Americanization day program in honor of the 229 citizens naturalized during the last year will begin with a parade of all the military and organizations of men of foreign nationalities in the city. Mayor Prince and the members of the city commission will participate in the festivities.

After the parade there will be a public reception in front of the courthouse in honor of the new Americans, Mayor Prince presiding. The addresses of the day will be delivered by Page Morris, judge of the Federal court, and Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden. The Third Regiment band will play a program of music.

Following the reception Mr. Batchelor and his assistants will stage a play festival on the courthouse lawn. This program will continue until about 5 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock in the evening there will be a public display of fireworks at the Northland Country club. The entire grounds will be thrown open to the people of Duluth.

MARKET ADVANCES SHARPLY ON OLD CROP SCARCITY

July Wheat Future Dominates Trading, Carrying ing Rest of Market Up.

Flaxseed Strong on Good Crushers' Bidding and Light Offerings.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 2.—The market was strong up to the close with sharp bidding in the July future. There was not a trade put through in it at Duluth in the day.

July wheat closed 7½c up, September 1¾c up and December 1½c up. July durum closed 2c up and September 1½c up.

Oats closed 2¼c up at 51½c for on the track; rye unchanged at $1.10@1.11 and barley unchanged at from 65c to 70c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed ¾c up at 59¾c bid and October ¼c up at 43½c.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at $1.03¾ asked and calls at $1.06¾.

All the wheat markets were again dominated by the tight position in the July future, and the more distant futures were moved up moderately with it. Apart from that, the general news of the day was bearish. Outside of a few points, the weather was more settled over the Southwest, and the outlook through the Northwest was still further improved in consequence of the cessation of rains and bright skies.

Export buying was not a factor on the Duluth or other Western markets, though sales of 500,000 bu to the French government were said to have been worked at the seaboard yesterday. Demand from foreigners for oats is reported to be heavy these days, while offerings are limited. An advance in Argentine freight rates, just announced, may, it is thought, affect grain shipments from there. Shipments from that country this week showed a sharp falling off, amounting to just 1,808,000 bu.

At Liverpool the wheat market was irregular, with the spot market firm, Manitobas unchanged and American winters 3d lower.

World's clearances of wheat and flour reached the tidy aggregate of 6,600,000 bu last week, though the volume going out was low on some days. American clearances of wheat and flour for today were reported at 494,000 bu, but the oats movement was better, running up to 631,000 bu.

Wheat receipts on the American markets are running very light now. Tokets are running one car of spring wheat was day only one car of spring wheat was inspected at Duluth, and the total wheat inspections came to 5 cars against 87 last year. Minneapolis received 113 cars, compared with 19 last year, and Winnipeg 32 cars against 212 a year ago.

July wheat opened ½c up at $1.33, and advanced 3c more up to the noon hour on nominal trading. That future, during the same time bulged 8¾c at Winnipeg, 3¼c at Minneapolis and 2½c at Chicago. September opened nominally unchanged at $1.05½ and gained 1c; December opened ½c up at $1.06, and gained ½c more.

Urgent demand for durum was apparent, but trading was limited, due to small offerings. uly durum advanced light offerings. 2c to $1.27, and September 1½c to $1.07.

Flaxseed Is Strong.

Flaxseed was fairly strong throughout the session, with July future dominating. Its market moved up on light trading. Crushers were in the market and they endeavored to pick up small lots without bidding up the market, but did not meet with much success. Higher cables was a factor.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.72¾, and closed 1¾c up at $1.74½ bid. September opened unchanged at bid. September closed 1c up at $1.76½ bid. October opened unchanged at $1.77¾, and closed 1½c up at $1.79¼ asked.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed 2¾c up at $1.64½, and October 3c up at $1.59.

At Buenos Aires, July flax closed 2¾c up at $1.32⅝, and London 3½c up at $1.92¾.

MARKET GOSSIP.

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following from Kansas City: "In ordinary years, we generally have a movement of new wheat to this market in the last week in June, but now it looks as if the movement won't commence until after July 15, and not then if we don't get good weather. Up to date Oklahoma has cut a little more than half her wheat, and very little is threshed. We have only 140,000 bu wheat in store here."

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad's weekly crop report is encouraging. It says:

"All small grain in fine condition, heavy stand and growing rapidly. A crop above normal assured now, and unless radically adverse conditions develop in next two or three weeks territory tributary to our lines will produce crop exceeding any we have ever had.

"Corn conditions south of Minnesota state line are generally favorable. Warm forcing weather, with a few scattered showers, has enabled crop to make rapid progress, which is now through cultivating period. Fields are clean, and if this weather continues average yield is certain. Conditions during week in Minnesota and South Dakota cannot be called favorable, yet there is much improvement, with warmer weather and not so much rain. While crop is backward, it needs only a few weeks of present weather conditions farther south to bring it along to where it should be."

Northern Pacific's crop summary for the past week shows that cool and cloudy weather in Minnesota has retarded the growth of all grains. Corn and potatoes are backward, and rye has suffered somewhat from the frosts in the early part of June.

In Eastern North Dakota conditions have been about the same as in Minnesota. Wheat is in good condition and generally speaking, farmers are optimistic throughout the state and conditions still point to a bumper crop.

There are no reports of any damage from Montana, but warmer weather is needed. In Idaho, Washington and Oregon all signs point to large crops, and no unfavorable developments are reported.

Russell's news bureau, New York, reports about 500,000 bu wheat, mostly new, worked yesterday, said to have been sent to French government. Demand for oats continues, but offerings are light. Advance in Argentine freights may affect offerings from that country, it is thought.

Minneapolis cash demand was good, with local mills best buyers and holding premiums down. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 11@13½c over July, and velvet chaff at 3@4c over July. Flour sales were moderate and mill feed very strong. Stocks of wheat in Minneapolis elevators decreased 410,000 bu in the week.

And our various agents inform me that winter and spring crops are above the average."

Argentine shipments for week were: Wheat, 1,808,000 bu; corn, 4,106,000 bu, and oats 650,000 bu.

Modern Miller says: "Heavy rains this week in the winter wheat belt have again retarded the harvest. Considerable damage is reported in Oklahoma, Southern Kansas and Southeast Missouri, where much wheat is lodged. In Central Nebraska, hard windstorms and heavy hail have done considerable damage. Weather conditions have been more favorable in Central Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, and the harvest is now progressing rapidly. Reports from Indiana indicate some enlargement of the fly area, where green wheat has been cut. Recent reports of Illinois crop greatly over-estimated the yield. Condition of the entire crop is slightly below last month."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The undertone to the market is firm with actual demand limited, influenced by Buenos Aires and firmness in American July. Spot market is firm, unchanged. Cargo market is irregular, Indians 3d higher. Plates 6d higher, Manitobas unchanged and winters 3d lower.

"Corn was strong with active cash demand and parcels at 6 to 9d advance.

United Kingdom port stocks of breadstuffs on July 1 amount to 18,000,000 bu against 12,236,000 bu last year."

Charles E. Lewis & Co. had the following closing letter from Chicago: "Trade in the July future was again the feature, gains of 4c per bu being made from last night's close. Further rains in southwest and reports from terminal markets that arrivals of new wheat were grading poorly was responsible for the uneasiness among July shorts. Export demand for new wheat was absent while available supplies of old are practically nothing."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Threatening Weather in Harvest Fields Causes Advance in Wheat.

Chicago, July 2.—Unsettled weather threatening further delay to the harvest of the domestic winter crop led to an advance today in the price of wheat. The July option especially showed strength owing to increasing chances of a scarcity that would make deliveries difficult on current contracts. Demand was chiefly from shorts. After opening ⅝c off to ¾c up, the market scored material gains all around.

Subsequently reports that 500,000 bushels, mostly new crop, had been disposed of to the French government helped further to encourage the bulls. So also did predictions that much of the new winter wheat would prove to be of poor quality. The close was strong at 1⅞c to 4⅛c net, higher.

Corn responded to the strength of wheat. Besides, there was evidence of a good cash demand. The opening, which varied from ⅛@¼c lower to a shade advance, was followed by a moderate general upturn.

The readiness with which country offerings were absorbed helped to sustain the advance. The close was firm, ¼@⅜ to ⅝@¾c above last night.

Active call from the seaboard gave oats a decided lift. Incidentally, a tendency developed to widen the July-September spread.

Provisions sagged owing to weakness in the hog market. Western receipts of hogs showed a big increase compared with the corresponding time last week and a year ago.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

St. Paul Weak and Has Loss of More Than Seven Points.

Sharp Slump in Rubber on Passing of Its Dividend.

New York, July 2.—Passing of the dividend on United States Rubber common after the close of yesterday's market was followed at today's opening by a decline of almost seven points. The stock opened after considerable delay with an offering of 5,000 shares at 45 to 46, against yesterday's final quotation of 51⅞. The balance of the list was irregular, some minor railways and specialties yielding fractions, while Canadian Pacific and American Can soon rose 1 to 2 points. American Coal Products was a feature of the inactive issues, advancing 9 points to 127 in the first half hour.

Rubber continued to decline to 44¼ but recovered to 45⅝. Sales of Rubber in the first hour amounted to 26,000 shares and with Can made up half of the operations of that period. Investment stocks and high priced war shares were unaffected by the break in Rubber, making further improvement until Canadian Pacific developed sudden weakness, that stock lost its early gain of 1¾ and fell a total of 2¾ points to 142, within a fraction of its low record. Later, prices hardened again on a smaller volume of trading. Future selling was again the feature of the bond list.

Irregularity marked the dealings of the early afternoon, war specialties making further gains, while St. Paul was notably weak. Missouri Pacific made a new low record at 5¾. More heavy foreign selling of bonds was noted.

St. Paul's loss extended over 7 points, causing other stocks in the same class to fall below yesterday's final figures. The closing was heavy.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— THE PETETAL COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, hereby associate ourselves together and agree upon the following certificate of incorporation, under the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of 1905 of the State of Minnesota, and acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, and adopt the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be The Petetal Company. The general nature of its business shall be dealing in any and all kinds of real and personal property, and doing all acts necessary or convenient thereto, including the exploration, platting and leasing of lands, and doing all other acts which may be deemed advisable or convenient for the welfare of the corporation. The principal place of transacting said business shall be Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE II.

The period of the duration of this corporation shall be thirty (30) years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators of this company are as follows: Peter E. Meagher, Alexander Hamfield and Peter G. Pastoret, all of Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The management of this corporation shall be vested in a board of three directors, who shall be stockholders of the corporation, and the President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and such other officers as the board of directors may decide upon. Two or more of said offices may be held by the same person. The board of directors, except the first board, shall be elected by the stockholders of the corporation at the annual meetings. The other officers shall be chosen by the board of directors at their first meeting after each annual meeting of the stockholders. The directors and officers shall hold their respective offices for the term of one year and until their respective successors are elected and qualified. The annual meeting of the stockholders shall be held on the second Saturday in January in each year. W. D. Burr of St. Paul, Milton P. Botsford and Peter E. Meagher shall compose the board of directors until the first annual meeting, and until the first meeting of the directors the said W. D. Burr shall be President, Milton P. Botsford, Vice President, and Peter E. Meagher, Secretary and Treasurer.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock shall be fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00), divided into five hundred (500) shares of the par value of one hundred dollars ($100.00) each, the same to be paid in as called for by the board of directors, either in money or in property.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall at any time be subject is the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00).

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seals this 26th day of June, 1915.

OFFICE OF THE REGISTER OF DEEDS.

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis —ss.

I hereby certify that the within instrument was filed in this office for record June 29, 1915, at 8:30 A. M., and was duly recorded in Book 15 of Misc., page 541.

CHAS. CALLIGAN, Register of Deeds.
By C. L. LOFGREN, Deputy.

D. H., July 1, 2, 1915.

TO WILHO ALTO:

You are hereby notified that you have made default in the conditions of a certain contract, dated October 5th, 1911, wherein Emeline Rowe agreed to convey to you at the time and upon the performance of the conditions of said contract, and upon making the payments therein specified, the following premises situated in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter (NE¼-NE¼) of Section Number Nine (9) in Township Number Fifty (50) North of Range Number Seventeen (17) West of the Fourth Principal Meridian, according to the United States Government Survey.

Such default consists in your failure to make the payments of the principal and interest to be made and paid under the terms of said contract, and your failure to pay the general tax for the years of 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, and 1914, respectively, upon said land before the same became delinquent according to law.

You will, therefore, take notice that said contract will terminate Ninety (90) days after the service of this notice upon you unless prior thereto you shall comply with the conditions thereof in which default has been made as aforesaid, and pay the costs of service of this notice.

Dated June 29th, 1915.
EMELINE ROWE.

CRANK BLOWS UP PART OF U. S CAPITOL AS PROTEST AGAINST EXPORT OF WAR MATERIALS

RECEPTION ROOM BADLY SHATTERED

Bomb Explodes With Great Violence About Midnight.

Parts of Ceiling and Side Walls Are Shaken Down.

Man Writes Letter to Newspaper, Announcing the Explosion.

Washington, July 3.—The public reception room in the senate wing of the capitol of the United States was wrecked just before last midnight by an explosion probably caused by a bomb or an infernal machine. No one was injured and today there was only one clue, a letter received by the Washington Times, an evening newspaper, bearing a postmark timed before the explosion, announcing that it would take place.

The letter, although written June 1, was mailed last night at 10 o'clock, nearly two hours before the explosion. It was signed R. Pearce, was typewritten and indicated that the writer had been waiting some time for an opportunity to carry out his plan which, he said, would be "the exclamation point of his career."

The letter was at once turned over to the police. Only one man of that name is in the Washington city

LIEUT. BECKER MAY MAKE DISCLOSURES

Attorney Says He Will Reveal Names If Appeal Fails.

New York, July 3.—On the authority of Charles Becker's counsel, Martin T. Manton, it was said today that if Becker fails in his appeal to the United States supreme court, he will, before going to the electric chair for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, make a public disclosure of the names of the men with whom he is alleged to have divided $100,000 in graft money collected from gamblers and keepers of illegal resorts during his career as head of the famous "police strong-arm squad." Six men, some of them police department officials, are understood to be involved in the statement Becker has prepared while awaiting the outcome of appeals to Governor Whitman and the United States supreme court.

ITALIANS HAVE TAKEN TOLMINO GARRISONED BY 30,000 AUSTRIANS

Considered to Be Key to the Entire Isonzo Valley.

Austrians Hold Neighboring Forts and Are Bombarding Village.

Italians Bring Up Heavy Artillery to Use Against Them.

Paris, July 3.—The Italians have occupied the village of Tolmino on the Isonzo, north of Gorizia, according to a Rome dispatch to the Herald. The Austrians still hold neighboring fortifications and are bombarding the village. Italian heavy artillery has been brought up and mounted for use against the forts.

Tolmino, the key to the Isonzo valley, has been considered by the Italians indispensible in their operations in that district. It is protected by strong natural and artificial defenses and it is said to have been garrisoned by 30,000 Austrians.

Italian Statement.

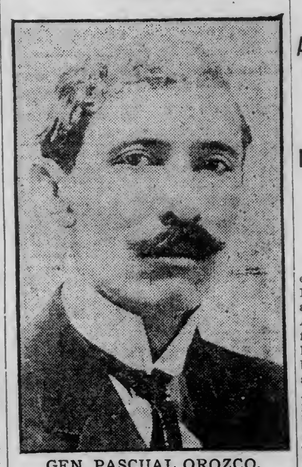

Rome, via Paris, July 3.—The following Italian official statement concerning the progress of hostilities was given out here last night:

"The action of the artillery is becoming more intense along the entire frontier, especially in Carnia, where fire has been opened against the defensive works of Predil Pass, an effective result being obtained in a short time.

"An enemy camp of about 500 tents in the vicinity of Elder, beyond Ploek-

GEN. OROZCO DISAPPEARS

GEN. PASCUAL OROZCO.

El Paso, Tex., July 3.—Pascual Orozco, second only to Huerta in importance, appears to have disappeared. He is not in his house, where six men have been guarding him. The authorities, however, have not yet abandoned hope of recapturing him, if he attempts to escape across the border to Mexico.

PROHIBITIONIST BUYS TWO GREAT WINERIES

Schumaker Gets Something He Did Not Expect at Tax Sale.

San Bernardino, Cal., July 3.—E. W. Schumaker, prominent prohibitionist and Sunday school superintendent, is the possessor of land whereon stand two wineries stored with thousands of gallons of wine. Title passed to Mr. Schumaker at a sale and he did not know that his purchase of delinquent land, which cost him $38, had put him in possession of a business he had fought all his life. The winery people overlooked their taxes.

Heavy Rain in Boston.

Boston, Mass., July 3.—Rain which has fallen almost continuously for two days, stopped last night with a record of precipitation in excess of that for the four preceding months. Officially the rainfall for forty hours was 5.31 inches, as compared with 4.89 inches, the four months total. Unofficial gauges indicated nearly seven inches.

GOVERNMENT LOSES SUIT TO DISSOLVE COAL MONOPOLY

Philadelphia, Pa., July 3.—The United States district court today rendered a decision in favor of the defendant in the government suit to dissolve the Reading company, to separate the New Jersey Central railroad from the Reading.

The suit of the government against the Reading company and allied corporations is probably the most important step the department of justice has taken in its attack upon what it contends is a monopoly in the anthracite coal trade. In 1907 the government filed a suit against all the anthracite coal carrying railroads and affiliated coal companies, charging that a general illegal combination existed among them. This charge was not sustained by the supreme court, but the government won two other material points in that suit. It then decided to take action against many of the companies in separate suits. The case against the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad and its allied coal company and that against the Lehigh Valley railroad and the coal company affiliated with it are now in the Federal courts.

The suit against the Reading was

TWO GOOD REASONS FOR A SAFE AND SANE FOURTH.

ATTEMPT ON LIFE MADE AT FINANCIER'S LONG ISLAND HOME

Two Shots Fired, One Striking Banker in the Groin; Where Other Went Is Not Yet Made Clear.

Assailant Taught German at Cornell Last Year and Was to Go to University of Texas Next Term.

New York, July 3.—An attempt to assassinate J. P. Morgan was made at Mr. Morgan's country estate near Glen Cove, L. I., today. Mr. Morgan was shot, but not seriously wounded. His assailant was a man who said he was F. Holt, an instructor in French at Cornell university, and also of Dallas, Tex.

The Cornell university records contain the name of Frank Holt. He was an instructor in German there during last year. He was to go to the University of Texas as a professor in German for the coming term.

Henry Fiske, Mr. Morgan's butler, doubtless saved his employer from more serious injury by felling the assailant with a blow from a coal hod and overpowering him. Holt was locked up in the Glen Cove jail and from his cell issued a statement asserting that he was impelled to go to Mr. Morgan to persuade him to stop the shipment of munitions of war from this country abroad.

STAGED IN DINING ROOM.

The attack on Mr. Morgan was staged in the dining room of the Morgan home. The assailant, refused admission at the door, pressed a pistol against the butler's body and pushed past him through the hallway and into the dining room where Mr. Morgan had just finished breakfast.

Mr. Morgan was shot through the groin. Whether he was shot once or twice was not made clear. Two shots were fired by the assassin. One of these shots, it was reported, cut through the fleshy part of the breast and passed out through the arm. Another report was that one of the shots went wild.

DYNAMITE IN SATCHEL.

The assailant reached Glen Cove on an early train, carrying a suitcase and drove by automobile to the Morgan estate three miles from the station. He left his suitcase near a hedge on the estate. Later the suitcase was opened and found to contain a quantity of dynamite.

A second pistol, fully loaded, was found in the prisoner's pocket when he was searched at Glen Cove.

The effect of the shooting on the stock market was negligible. The market, which opened irregularly, responded to the news of the shooting with a loss of about a point on so-called Morgan securities, including United States Steel stock.

Rumor Reaches City.

The rumor of the shooting reached Wall Street soon after the opening of the stock market and was current on the floor of the New York stock exchange before it reached the office of J. P. Morgan & Co.

The market, which opened irregularly, shaded a point on the rumor and remained practically stationary after the news was confirmed.

The only partners in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., who were in town today, so far as was known, were William H. Porter and Mr. Morrow. W. P. Hamilton, another partner of the firm, was said to be at his country home near Tuxedo, N. Y. Henry P. Davidson is in London and Thomas W. Lamont is on his vacation, somewhere in Oregon.

The second statement issued by the Morgan firm reads as follows:

"Two shots were fired at Mr. Morgan, both of which took effect. Details regarding wounds have not yet been received at the office of the firm. A statement from the doctor will be given out in about an hour."

Goes to House in Auto.

The man who shot Mr. Morgan came to Glen Cove this morning on the 8:53 train, hired an automobile and went to the Morgan home on Matinicock Point. He rang the bell and when the butler answered called for Mr. Morgan. He said that he was an old friend of Mr. Morgan but was refused admission to the house.

The man then pressed a pistol against the stomach of the butler who screamed, and pushed his way past the servant into the hall. Mr. Morgan was approaching the front door through the hall at the time. He asked what the trouble was. The answer

WILSON PLAYS GOLF.

Cornish, N. H., July 3.—President Wilson took advantage of the clearing weather today and went out on a private golf course in Windsor, Vt., for his first game since Wednesday. He was accompanied by Dr. Cary T. Grayson.

The president left Harlakenden house before the receipt of a message from the White House telling of the bomb explosion in the capitol building. An earlier dispatch brought the news of the death in Paris yesterday of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, but President Wilson made no comment.

RUSSIAN SUBMARINE SINKS THREE VESSELS

Czar's Submersible in the Black Sea Displays Great Activity in the Neighborhood of Kesken.

Petrograd, July 3, via London.—The activity of a Russian submarine in the Black sea is recounted in an official statement issued by the admiralty today. The undersea boat sank two Turkish steamers and one sailing ship with cargoes of coal and provisions and they exchanged shots with three armored schooners off the mouth of the Bosporus, driving them ashore.

The text of the statement follows:

"A Russian submarine in the Black sea today torpedoed and sank a steamer of 2,500 tons. It then set fire to and sank a sailing ship of 1,500 tons. Subsequently a small steamer was sent to the bottom. The three vessels were in the neighborhood of Kesken and were laden with coal and provisions.

"The submarine also shelled another steamer anchored in the river and several coal-laden barges and a tug were driven ashore.

"Near the mouth of the Bosporus the submarine came into action with an armored schooner. After an exchange of shots this vessel with two others of a similar type were run ashore."

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Russian accounts of Friday's naval engagement off the Gothland coast record the beaching of one German warship and the flight of several cruisers with accompanying torpedo boats which the Russian fleet encountered and engaged during a foggy morning on the Baltic.

Unofficial dispatches say the beached vessel was the mine layer Albatross and add that the Russians finally retired because of the numerical superiority of the German fleet.

Other naval activities include the sinking of three Turkish merchantmen by a Russian submarine in the Black sea and the torpedoing of the Belgian steamer Boduognat by a German undersea boat.

The latest Russian official statement admits a continuation of the retreat before the armies of Field Marshal von Mackensen in Southern Poland, whose forces are drawing daily nearer to Lublin. Heavy fighting apparently of a rear guard character for the most part, is continuing.

The Russians also concede the German claim to new successes in Galicia, admitting that important forces of Teutons have forced their way across the Gnila Lipa.

Italian headquarters reports an increase of activity along the entire front and records advances in Carnia and near Freikofel.

Unofficial dispatches reported the occupation by the Italians of Tolmino, a key point in the Isonzo valley but added that the Austrians still held the fortification near the place and that the battle was continuing.

Recent accounts of successes for the entente allies in the Gallipoli peninsula are countered by a Turkish statement declaring that the British forces there were driven back to their old positions.

Authorization of a new $500,000,000 loan by Russia is announced from Petrograd.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF MEXICO DIES AN EXILE IN FRANCE

DEATH DUE TO OLD AGE

Famous Autocrat of Southern Republic Was 85 Years Old.

Banished From Country After Service of Over 35 Years.

Paris, July 3.—Gen. Porforio Diaz, former president of Mexico, died at 7 o'clock last night.

Gen. Diaz's wife, Senora Carmen Romero Rubio Diaz and their son Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and the latter's wife were at the bedside when the end came.

Paris, July 3, 10 p. m.—Gen. Diaz began to fail rapidly about three weeks ago and while his death was not unexpected, owing to his advanced age and recent failing health, the crisis came suddenly yesterday afternoon. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and his wife were hastily summoned and arrived at the bedside only a few moments before the end, which came at 7 o'clock last night.

Col. Diaz, in announcing the death of his father, said that he was unable to state the nature of the malady, but expressed the opinion that a complication of diseases, due to advanced age, was the cause.

Two tragic circumstances marked the death of the exiled ruler. Owing to the troubled state in Mexico, it has been judged impossible to send the body home with all that ceremony which would have befitted one of the greatest figures in the Mexican history and further, Col. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., has tried in vain to inform his sisters, Senora Ignacio de La Torre and Senora Ricon Gallardo, who are now in Mexico, of the death of their father.

None of Former Assistants Present.

Not less tragic, perhaps, is the fact that not one of those whom Gen. Diaz raised up to his assistants in governing Mexico and who prospered and grew rich in the shadow of his greatness were with him when he died.

The end seems to have been brought about by failure of the heart, which was weakened by a severe attack of grip last year. The illness also left the aged exile almost blind. Nevertheless he was accustomed to walk out daily during the past spring in the Bois de Boulogne, which he loved because it resembled the park of Chapultepec in Mexico City.

Gen. Diaz lived here in the greatest simplicity, occupying a modest apartment in striking contrast to the great houses and retinue of servants maintained by some of his friends who fled Mexico with him.

No decision has yet been made concerning the final disposition of the body or the date of the funeral.

GEN. PORFIRIO DIAZ.

Glimpse of Career.

The letter with which Gen. Porfirio Diaz announced on May 25, 1911, his resignation from the presidency of Mexico after having been master of the country for thirty-five years, gives in his own words an interesting glimpse of his remarkable career. It reads:

"Sir: The Mexican people, who generously have covered me with honors, who proclaimed me their leader during the international war, who patriotically assisted me in all works undertaken to develop industry and the commerce of the republic, establish its credit, gain for it the respect of the world and obtain for it an honorable position in the concert of nations—that same people, sir, have revolted in armed military bands, stating that my presence in the exercises of the supreme executive power is the cause of this insurrection.

"I do not know of any fact imputable to me which would have caused this social phenomenon, but permitting, though not admitting that may be unwittingly culpable, such a possibility makes me the least able to reason out and decide my own culpability. Therefore, respecting, as I have always respected, the will of the people, and in accordance with Article 82 with the Federal Constitution, I come before the supreme representatives of the nation in order to resign, unreservedly, the office of constitutional president of the republic with which the national vote honored me, which I do with the more reason since, in order to continue in office, it would be necessary to shed Mexican blood, endangering the credit of the country, dissipating its wealth, exhausting its resources and exposing its policy to international complications.

"I hope, gentlemen, that, when the passions which are inherent to all revolutions have been calmed, a more conscientious and just study will bring out in the national mind, a correct judgment, which, when I die, may carry graven on my soul as a just estimate of the life which I have devoted and will devote to my countrymen."

Madero Revolution.

The revolution led by Gen. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., had brought about the aged president's reported pledge early in 1911 to resign his office in a bargain for peace, but on May 24, the day on which the resignation was expected, it was not forthcoming. Riots occured that day in Mexico City, during which many persons were killed. The national palace was stoned by mobs shouting "Viva Madero!" and demanding to know why Diaz did not resign. The next day he read his letter of resignation to the chamber of deputies. A large majority voted aye; the other legislators rose and bowed their affirmation as their names were called.

The minister of foreign affairs, Francisco Leon de la Barra, was immediately chosen provisional president, and Diaz, of whom for thirty years all Mexico had stood in awe, left the capital secretly the next day, to embark at Vera Cruz for Europe. Since then he had lived virtually an exile in Paris and other European cities, a silent observer of still more troublesome times in the land he had long ruled.

The views of Gen. Diaz held of these subsequent happenings were reported mainly by rumor. He authorized but few interviews, and those in the main were those of an old man grieved over his own misfortunes and those of Mexico. He longed to see peace restablished, and was often quoted as having urged the now former President Huerta to quit to prevent a foreign war. He was repeatedly reported on the point of returning to Mexico, but he denied that he ever would unless Mexico was drawn into war with the United States, or unless it was for him to die in his native land.

Born in 1830.

Gen. Diaz was born in 1830. His family were of old Spanish stock with an infusion of Indian blood. Left fatherless at the age of 3 he was educated at the expense of the bishop of Oaxaca with the intention of becoming a priest, but he eventually turned to law and then at the outbreak of the war with the United States turned to a military career. He served throughout that struggle in a militia company which he helped organize, and after peace was declared he made a special study of military science. He and one other were the only two in the country who dared openly oppose the continuation of Santa Anna's dictatorship. His execution was ordered, but he escaped and joined Herrera's revolt. He speedily made a reputation as a soldier and as a brigadier-general he was the chief thorn in the side of the French forces, when, taking advantage of the Civil war in the United States, they attempted to place Archduke Maximilian of Austria on the throne of a Mexican empire. Diaz harrassed the enemy constantly and in June, 1867, captured Mexico City with his forces. On the re-establishment of the republic he was unsuccessful as a candidate for president, but in 1877 he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the fugitive president, Lerdo. His last and eighth election was in July, 1910.

To Diaz was given credit for the advance of Mexico to the status of a stable, progressive and prosperous government, although the autocratic methods he employed were widely criticised.

Although termed a despot who had great chances for graft, Porfirio Diaz is said never to have used them.

Power Was Absolute.

His power over the public treasury had been absolute, but even his worst enemies do not allege that he ever robbed his country of a cent.

When he became president his relatives and friends used to go to him for easy jobs under the government. They expected to be allowed to plunder the treasury in the good, old-fashioned Mexican way, and they were very much disgusted when Diaz made it plain that he intended neither to loot on his own account nor to allow anybody else to do so.

Since then Diaz has dealt sternly with many of his family and his tribe. Many years ago he sent one of his cousins to prison for peculation.

The man was an army officer. The family gathered around Diaz and pleaded that dismissal from the army in disgrace would be sufficient punishment.

"Consider," they said, "he is of our family."

The very reason he must be severely punished," Diaz declared. "If I do not punish my own relatives when they do wrong, how could I punish strangers?"

Studied Law.

After the Mexican war with the United States Diaz took up the study of law, but failed to get his degree because the college at which he was studying was suppressed by the dictator, Santa Ana. This tyranny caused young Diaz to join the ranks of those opposed to the dictator, but soon after he was forced to flee into exile in Texas. Returning to Mexico in 1856 he joined the army of the governor of Oaxaca, his former law instructor, who was then in revolt. He took part in many battles, rising steadily in rank, and when the French invaded his country he was considered one of the ablest of Mexican commanders.

After the defeat of the French, Diaz led his victorious army into the City of Mexico in 1867. President Juarez offered him the position of secretary of war, but he declined, saying he had fought for the liberty of his country and not for office or pay.

Sebastian Tejando, who became president upon the death of Juarez, was confronted by a revolution and forced to flee from Mexico in 1876 and Diaz, who had added to his fame by putting down several small revolutions, became provisional president. In April, 1877, he was elected to the presidency. Manuel Gonzales succeeded Diaz. Under his regime profligacy, graft and folly had full sway. In 1884 Diaz was again elected president.

Had Strong Cabinet.

Diaz had an unerring instinct for surrounding himself with a strong and loyal cabinet. He took dashing bandits of the mountains and made them his friends and partners in the government. He bound the various states together by railroads and telegraph lines, established a school system, created a powerful army and encouraged in every possible way the investment of foreign capital. During his years of office no less than $1,500,000,000 of American money, and equally as much European money, was invested in Mexico.

Many times during the administration of Diaz revolutions raised their heads in different parts of Mexico, but he never permitted them to spread far. His methods for putting down rebellions were quite effective. It is estimated that no less than 30,000 men were put to death as a result of these outbreaks.

Friendship With United States.

The growth of the friendship between Mexico under Diaz and the United States was first shown by the visit of Generals Grant and Sherman and their families to Mexico in 1880, and Diaz's tour through the United States three years later. The crowning event of the latter part of Diaz's career was his meeting President Taft at El Paso in October, 1909. He was the first chief executive of any country to cross the American border. President Taft returned the visit, being received on Mexican soil by a great demonstration.

Diaz was inaugurated for his eighth term as president Dec. 1, 1910, but hardly had the ceremonies ended when the revolt of the Liberal party, under Francisco Madero, began to assume a serious aspect. Little regarded at first, this revolution spread rapidly, and Diaz soon saw that his resignation was the price of peace. It was expected that he would step out on May 24, 1911. On that day riots occurred in the City of Mexico and many were killed. The national palace was surrounded by a mob and stoned, while the crowd shouted "Viva Madero." On the following day Diaz read his letter of resignation in the chamber of deputies and departed for Europe.

CITY WILL HELP DECORATE ARMORY

Order Payment of $2,500; Will Pay Salary Losses of Firemen.

At the special meeting of the council yesterday afternoon, the commissioners ordered $2,500 paid to the Commercial club fund for improving the exterior of the new armory, and salary losses of $160 to Assistant Fire Chief Granzow and Driver Gerald Black, through attachment on the judgment against them for the death of Elida Hubert. The June payroll was passed, so that city employes will have their salaries before the Fourth.

An auto in which the two fire officials were riding killed the little girl while they were on their way to a fire and the council recently voted to pay the judgment of $700, if it is affirmed by the supreme court. The commissioners yesterday refunded $105 to Assistant Chief Granzow and $55 to Driver Black.

Several weeks ago the council passed an ordinance appropriating $2,500 for beautifying the exterior of the armory now under construction. Members of the Commercial club have agreed to raise about $5,000 additional for this fund.

Following the council meeting the commissioners were taken on an automobile trip to the city and county work farm. They were accompanied by Municipal Judge Smallwood and A. H. Crassweller of the work farm board.

EXPERTS TO TEACH DEFICIENT PUPILS

Duluth Will Have Special Classes in Schools Next Year.

By next fall Duluth will have a school for deaf, mute and mentally deficient children, isolated from other classes and taught by experts in that line of work, brought here from the East.

Directors of the board of education, at the July meeting in Central high school building last night, approved without question the recommendation of the committee on schools asking that classes for deficients be founded.

For each child the city will receive $100 annually from the state, and as there are thirty children, at least, ready to join the class, Duluth is assured of $3,000 annually. This sum is received under the provisions of chapter 61 of the laws of 1915, and will make the school practically self-supporting, according to Mrs. T. J. Davis, chairman of the school committee.

"We are allowed to have but fifteen children in a class," explained Mrs. Davis, "and so it will be necessary to have two teachers. One will teach the mentally defective, and the other will have a class of pupils deficient in speech and hearing. No blind children who will be allowed to enroll have been found."

FIVE IN THE RACE FOR THREE POSITIONS

School Making Arrangements for Election to Be Held This Summer.

Five will be in the race for three positions on the school board, to be vacated Aug. 1 by Frank A. Brewer, C. Francis Colman and Dr. D. E. Seashore.

In addition to the three members, whose names have been presented for re-election, voters may choose C. G. Firoved or Andrew Nelson, attorney.

Mr. Nelson's name, presented in a petition filed with Clerk C. A. Bronson yesterday, will be on the ballot unless it is withdrawn by July 6. He was formerly a member of the board, and was succeeded by Mrs. Thomas G. Davis.

F. A. Brewer, with Dr. Seashore, made the strongest showing in the petitions, each man having 237 "signers." Mr. Colman's petition contained 219 names, Mr. Firoved's carried 111 names and Mr. Nelson's 18 names.

Upon motion of Director H. J. Grannis, Clerk Bronson was directed to prepare 10,000 ballots and make other arrangements for the election.

OLD-TIME "FOURTH" AT EXETER FARMS

Fireworks and Addresses Will Feature Elaborate Program.

Celebration of the Fourth of July in regular old-time style will be observed by the residents of Exeter farms all day Monday.

With several speeches and the singing of patriotic songs, the festivities will be officially opened at 10 o'clock, in addition to the chief address, which will be given by W. H. Gurnee, there will probably be recitations by children of several of the farmers.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Exeter Presbyterian church will serve dinner at noon. A baseball game between teams of the neighborhood will be held in the afternoon. Prizes will be awarded for winners in races in which boys, girls and women will take part.

The fireworks display is expected to attract unusual attention. Everything from the simple Roman candle to the "sinking of a submarine" will be displayed at night. Nothing in the fireworks line will be barred.

An open-air dance at night is expected to attract hundreds of persons, both from the neighborhood and Duluth. Buses will run all day long from the end of the car line to the farms to accommodate the persons from Duluth who wish to attend the celebration.

"Y" CAMP MADE READY.

Large Crowds Will Hold Outing for Remainder of Summer.

Secretary N. D. McLeod of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. returned yesterday from Camp Miller after having passed the week there putting the last touches on the camp. Everything is now ready for the big crowds that will spend their vacation there this year. The camp opened with the Knights of Sir Galahad, who spent last week there. On Monday the Y. W. C. A. will go for two weeks and on Aug. 2, the boys' department will go for the entire month. Fishing will be a big feature, and large catches are now being made.

The special program at the boys' building is proving very attractive, and boys who are not working or who are not away, are having their vacation programs planned. The special program includes swimming every day. The club rooms are open every day and evening. There is outdoor baseball every Tuesday; outdoor swimming every Wednesday, and a trip every Saturday afternoon.

WANT YEAR-ROUND SERVICE.

School Board Considers Longer Contract for Truant Officer.

A year-round truant officer, who will visit the playgrounds during the summer and the schools during the winter, is the desire of W. B. Getchell, member of the board of education.

"Mr. Beatty (T. J. Beatty) ought to be given a twelve-months' contract," said Director Getchell at the board meeting last night.

"We are spending a lot of money on playgrounds, and it would be a good idea for him to visit the playgrounds and get acquainted with the boys who cause all the trouble when school is in session."

The matter was referred to the committee on schools.

ALFALFA IS GOOD FOR INDIGESTION

Chicago, July 3.—Alfalfa as a remedy for indigestion and mental depression was recommended by Dr. Alexander L. Blackwood of Chicago before the American Institute of Homeopathy, which closed its annual convention here yesterday.

Dr. Blackwood told of experiments made with the new remedy on patients in a Chicago hospital.

"During the last year observations were made of the action of alfalfa on seventeen persons," he said. "All of them noted that they grew so hungry that they could scarcely wait for their meals. Their minds were clear and bright, all bodily functions were stimulated, and it was impossible to have the blues."

FORMER PRESIDENT OF MEXICO DIES AN EXILE IN FRANCE

DEATH DUE TO OLD AGE

Famous Autocrat of Southern Republic Was 85 Years Old.

Banished From Country After Service of Over 35 Years.

Paris, July 3.—Gen. Porforio Diaz, former president of Mexico, died at 7 o'clock last night.

Gen. Diaz's wife, Senora Carmen Romero Rubio Diaz and their son Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and the latter's wife were at the bedside when the end came.

Paris, July 3, 10 p. m.—Gen. Diaz began to fail rapidly about three weeks ago and while his death was not unexpected, owing to his advanced age and recent failing health, the crisis came suddenly yesterday afternoon. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and his wife were hastily summoned and arrived at the bedside only a few moments before the end, which came at 7 o'clock last night.

Col. Diaz, in announcing the death of his father, said that he was unable to state the nature of the malady, but expressed the opinion that a complication of diseases, due to advanced age, was the cause.

Two tragic circumstances marked the death of the exiled ruler. Owing to the troubled state in Mexico, it has been judged impossible to send the body home with all that ceremony which would have befitted one of the greatest figures in the Mexican history and further, Col. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., has tried in vain to inform his sisters, Senora Ignacio de La Torre and Senora Riccon Gallardo, who are now in Mexico, of the death of their father.

None of Former Assistants Present.

Not less tragic, perhaps, is the fact that not one of those whom Gen. Diaz raised up to his assistants in governing Mexico and who prospered and grew rich in the shadow of his greatness were with him when he died.

The end seems to have been brought about by failure of the heart, which was weakened by a severe attack of grip last year. The illness also left the aged exile almost blind. Nevertheless he was accustomed to walk out daily during the past spring in the Bois de Boulogne, which he loved because it resembled the park of Chapultepec in Mexico City.

Gen. Diaz lived here in the greatest simplicity, occupying a modest apartment in striking contrast to the great houses and retinue of servants maintained by some of his friends who fled Mexico with him.

No decision has yet been made concerning the final disposition of the body or the date of the funeral.

GEN. PORFIRIO DIAZ.

Glimpse of Career.

The letter with which Gen. Porfirio Diaz announced on May 25, 1911, his resignation from the presidency of Mexico after having been master of the country for thirty-five years, gives in his own words an interesting glimpse of his remarkable career. It reads:

"Sir: The Mexican people, who generously have covered me with honors, who proclaimed me as their leader during the international war, who patriotically assisted me in all works undertaken to develop industry and the commerce of the republic, establish its credit, gain for it the respect of the world and obtain for it an honorable position in the concert of nations—that same people, sir, have revolted in armed military bands, stating that my presence in the exercises of the supreme executive power is the cause of this insurrection.

"I do not know of any fact imputable to me which would have caused this social phenomenon, but permitting, though not admitting that I may be unwittingly culpable, such a possibility makes me the least able to reason out and decide my own culpability. Therefore, respecting, as I have always respected, the will of the people, and in accordance with Article 82 with the Federal Constitution, I come before the supreme representatives of the nation in order to resign, unreservedly, the office of constitutional president of the republic with which the national vote honored me, which I do with the more reason since, in order to continue in office, it would be necessary to shed Mexican blood, endangering the credit of the country, dissipating its wealth, exhausting its resources and exposing its policy to international complications.

"I hope, gentlemen, that when the passions which are inherent to all revolutions have been calmed, a more conscientious and just study will bring out in the national mind, a correct judgment, which, when I die, I may carry graven on my soul as a just estimate of the life which I have devoted and will devote to my countrymen."

Madero Revolution.

The revolution led by Gen. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., had brought about the aged president's reported pledge early in 1911 to resign his office in a bargain for peace, but on May 24, the day on which the resignation was expected, it was not forthcoming. Riots occurred that day in Mexico City, during which many persons were killed. The national palace was stoned by mobs shouting "Viva Madero!" and demanding to know why Diaz did not resign. The next day he read his letter of resignation to the chamber of deputies. A large majority voted aye; the other legislators rose and bowed their affirmation as their names were called.

The minister of foreign affairs, Francisco Leon de la Barra, was immediately chosen provisional president, and Diaz, of whom for thirty years all Mexico had stood in awe, left the capital secretly the next day, to embark at Vera Cruz for Europe. Since then he had lived virtually an exile in Paris and other European cities, a silent observer of still more troublesome times in the land he had long ruled.

The views of Gen. Diaz held of these subsequent happenings were reported mainly by rumor. He authorized but few interviews, and those in the main were those of an old man grieved over his own misfortunes and those of Mexico. He longed to see peace reestablished, and was often quoted as having urged the now former President Huerta to quit to prevent a foreign war. He was repeatedly reported on the point of returning to Mexico, but he denied that he ever would unless Mexico was drawn into war with the United States, or unless it was for him to die in his native land.

Born in 1830.

Gen. Diaz was born in 1830. His family were of old Spanish stock with an infusion of Indian blood. Left fatherless at the age of 3 he was educated at the expense of the bishop of Caxaca with the intention of becoming a priest, but he eventually turned to law and then at the outbreak of the war with the United States turned to a military career. He served throughout that struggle in a militia company which he helped organize, and after peace was declared he made a special study of military science. He and one other were the only two in the country who dared openly oppose the continuation of Santa Anna's dictatorship. His execution was ordered, but he escaped and joined Herrera's revolt. He speedily made a reputation as a soldier and as a brigadier-general he was the chief thorn in the side of the French forces, when, taking advantage of the Civil war in the United States, they attempted to place Archduke Maximilian of Austria on the throne of a Mexican empire. Diaz harrassed the enemy constantly and in June, 1867, captured Mexico City with his forces. On the re-establishment of the republic he was unsuccessful as a candidate for president, but in 1877 he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the fugitive president, Lerdo. His last and eighth election was in July, 1910.

To Diaz was given credit for the advance of Mexico to the status of a stable, progressive and prosperous government, although the autocratic methods he employed were widely criticised.

Although termed a despot who had great chances for graft, Porfirio Diaz is said never to have used them.

Power Was Absolute.

His power over the public treasury had been absolute, but even his worst enemies do not allege that he ever robbed his country of a cent.

When he became president his relatives and friends used to go to him for easy jobs under the government. They expected to be allowed to plunder the treasury in the good, old-fashioned Mexican way, and they were very much disgusted when Diaz made it plain that he intended neither to loot on his own account nor to allow anybody else to do so.

Since then Diaz has dealt sternly with many of his family and his tribe. Many years ago he sent one of his cousins to prison for peculation.

The man was an army officer. The family gathered around Diaz and pleaded that dismissal from the army in disgrace would be sufficient punishment.

"Consider," they said, "he is of our family."

The very reason he must be severely punished," Diaz declared. "If I do not punish my own relatives when they do wrong, how could I punish strangers?"

Studied Law.

After the Mexican war with the United States Diaz took up the study of law, but failed to get his degree because the college at which he was studying was suppressed by the dictator, Santa Ana. This tyranny caused young Diaz to join the ranks of those opposed to the dictator, but soon after he was forced to flee into exile in Texas. Returning to Mexico in 1856 he joined the army of the governor of Oaxaca, his former law instructor, who was then in revolt. He took part in many battles, rising steadily in rank, and when the French invaded his country he was considered one of the ablest of Mexican commanders.

OLD-TIME "FOURTH" AT EXETER FARMS

Fireworks and Addresses Will Feature Elaborate Program.

Celebration of the Fourth of July in regular old-time style will be observed by the residents of Exeter farms all day Monday.

With several speeches and the singing of patriotic songs, the festivities will be officially opened at 10 o'clock. In audition to the chief address, which will be given by W. H. Gurnee, there will probably be recitations by children of several of the farmers.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Exeter Presbyterian church will serve dinner at noon. A baseball game between teams of the neighborhood will be held in the afternoon. Prizes will be awarded for winners in races in which boys, girls and women will take part.

The fireworks display is expected to attract unusual attention. Everything from the simple Roman candle to the "sinking of a submarine" will be displayed at night. Nothing in the fireworks line will be barred.

An open-air dance at night is expected to attract hundreds of persons, both from the neighborhood and Duluth. Buses will run all day long from the end of the car line to the farms to accommodate the persons from Duluth who wish to attend the celebration.

"Y" CAMP MADE READY.

Large Crowds Will Hold Outing for Remainder of Summer.

Secretary N. D. McLeod of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. returned yesterday from Camp Miller after having passed the week there putting the last touches on the camp. Everything is now ready for the big crowds that will spend their vacation there this year. The camp opened with the Knights of Sir Galahad, who spent last week there. On Monday the Y. W. C. A. will go for two weeks and on Aug. 2, the boys' department will go for the entire month. Fishing will be a big feature, and large catches are now being made.

The special program at the boys' building is proving very attractive, and boys who are not working or who are not away, are having their vacation programs planned. The special program includes swimming every day. The club rooms are open every day and evening. There is outdoor baseball every Tuesday; outdoor swimming every Wednesday, and a trip every Saturday afternoon.

PUPILS WILL HOLD PICNIC.

Tanis School Will Give Annual Outing on July 4.

The pupils of the Tanis School of English have arranged to hold their annual Independence day picnic on the grounds a short distance above Highland. Albert Loding was chosen "chief" of the event. The reception committee, consisting of Miss Lydia Remberg, Michael Zachas and William Nelson, will meet the pupils with their respective friends at the Winthrop park at 2:15 o'clock. The literary program to be given at Highland will be in charge of Victor Swanson, chairman of the program committee, and follows:

Song—"America" ..... etc.
Opening address ..... Victor Swanson.
Recitation ..... Herman Pogler.
Address ..... William Nelson.
Music .....
Recitation ..... Olaf Servick.
Address and recitation ..... Ernest Johnson.
Recitation ..... Anton Johnson.
Music .....
Address ..... Arvid Blomquist.
Recitation ..... Michael Zachas.
Dialogue .....
Victor Swanson, Ida Garrison, Michael Shultz and Minnie Koivu.
Address ..... Albert Loding.

The athletics following the program will be under the direction of Ernest Johnson, chairman of games. The picnic dinner will be served by the refreshment committee. Ida Garrison, chairman. The pupils taking part in the exercises represent five nationalities.

WANT YEAR-ROUND SERVICE.

School Board Considers Longer Contract for Truant Officer.

A year-'round truant officer, who will visit the playgrounds during the summer and the schools during the winter, is the desire of W. B. Getchell, member of the board of education.

"Mr. Beatty (T. J. Beatty) ought to be given a twelve-months' contract," said Director Getchell at the board meeting last night.

"We are spending a lot of money on playgrounds, and it would be a good idea for him to visit the playgrounds and get acquainted with the boys who cause all the trouble when school is in session."

The matter was referred to the committee on schools.

ALFALFA IS GOOD FOR INDIGESTION

Chicago, July 3.—Alfalfa as a remedy for indigestion and mental depression was recommended by Dr. Alexander L. Blackwood of Chicago before the American Institute of Homeopathy, which closed its annual convention here yesterday.

Dr. Blackwood told of experiments made with the new remedy on patients in a Chicago hospital.

"During the last year observations were made of the action of alfalfa on seventeen persons," he said. "All of them noted that they grew so hungry that they could scarcely wait for their meals. Their minds were clear and bright, all bodily functions were stimulated, and it was impossible to have the blues."

THIRST FOR LIQUOR PERMANENTLY REMOVED

I shall be glad to show anyone who desires to prove the utmost desire for liquor taken from his life hundreds of testimonials on my ability to make permanent cures.

I am now located at 1732 West Superior Street, Duluth. My prices are very reasonable and you are guaranteed that your money will be entirely refunded in case I cannot cure you. Inquire of the liquor habit inside of four weeks.

PROF. J. B. FISETE,
ANTI-LIQUOR CURE
1732 West Superior Street, Duluth.

Channing, Mich., Nov. 20, 1912.
This is to certify that I have taken Prof. J. B. Fisete's Liquor Cure, and am highly pleased with results. It is more than he claims for it. It has taken all desire and craving for liquor from me, and is also a good stomach remedy. I advise any one who liquor has got the best of to try the cure and they will be surprised at the results. It is pleasant to take and will not hinder any one from their work or business. Respectfully,
L. CUNNINGHAM.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Oct. 27, 1913.
To Whom It May Concern:
This is to testify that I, Fred Pecotte, after being bothered with my heart for 15 years, but for the last three years I haven't been able to climb stairs without stopping for breath, or to any exertion of any kind; my limbs used to swell and get cold and numb and I could hardly feel my pulse beat and also had chills, but having decided to try Prof. J. B. Fisete's treatment, and at the end of one week ran two blocks without any exhaustion, and at the end of two weeks was completely cured. I also have lost all desire for liquor and feel better than I have in twenty years.
I have doctored with nine or ten doctors and to no avail, as I was condemned by them all. I make this declaration for the benefit of others who are ailing the same as I had been. So do not let any doctor condemn you without seeing Prof. J. B. Fisete of Duluth. I really believe that he can cure you as he did me, as I feel like a purified and new man in the world. I write this for the benefit of others.
I remain,
FRED PECOTTE,
215 E. A Street, Iron Mountain, Mich.

Duluth, Minn., April 26, 1915.
Dear Sir:
I have been a sufferer from dropsy and kidney trouble for eleven years. I have doctored with several doctors and was pronounced incurable. But after taking Prof. John Fisete's treatment for two weeks I am entirely cured and highly recommend it to anybody who is troubled with the same disease.
Very truly yours,
MRS. J. CHARRIER,
3516 W. Third Street, Duluth, Minn.

Chisholm, Minn., June 30, 1911.
Dear Sir:
I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia for many years and endured a great deal of pain but found nothing to do me good until I tried J. B. Fisete's dyspepsia cure and after a two weeks' treatment found that I had greatly improved, and today am glad to say I have been entirely cured. Anyone suffering with dyspepsia should give this wonderful cure a trial.
Yours,
MRS. A. ANDERSON.

Duluth, Minn., May 12, 1907.
Three years ago I was in Chisholm, Minn., condemned to die by my doctor. My troubles were too much liquor for too long a time. I am now more than pleased to have a chance to testify that Mr. J. B. Fisete's Cure has fully re-established my health and drives all appetite for liquor from me.

STAGE HANDS WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

Local Men Will Endeavor to Bring 1916 Meeting to Duluth.

Charles A. Coburn and J. P. Shannahan, local members of the stage hands' union, will leave soon for Chicago, where they will attend the 1915 convention of the International Alliance of Stage Employes, to be held in the Windy City, July 12 to 19.

This is one of the largest theatrical organizations in the world and comprises several hundred unions, each one having its several members.

Intimations are that the 1916 convention may be secured for Duluth, and the local delegates will bend every effort to bring the meeting here next summer. Nearly 700 delegates would come to the convention here, and it would prove a great advertisement for the city.

"SPOTTER" ACCUSED.

St. Paul Detective, Employed in North Dakota, Is in Trouble.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The testimony that as a detective he had secured to assist Traill county in the prosecution of charges of immorality against a woman, her daughter and another woman in Galesburg, came back with a rebound against Albert Gillette of St. Paul, said to be employed by a Saintly City detective agency. In his efforts to secure evidence it is said he took a young girl, Tilly Kittleson, from Galesburg, N. D., to Moorhead, Minn. When the women learned he was a "spotter," responsible for their arrest, they had charges preferred against him of a violation of the Mann act and he is now on trial in the Federal court here on that charge.

IN HONOR OF GEN. GREENE

Monument to American General Unveiled at Guilford Courthouse.

In Memory of Famous Commander in American Revolution.

Battle Ground, N. C., July 3.—One hundred and thirty-five years after he led his command to victory over Gen. Cornwallis' red coats at Guilford Courthouse, a monument was unveiled today on this famous battlefield in honor of the memory of Gen. Nathaniel Greene, who commanded the Colonial forces in the South during the latter part of the American Revolution. It was in this vicinity that the battle was fought on March 15, 1781, which resulted in such heavy losses to Cornwallis, the British leader, that he was forced to retreat to Wilmington, N. C.

Troops from the colonies of Rhode Island, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carlonia and South Carlonia took part in the battle, and today's exercises provided for the participation of representatives of those states, including several governors. Both state and Federal troops participated, among them the Kentish Guards of Greenwich, R. I., of which Gen. Greene was a charter member.

Funds Provided By Congress.

The monument was erected with funds appropriated by congress in Feb., 1911, and its dedication is the culmination of a movement begun more than twenty years ago to honor this revolutionary hero.

The monument is in the form of an equestrian statue of Gen. Greene, made of bronze, on a granite base. It is thirty feet high. F. Parker of New York was the sculptor.

Some historians have declared Greene the ablest soldier of the Revolution, next to Washington. During the latter part of the American colonies' struggle for independence Gen. Greene won many victories over the British forces in the Carolinas with the aid of Gen. Marion, Sumter and Pickens. It was after these reverses that Cornwallis decided to transfer his activities to Virginia. The result was his surrender at Yorktown on Oct. 1, 1781, which virtually ended the war.

CRANK BLOWS UP PART OF U. S. CAPITOL

directory. A search was begun for him.

Bomb Planted by Crank.

Officials, at first inclined to believe the explosion was caused by spontaneous combustion or escaping gas, abandoned that line of investigation and proceeded on the theory that the explosive was planted by a crank, seeking to create a sensation or some foreign sympathizer, seeking to register his disapproval of the policies of the United States government.

The letter was a rambling argument against exports of war materials and munitions to Europe.

"By the way," said the writer, at the outset of his argument, "don't blame this on the Germans or on Bryan. I am an old fashioned American, with a conscience, if it is not a sin to have a conscience. • • •

Let each nation make her own mankilling machines. Sorry I had to use explosives (for the last time I hope). It is the export kind and ought to make enough noise to be heard above the voices that clamor for war and blood money. This explosion is the exclamation point to my appeal for peace."

He closed his letter with a proposal for a referendum on the question of war exports, which he characterized "a colossal American crime."

Part of the letter was typewritten and part was written with a pen. The handwriting was apparently not that of an uneducated person.

Officials believe that the explosive was placed by a crank who desired to create a sensation. Visitors were allowed in the room during the day and a timed machine might have been left without attracting attention.

Superintendent Woods of the capitol building, summoned by panic-stricken watchmen, made a hurried investigation and then telephoned for an expert on explosives.

Walls Shattered.

Part of the ceiling and side walls of the rooms were shaken down, a huge mirror and a crystal chandelier shattered and the doors blown open. One of the doors led into the office of the vice president and is said not to have been opened in forty years.

The building had been closed since dark and there was no one in it but the watchmen and telephone switchboard operators. Watchman Jones, on the floor below, at the east entrance, said he was blown from his chair by the explosion.

The report could be heard for a great distance and in a few minutes a crowd of excited people had gathered on the east plaza. In the meantime lights had been switched on and excited officials were rushing back and forth on two floors of the great building.

Gas Pipes Intact.

After the first rumors of a bomb, some of the investigators concluded that the blast had been caused by spontaneous combustion in a gas pipe. The sides of the wall were torn out, however, and all the pipes apparently were intact. There had been no gas fixtures on the senate side since an explosion occurred there nearly twenty years ago.

A strong odor permeated the building, but none seemed able to detect just what it was. No trace could be found of an exploded bomb nor of anything else which might have caused the blast.

Superintendent Woods said he had examined the structural features of the building and found that there was no damage other than in the immediate vicinity of the reception room.

en was demolished. The enemy also was dislodged by our fire from entrenchments in construction at Strelnica and at Selia de Prasnik.

"Yesterday an Alpine detachment captured an enemy entrenchment on the northern slope of Val Grande, the fire from which was hindering our occupation of Freikofel. During the night and at daybreak with the enemy in two violent counter-attacks tried to dislodge our troops from the entrenchment, but were repulsed both times with heavy losses. One hundred and fifty dead were counted. Some prisoners were captured and a hundred guns were taken.

"On the Isonzo river the action continues its course.

"Fire from our artillery burned the village of Critnica, east of Plezzo, where a large depot of supplies was reported. A munitions depot was exploded.

"Last night the enemy twice attacked a position captured on the Carnic plateau, but they were repulsed."

French Statement.

Paris, July 3, 2:35 p. m.—The French war department today gave out the following official statement regarding the military operations:

"The fighting continued all last night in the Argonne with the same stubbornness. We maintained our positions and we inflicted very heavy losses on the enmey.

"In the region of Metzeral two fresh attacks against our positions at Crete, situated to the east of this village, have been repulsed.

"Along the remainder of the front there has been very active cannonade, guns of all calibers taking part. Shells thrown into Arras started some fires, but the flames were placed under control.

"French aviators successfully bombarded from the air the railroad station at Challerange, Zarren and Langemarck, as well as certain German batteries at Vimy and at Beaurainy."

The towns of Challerange, Zarren, Langemark, Vimy and Beaulraing are in Belgium, in the territory in possession of the Germans.

filed here in September, 1913. The defendants are: The Reading company, a holding corporation; the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company, the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal company, the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company, Wilmington & Northern Railroad company, Lehigh & Hudson River Railway company, Lehigh & New England Railroad company, and George F. Baker, Edward T. Stotesbury, Henry C. Frick, Peter A. B. Widener, Daniel Willard, Henry P. McKean and Samuel Dickson, directors of the Reading company, who are also directors in one or more of the other companies controlled by the Reading.

Generally stated the objects of the suit decided today were to dissolve what the government declared to be a combination of competitive producers, shippers, sellers and carriers of anthracite held together, it was alleged, in violation of the Federal anti-trust act through the Reading company, which has a capitalization of $275,000,000; to dissolve an alleged contributory combination between two of such competitive producers, shippers, sellers and carriers and to restrain certain of the defendants from violating the commodities clause of the act to regulate commerce, which violation the government contended was one of the means whereby the domination of the alleged combination over the anthracite trade was maintained.

It was charged by the government that the companies named in the suit were leagued together so that they controlled more than 63 per cent of the unmined coal deposits; that they weer mining about 26 per cent of the annual production and their tenants 3 per cent additional, and that the railroads named were transporting about 33 per cent of the total production. The government further maintained that according to the "generally accepted calculations of geologists and mining engineers," the coal areas controlled by the alleged combination would outlast by many years those of any competitor. "In time, therefore," the government declared in the suit, "this combination if not dissolved would own or control every ton of commercially available anthracite known to exist."

BELGIAN STEAMSHIP SUNK BY SUBMARINE

Boduognat Sent to Bottom; Crew Safely Landed at Falmouth.

London, July 3.—The Belgian steamship Boduognat was torpedoed and sunk today by a German submarine. The crew was landed at Falmouth.

The Boduognat was a steamer of 1,441 tons gross and was built at Sunderland in 1909. She was 250 feet long, 38 feet beam and 17 feet deep. She was last reported at Port Talbot, England, on June 12. The steamer was owned by the Antwerp Shipping company.

HALF MILLION RUSS IN HANDS OF GERMANS

Berlin, July 3, by wireless to Sayville.—Military writers figure that the Russians from May 2 until June 27 left in the hands of Germans 1,620 officers and 620,000 men prisoners, and 300 field guns and 770 machine guns beside incalculable war material.

J. EADS HOW.

Boston, July 3.—Rain soaked "hoboes" who drifted into town by various means, found food and shelter awaiting them at the Morgan Memorial preparatory to the opening of the eastern convention of the Brotherhood Welfare association today. J. Eads How, the wealthy promoter of the organization, was chosen to preside at the first meeting to follow a street parade. Mr. How said some of the delegates had been arrested for vagrancy on their way to the convention. "Work and peace" was the general topic for discussion at the first meeting.

RUSSIANS WIN NAVAL BATTLE

Czar's Squadron Attacks German Cruisers in Baltic.

One Beached and Others Are Put to Flight.

Petrograd, July 3, via London.—When the Russian naval squadron in the Baltic gave battle to five German cruisers and a flotilla of torpedo boats off the east coast of Gothland on July 2, one German cruiser was beached and the other warships were put to flight, according to an official statement issued today by the Russian admiralty under date of July 2. The damage to the Russian cruisers, the statement adds, was insignificant.

The text of the statement follows:

"This morning (July 2) along the parallel of the Oestegarn lighthouse, on the east coast of the island of Gothland, our cruisers encountered in a fog two of the enemy's light cruisers and some torpedo boats and engaged them in battle.

"At 9 o'clock in the morning a German cruiser badly damaged lowered her flag and ran ashore. The other cruiser and the torpedo boats fled.

"At 10 o'clock our squadron encountered the armored cruiser Roon, one light cruiser and one torpedoboat and renewed the battle.

"At 10:30 o'clock the enemy began to retire toward the south. During the retreat the enemy was joined by another light cruiser. This vessel was attacked by our cruisers and fled. At 11:30 o'clock the pursuit ceased.

"After the battle our squadron was unsuccessfully attacked by submarines.

"The damage to our cruisers was quite insignificant."

Return to Kiel.

Copenhagen, via London, July 3.—The German battleship Wittelsbach, which is damaged, and a battleship of the Kaiser class, with many shots under the water line from the battle in the Baltic, have returned to Kiel.

The battleship Wittelsbach is of 11,830 tons displacement. Her complement in peace times is 650 officers and men. Her armament consists of four 9.4-inch and eighteen 6-inch guns. She was placed in service in 1902.

The battleships of the Kaiser class each have a displacement of 10,790 tons and a complement of 658 officers and men. The armament of this class consists of four 9.4-inch and fourteen 6-inch guns.

Vessels of the Magdeburg (Breslau) class have a displacement of 4,550 tons. They have a complement of 370 officers and men. They are armed with twelve 4-inch guns and two torpedo tubes.

Mine Layer Runs Aground.

London, July 3.—"A naval action occurred yesterday off the east coast of the island of Gothland," says the Stockholm correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company. "The German mine layer Albatross was chased by four Russian cruisers and ran aground to escape capture. Twenty-one of the mine layer's crew were killed and twenty-seven were wounded.

J. P. MORGAN SHOT

was a shot which took effect in his hip.

Mr. Morgan staggered and fell into a chair.

The butler, once the assailant's back was turned, picked up a brass coal hod from the fireplace and brought it down on the assailant's head but too late to prevent a second shot.

The butler fell on the man, wrested the weapon away and overpowered him. Servants came running in answer to his call and the sheriff's office and a physician were telephoned. The man was placed under arrest and taken to Glen Cove. There he refused to say anything, even to giving his name.

Dynamite in Satchel.

A satchel which the man brought to Glen Cove was found near a hedge on the Morgan property. The satchel was filled with dynamite.

It was said that the assailant was seen yesterday in the neighborhood of Mr. Morgan's home.

Another version of the entrance of the intruder into the Morgan house is to the effect that he had no trouble in gaining admission. He went to the door and asked to see Mr. Morgan, saying that he was an old friend. Word was taken to Mr. Morgan that someone wanted to see him.

The financier came out of his breakfast room into the main hall. Immediately on his appearance the intruder shot at him. He had two revolvers and used them both.

There is still some discrepancy in the statements, as to just where the bullets struck Mr. Morgan. While the report has it that the first shot wounded him in the leg and the second near the pit of the stomach, the wound inflicted there is the more serious of the two.

Several Shots Fired.

It is related that several shots were fired by the assailant, but that all but two went wild.

Dr. W. H. Seabriskie of Glen Cove was immediately summoned, and Dr. Markoe of this city was sent for. Morgan's wounds were examined and word was given out that it was not believed that they were necessarily serious.

No identification of Mr. Morgan's assailant has as yet been made and the man will not tell his name nor what motive actuated him in making his attack on the financier. He did say later that he was of German descent.

Mr. Morgan with his wife and daughters went to their summer home in Glen Cove after the marriage recently of his son, Junius Spencer Morgan in Boston.

Matinicock Point, where the Morgan home is located, is almost surrounded by water and is about two to three miles from the central part of the village of Glen Cove.

Not Seriously Wounded.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 3.—Mr. Morgan, apparently, did not consider himself seriously wounded. When it was reported that he was shot the Morgan house was the target of a volley of telephone inquiries from New York. The first of these calls was answered by Mr. Morgan himself, who calmly told of the shooting and added that he did not think it amounted to very much.

Justice of the Peace Luyster questioned the prisoner.

"I am a Christian gentleman," was the first reply of the man when pressed for his name. He declined to say where he came from. As to his reasons for shooting Mr. Morgan, however, he was more communicative.

No Quarrel With Morgan.

He told the justice that he had no quarrel with Mr. Morgan personally, but felt that the time had come for the war to end. It was becoming more and more unbearable, he said, and it was his firm belief that he should go to Mr. Morgan and ask him to end it. This, he knew, Mr. Morgan could accomplish because of his great influence.

"I wanted to see Mr. Morgan and to reason with him," the man said. "I have nothing against him."

The assailant was cut over the eye by the blow from the coal hod and had been bleeding freely. He also was limping as the result of his encounter with the Morgan servants.

Matthew Cramer, the taxicab chauffeur, who had driven the assailant three miles from the Glen Cove station to the Morgan home was still standing with his car in front of the gate when the shots were fired. Cramer ran around to the garage in the Morgan house and sounded an alarm bell, summoning the servants.

Hurried to Glen Cove.

With three guards the assailant was placed in one of Mr. Morgan's automobiles and hurried at top speed to Glen Cove.

The satchel which was left by the hedge by the man also was thrown into the car. When it was opened the dynamite inside was found to be of the sixty per cent nitroglycerin, the kind which explodes more easily than the 40 per cent kind commonly used by contractors.

The man was searched at Glen Cove. In his pocket was found a second pistol, the latter being of 22-caliber, while the weapon which was used in the attack was 38-caliber.

The terrific force of the blow the assailant received from the coal hod had caused him to bleed profusely and he appeared to be weakening as the day passed. Although he had appeared to be but little hurt at first he became or feigned to become dazed about noon. It was thought that possibly he was suffering from a fractured skull.

Dr. John Zabriskie of Glen Cove was the first physician to reach the Morgan home. Other physicians were summoned, among them Dr. Lyle of St. Luke's hospital, New York. They examined Mr. Morgan and during the day kept in constant telephone touch with his office, advising of the patient's progress. It was said that their advices were increasingly optimistic.

Bullet in Oil Painting.

Servants examining the premises after the shooting found the first bullet, apparently the one which had ripped through the flesh of the breast. It was lodged in an oil painting on the library wall. The other bullet entered the hip and came out through the groin. It was not found in the first search.

Henry Fiske, Mr. Morgan's butler, who felled the assailant with a coal hod and thereby doubtlessly saved Mr. Morgan from more serious injury, was not hurt apparently by his encounter afterwards with the would-be assassin.

The police assert that Holt had been living in Milen Cove about a week. He had been seen by various persons on the street and his presence in the neighborhood of the Morgan home last Thursday had been commented on before the shooting.

In his cell the assailant began the preparation of a written statement which he informed the police he wanted to give out to the newspapers.

EASTERN HOTELS HIT.

F. M. Crosby of St. Louis Hotel Returns From Extended Visit in East.

Frederick M. Crosby, associate manager of the Hotel St. Louis, arrived in Duluth this morning from his home in Boston, where he has been spending the past several months superintending the management of his hotel properties in that city.

Mr. Crosby said this morning that the summer hotels scattered throughout New England had been hard hit by the European war.

"Formerly the large proportion of New England people divided their time between the fashionable Eastern resorts and Europe," said he. "This summer the wealthy people, nearly all of whom own their own summer homes, have opened them for the season, thus shutting off the hotels from a good deal of business.

"Palatial summer places that formerly rented for $5,000 for the summer season are going this summer as low as $2,500," he added.

WAGES OF ALL COPPER MINERS AT HIGH POINT

Douglas, Ariz., July 3.—An advance of 2½ per cent announced yesterday as the result of increased prices for copper, brings the wage of miners and smeltermen to the highest rate ever paid in the southwest for similar work. All employes of the Copper Queen and Calumet & Arizona companies benefit by the increase, given under a system which bases each month's wage on the price of copper for the preceding month.

Five thousand men benefit by the increase which amounts to about $18,000 per month.

BETTER QUARTERS FOR COUNTY NURSES

New $10,000 Building Is Planned for County Poor Farm.

A $10,000 building may be added to the county poor farm group, if plans which the poor commission has under way do not miscarry.

It is proposed to construct a building to quarter the nurses and other employes at the county institution. The question was discussed yesterday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the poor commission at the courthouse.

The June report of Dr. C. J. Woolway, medical superintendent of the poor farm, shows that there were five deaths last month, four of which occurred in the tuberculosis section. During the month 122 inmates were cared for in the almshouse, ninety-nine patients extended relief in the hospital and forty-seven in the tuberculosis pavilion.

WAHPETON SEEKS LARGE INDUSTRY

Wahpeton, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—To secure a manufacturing concern that will employ 300 men is now the ambition of residents of this city. A recently organized Minnesota company with exclusive right to manufacture certain farm machinery articles has been looking up a location and has practically determined upon either Wahpeton or Fergus Falls. A meeting of the Commercial club is to be held here July 7 at which time the matter may be definitely settled. The people of Wahpeton are extremely anxious to secure the factory.

FARGO'S BIG RAINFALL.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The total rainfall here for June was 9.31 inches the greatest precipitation since the establishment of the weather bureau in Moorhead thirty-five years ago. There were twenty-one days upon which rain fell during the month. June also broke all former records for low temperature, the mean average being lower than in any preceding June during the thirty-five years.

Our Policy of Publicity

Some corporations say: "What's the use of trying to advertise—what's the use of telling the people anything? They won't listen to what a corporation has to say?"

Don't you believe it! Most people are fair, broad-minded and unprejudiced.

The public can be awfully wrong at times, but it is usually because they have received wrong information.

This company has been criticised time and again in years gone by, but we are not complaining. We should have furnished the public more complete information about our business.

Today—our policies and our problems, our revenues and our expenses, everything about our business—we tell the public.

We are a public service corporation and the public deserve to know what we are doing and why we are doing it.

Then we are willing to place our case squarely up to them. They are the fairest jury we have ever known.

We want the people to know all about our business, because we want their confidence and good will.

It means more business, less trouble, more happiness.

We have the utmost faith in the sense of justice and fair play of the American people. We believe that they want to give square corporations a square deal.

"We Advertise So That the People May Know."

DULUTH'S BATHING BEACH WILL BE READY FOR USE MONDAY

DULUTH'S FIRST PUBLIC BATHING BEACH AT FAIRMONT PARK, LOOKING FROM THE PAVILION. —Photo by McKenzie.

On Monday morning, weather permitting, Duluth's first public bathing beach at Fairmont park will be thrown open to the public.

For the last two months Park Manager Cleveland has had a crew of men preparing the grounds at the Fairmont park addition, purchased by the city this spring. A roadway from Seventy-first avenue west and Pulaski street has been extended right into the grounds and automobiles will be able to drive to the park without any difficulty.

The beach is located in a cove near Grassy Point and is an ideal swimming spot.

A pavilion has been erected, while twenty-four bathhouses were installed this week. Everything is now ready for the opening Monday.

Mrs. Laura Carlson, who lives near the beach, will have charge of the woman's ward, while one of the park policemen has been appointed to take care of the section for men and boys.

CAMPAIGN FOR IMPROVEMENTS

West Duluth Commercial Club Will Work for More Paving.

Judge Lanners Heads Committee to Conduct Movement.

A special committee, which will have for its purpose a campaign for the paving of streets and causing general improvements in West Duluth, was appointed last evening at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club. The appointment of the committee followed a lengthy discussion on the condition of the thoroughfares in this end of the city, in which it was declared to be a shame that there were not more paved streets in the community.

Judge Harry W. Lanners started the discussion by asserting that many communities of the West, whose people were not as well to do nor anywhere nearly so well off commercially, have miles of paved streets where West Duluth has blocks. Pride in the community, he said, was necessary to promote civic improvements.

Promoting Civic Pride.

"All we need is to have the property owners of one street take the initiative, and every other property owner on other streets will want the same improvement," declared Judge Lanners. "They will see property values on that street boom, they will see new buildings going up there, and they will realize the pride in living in a community where such improvements obtain.

"The streets of West Duluth are a shame and a disgrace. We have not a single paved street in this section of the city. Many of our thoroughfares are practically impassable in rainy seasons. Concerted action by members of this club is a necessity that we must recognize.

Paving in Other Cities.

"On my recent trip through the West I saw cities not nearly so large as West Duluth with miles and miles of paved streets and concrete sidewalks. If the residents of this section of the city only realized the value of paved streets to their community they would demand that the work be done. Not only for traffic and automobilists are improved streets a dire necessity. We have an ideal residence locality in West Duluth, but people will not move here. They take one look at our streets and then go to some other section. In enhanced property values alone are paved streets more than worth what is expended on them.

"If we can get one paved residence thoroughfare in West Duluth everyone in this section of the city will be clamoring for paving."

Similar sentiment was expressed by Emil J. Zauft, P. G. Phillips, W. A. Pond, Charles G. Futter, L. A. Barnes, Frank E. Watson and others.

President Pond appointed Judge Lanners chairman of the committee and L. A. Barnes, Frank E. Watson, P. G. Phillips, Emil J. Zauft, C. G. Futter and Dr. R. S. Forbes as the other members.

It is planned to start at once on the campaign for the improvements.

PENNY LUNCHES FOR IRVING SCHOOL

Housewives' League Will Continue Work Begun Last Spring.

Pupils at the Irving school again will have the use of penny lunches, prepared by members of the Housewives' league, during the coming year.

Board of education members, at their monthly meeting last night, approved a recommendation of the committee on schools, which stated:

"We recommend that the Housewives' league be granted the use of the dining room and one end of the hall at the Irving school for the purpose of serving penny lunches; the same to be subject to the ruling of the principal of the building and the committee on schools."

League representatives, at the June meeting of the board, protested that they would be unable to serve the lunches successfully unless they were allowed to use the school apparatus, as the expense of furnishing rooms and equipment was almost prohibitive.

Free Show for Children.

Children of West Duluth under 16 years of age will be guests of C. F. Beiers, proprietor of the Alhambra theater Monday morning. Mr. Beiers has arranged to give a free performance at his theater for all children of the suburb. In case all that come cannot be taken care of at one show, two shows will be given. The theater will be thrown open to the children at 9:30 o'clock. A patriotic program is being arranged for the morning.

MRS. FILIATRAULT, PIONEER, IS DEAD

Mother of Well-Known Duluthians Passes Away—Heart Trouble.

Mrs. Rose D. Filiatrault, age 76 years, a pioneer resident of Minnesota, died at 5:30 o'clock this morning at her home, 919 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, of heart trouble following a short sinking spell. She had been troubled more or less with heart trouble for the past two years.

Mrs. Filiatrault came to Minnesota in 1858, locating in Faribault. She came to Duluth in 1887. Five sons and three daughters survive her. They are Moses J. Filiatrault, E. J., Louis, Edward and Albert J. Filiatrault, all of Duluth. Mrs. Anna Le Sage and Mrs. Marie McDonnell of this city and Mrs. Blanch Marshall of Cleveland, Ohio, are daughters.

The funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. James' Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue and Kincer place. Interment will be made in Calvary cemetery. Automobiles will be used exclusively for the funeral.

REPAIRING STREETS.

Street Commissioner Tells Commercial Club of Work Being Done.

West Duluth streets are to be put into good repair. Such was the announcement made last night by John Holmes, street commissioner for the district, who attended the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club.

Mr. Holmes declared that his crew of men had made improvements yesterday afternoon to Sixty-third avenue west, below Raleigh street, and that this street is now in fair shape. Other streets in the suburb are to be given a similar going over, he said.

The discussion of West Duluth streets was one of the livelliest that has taken place in many months. The commissioner said that there were not many streets in West Duluth that had deep holes in them. The sidewalks are also being put in repair, he declared.

P. O. MEN WANT GAME.

West Duluth Carriers and Clerks After Scalp of Uptown Crew.

Postal clerks and carriers of the West Duluth postoffice have thrown down the gauntlet. A sweeping challenge to the uptown force to play a game of baseball has been issued but, as yet, say the West Duluth men, the challenge has not been answered.

The mail men want the game to be played on some Sunday in the near future. They have not named the "stake" for which they will play but declare that they are willing to play for almost anything so long as they get the game.

A battery, said to be one of the best among the amateurs, is to be found among Uncle Sam's West Duluth employes. "Nobby" Clark has been an amateur twirler for several years and intends occupying the mound position for the local men. Iver Wicklund is captain and general manager for the team.

BUNDLE SHOWER.

Soderbergs Given Surprise By Friends and Given Fine Presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Soderberg were surprised by a number of friends Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Soderberg, 4817 West Fourth street. The affair was given in the form of a bundle shower, Mr. and Mrs. Soderberg being the recipients of many handsome gifts. Games were played on the lawn, followed by music and luncheon was served the following guests:

Messrs. and Mesdames Leonard Soderberg, John Soderberg, Gust Silverness, P. J. Borgstrom, Andrew Lindquist, Olof Skoog.

Misses Hulda Soderberg, Olga Johnson, Edna Magnuson, Cora Borgstrom, Lillian Soderberg, Hulda Peterson, Esther Johnson, Myrtle Borgstrom, Evelyn Risen, Esther Lindor, Mabel Dahlquist, Maude Lindquist.

The West Duluth public library will be closed all day Monday, according to announcement made this morning by the librarian.

Picnic plans will be discussed Wednesday evening at the meeting of West Duluth lodge No. 145, A. O. U. W., to be held at the Gilley's hall.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. James Keenan, 610 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, will leave this evening to spend a week visiting relatives at Marquette, Mich.

RUSSIA TO BORROW HALF A BILLION

Two Issues of Treasury Obligations of $250,000,000 Each Ordered.

Petrograd, July 3, via London.—The official Journal today published an imperial edict authorizing the Russian minister of finance to make two issues of treasury obligations of $250,000,000 each. The issue is to be in the shape of 5 per cent short term notes, free of income tax.

The issue will be in denominations of from $50 upwards. This low denomination is expected to give the loan a popular aspect and to appeal to foreign as well as Russian investors. The issue is to run for six months beginning today.

STATE LODGE HOMES.

Masons and Elks to Build at Devils Lake, N. D.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two fraternal order homes will be erected here during the present year, both the Elks and the Masons having completed preliminary arrangements to that end.

The Elks will sign the contract for the construction of their home Monday. It will be a pretentious structure, giving the order a very excellent home.

The Masons contemplate the construction of an exclusive lodge.

Strike Delayed.

New York, July 3.—A threatened strike of the 40,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union has been delayed, if not averted by the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective association agreeing to submit its differences to a board of arbitration, it was announced last night.

TWENTY-SEVEN NOW CITIZENS

Judge Bert Fesler Gives Impressive Address to Admitted Aliens.

Urges That They Educate Children to Help Carry Out Ideals.

Twenty-seven aliens were admitted to United States citizenship at the naturalization hearing conducted before Judge Bert Fesler in district court last evening. The class consisted of thirty men. Three failed to show a suitable proficiency in the examination and hearing on their applications was continued.

Judge Fesler addressed the new citizens on their duties as naturalized Americans. He declared that the ideal of American government is to secure justice for all of its people. This is brought about, he said, by the participation of all citizens in the country's free institutions. He said that it was expected of the new citizens that they participate in the same work that native-born citizens have to do in maintaining these institutions.

Urges Education.

"And your children," he added, "will be expected to take up that work and carry it forward. In order for them to do that intelligently you should see to it that they take advantage of the most serviceable of free institutions—the public schools. It is a matter of comment in recent years in Duluth that the children of foreign-born parents become the honor pupils in our schools in far greater proportion than the children of our native-born parents. In my judgment, the reason is that the foreign-born parents, in many cases, having been denied such advantages, impress upon their children the value of an education, while our native-born citizens take such fine institutions as a matter of course.

Must Help Native-Born.

"We cannot hope to secure justice for our people without an intelligent appreciation of the conditions that exist and the remedies therefor. That can be acquired largely by education. Let your influence be such as parents and citizens that you and your children will have an intelligent understanding of our problems and our needs and thus help us, who are native born, to perfect our own free institutions and more nearly approach that ideal of justice which our form of government was intended to realize when it was organized by its founders."

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FUNERAL NOT MADE

Burial of Late Gen. Diaz Will Be Simple in Nature, However.

Paris, July 3.—Members of the family of Gen. Porfirio Diaz have not yet determined what arrangements will be made for the funeral of the late president of Mexico, except that they will be of simple character in keeping with his quiet life in Paris. The ex-president died last night as the result of a complication of diseases due to advanced age.

Gen. Diaz during his four years' residence in Paris made few acquaintances among the French people. He received a good many Mexicans, especially when he first came to France.

He always was absorbed in the news from Mexico but became more and more distressed by the disorders there as his friends by letter and in person gave him pessimistic accounts of the conditions and the destruction of his institutions.

It does not appear that Gen. Diaz ever regretted his resignation from the presidency of Mexico after thirty years of rule nor that he felt inclined to return, nor missed his loss of power. Nothing that he told his friends would indicate it.

Only once, so far as known, did the general endeavor directly to influence Mexican affairs. That was when he allowed two of his friends to use his name in recommending to Gen. Victoriano Huerta, when the latter was provisional president of the republic, that he yield to the desires of President Wilson and resign.

Liquor for Dry Arizona.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 3.—Through the arrest yesterday of Fred Lavorin, United States officials said they had discovered a scheme to ship liquor into prohibition Arizona as baggage. Lavorin was arrested for violating interstate commerce laws, in not having properly labeled goods in transit. A number of men here and in Arizona who are said to have extensively employed this means, are under surveillance.

N. D. Sportsmen Elect.

Dickinson, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The next annual tournament of the North Dakota Sportsmen's association will be held in Lisbon. That was decided at the shoot at Dickinson. The new officers follow: President, C. O. Heckle, Lisbon; vice president, Dr. H. L. Saylor, Cogswell; secretary, Albert Ciubino, Lisbon; treasurer, Charles Ulmer, Lisbon; trustees, C. H. Parker, Minot; H. E. Peck, Kennare; A. R. Cheznik, Portal.

Quiet Fargo Fourth.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fourth will be celebrated here this year with less noise and ceremony than for years. There is to be no local celebration of any character and Police Commissioner Dahl has unearthed an old ordinance which prohibits the firing of fire crackers or fire arms within the city limits.

IRON RIVER, MICH., NEWS.

Iron River, Mich., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Lucy Koehler of Menominee Falls, Wis., is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. R. Waeber.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ritze and children are at Ann Arbor, where Mrs. Ritze and babies will spend a few weeks with relatives and friends. Mr. Ritze will return in a few days.

The Union club gave a supper in its rooms for the members on Tuesday evening.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union held an "International fete" on Thursday evening on the lawn of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ritze.

Miss Frances Sampson, who has been teaching for the past year in Hibbing, Minn., is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. L. Woodworth.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian society met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. L. Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Murrill Parks have returned from Decatur, Ill., where they were married a few weeks ago. They expect to take up their residence in town, Mr. Parks being employed as superintendent of the electric and lighting plant.

Children's day was appropriately observed on Sunday in the Presbyterian church.

Weddings and Engagements.

Miss Olga M. Carlson and Charles Olson were married last Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. J. A. McGaughey at the manse of the Second Presbyterian church. Miss Mae Larson and Albert Melander were the attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson left for a short trip and will be at home after July 15 at 2625 West First street.

The marriage of Miss Ida Fagel and Morton M. Azine was solemnized last Sunday night at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Azine, 513 Second avenue east. Rabbi Teplitz read the service. Only immediate relatives and friends were present. The bride wore a white crepe de chine gown trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids were Miss Charlotte Azine, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Minnie Boerosa.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony, covers being laid for forty. The rooms were decorated with red and green. Mr. and Mrs. Azine left Monday for a short trip to the Twin Cities and Chicago, and on their return will make their home at 513 Second avenue east.

Lodge Notes.

Duluth Council No. 3, Modern Samaritans, will not meet Monday night. At the next meeting, July 12, plans will be made for the summer program.

A regular meeting of the auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans will be held Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at Memorial hall, courthouse. Special business will be discussed and there will be initiation. Miss Goldie Budden will be the hostess.

It has been requested that members of J. B. Culver Corps No. 69, W. R. C., take part in the exercises which will be held Monday afternoon on the courthouse grounds to welcome the newly made citizens.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Trogner of Washington, D. C., are the guests of Mrs. Trogner's sister, Mrs. R. G. Malcomb of 927 West Third street. Mr. Trogner, who was joined in San Francisco by Mrs. Trogner for a trip through Yellowstone Park, is returning to Washington from Manila, where he spent two years.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hjernoe of 818 East Eighth street have as their guest their nephew, Jean Eller of Oak Park, Ill.

Mrs. C. S. Nixon and little daughter, Georgia, of 1714 London road, have returned from Minneapolis, where they visited Mrs. Nixon's mother.

Mrs. Harry L. Cummings of Omaha, Neb., is here to attend the wedding of her brother, Harry Sleepack, to Miss Frances Shannon, which will take place Tuesday. She is the guest of her mother, Mrs. H. F. Sleepack of the Ashtabula apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Clark and son of 1023 Woodland avenue will leave tonight for a five weeks' visit in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Howell of St. Paul will spend the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. F. N. West, 620 Boulevard.

Mrs. Alice A. Taylor and Julian Yalo Worde of 2121 Jefferson street are attending the San Francisco exposition and will return by way of the Canadian Rockies.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO REALIZE that in buying a piano of us you not only save the middleman's profit which, is but you get a longer guarantee with your piano and a positive assurance of entire satisfaction, which is worth many dollars to you. Think of the many unfortunate people who have paid from $250 to $300 for a low-grade piano when they could have purchased a high-grade piano, direct from our factory warerooms at the same price.

AT LEAST $100

BEWARE of the many so-called piano sales and firms of whom it is characteristic to go out of business.

High-grade pianos are not discounted.

Regardless of what such a dealer tells you—you may rest assured that the piano that he is offering to you at a big discount has the original price well padded or the instrument is inferior.

Beware of the grief that follows the purchase of such a piano.

Investigate our easy payment plan and rent proposition.

Pointers on the Care of the Ice-Box and Its Contents in Summer

In the last number of the Housewives' League magazine Glenrose Bell Caraway, first vice president of the National Housewives' league, gives the following instructions for the care of refrigerators and the vegetables and fruits which are kept in them:

"Before you purchase a refrigerator or rent an apartment be sure the drain pipe is an easily removable piece of equipment, for in the deposit which accumulates in the inside lurk the germs which not only spoil the food and give the box a bad odor, but may produce deadly ptomaines.

"To clean the box thoroughly remove the trays and pipe. In short, take out everything which comes out and boil for a few minutes in a strong solution of washing soda. Meanwhile, wash the box interior, wipe dry and leave open so that the air may circulate and the box cool in readiness for the ice. Pour some of the strong soda solution down the drain to cleanse that.

"When the boiling is over rinse the fittings in cold water, replace, and your box is ready for the iceman.

"If the box is lined with galvanized iron or tin with riveted seams, as is often the case, the interior can be made smooth and germ proof by a few coats of white enamel paint. Without this treatment the most assiduous care will not suffice to keep it clean.

"Always have the ice rinsed before being put into the box. This caution is scarcely necessary to any one who has contemplated the travels of a piece of ice from wagon to box.

Have Special Dishes.

"Have special dishes for the icebox, covered if possible. Foods loose flavor and sometimes their original taste when exposed to the strong odors of other foods. A saucer of charcoal kept in the box sweetens the atmosphere.

"And now that the icebox is a fit and fine receptacle, let me say a word about a care of the summer fruits and vegetables which go into it.

"We all realize that the day when the travels of our foods were limited to transit from garden to kitchen is either over, or has not dawned, for many of us. The history of the journey of our food supplies reads like the itinerary of a Cook's tour, and after the many perils of the path the food arrive in what might be called 'a state of nerves' and demands instant and adequate care. A few moments' rest in a hot kitchen may be the last straw, take the last fleeting flicker of flavor and leave us a mass of vegetable or fruit material which, while doing us no harm, will give us no joy in the eating.

"Lettuce should be separated, washed, wrapped in oiled paper and laid close to the ice; this insures a crisp delicious salad.

"Shake off the dirt from beets, carrots and all the long-stemmed vegetables, wrap them up, and put in the box. Do not break off the stems until ready to prepare, for the rooty plants 'bleed' when shorn of their leaves, and thus lose flavor.

"Do not take the husk from corn before putting it in the box. Corn sours much more rapidly when the husk is removed.

Tomatoes should be taken from bag or basket, and laid separately on a tray; the thin skins are easily bruised by rubbing together, and the fruit rots very quickly when cracked or broken.

"Never soak vegetables in salt water in order to freshen them up. The salt acts on the vegetable minerals, extracts them, and with them much of the flavor of the food.

"All kinds of berries should be poured on platters before being put into the icebox, so they may enjoy freedom from pressure, and air circulation. How often have we bought a box of beautiful berries in the morning, and found that by night a section of the contents had become an unusable mass. One bad berry in a tightly packed box may have worked the havoc.

"Do not hull berries and allow them to stand in water, or hold them under a heavy stream of water. The water soaks in through the unprotected end, and the fruit loses flavor.

"If you want to keep the juicy fruits, like grapefruit, oranges, lemons, etc., after being cut, cover the exposed end with a piece of oiled paper and lay, cut side down, on a dish.

Of course, every careful housewife keeps her butter in a covered receptacle, but eggs are not always treated with the same consideration. It is a fact, however, that odors easily pass through the delicate eggshell, and give the contents a musty taste."

The Market Basket

Prepared for The Herald by Mrs. A. R. F. Hewitt, home economics department of the University of Wisconsin.

Despite the convenience of the telephone and quick delivery service, the market basket is coming back.

One of the chief reasons is that by actually doing our own selecting we become acquainted with the market and so are much more intelligent buyers. We learn when the different fruits and vegetables are in season and, therefore, when they are the best and lowest in price. We also learn of the special offers which the grocer is often able to make on staple goods, perhaps because of overstock at the wholesalers, and in this way we get real bargains of which we might or would not know.

The use of the market basket should save us money. Few realize that the delivery is a large item of expense to the grocer and, of course, we must pay for this service.

Why thoughtlessly telephone and ask the grocer to deliver one loaf of bread or a can of pineapple? If we have forgotten to order it with our other groceries, let us use a substitute or go for it and thus save the grocer that added expense of delivery and, ultimately, the cost of groceries to the consumer.

It costs practically as much to deliver a very small order as to deliver a large order. Just recently, a grocer told me that it cost him from 8 to 10 cents for every stop he made in his delivery service. Let us be more thoughtful.

Frequently, one of my neighbors asks to borrow some matches, a bar of soap, or a can of fruit or vegetables. She has forgotten to order one box of matches, one bar of soap, or the much needed can of fruit or vegetables.

She realizes the convenience to me as well as to herself of my way of ordering these things in large quantities, but says she can't afford to buy that way. She pays her bill at the end of each month and I am sure that in a few months this would adjust itself so that no month's bill would be excessively large.

Just a few examples will show what my neighbor loses by "hand-to-mouth" buying:

One box of matches cost 5 cents and a package of 12 boxes costs 40 cents, a saving of 20 cents or four boxes of matches; soap at 5 cents a bar costs $4.40 per box, but if purchased by the box it costs $3.80; a saving of 30 cents or 12 bars of soap; canned fruit which costs 30 cents per can may be purchased at $3.60 per dozen cans, thus saving 60 cents or two cans of fruit; vegetables which are 15 cents per can cost $1.60 per dozen cans, a saving of 20 cents.

As spenders of the family income, can we afford not to know our market and not to buy in the most economical way?

KING OF SPAIN AND HIS HEIR

The king of Spain has just passed his twenty-ninth birthday. He was born after his father's death and so cut off his elder sister from the throne. If the later child had been a girl Maria de las Mercedes, now married to Prince Carlos Bourbon, would have remained queen. The king has strong affiliations with Great Britain where his wife was born; but he has kept his country out of the world war so far and probably will continue to do so. Germany was anxious to have Spain join her in the war so as to harass France on the south, but she refused.

MILK IMPURE FROM OUTSIDE

Iced Cars for Shipping Suggested By City Inspector.

Local Dairies Reported to Be in Excellent Condition.

Milk shipped into the city by outside dairies has a too high bacteria count, according to Gust Hedman, milk and dairy inspector, who suggests in his June report to Health Director Fahey that the railroads should be compelled to ship milk only in iced cars.

The farmers keep their milk cool, states the report, but the roads place the cans in warm express cars and as a result the liquid becomes very dangerous. Although this milk is sent to local companies for pasteurization, Mr. Hedman declares that the shippers will have to be more careful in the future, or the milk will not be allowed to come into the city.

Since taking office Health Director Fahey started the inspection of milk shipped over roads entering the city.

Local dairies are all in fine shape, states Inspector Hedman, and he especially warns the public at this time to keep the flies away from milk or cream.

During the month Inspector Hedman visited eighty-five dairies, made 104 calls, tested 116 samples for butter fat and issued forty-eight milk licenses.

Among some of the shippers, whose milk showed an exceptionally large bacteria count, which caused Inspector Hedman to send out his warning, are the following: William Fitzpatrick, Barker, Minn.; P. H. Utley, Wrenshall; Charles Nordstrom, Adolph; Gust Olson, Adolph; George Johnson, Munger; J. C. Anderson, Bruno; J. O. Sirlene, Brahain, and Pine City Creamery company, Pine City.

MINNESOTA AND KANSAS AT FRONT

Dr. Magie Impressed With Prosperity of This State on Coast Trip.

Dr. W. H. Magie returned today from the meeting of the American Medical association, which came to a close during the present week in San Francisco. Dr. Magie was a member of a party that went direct from Rochester, Minn., to San Francisco, the American Surgical institution holding its annual meeting at Rochester, and then boarding a special train and going direct to the American Medical association convention.

Declaring that little of advanced theory or new thought was brought up in the surgical section of the convention, Dr. Magie said that the trip to the Pacific coast impressed him forcibly with the fact that Minnesota and Kansas are the two banner states of the union.

"Conditions on the Pacific coast are not to be compared in the way of prosperity with conditions in Minnesota," said Dr. Magie. "Kansas compares rather favorably with the North Star state, but we are far ahead of the coast states, and Duluth, for prosperity and general solid conditions, is very much in advance of any of the cities of the coast.

"We visited the Yosemite valley and other beautiful spots on the coast. We also ran up into British Columbia and visited Vancouver. Los Angeles, Seattle and Portland were other cities we stopped at. Crop conditions in the Central states, especially Kansas, are very good. As you come toward the Middle West you encounter more settled financial conditions. The coast territory has been hit harder than our central portion of the United States, and a trip such as I have taken simply serves to increase one's pride in Minnesota and one's contentment in living in Duluth."

Dr. Magie declared that the San Francisco fair is artistically a remarkable success, although as yet the attendance has not been up to what the officials would like to see. Some of the buildings, the landscape decorations and mural decorations, Dr. Magie declared, were simply beautiful.

Forming Farmers Elevator.

Linton, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a meeting of the farmers of this part of Emmons county here this afternoon for the purpose of organizing a farmers' elevator company and erecting a house here in time to handle this year's crop. A sufficient amount of stock has been subscribed to insure the success of the plan.

Veteran Editor Retires.

Mankato, Minn., July 3.—A. M. Morrison, who founded the Mankato Journal thirty years ago, and has conducted it ever since, has disposed of his interest in the paper and retired, and Paul F. ATTRACTIVE HOUSE IN BRICK

We present to our readers this week what is known as a semi-bungalow type constructed in brick. The bedroom on the first floor will be found very useful and this arrangement in a small home seems to appeal to the average home builder. The first floor is finished in birch, the second in white pine enamelled. The building would cost to erect in Duluth, with plumbing and heating, $4,000.

FLOOD WATERS DID EXTENSIVE DAMAGE

Settlers in Waskish County, East of Red Lake, Suffer.

Bemidji, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although comparatively small damage was done in this immediate vicinity by the late terrific rains, some losses and inconveniences resulted.

In the Waskish country, east of Red Lake, owing to the volume of water pouring from artificially constructed ditches into the Big Tamarac river, that stream has flattened itself out until it resembles a bay of the lake and east from the lake for about seven miles it is more than half a mile in width in places. Normally the river is 100 feet wide. Valuable hay meadows also are inundated.

People Sought High Spots.

Several of the good people of the Tamarac country have been compelled to seek refuge in the homes of neighbors on high land as their own houses are under three and four feet of water. When the last heavy rain came Sunday night desperate measures were resorted to to save their livestock.

Cows and other livestock were made to swim as far as eighty rods to places of safety, calves were placed on rafts, chickens were boxed and placed on the top of the houses, where they were later rescued by men who were able to go about in gasoline launches and home-made rafts were popular.

Among the farms that have been flooded by water is the Lamenon farm, the John Timmi farm and the farms of Bernard Espe, Charles Peterson and Peter Neslund. These farmers are all staying with neighbors who live on higher land.

Much Hay Ruined.

The most productive meadow lands in this part of the state have all been flooded. In less than three weeks, thousands of tons of hay would have been put up along the Tamarac river, but the flooding of these lands means that this cannot now be done.

At the John Timmi farm, rafts were built as the flood came on and the livestock placed on them and safely carried to the edge of the water, which was nearly a mile from the house. The chickens were boxed up and put on the roof of the house until they could be removed. The water around the Timmi farm house was deep enough for a gasoline launch to run up to the door.

In practically all instances the settlers did not have time to remove their furniture from their homes.

NELSON REFUSES THE NOMINATION

Declines to Enter Contest for Membership of School Board.

Andrew Nelson, in whose behalf a petition to place his name on the ballot for school director, was filed last night at the board of education meeting, refuses to be a candidate and so notified the clerk of the board this morning. Mr. Nelson declares that while he is not insensible to the honor and to the consideration which his friends have shown in thus endeavoring to have him run, he has not been consulted in the matter, and had he been, would certainly have refused to consider the matter.

Mr. Nelson was a member of the board for some time until last year, but at that time refused to stand for re-election, and does not wish to become a candidate again.

"I was completely surprised when I read the announcement this morning that I am a candidate," said Mr. Nelson today. "It is pleasing to have one's friends show such appreciation as has been done in this case, but I have too many other business interests to take up my attention to permit me to accept the honor if I were elected, so I must respectfully decline."

PERCENTAGE OF KILLED TO INJURED IS LARGER

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, June 15.—A compilation of all the British casualty lists issued to date shows that the proportion of killed to injured is 23.5 per cent. This is slightly in excess of the percentage in the Crimean and South African campaigns. In the Russo-Turkish war, however, the proportion was nearly 46 per cent.

The proportion of killed officers is much higher than among men, reaching in the present war a percentage of 43.6.

UNIVERSITY BUT FEW MONTHS OLD

Most Distinguished Belgian Scientists and Scholars in Faculty.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Amsterdam, June 10.—Probably few people outside Holland have heard of the "University of Amersfoort," which although only a few months old embraces on its faculty some of the most distinguished Belgian scientists and scholars. It is unique among educational institutions in that its professors establish their own "chairs," choose their own subjects, and treat them as they wish. They are bound by no official rules and harassed by no traditions. The student enjoys similar freedom. He undergoes no admission examination, chooses his own courses of study and completes them whenever he thinks he has had enough.

Professors and students are members of the Belgian refuge colonies in Holland. After the fall of Antwerp, a large number of Belgian troops crossed the Dutch frontier and were interned at Amersfoort for the duration of the war. The folly of keeping together a large body of men with nothing to occupy their time or to break the monotony of their daily life was at once realized. Professor Shrijnen of the University of Utrecht made an appeal to refugee Belgian professors, and in January the first term of the University of Amersfoort was opened with a hundred students enrolled. The first course offered was in pedagogy, under Professor Collard of the University of Louvain.

HEAT WAVE AFFECTS WOUNDED AT CAIRO

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Cairo, June 10.—A heat wave has added to the agonies of the wounded arriving here from the Dardanelles. Surprise is openly expressed that Cairo should have been chosen as a convalescent center for the summer months, particularly in the case of dysenteric patents, who would have a much better chance of prompt recovery in Alexandria on the sea.

COUNTY MUST PAY DAMAGE.

John Uylen Will Secure $400 for Land Taken for Road.

In Judge Cant's division of the district court yesterday afternoon, a jury awarded John Uylen $400 damages against St. Louis county on a claim for $923.50. Uylen sued for damages, claiming that the county took two and one-half acres of his land for a roadway and destroyed his fence, allowing cattle to roam over growing crops. The county claimed that the benefits more than offset the damages. Uylen's farm is located in Fine Lakes township, south of Floodwood. The road in question is known as the Prairie Lake road.

DIAZ.

Porfirio Diaz, Mexico's strong man, her liberator from the despotism of Santa Anna, her savior from the alien rulership of the unhappy Maximilian, and her strong-armed ruler for nearly two generations, is dead.

Diaz was a fairly benevolent despot, but a despot nevertheless. He ran Mexico pretty well, on the whole, for a long time; but he ran it better for a favored few than for the Mexican people as a whole. Apparently the Mexican people didn't advance much in civilization under his rule, and after all that's the real test of a government. Still, the outbreak of a struggle for freedom, though blind, fanatic and self-destructive, which ended his rule showed that despite his failure to promote political advancement the spirit of liberty lived and grew.

His government worked, at any rate, and no government since his has worked at all. Yet his sort of government was the kind of thing that can't last. What succeeded it is worse, on its face. It is no government at all, but unbridled brigandry and self-seeking, with here and there a faint burst of real patriotism. The professed liberators have sullied their banner with crime and greed and selfishness. They have stained their hands with ugly religious persecution and blind cruelty. Yet everybody will hope, for humanity's sake, that even the present turmoil is working toward better things, and that out of it may yet come order, peace and prosperity.

Diaz is dead, but the bitter fruits of his despotism are still tragically puckering the throats of the unhappy Mexican people.

What is so rare as the kid who is already wishing school would reopen?

A PLAN FOR PEACE.

General Harrison Gray Otis, editor and general manager of the Los Angeles Times and a veteran of two wars, has like many others been studying plans for permanent peace, but he has gone further into detail than most. His published plan is engaging and interesting, and should stimulate helpful discussion.

In brief, his scheme contemplates "a world government composed of the essential elements, namely: A world congress, a world judiciary and a world arbitral court; a world executive department, with an official head recognized by all branches of the world government as well as by the powers composing the universal peace pact; such executive head to be duly invested with all the executive authority that can legally pertain to his high position, and which may be delegated to his hands by the several nations composing the world government, acting through the world congress duly created by them."

There would be also a world army and a world navy, to be constituted by the voluntary contributions of the several nations composing the pact "in proportion to the military, naval, population, financial and commercial strength of each." This force would "obey and serve the world government and be ever its strong right arm against all comers (should any ever come)."

A departure from the usual trend of such discussions is the proposal that none of the nations in the pact need disarm. Usually it is proposed that the world's government army and navy shall be the only army and navy in the world, but General Otis declares that "each might safely retain in its exclusive service, for internal defense and the suppression of domestic rebellion, insurrection or invasion, such necessary portions of its regular military and naval forces as its own government might see fit, in its own independent discretion, to retain." This virtually permits each nation to maintain as large an armament as it pleases, and the matter of world disarmament is left to the "free and willing action of the respective countries themselves."

Though naturally every country needs a national police force, here is a ticklish point, and one on which there will be wide disagreement. Unless the universal agreement puts some limitation on the armaments of the several nations, it will be necessary for the world government to maintain a world army and a world navy not only large enough to suppress any rebellion against the world government, but large enough to cope with any probable alliance among these nations against the world government. That might very easily lead not to any reduction in armament at all, but to superimposing upon the already large armaments of the world the necessarily huge armament of the world government.

No nation, for ordinary police purposes, needs a large army or a large navy. A nation governed by an autocracy threatened with a democratic revolution which the privileged classes would want to put down would probably require a pretty heavy armament at all times, and the world government, if it is to have any power worth while, would need an armament large enough to offset this condition. A world government without power to compel any nation under its rule, or any probable combination of nations, would be as impotent as the federation of states which followed the American Revolution and preceded the adoption of the Constitution.

Germany, Austria-Hungary and Russia, for instance, would hardly agree to disarm unless the world government assumed the task of preserving their existing forms of government; and that would entangle the world government in a net of racial and national politics that probably would be fatal to its existence.

The problem is not easy. It will be easier when all governments are democracies, as all governments will be in time.

Naturally, "one of the very foremost and firmest features of this plan of peace is the provision that the world government shall never invade, but always preserve, maintain, defend and guarantee the territorial integrity, the national autonomy, the independent sovereignty and the peace of every member of the alliance; in brief, that this all-embracing world government shall secure to every nation a measure of security impossible for it to attain by its own unaided efforts."

Here difficulties suggest themselves. What of countries that are aggregations of races, some of which dream of racial autonomy? What of Germany, Austria, Russia and the Poles? Shall the world government guarantee the perpetual dismemberment of Poland and the perpetual subordination of the Poles? Yet such difficulties as these are only such as are to be expected. They are not impossible of solution, especially if the world, weary of war, reaches a frame of mind that will make it easy to remove these war-provoking racial divisions by such steps as, say, the recreation of Poland as a buffer state between Germany and Austria and Russia.

Now that an aeroplane has sunk a submarine, what is there left in the line of oddities for the war to provide?

"ON TO WARSAW!"

Apparently the Germans are after Warsaw. At their present rate of going he is a hardy prophet indeed who will say that they will not get it. Of course the Russians, in their precipitate and successful retreat, may have in view a handy line of defense on which they can turn and stop the tremendous German advance—along the line of the River Bug, for instance.

But unless the Russians take a sudden brace, they will be unable to stop the Teutonic avalanche, and the chances are that if Germany wants Warsaw it will get it.

Warsaw is in the line of fortified defenses which Russia, like the other mutually suspicious nations of Europe, has erected near its frontier. If Germany takes it, Germany will have opened a breach in this line of defense. Moreover, it will command most of Russian Poland, which will be a convenient thing for Germany when it comes to talking peace terms.

On the other hand, Russia's recent impotence has been due very largely to lack of supplies, and by this time that lack must be in the way of being overcome—albeit slowly. Besides, the greater Germany's advance, the farther it gets from its base of supplies and the more difficult its advance will become. Germany before now has swept close to Warsaw, and has been rolled back by Russian hordes.

Nevertheless, an insurance policy against the taking of Warsaw would be a distressingly poor investment.

Harry Thaw may not be insane, but he's an odd specimen if some of the things that turn up during his trial don't make him mad.

INVESTMENT VS. SPECULATION.

John M. Oskison, who writes a daily article on thrift for the Chicago News, contributes a parallel that should be informing and suggestive to those who have gone so far on the road of thrift that they have a little money to be put at work.

The first place to put savings at work is in the savings bank, where they will be earning interest while they are growing to the point where they can begin earning more.

When the pennies grow into dollars and the dollars into hundreds, it is time to begin thinking of developing the larger earning power of your savings.

The wisest thing is to discard completely any idea of turning your hundreds into thousands by a lucky speculation. That doesn't happen very often; and as a rule even those who do make a lucky strike by speculation lose it all and more by other speculations not so lucky. Counting these, it is true that there is more money to be made through savings bank interest than by speculation.

One way of developing the earning power of your savings is by investing them in a home, so as to become your own landlord. If you capitalize the rent you pay and build accordingly, that's a splendid way. If you build a home that would have to rent for more than you could now afford to pay, it's not a good way.

Sound, dividend-paying stocks offer another opening, fairly safe though stocks sometimes cease paying dividends.

Bonds and mortgages of course are the safest and surest; often the best paying in the long run.

But to Mr. Oskison's parallel. He points out that on the morning of the day the news of the Lusitania's sinking arrived, a certain list of twenty-five standard stocks (fifteen railroads and ten industrials) stood at an average of $85.59. Before the exchange closed for the day, this average had dropped to $81.33, and on Saturday the level was $79.23. About three weeks before the average had been $89.18. Now to those who had bought safe dividend-paying stocks, paying for them in full, this made no difference whatever. The holder of such stocks, bought at a price to net about six per cent—to ask for much more than that is to sacrifice safety and enter the realm of speculation—need not care what the stock market records in response to day-to-day alarms.

But to those who bought on margin, or bought to sell quickly at an advance, this one day's doings meant a loss of six dollars on every hundred invested.

A little while before that the Argentine republic placed a six per cent loan in this country. Buyers got these bonds at a price that made them yield 6.20 per cent—an extraordinarily good investment. Within a very short time these securities were selling at a price to net less than six per cent, so that the original buyers had the choice between selling at a profit and holding them for the high earnings they yield on the first investment.

After drawing this parallel, Mr. Oskison adds:

> Suppose, as an average owner of money, you had caught the fever of stock speculation and ordered your broker to buy stocks for you on the morning the Lusitania was sunk; suppose Saturday morning your broker told you that the news was driving prices down, and you decided to sell. Then you stood to lose six dollars on every hundred dollars you put into stocks. Thus in one day you would lose the amount paid in a year on investment in good bonds.
> Suppose, instead, you had asked a bond house to get one of those Argentine bonds. For one with a face value of a thousand dollars you would have paid $990. After you had owned it about three weeks its market value would have risen to, say, $1,005, and at the end of the year you would have collected sixty dollars interest.
> Buying the bonds, your original investment would be safe, and would be returned to you—or you could take your modest profit and reinvest.

Monkeys, says a New York Sun writer, are the most intelligent of all animals. At any rate, it will be conceded that you seldom hear of a monkey going fishing.

JUDGE NOT.

A man—or boy, girl or woman—has been judged guilty of crime, and has been sent to prison.

Is that the beginning and the end? Shall society neglect to go behind the evidence of guilt, or to follow the unfortunate beyond the prison doors?

Listen to the story of Jim Manners:

Jim Manners lived in a Chicago slum. His father was killed in an accident, and his crippled mother was compelled to rely on Jim's slender earnings. Jim, though but nine years old, did his part nobly for five or six years. Then, following his God-given bent for play and seeking companionship where he could find it, he got into bad associations and fell victim to them. At the age of fourteen he had gone to work as a teamster, and was earning nine to twelve dollars a week—enough to keep himself and his mother. He took all his earnings home to his mother. Then overwork and bad companions—the blame for which is largely due to the fact that no better place for recreation than the worst was provided for him—undermined his moral stamina. With others, he entered a house and stole some valuables. Jim Manners was a burglar and a thief.

He was convicted and sentenced to Pontiac reformatory for one to fourteen years.

Now all the ordinary citizen ordinarily sees in such an incident are the crime, the arrest, the conviction and the sentence. What went before, and what follows after, are sealed books. Yet all the socially important parts of the story are in those sealed books.

Thanks to certain noble individuals interested in prison aid, the criminal episode in Jim Manners's career turned out to be a blessing in disguise. When his father was living, Jim had gone to school for a short time. The school had a manual training department, and Jim had been passionately fond of cabinet-making—was on his way toward making that his trade. He took that up again in the reformatory.

In due course of time Jim was paroled to the Central Howard society, a splendid organization that during its brief history has helped more than twelve thousand prisoners. With a Central Howard man as next friend, Jim got a new job as teamster.

Then this ex-convict, only seventeen years of age, got his old crippled mother out of the Bridewell. For she, too, had fallen victim to the law. Jim's support removed, and herself incapable of working, she had chosen beggary rather than starvation, and had been sentenced to three months in jail—for the crime of being poor and helpless!

Jim went to the alderman of his ward, and the alderman and Jim went to the judge. Jim said all he wanted was a chance to work and support his mother. The judge discharged Jim's mother, and they are living comfortably and happily. Jim is earning from twelve to eighteen dollars a week. He is going to finish his cabinet making course in a night school.

"Bet yer life," says Jim, "I'll go straight from now on, because that's the only way."

You see, there is a good deal before and there may be a good deal after the part the public sees of a "criminal record." There are many Jims—and unhappily there are many who never get the lift Jim got.

When you set down as a criminal the man who has been convicted of crime, and let it go at that, what do you know about it? What do you know of the poverty, the overwork, the lack of proper play associations, the inevitability of bad associations, the ignorance, the temptations that may have preceded the crime? What do you know of the possibilities for reform and for a self-supporting, self-respecting future existence that may follow the conviction and sentence? And how do you know but that if your lot had fallen where Jim's lot fell, you, too, would have landed in prison?

Having saluted the flag and survived, no doubt Huerta is led to wonder why he didn't think of doing that a long time ago.

PEACE AND PREPAREDNESS.

There are two great delusions about war and peace.

The first, and greatest, is that ample preparedness for war is an assurance of peace. It is, as Europe had proved in the last year, rather an assurance of war.

The second is that an unarmed nation is secure against attack. That hasn't exactly been proved, but it needs no proof; and at any rate it isn't wise to put it to the proof.

Between these two delusions of the dogmatic militarist and the dogmatic pacifist there is a middle ground.

This middle ground suggests a policy of working wholeheartedly for peace through the only possible way to peace—an international agreement for peace solidified by an international organization with an army and navy, the only ones in the world, as its police force to enforce law and preserve world peace—while maintaining in the meantime the FRAMEWORK of adequate protection in case of war.

Those who are victims of the first delusion want the United States to build up the largest navy on earth and one of the largest armies. They are wrong and their policy is stupid and suicidal.

Those who are victims of the second delusion don't want us to have any army and navy at all; which is as though a man were to enter a lawless community of bullies and brigands without first providing himself with the means of protection. Their policy, too, is wrong; though not so wrong as the other.

The dream of world peace every day is growing less a dream and more a probable achievement of the not distant future. It is a dream to work for, to realize; and everybody should nurse it and work for its realization.

In the meantime, without engaging in the mad contest for armed supremacy that led to the present causeless and purposeless and fruitless war in Europe, this country should maintain a reasonably large navy and should organize the framework of an adequate army; and it should thoroughly modernize and equip both. In doing this, every possible effort should be put forth to prevent the propaganda for armament from breeding the militaristic spirit and from degenerating into a mad and stupid participation in the world contest to see what country can most heavily burden its taxpayers to create the largest armament.

In short, this country should face the future free from dogmatism, either the dogmatism of militarism or the dogmatism of total unpreparedness, and should shape its policy less on theory and more on the plain common sense which is the heritage of the American people.

July will make nobody seriously angry if it fails to come up to the June achievement as to rainfall.

Who Killed Them?

San Antonio Light: Monumental ignorance as to America and Americans is to be expected from most Europeans who have never visited this country, but it is not excusable that great governments, in important official writings, should spread reports about us like the following, which would be violently libelous if it were not so absurb.

This selection is from a volume entitled "The German War Book: Being the Usages of War on Land," issued by the great general staff of the German military establishment. This is the official manual of direction for officers.

In a chapter headed "The Means of Conducting War" appears the following paragraph relative to the killing of prisoners:

> That prisoners should only be killed in the event of extreme necessity, and that only the duty of self-preservation and the security of one's own state can justify a proceeding of this kind is today universally admitted. But that these considerations have not always been decisive is proved by the shooting of 2,000 Arabs at Jaffa in 1799 by Napoleon; of the prisoners in the rising of La Vendee; in the Carlist war; in Mexico; and the American war of secession, where it was generally a case of deliverance from burdensome supervision and the difficulties of maintenance; whereas peoples of a higher morality, such as the Boers in our own day, finding themselves in a similar position, have preferred to let their prisoners go.

It would be interesting if the great general staff of the German military establishment would issue a supplement to this chapter, giving us unposted Americans a little additional information regarding the practice of killing prisoners during our Civil war. Who did it? And when and where? And how has it happened that we never heard anything about it.

The Declining Years.

God grants us years wherein to choose one way
Of all that run to meet the western hills;
Who puts decision by, to idly play
Where shade is cool and sing the happy rills,
To roam with Love down evening's song-filled aisles,
To turn from plea of duty and of truth,
Shall wake as from a dream. . . . Across the miles.
The spring has fled with ne'er-returning youth,
And wistful Love forevermore is gone.
While from the hills the shadows westward creep
To night that breaks no more in earthly dawn
When morning's wings the wide sky-spaces sweep,
With burdens of all human joys and tears
Are fraught the moment of deciding years!

"Of course," replied Diogenes.

"Haven't you found one yet?"

The Same Old Singing Games of Bygone Days

Blanche Schaus in the St. Louis Times.

King William was King James's son,
And from a royal race he sprung;
Upon his breast he wore a star,
And he rode away to his country's war.

The voices of children were heard in the dusk, singing an old, old song. Mothers and fathers sitting on the porches sat up and listened, wondering if the soft air had made them dream of their childhood. Down the street they saw a circle of children, and they knew the end of the games they played in old school yards, barns and attics was not yet. Memory brought long forgotten scenes into their minds, and they lived again the old days as they heard the words of the second stanza:

Turn to the East, turn to the West,
And choose the one that you love best;
If she's not here to take your part,
Choose another with all your heart.

The boy in the circle shyly took the hand of a curly headed little girl and drew her into the center, where she stood with her eyes lowered, waiting for the next stanza:

Down on this carpet your must kneel,
As sure as the grass grows in the field.
Salute your love and kiss your sweet,
And now you rise upon your feet.

A swift struggle, a yell of triumph, and a little figure in short skirts ran to hide her blushes behind a friendly tree—and to be coaxed forth again to take her place in the ring.

From generation to generation the old singing games have been handed down. Our mothers sang them, and before them our grandmothers, and still we hear them—not everywhere, but in the older, quieter parts of the city where children gather to play after supper instead of going to the picture show.

Often the words are queerly changed from those of the rather rare written versions found in old song books, and in Carondelet the children sing a different version from that sung in North St. Louis around Hyde park. But still "London Bridge Is Falling Down," whether it is "quite merrily," as is sung by North St. Louis children, or as the song book says.

In "King William" some sing: "He wore a star upon his breast, and rode to the East and rode to the West," and in the third stanza, "Salute your bride and kiss her sweet."

Each neighborhood has its own way of singing the songs, and many are the disputes among the children as to which way is the right one.

Second in popularity to "King William," perhaps, is "Here Come Three Dukes A-riding." Three children, preferably boys, take hands and advance toward the remainder, who also form a line, stepping back and forth in time to the music. The children sing: "Here come three dukes a-riding, a-riding, a-riding, here come three dukes a-riding with a fancy, fancy, tay," or "a fancy, fancy tea," as they sing on the South side.

Then follows the statement of the dukes that it is their will to marry, whereupon the maidens unblushingly ask why they do not choose one of them, and the "dukes" sing, "You're all too black and dirty, dirty, dirty, you're all too black and dirty for a ransome, tansome tee."

"Little Sally Water," who sat in a saucer and cried for a nice young man, is another favorite. The boys like "The Farmer in the Dell," for it has a chorus that may be yelled with all the strength of their young lungs. "High-oh, Jerry-oh, the farmer in the dell," they sing and dance gayly about the farmer in the center.

"Old Dan Tucker" is always a favorite with the boys. In this game the children form couples and circle about a boy in the center, who is Dan Tucker. Dan circles the ladies, then there is a grand "right and left" around, with everybody trying to secure a partner before the song is ended. The one who finds himself without a partner when the music ceases is the next Dan Tucker. The last stanza is perhaps best remembered:

Old Dan Tucker was a fine old man:
He washed his face in a frying pan;
He combed his hair with a wagon wheel,
And died with a toothache in his heel.

"London Bridge" is a game that can be played for hours, for each one wants to have a turn at being the prisoner and naming the ransom. Remember the terror in your heart as you walked beneath the bridge fearing that the arms of the two players who formed the bridge would descend upon you? Sometimes it was a disappointment to escape a great many times before you were marched off to the tune of, "Off to prison you must go, you must go, you must go."

Then with the coming of night the games take a quieter turn and we hear:

Itskit, Itskit, a green and yellow basket;
I sent a letter to my love, and on the way I lost it, lost it.

The child with the "letter," a handkerchief, marches slowly around behind the children in the ring and when he sings "And on the way I lost it, lost it," drops the handkerchief and runs, pursued by the one who receives the "letter." The one who reaches the circle first wins and the other drops the handkerchief the next time.

The children are called to bed, and off they run, singing as they go, "And on the way I lost it, lost it, lost it." Their voices are lost in the distance, but the older folks dream on, not heeding their departure. They are back in the schoolyard beside the little red schoolhouse, or in Smith's barn, or up under the eaves in the attic while the rain beats down outside.

How much, Preventing God! how much I owe
To the defenses Thou hast round me set;
Example, custom, fear, occasion slow,—
These scorned bondmen were my parapet.
I dare not peep over this parapet
To gauge with glance the roaring gulf below,
The depths of sin to which I had descended,
Had not these me against myself defended.

Casting all your care upon Him; for He careth for you.—I Pet. v, 7.

What creed can be more to me than this; that God pities me; that God careth for me; and that to me, a wanderer from His presence and love, He hath sent forth His son "to bring me nigh to Him?" Nigh to Him! Shelter, protection, peace, joy, blessedness; all, and more than all that words can utter, is summed up in this. "I don't know," replied the man with the railway ticket. "If those clothes are worth what my wife paid for 'em it represented a small fortune. If they aren't worth any more than I think they are, about $7 would cover the entire amount."

Saturday Night Talk

By the Parson.

The Real Thing in Patriotism.

Strangely enough patriotism has often been held by thinking men to be a vice rather than a virtue. Dr. Johnson called it the last refuge of scoundrels. Tolstoi saw in it, because usually associated with wars and killing, the great obstacle to civilization. More modern writers have denounced it as a mere cloak beneath which avarice and bumptious pride take refuge.

Such criticism is understood when we realize how often jingoism and patriotism have been synonymous. It is patriotism—of a sort—that is at present drenching Europe in blood. Through the battle smoke it seems indeed a frightful thing. The willingness to ride rough shod over human bodies and human homes toward empire is horrible and not admirable. The eagerness to kill men simply because they belong to another nation is akin to plain savagery. When love of country means simply the use of siege guns and shrapnel on one's neighbor it is impossible to praise it.

Patriotism is a right love of one's country. A right love is anxious that the country stand for honor, justice, freedom. It is therefore exhibited not alone in the hour when flags are flying and the war drum throbs the call to arms. As Milton said to Cromwell, "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." It is "sweet and glorious to die for one's country" when the country needs that particular form of sacrifice, but it is equally sweet and glorious to live for one's country every day in the year. An honest alderman, a diligent teacher, a faithful clergyman, a devoted physician is, each one, showing a patriotism of quite as fine a sort as that of the soldier.

Patriotism needs careful definition by those of us who live under the Star Spangled Banner. We are among the biggest of nations, and, in these awful months of European havoc, we are rapidly becoming the richest one. There is power in our very location with great oceans east and west. There is power in our mines and forests and fields of waving grain. To elaborate on our national wealth is futile because the mind does not really grasp the significance of the figures. Such inflated talk is unwise also for another reason. In none of these things does true greatness consist. As Sidney Lanier said to Walt Whitman, "You can't make a republic out of muscles, brains or Rocky mountains. Republics are made of spirit."

Was there ever a time since Eden's dawning day when a right patriotism was more needed than now? We need regard for law in an age when disregard for it seems to characterize men and nations. We need honesty in an age when dishonesty is so often made to appear profitable. We need public spirit as over against the prosecution of selfish ends in higher and in low places. Patriots must have

Some sense of duty, something of a faith,
Some reverence for the laws ourselves have made,
Some patient force to change them when we will,
Some civic manhood firm against the crowd.

Such are the tasks to which the needs of the modern state summon the modern citizen. In an hour when thousands of the flower of the youth of Europe are loving country enough to die for her let us love America enough to live for her in personal rectitude and in civic righteousness.

James Russell Lowell once wrote to his friend, Charles Eliot Norton: "There is something magnificent in having a country to love." It is as true today as in days of '76 or '61, nor does that love need the pomp and circumstance of arms to keep it alive. As said our sires, so say we of Fatherland:

What were our lives without Thee,
And what our lives to win Thee,
We reck not what we give Thee,
We will not dare to doubt Thee,
But ask whatever else and we will dare.

It is a wonderful example of the rapidity with which purpose models the human countenance.

SCOOP THE CUB REPORTER — Gosh! But the Boss Is a Pessimist — By "HOP"

A DOWN-EAST CANDIDATE

By SAVOYARD

Washington, July 3.—(Special to The Herald.) — Except Daniel Webster, James G. Blaine and Thomas B. Reed, New England has not seriously presented a candidate for president since 1828. It is true that George F. Edmunds had a respectable following in two national conventions of his party, but his vote came from New Englanders who hated and feared Mr. Blaine. He never desired the distinction, but he detested the "Plumed Knight" and was willing to allow the use of his name to draw votes from "the man from Maine."

But in 1916 New England will present a candidate and go her length for him. It is a whimsicality of politics that Webster, Blaine and Reed all met opposition to their candidacy for president from their own section, and the anomaly will be emphasized if John W. Weeks shall secure the solid New England vote in the Republican national convention of 1916. If the party should accept Mr. Weeks he will be heralded as a "business man." He is said to be a millionaire, and though a sailor by profession, he made his pile as a broker and banker. It will be recalled that Senator Boies Penrose insists on a "business" ticket.

Since John Q. Adams, one of the two presidents from New England, was elected over Jackson and Crawford to the chief magistracy by the house of representatives, three Southerners and slaveholders have been elected president by the people—Jackson in 1828 and 1832, Polk in 1844, and Taylor in 1848. Andrew Johnson, another Southern man, succeeded to the presidency upon the death of Lincoln in 1865.

If the New England has not been without political power. Her six states, with a population only two-thirds that of New York, have twelve votes in the Federal senate, and one of her most profitable industries is the production of principles, such as they are, for the Republican party. New England, or rather Massachusetts, has assumed to do the thinking for the American people. One of the most prosperous shams that this world ever saw is the pretension of New England that she created the American Union and is its mind and conscience.

Even as intellectual and cultivated a man as the late Goldwin Smith made the foolish remark that the North American colonies were founded by a company of religious peasants—meaning the Pilgrims and Puritans who located in Massachusetts—and he assumes that they were all the colonies instead of a small part. Charles Dickens thought the sun in our hemisphere rose and set in Boston, and that is the idea gained of our republic by every distinguished man of letters from abroad—except Thackeray.

New England is to blame for this. She set about writing American history and biography. The world as a general proposition takes a man at his own estimate of himself, and that is why old England and the rest of Europe never heard of Virginia and Virginians, but accepted the fallacy that New England is America. New England writers gave the Puritans and their descendants credit for everything admirable on this side the Atlantic ocean. The fact is that New England played a comparatively small part in the making of our government, that is mainly the fruit of the statecraft of Virginia. The Dutch of New York, the Scotch-Irish of Pennsylvania and the Carolinas are all negligible quantities if we are to believe the story of our country that New England has told.

The Hon. Champ Clark has been crying out against this thing, and let us hope that he will write a book to help set the world straight on the subject. It has been suggested that we would have quite a different opinion of Julius Cæsar's exploits in Gaul if Vercingetorix had given his version of the campaign, and a history of the Punic wars written by a Carthaginian scholar very likely would give us some novel pointers about Hannibal and Scipio. Had Edgar Allen Poe lived in New England, Boston would remind us daily that he was our first man of letters. Indeed, it is claimed that he was born in Boston while his parents were there for a stay of a week's duration, though Baltimore denies that.

As I said, New England is not to blame for blowing her own trumpet. Rather she is to be commended and the South blamed for not asserting herself in the field of letters. The two men in our political history whom the world puts at the head of American citizenship were Southern men with not a drop of New England blood in their veins—one a Virginia aristocrat named George Washington and the other a Kentucky peasant named Abraham Lincoln. Those two men made more history than any other two Americans, and they would have done so had New England never cogitated an idea.

Mr. Weeks is pretty nearly an avowed candidate for president. Heretofore he has been classed as a standpat reactionary, but he announces that the platform must be "progressive Republican." What is that? Penrose says he is for progress; but Penrose and La Follette could never agree about what "progress" is. Why, there is not a man in public life who is not for "progress." Is a repeal of the income tax progress? Is a substitution of Payne-Aldrich tariff taxes for Underwood-Simmons tariff taxes "progress"?

These be impertinent questions that Mr. Weeks will have to answer if he is nominated and it behooves him to cogitate over them meanwhile.

What a broth it will be when standpattery and "progress" meet and mix in the Republican platform of 1916?

AUCTION BRIDGE

Article No. 3.

Playing to the Score and to Personalities.

As previously stated, the object of the bidding is to arrive at the best declaration the two hands admit of. The tabulation of a large number of hands, has established among other things, the fact that only about 5 per cent of hands go game by reason of having a partial score, and as partial score is of such small value, the bidding should always have in view the making of game where that is possible, and failing that to drive your adversaries to an impossible declaration. With very weak hands neither is possible, and bidding such hands will result in penalties, with no possibility of any gain. An original declaration should never be made without the requisite minimum strength, four probable tricks for a suit bid, and three for a no trump declaration. It is equally important that a hand should always be bid if it has the requisite strength. The timid bidder is always at a disadvantage, and the liberal bidder, while he will be penalized more, will if he uses good judgment, win the most rubbers. With the proper holding, an aggressive policy with the game as the objective should always be pursued. Such a policy will often result in the aggressive player securing the bid when his adversaries could have gone game. As a general rule, with a love score diamonds or clubs should not be bid if the hand admits of a better declaration. A doubtful no trump is much better. A no trump declaration even on a very light hand has a good many things to recommend it, but where you have the option, a good heart or royal declaration is in the great majority of cases a better and safer make. It is usually easier to make four odd tricks at hearts or royals, than three at no trump. There is no danger of your adversaries establishing and making a long suit, and there is the possibility of ruffing in the weak hand, or of establishing a cross ruff.

There is of course no way of telling in advance just how many tricks any two hands will take. This must be judged by the cards you hold, and the information given by the bidding. For successful play it is imperative that you bid your hands as high as good judgment warrants, and sometimes a little higher. The player who waits for invincible hands and "cinches" will not begin to win the rubbers he is entitled to. On the other hand the reckless and erratic bidder deprives his partner and invites useless penalties. The desirable mean, which all players should strive for, is to be conservative when the game is not in danger, but daring at the proper time; not to give your adversaries any advantage either through under bidding or over bidding; risk reasonable penalties when the score demands it, but avoid them when there is little to be gained. Do not risk a penalty, unless there is a reasonable chance of going game, or unless you think your adversaries will go game, and you are willing to take a penalty to prevent them. If your adversaries are bidding clubs or diamonds, and you are reasonably sure you can take three tricks, they cannot go game, and unless you can go game on your make, it would be foolish to take a chance of a penalty. If your adversaries are bidding hearts or royals, and you are reasonably sure of three tricks on their make, it is very often good play to try and drive them to four odd. This is of course supposing that you are not over bidding your hand more than one or two tricks. When playing against liberal or reckless bidders, especially on the rubber game, you can very often force them to an impossible contract, with very little risk to yourself, but with conservative players, you have to be careful. With conservative or timid bidders, there is very little chance to drive them to impossible contracts. All you do by over bidding your hand, is to penalize yourself. Your advantage against such players if you bid to the limit of safety, and especially if you can get your bid in first, is that they will often let you buy, when they could go game, or force you to an impossible contract. To win all the rubbers the cards you hold entitle you to, you must at times take chances and accept penalties. The ultra conservative player will not win many rubbers. It is the player who combines correct bidding, good judgment, and daring who will be the most successful, and it is these possibilities for outplaying your adversaries, and very often winning with inferior cards that makes auction so fascinating to the good player.

Aside from the personalities of the players, good judgment must be based on correct bidding and in our next article we will go into this somewhat in detail.

IMPROVING THE LAWN

Eradication of Weeds.

Washington, July 3.—While weed enemies of the lawn are troublesome throughout the growing season, they are most particularly so from the latter part of July until frost. During this period crab-grass is by far the worst weed present, says the U. S. department of agriculture's lawn specialists. There is no really satisfactory method of checking its growth, and the only treatment to be recommended is to cut or pull the plants before they have formed large mats. This is a very tedious and expensive practice, but where a good lawn is involved the results justify the expense. Rational fertilizing and careful watering sprays or treatments have proven to be of very little assistance. Much difficulty is experienced in cutting crab-grass with the ordinary mower on account of its semiprostrate character. This difficulty can be overcome to a certain extent if a rake is used in conjunction with the mower. By means of the rake the branches of the grass may be lifted so that they can be clipped reasonably close. It is almost impossible, however, to cut crab-grass sufficiently close to prevent the formation of seed.

There are many other weeds that are troublesome in the lawn not only in the spring but also in the summer and autumn. Among the most important once are dandelion, plantain, chickweed, oxeye daisy and yarrow. While chemical sprays are more effective in the eradication of these weeds than in the case of crab-grass, the best method of preventing their development is to remove them with a spud or similar implement.

Top Dressing.

The weed problem can perhaps best be solved by making the conditions as favorable as possible for the lawn grasses and to maintain a strict watch at all times to check the growth of the troublesome weeds at the beginning. At the end of the growing season before the severe weather of winter arrives the lawn should be given a good top dressing of well-rotted barnyard manure. If the manure is not well rotted, it is likely to introduce an abundance of weed seeds, which will ultimately cause considerable trouble. Top-dressing not only adds fertility to the soil, but it gives the grass protection during the severe weather of winter and the freezing and thawing of early spring.

Farmers' bulletin 494 on lawn soils and lawns may be procured on application to the secretary of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

A NATION OF GOOD NEIGHBORS

How Efficiently the Dutch Have Cared for Refugee Belgians.

By MARY CHAMBERLAIN.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

We Americans are justly proud of feeding Belgium. But it was with pride tempered with humility that I came away from the concentration camps which little Holland has built for her suffering neighbors from Belgium. We are a great, prosperous nation contributing a tiny quota of our wealth to relief. But here is a pigmy country, herself part paralyzed by the nearness of war, suddenly burdened with the care of more than half a million refugees and 35,000 interned soldiers. Imagine, for instance, the population of our own state of Illinois—almost the same as that of Holland—suddenly increased 10 per cent by people without money or homes. The cost has been so great that the Dutch government has had to issue bonds to handle it.

Children Cowed With Fear.

They were like driven beasts, the Dutch tell you, dazed and numb with grief and terror. "Most touching of all were the children," said the superintendent of an orphan asylum in Amsterdam, who has had more than 30,000 stray Belgian children under her charge. "They cowed when you looked at them, like dogs that had been lashed and kicked."

Private homes were thrown open and local committees, with headquarters at Amsterdam, were formed to raise funds and collect clothing. It soon become evident, however, that private resources could not meet such a demand, and the Dutch government itself has shouldered the greater part of the burden by creating large concentration camps under government control.

Although 400,000 refugees have joined relatives in England or gone back to Belgium, fully 160,000 are left in the camps—the poorer classes who are still a complete charge on Dutch generosity.

A Model Refugee Camp.

The refugee camp at Ede is counted the best. Ede is lucky in its surrounding of rolling sandy country, in having new, clean barracks built purposely for the refugees, in having as director in charge Maj. J. B. Plas, an ex-officer in the Dutch army.

Like our Klondike town, Ede sprang up in a night. But it was hard to imagine this as we surveyed the fifty or more buildings, the complete electric lighting system, the central machinery plant, and the well-drained and graded grounds. There are four distinct villages, each having its own hospital, school, communal kitchen, dining hall, laundry, etc. At the central clothing station in the camps, the clothes provisioned by the commission for relief in Belgium are stocked and given out to needy applicants.

The detail of the camp is perfect—wire waste baskets stand along the walks, tuberculosis warning signs are posted in the schools, fire-extinguishers are placed on the buildings, sanitary fountains bubble and a miniature freight railway runs from one "village" to another. Everything is scrubbed clean with Dutch thoroughness, until it is like an advertisement for spotless town.

Most wonderful of all, however, is the spirit of the camp. From the minute we were saluted at the gates by Belgian boy scouts who offered any assistance, till an hour later when we came to the end of our walk and found a group of Belgian carpenters busy with portable houses, I was struck by the usefulness and cheerfulness of the 6,000 campers. The men were laying out garden lots or completing the drainage system of the camp; the women were feeding clothes to well-guarded mangles in the up-to-date laundry, sewing under supervision in a Rockefeller sewing class, or peeling potatoes in a party of 100 or more in a big kitchen shed.

There are also tailoring shops for the men, plenty of carpentry work, and Maj. Plas is establishing a shoemaking shop after having trained two men for overseers in Dutch factories. No work is compulsory except personal tasks such as caring for rooms, washing clothes, etc., but it is eagerly seized both for the interest it brings and for the guilden and a half a week ($0 cents in American money) which the Dutch government pays for such labor.

"They don't kill themselves working," said Maj. Plas, pointing out a man leaning on a shovel, "but it improves the morals and health of the place."

As for the children, we saw them running errands, playing games and waiting for shower baths in the well-equipped bath house.

Both Work and Play.

When the inhabitants of the camp are not at work there is plenty of play. There is a theater where dramas and entertainments are given (the camp boasts a band and a chorus), a library stocked with Flemish and French books, and cafes for both men and women where soft drinks and beer are sold. Children are not permitted to enter the cafes unless accompanied by an adult. For those who wish to spend their time more profitably, there are night classes for adults in the schools. Finally, there is a chapel with a pretty altar and a niche for the Virgin—a sanctuary erected by the Protestant Dutch for their Catholic neighbors.

Leaving Ede, I felt not so much sympathy for the refugees as admiration for those sturdy Hollanders who have planned and created this orderly, self-sufficient town. And I wondered if these people, so safe and well cared for in their temporary communities, would ever be willing to return to devastated Belgium for the long and trying process of rebuilding a wrecked country. At this point I recalled the state of the Rev. John A. Van Schaick, Jr., pastor of the Universalist church in Washington, D. C. Dr. Van Schaick has charge of the central office at Rotterdam of the Rockefeller Foundation War Relief commission, whose function is to distribute clothing sent from all parts of the world both to the destitute Belgians in Belgium and to those in the Dutch camps.

"This problem of caring for the Belgians is more than one of relief," Dr. Van Schaick said to me earnestly. "First of all we must make them feel that the relief is temporary. We must make them understand that their home is in Belgium, that every effort will be made when the war is over to send them back to their native country and to discourage their entering Dutch industry, or settling on Dutch soil. It is a problem of how to care for them adequately, but not to care too well."

BARBED WIRE MELTED WITH BURNING FLUIDS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Warsaw, June 10.—The use of burning fluids by the Germans on this front is apparently restricted to the purpose of melting down barb-wire entanglements, for which this method is efficacious.

The equipment consists of a metal cylinder filled with a mixture of benzine and kerosene at a pressure of seventy-five pounds to the inch. A turn of the handle liberates a jet of burning fluid fifteen feet in length, which fuses a path through the entanglements cutting down all wire obstruction like a scythe.

LAYING IN PRIVATE STOCKS OF LIQUORS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, June 15.—The new drink restrictions seem to have caused people to lay in private stocks instead of really decreasing the sale of beers, wines and liquors. To get around the early closing hours, people buy less in the saloon and more bottled goods. While the business of the saloon has fallen, the bottled goods merchant never did so well. Strict watch is kept on the sale of alcohol by the druggists, who have to keep a stock book open for the inspection of visiting revenue officers.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Live Nuisance

A LITTLE boy in school had a "slight cold" for about a week. His brother then came down with a sore throat, which, the doctor discovered on taking a culture, was diphtheria. Next day another little boy developed diphtheria. He sat next Little Boy Number One, and they exchanged intimate little things like pencils, gum and—all unbeknownst—flecks of saliva—you know how all-inclusive little shavers are when they sneeze.

Well, in the course of a few days there was quite a lot of little ones down with diphtheria. Of course this alarmed the school authorities. They decided that condign action was due the public, so they acted—all on their own initiative, you understand, and not at the behest of doctor or health officer. This is what they did: they fumigated the schoolroom. Why? Heaven only knows why. The authorities fumigated—burned, some evil smelling material there in the room one night. Meanwhile—

Persons, Not Things, Carry Germs.

Of course everybody knows by this time that diphtheria is an infectious disease and that sometimes it is carried by persons who do not show any signs of illness themselves. Supposing Little Boy Number One had a culture taken at the start of the epidemic—and we don't mind admitting he had one taken and it showed diphtheria germs in his nose, although he wasn't sick-abed—then, in that case the school authorities were wasting their time and money fumigating the school room, because while they were performing that ancient and harmless rite the carrier was asleep in his little bed at home, growing a lot of nice young diphtheria germs for the morrow's distribution.

There are two kinds of nuisances in the public health sense—the dead ones and the live ones—but we venture to say the live ones make all the work for the doctors, and the dead ones do little more than precipitate neighborhood brawls.

Questions and Answers.

HOORAY! A BONA FIDE PRESCRIPTION.

Now, mind, warns Elsie, I've already "seen my doctor," and he says he can't help me. I have chronic nasal catarrh. The only troubles is that my head is stopped up all the time. What would you suggest?

ANSWER—Mix the following ingredients, which can be purchased at any drug store (as the business is commonly conducted) and use as directed:

Plain black ink.....1 minnim

Fine steel, wrought into a pen.

One plain envelope. Two plain stamps. Dip pen in ink and scrawl your name and address on envelope. Enclose in another envelope addressed to the gifted author. Plaster an ordinary unused two-cent stamp on each envelope, and watch results.

A WEE PATCH OF RINGWORM.

I have a patch of ringworm the size of a nickel. Have tried various things prescribed by doctors and suggested by friends, but with no results. Please suggest something.

ANSWER—Rub in a bit of ointment made of a dram of iodine crystals in an ounce of goose fat. Rub it in daily for three weeks, and if not cured, it isn't ringworm.

TENNESSEE DOCTOR TAKES US TO TASK.

I heartily commend the general ideas you are promulgating in Health Talks, but I beg to state that I am no charlatan, and still I believe I can break up typhoid fever. I also think I can short pneumonia.—Tennessee Practitioner.

ANSWER—Well, brother, your faith is inspiring, and maybe well-founded. Tell us how. We will herald your discovery far and wide for the good of humanity.

GROWING FAT ON SIMPLE FACTS.

Dear doctor, writes William, I want to thank you for the great help I found in your letter. I followed out the suggestions you gave me, and I am glad to say I have gained about 12 pounds in as many weeks. I am mighty grateful for this, because I feel so much better since I brought my weight to normal.

ANSWER—Worth the 2 cents, anyway.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald. All questions will be answered, whether they come from people residing in Duluth or outside, provided they comply with the rules here stated.

HOW TO MAKE THE FOURTH SIGNIFICANT

By SIDNEY L. GULICK,

Representative on International Relations of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

The Fourth of July is the nation's birthday. How may we celebrate it more fittingly than by making it also the citizen's birthday? My proposal given in full in the "American Japanese Problem" is this: First,

Let the Fourth of July be the one day in the year on which to give citizenship to aliens. Also,

Let all American-born young men (and also young women in states that have established woman's suffrage) be formally admitted to citizenship on the Fourth nearest to their twenty-first birthday. Let them also take the oath of allegiance to the Stars and Stripes. Let each community provide a splendid and solemn and patriotic ceremony with processions, banners, bands, badges and dignified by welcome orations and responses.

Already in some cities welcome is formally extended to aliens who have become citizens during the year. Splendid, but not enough! My proposal is this: Not only let aliens who have taken out their "final" naturalization papers, but also let all young men, even native-born Americans, before they cast their first ballot, be formally received into the rights, privileges and responsibilities of citizenship. And let this initiation ceremony be held on the great birthday of the nation, the Fourth of July.

That this "citizens' birthday" may attain its best results, I make another proposal. Every new citizen should qualify for his citizenship.

1. Let our national commissioner of education be requested to prepare three text-books to be used by all applicants for citizenship throughout the country; one on the history of the American people, the second on the ideals of democracy, the third on methods of government, local, state and national. Each book should be not larger than 100 pages and suited in style and treatment for young people in their later teens.

2. Let the state or county school superintendents provide for the holding of examinations at suitable times during the months of April and May for all who wish to participate in the citizens' birthday ceremony. The examinations should be free, the expense being met by appropriations by state legislatures.

3. Let only those aliens and those young men who have passed these examinations and received certificates be allowed to take part in the citizens' birthday ceremony.

Until congress passes a law requiring the passing of such examinations as a condition for the exercise of suffrage rights, no American-born young man could be compelled to take the examinations; but popular opinion should be developed that would sweep all young men into the patriotic movement. Those who decline to take the examinations should be refused a part in the patriotic ceremony and should be made to feel the moral disapprobation of the community.

By such a method as this, not only would the Fourth of July be made significant, but also highly valuable for the promotion of intelligent, responsible and patriotic citizens thoroughly loyal to the Stars and Stripes and the high ideals for which they stand.

KRUPPS REPAIRING GUNS AT ST. QUENTIN

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Paris, June 15.—St. Quentin, supposed to be the general headquarters of German armies operating in France and Belgium, is the concentration point for damaged guns and rolling stock. The Krupps have installed in a motor-car works there a plant for the repair of cannon, machine guns, automobiles, gun carriages, etc. German workmen were imported from Essen to equip the plant. Barbed wire is also prepared for use and distribution from there.

The St. Quentin works turns out an iron picket in the form of a corkscrew to replace the wooden pickets; they are thus able to stretch their barbed wire defenses without revealing their work to the enemy by the noise of driving pickets into the ground. The Germans have also installed a chemical works at St. Quentin.

Alive to Opportunity

A man who expects to better his condition must be keenly alive to opportunities as they present themselves.

The time when a man can drift along and still make progress has passed.

To get in a "rut" and stay there, shows lack of ambition, grit and perseverance.

Opportunities are coming up every day only to be passed by for want of ready money.

It therefore follows, that the man "alive to opportunity," banks something out of every pay against the time when "ready money" will enable him to take advantage of it and profit accordingly.

DE PALMA AND OLDFIELD WILL SEEK RESTA'S CROWN

Orin Kellogg, Twin City motor speedway director, yesterday mailed a check for $1,000 to the American Automobile association in payment for the sanction granted by that body to the speedway company for a 500-mile race at the new course on Sept. 4. This sanction gives the Twin City speedway permission to conduct the opening race under the auspices of the national organization and permits any registered driver to enter the event to contest for the $50,000 purse.

Entry blanks for the event will be issued at once and will be mailed to all registered drivers in the United States. As soon as an entry is filed the standing of the entrant will be investigated and if he is in good repute with the American Automobile association he will be permitted to compete.

Dalph De Palma, Barney Oldfield and Poporato have already signified their intention of competing against Resta, who also stated that he would file an entry. Resta broke the world's record at Chicago recently by averaging 97.54 miles an hour and this was without the competition of Oldfield and De Palma. When this pair get on the trail of the Chicago winner it is apparent that all speed records will again fall.

WILL PRODUCE NEW 12-CYLINDER NATIONAL

Steam Effect Has Been Obtained in a Gasoline Motor.

An announcement has been made that the National factory at Indianapolis would produce 12-cylinder cars this year. Thousands of inquiries are being received by the National company and George M. Dickson, general manager of the National company, has explained. He says that steam pushes; gasoline explodes. Herein has lain the difference between the steam engine and the gasoline motor. It has long been the ambition of automobile makers to find a way to make gasoline push. They have sought for a power that would flow instead of throb; a power that might be controlled with the utmost flexibility; a power that would not rack the machinery by which it was created. Steam engines last for twenty years, but most gasoline motors shake to pieces in five.

The National highway "12" has cylinders which operate on one crankshaft, and there is a continuous overlapping of impulses—so that at last a steam effect has been attained in a gasoline motor. At the first touch of the throttle the car responds powerfully. Its getaway is strong and immediate. The driver feels instantly that he has a primal force at his command. Twelve-cylinder cars seldom need to be thrown out of high gear. The lower ratios are used only in extreme cases, such as starting on an incline, or pulling out of deep mire.

NEW BUICK MODEL HAS MANY VIRTUES

All Latest Improvements Seen in Cars for 1916.

M. W. Turner, local Buick agent, in speaking of the new model yesterday, said that from the standpoint of utility the 1916 Buick presents a great advance over any other model and to realize how skillfully Buick engineers and designers have wrought in this direction the new car must be seen.

The radiator is of the cellular or "honeycomb" type. The top is of the one-man type. On the instrument board are but four control buttons, as against five last year, in addition there is in ammeter which tells the driver at a glance whether his battery is charging or discharging.

There are many other desirable changes which are appreciated best by the man who owns or drives a car. In fenders, seating arrangements, headlights, windshield and, in fact, in every place where improvement could be made, this has been done. The result is not only a powerful car at a price that is startlingly low, but as well a car of finish and appearance that gets it attention wherever it goes. So far as power is concerned, this is assured in plenty. The valve-in-the head motor continues in the Buick.

CHALMERS MAN PROMOTED.

C. Snyder Made Superintendent of Manufacturing.

The Chalmers Motor company has announced the promotion of C. Snyder to the position of superintendent of manufacturing.

Mr. Snyder has been connected with the Chalmers company for six years, and associated with Hugh Chalmers for fourteen years. Previous to his coming to Detroit, Mr. Snyder was efficiency man for the National Cash Register company of Dayton, Ohio. His work with the Chalmers Motor company before his new appointment was along efficiency lines.

In his new capacity, Mr. Snyder will have complete charge of the manufacture of all parts from the rough stock to the finished car.

FADS AND FANCIES OFFERED AUTOISTS

The new running-board trunk has at one end a commodious hat box and at the other a deep till. It is of automobile leather, chintz lined, with a gathered shirtwaist pocket in the cover. It is dustproof.

The suitcase luncheon outfit has a new fancy in a table which goes with it. When set up it stands eighteen inches from the ground, and may be set for four persons. The case is deep, but not too heavy to be carried with comfort if one wishes to seek a luncheon spot back from the road.

A robe rail bottle holder requires but little space and carries three pint bottles.

A new ice chest hamper has the ice chamber in the center, with an outside faucet to draw off the water. On one side of the chamber a dozen bottles may be stored, while food is carried on the other. The fittings are in the cover.

The fender trunk has been brought to perfection this season. It carries two suitcases and has a space underneath for extra wraps. Its chief recommendation is the small space it occupies, leaving both doors free.

Corduroy military capes, fur-lined, with high Cossack collars, are smart extra wraps. They measure more than four yards around the bottom.

Rubber water carriers are meeting with favor. They fold flat when not in use and take up very little room in the tool kit.

MOTOMETER POPULAR WITH SPEED KINGS

Thermometer Great Aid in Keeping Tab on Car's Temperature.

"It is a significant fact that twelve out of the twenty-two cars in the recent Indianapolis speedway races were equipped with motometers," states M. W. Turner, local distributor for the Haynes light six.

"The motometer has been adopted as standard equipment on the Haynes cars because of its great value as a check on the memory of the driver.

"This device is nothing more or less than a thermometer which is inserted in the radiator cap. It is carefully graduated and is mounted in such a way as to be easily read from the driver's seat.

"This thermometer will quickly show any tendency of the motor to overheat, due to the lack of lubrication, to a stoppage of the water circulation or to any cause whatsoever.

"The driver always is fore-warned and the irregularity may be adjusted.

"It is said that this device is so sensitive that the difference in the temperature of the motor when a good or a bad oil is used may be readily detected.

"The motometer is also very useful in winter as the danger of approaching a freezing temperature would be noticed."

Gala Day for Employes.

Saturday, July 17, will be gala day for some 9,000 employes of Dodge Brothers, the big Detroit motor car manufacturers. On that date, three large excursion steamers will carry probably the largest crowd of the season to Tashmoo park, on the St. Clair river, where a big athletic meet and amusement program will be staged.

Awarded Grand Prize at the Panama Exposition.

Lates advices indicate that the Packard awards at the Panama-Pacific exposition are much more significant than was indicated by the first announcement.

The grand prize, which was given to no other automobile company, was awarded by the superior jury for quality of material and workmanship, ingenuity and skill in design and construction, the magnitude of the business represented and the length of time the exhibitor has been engaged in manufacturing.

In addition to the grand prize, the Packard was awarded the first of the three medals of honor. Other exhibitors were the recipients of fifteen gold medals, thirteen silver medals, nine bronze medals and two certificates of honorable mention.

COMPANY IN FIRST RANK.

Noted Capitalists Will Push Monarch in Detroit.

Within a week R. C. Hupp, the veteran car builder, will announce the complete personnel of the Monarch Motor Car company board of directors. Many prominent capitalists of the East have become interested in the Monarch company recently, and preparations are being made for manufacturing on a large scale in Detroit with ample capital to place this company in the front ranks of manufacturing and with a market already found large for both the eight-cylinder Monarch and also the six-cylinder model.

ABLE MAN FOR CHALMERS.

The Chalmers Motor company has announced the appointment of H. W. Miller, formerly of the Studebaker, Maxwell and Lozier companies, to the office of assistant to the sales manager.

Miller brings to the Chalmers company a wide experience in automobile sales work. His association with Paul Smith covers a period of five years during which time he has had direct charge of the sales office work with the foregoing companies.

Mr. Miller comes originally from Michigan City, Ill. His first work was in the furniture business of Michigan City and Chicago. His introduction to the automobile industry was made with his connection with the Studebaker corporation in South Bend, Ind., after which he came to the De-

MAXWELL MAN CHAMPION

Leads World With 500,000 Miles at the Wheel.

Ray F. McNamara of the engineering staff of the Maxwell Motor company holds, without a doubt, the mileage record of automobile travel. He is the picture of health and in his 500,000 miles of automobile travel he has crossed the continent nine times in a motor car, visited every state in the Union several times, and was the pilot of the ocean to ocean tour in 1913. He is materially increasing his mileage this year by the experimenting which he is doing with the Maxwell car on the Pacific coast and in the desert regions of the far West.

—a Fifty H.P. 7-passenger SIX at..... $1050
(Motor—3⅞" bore, 5" stroke)

This year the Studebaker announcement is more significant than ever before. It demonstrates more conclusively than ever Studebaker's leadership in the industry. For once again, Studebaker is announcing new cars at prices that completely recast all standards of value in the automobile industry. And never before has a dollar bought so much as it buys in these new Studebakers. They are the best cars in every detail that Studebaker ever built.

But while the prices are remarkably low, Studebaker has made no effort to manufacture a small, low price car, to compete purely on a price basis.

THE PRICES ARE LOW SOLELY:

1—Because of largely increased volume of production;
2—Unrivaled manufacturing resources;
3—The Studebaker policy of manufacturing our cars complete in our own factories and thus eliminating partsmakers' profits;
4—The greatly increased efficiency resulting from 4 years study and concentration on the manufacture of two chassis;
5—The high percentage of interchangeability of parts in the two chassis.

And Studebaker is merely passing along to buyers of the new cars the FULL benefits of these notable economies. You may question in your own mind the quality of these cars, considering the remarkable reductions in price when compared with our last year's models.

But we simply invite you to make any comparisons you like with last year's cars or with this year's models of other makers to see what resources and manufacturing experience such as Studebaker has at its command can accomplish.

A whole Book of Specifications couldn't begin to convey the impression that your first glimpse of the cars will give—you must see the cars to appreciate them.

troit factory entering the sales department then in charge of Paul Smith.

While with the Lozier company Miller had full charge of the service department, in conjunction with his sales work. He has a wide dealer acquaintanceship throughout the country gained during his five years' experience in the motor car world. His many friends will be glad to know of his new affiliation.

DETACHABLE TOPS IN GREAT DEMAND

Rainy Spring Forces Owners to Realize Their Value.

"Most of those who have bought KisselKars without a detachable top, realize that they made a mistake," says J. T. Peacha, Jr., local agent.

"In a greater part of the country there has been but little warm weather this spring, and driving in an open car has consequently been rather uncomfortable. Therefore the all-year car is more than ever a topic of conversation among tourists. This car, readily converted without expert assistance and showing no visible signs of a makeshift, is just what Kissel claims for it—namely the most practical advance in body design in the history of the automobile industry."

CANADA WILL HAVE FEDERAL HIGHWAY

Project Under Way to Build Second "Lincoln Highway."

Winnipeg, Canada, July 3.—Central-Western Canada will have a federal highway, modeled after the great American Lincoln highway, if the project being urged by the board of control here is carried out.

This project contemplates the construction of a concrete highway from Winnipeg to Calgary, to go through the more thickly settled territory tapped by the Canadian Pacific railroad.

The thousand miles of highway through the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and half way into Alberta will be financed by the municipalities through which the roadway would pass. Special appropriations also will be sought from the provincial governments. The project has been received with the greatest enthusiasm in a number of the larger cities along the proposed route.

It has been pointed out by the promoters of the highway plan that the land values of the prairie provinces would be greatly enhanced by the building of a permanent concrete highway, such as the Lincoln highway, which has had such a wonderful effect upon the general road building in the United States.

ADVERTISING HELPS OVERLAND BUYERS

Causes Enormous Sales, Thus Aiding in Lowering Prices.

The Overland is frequently referred to as the most advertised of all motor cars. This extensive publicity is declared by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, to be the principal reason why the Overland can be sold at a price which would mean a loss on every car to the majority of manufacturers.

Mr. Willys points out how the widespread advertising done by his company has made it possible to market the new Overland Model 83 for so low a price as $750.

"I recently overheard a remark during a conversation in the smoker of a Pullman," he said, "indicating that the talker believed Overland advertising must cost about $200 per car. This, of course, is preposterous. Last year our advertising cost per car was a little less than 2½ per cent; this year it will be a trifle less; next year materially less—due to greatly increased production.

"The quantity of our production spreads all overhead so that the item per car is so small that the buyer pays for but little more than the actual material and labor plus a reasonable profit which, also because of quantity, is small per car."

MILEAGE RECORD SELLS MANY HUDSONS

Statements From Owners Cited By Local Agent.

"Hudson salesmen the world over are telling their prospects the proof of the Hudson six-40 supremacy lies in the record of 50,000,000 miles traversed by the 15,000 Hudsons in use," says Jud G. Kleyn of the Kleyn Auto company, local Hudson dealers.

"That this is a valuable sales argument is proved by letters frequently received by the Hudson Motor Car company from owners of older Hudson models, stating the wonderful mileage they have secured and the economical upkeep expense of these cars. One of the most recently received of these letters, from G. A. Saunders of Skelton, Va., speaks for itself:

"'I am yet running my Hudson, model '20.' I have gotten 100,000 miles and she will now have to go to the shop for the first time. I have the same spark plugs in it that came in it, and the engine has never been taken down. You have furnished me with all of the repairs that have been put on it and it moves as smoothly and nicely now as any new car.

"'However, I have several parts that are now worn, and I want them shipped to me by parcel post, C. O. D., at once. These are the parts needed: Rear axle propeller shaft front bearing cage, 50 cents; front wheel outer bearing assembly for both right and left wheels, with balls complete, $1.50. Total, $2.'"

COLE COMPANY TO MAKE FUNERAL CAR

Heavy Demand Shown for Eight-Cylinder Chassis.

Announcement has just been made by the Cole Motor Car company that it will build an 8-cylinder funeral car chassis. C. P. Henderson, general sales manager, asserts that since furnishing a few 8-cylinder chassis for this purpose a demand has sprung up which necessitates preparation for a regular production.

The funeral chassis is identical with the regular 8-cylinder chassis with the exception of a longer wheel base. The new car will be 146 inches from front to rear hub cap. The length of the present pleasure car chassis is 126 inches.

The Cole 8-cylinder motor develops more than enough power from the big car which is being constructed. The ability of the motor to run the car at very low speed in high gear eliminates all gear shifting and makes it the logical car for the purpose, according to those who already have used the Cole eight funeral car. They further assert that this ability of the 8-cylinder motor to make low speed in high gear has eliminated the last argument against the motor-driven funeral car.

FRA'S LAST BOOK ON 'CHARACTER AND CARS'

New Booklet Written Just Before Taking Passage on Lusitania.

Practically the last writing done by Elbert Hubbard before his death was a little booklet called "Character and Cars," an appreciation of Chalmers quality. The story is done in the Fra's inimitable style. He pronounced it one of the best pieces of work that ever came off the Roycroft press.

Shortly before engaging passage on the doomed Lusitania, the famous author paid a visit to his friend, Hugh Chalmers. While in Detroit, Hubbard made a tour of the Chalmers plant and studied the operations of manufacture. Always interested in the ways of industry the busy factory fascinated him.

After his tour of the shops he took the wheel of a new Master Six and drove with Mr. Chalmers through the surrounding country. Upon his return he placed his order for a new Chalmers. He had driven this brand of cars for several years.

Immediately upon his arrival at East Aurora he sat at his desk and wrote the little essay on the Chalmers' organization, naming it "Character and Cars." Hardly was the ink dry on the first proofs when he and his wife, Alice, left for the war zone on the doomed liner.

Before he sailed, Hubbard selected a list of his friends to whom he wished to give the little book, "Character and Cars."

He wrote them the following letter: "You are a lover of beautiful things in a printed way, also you are interested in the fine art of advertising. These things being true I send you herewith a booklet which I have just got out for my friend, Hugh Chalmers.

"This is one of the best printed things ever produced at the Roycroft shop. As for the text, please note that while it is an advertisement for an automobile, I do not mention once the words, 'transmission' or 'magneto.'

"Chalmers in my mind is one of the big men of the world, and the car he makes is just as fine as the man. And the price is well within the bounds of reason."

The Chalmers company has secured a large edition of the little masterpiece and is distributing the books gratis to the admirers of Hubbard, who ask for them.

HOME OFFICE ACTS AS HOST.

Six Branches of Ford Corporation Represented at Detroit.

Members of the sociological department staffs of eight branches of the Ford Motor company were in Detroit last week, as guests of the home office. The cities represented were Cleveland, Columbus, Cambridge, Chicago, Long Island City, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Philadelphia. It is the second time the men from these cities have been called in, and marks the carrying out of a policy to have all the branch investigators visit the home factory once every six months.

Other meetings will be held at intervals in the near future, when representatives from other branches will attend. The twenty-five assembling plants will be handled in three groups, of which this is the first.

Each man brings all his records with him for the purpose of examination, discussion and tabulation at the home office. The visitors spent three days making calls with the local staff, observing the methods used. One day of the session was devoted to suggestions and the answering of questions. The object of the meetings is to make uniform methods in the sociological work of the Ford Motor company through all its branch plants.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

The program for the 1915 national convention of the Federation of American Motorcyclists at Sacramento has been announced by the Capital City Motorcycle club, which is doing the honors. Practically all of Wednesday, July 12, is given over to the arrival and registration of the delegates and visitors topped off in the evening by a reception at the Travelers' hotel, the convention headquarters.

A double-headed business session on Thursday will clear the boards for the real fun, which starts with a boat trip up the Sacramento river Thursday evening. On Friday the delegates will be the guests of the Sacramento chamber of commerce, which will take all of those in attendance on an automobile trip through the famous foothills fruit section of California. An old-time basket picnic with a full complement of such sports as usually accompany such fests will be indulged in. On Friday morning the serious work will be completed and the national championship race meet will be staged on the state fair grounds track in the afternoon. In the evening an illuminated and decorated motorcycle parade will serve to make things interesting and there will be prizes for the best turnouts.

Sunday morning the delegates will be assembled for the official snapshot of the meet, and in the afternoon the second installment of the national championships will be run off, after which the delegates will turn their wheels homeward.

The street car and elevated railroad strike which paralyzed Chicago during the early part of last week brought many to the realization of the full worth of the motorcycle. Thousands rode to work each day on solo machines, while about all the sidecars in the Windy City were given a tryout in "jitney bus" service. Incidentally the strike proved a boom for the motorcycle dealers, all of whom made sure to cash in on the opportunity to the fullest extent.

Erwin G. "Cannonball" Baker, who broke the transcontinental record on a motorcycle last year, and then clipped a few hours off of his motorcycle record in an automobile this year, has been chosen to ride three relays in the transcontinental motorcycle dispatch relay, which starts from Washington on July 18. Baker's ride embraces 274 miles of mountainous roadway between Elko to Fernley, the hardest mileage on the trip.

Motorcycle Street Sweeper.

One of the latest American novelties is a motorcycle street sweeper. It is mounted on a side-car chassis of peculiar design, and in front of the sweeping mechanism is a steel brush that loosens the dirt so that the broom can easily remove it. The broom is lowered by means of a handle to the left of the driver's seat, and when the broom is in contact with the pavement it engages the actuating mechanism connected to the side-car wheel, which causes the broom to rotate. Raising the broom throws the mechanism out of gear. It is designed to be used on streets paved with asphalt or wood blocks.

Chalmers 1916 Cars Here

Astounding Values-Astounding Prices

THE Chalmers Motor Company, with its new organization, even greater factory facilities, additional buildings, more men and still more capital, and with a quadrupled production is bringing out for the season of 1916 a series of cars the equal of which have never been offered before.

The Chalmers Company is the only leading manufacturer that is offering a new car for 1916 at a new price—in the medium-price class.

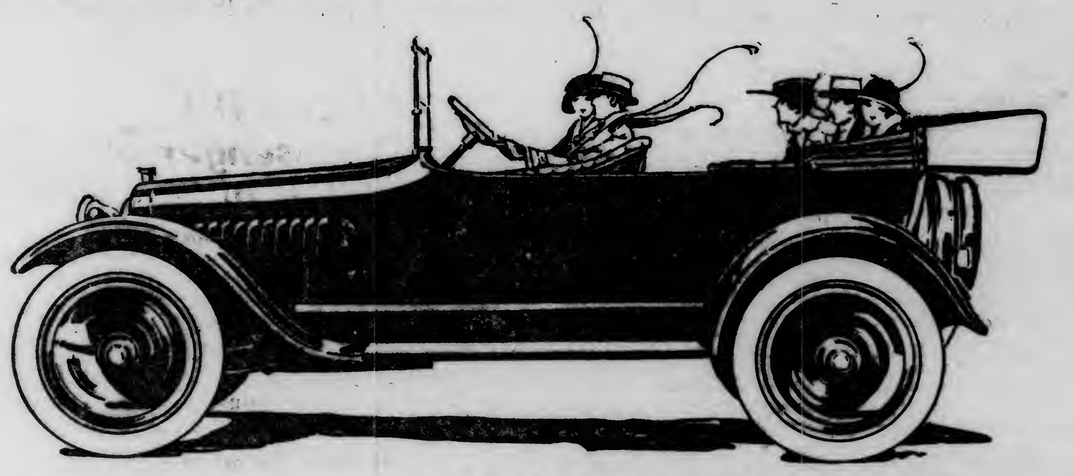

Others have either put out a new car at a higher price, the same old car at the same old price, or the same old car at a cut price.

This new Chalmers is the Six-40 shown below at the astounding price of $1275.

The Light-Six and Master-Six are continued in improved models at lower prices.

Such prices at higher quality than ever before are only made possible by cutting out middleman's profits, buying for cash on definite specifications, utilizing new methods of manufacture and administration, working on smaller profits and greater production.

The Chalmers Motor Company has also inaugurated a new Chalmers Service Plan by means of which we are able to offer gratis to every new Chalmers owner service in the form of an interchangeable service coupon book, good for a definite amount of work—at any Chalmers dealers—anywhere.

Chalmers Six-40 $1275.00

This is the most remarkable motor car that has ever been offered for $1275. It is the lowest price at which Chalmers quality has ever been sold.

It is the only American stock car with valve-in-head overhead camshaft motor, the type that Europe was working on when war stopped production.

It is this type of motor that broke all records for 500 miles at both Indianapolis and Chicago speedway races, going at the terriffic speed of 90 miles per hour at Indianapolis and 98 miles an hour at Chicago—the most gruelling test of motor car efficiency ever known.

This motor gives the car instant get away, wonderful flexibility, great power and economy.

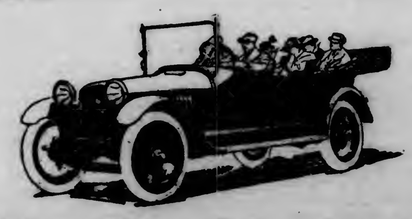

The car rides like a Pullman.

It is the superior of cars that three years ago sold for $3000 or over. Be sure to come in and see it.

Chalmers "Six-48" Seven-Passenger - - - - - $1550

This is the 1916 series of the popular Light-Six declared by thousands of enthusiastic owners to be the most satisfactory motor car they have ever owned. It is light where it can be, strong where it should be. It is the most economical car in America in upkeep cost and admittedly the best car made within $500 of its price.

Chalmers "Master Six" in either Touring Car or Limousine Bodies at Prices Ranging from - - - $2175 $3350

These are the magnificent Master Sixes which have stood all tests of performance, appearance, quality and upkeep. People who demand the utmost in a motor car will find that the 1916 Chalmers "Master-Six" measures up to the highest standards of automobile construction and still remains within reach of the average purse.

These models are on exhibition now in our salesroom. First orders will be filled from stock.

PICKED UP ON "HIGH"

Being a Compilation of Happenings the Last Week Among Local Automobile Dealers and Motorists.

Many Duluthians plan to motor to St. Paul next week to participate in the Governor Hammond day on Saturday, July 10, under the auspices of the Minnesota State Automobile association. The governor will be the honor guest of the occasion, which includes a parade in St. Paul and a luncheon at the clubhouse of the St. Paul Auto club at White Bear. A general invitation has been extended to all the motorists of the state by John H. Hohlman of Mankato, president of the association. Dr. J. D. Park, president of the Duluth club, is in charge of the local arrangements. He expects at least ten automobile parties to leave here on Friday.

While visiting the Ford branch at Minneapolis last Monday, E. J. Fillatrault of the Mutual Auto company, had an opportunity of seeing the fire brigade system in operation. During a conference with Manager Hildebrand of the plant, the fire gong sounded and all business in the offices ceased. Valuable papers and books were placed in the safe. In the meantime the brigade on the tenth floor, each floor having such a force, succeeded in extinguishing the blaze in the elevator shaft. Work in the shops continued as if nothing was going on. It is a remarkable system, said Mr. Fillatrault.

EXPAND COLE FACTORY.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—The unprecedented demand for the Cole eight-cylinder motor car has made it necessary for the factory to increase its traffic department and also keep a big force with the various material manufacturers in order to see that prompt deliveries of cars are made and also that prompt shipments of materials are made to the factory.

J. J. Cole, president of the Cole Motor Car company, asserts that this unusual condition has been brought about by the present heavy demand for high powered cars and is being felt by the builders of all of the well advertised popular cars.

DESERTS BRONCHO FOR THE AUTOMOBILE

"Buffalo Bill" Now Travels From Town to Town in Auto.

William F. Cody, known the world over as "Buffalo Bill," has deserted the bronco for the automobile. He recently purchased an Overland touring car and is now seldom seen except at the wheel of his favorite machine.

He frequently uses the car for jumps from town to town when traveling with the Wild West show of which he is the leader.

In referring to his love for motoring, the famous scout draws an interesting comparison between the Overland six and the old overland stage of which is now one of the properties of his show, and which was finished in 1865 and put in service between Dodge City, Kan., and St. Joseph, Mo.

"Fifty years ago," he states, "I acted as a sort of advance scout, for this stage. My duty was to keep a sharp lookout for the Indians and bad men of that time. The best speed we ever made was seven miles an hour and our total journey in a day's travel never exceeded sixty miles.

"Today," he continued, "I can hop into my Overland car and with good roads and the speed officers out of sight, I'll cover the distance in an hour. Times certainly have changed, but they have changed for better things."

STUDEBAKER SETS PACE WITH NEW CARS

Startles Motor Public With Announcements for Next Season.

By announcing for 1916 a seven-passenger, 40-horse power four at $885, and a seven-passenger, 50-horse power six at $1,050, Studebaker has once more startled the motoring public.

And once more Studebaker has proved that quantity production, scientific manufacturing methods and a wealth of manufacturing experience can reduce prices and yet maintain high standards of quality.

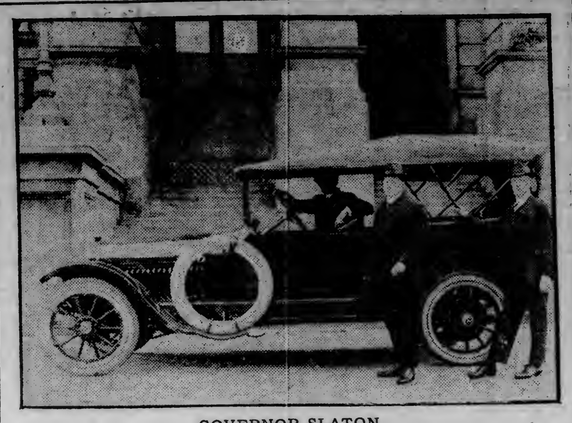

Accordingly, in this year's cars, Studebaker has adhered to its customary lines, simply improving them in some slight details that add to effect. The line of the hood melts into the cowl, and the cowl itself has been made longer. The cowl fenders are of a deeper design than ever and cling more closely to the curves of the wheels, and the lines of the entire car flow in unbroken curves from the radiator back to the tail lamp. Grace is the dominant note of the whole design, and while the new cars are larger than ever and more massive in looks, they are among the handsomest cars that have ever been produced.

One of the notable features of the cars is the new unique arrangement of the seats. The driver's seat, for example, is shaped so that both the driver and the passenger riding with him have separate seats. This is a change that owners who drive their own cars will greatly appreciate. The tonneau is roomier than ever, and the auxiliary seats are of entirely new design, developed by Studebaker within the last year. Instead of folding back against the sides of the car or up against the back of the front seat, they sink down into recesses in the floor, completely disappearing when not in use. And thus extra room and ease of entrance and exit from the tonneau is provided.

Exceptional care has been paid to the upholstery of the new cars. The leather used is the finest grade of genuine, hand-buffed leather on the market. It is the Studebaker claim that no better leather can be bought at any price. It is a straight-grain, semi-bright finish, and is tufted with a high grade of curled hair. Deeper coiled springs give more resiliency.

In addition to the pleasure cars, Studebaker will also manufacture threo commercial cars.

GOV. SLATON OF GEORGIA AND HIS HUDSON SIX-54

GOVERNOR SLATON.

This is Governor John M. Slaton of Georgia (standing in center), who in the last minutes of his administration commuted the death sentence of Leo M. Frank. Rarely has such a problem been presented to any state official. The governor met it with the conscientious courage that has characterized his entire administration. His course has the approval of thinking people everywhere.

Governor Harris, the incoming state executive, is also the owner of a Hudson six.

DEALERS TO REAP BENEFIT.

Changes in King Prices Will Affect Cars Already Ordered.

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—A decision of importance to automobile dealers was announced by Artemas Ward, Sr., of New York, principal stockholder of the King Motor Car company, this city, at the mid-West King dealers' drive-a-way-day. Mr. Ward declared that the King Motor Car company would never announce a new model, changing the list price without protecting the dealer.

As outlined by Mr. Ward, should a King dealer order cars and within thirty days after the receipt of the cars a new announcement be made affecting the list price, then the King Motor Car company would rebate the dealer for the cars he has in stock, providing they had been shipped from the factory within thirty days.

Artemas Ward, Jr., vice president and advertising manager, has been elected president of the King Motor Car company, while F. A. Vollbrecht, secretary and treasurer, has been elected vice president and general manager. He will continue as treasurer.

WEBBER DENIES ATTORNEY'S STORY

BRIDGIE WEBBER.

Passaic, N. J., July 3.—Bridgie Webber at his home here last night denied that he had given H. T. Marshall, his former attorney, any information regarding Charles Becker.

"I told my whole story at the two trials," said Webber, "and I am through with the whole thing."

Farmer Kills Four.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 3.—Fred Poynter, a young farmer, shot and killed four persons of one family near Vienna, Mo., as the result of a quarrel over the harvesting of a wheat crop according to messages received here last night.

NAVAL OFFICERS CANNOT RETIRE

President Denies Application of Twenty Commanders.

Washington, July 3.—President Wilson has denied the application for voluntary retirement of twenty commanders and lieutenant commanders of the navy who sought to leave the active list under the law which permits such retirements on June 30, when promotions from the grade of junior lieutenant have been less than forty during the preceding year.

In announcing the president's action, Rear Admiral Benson, acting secretary of the navy, said the department has recommended the course because experienced officers were urgently needed in active service and promotions already were being made in ranks below captain at the ages deemed most consistent.

Department officials said so far as they know none of the twenty applicants had received offers from the private munitions establishments which have been seeking to employ army and navy officers. It was disclosed, however, that some other officers have sought retirement to accept such positions and that their requests have been promptly refused on the ground that to permit naval officers on the retired list to engage in the manufacture of ordnance for a foreign belligerent would be a breach of neutrality.

ORDERS NEAR BILLION MARK.

American Manufacturers Rushed in Producing War Munitions.

Orders for ordnance and all classes of ammunition placed in this country by the belligerent European nations are estimated to be nearing the $1,000,000,000-mark in value.

Half of this amount is made up of shrapnel and high explosive shells. Contracts for between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 shells have already been placed and orders for millions of additional shells are pending.

According to reports of war supplies brokers, the Crucible Steel company will be turning out 15-inch lyddite shells for the British navy at the rate of 1,100 a week by Aug. 1. These shells are for use in the big guns of the Queen Elizabeth and dreadnoughts of that type.

Each of the shells is claimed to be worth from $500 to $600, which would make a minimum of $550,000 a week from that source alone, or a yearly total of $30,000,000 if the shipments are kept up at that rate.

New York brokers says this is the big war business of crucible, but not all by any means. They say it has received large orders from gun makers in this country for specially made high rolled steel, the total value of which orders aggregates about $7,500,000.

In addition the Crucible Steel company is credited with taking a contract for the manufacture of rifle barrels from the Remington Arms & Ammunition company which will bring about $1,250,000. Additional contracts are said to be pending with the same company, the combined total of these two orders being $8,000,000. Negotiations are understood to be progressing with the Westinghoues people for contracts of a like nature.

Few attempts are made to estimate the total value of the company's alleged war orders, but none of the estimates made is for less than $50,000,000. Pittsburgh, which ordinarily can be relied on for at least fairly accurate ideas on the company's business, says the total is close to $150,000,000.

120,741 MEN FROM IRELAND IN THE ARMY

London, July 3.—John E. Redmond leader of the Irish Nationalist party, speaking at Dublin Thursday night, said that up to June 16, 120,741 Irishmen from Ireland had joined the army, according to a report of the speech made by the Freemans Journal which reached London. Mr. Redmond stated that of those who have enlisted upward of 70,000 are Catholics and some 24,000 are enrolled members of the Irish National Volunteers.

Mr. Redmond is quoted as saying that he still did not believe in coalition government, but that inasmuch as it existed only from day to day, as it were, it could not in any event prevent home rule from coming into operation automatically at the end of the war.

LITTLE KURDISH GIRL MASCOT OF REGIMENT

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Tiflis, June 5.—Hadzhina, a wild little 6-year-old Kurdish girl, has become the mascot of a Russian artillery regiment operating on the Persian frontier. She was left behind when the population of the Armenian village of Hazar fled and Russian soldiers found her, clad in a filthy shirt, hiding in the depths of a bake oven. After she had recovered from fright under the kind treatment of her captors, the little one told through an interpreter how she had been left behind by her mother, who escaped, taking with her another child. Her father, she said, was a soldier and had been taken prisoner by the Russian troops.

ON THE IRON RANGES

PLEASURE SEEKERS IN ITASCA COUNTY

Many People From Outside Minnesota Points Arriving.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Wednesday forty boys, sons, for the most part, of wealthy parents, ranging from 8 years of age up, arrived to spend the summer vacation season at Camp Mishawaka, the boys' camp conducted on Pokegama lake four and a half miles south of Grand Rapids by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Green. Mr. Green is physical director in the National Cathedral school at Washington, D. C., and most of the boys in the camp are boys who were in that institution during the past year. Some of the boys have been in the camp for several summers. Mr. Green has splendid facilities for the entertainment and care of the boys, and employs a corps of competent instructors in camping, swimming and the other lines of endeavor engaged in in the camp. The season lasts for eight weeks, and it goes without saying that all will enjoy the outing.

Mille Bunnell, Col. and Mrs. C. H. Graves, and C. A. Marshall, all of Duluth, spent a few days at Wolf Lake lodge about twenty-five miles north of here this week. Col. Graves captured a white porcupine, a rare freak of nature, and the skin of the animal will be mounted for the club house.

The members of the Wabana lake and Big Trout lake summer colony are arriving right along, and they are occupying their cottages on those lakes.

Auto Men's Club House.

The Deer Lake club house is commencing to be occupied. This is a club house owned by head men and employes of the Chalmers automobile works at Detroit, Mich., and is occupied most of the summer by different parties.

The summer resort being put in by the Crowell Land company at Deer lake is also receiving much attention, and every week parties come up with the owners of the Sherwood Forest, the plat of that resort, and are charmed with the prospect.

B. W. Utman and family of Cohasset recently of Hudson, Wis., on Wednesday moved into the La Premiere cottage on the plat of Cottage Grove at Pokegama lake, and will spend the greater part of the summer there.

Many local people are also occupying cottages mostly along the shores of Pokegama lake.

The Ogema hotel at Pokegama lake is again open and is under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Miko Brown.

LESS PAROLED IN COURT ON RANGES

Showing Made for Last Six Months Speaks Well for Conditions.

Hibbing, July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A decided improvement in the number of delinquent, dependent or placed on parole is shown in the semi-annual report of C. E. Everett, range probation officer.

In juvenile court 43 were on parole at the beginning of the year against 27 last year, while 44 petitions were filed for delinquent and independend against 63 last year. Only 84 children were involved as compared to 134 last year.

Boys Under 21.

Nine boys under 21 years were brought up in municipal court during the last six months. In district court 23 were on parole at the beginning of the year. Twenty-six are on parole at the present time. Offenses charged against those convicted are: Assault in first and second degrees, abduction, adultery, burglary, carnal knowledge and grand larceny.

Miss Auda Boorom, who has been making her home at Tripoli, Wis., arrived Tuesday and will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Boorom.

Hon. H. A. Simons, attorney at law and United States commissioner at Bemidji, was a visitor here Tuesday on professional business.

John Lund returned Thursday afternoon from Clearbrook near which place he visited with his family who are on a farm there.

INDIAN 118 YEARS OLD VISITING AT DEER RIVER

JOHN SMITH.

Deer River, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Smith, the famous old Indian and friend of the whites, now claimed to be 118 years old, came here Thursday from Ballclub, where he is attending the Indian Catholic fair. Decorated with glaring red feathers John was in a joyful mood and was very entertaining to his friends.

GRAND RAPIDS READY.

Everything in Shape for Big Celebration Next Monday.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Everything is ready for one of the best celebrations of the nation's birthday, Monday, in the history of Grand Rapids.

W. W. Barron will be the orator of the day at the exercises which will take place at the Central school grounds immediately following the parade.

Following the exercises there will be an hour for dinner, and after that the races will be pulled off. After the races there will be a ball game on the south side park between the local team and the Range All Stars, a team composed of the pick of the teams of the range towns.

At 7 o'clock some men will go over the dam at the paper mill on a raft, and immediately following this there will be a log-rolling contest near the bridge.

In the evening there will be a band concert and a dance at the skating rink. There will be many side attractions and amusement features.

CALUMET MINES BUSY.

Three Shovels Working Night and Day in Hill Property.

Hibbing, July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the exception of the Glen mine here yesterday and an increase in the output of the Hill-Annex mine, operations here continue the same as last week on this end of the Mesaba range.

Reports come from Calumet to the effect that work at mines in that vicinity is progressing rapidly. Three steam shovels with five and six dippers are at work night and day at the Hill annex and a track is nearly completed over to where the washing plant will be built. The Hill mine is loading ore at the rate of approximately 100 cars daily.

Dispatchers of the Missabe road announced that the Glen property, an underground proposition, began loading ore this week. This property, it is expected, will average about 25 carloads daily to the end of the season.

HIBBING COLTS WIN.

Defeat Chisholm Aggregation By Score of 5 to 4.

Hibbing, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing Colts defeated the Chisholm Braves at the latter place yesterday, 5 to 4.

This is the fourth victory for the Colts in the last five games played with the Braves, which all together puts Hibbing two games in the lead for the season with the Chisholm nine.

Today is "ladies' day" at the local park and Judge Brady has cordially invited every woman in the village to attend the game.

Tomorrow at 3 o'clock, the Braves and Colts will again clash. The Monday game will begin at 4:30 o'clock.

STUDY OF ROCKS NOW BEING MADE

U. S. and State Geological Surveyors Working Together.

Ely, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A party of United States and Minnesota geological surveyors left Ely yesterday morning for a two-month's trip north east of this city.

The United States Geological survey is co-operating with the Minnesota Geological survey in making a study of the iron prospects in the great mass of rock in Lake and Cook counties called the "Duluth gabbro." These prospects are the so-called titaniferous ores, none of which are now developed in Minnesota. The school of mines experiment station at Minneapolis is working on a process for the treatment of such ores, while the geological parties are working on the occurrence of the ores. The present party in charge of T. M. Broderick of Minneapolis is working from Birch Lake northeast and east, now near Snowbank lake. Five or six men are in the party most of the time and they use the most detailed methods adopted in magnetic and geologic surveying. All prospects which have been heard of are examined and the remainder of the country in the belt is more briefly examined for the ores.

OFFERS WIDOW $3,000.

Chisholm Council Seeks to Settle for Her Husband's Death.

Chisholm, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At an executive session, the village council considered the claim of Mrs. Thomas Kosman, whose husband was killed by a stone thrown from a blast on the Myers' location water main, asking for $7,500. The council offered $3,000 in full settlement but this was not accepted. The matter is under consideration. Mrs. Kosman has four children to support.

IS KILLED IN WAR.

Obe Wiseman of Tower Hears George Wiseman Lost His Life.

Tower, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Obe Wiseman has just received word that his nephew, George Wiseman, who resided here a few years ago, was killed fighting in France. Some time ago, the relatives here were informed in a communication from Wiseman, written from England, that he expected that the Canadian regiment in which he had enlisted would soon be sent to the front. This was the last direct news from him, the newspaper report containing his name in the list of dead after a battle in France, being the only information so far received, the report not having been confirmed.

MANY CHISHOLMITES GO TO BEAR RIVER

Chisholm, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the efforts of President Heskett and Secretary Kleffman of the Commercial club, a large delegation of boosters left today for Bear River in automobiles. The Commercial band went along in full force. Bear River celebrates the Fourth today.

ELY PERFECTS ALL CELEBRATION PLANS

Nation's Birthday Will Be Observed on Next Monday.

Ely, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ely will celebrate the Fourth Monday. The parade will start and end at the city hall after which the Declaration of Independence will be read by John Rautio. Rev. B. E. Williams will give an address on "American Citizenship." After this feature the program of sports and races will begin under the supervision of the committee. There will be a ball game at Athletic park at 1:30 p. m., Virginia vs. Ely. The city and "Kids" bands will furnish music for the day. One of the city bands or societies will furnish the ball at Turf hall in the evening. The committee did not arrange for a fireworks display in the evening as deciding the general private displays are usually ample in this line on the Fourth.

The mines will observe the day by ceasing operation. The business houses have been busy decorating.

Prizes Offered.

The parade prizes follow: Best floats for business house or manufactory, $15, $10 and $5; best decorated automobiles, $15, $10 and $5; largest number of members of any society in parade, $15, $10 and $5. All children in the parade carrying the American flag will receive prizes.

The new telephone line up Lake Vermilion is progressing steadily, the Bruno home now has service as has also the Fabin resort.

Mrs. Hopkins of Cumberland, Wis., accompanied by her two children arrived yesterday morning for a couple weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Ernest Merrill.

Murdock McDonald and family of Virginia, accompanied by Miss Marguerite Webb, are installed for six weeks at one of the Outing club cottages on the Isle of Pines.

TOWER'S CELEBRATION.

Will Be Held Monday and Consist Chiefly of Races for Children.

Tower, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Soudan band has been engaged to furnish music for the Fourth of July celebration at Mesaba Monday.

Tower will celebrate Monday, but there will not be anything elaborate about the celebration as the business people did not donate very liberally, and races, games and amusements for the children will constitute the program.

Aged Grandmother Ill.

Virginia, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Moodie, managing editor of the Daily Enterprise, has been at Wadena for a few days, being called there by the serious illness of Mrs. Jane Moodie, aged 91, his grandmother, who is well known in the Wadena district.

RED RIVER VALLEY CROP CONDITIONS

Reports From Counties in "Bread Basket of the World."

Crookston, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Telephone reports of crop conditions from various counties in the Minnesota Red river valley follow:

Polk county, corn seriously damaged by cold, wet weather; grain damage considerable in southwestern part by water; fair in western and northern portions and much better than average throughout Eastern Polk, where the biggest crop harvested in fifteen years is promised.

Marshall county will produce a good average grain crop.

Kittson county has not suffered at all from too much rain and prospects are excellent.

Norman county crops are in fine shape excepting in the southern portion.

Roseau county has suffered from too much rain in only a small area, elsewhere the crops are fine.

Corn throughout the valley will make nothing more than fodder.

FATHER AND SON LIGHTNING VICTIMS

Both Killed When Home Is Struck Near Towner, N. D.

Towner, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jacob Fandrich and 12-year-old son were killed by lightning which hit the Fandrich home south of here.

Mrs. Fandrich and five other children, who were in the house, were seriously shocked but recovered.

Seven in House Escape.

Enderlin, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pictures were hurled from the walls, stoves were wrecked, the plaster knocked from the wall, and chimney taken off, when lightning hit H. C. Westphal's home near here, but none of the seven persons in the building was injured.

The bolt played havoc throughout the house.

MISSISSIPPI RISING.

Eleven Inches Higher in Past Five Days at Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mississippi river here raised eleven inches in the last five days. The local dam owned by the Weyerhaeuser interests is immediately above the pumping station. The station is on the low land. With the river rising and federal reservoirs to the north full cloudbursts in the reservoir area would cause damage to all river points below.

ANTROBUS TO SELL DRUIDIC MONUMENT

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, June 15.—The statement of Sir Cosmo Antrobus, owner of Stonehenge, that he will consider the sale of the old Druidic monument apart from the surrounding estate, has revived the scheme for its purchase. As the oldest human monument in England, Stonehenge has always appealed to popular imagination. But owing to the drain on the public purse in war charities, it is questionable whether sufficient money could be raised now.

In 1905, the owner of the Stonehenge of that time refused $50,000 for the roadways leading to it, which he had obstructed. This offer was made by the Footpaths Preservation society. The new law of 1913, which enables the authorities to prevent the destruction of historic monuments, makes the work of purchase much easier than before, if the money can be raised.

NO ACID BOMBS ARE MADE BY COMPANY

Washington, July 3.—Investigation by the department of commerce of an advertisement by a Cleveland, Ohio, manufacturing company of a machine for making acid bombs, was brought to a close yesterday and Acting Secretary Sweet announced that no further action was contemplated by the department.

Assistant Solicitor Edward L. Quigley, who conducted the inquiry to determine whether there had been any violation of neutrality or of the laws of humanity, returned to Washington and submitted an informal report. He found, according to Mr. Sweet, that the Cleveland company manufactures no bombs or shells, but merely turns out machines which not only are being exported now, but which were sold before the war to European countries generally for use in the drilling of metals. It was explained that similar advertisements would not be published hereafter.

Illegal Netter Fined.

Crookston, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At Fertile yesterday, Game Warden Munch prosecuted John Thompson for attempting to fish with a net in a small lake near Union lake. Thompson was caught with the goods and was fined $19.50 in justice court after pleading guilty to the charge.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. SUNDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Local showers this afternoon and tonight; Sunday, partly cloudy and cooler; light to fresh westerly winds.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure is reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature. ○ clear; ◐ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. Shaded areas show precipitation of .01 inch or more in past 24 hours.

SHOWERS

While only partly cloudy weather was promised for today, the weather man has given good measure and the day is completely cloudy. Not only that, but rain falls at intervals, and, as a whole it is a dreary day. Hope is held out for Sunday; but nothing is said, as yet, concerning the Fourth, which is the fifth.

A year ago today was fair. The sun rose this morning at 4:15 and will set this evening at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Further local showers fell during Friday or last night from the Rocky mountains eastward to Atlantic states. Heavy rain occurred at Montgomery, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Paducah, Ky., and Chester, Mo. Somewhat cooler weather prevails in the lake region, the Central valleys and Southern states."

General Forecast.

Chicago, July 3.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Minnesota—Showers tonight; Sunday partly cloudy and cooler.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday, with probably showers in north portion; warmer tonight; cooler in north and west portions Sunday.

Iowa—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; warmer in east and south portions tonight; cooler in west portion Sunday.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday, with probably showers in southeast portion tonight; continued cool.

South Dakota—Showers this afternoon or tonight; Sunday partly cloudy.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Lower Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday, probably showers; warmer in extreme east portion tonight.

HIBBING TO STAGE BIG AUTOMOBILE RACING MEET

World's Famous Speed Pilots to Compete on Fairgrounds Track—Disbrow, Hearne, Raimey and 'Wild Bill' Endicott Coming—Baseball Magnates Meet Tomorrow—Big Regatta Will Please Rowing Fans.

BY BRUCE.

Hibbing is to stage the first big automobile racing meet that has ever been held in Northern Minnesota. It remained for the enterprise of the iron mining city to arrange to bring to the range speed demons such as Louis Disbrow, holder of more dirt track records than any man in the world; Johnny Raimey, winner of the big Detroit race; Eddie Hearne, driver of famous Blitzen Benz—the fastest car in the world, the machine that Bob Burman negotiated a mile in 25:41 seconds, Art Klein, Capt. Kennedy, the famous English driver, and others.

The races will be held on the excellent fair grounds track of Hibbing, Sunday, July 18. The promoters of the meet will ask the co-operation of automobile dealers of Duluth in making this initial track automobile racing meet the most successful sporting event that has been held in the northern section of the state in years.

Interest Stirred Up.

Just at the present time the country is infected with the auto racing fever. The big meets at Indianapolis, Chicago, Omaha and Sioux City have stirred the followers of the auto racing game by the wonderful records that have been set up. The speed contests to be staged at Hibbing will have some of the most famous drivers of the world and every effort will be made to set up new records for a half-mile track.

Years ago Barney Oldfield performed on the half-mile track here. The demolition of the fence and stands at the old driving park here has prevented Duluth from staging any automobile racing meets. Hibbing proposes to jump into the full swing of the sporting blare, by getting the fastest and most daring speed pilots in the world for the range meet.

Such famous drivers as Disbrow, Hearne, "Wild Bill" Endicott, holders of numerous world's speed records, all in the same meet, competing for world's records, should make the initial automobile track racing meet of Northern Minnesota one of the best that has been held on a dirt track anywhere in the country this season.

An effort will be made to have J. Alex Sloan, internationally famous in the automobile racing game, come here and act as starter. Sloan has handled such stars as Oldfield, Burman and Disbrow, and his presence would assure the success of the meet.

Magnates to Meet.

As has been stated, John Burmeister and clan will put their feet under a table tomorrow. Grave questions concerning the immediate future of the Northern league are to be discussed.

Superior and St. Boniface are the surface considerations that are due for consideration. Several other matters may canter out for review before the meeting is adjourned. It is understood that Regina, Sask., has made an offer for the Superior franchise.

Both Burmeister and Blume have put money into the Superior team, it is rumored, and both these gentlemen will naturally strive to make the best deal possible to protect their coin. President Burmeister is authority for the statement that something like $5,500 has been shot into the careening hull of the listing ship, Superior. John and Harvey would like to get some of this kale back.

St. Boniface is not drawing. Why? It can't be figured out. Something may be done in the case of St. Boniface.

One of the absorbing questions of the hour, is where is A. L. Steece? Like Ann's age and why did the cat come back query, this question is simply maddening.

Enlarging the Regatta.

Enlarging the Northwestern of this season will have all of the pleasing effect of a pure Havana after encircling a large quantity of food. By all means, rowing officials, bring on more crews.

If the projected plan of securing entries from the Grand Rapids, Peoria, Detroit and Lincoln Park Rowing clubs is carried out, the regatta down on the date book for July 23 and 24 will be one of the flossiest that has ever been staged in the Northwest.

Here we have great crews—the statement is superfluous and a mere twitting of wasted words. Many of the club members and hundreds of citizens of our fair city have no opportunity to journey to the National. But the coming of crews from clubs like Detroit, Peoria and Grand Rapids, not to mention the Lincoln Parkers, would add the paprika to the rowing feast.

Lots of the followers of rowing hereabouts are willing to carry a red banner through the streets and wildly yell that the Duluth crews can beat anything in the world that is propelled by oars. Also, we would like to see the thing done for mere sport and thrilling excitement. Therefore the statement that Detroit and some of the other crews may come up, should be greeted with three rousing cheers, in a regular Ruggles way.

DAUBERT AND COBB LEADERS

Take Premier Slugging Honors in American and National Leagues.

Faber Heads Pitchers' List; Wood, Scott and Fisher Follow.

Chicago, July 3.—Jake Daubert, the Brooklyn first baseman, has regained the batting leadership of the National league, according to averages published here today. In the American league Cobb continues in front and Magee holds the leadership in the Federal. The ten leading batsmen of the National, who have taken part in at least half the games played, including those of last Wednesday, are: Daubert, Brooklyn, .330; J. Smith, Boston, .323; Merkle, New York, .323; Luderus, Philadelphia, .321; Good, Chicago, .306; Robertson and Connolly, Boston, are tied for tenth place at .300. Robertson has tied Carey of Pittsburgh for stolen bases honor with 15; Saier leads in runs scored with 42; in total bases with 132, and ranks next to Cravath in home runs, having eight to the Philadelphian's 9. St. Louis and New York are tied in team batting at .259.

Pitchers Attaining Top.

Pitchers of the National league who have attained an average of .700 as to the games won and lost, and including only those who have worked in ten or more games are:

Pierce, Chicago, won 8, lost 1; Alexander, Philadelphia, 14 and 3; Meadows, St. Louis, 7 and 2; Mamux, Pittsburgh, 10 and 3; Mayer, Philadelphia, 12 and 4.

Batting leaders of the American league are:

Cobb, Detroit; .397; Fournier, Chicago, .343; Jackson, Cleveland, .330; Crawford, Detroit, .329; Lajoie, Philadelphia, .323; E. Collins, Chicago, .317; McInnis, Philadelphia, .310; Cobb still leads the base stealers with fifty-one, which as the season is not quite half over indicates his total for the year will be more than 100. Oldring of Philadelphia and Caldwell of New York with four apiece hold the lead as home run hitters. Chicago leads in team hitting with .267 and Detroit is next with .259.

Top-Notch Pitchers.

Top-notch pitchers are Faber, Chicago, won 14 and lost 2; Wood, Boston, 9 and 1; Scott, Chicago, 10 and 3; Fisher, New York, 10 and 3; Johnson, Washington, 12 and 5; Benz, Chicago, 7 and 3.

Magee, Brooklyn, manager, heads the Federal batters with .352, but he has lost other honors he held, Konetchy, Pittsburgh, leading in total bases with 115; Kauff, Brooklyn, in stolen bases with 23, and Evans, Brooklyn and Baltimore, in runs scored at 43. Following Magee the batters are Campbell, Newark, .343; Deal, St. Louis, .337; Flack, Chicago, .335; Easterly, Kansas City, .333; Kauff, Brooklyn, .332; Yerkes, Pittsburgh, .327; Fisher, Chicago, .324; Duncan, Baltimore, .324; Mycago, .324; Duncan, Baltimore, .324; Myers, Brooklyn, .312. Chase, Buffalo, Konetchy, Pittsburgh, and Walsh, Baltimore, are tied in home runs at 7. Brooklyn leads the clubs in batting with .282, and Chicago is next with .262.

Three-Fingers' Comeback.

Mordecai Brown's "comeback" has been successful as it put him among the ".700" pitchers of the Federal league, who are: Plank, St. Louis, won 9 and lost 3; Allen, Pittsburgh, 11 and 4; McConnell, Chicago, 12 and 5; Cullop, Kansas City, 12 and 5; Brown, Chicago, 7 and 3.

Leading batters of the American association are: Paddock, St. Paul, .363; Beall, Milwaukee, .359; Compton, Kansas City, .357; Clemons, Louisville, .337; Southworth, Cleveland, .336; Crandall, Indianapolis, .325; Platte, Louisville, .323; Gharrity, Minneapolis, .323; Hinchman, Kansas City, .321. Compton is leading in runs scored with 59, in total bases with 144 and in home runs with 7. Reilley, Indianapolis, heads the base stealers with 33. Indianapolis with .284 and Kansas City with .279 lead in club batting.

Only three pitchers have attained the .700 mark in the Association, but two others are near to it, and the leading five, including only those who have participated in ten or more games, are: Tipple, Indianapolis, won 10 and lost 1; Northrop, Louisville, 13 and 5; Burk, Indianapolis, 10 and 4; Delhi, Kansas City, 11 and 5; Brenton, Cleveland, 8 and 4.

Topping the hitters in the International league is Gilhooley, Buffalo, with .346. Buffalo with .273 leads the clubs. Lord, Memphis, still leads in the Southern association with .348. Leading batter of the Western league is Lejeune, Sioux City, with .375. Des Moines with .280 leads in club batting.

WILLARD-JOHNSON FIGHT FILMS BLOCKED

Federal Court at Portland, Me., Denies Entry to Corporation.

Portland, Maine, July 3.—The attempt to bring into the United States through this port a film of the Willard-Johnson fight at Havana was blocked in the United States district court yesterday.

Judge Clarence Hale, after a long hearing, refused to grant the petition of the Kalysthenic Exhibition Company of New York from a preliminary injunction to restrain the collector of the port from interfering with the entry of the film which reached here from Toronto Saturday.

KAUFF SUES FOR $5,000.

Crack Brooklyn Player Declares Contract Still Holds Good.

New York, July 3.—Benny Kauff, the crack outfielder of the Brooklyn Federals, upon hearing that he could not play with the Giants, began a suit in the supreme court of Brooklyn yesterday for $5,000 against the National Exhibition company (owners of the Giants), which amount, he claims, was promised him when he jumped to the New York Nationals last April. Kauff says that he was to get $5,000 for signing a three-year contract, and that he was not allowed to play, he claims, does not cancel the contract.

The Brooklyn Federals yesterday gave Pitcher Lafitte, Catcher Leslie Pratt and Infielder Dave Howard a ten-day notice of their release.

SUPERIOR STAKES DOOKS TO A SWEET 10-TO-1 HIDING

Five Errors Behind Henry Clay Blancke Figure in Defeat.

Benton Throws Great Ball for Outcasts, Allowing Four Blows.

Immensely pleased with itself in the riotous role of the worm that turned, Superior yesterday played a return engagement in this capacity, defeating our sagging and caved-in baseball team by the pitiless count of 10 to 1. Count it! 10 to 1.

There is little to say regarding the game. Harry Benton was on the knoll for the outcasts, who seem to play better now that the prospect of spending the remainder of the summer in Superior is off their minds. Harry was the penultimate of stinginess, allowing four while his team mates were garnering 11 blows off Henry Clay Blancke.

Don't Blame Blancke.

It isn't fair to blame all of the defeat on the heaving shoulders of the best pitcher in the Northern league. His support was of the saffron color, five errors being chalked up against the alleged human wall of defense that is supposed to protect and guard the occupant of the mound.

Errors counted directly in the making of at least five of the generous count accumulated and otherwise rolled up on the part of the visitors. Duluth would have lost anyway, as the thing turned out, but Blancke should not be charged with all the muss that was strewn around the ball park.

A triple, walk and single gave the visitors two in the opening round. O'Brien's error, two infield outs and a single by Swain gave the Outcasts another in the third. In the eighth round Burgwald and Curtis came to bat twice, Burgwald getting a single and triple in this round. Five hits, two errors and a hit batsman accounted for seven runs.

Seeking Duluth's Tally.

That's right, we did get a tally. Let us see—it happened in the second. Kuhn walked. Wolfe hit a little offering to third, Burgwald making a wild heave on the play and sending Kuhn to third. O'Brien lofted to Doyle, but Paw Paw Sweeley singled over second and our solitary count was authorized by the hit department.

The only excitement of the day was caused by the putting of "Bingo" off the grounds. Let it be known that "Bingo" is not a malt or spiritous liquor, nor yet a breakfast food, nor a ferocious canine, but the hottest specimen of rooter that Athletic park has seen this drab season.

"Bingo" is colored and bears a resemblance to Jack Johnson. Each day he lugs a bell out to the park with him, takes a seat on the grass in front of the right field bleachers, and roots and rings. Harmless and amusing is "Bingo."

Carney developed a mad on "Bingo" —poor, harmless "Bingo," who paid real money to witness that baseball game of yesterday—and asked to have him ordered from the park. He was.

Small boys rallied to the cause of "Bingo," protesting valiantly against his removal. Mister Carney was undicated and in dignity proceeded with the game. It's a great life.

VIRGINIA PLAYS LONG TIE WITH BILLS

Game Goes 15 Innings to 5-to-5 Score, Bills Win Second 7 to 1.

Fort William, Ont., July 3.—Fort William and Virginia played a 16-inning tie game here yesterday, the locals winning the second game by the count of 7 to 1. Hewett and Wright opposed one another in the initial contest. Howett held the Ore Diggers to ten blows, while sixteen were gathared off the delivery of Wright, but the visiting twirler succeded in keeping his blows well scattered. Huggins was invincible in the second game, holding the visitors to five scattered hits, while Faeth was found freely.

MANDOT TO MEET RIVERS

Veteran Lightweights Are Scheduled to Open Minneapolis Club.

Boxing clubs in St. Paul and Minneapolis seem to be having their troubles. The opening bouts of both clubs have been announced, Tommy Gibbons and Billy Miske for St. Paul and Joe Mandot and Joe Rivers for Minneapolis, and now the newspapers are saying unkind things about the impending bouts.

Rivers and Mandot are the men Matchmaker Mark Shaughnessy has selected for the Mill City boxing debut, and right away the Minneapolis Journal, through venerable John Ritchie rises and declares that both of the men have passed from championship consecrations, while Eddie Hosking over in St. Paul is saying that the opening show in that city needs more class.

St. Paul's opening show will be staged on July 12, while the Minneapolis club will make its initial bid for the approval of the public on July 23.

Aug. 6, or a date thereabouts, will probably witness the first show that is to be held in Duluth. Joe Welling, a new comer of Chicago, touted as a comer in the lightweight ranks, will meet some opponent to be selected later.

It was stated today that Fred Fulton, the big Rochester, Minn., heavyweight would probably be on the card.

FIFTY-ONE PLAYERS IN TENNIS TOURNEY

"Cream of the Sport" Ready on Hand for Mississippi Valley Events.

St. Louis, Mo., July 3.—Fifty-one tennis players, the cream of this sport following in the Mississippi valley, were ready this morning to take the courts in the Central States annual tennis tournament scheduled to open here today. Barring the re-occurrence of showers the grounds of the St. Louis Amateur Athletic association will be in good condition for the meet.

Interest is centered especially on R. Darrough and M. Monnett of Hugo, Okla., and it is predicted by students of statistics that this team should be able to defeat Roland M. Hoerr and Drummond Jones, known locally as the "championship trust."

Hoerr is defending the single championship and with Jones the doubles championship of the Central states. For years they have held a majority of local, state and other championships. Darrough and Monnett hold similar honors in Oklahoma, the former being the single champion and both the doubles champions.

Other out of town players entered are T. D. and N. B. McCluskey of Carlinsville, Ill.; F. Benson, Danville, Ill.; J. S. Sullivan, Fulton, Mo.; J. S. Alden and W. F. Wiley, Anna, Ill., and J. C. McClenney of Columbus, Ohio.

GOLF AND TENNIS SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Northland Country Club and Duluth Boat Club Have Attractive Sport Cards.

Busy sport programs are down on the cards for today at the Northland club and Duluth Boat club, if the rain does not compel the calling off of scheduled events.

Play in the men's tennis doubles is down on the card at the Oatka branch of the boat club, while the bogey handicap, being match play against bogey, is the golf program at the country club.

The majority of golf players of the country club are in good form now and some good sport should result. The latest handicaps are to apply in the game scheduled for today, the winner of the event having his name inscribed on the trophy that is to be played for a number of times during the present season.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Coombs Bests "Big Six."

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 3.—Coombs and Mathewson engaged in a pitchers' duel here yesterday with Coombs having the better of the veteran Giant, shutting out New York 3 to 0, giving Brooklyn its third straight game from the Giants. Infield hits by Myers and Omars, Daubert's sacrifice and a fielders' choice gave the Superbas a run in the first inning. Daubert's single, Wheat's three-bagger and Cutshaw's hit for a base gave the home team a pair of runs in the eighth. Manager McGraw was put off the field for kicking at Umpire Eason's decision on Cutshaw's steal of third base in the third inning. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
New York .....000000000—0	4	2
Brooklyn .....10000002x—3	6	2

Batteries—Mathewson and Meyers; Coombs and Miller.

St. Louis 2; Cincinnati 0.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 3.—Meadows allowed Cincinnati one hit and St. Louis won, 2 to 0. St. Louis made its two runs by three successive hits and a sacrifice hit in the eighth inning. With the exception of this inning, Toney also pitched good ball. Groh spiked Betzsell in the fifth and the latter was forced to retire from the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis .....000000020—2	6	0
Cincinnati ....000000000—0	1	0

Batteries—Meadows and Snyder; Toney and Clarke.

Chicago 2; Pittsburgh 1.

Chicago, July 3.—Chicago bunched hits yesterday and defeated Pittsburgh 2 to 1. Good's single, a sacrifice and Saier's Texas leaguer gave the locals the winning run in the ninth inning. Their other run was made on singles by Saier and Williams, a sacrifice and an infield out. The visitors' lone run was a gift which resulted from a base on balls to Baird, his stolen base and Zimmerman's wild throw of Wagner's grounder. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburgh .....000100000—1	3	0
Chicago .....000010001—2	5	0

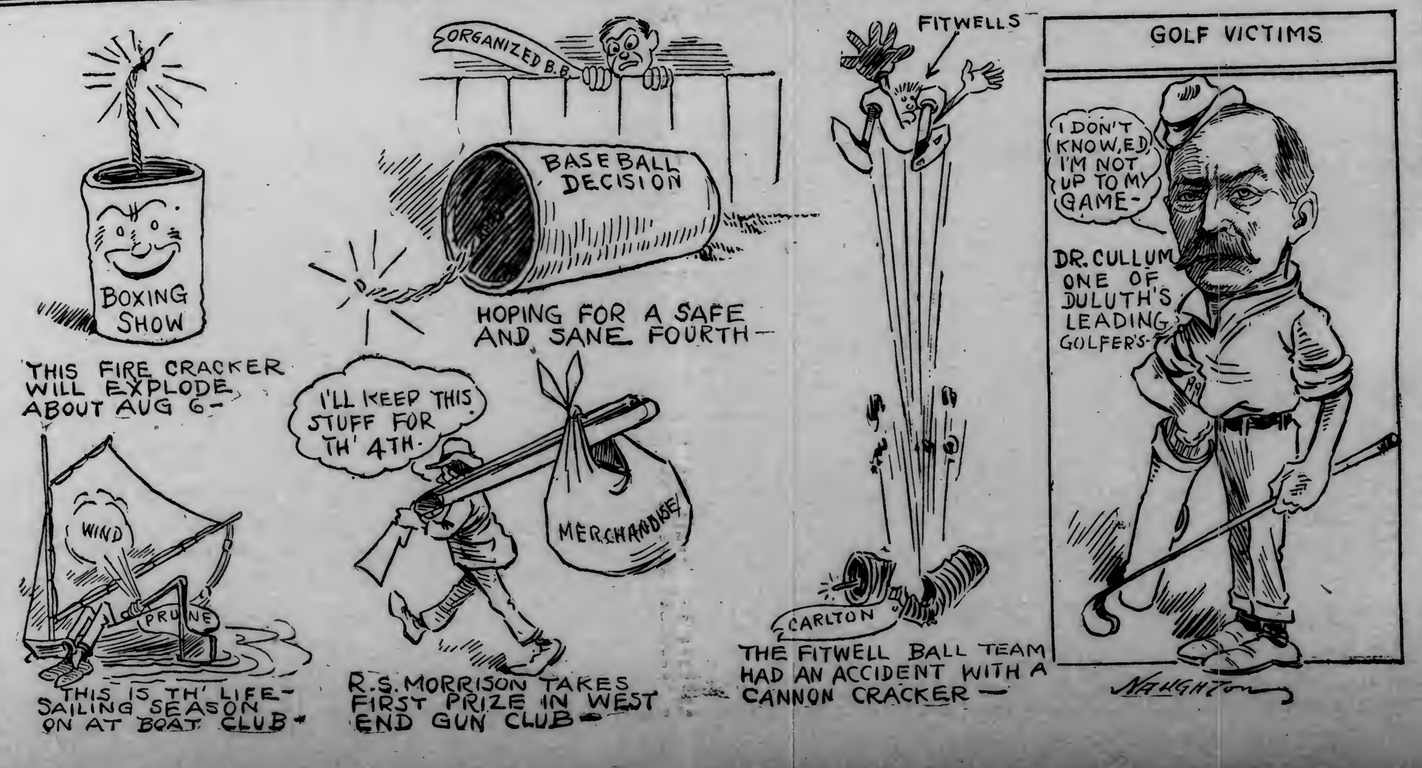

Batteries—Harmon and Schang; Pierce and Bresnahan.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Yankees in Fourth Place.

New York, July 3.—New York climbed back into fourth place yesterday by defeating Washington in a light hitting game 1 to 0. Both Pich and Shaw pitched almost invincible ball, New York making only three hits and Washington two. Only two of the hits went to the outfield. New York scored the lone run of the game in the sixth inning after the side should have been retired. Sweeney walked and was forced by Pich. With a double play in front of him, Neff fumbled on High, Peckinpaugh struck out and Maisel's single filled the bases. Pipp hit a slow roller through the infield and when Maisel beat Neff's throw to second for a force play, Pich scored. In the seventh, Washington filled the bases with but one out, but Gandil filed to Hartzell and the outfielder's fine throw doubled Connolly at the plate. Score:

AMERICAN ASS'N.

Split Double-Header.

Columbus, Ohio., July 3.—Cleveland and Columbus split a double-header yesterday, the visitors taking the first game 11 to 5 and Columbus the second, 2 to 1.

The first game was lost largely on account of errors in the sixth inning. In the second game Marty O'Toole pitched his first no-hit game. Cleveland's one run came in the second as the result of Shovlin's error, a sacrifice, a steal of third and an out, Wood scoring. Only one Cleveland man got to first base after the second inning. Columbus tied the score in the seventh on Knight's errors and Miller's single. The winning run came in the ninth on a pass, an infield hit and a drive past centerfield. Scores:

	R.	H.	E.
Columbus 00400010 00	5	12	7
Cleveland 10010080 0x	11	11	2

Batteries — Custis and Coleman; James and Devogt.

Second game:

	R.	H.	E.
Columbus 00000010 1	2	6	2
Cleveland 01000000 0	1	6	3

Batteries — O'Toole and Coleman; Collamore and Billings.

Minneapolis 7; Kansas City 1.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 3.—Sanders was wild and ineffective and Gardner, his successor on the slab, was batted freely, the home team winning the final game of the series from Kansas City 7 to 1. Yingling was never in danger. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Kansas City ...00100000 0	1	6	2
Minneapolis ...01102030 x	7	14	1

Batteries — Sanders, Gardner and Giebel; Yingling and Sullivan.

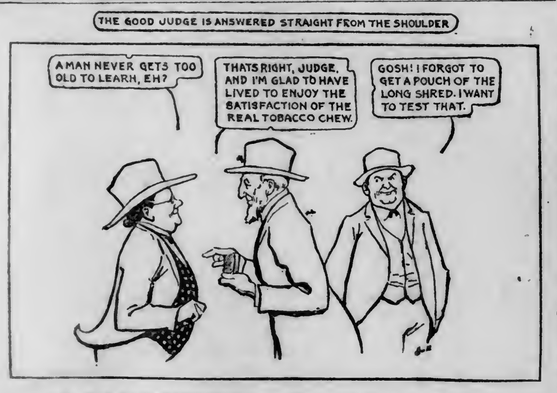

St. Paul 6; Milwaukee 5.

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—A home run by Riggert in the ninth inning that scored Martin ahead of him gave St. Paul a 6-to-5 victory over Milwaukee yesterday. Manager Clark of the visitors announced he would protest the game because Umpire Johnson permitted Leifield to replace Hall after the former had been ordered off the bench for criticizing decisions. The Saints filled the bases in the eighth with none out, but were unable to score, two men being thrown out at the plate. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Milwaukee 00010220 0	5	8	1
St. Paul 12001000 2	6	11	0

Batteries — Shackelford, Dougherty, Young and Brannan; Hall, Leifield, Steele and Johnson, Mann.

THE GOOD JUDGE IS ANSWERED STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

ANOTHER advantage of living in these days—the Real Tobacco Chew. Satisfaction at last for the man who has wanted the good tobacco taste.

There's a large amount of satisfaction in a mighty small chew. So it's no wonder men are telling friends about it.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

Tennis Halted By Rain.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 3.—Rain caused a postponement of all matches in the national clay court tennis championship here yesterday. R. Norris Williams of Harvard and George M. Church of Princeton will play today for the singles title.

BURMEISTER DENIES THE LEAGUE WILL CLOSE.

From Winnipeg comes a raucous denial from John Burmeister that the meeting in Duluth tomorrow of the Northern league magnates will mark the closing of the Northern league for the 1915 season. All reports and rumors that the league would close have been denied by the league executive.

It has been stated that the attendance on Dominion day was not what the magnates expected, this fact leading to the arise of various rumors. To all of these President Burmeister has flatly stated that the league would continue to play out its schedule.

SEVENTEEN WILL BE IN AUTO RACE

Speed Kings Begin 300-Mile Contest at Sioux City, Iowa.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 3.—The starter's bomb at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon will signalize the start of seventeen contestants for fame and money in the second annual Sioux City 300-mile sweepstakes motor race on the speedway course in Union county, South Dakota.

With a lightning-fast track, Eddie O'Donnell and Eddie Rickenbacher, winner of last year's race, stand favorites over the remainder of the field. Dario Resta, winner in the Chicago race, is backed to place.

It is expected over 25,000 will witness the contest.

BARRY SOLD TO BOSTON.

Athletic Shortstop Released to Red Sox at Good Price.

Boston, Mass., July 3.—Jack Barry, shortstop of the Philadelphia Athletics for several years, was sold to the Boston Americans yesterday. He will play second base for the Red Sox today, President Lannin stated last night. The deal was accomplished at a cost of about $8,000 to the Boston management, it was said, although neither Manager Connie Mack of Philadelphia nor President Lannin would announce the price officially.

Barry has been out of the game for two weeks as a result of an injury to his hand but Manager Mack said he was ready to play at any time.

The sale of Barry is the latest of a series of dismemberments of the baseball machine, which brought Philadelphia many championships of the league and of the world. Only a few of the stars of other days are left and two of these, McInnis, first baseman, and Schang, the young catcher, who is being played temporarily at third base, have been mentioned as being on the market. Manager Mack last night would not say whether any deals were pending for these players.

"It is my intention to build another championship team and my plans are well under way," he said.

Giants Release Murray.

New York, July 3.—The New York National league club last night announced that it has released unconditionally the veteran outfielder John J. (Red) Murray. Murray came here in 1909 in a deal with the St. Louis club. For years he was the star outfielder of the Giants.

Athletics Buy Two Minors.

Charleston, S. C., July 3.—Dana Fillingem, pitcher, and Everett Bankston, outfielder of the Charleston South Atlantic team, have been bought by the Philadelphia Americans, Ira Thomas, the Athletic's scout announced here last night. The players will report at the close of the South Atlantic season.

READY FOR BIG OUTING

Young Old Timers Have Committees at Work for July 18.

Benedicts and Bachelors Will Resume Old Differences on Diamond.

Charles R. Hoar, president of the Young Old Timers' association of the West end, has announced the names of members of the committees to have charge of the details of the annual outing of the association which will be held on Sunday, July 18. The picnic will be held at L. R. Birch's farm on Lester river.

It is proposed to make the trip in automobiles, leaving Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street at 8 o'clock on the morning of the picnic day. A good program of sports has been planned; among the attractions a baseball game between the married men and the single men. This ball game has been a feature of the picnics of former years. The personnel of the committees follows:

Refreshments—A. J. Otterson, chairman; A. N. Johnson and John Murphy.

Lunch—Iver Seasted, chairman; E. A. Thompson and William McCullum.

Printing—Axel Erickson, chairman; Ambrose Conroy and Fred Britts.

Invitations—E. A. Thompson, chairman; William Paulson, Otto Crowley, Louis Lavine and Thorwal Behrens.

Sports and entertainment — John Giestman, chairman; Alec Hanson, Axel Erickson, Frank Naughton and Oden Olson.

Grounds—Ernie Lloyd, chairman; Bert Collins and David Cody.

Decorations—L. R. Birch, chairman; David Williams and Richard Flynn.

CONSIDER SITE FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

Lutherans Will Purchase Cheapest of Four Sites Offered.

Approval of any one of four sites offered for the purpose of building a children's home for the Swedish Lutherans of the Minnesota conference was given by a representative gathering of church members last night, held at the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Three of the sites are in the western end of the city and the other in the eastern end of Duluth.

Rev. Theodore Eickstad of Superior, chairman of the conference committee for the building of the institution, presided at the meeting. The various sites offered were discussed from the standpoint of price, location, nearness to schools, parks, street car line and other improvements, and at the close it was decided that any of the four met with the necessary requirements.

The committee was instructed to purchase the site on which it could get the best price. This will probably be done within the next week or ten days. The other members of the committee are Rev. J. A. Krantz, pastor of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church; Rev. C. O. Swan of the First Swedish Lutheran church, Andrew Nelson of Superior, B. E. Wellberg of the West End and John A. Forsman of West Duluth.

FORMER PASTOR HERE.

Rev. Albert Johnson Will Preach Sunday in Church He Formerly Served.

Rev. Albert Johnson of Moline, Ill., and his two children, Marian and Paul, arrived in the city today and will spend two months in Northern Minnesota. Mr. Johnson was former pastor of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. Tomorrow Mr. Johnson will preach at the two regular services of that church and also speak during the afternoon at the Young People's meeting. While in the city he will be a guest at the home of former members of his congregation.

SWEDISH BAPTIST PICNIC

Monday Will Be Spent at Ironton Enjoying Annual Outing.

The Sunday school of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will hold its annual picnic on Monday at Ironton. The picnic grounds are west of Grassy Point and about a mile beyond the end of the Grand avenue car line.

The children, officers and members of the church who plan to attend the affair will meet at the church at 9 o'clock Monday morning. Automobiles will be provided for the members of the school.

A program of sports, baseball, races and other contests has been planned for the day. The party will be under the direct charge of Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the church, and officers of the Sunday school.

PICNIC ON NATAL DAY.

Norwegian-Danish M. E. Sunday Schools at Grassy Point Monday.

Monday will be picnic day for the Sunday school of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. The picnic will be held at Grassy point.

Officers, teachers and members of the school will meet at the church at 10 o'clock Monday morning and take street cars to the picnic grounds. A program of sports will feature the outing.

A. O. Anderson, superintendent of the school, assisted by Rev. H. A. Ofstie, pastor of the church, and teachers of the school will have charge of the outing.

DOUBLE IMPORTANCE.

Scandinavian Salvation Army Corps Bids Farewell to Officers.

Maj. O. Engvall of Chicago, one of the pioneers in the work of the Salvation Army in America, will be the principal speaker at the meeting to be held by the Scandinavian Salvation Army corps at its hall, 1631 West Superior street, this evening. Special meetings will be conducted every evening until Thursday next week.

For tomorrow night patriotic services are being planned. They will also be in the nature of a farewell for Ensign and Mrs. Lundgren, who have had charge of the local barracks for some time. They will leave next week for the South.

Vasa Order Entertains.

A musical and literary entertainment featured the activities of the Sons of Sweden lodge No. 170, Vasa Order, at Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, last evening. The program included vocal selections by the Orpheus singing society and musical numbers by the West End Tramp orchestra. The principal address was given by Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, pastor of the First Swedish M. E. church. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of O. W. Olson, Edwin Horngren, Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, Peter Olson and Gust Landin.

Funeral of Drowned Child.

The funeral services for Solvig, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bunkholdt, 307 Restormel street, who was drowned in the St. Louis river last Saturday, and whose body was recovered Thursday afternoon, was held this afternoon from the family residence. Interment was made in Park Hill cemetery. Rev. J. H. Stenberg, pastor of the First Norwegian Lutheran church had charge of the service.

Speaks on Missions.

Dr. Charles Edwin Bradt of Chicago, a representative of the board of foreign missions for the Presbyterian church, will lecture tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock at the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street. Dr. Bradt is in the city giving lectures on the work of the foreign missions and will show a number of stereopticon views of his recent trip around the world. He will speak tomorrow evening at the Glen Avon church.

Picnic at Fairmont.

The Sunday school of the First Swedish Methodist church will hold its annual picnic on Monday at Fairmont park. The school children will meet at 9 o'clock at the church and take street cars to the picnic grounds. A program of games and sports has been planned. A literary program will be given during the afternoon.

Tot Entertains Friends.

Miss Jean Tibbetts, 2305 West Third street, entertained yesterday in observance of her sixth birthday anniversary. The afternoon was spent in games, after which a birthday dinner was served. The following little folks were present: Margaret Cadotte, Hazel Minier, Lois Andrews, Kathryn Smith, Evelyn Palmer, Merlyn Minickler, Robert Driscoll and Dan Driscoll.

West End Briefs.

George Fredrickson left last evening for Dassel, Minn., where he will attend the annual meeting of the Northwestern Young People's covenant, which will be in session there during the early part of next week. He will represent the Young People's Society of the Swedish Mission church.

The Sunday school of the Central Baptist church will picnic Monday at Lester park. An all-day program is being arranged for the members of the school.

Mrs. J. J. Daniels, 215 North Twenty-first avenue west, left last evening for Dassel, Minn., to attend the annual conference of the Northwestern Young People's covenant.

The West end public library, 20 North Twentieth avenue west, will be closed all day Monday, July 5, according to announcement made by the librarian this morning.

EPIDEMIC OF CHICKEN POX

Disease Widely Spread During Last Two Weeks of School.

Chicken pox was so prevalent among pupils at the Washburn and Cobb grade schools during the last two weeks of the school year that health inspectors called it an epidemic.

Dr. J. H. Andres, inspector, in a report to Supt. R. E. Denfeld, stated that fourteen cases were discovered in the Washburn alone, within a few days. Dr. Andres' report was presented to the board of education members at the monthly meeting last night.

Dr. Denfeld also reported that the summer school had been successfully launched, with 384 pupils in attendance. This is a new high record for the summer session, which is under the supervision of Principal V. B. Ging.

Refering to the school census the superintendent stated:

"We hope to obtain it by school districts so as to furnish an opportunity for consideration of the needs of the individual districts and such changes as may be required in the arranging of grades. We are making use of a truant officer, also, in order that it may be as accurate a census as possible."

The board committee on administration and finance, through Director C. F. Colman, reported that 469 checks, amounting to $40,452.76, had been issued to teachers covering the June payroll. Of this $6,544 went to Central high school instructors.

Included in the expenditures for the month was $800, a check mailed to Mayor W. I. Prince as one installment of the board's share in supporting playground work throughout the city.

C. A. Bronson, clerk of the board, read the report of E. R. Cobb, treasurer, which showed a net balance of $70,515.98 for the year 1914-1915. The building fund receipts and expenditures were $303,029.42 and $188,427.02 respectively, leaving a balance of $114,-

ROMANCE OR COINCIDENCE? DOUBLE DIVORCE ACTION PUZZLES THE COURT

Housekeeper and Employer Seek Divorces on Same Day—"Not to Be Married," Both Tell Court.

Whether it was merely a strange coincidence that Franklin A. Downard, aged 43, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Bessie Jameson, aged 20, should seek a divorce from their deserting spouses on the same day or some hidden romance lurks behind their affairs, time only will tell.

When Downard appeared before Judge Cant in district court this morning as plaintiff in a suit to obtain a separation from Nettie P. Downard, aged 30, whom he declared ran away with another man two years ago, Mrs. Jameson, who has been his housekeeper for the past eighteen months, testified in his behalf.

Five minutes later, Mrs. Jameson came before the court as plaintiff in her own suit to secure a divorce from Charles H. Jameson, who left her at Winnipeg five years ago. Downard reciprocated as a witness.

Puzzles the Court.

The situation puzzled Judge Cant. It occurred to the court that the divorce proceedings might have a double significance. Both Downard and Mrs. Downard denied, however, that they were seeking a divorce for the purpose of marrying each other.

Mrs. Jameson testified that she had read some of the letters which Downard's wife had written to him after she ran away, in which she stated that she would never return to him. This prompted a question from the court as to whether her relations with Downard were of a confidential nature. Mrs. Jameson replied that they were not. She testified that Downard had not shown her the letters, but that she had found them in the house and had read them without any solicitation on his part.

Downard is a railroad section foreman residing near Hibbing. He was married to Nettie P. Downard, at Columbus Grove, Ohio, on April 11, 1903. His wife left him on July 26, 1910, he testified.

The Jamesons were married at Bathgate, N. D., on Nov. 24, 1904. Jameson left his wife while they were living in Winnipeg during the fall of 1910. Mrs. Jameson declared that she knew nothing of his present whereabouts. She is the mother of one child, Ruby Jameson, aged 9, of whom she is seeking custody.

Judge Cant took both cases under advisement. Ray M. Hughes appeared as attorney in both actions.

UNITED STATES IS FEEDING THE WORLD

Washington, July 3.—How the United States is feeding the world now that European fields grow battles instead of crops, is shown in official figures of the department of commerce, published today, which disclose a comparative increase of a half billion dollars' worth of food exports since the war began.

In all, the eleven months ending on June 1, foodstuffs to the value of $724,000,000 went out to the world from America, an increase of $433,000,000. The exports last year were $281,000,000. This great movement was the contributing factor to the record billion-dollar trade balance in favor of the United States.

ARCHBISHOP IS MAKING GREAT BATTLE FOR LIFE

Rochester, N. Y., July 3.—James Edward Quigley, Catholic archbishop of Chicago, critically ill here at the home of his brother, is making a remarkable battle for life, according to his physicians. The doctors, however, hold out no hope for his ultimate recovery. This morning's bulletin says the prelate's condition is unchanged. The patient is perspiring freely. His temperature at 9 o'clock was 100.8; pulse, 60 and respiration 23.

TRAIN FALLS THROUGH TRESTLE; MANY DEAD

Seattle, Wash., July 3.—Train No. 115 on the Gray's Harbor division of the Milwaukee railroad, which left Seattle for Hoquiam at 7:20 o'clock this morning, was wrecked near Rainier, twenty miles south of Tacoma. The general office of the Milwaukee are without details of the extent of the accident. The train was composed of three cars.

Through Trestle.

Tacoma, Wash., July 3.—All coaches except one of the train leaving Tacoma at 8:30 a. m. for Gray's Harbor broke through an overhead trestle of the Northern Pacific track half a mile from Rainier, twenty miles south of here, about 9 o'clock and fell on a freight train passing beneath. Dead and dying are being carried to Rainier. Loss of life is unknown.

CITY COUNCIL WILL NOT MEET MONDAY

Jitney Referendum Petition Will Be Taken Up Tuesday Night.

Monday being a holiday, there will be no regular council meeting in the evening. Instead, Mayor Prince announced this morning, the regular weekly session of the council will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. The city hall will be closed all day Monday.

One of the principal matters to come up for discussion will be the referendum jitney petition and the amendment providing for regular routes. The referendum petition was reported as insufficient last Monday and the jitney drivers have until July 9 to add more names. The amendment was laid over two weeks ago for consideration next week.

Commissioner Voss will introduce a resolution rescinding the contract with Rogers & McLean for the paving of Kenilworth and Sussex avenues. Property owners have filed a remonstrance petition against the pavement.

Third reading will be given the ordinance appropriating $500 for incandescent lights and second reading the ordinance appropriating $525 for repairing the city incinerator plant.

Saloon license renewals will be granted to W. A. Wagner, 15 Second avenue west, and August Toettcher, 605 East Third street.

SCHOOL FOR COPS IS LATEST PLAN

Will Be Taught How, When and What to Do.

Commissioner Silberstein plans to establish a training school for patrolmen similar to the one now in operation in New York.

Books for instruction, prepared by Inspector Cahalane, head of the New York training school, will be obtained by the safety commissioner shortly, he announced today and a school for officers started some time this summer.

The patrolmen will be taught discipline, the handling of children, action in case of accidents, stopping of runaways, court procedure, physical culture, traffic and street conditions and the handling of crowds at parades and large meetings.

NO DIPHTHERIA IN CITY.

Scarlet Fever Also on Decrease, Says Health Director.

There is not a single case of diphtheria in Duluth at the present time, while scarlet fever has dropped from 67 to 49 cases, according to the June report of Assistant Health Director Manley. On June 1 there were four diphtheria cases, while on July 1 there were none. Other comparisons follow:

	Cases on June 1.	On July 1.
Scarlet fever	67	49
Diphtheria	4	0
Erysipelas	2	2
Chicken pox	15	42
Mumps	10	11

"EYESORES" FAST DISAPPEARING

Old Ramshackle Buildings Giving Way to New, Says Inspector.

Duluth's insanitary bakeries and lodging houses, eyesores for years, are fast disappearing, according to the June report of Joseph Pratts, bakery inspector.

During June, Inspector Pratts inspected 52 bakeries, 62 basements, 62 boarding houses, 12 candy kitchens, 30 hotels, 10 ice cream parlors, 52 lunch rooms, 60 lodging houses, 44 soda fountains, 134 stores, 72 saloons and 25 wagons.

SUPERIOR FIVE CANDIDATES AFTER KONKEL'S JOB

Otto E. Eick Named to Run on the Socialist Platform.

There will be at least five candidates, who will seek the Superior mayoralty in opposition to Mayor J. S. Konkel at the recall election to be held on Aug. 10. The Socialists of Superior last evening named Otto E. Eick as their choice for the office.

Applications for petitions to present the names of Frank R. Crompton, former mayor, and David Doble as candidates were received by the city clerk yesterday afternoon. The other men who have announced their candidacy are: Victor Linley, former state senator, and James R. Hile, who opposed Mayor Konkel at the recall election a year ago.

The final day for filing the nomination papers is Wednesday, July 7. The primary election will be held on July 27.

Seven Jitneurs Fined.

Seven jitneurs were hailed into court yesterday for disobeying the recent ordinance passed by the Superior council. Fines of $1 and costs each were levied. The charges were for not wearing the badges required by the ordinance and displayed on the arm of the driver and for not having in plain sight the fare to be charged.

Henry Sienkiewicz, the famous Polish novelist and the author of "Quo Vadis?" is, like tens of thousands of his compatriots, a refugee, driven from home by the war. ASSAILANT'S STATEMENT Man Who Shot Morgan Says He Did Not Mean to Hit Him.

Wanted Banker to Use Influence to Stop Exportation of Arms.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 3.—Frank Holt, who shot J. P. Morgan, made the following statement to the Associated Press this afternoon: "My home is in Dallas, Tex. I have a wife and children and am 40 years old. I was born in this country and so were my father and mother. My ancestors were French and German; it was all mixed up.

"I received a degree of doctor of philosophy from Cornell in 1914, but before that I was an instructor in French. I was formerly an instructor in Vanderbilt university.

"I came to New York two weeks ago from Ithaca and put up at the Mills hotel at Thirty-sixth street and Seventh avenue.

"About a month ago I conceived the idea to see J. P. Morgan and get him to use his influence to stop the exportation of arms which make you and me responsible for the murder which is going on over there.

"I could not go from manufacturer to manufacturer myself, but I thought that Mr. Morgan's banking interests would render it more easy for him to accomplish this.

Not Influenced by Anyone.

"I have not been influenced to do this by anybody else. I think President Wilson's notes were fine, but they did not seem to do anything to stop the war.

"I came down here from New York this morning to put my idea before Mr. Morgan, but I depended upon him to formulate the plan. Of course, I did not mean to shoot Mr. Morgan, but I intended to stay there until something was done. I had a stick of dynamite in my pocket, I thought it might come in handy somehow. Some fool has said that I had nitroglycerin in my suitcase, but it was sonly benzine to clean my clothes.

"I went up to the house and got by the butler and walked upstairs. I had my gun in my hand. In the hall on the second floor I met Mr. Morgan. A woman whom I took to be his wife immediately preceded him down the hall.

Grappled by Morgan.

"She screamed and jumped away from—I don't know exactly where. Mr. Morgan did not give me a chance to say anything. He jumped at me and grappled with me and I fired in the air, thinking to scare him. They tell me I hit him. I don't know, for somebody hit me on the head.

"I hope Mr. Morgan is not badly hurt. I admire Mr. Morgan's courage in grappling with me. If he would only use his courage in the right direction and for the right things he will get somewhere and do something worth while."

Hired an Auto.

When Mr. Morgan's assailant arrived in Glen Cove from New York on a train this morning he hired an automobile from a garage near the station and was driven by a chauffeur, Mathew Cramer, to the Morgan summer home, where the shooting occurred.

As soon as the man had been overpowered after firing and wounding the financier some of the servants in the Morgan home procured a rope and tied him securely. Then they took him out on the lawn near the mansion to await the arrival of officers from Glen Cove, for whom they had telephoned. Judge William Lulster and Constable Frank McGill took him in an automobile to the courthouse at Glen Cove, where the contents of two suitcases that he had brought with him from New York were examined. One of these was found to contain three large sticks of dynamite and the other a large bottle of nitro-glycerin. There were also two large boxes of cartridges for his revolvers.

The prisoner, a tall man of the raw-boned type, was extremely reticent at first, but afterwards was persuaded to talk, although he would not say much about himself. Although he claimed to be an American citizen, courthouse officials said he spoke with a marked foreign accent.

Came From on High.

When asked by the officials who inspired the plot against Mr. Morgan, he denied that anyone had done so.

"It came to me from on high," he declared.

The man seemed to lack complete comprehension of what had happened in the Morgan home and of the effects of the shots he had fired. He could not be persuaded for some time that he had wounded Mr. Morgan, insisting that he had not wanted to kill him or even hurt him. When asked why he fired the shots he said he did so to frighten the financier.

Told that he had endangered his own life by his act because he might have killed Mr. Morgan, the prisoner said he did not mind that as he was willing to die, as he could not stand the European war any longer.

When Judge Lulster told him that his shots had wounded Mr. Morgan the prisoner insisted this could not be so.

Shot to Frighten.

"I did not hurt him," he cried. "I shot to frighten him. I hope he isn't hurt. I shot away from him just so he might be frightened. You can do as you wish with me. I did my duty; you do yours," he told Judge Lulster.

The courthouse officials concluded after the completion of their examination that the man was not rational. He persisted in declining to tell his name.

Among other things the man had with him was a group of railroad tickets to points in various parts of the country. He also had $40 in cash.

Mr. Morgan had made arrangements to go to Bar Harbor about Sept. 1, after a visit to the Pacific coast, for which he was expecting to leave on July 8, returning about the end of August.

A BITTER PILL.

Philadelphia Record: The night was pitchy dark, and Robinson seemed to have been driving his car round and round in circles for some hours and hours. He hadn't the foggiest notion where he was; in fact, had lost his way completely. The hour was midnight, and now it had just begun to rain.

Robinson felt very bitter toward the world. At length he came upon what appeared to be a signpost; though what was written on it, try as he would, he could not see. He shook the post, and swore at it. But that helped him not at all.

So, taking off his shoes, he fumbled in his pockets and eventually brought out a box of matches. Luckily it contained a match—just one match and no more.

Slowly and with much labor, Robinson proceeded to climb the post, and at the top, anxiously and carefully, he struck the match.

What he said then cannot be printed. The flickering glare of the match showed these three words:

"Try Tinker's Tablets."

HOW HE LEARNED.

Puck: The Clergyman—I had no idea profanity was so prevalent till I began to drive a car.

His wife—Do you hear much of it on the road?

The Clergyman—Why, nearly everyone I bump into swears frightfully.

"Marry or quit your jobs" is the advice County Superintendent of Schools Keppel of Los Angeles is giving 100 alien "schoolmarms." California laws provide that teachers must be born in the United States, must be naturalized American citizens or must have married Americans.

"Talks on Newspaper Advertising"
By TRUMAN A. DeWEESE.

The Art of Presentation

This is a high-sounding title. We have to stand for a great deal of high-sounding rhetorical flapdoodle in the name of Advertising. But after all, the principles that underlie successful advertising are very simple. The "art of presentation" in Advertising is the application of literature to salesmanship. Advertising is too often mere "literature." This is because Advertising has drawn copy-writers largely from the ranks of the 'literary fellows." The average salesman cannot write a good advertisement, and the average literary fellow cannot write a good advertisement because he is not a salesman.

It is one thing to give information about a saleable commodity and quite another thing to create a desire for it. It is one thing to create a desire for an article, and quite another thing to create a demand for it. I might write an advertisement, phrased in faultless diction, describing the Victrola and keep on writing advertisements without ever inoculating a human being with a desire to possess one. The reader would say to himself "that Victrola must be a wonderful invention"—but the idea of possessing the instrument is to the reader a remote possibility—something for the other person. That is because the man who wrote the advertisement is not a salesman.

Now, suppose we put a little salesmanship into the advertisement, taking advantage of the popular craze for dancing. Let us show how easy it is to reproduce the new dance music in all its rhythmic beauty in the home. Through picture and clever phrasing it gradually inoculates the young lady of the household with a desire to possess a Victrola. It conveys a new idea of the Victrola and creates in the young lady's mind a new want. The desire that has been created in her brain becomes a demand—and this demand eventuates in a purchase.

Now, this line of appeal will not do for all households. You cannot confine the appeal to those who have gone crazy over the "Fox Trot," for, after all, they are only a small percentage of the population. How about the man who loves the good, old Southern negro melodies—who never heard "My Old Kentucky Home" without the tears coming to his eyes? And then there is the home pervaded by a deeply religious atmosphere where one of the good old hymns brings a hush of reverential silence like a benediction of beauty from the spirit world. You cannot reach that household by picturing the delights of the Tango.

I have before me the advertisement of an Association of Florida Fruit Growers who have banded themselves together to give the public a guarantee of quality through a trade-mark. The purpose of the association is to educate the consuming public to look for this trade-mark when buying oranges or other citrus fruits. But one has to scrutinize this advertisement very carefully before he finds the trade-mark, and when he finds it there is nothing in it that suggests the fruit to the popular intelligence. The word "citrus" does not mean anything to the great body of consumers. The trade-mark ought to be suggestive of the wholesome, healthful lusciousness of oranges and grapefruit. It ought to "make the mouth water," and so long as the purpose of the advertising is to fix this trade-mark in the popular mind it should be the most prominent thing in the advertisement.

This is the "art of presentation" which lies at the basis of all successful advertising and which employs all the arts of the clever salesman. In the printed advertisement it must do in a few moments in thousands of homes what the salesman of cleverness and impressive personality may do with one possible purchaser. This "art of presentation" is more important in newspaper advertising because it is the newspaper advertising which must create the demand for a product. Magazine advertising may give information about a product, but the newspapers must move the goods.

Affair given for the members of the Evening Drama class by Mrs. E. Frank Barker in honor of Mrs. Engel, night.

SATURDAY.

Dance at main house of the boat club.

THE last lap of June, always a popular month with brides, shared attention with the performances of "Tango Town," which were given by the King's Daughters for the benefit of their day nursery. Affairs at the country and Kitchi Gammi clubs were postponed from this week on account of "Tango Town" and the rehearsals for it, but there were the usual dances at the main house of the boat club and Oatka branch.

Tuesday Mrs. W. J. Olcott entertained at a bridge luncheon at the country club. Covers were laid for twenty.

Wednesday Mrs. W. C. Agnew was hostess for a luncheon of eleven covers at the country club in honor of visitors from Ohio and Massachusetts. In honor of several of the out-of-town guests for the Levin-Levy wedding Mrs. Albert Friss entertained at luncheon Wednesday and that night Mr. and Mrs. Gust Levin entertained at dinner in compliment to Miss Rae Levy and Alfred Rosenholtz, both of St. Paul, whose engagement was announced the night before. The regular Wednesday dance was held at Oatka branch of the boat club.

Miss Helen Williams was hostess for a dinner in honor of her mother, Mrs. John G. Williams, at Ye English Inn Thursday night.

The King's Daughters gave "Tango Town" Thursday night, Friday afternoon and Friday night at the Orpheum.

This afternoon Miss Mabel Vernon of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Gertrude Hunter and Miss Elsa Ueland of Minneapolis spoke at the library clubroom in the interest of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage. Tonight they will hold an open air meeting at Superior street and Third avenue west. The regular weekly dance will be held tonight at the main house of the boat club.

The women's tennis tournament in singles, which began this morning will be continued all day Monday. The men's tournament in singles and doubles will be held Monday at Oatka.

Monday will be a gay day at the Northland Country club with sports for children in the afternoon and a dinner-dance at night.

Mrs. A. M. Marshall will entertain at luncheon at the Kitchi Gammi club Tuesday in compliment to Mrs. Henry Marshall of Swarthmore, Pa.

The wedding of Miss Harriet Shannon and Harry Frederick Sleepack will take place in the presence of relatives Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of Bishop James McGolrick.

Wednesday night, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Merrill will entertain at dinner at the country club in compliment to Miss Eleanor Kelley of Superior, who made her debut this week, and the regular Wednesday night dance at Oatka will be preceded by the first "Oatka Lark" from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock.

The wedding of Miss Amy Ogilvie and Alexander Macdonald of Virginia will take place Wednesday night at Lester Park M. E. church, and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson, 4218 East Superior street.

Mrs. E. Frank Barker will entertain Friday afternoon and night in honor of Mrs. J. C. H. Engel. In the afternoon the guests will be the members of the Duluth Drama Study class, and at night the members of the Evening Drama class.

The usual dancing party will be held at the main house of the boat club Saturday night.

Events of Interest

Miss Margaret Grannis of 4729 McCulloch street entertained twenty-four guests at a linen shower yesterday afternoon in compliment to Miss Ruth Bjorge, whose wedding to Alfred Norman Lynne of Elbow Lake will take place July 14. Duluth Composer's Song Sung at National Musicians' Meeting

MISS FAITH HELEN ROGERS.

Miss Faith Helen Rogers' prize song, "A Ballad of Trees and the Master," was given "Artists' night," Tuesday night, at the biennial convention of the National Federation of Musical Clubs in Los Angeles. Miss Rogers' composition was sung by Mrs. King Clark, a dramatic soprano, with the composer at the piano. She played one of her own unpublished compositions called "Meditation" at one of the Los Angeles churches Sunday night.

The Los Angeles Examiner said of Miss Rogers:

"Although a very young woman, she has long since made a mark for herself as a church organist and as a concert pianist and now she has been brought prominently to the front as a composer by her prize song, in which she set to music Sidney Lanier's most beautiful poem.

"'I have been composing for four or five years,' she said, 'but at first I did not take my compositions seriously. I never even tried to publish anything and no one was more surprised than myself when my song won the federation prize. Where did I get my musical ability? I don't know, unless it was from my grandfather, who led the village choir.'"

In addition to Miss Rogers, Duluth and the Matinee Musicale are represented at the music festival by Miss Carlotta Simonds, recording secretary of the National Federation of Musical Clubs; Miss Ruth Markell, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge and Miss Frances Woodbridge. Letters home say California hospitality is something magnificent and that everything is being done for the pleasure of delegates and other guests.

Sunday's Los Angeles Tribune contained a picture of the national officers, including Miss Simonds and Miss Adelaide Carman of Indianapolis, chairman of the publicity committee, who spoke in Duluth last winter at the federation day program of the Matinee Musicale.

"Fairyland," the $10,000 prize opera, was prefaced by a morning lecture on it by Ethel Graham Lynde of Berkeley. Her lecture, which she termed an "opera talk," gave an analysis of both the music and libretto and the entire event, as Charles Wakefield Cadman, the composer, said later, "showed conclusively that Horatio Parker, who composed the music, can write melody, and that the librettist, Brian Hooker, has created a gem." The "opera talk" was considered the educational prelude to the opera itself and was so generally appreciated that it was decided to repeat it. Ethel Fitch Muir, soprano, and Kathleen Howard appeared alternately as "Myriel" in the presentations of "Fairyland" at the music festival.

Glen Avon Girls' Choir Gives Cantata at Church

DOROTHY WOOD.

ELOISE LAWRENCE.

The girls' choir of Glen Avon Presbyterian church, under the direction of R. Buchanan Morton, gave Charles Darnton's cantata, "The Christian Pilgrim," last night at the church. The soloists were: Miss Marian Thompson, Miss Verna Appleby, Miss Dorothy Wood, Miss Gertrude Wangenstein and Miss Eloise Lawrence, and the duets by Miss Eloise Lawrence and Marjorie McCabe. The trio was sung by Miss Dorothy Wood, Miss Helen Thompson and Miss Emily Tupper.

Mr. Morton played the accompaniments on piano and organ, and during the offertory played the largo from Dvorak's "New World" symphony.

Weddings and Engagements

Miss Edna Marie Ericson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ericson of 1001 East Third street, and Alfred Russell McGuire of Ironton, Mich., son of Mrs. Harriet J. McGuire of Milwaukee, formerly of Duluth, were married Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. John A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church. The ceremony was followed by a dinner of twelve covers.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire, who left for a two weeks' camping trip at Bay Lake, will make their home after Sept. 1 at Ironton.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

I Am Not a Man Hater.

Just because I am not a man hater and to prove to a reader that I am ready to discuss the faults of women and admit that they have a few occasionally, I'll tell you some of the things that a man called to my attention in his appeal that I treat men more humanely.

"Why," he asks, "do women persist in getting on to the three rear seats of an open car when they know men are permitted to smoke, and then look daggers at any man who dares pursue his privilege? Why don't they wait over a car if they cannot take things as they find them? Why do they seem to prefer these seats when there are vacant seats ahead of them where they know they will not be disturbed by the 'horrid' tobacco fumes?"

I agree with my unknown accuser of harshness against men that women ought not to be offended if men continue to smoke after they have entered their domain bounded by the three seats, if there are other vacant seats to be had. But if a woman is obliged to enter a smokers' seat because of the crowded condition of a car, I should say men might refrain from smoking, since the cars are not maintained for smoking purposes for the special comfort of any one set of people, but for the safe, sure and comfortable transportation of all kinds and conditions.

This doesn't by any means end this man's tirade against women. He claims a woman will enter a car and stand near the door waiting for some one to rise and give her a seat. There will be plenty of room for her to seat herself further along in the car, but she refuses to stir more than a foot or so from the door. This in the closed car. Whether she is too indolent to walk or too timid and fears that the movement of the car will unbalance her I do not know, and cannot enlighten my friend on any of these points. This man is convinced that she does it simply to show her superiority and how abject a slave a man is to her whims, caprices and fancies.

And again, "Why do women group themselves about a car door and choke the passageway so that people who desire to alight have to fairly fight their way out?" That is easy of explanation. They want to be the first out at some station and keep the exit in sight. This is a fault that women must own, but it is not one that they must shoulder alone. Men are quite as capable of filling up a doorway as women, and they do it with the same air of abstraction when it suits their convenience. And they are far more incapable of being budged and pushed aside because of their strength.

The Opportunity Has Come!

Tuesday we begin our forty-first

Semi-Annual Clearance Sale

To sacrifice a selected number of garments with ruthless disregard of values or prices for which they were bought to sell.

We have just invoiced our entire stock—counted and scrutinized every garment in this exclusive shop—to bring to light the odd lots—surplus stocks—display pieces—odd colors—odd sizes—one, two, or possibly three of a kind left from some earlier favored models (all this season's styles)—

Which we have cut deeply their prices regardless of original values to close out completely and immediately.

Truly the opportunity for women and misses to save on seasonable attire is here Tuesday.

We cannot send sale goods on approval owing to limited quantities—Please do not ask it.

PIONEER DULUTH WOMAN CALLED

Mrs. Dorcas MacDougall Ends Long Career of Activity.

Mrs. Dorcas MacDougall, wife of the late Colin P. MacDougall and probably one of the best known of Duluth's pioneer women, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. J. Thompson, 320 Fourth avenue west, at 4 o'clock this morning. She was 66 years old.

Mr. MacDougall, who died in 1884, was closely identified with the early upbuilding of the city. As a dock construction contractor, he built the first outside breakwater of the Duluth harbor, and the first elevator. Since her husband's death, Mrs. MacDougall has been active in civic and social organizations, and is widely known. She was born in Canada and came to Duluth in 1871.

In addition to her sister, Mrs. Thompson, she leaves a daughter, Mary; a sister, Mrs. Mary Newett, living in Montana, and a sister and two brothers who live in Canada. Mrs. MacDougall has made her home with her daughter, Mary at 215 Second avenue west. A son, John, also survives.

Funeral services will be held from Crawford's undertaking rooms Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A. at Proctor, will preach in the morning at 11 o'clock, at which there will be special music by the choir; the Bible school will meet at 10, with Clyde Cordner, superintendent; the Christian Endeavor will meet at 7:30 in the evening, and the evening services at 8 will consist of a patriotic sermon and appropriate songs.

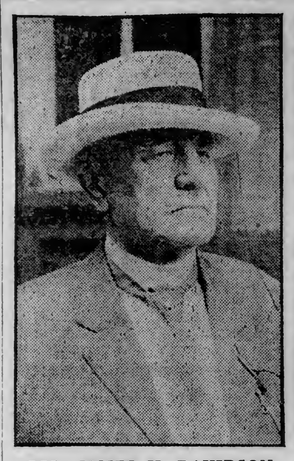

Evangelical Association.

At the Hope Evangelical church, Fifth street and Sixth avenue east, the Sunday school will render a Children's day program at 10:30 a. m. The cantata entitled "The Festal Queen" will be a special feature of the program. The Young People's alliance meets at 7:15 p. m. and the preaching services begin at 8 o'clock. The evening service will be conducted by the Northwestern college quartet, which will render several musical numbers.

Orthodox Christianity.

At the church of Orthodox Christianity, Oak Hall building, Second avenue west and Superior street, services will be held at 10:45 a. m., the subject being, "Invitation." The church is open every week-day afternoon from 2 to 4, for a public restroom.

NOTED SPEAKERS AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH IN JULY

COL. JAMES H. DAVIDSON, Who Will Conduct Patriotic Service.

REV. REESE B. KESTER, B. D., Of Minneapolis.

During the absence of Rev. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First Methodist church, on his vacation, arrangements have been made to have the pulpit of the church served by a number of noted speakers, and it is expected that the attendants at this church will be given some excellent discourses on the four coming Sundays, for which the speakers have been announced.

The first one, who will appear tomorrow, will be Col. James H. Davidson of St. Paul, who will conduct a patriotic service. Col. Davidson is a speaker of wide repute and is in great demand at summer assemblies, chautauquas, conventions and on the winter lecture platforms. Other speakers engaged to supply the First Methodist pulpit are as follows:

July 11—Rev. Reese B. Kester, B. D., pastor of Simpson M. E. church, Minneapolis.

July 18—Dr. Samuel F. Kerfoot, president of Hamline university.

July 25—Dr. A. C. Stevens, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, St. Paul.

SUPPLIES FIRST CHURCH.

Dr. Hersey, Church Awakening Specialist, at First Presbyterian.

The pulpit of the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street, will be supplied during July by Rev. Scott F. Hershey, Ph. D., of Angola, Ind. He will preach tomorrow for the first time for that period, both morning and evening.

Dr. Hershey is a specialist in the work of awakening churches to a higher interest, and in a number of instances, he has taken charge of churches with great success until their pastors are chosen and appear on the ground. That will be his mission in the First Presbyterian church during the time he serves here.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

The subject for endeavor study this week is "National Ideals and How Home Missions Will Promote Them;" reference, Isaiah lxiii:1-7. The following services will be held in Duluth.

First Presbyterian—The leader will be Miss Louise Coe. Weather permitting, the society will have its meeting at 7 a. m. in Chester park. Young people from other societies are invited.

Highland Presbyterian—Mrs. A. H. Mutschler will be the leader, using the regular topic at 6:45 p. m. This is a patriotic service.

Lakeside Presbyterian — This society will meet at 6 o'clock at the church with Frank Crasswoller as leader.

Union Church—The service of this society will be held at o'clock at room 201 Glencoe building. Being the first Sunday of the month, every member is asked to respond in person to the roll call.

Westminster Presbyterian — Loyal Schober will be the leader for this meeting which is held at 7 o'clock. The regular topic will be used.

Union Notes—Nearly 600 persons attended the annual moonlight excursion given last Tuesday by the City union. A net sum was realized with which to cary on the temperance work of the union.

Several endeavorers will leave Monday or Tuesday to attend the World's convention of Christian Endeavor to be held at Chicago, July 7 to 12. Among those who will attend are H. A. O'Brien, Miss Rose Gottschald, Ernest Cottschald, Edward Johnson, Francis Dever, and Miss Rose Taylor. The Minnesota delegation will travel on a special train from the Twin Cities over the Milwaukee road.

Rev. James O. Buswell of Minneapolis has signified his intention to address the Endeavorers of Duluth at their rally July 16. Other speakers will also be provided—an echo meeting from the big convention being planned for.

Field Secretary Evans of the State Endeavor staff was a Duluth visitor Wednesday passing through here on his way to Hinkley. He held a rally meeting at Cloquet Tuesday night.

EXPERT TELLS OF INSTINCT OF BIRDS

Dr. Witmer Stone Gives Interesting Address to Duluthians.

Although birds never see the building of their nests, yet after they are born and able to fly away, they construct their homes in trees, chimneys and under eaves in just the same manner and with the identical material used by their parents.

This interesting information was given to an audience of bird lovers last evening by Dr. Witmer Stone, curator of the Academy of Natural Sciences at Philadelphia and president of the Society of American Ornithologists, at the home of Horatio S. Newell, 2431 East Fifth street. About fifty men and women heard Stone's address, which included also a series of colored stereopticon slides.

Another interesting feature of the address was the explanation by Dr. Stone of the method used by ornithologists in identifying and tracing the movements of all wild birds. Small aluminum bracelets, he said, are placed on the legs of these birds shortly after their birth. He gave a concrete example of an experience a bird lover had recently, when he placed rings on the feet of two birds that flew down his chimney into the living room. The birds were released and the following year one of the birds flew down the same chimney. That type of bird, said the speaker, migrates every winter to South America, so that by the ring it was possible to learn that a bird, after crossing a continent, returns to the same country, the same town and even the identical spot for the summer months.

Dr. Stone, with the aid of slides, showed bird life in all its phases. How the birds build their nests and care for the young was also an interesting part of the talk. G. S. Richards of this city operated the stereopticon.

Dr. and Mrs. Stone arrived here this week from San Francisco, where they attended the annual convention of the Society of American Ornithologists. During their stay in the city they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Newell. They will leave for Philadelphia next Tuesday.

DEFER ACTION ON ST. VINCENT ROAD

Duluth County Officials Confer With Aitkin Board.

Aitkin county commissioners will defer giving their decision on the Duluth-St. Vincent road matter until after the meeting of the Aitkin county board on July 12.

The Duluth-St. Vincent highway between Duluth and Grand Rapids traverses three counties. In St. Louis county it has been constructed to the Aitkin county line. In Itasca county, it has been built from Grand Rapids to the Aitkin county line. A mile of the proposed highway crosses a corner of Aitkin county. Aitkin county, so far, has shown no willingness to build the connecting link.

Yesterday committees from the St. Louis and Itasca county boards waited upon the Aitkin county commissioners. They announced that they would give their answer after July 12.

The construction of the Duluth-Moorhead road has practically been completed. It will be open to traffic Aug. 1, according to C. M. King, Itasca county commissioner, who was in Duluth yesterday. The road will connect Duluth with Carlton, Cromwell, McGregor, Kimberly, Rossburg, Aitkin, Brainerd, Staples, Wadena, Detroit and Moorhead.

DULUTH MEN ENJOY TRIP.

Party Reaches Houghton After Fine Journey Down Lake.

A party of Duluthians who left Duluth last Thursday on the launch Trilune for a pleasure trip down Lake Superior have reached Houghton, and send word that they are having the time of their lives. The party is bound for Marquette, and will return by way of Isle Royale.

According to a dispatch received, the offices on board ship are parceled out as follows: Capt. Stacy Hill is master; Earl Pattison is chief engineer; Clifford Cook, wheelsman, and Roy Mills, H. B. Haroldson and Walter Dacey are first-class deckhands and dishwashers.

The yacht made a fast run, it is said, making the trip in 24 hours and 8 minutes. All were intact at Houghton and said to be becoming expert sailors.

MUST PAY FOR TAKING MARKKANEN'S HAY

Because John Markkanen converted to his own use eighteen tons of hay belonging to Andrew Korhonen, the latter will take judgment against him for $126 in district court. The alleged appropriation took place on Aug. 1, 1914, according to findings filed by Judge Bert Fesler before whom the case was tried this week. It was also shown at the trial that Markkanen had appropriated to his own use certain household goods belonging to Korhonen.

He made an offer in court, however, to return them on demand of the defendant. The court held that with reference to the household effects no conversion had taken place.

RECORD YEAR FOR TOURISTS

Indications Through Advance Inquiry Are for Unusual Number.

Many Signify Desire to Come By Auto From Southern Sections.

While load after load of summer visitors are deposited in Duluth by the Great Lakes steamers, present indications promise that by land there will be just as many persons flocking into the city during July and August.

According to advices received by Commercial club officials, there will be an unusually large number of summer tourists who will seek the charms of Duluth this year. Not alone by rail, but by automobiles as well, Duluth will find herself receiving innumerable summer visitors throughout the next two months.

"We have received inquiries," the Commercial club announces, "from all over the Northwest, and it is our belief that there will be the largest influx of automobile tourists into Duluth this year that we have ever had the pleasure of welcoming.

Would Avoid Heat.

"The great majority of the inquiries seek information concerning the condition of the roads and highways leading into Duluth. Hundreds of persons from Iowa, the Dakotas and Southern Minnesota will evidently seek relief from their sweltering July and August days, and will come to Duluth, lured by the famous slogan, 'It's cool in Duluth.'"

An unusual amount of rain during the months of May and June has put the roads leading to Duluth in a very poor condition. Better weather is hoped for, and as a result the roads will likely be more fit for automobiling. The Commercial club is helping to boost the better roads movement, especially the highway connecting Duluth with the Twin Cities. This would be the road that would get the great majority of the travel, and it is the hope of the Commercial club that this highway may be completed as soon as possible.

TWENTY HOSPITALS AT MILAN FOR WOUNDED

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Milan, June 12.—Twenty large military hospitals, furnished according to the requirements of modern medical and surgical science, have been prepared in Milan for the reception of the wounded. All the hospitals are linked up with the railway station by street car lines for the conveyance of the wounded, which are graded at the station according to their wounds and sicknesses. It is estimated that Milan and vicinity has 25,000 beds at its disposal.

CONVICTED WOMAN WILL APPEAL CASE

Minnewaukan, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Convicted of manslaughter, Mrs. Hans Sogge, of this place, will appeal to the supreme court.

Mrs. Sogge is now at her home, seriously ill, and it is doubtful if she will ever be called upon to serve the sentence that was imposed upon her when she was found guilty of participation in the murder of her grand child—the baby of Mrs. Elmer Jones. Mrs. Jones and her husband also were convicted.

COMMENT ON PLAYS AND PLAYERS — WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS PROMISE

BALDWINS AS "UNCLE TOMMERS"

Stock Company Will Revive Old Favorite for Week's Run.

Baldwin Players will turn "Uncle Tommers" next week.

Beginning with the Sunday matinee, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be the attraction all next week at the Lyceum theater, with matinees Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday.

It is fifteen years since Duluth has seen a performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and then it was what is known to the theatrical profession as a "tent show." During that time a new generation of theater-goers has arisen and Mr. Baldwin believes they will welcome the opportunity to see "Uncle Tom" for the first time.

Mr. Baldwin is planning a rather elaborate production of the old favorite. He has engaged a troupe of colored youths from the Nashville school for colored boys to take part in the production and they will appear in several plantation scenes, singing and dancing.

Selecting the cast for the play was a rather difficult problem, and it will give many members of the company some unusual roles. Miss Anne Bronaugh, the leading woman, for example, will appear as "Topsy," who "just growed." It is a rather unusual part for a stock company leading woman.

Harry L. Minturn, the leading man, will also be called upon to do some unaccustomed work as Uncle Tom and he will appear as the old slave.

Mark Elliston will be the villainous Simon Legree and Miss Margaret Lotus will be Eliza, whose crossing of the ice has become famous. "Little Eva" will be played by Phyllis Thibideau, the child actress who has appeared this week in "East Lynne."

Mr. Baldwin has designed his production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to appeal especially to children. "There must be 10,000 to 15,000 children in Duluth who have never seen 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,'" he said and if we could entertain all of them next week we wouldn't have room for anybody else. It is also vacation time and the children will have an opportunity to see the old play. I want to give just as good and as dignified a production as is possible, without any cheap specialties or claptrap."

The last performance of "East Lynne" will be given tonight and then following the week of "Uncle Tom" the Baldwin Players will return to modern plays again. "The Squaw Man" will probably be the next attraction for the week of July 11, although this has not been definitely decided upon.

"LITTLE EVA" AND "UNCLE TOM,"
In "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Which Will Be Presented All Next Week By the Baldwin Players.

SPARKLING COMEDY AT NEW GRAND

Many Classy Features Billed for Next Week's Program.

Cool, comfortable and convenient, with an array of light entertainment in the way of classy vaudeville and charming photoplays, the New Grand is an ideal place of amusement these summer days. The present bill is an exceptionally entertaining one, full of life and ginger, and scintillating with bright and clever offerings.

William Morrow and his company of associate players in a musical comedy diversion, "Hogan's Millions," divide the headline honors with charming, vivacious, Kathryn McConnell.

In "Hogan's Millions" Mr. Morrow has a skit that sparkles with rich humor and clever songs, all of which register in the "hit" class.

Away from the ordinary singing and dancing act is the offering of Kathryn McConnell, eccentric, grotesque singing and dancing comedienne. Miss McConnell's songs are new and she puts them over the footlights in a clever manner. In her dances she exudes magnetism and her personality sparkles with effervescence.

The Volente Brothers, "wizards" of the accordion, play all classes of music ranging from the raggy syncopated airy to grand opera and back again to the old-time melodies.

A pantomimic acrobatic sketch is the offering of the Three Alvarettas, who have an offering brimming over with good wholesome fun and clean-cut acrobatics.

Charlie Chaplin heads the photoplay bill in a rip-roaring comedy, "His Favorite Pastime," which is one of the best in which this popular comedian has appeared.

A two-reel story of every-day life, "The Struggle Upward"; one of the Helen Holmes stories of railroad life, "Near Eternity"; a cartoon comedy, "In the Swim," and the Hearst-Selig News of events complete a royal entertainment.

On Monday the new bill is headed by the Three Lyres in a comedy-musical diversion of tinkling tunes and tickling comedy.

Versatile Bill Dooley in little bits of everything in a vaudeville way; Eastman and Moore in a singing and talking skit, "His Gypsy Sweetheart," and Cooper and Ricardo in character comedy, songs and chatter, are among the other vaudeville offerings.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are featured in the "Providence and Mrs. Umry," the photoplay feature in three reels. Two comedies complete the program. On Tuesday and Wednesday the sixth chapter of "The Diamond From the Sky," entitled "Shadows at Sunrise," will be added to the above bill.

ORGAN PLEASES REX PATRONS.

Music and Star Film Program Arranged for Next Week.

A bit of news that may add to the pride theatergoers take in the Rex theater, is the fact that Minneapolis with her 300,000 population and more, and her five large theaters does not in any one of them have as fine and large an instrument as the Casavant three-manual organ in the Rex. And in the hands of Kenneth E. Runkel, with his native ability, training and experience as a concert organist, the organ numbers add greatly to the entertainment.

Max Figman and Lois Meredith will make their first joint appearance in the Rolfe-Metro feature, "My Best Girl," Monday and Tuesday. This is the first comedy drama on the Metro program and is even funnier and more charming than Mr. Figman's former success, "The Man on the Box." Lois Meredith crept into the friendship of everyone who saw her at the Rex when she played the part of the telephone girl in "The Woman," which she played some weeks ago.

Wednesday and Thursday an entire English company will produce William Faversham and Margaret Anglin's success, "Brother Officers," at the Rex. Racetrack scenes and high society make the production so full of color and life, one feels truly British for one hour.

If sponsors count for anything, "The Dictator," at the Rex Friday and Saturday, should be high-class. John Barrymere, brother of the illustrious Ethel, is the star. Richard Harding Davis, the author, and the famous Players Paramount company produce the picture. But no matter who was the author or the producer, the announcement that John Barrymore is to appear probably means a full house for those dates. The minute he smiles from the screen a carnival of mirth begins. John Barrymore is considered one of the cleverest comedy actors on the speaking or screen stage. So successful has Brother John been in pictures that now Sister Ethel Barrymore has signed a year's contract on the Metro program and will shortly be seen at the Rex in her New York success, "Shadows."

MAX FIGMAN AND LOIS MEREDITH,
In Photoplay at the Rex.

MISS KATHERYN M'CONNELL,
Eccentric Singing and Dancing Comedienne Now at the New Grand.

an of "A Fool There Was," and "Kreutzer Sonata," will be at the Lyric theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This noted French actress, leading woman of the Theater Antoine and the Gymnase, Paris, is the rage of the country.

As Iza in "The Clemenceau Case," she is another alluring siren, fascinating to her victims. In other hands than Director Brennon, this story might have been unpleasant, but in his guiding hand it becomes a wonderful story of throbbing emotions.

A critic says: "I was thrilled to the marrow by the terrific sweep and power of this marvelous drama never before have I seen a packed theater in tears and excitement and then electrified by a climax that brought them shouting and cheering."

When the picture, "A Man and His Mate," flashes the ruggedness and blunt strength of the Golden West on the screen, you seem to feel you are booked for action—big, thrilling, red-blooded action—and a climax to satisfy the hungriest moving picture enthusiast in the country.

Today is the last opportunity to see this picture at the Lyric.

The SUNBEAM

Headed by Charlie Chaplin in his latest and funniest comedy, entitled "Work," in two parts, the New Sunbeam theater presents another excellent feature bill for tomorrow. Charlie Chaplin has been working night and day at the Essanay studios at Los Angeles in order to get enough plays ahead so that the releases could be made regularly and announced far enough in advance so that the exhibitors could plan for showing his plays.

In the Chaplin comedy, "Work," this imititable comedian is shown in the role of a paperhanger and he gets into all sorts of trouble during the progress of the film.

"A Child of the North," written by Frederic Chapin and produced by the Vitagraph company in two reels, is the special feature picture on Sunday's program. It is a poetic Indian legend, taken in the frozen North and many sensational incidents are portrayed. "Tiger Bait," a Selig Jungle-Zoo wild animal story in one reel from the story by Wallace C. Chilton, completes the bill for Sunday.

Members of the Duluth lodge of Elks who attended the recent convention of the order held at Faribault and the other members who were not present can catch a glimpse of what was doing there, as pictures taken of the convention will be shown at the Sunbeam on Wednesday and Thursday. The pictures were taken by the Northwest Weekly's operator and are said to be high grade.

Friday and Saturday Mary Fuller, the idol of the Edison company, will make her reappearance in the serial story, "What Happened to Mary," that created such a furore when it came out last year in connection with the story of the same name that was run in the Woman's World.

It will interest a number of people to learn that Mrs. Benjamin F. Keith, the widow of the well known vaudeville magnate, was quietly married on June 20 to Dr. George D. Kirkpatrick at Sparta, Ohio. Mrs. Keith was Miss Ethel Byrd Chase, a daughter of P. B. Chase of Sparta, who at one time owned the vaudeville theater which was purchased by Mr. Keith. She was married to the theatrical manager in October, 1913. They went for a honeymoon cruise aboard Mr. Keith's yacht. Mr. Keith's death occurred in March, 1914, at Palm Beach, Fla. Dr. Kirkpatrick is 38 years of age and has practiced medicine in Washington for ten years.

Charles Dillingham has refused an offer to send Montgomery and Stone in their new play, "Chin-Chin," to London this season. The piece has been going steadily in New York since last October and shows no sign of diminishing popularity.

New York is to have a French theater next season. The Berkeley has been secured for that purpose.

* * *

Three Daddy Long-Legs companies will go on tour next season, under the direction of Henry Miller. Ruth Chatterton will, of course, star as Judy in the play, and the Jervis Pendleton of her company will be Charles Waldron. This company will be seen only in Philadelphia and Boston. The Western company will be headed by Renee Kelly, with Byron Beasley in the title role. The Middle Western and Southern company will have Frances Carson, who recently appeared in "The White Feather," as Judy, and George Alison as Jarvis.

Vampire Woman at Lyric.

Alexander Dumas' drama of passion and intrigue, "The Clemenceau Case," with Theada Bara, the vampire woman of "A Fool There Was," and "Kreutzer Sonata," will be at the Lyric theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This noted French actress, leading woman of the Theater Antoine and the Gymnase, Paris, is the rage of the country.

As Iza in "The Clemenceau Case," she is another alluring siren, fascinating to her victims. In other hands than Director Brennon, this story might have been unpleasant, but in his guiding hand it becomes a wonderful story of throbbing emotions.

A critic says: "I was thrilled to the marrow by the terrific sweep and power of this marvelous drama never before have I seen a packed theater in tears and excitement and then electrified by a climax that brought them shouting and cheering."

FIRST WOMAN CLOWN OWES POSITION TO SLY DAN CUPID

MRS. MAY JARVIS.

A woman has broken into clowndom. It took cupid to batter down the doors for her, however. No amount of suffrage haranguing or mere circus brawn could have prevailed against the mighty wall of tradition behind which man, the clown, has entrenched himself.

One by one, women have invaded all three rings and four platforms and the aerial wilderness. Mere man is tossed about by Amazons of the sawdust, and when it comes to bareback riding, the women always win the praise. With the clowns it is different—or rather, it was. Whoever heard of a woman clown until now?

Her name is Mrs. May Jarvis, and she is the wife of "Art" Jarvis, who, she says, is the funniest clown in all Barnum & Bailey's great tented aggregation, coming next Saturday. It is because she is Mrs. Jarvis that she is a clown.

It happened this way: Last summer, the funniest man in the circus began to throw tender glances at the pretty ballet girl (quite against the rule of the circus, you know) and the pretty ballet girl began to notice how funny Mr. Jarvis was on the track, and how nice and quiet and polite he was behind the red curtain wall. When that began to happen, it kept right on happening more and more, until the first thing the pretty ballet girl knew she was being offered the heart and hand of the funniest clown in the circus.

Did she hesitate? Not she. She heard her opportunity when it knocked.

"I won't marry you," she said, "unless you let me be a clown, too."

"What! cried Mr. Jarvis. "You can't be a clown. You're a girl."

"Very well," said the girl. "Good night, Mr. Jarvis."

What could any man do in such a case?

"Art" Jarvis went to the manager and told him what a fine thing it would be to have a woman clown—something original, you know.

"All my grandfathers have been clowns for seven generations," the happy bride relates, "and all my life I felt in me the desire to follow in their footsteps.

"When I was 18 months old I made my debut as a clown with my uncle, George Adams, in Newark, N. J. My mother made me a little clown costume and painted my face. I walked on the stage perfectly composed and turned a somersault to the vast delight of the audience, but on coming to my normal position I happened to look out into the wings and saw my mother. I began to yell 'I want my mamma.' So they told me no good clown ever

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the famous English actor, who for the last two years has been saying his farewell to the leading American cities, will return to this country next October to make a tour of those cities he was unable to visit during his previous stay in this country. Forbes-Robertson will positively not be seen in any of the cities he has already said farewell to, but so great has been the demand that he include those places he has not played that he has decided to do so. He will have his own private car, and will limit his stay in each city to a few days. His repertoire will include "Hamlet," "The Light That Failed," by Rudyard Kipling, and "Passing of the Third Floor Back," the three plays in which he appeared during the past season on his coast-to-coast tour. He will be supported by practically the same company as last year.

Selwyn and company announce that they will present, by arrangement with Arthur Hopkins, in the early fall, a dramatization of W. B. Maxwell's "The Devil's Garden," the novel which created a sensation here and in England, where it was interdicted; and that they will bring over Norman McKinnel, the English actor, who was seen here in "Rutherford and Son," to play the principal role.

"The Garden of Allah" is to go on tour, commencing Sept. 6. The first performance will be in Allentown, Pa. From there all of the principal cities in the Middle West will see the performance. The cast is composed of the following: Lawton Butt, as Boris; Edythe Lattimer, as Dominee; Emmy Oswald, as Susanne; Frederick de Belleville, William Jeffry and Albert Andruss. The piece will be produced by Fred Stanhope. Mrs. Sie Hasan Ben Ali will sail today for Morocco, going thence to Cadiz to bring on twenty Arabs, who are necessary scenic as well as ornamental effects.

Hammerstein's famous Victoria theater, probably the best-known vaudeville theater in this country, recently was given into the hands of a wrecking crew and is no more. On its site the new Rialto theater will go up. It is to be the last word in theatrical construction.

Mona Limerick has sailed for London to produce a new war play called "War Babies." It will be seen in this country in the fall. A vaudeville sketch bearing the same title was recently given in Brooklyn, but this is in no way similar to the one which Miss Limerick is to produce.

When "Potash and Perlmutter in Society" is launched, the Perlmutter will be Julius Tannen, and not Alexander Carr, although Carr's former colleague, Barney Bernard, will be Potash as before. Tannen acted Perlmutter in the company that played here last season. The piece will have a change of name, too, and is to be called "Potash and Perlmutter, Incorporated." Carr, so far as can be ascertained, has contracted to star under H. H. Frazee's management next season. He is to appear in a play written by Clara Lipman and Samuel Shipman.

Patricia Collinge has been selected to assume the title role in "Pollyanna," the dramatic version of Eleanor N. Porter's novel, which is to be produced by George C. Tyler early in the season. It is to have its premier at the Blackstone theater, Chicago, early in August. Philip Merrivale, who was leading man with Mrs. Pat Campbell in "Pygmalion," has been engaged as leading man.

Charlotte Ives has been engaged by the Australian firm of J. C. Williamson, Limited, as leading woman for their principal dramatic company during the coming season. She leaves for Australia this week, where she will open in Sydney, early in August, in "Inside the Lines," which will probably be followed by "On Trial," "Under Cover" and "Kick In."

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will return to the stage next autumn. Mr. Sothern will make his reappearance without his wife. Under the management of the Shuberts, and by arrangement with Winthrop Ames, he will occupy the Booth theater throughout the fall and winter in a series of modern plays.

Next spring Julia Marlowe will join Mr. Sothern, and under the direction of the Shuberts they will tour the United States and Canada, appearing in Shakespearean repertory.

After trial performances in Albany and New Haven, the Shuberts and Lew Fields have decided to postpone indefinitely their production of the musical revue, "Hands Up." The present version will be entirely rewritten, and it is planned to have the piece ready for presentation in the fall.

* * *

Willard Mack's melodrama, "Kick In," is to be presented in London next autumn under the title of "Shell Out." Clifford Brooke, the English stage director who came to this country last September to stage "The Highway of Life" for the Liebler company, is writing the English version.

NEW 1,000,000 GALLON CONCRETE WATER TANK FOR WOODLAND DISTRICT

NEW 1,000,000-GALLON TANK AT WOODLAND NEARING COMPLETION.

TANK NOW USED IN WOODLAND DISTRICT, SHOWING NEW ONE IN REAR.

Duluth's largest covered water reservoir, now under construction at Woodland, is nearing completion.

Made entirely of concrete, which was poured continuously for thirty-six hours, so that the circular wall would not have a single break, workmen are now preparing to complete the roof, which will cover the tank. The reservoir will have a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons.

D. H. Clough & Co. have been working on the tank for the last month and it is expected that it will be completed sometime before Aug. 1, when water will be turned into the reservoir. Th tank will supply the entire Woodland district and the surrounding country.

Estimates place the cost of the reservoir at $14,000, which was appropriated by the council early this spring. The tank is being constructed at Minneapolis avenue, between Anoka and Mankato streets. It is just a short distance from the small tank and pumping station now in use.

NAMES META SINCLAIR AS HER HUSBAND'S SOUL MATE

Divorced Wife of Upton Sinclair Mentioned in Suit By Georgia Woman.

Millen, Ga., July 3.—Meta Fuller Sinclair, divorced wife of Upton Sinclair, is named by Mrs. Winifred Raoul, 18, and prominent in Atlanta society, in a suit filed here for divorce and alimony against William G. Raoul, Jr., a capitalist and Socialist whom she married last January.

Mrs. Sinclair, herself a protestant against the rites of matrimony, was under the rays of the calcium a few years ago when her friendship for the tramp poet, Harry Kemp, caused her husband, notwithstanding his pronounced ideas as to the relation of the sexes, to seek and obtain a divorce.

The Raoul petition further alleges that the husband met Mrs. Sinclair at a Socialist gathering in Cleveland, and on his return to Atlanta requested his wife to invite his new friend to visit them. This she did, she says, and soon afterward was told by him that "he cared more for the visitor than for her; that he had Mrs. Sinclair there to compare them and make his choice."

Mrs. Raoul states she thereupon left the house, going to live with relatives, but the visitor continued to occupy the Raoul home until June 21, when,

MRS. META SINCLAIR.

Mrs. Raoul alleges, the visitor went to live at the Hotel Estell, stopping there until last Saturday, when she left, presumably for Gulfport, Miss.

Raoul was arrested to prevent his leaving the state, and was lodged in jail, having failed to furnish a $25,000 bond. He is still in custody.

Mrs. Raoul is considered one of the most beautiful women in Atlanta. She is the granddaughter of the late W. R. Wadley, known as the father of the Georgia Central railway system. Raoul is the son of the late W. G. Raoul, once president of the Georgia Central. He inherited a large fortune from his father.

Raoul is 41, and the difference between his age and that of his wife caused her family bitterly to oppose their marriage. Finally they eloped.

ITCHY BURNING ALL OVER SCALP

Disturbed Rest. Scratching Irritated. Hair Fell Out. Trouble Arrested by

CUTICURA SOAP AND CUTICURA OINTMENT

"My ailment was scalp trouble caused by bad soap. I had an itchy, burning sensation all over the scalp which often disturbed my rest. I was also troubled with dandruff and my scalp was much irritated by scratching. My hair did not grow and fell out very plentifully.

"The trouble dated back to some five years ago and continued up to a few months ago. I used many remedies before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment which arrested the trouble immediately. My scalp is now in a very healthy condition and my hair luxuriant and grows very rapidly." (Signed) Mrs. Herman E. Rodine, 807 Clark St., Evanston, Ill., Jan. 27, 1915.

MILL CITY DRUG "RING."

Member of State Board of Control Believes It Exists.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 3.—A visit which C. J. Swendsen of the state board of control paid to the state hospital for inebriates at Wilmar Thursday convinces him that there exists in the Twin Cities a "drug ring" which is reaping enormously increased profits in the face of the Harrison narcotic act.

The number of drug users seeking cure from their habit at the state institution is greatly on the increase, and one of these unfortunates told Mr. Swendsen that the Harrison bill has boosted the price of drugs sky high but that they still are obtainable.

This inmate said that he paid $12 for sixty grains of morphine, which is just $11.40 in excess of the regular wholesale price for this amount of this particular drug.

Patients from Duluth said it was impossible to get drugs in that city, but they were able to procure them in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

PUPILS' LUNCH KNOCKED OUT

Preference of Teacher for Weiners Causes Board to Act.

Lunch Room Will Be Given "Recess" for One Year.

Recalling the old "wheeze" about the restaurant proprietor who went out for lunch, directors of the board of education abolished the Washington junior high school lunch room last night when they learned that Edward F. Geiger, head of the manual training work in city schools, went across to the corner grocery for a "hot dog" at noon time.

"The lunch is not being patronized," said President F. A. Brewer. "Mr. Geiger tells me that even the teachers prefer a weiner and a split biscuit to the meals served at the lunch room."

For three months the committee on schools has been working on a plan to transfer the lunch room to the Central high school, and put the high school store room in the space now occupied by the lunch room.

At the last meeting of the board members approved a plan to bring the lunch room to the Central high building at an estimated cost of about $1,500. This included the amount needed to remodel the Washington lunch room into a store room, and to equip two extra class rooms.

Room Needed for Classes.

After this action, Supt. R. E. Denfeld made a thorough investigation of the situation, and reported that all the room at the Washington school was needed for classes, and that the store room should not be moved from the Central high building if it could be avoided, as it would involve considerable expense, and be an inconvenience when ready for use.

"Pupils are not patronizing the lunch room, as it is," reiterated President Brewer. "Should it be located in Central high school, the patronage would be better, but we can't find room for it in this building."

Director J. R. McGiffert here interposed a statement to the effect that rats were plentiful in the high school basement and that girls were afraid to eat their lunches down there. Clerk Bronson admitted that rodents were doing considerable damage to supplies now stored in the basement.

Gets Year's "Recess."

Directors Brewer and Colman dissented when the question was put to a vote, but Directors McGiffert, H. J. Grannis, W. B. Getchell and L. Q. Greeley thought it best to give the lunch a year's "recess."

After the business of the meeting was finished, directors returned to the lunch room discussion, and finally agreed that they would try to get along without the lunch room for a year.

"Supt. Denfeld tells us an administration building is needed badly," said President Brewer, "and if we have to build one next year, it will solve the lunch room problem, as the store room space at Central high will not be needed for that, and can be used as a lunch room."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SUES HAMRE FOR ASSAULT

Former Thief River Falls Mayor and Wife Defendants in Action.

Alleged to Have Knocked Down and Beaten Workers for "Wets."

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the largest damage suits ever tried in Pennington county will probably come up at the present term of court. Larry Gillen is suing Former Mayor Trond P. Hamre and Bessie K. Hamre, his wife, alleging that as a result of injuries inflicted upon his person by the defendants, he has been injured to the extent of $10,000. The case grows out of a riot which followed a dry meeting in the auditorium here on the Sunday night preceding the option election in this county, June 11. Gillen was employed by the wet forces to distribute posters, and was standing in front of the auditorium when the meeting ended. The Hamres took exception to the posters and to Gillen, and it is alleged used incendiary language towards him, threatening to ride him on a rail, lynch him, and other similar remarks.

Mrs. Hamre assaulted Gillen, knocking him to the sidewalk and pulling his hair, according to the complaint, which further alleges that Hamre kicked and struck the plaintiff, and as a result Gillen alleges getting permanent injuries.

Stockholders Assessed.

As the result of an order filed yesterday with the clerk of court of Pennington county, and signed by Judge Andrew Grindeland, 130 stockholders of the defunct Red Lake River Transportation company have been ordered to pay an assessment of 100 per cent of the amount of stock held by them, to the receiver, G. Howard Smith, on or before Sept. 1, 1915. The liabilities of the company amount to $1,472.39, and all the tangible assets have been levied upon. The shares are of the value of $10 each, and eighty of the stockholders are liable for the full amount of their holdings. Many of them are farmers living east of this city.

Several Cases Finished.

Several cases have been finished in district court and the court adjourned yesterday until Tuesday. In the case of Hicks vs. Sponheim and Sands, to enforce payment of a $600 note given by Sponheim to Sands and then sold to Hicks, the jury returned a verdict for the defendants.

In the case of Dr. Brandenburg against the Electric railway, the case was continued until the next term of court in order to allow the plaintiff to amend his complaint.

In the case of J. W. McGinty against A. M. Arpin, in which the plaintiff sought damages for $450 for a dog that defendants had killed, the jury awarded damages in the sum of $120.

BLOODED STOCK AT POLK COUNTY FAIR

Showing Made at Fertile Exhibit Proves Big Eye-Opener.

Fertile, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Polk county fair closed here today with the banner attendance of the three days. Prof. J. S. Montgomery of the St. Anthony park farm, who judged the stock, said: "The showing of short horn cattle and blooded draft horses is among the best I ever judged at a county fair, and indicates the great strides being made in stock improvement in the Red River valley."

A feature of the fair was the exhibits of baking by the school children, and the splendid exhibit of plain and fancy sewing, indicating that the country about Fertile would be a paradise for bachelors desiring to shift from the state of single blessedness.

Some Racing Results.

In yesterday's races the results were as follows: 2:25 trot or pace, Green Bericia, first; May Verton, second; Sadie Halmore, third; Fritz Rindahl, fourth. Time, 2:26.

2:45 pace or trot, Marco B, first; Aliza Russel and Delta Sheldon, tied for second; Bill Sheldon, fourth. Time, 2:24¼.

The track was very heavy, the races being pulled off between showers, knocking off at least 10 seconds in the time that otherwise would have been made.

WANT PRESIDENT AT STATE FAIR

Effort to Be Made to Induce Executive to Come Next Fall.

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A decided effort is to be made to induce President Wilson to speak at the Minnesota state fair next fall. A special attempt will be exerted to obtain the president for Labor day, Sept. 6, the opening day of the fair.

According to the plan of the board, which is to be worked out in detail by a special committee consisting of Charles Patterson of St. Paul, President Charles P. Craig of Duluth, and Secretary John C. Simpson, a leading representative of each of the national parties and a possible candidate for the presidency will be invited to speak on a special day. Elihu Root of New York, Congressman Mann and ex-Speaker Joe Cannon of Illinois, Senator Borah of Idaho, and other prominent men of like standing, are of the character desired.

Less Automobile Races.

It was decided to reduce the scheduled automobile racing program of two days, in which a 200-mile race was to have been the feature, to a one-day program on Saturday, Sept. 11. A speed program with some special horses for purses aggregating $3,500 was substituted for Wednesday's auto race program. Definite programs for the modified speed program and the auto race program will be worked out immediately.

Contracts were approved with the Albert Lea high school band, an orchestra of ten pieces for the Hall of Fame, and the Morgan G. A. R. drum corps of Minneapolis. The latter will play two days.

A sum of $250 was voted to organized labor in each of the Twin Cities to assist the laboring men in putting on a Labor day program, co-operation with the Labor day program at the Minnesota state fair being promised.

A sum of $125 was appropriated for a big mushroom exhibit to be placed in Horticultural hall under the supervision of Mrs. Dr. Mary Whetstone of Minneapolis.

Appointment of Lester T. Banks of the Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis as assistant treasurer during fair week was made.

The offer of a trophy by the Saddle and Bridle club of the Twin Cities to be awarded to the local exhibitor making the best showing in the saddle classes at the society horse show was accepted.

Art Smith, the aviator who is filling a ten weeks' engagement at the Frisco exposition, and who is to appear at the Minnesota state fair for daily and evening performances during the entire week, was released from his Sunday engagement at Hamline to permit him to appear in a special program at Fort Dodge, Iowa, Sept. 5.

LEGISLATIVE ROLL CALL AGAIN READ

Loftus Speaking for Terminal Elevator, Scores Flickertail Lawmakers.

Aneta, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The attendance here today at the second day's debate between George S. Loftus, sales manager of the Equity Co-operative exchange, and Treadwell Twichell, a Cass county farmer, on the terminal elevator question, is larger than yesterday. From a number of adjoining counties friends of the exchange came to cheer their favorite leader.

The subject of the debate today was: "Should the last legislature have authorized the establishment of a terminal elevator in St. Paul?" Mr. Loftus took the affirmative and Mr. Twichell the negative.

Speaking along the lines of his address at various points in the state since the adjournment of the legislature, Mr. Loftus read the legislative roll call, showing the members who opposed and those who favored the terminal elevator. He did not spare the opponents of the plan.

Holds Legislature Derelict.

The main contention of Loftus was that the vote on the constitutional amendment authorizing the terminal elevator was so overwhelmingly favorable that the members of the legislature should have regarded the sentiments of the voters and enacted the bill authorizing the elevator. He claimed their failure to do so rightly subjected them to criticism and left them open to charges of suspicion as to ulterior motives, and their attitude in opposition showed an utter disregard for the wishes of the people of the state.

Twichell in Denial.

Mr. Twichell, in taking the negative side, explained that he was a member of the last legislature and that he had opposed the construction of a terminal elevator because of his beliefs and for principle and supposed he had the same right to his opinion as other people and could vote as he thought best without being charged with bad faith or ulterior motives any more than the advocates of a terminal in St. Paul could be held to have been purchased for their position. In a personal way he referred to the charges that he had been paid $25,000 by the Minneapolis chamber of commerce; that his wife had two brothers in the Minneapolis chamber; that he had a millionaire uncle who was engaged in the grain business, and a dozen other charges published against him by a paper which was an ardent advocate of the Equity Co-operative exchange and terminal elevator proposition. He contended all were as false as the charges regarding his wife's brothers, as she had none, and he had no uncle in the grain business and none in the millionaire class.

THIEF RIVER EVENTS.

Large Gain in Pennington County Wedding Licenses.

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The marriage license record for Pennington county for the first six months of 1915 shows a gain over the same period in 1914 of nearly 50 per cent. In 1914, from Jan. 1 to July 1, forty-three licenses were issued, and during the same period this year sixty-one were issued.

Miss Dagny Bakke and Albert L. Halverson were married in this city Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bakke. They left the same evening for a visit at the home of the groom in Battle Lake, after which they will go to Hillsboro, where Mr. Halverson will engage in business.

Mrs. C. R. Stowell and daughter Esther left Wednesday for Minneapolis.

GILBERT TEACHER WEDS.

Miss Mabel Whiteside Becomes Bride of Hurley, Wis., Lawyer.

Hurley, Wis., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Mabel Whiteside, a popular young woman of Hurley, and Marion F. Reid were married at the bride's home on Wednesday afternoon by Rev. George B. Thompson. Only relatives were present. The couple were attended by Miss Georgine Minder of St. James, Minn., and Everis Reid, brother of the groom.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Whiteside and has lived here practically all her life, being a graduate of the Hurley high school and the Duluth normal school and for the last three years has taught in the schools at Gilbert, Minn. The bridegroom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reid and is one of Hurley's successful young lawyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid left for Chicago and on their return expect to spend several weeks at the Reid cottage on Manitowish river.

Those who came from out of town to attend the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Marks and Miss Adah Woffenden of Park Falls, Miss Georgine Minder of St. James, Minn., Mrs. Francis J. Webb of Duluth and Miss Hazel Reid of Detroit, Mich.

SPILICH ARRESTED.

Alleged Dodgeville Thief Caught at Iron Mountain, Mich.

Iron Mountain, Mich., July 3.—John Spilich of Houghton county was removed from the St. Paul train upon its arrival at this station Tuesday. He is a bartender and was employed in a saloon at Dodgeville, owned by Mrs. John Messner. He is charged with decamping with $1,100 insurance money received on Tuesday because of the death of her husband. The prisoner was taken to Houghton. Chief Andrews arrested the man.

The previous mean temperature average was 56 deg. The warmest day of last month was 82 deg. on the 17th. The coldest day was 37 deg. on the 8th and 38 deg. was reached on the 23rd.

Hancock—John Marks will represent Hancock lodge of the Herman Sons at the annual state convention to be held at Escanaba.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Stevens Point—Three hundred dollars' worth of fireworks have been shipped back to the wholesale house in Chicago because business men in Stevens Point refused to pay their pledges as long as the agitation against saloons continued.

Milwaukee—Struck by a brick that inflicted a jagged cut in his left cheek, Paul Risen, a building contractor, may be disfigured for life. Konstanty Zbirowski, a former employe of the contractor, was arrested and is said by the police to have admitted the assault.

Stevens Point—Edward Kleszczinski was drowned in the Wisconsin river when he jumped into the water after running from a dance hall. With five companions, Kleszczinski raced to the river from the dance to see who could get into the river first.

La Crosse—Emanuel Markle is the only La Crosse survivor of Company B, Second Wisconsin Infantry, who was a member of the company on July 1, 1863, and took part in the first day's battle at Gettysburg.

Madison—Frank A. Bentley of Baraboo has been appointed by Governor Philipp executive clerk for the remainder of the legislative session. He succeeds Michael J. Cleary, newly appointed insurance commissioner.

Sparta—Sparta has entered upon its dry regime. Though Thursday was the first day without saloons, in reality the town went dry at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, when every barroom in the city closed promptly at the usual hour, with no particular incident or demonstration.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Bemidji—But ten arrests were made in Bemidji during June, according to the monthly report of Frank Ripple, chief of police. Fines amounting to $90 were imposed by Judge A. M. Crowell of the municipal court, and as all were paid no commitments were necessary.

St. Cloud—Dr. David L. Kiehle, former president of the state normal school in this city, and now living in Portland, Or., delivered a splendid address Thursday at the normal auditorium, which was packed by students and town people.

Middle River—The Middle River-Gatzke mail line changes operators July 1, Andrew Severt retiring and M. B. Sanberg assuming charge. The driving will be done by Jack Swanson. Mr. Severt moved the first of the week to Gatzke and has taken over his new mail route from Gatzke to Ilag.

Wadena—Workmen have made the excavation for the new depot and are now pouring the concrete for the foundation. Material for the structure is being rushed to this city as fast as it can possibly be used, and the work will be pushed with all possible speed from now on. It is not thought that the building will be completed until about the first of December.

Perham—Mrs. Henry Poos of Norborne, Mo., was drowned in Big Pine lake near Perham June 26. Mrs. Poos was suffering from nervous trouble of long standing. Deputy Coroner Miller, who investigated the case, ascribed death to accidental drowning. It is thought that the woman in a fit of mental aberration walked into the lake. Mrs. Poos was a little over 60 years of age. Her body was taken back to Missouri for burial by her husband.

SQUEAKING KIDNEYS!

Do not hesitate to promptly heed the warning your kidneys give you when they begin to lag in their work. When you feel those little "squeaky" pains in the "small of the back;" loss of appetite; highly colored urine; weariness you cannot account for—it means that your kidneys are not doing their work properly. The result may be fatal if neglected.

The remedy is a simple matter if you act promptly. Go to your druggist and get a box of genuine GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Haarlem Oil has been a standard remedy for all kidney and bladder troubles since 1696. It is imported direct from the ancient laboratories at Haarlem, Holland. Be sure you get the genuine GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. No substitute will give the proper result. Prices, 25c, 50c and $1.00. Your money positively refunded if you do not get prompt relief, and soon feel the old-time "ginger" of youth.

Wheat Turns Easy, With Selling on Better Crop Reports.

Flaxseed Develops Strength on Good Bidding By Crushers' Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 3.—There was a reaction in the wheat market today, due to the development of some selling pressure on reports that harvesting is making good progress in the Southwest and of ideal growing conditions in the Northwest. A large percentage of the July shorts at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg were furthermore reported to have gotten under cover, as was evidenced in a falling off in that demand. Locally the quotation in July wheat closed 1c easier and asked at that.

Expectations now are for heavy marketings of wheat at Southwestern points next week and that also contributed to an easier market tendency in the new crop futures. Shipments of over 100,000 bu of No. 1 and 2 northern wheat are expected to be made to Minneapolis early next week in accordance with contracts recently entered into. It is said that all the remaining old wheat in store at Duluth could be readily disposed of down there at good premiums, but holders are bullish on the score of supply and demand conditions. It is a subject of comment that Duluth millers are at present showing apathy in picking up supplies as attested in the quiet inquiry for cash wheat on the tables today.

Receipts of all classes of wheat here today were just 16 cars against 105 last year. At Minneapolis 178 cars were reported and at Chicago just 5 cars. Stocks of spring wheat in Duluth elevators are now down to only 528,000 bu, of which all but a small tonnage has been sold. This is regarded as having brought about an exceedingly tight position in old spring wheat market, the extent of which will be developed later.

July wheat closed 1c off at $1.39 asked. September opened unchanged at $1.07 and closed 1¼c off at $1.05¾ asked. December opened unchanged at $1.07 and closed 1c off nominally.

There was practically nothing doing in durum, and both futures closed unchanged, July at $1.27 and September at $1.07.

Flaxseed moved up moderately on the appearance of better crushers' inquiry and increased apprehensions regarding prospects for the crop on account of cool weather retarding the development of the plant over the Northwest. An easier tendency came in the late trading, final prices being off from their high of the session.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.74½, and closed 1½c up at $1.76 asked. September opened unchanged at $1.77½, and closed 1c up at $1.78½ asked. October opened unchanged at $1.79¼, and closed ¾c up at $1.80 asked.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed 1¾c up at $1.55½ bid, and October ¼c up at $1.59¼ asked.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 2¼c off at $1.30½, and London 1¾c off at $1.91.

Locally oats closed ¾c off at 50¾c; rye unchanged at $1.10@1.11, and barley unchanged at from 65c to 70c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed ½c off at 59¼c asked, and October ½c off at 43c.

Baltimore wired: "Good receipts new wheat here this morning and in spite of incessant rains quality is good. Receivers say receipts will be heavy next week."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Firmness in America and Buenos Aires and continued unfavorable American weather caused light offerings here. Spot market is very firm, unchanged to 1½d higher with the cargo market strong, winters early were 3d higher, advancing later Plates 9d higher, Manitobas 7½d higher and Indians one shilling higher. Delayed American harvest and scarcity of old wheat is telling on sentiment here, and the activity of submarines in destroying food ships is causing apprehension as to future arrivals notwithstanding recent precautions for safety. Spot holders are very firm and country markets strong."

Lecount wired from Watertown, S. D.: "Prospects through this country are nearly perfect. Stand is very heavy, and if this crop matures properly, it will be the greatest this country ever raised. Weather is very cool. Corn is making no progress, and I do not believe the crop in the northern part of the belt can mature."

Illinois crop bulletin (issued by the state board of agriculture), based on reports of correspondents, dated June 20: "Corn—A slight increase in area planted to corn for the 1915 crop is reported in northern and southern divisions of the state. The area is 101 per cent as compared with last year and 100 per cent in Central Illinois. The June 20 condition is 81 per cent of normal in Northern and Southern Illinois and 89 per cent in Central Illinois, a state average of 84 per cent.

"Winter wheat—Condition in Northern Illinois was 100 per cent of normal; in Central Illinois 95 per cent, in Southern Illinois 76 per cent; state average, 90 per cent.

"Oats—Condition was best in years, 99 per cent of normal, which is 38 points better than a year ago."

A Springfield, Ill., wire received by C. L. Lewis & Co. said: "Offerings of new wheat and oats were the heaviest of any day on the crop. Threshing of wheat is general in Southern Illinois this morning. Looks like the greatest crop of wheat and oats ever raised. Corn is making wonderful progress and is about six feet high, with the greatest prospect in years. If weather holds good over the holidays they will swamp us with cash wheat Tuesday."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Prospect of Increased Movement of New Wheat Gives Prices Setback.

Chicago, July 3.—Prospect of a heavily increased movement of new wheat from first hands led to a decided setback in values today in the wheat market here. Dispatches from Southern Illinois said threshing was general and that if the weather held good dealers would be swamped with offers by Tuesday. Furthermore advices from the Northwest told of a flattering outlook for a big yield in the spring crop belt. Opening prices which ranged from ½c off to ⅝c up were followed soon by a sharp decline all around.

Additional weakness resulted from announcements that a Baltimore exporter was cancelling purchases of new wheat. The close was heavy at 1@2⅜c under last night.

Favorable weather eased off corn. The market was also bearishly affected also by the weakness of wheat. After opening ⅜c lower to ⅛c advance, prices underwent a material general sag.

Talk of a surplus this season in the Southern states formed an element in the continued development of bearish feeling. The close was unsettled at ⅛c to ⅝@¾c net decline.

Selling on resting orders carried down oats. There was marked increase in country offerings.

Provisions weakened owing to lower prices for hogs. Lard especially was under pressure.

Wheat—No. 2 red, nominal; No. 3 red, $1.18½; No. 2 hard, $1.31½.

Corn—No. 2 yellow, 76@76½c; No. 4 yellow, 76c.

TEMPORARY DEPRESSION

Shooting of Morgan Affects Stocks for Only Short Time.

General Wiping Out of Losses and Closing Is Irregular.

New York, July 3.—Selling of St. Paul shares was resumed at the outset of today's short session, with general irregularity elsewhere. The first quotation for St. Paul was only at a slight decline over yesterday's close, but increased pressure soon caused a drop of 2¾ to 82, from which it recovered to 83½. "Soo" shares were off 2 points. United States Rubber lost a substantial fraction, while Northern Pacific fell 1¾ and Southern Pacific, Erie first preferred, and Kansas & Texas preferred 1.

Stocks were only temporarily depressed today on news of the shooting of J. P. Morgan. The market showed an uncertain tone at the outset, mainly as a result of renewed weakness in St. Paul. United States Steel, which is regarded as a Morgan specialty, broke 1¾ points while the selling was at its height, with losses of 1 to 2 points in other industrials, including some of the war shares. Railroad stocks, particularly the Pacifics and Grangers, had shown an early inclination to react in sympathy with St. Paul. Reassuring advices regarding Mr. Morgan's condition caused a general wiping out of losses. The closing was irregular. Bonds were easy.

ANACONDA DIVIDEND LIKELY TO BE RAISED IN SEPTEMBER

Six Per Cent Dividend Under All Contingencies Is Desired.

North Butte Directors Planning to Build Up Large Surplus.

Butte, Mont., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The increase in the dividend rate of the Anaconda Copper Mining company from 25 cents to 50 cents per share, quarterly, was not unexpected because of the big advance in the metal price. It was anticipated when John D. Ryan, president of the company, months ago predicted the greatest era of copper prosperity the industry had ever known. It is likely that the dividend rate will be still further increased at the September meeting of the directors. The present dividend is at the rate of $2 per annum on the old stock, and the next dividend will probably increase it to $3 per share on the old, or $6 on the new stock. According to the statement of a director it is the purpose of the company to make the stock dividends more of a permanent thing than they have ever been in the past, the aim being to maintain a 6 per cent dividend under all contingencies, if it is possible to do so. The Anaconda company, it is stated, is now earning about $5.50 per share on the old stock.

Some of the new concerns which Anaconda recently acquired, including its holdings of Inspiration, will soon add largely to the Anaconda income. The company owns 150,000 shares of Inspiration and the new smelter at Globe, Ariz., is expected to be a large revenue producer. With increased production and the benefits to be derived from the various economies introduced in mining and smelting in Montana the company's income locally will be largely increased and its costs greatly reduced. The company is producing at nearly its capacity now and will soon be producing 300,000,000 pounds of copper per annum. The cost, it is estimated, will be not to exceed 9½ cents per pound, and is likely to be much below that. At that price, however, it will be earning about $13 per share on the new $50 par stock at the present price of copper, which is around 20 cents per pound. This is on the Butte earnings alone, and with its new and extended interests elsewhere, in which it has succeeded the Amalgamated Copper company, there will be, of course, an enormous added income. The outlook seems to justify fully the optimistic prediction of President Ryan and the expectations of other officers of the company.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior Copper company earned net profits amounting to $2,638,448.79 during the year ending May 31, 1915, compared with $943,317.16 the preceding year, according to the annual report made by the company to the tax authorities. Some of the principal items in the report of operations compare as follows:

Tons ore	1915	1914
mined	367,481	368,060
Yield per ton	$16.98	$11.61
Gross yield	$6,242,095.85	$4,295,645.00
Mining and milling costs	1,955,283.77	.....
Paid for labor	1,378,400.91	.....
Freight on concentrates..	$42,604.17	.....
Construction and additions	154,718.00	$60,000.00
Smelting costs	461,137.31	.....
Improvements	189,903.81	.....

The total operating costs of last year were $3,603,647.06, and the increase in the net earnings over the preceding year was $1,695,151.63. There was expended last year a total of $562,108.19 for mining supplies. The cost of transportation is figured at $3.293 per ton, making the total of $42,064.17, while the smelting costs per ton were $1.255. The concentrates were shipped to Bartlesville, Okla., a distance of 1,640 miles; Caney, Kas., 1,525 miles, and East Helena, Mont., 72 miles. A note to the report states that these shipments do not constitute the total, as other concentrates were sold to the smelters and no record kept of the smelting costs. The costs of mining and milling were figured at $5.321 per ton.

North Butte.

The North Butte's resumption of dividends is amply justified by the company's earnings and exceptional showing in the mines. Forty cents per quarter, or $1.60 per year, is less than a third of what the company is earning at the present time, the estimated earnings on 20-cent copper being about $6.65 per share per annum. The purpose of the directors is to build up a large surplus and create a fund with which to develop the new mineral holdings on the east side of the Butte district where the company last year purchased more than 1,200 acres of land.

Butte-Alex Scott.

The Butte-Alex Scott mine was closed for several months last fall and during three months of this year, only about a third of the entire year being employed in production, but in spite of it the company makes a good report of earnings during the year ending May 31. The net profits were $26,640.32, against $10,620 the year before. The indications are that the present year, with the prevailing high prices of copper, will be a record-breaking one for the company in the matter of earnings. The figures contained in the annual report follow:

Tonnage for 1914—
June	3,240
July	3,478
August	479
Tonnage in 1915—
March	212
April	3,328
May	4,120
Total	14,857
Value per ton	$ 12.89
Gross value	191,415.20
Cost of mining per ton	4.76
Total cost of mining	70,721.13
Cost reduction per ton	46,465.06
Cost transportation per ton	.10
Total cost transportation	1,485.73
Cost of supplies	15,939.20
Improvements	29,077.76
Machinery	1,195.95
Paid for labor	52,944.64

Elm Orlu.

W. A. Clark's Elm Orlu Mining company, a zinc producer, reports net earnings for the year ending May 31, 1915, of $456,711, the gross proceeds having been $1,944,983. The expenditures were: Mining, $322,074; transportation, $346,624; cost of reduction, $693,852; construction, $267,722; total expenditures, $1,488,272.

Davis-Daly.

The ore body on the 2,500-foot level of the Colorado mine, recently struck by the Davis-Daly company has held out in the drift for more than 100 feet, during which it has maintained an average width of four to eleven feet. The vein was also drifted on in the opposite direction, but it pinched out, and the report became current that the main ore body on the other side had disappeared, but miners claim that that is a mistake. The new air compressor has been started at the mine and through it the company has overcome the handicap of the past, resulting from a lack of air. At present the ore is raised from the 2,500 to the 1,900-foot level by air and from the 1,900 to the surface by steam. The new installation will permit of the mining of a larger quantity of ore, and will increase capacity about 75 per cent. Only about fifty tons per day have been mined and shipped to the Pittsmont smelter for treatment. The strike on the 2,500 of the Colorado mine is the best showing the Davis-Daly has yet had in all the years of its existence, and the management refuses to enthuse over the find because of the frequent other "strikes" that have been made in the course of years, but which never developed into any permanent ore body. There is a hope that this strike will prove the real thing. Crosscutting for the Hesperus vein still continues, but will not be reached for several months yet.

Barnes-King.

The details of the purchase of the Shannon group of claims, in the Marysville district, by the Barnes-King Development company, have been closed, and the total price to be paid is stated to be $227,000, but only $13,700 of it will come out of the Barnes-King treasury, the remainder of the purchase price to be paid out of the net earnings of the property itself. The initial payment of $13,700 is the final payment to the original owners of the property from the syndicate from which the Barnes-King company bought it, and by that payment complete title passes to the company. The latter agrees to sink a shaft 200 feet, and is to be allowed $3.75 per ton for mining and milling after deducting 10 per cent for loss in treatment. Out of the first net proceeds the owners of the property are to receive $39,523.08 to reimburse them for money expended. After this is paid the profits above the $3.75 per ton and the 10 per cent deduction are to be divided equally until the owners and the Barnes-King each receive $60,000. After that the remainder of the purchase price of $116,000 will be paid, after the allowance to the company, at the rate of 75 per cent of the net earnings to the owners of the property and 25 per cent to the Barnes-King company.

Butte & Great Falls.

The Butte & Great Falls Mining company, which owns some promising claims, partly developed, northeast of Butte, has made arrangements for extensive development work, to begin immediately, a number of Illinois capitalists, after an inspection of the property, having taken a large interest in the company and have advanced the necessary funds for the work. A shaft on the property will be run from that point to the vein which was cut near the surface recently, and from which assays of 11½ per cent copper, 24 ounces of silver and $1.60 in gold to the ton were obtained. The company is figuring on the question whether to use steam or electric power, and as soon as decided new machinery will be installed, including hoisting engine, air compressor, pumps, etc., with capacity sufficient to work to a depth of 1,500 feet.

GREENE-CANANEA GETTING ACTIVE

Four Blast Furnaces in Operation and Concentrator Starts Soon.

The Greene-Cananea Copper company resumed the shipment of copper from Mexico on Wednesday, June 23, when some blister metal was forwarded over the newly repaired Naco railroad for refining in the United States.

The company last week blew in two additional blast furnaces, making a total of four in operation, besides one reverberatory furnace.

Before the end of July the concentrator will also have started operations and Greene-Cananea will then be operating in full swing.

On June 16 1,000 men were put to work in the mines and smelter at Cananea, in addition to the force of 300 or 400 men who have been at work continually since last fall. Two of the eight blast furnaces and one of the three reverberatories were then blown in at that time and General Manager Ricketts added that "as soon as the mining force is organized two more blast furnaces will be started. It is not the intention at present to push production, but if conditions remain favorable, as they appear to be now, the production will be gradually increased to the maximum."

The maximum production capacity of the Greene-Cananea Copper company is estimated at 70,000,000 pounds per year. It is probable this figure may even be exceeded under favorable conditions.

Ordinarily the Green-Cananea operates six or seven of its blast furnaces with one or two held in reserve, and, operating under these conditions, turns out about 4,000,000 pounds of copper per month. With four blast furnaces and one reverberatory in operation, the output should be at the rate of 3,000,000 pounds, as forecast by a high official of the company. From the present rate of progress it is apparent that it will not be many months before the output of Greene-Cananea is worked up to 5,000,000 pounds per month.

ORO BELLE MINE SHOWS UP WELL

Gold Property in Which Upper Peninsula People Are Interested.

Oro Belle, the gold mine, the majority of whose stock is held in Houghton, Calumet and vicinity and which is located at Hart, Cal., has had its shaft, 814 feet in depth, thoroughly repaired by the force of the Tonopah Belmont, which has the property under option for a year, and on the 700-foot level is being opened up and crosscuts are being driven to the 600 and 800-foot levels. According to a letter from President W. B. Andrews of Duluth at the property under the date of June 19, the crosscut on the 600-foot level should reach the vein almost any time and the muck is panning about $4 and some of the rock shows free gold. The rock from the north and south drifts of the 700-foot level is all going on the ore dump, that from the north drift panning from $15 to $20, and a sample taken across three feet the day the letter was written should have a value of about $25 to $35. The southern drift in the pan showa values of about $85, a small zone in the face yielding from $90 to $110. Fifteen samples taken by Supt. Fox of the Tonopah Belmont, which were made to show values in certain places, but which give something near an average of the gold, ran from $2 to $89.60, the ore being taken across lengths varying from seven-tenths of a foot to four feet and the average value being $19.16. The vein on the 800-foot level should be entered within ten days. The vein on which this work is being done is the No. 1 which outcrops to the west of the shaft 100 feet up on the hillside. It was encountered by the shaft at a depth from 665 to 683 feet and the average assay value for fifteen feet cut by the shaft is $8.44.

STOCKHOLDERS OF BRAINERD-CUYUNA WILL VISIT THE PROPERTY ON SUNDAY

BRAINERD-CUYUNA MINE IN CITY OF BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.) — Stockholders and friends of the Brainerd-Cuyuna mine, visiting the property on their Fourth of July excursion Sunday, will find the mine hoisting its first ore. The shaft has been put down 164 feet and that level drifting was carried on to the ore body. An electric pump of 1,600-gallon capacity, has been installed and its working is giving satisfaction. There are steam pumps too. Nearing the ore, pumping increased from 200 to 500 gallons per minute. A special train arriving in Brainerd at 11 o'clock Sunday morning will carry the party to the mine to view the workings, the train being parked on the siding. Charles C. Jones of Duluth is the managing director.

At the Barrows mine of the Brainerd Mining company, buildings have been improved and the stack of the powerhouse painted. Many hope the fee holders may resume mining, which was discontinued by the company which leased the fee before. The Barrows Mining company is receiving machinery for shaft sinking. C. B. Rowley is the superintendent in charge.

At the Wilcox mine of the Canadian-Cuyuna Ore company the production is being increased. The Inland Steel company's Thompson mine washing plant is handling about 1,000 tons a day. The Rowe pit mine concentrator is expected to be in operation on Aug. 1. The total amount of ore hauled daily by the Soo line is reported to be from 65 to 80 cars. A solid train is run daily.

A new drill is working on the Hans Scar place in the village limits to Deerwood, drilling being carried on by Oscar Carlson of the Hale-Bradley Exploration company.

A number of misleading articles have recently appeared regarding the Cuyuna-Sultana Iron company. Its present plans have not been announced any further than its intention to get out a few cars of ore to be shipped to different furnaces to be tried out. The United States Steel corporation has made no overtures for the property. The present plan is practically completed and the sinking of No. 2 shaft will be resumed in a few days and in all probability an experimental washing plant will be installed immediately.

The Biwanago Mining company has quit-claimed to Cuyler Adams and William D. Edson the north half of the northwest quarter of section 18, township 46, range 29.

TONNAGE TO BE INCREASED

Details of Hancock's Agreement With the Quincy About Settled.

Cherokee Has Uncovered Five Lodes, Two Having Fine Copper.

Houghton, Mich., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hancock will have arranged all the details incidental to the agreement with the Quincy as to the use of the No. 7 shaft of the latter, the milling and smelting of the rock hoisted thereby the Quincy, so that the work of examining the drifts from that shaft across to the Hancock and of opening those requiring the least repairs can be begun by the middle of July. The tonnage is about 175 a day and the yield between 17 and 18 pounds. In four or five months the tonnage will be increasing very markedly.

Cherokee.

Cherokee has by its trenching uncovered five lodes, two of these being each about thirty feet in width with some fine copper. As soon as men enough can be gathered together and the rock drilled, a blast will be made so as to open the lodes and make a comparison. The lode opened years ago by the late Capt. W. A. Dunn by three very shallow shafts has been commonly supposed to be the Winona lode, but as far as can be determined in the dirt bearneared condition of the ledge now, it would seem that the other wide lode carries more of the characteristics of the Winona lode and accords better with the lode, closely resembling the Winona, shown by the diamond drill in two places. Both of the wide lodes are characteristic amygdaloids and give promise, with the copper they contain in the somewhat leached surface, of being commercial in grade.

Houghton.

Houghton Copper is shipping four cars now daily and barring accidents can maintain that rate during July when the stockpile should be completely cleaned up. The first installment of its concentrator has been sent to the Quincy smelter, and the mine will resume operations underground very soon.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian has had the necessary surveying done and has started trenching 1,500 feet south of the present shaft so as to prepare for another shaft. There is every reason that the lode and its excellent mineralization continues, since it persists for a stretch of over 800 feet on the inclination of the lode and over 500 feet on its length or strike, measuring from the end of the longest drift south to that of the longest north, in short as far as it has been opened the mineralization being at its best on both ends of the bottom, the 900-foot level, and good at all the ends. The shaft is now down about 1,020 feet and as the sinking is progressing at the rate of about 112 feet a month the 1,050 level will be reached the middle of July. From these showings there is no doubt remaining in the minds of our mining men that the mineralization has a great extent both vertically and horizontally, but the proof that it exists about 1,259 feet south of where it has been found previously with the northern drifts all in good ground would serve to conclusively dispel any uncertainty remaining in the minds of those who are not acquainted with the lodes of this district. Moreover this step demonstrates that the management is going to open up the mine for a large production as soon as possible. The drill at the 250 level is particularly good ground and it is about ninety feet from the New Baltic boundary. The drifts in the conglomerate do not find as much copper as at first. There are nine drills in operation, that on the 600-foot level having been taken out, as while sinking of the shaft is going on it is very difficult to handle the "dirt" from so many drills.

Michigan.

Michigan has called an assessment of $1, payable July 17. This news is very welcome to the people of the Copper county, who have faith in this large property and in its management, both Eastern and local. It is thought here that part of the receipts from the assessment, although the debt is larger than the amount assessed, will be devoted to further development. It is understood that this work will be begun by opening another shaft on the Butler lode 300 feet deep and eight feet wide and twelve long as shown by an old map, and then crosscutting both ways, so as to thoroughly examine the Evergreen and Knowlton lodes. A complete crosscut would be about 1,200 feet long, there being a thickness of 700 feet to the southeast and about 500 to the northwest. Undoubtedly that to the southeast would be pushed first, as the next lode the Ogendah has within a few years shown three good cores in the diamond drill holes and also promising values in a shaft of a 40-foot depth, and as the lodes beyond the Evergreens have disclosed such good values under the name of the North lodes of the South Lake, both at the South Lake where No. 1, known at the Mass as the New Mass lode, and No. 3 have been opened each about 300 feet with very good commercial grades, and at the Mass, where the New Mass was opened up about four years ago with considerable fine flaky copper which was not sufficiently abundant to be commercial, No. 2, which was at the South Lake not as good as the others, was passed through well mineralized, and No. 3 is now being opened by drifts in high grades, about 100 feet being covered. As these Evergreen lodes are quite regular and unbroken in this region, and as the Michigan adjoins the Mass, the chances of the good values continuing are very good. It is also possible that the Butler itself, the North Butler and the Knowlton, to the northwest, as at the Mass, may develop a mineralization that, with the improved methods and lessened costs of milling and mining, may be made to pay, as at the Mass.

Copper Range.

Copper Range is maintaining its remarkably improved recoveries at the Champion and Baltic, which began with the year and gradually increased up to about a month ago. The closer selection of which these figures are the results are not only effecting a saving by not milling the lean rock, but it leaves more waste rock underground where it is greatly needed for walls for drifts and other passages and for filling behind these walls so that the miners can keep near enough to the rock which they are breaking down and so can hold up the hanging wall in places where it is desired after the good rock is completely taken out, thereby bringing about a saving since the amount of "sand" or tailings, which is used when the waste rock does not suffice and which has to be transported from the mills, is proportionately reduced. At the present time the Champion canot obtain enough of this "sand," which is used there so successfully and which is so much cheaper than the rock that was formerly blasted out where the rock was mined. This sand shaft system has been perfected by using old raises that were under one another, and when this was impossible by using iron and steel pipes and by utilizing the air pressure which operates the drills to blow the "sand" wherever it is wanted in the long stopes. The development work that is necessary to maintain the reserves ahead to the proper extent is being done at all of the properties. The openings as a whole from the new ground, just being mined for the first time north of No. 1 shaft to the Trimountain boundary, to the end of the 2,000-foot stretch south of No. 4 the southernmost shaft all in high grade rock. In fact from all standpoints, extent, richness, yield, costs and general efficiency the mine has never appeared so good. Baltic's No. 2 shaft at the lower levels that are now being opened up is displaying the old time high grade Baltic rock and the twentieth level which is being pushed to the south and is now in the curve that the lode makes to the Trimountain is exposing a splendid width of rich copper. No. 3 is developing a very good shoot at the twenty-eighth level and the shaft is being sunk below the twenty-ninth level. Nos. 4 and 5 are in the same quality of ground as in the earlier part of the year. The mine although not producing the tonnage of four years ago is compensating by its increased yield. A net set of Sterling boilers is replacing the old and they have a capacity of 350 horse-power as compared with 250 and also give a higher pressure. Trimountain is engaged in developing good ground from the twentieth level to the twenty-seventh at No. 2, the lowest level in the mine.

Roy Reynolds, a graduate of the Michigan College of Mines and assistant superintendent of the Trimountain mine, has been appointed superintendent in place of Capt. Richard Bowden who has resigned and retired from mining. Capt. Richard Martin, head captain at the same mine has also resigned to go into fruit raising near Holly, Mich., and Capts. Letcher and Lambert have been made head captains, and extra pleace having been created.

Keweenaw.

Keweenaw Copper, whose shaft is in the hangingwall at the ninth level, has crosscutted to the shaft and cut the loading station there and is now sinking to the tenth level. It is a well known characteristic of this vein that at times it has a great width and recently a crossct ascertained it to be 62 feet wide and that the copper occurred in two good shoots separated by a barren strip of 10 feet. There were several short stretches of high values, one having a width of 20 feet. Manager Uren considers the results to be very satisfactory. The upper part of the lode was an amygdaloidal conglomerate or a conglomerate with pebbles of amygdaloid, as has been the case in almost every place opened, the width here being 15 feet. The rock in the different openings is averaging very good.

Ahmeek.

Ahmeek is forwarding to the mill 500 tons daily from North Ahmeek Nos. 3 and 4, making a total of over 3,300 tons, as the tonnage from Nos. 1 and 2 has been increased. The mill is being run Sunday nights from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., as before the fifth stamp was started up. The sixth stamp and second of the new addition to the mill of four stamps will not be ready for at least two months as the shops of the Calumet & Hecla at Calumet are crowded with work. About 180 tons, 390,000 pounds, of 97 per cent copper is coming from the fissure vein which is now opened on three levels and where no limit on the length or at depth has yet been found. This aids materially in raising the yield a ton. The diamond drill located to the north of Ahmeek village, and which is testing the Calumet conglomerate and adjacent lodes, has completed one hole and has been moved about 1,500 feet nearer the village.

Wyandot.

Wyandot is averaging fair rock on the two drifts on the ninth level, the eastern just at present being somewhat better than the western. This ninth level, the bottom of the mine, is so far the best of any of the three levels opened and the eighth was very much better than the seventh, where the lode was first encountered.

Calumet & Hecla.

Calumet & Hecla's mills at Lake Linden are beating all previous records and on June 25 treated 11,560 tons and on the 29th, 11,400. Of the first figure, 6,440 tons came from the conglomerate, 5,040 from the Osceola amygdaloid, and 80 or 2 cars from the La Salle. The last named mine is only shipping two cars as the surface plant is undergoing extensive repairs and changes. The increase in Calumet & Hecla's tonnage has been very steady and very gradual and has not yet reached the limit of its possibilities.

GOOD SHOWING BY EAST CALEDONIA

Has Group of Claims Close to the Success Property.

Butte, Mont., July 3.—A large number of Butte investors have been taking an interest in the East Caledonia Mines company, which has recently secured the old Keating group of claims close to the Success and other silver-lead properties in the Coeur d'Alene district.

The development work is going steadily forward, and the present indications are that there are some splendid bodies of rich ore which will put this company on a par with the Success, which has attracted such wide attention recently.

There is a shaft down on the properties to a depth of over 400 feet, and at a depth of 70 feet a splendid body of ore was encountered. Several tunnels have been driven to prove the extent of the ore bodies. The reports all show that the ore is very rich in silver and lead, and that as soon as finished, the company should be able to produce good commercial ore and at a substantial profit.

The water has been lowered a distance of 175 feet in the past few days, and drifting has been carried on for a distance of 175 feet on the 200-foot level.

The Wallace Press-Times says: "Butte and New York capital are largely responsible for the present activities at this property, and it is the intention of the management to take over other promising properties to make producers and to have them worked in connection with the East Caledonia Mines company."

OFFERED $300,000 BUT DECLINED IT

Copper Property in Arizona Developed for Outlay of $350.

Tucson, Ariz., July 3.—Another old superstition has been sent glimmering.

It has been stated time and again that it requires at least $1,000,000 to develop a copper mine and the experience of most proprietors has borne out the contention.

Out at Twin Butte, thirty miles from Tucson, Messrs. Bush and Baxter have developed a copper property at a total outlay of $350 and this week refused a cash offer of $300,000 for it. They not only refused the offer but laughed at the men who made it and invited them to make an inspection of their eyes "to see if they could find any green in them."

The secret of the success lay in the fact that a stringer of exceedingly rich ore was struck almost at the grass roots, and the partners began shipping to the Hayden smelter as soon as they had pushed the exploration shaft deep enough to take out a carload of the "good stuff."

With the funds received from these shipments they continued sinking and were able to go to a depth of 175 feet with no investment beyond the original $350 with which they started. At the 175-foot level they started a drift which is now 175 feet in ore which assays 6 per cent in copper and three ounces of silver. They are shipping more than 2,000 tons per month and the ore nets them an average of $10 per ton, while the entire shipping and smelting charges amount to but $3.80 per ton.

Last week a syndicate of Eastern capitalists offered them $200,000 in cash and $100,000 within a year for the mine, only to be told that the property is not for sale at any price.

SPECIAL WAR TAX IN SWITZERLAND

Ten Million Dollars Expected to Be Yielded By Taxes.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berne, June 19.—An amendment to the war tax to meet the expenses incident to mobilization of the army for the maintenance of Swiss neutrality, which was submitted to a referendum vote of the entire people has been accepted by an overwhelming majority, the vote being 435,500 to 26,500.

The new taxes are both on property and income. Persons possessing less than $2,000 worth of property or earning less than $500 a year are exempt. The rate of tax is progressive, ranging from $1 to $15 per thousand on property and from $5 to $100 per thousand on income.

Stock companies will be taxed at a rate rising from $2 to $10 per thousand shares of capital. The rate will vary according to the rate of dividend paid.

The campaign on behalf of the war tax amendment to the constitution had the support of all the political parties. The tax is expected to yield about $10,000,000. The remainder of the Swiss indebtedness on account of the war will have to be funded through the issue of bonds. The present cost of the war to Switzerland is estimated at nearly $5,000,000 a month.

VOLUNTEERS TO MAKE MUNITIONS

Twelve-Hour Shift on Sunday at the Woolwich Arsenal.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, June 18.—It was a strange spectacle that the old hands at the Woolwich arsenal looked on when the Volunteer Munitions brigade lined up for its first twelve hours' shift. One young man in old cricket flannels stepped out of a motorcar. Some came bringing their lunches in leather attache cases which lawyers and stock brokers carry private papers in. Notwithstanding the old clothes dug up from the bottoms of their wardrobes, the air of the city, which in the local phrase means the financial district, stuck to the volunteers.

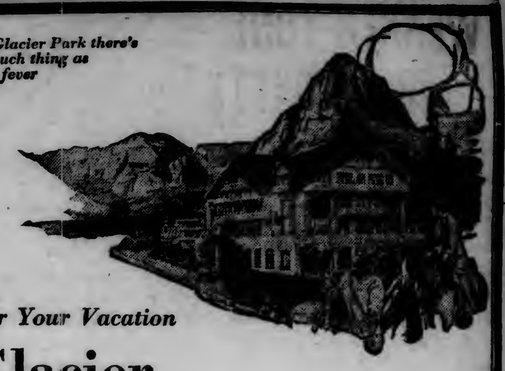

The brigade is composed of all sorts and conditions of men from lawyers, engineering men, clerks and brokers to plumbers, barbers and others of humble position. The men were greeted by Sir Frederick Donaldson, chief superintendent of the royal ordnance factories, as they went to work on a Sunday morning on their twelve-hour trial shift.

At present, the volunteers are making cartridges for service rifles. A skilled worker acted as instructor. The absolute novices were given minor work, such as is usually performed by boys.

A small wage is paid by the government, but as the work is voluntary these wages are handed to the brigades' funds for war charities.

The trial put the movement on a practical footing. One noticeable feature was the comradeship between the volunteers and the union men.

EMPRESS THEATER WILL BE COMPLETELY REMODELED

Work to Go Ahead at Once; Plans Now Out for Figures.

City Building Permits for June Reach Record Proportions.

Building operations were well maintained during the week, and with favorable weather conditions, good progress was made by contractors in the large projects under way.

A feature was the taking out of a $200,000 permit at the building inspector's office for the Gowan-Lenning-Brown company's warehouse at the foot of Lake avenue. Work upon that building is being pressed with a view to its being ready for occupancy by December. F. G. German was the architect.

An interesting feature of the week came in the announcement that plans have gone out for figures from the office of W. A. Hunt, architect, for the remodeling of the Empress theater building for W. M. Abrahamson. It is intimated that the premises will be reopened as a moving picture show house. In the rearrangement of the building provision will be made for three stores on the ground floor, and the space on the second floor, formerly occupied by the gallery, will give place to offices. The work will be proceeded with at once, and it is expected the theater will be ready to reopen next month.

Record June Permits.

Due to the wholesale grocery house proposition, building permits for June reached record proportions, numbering 195, with the value of improvements placed at $383,195. This compares with 165 permits for $251,205 last year. For the first six months of the year 901 permits were issued for work estimated to cost $1,356,448. This compares with 928 permits for $1,655,891 during the first six months of 1914.

Plans have gone out for figures from the office of C. E. Nystrom, architect, upon a two-story brick house for Mrs. John Leith, to be built on Third street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues east.

Figures will probably be taken next week upon plans for the remodeling of the Roosevelt school at Virginia, Minn., that will entail an estimated outlay of $30,000. The plans were also prepared by Mr. Nystrom.

John Berger has obtained the general contract for a four-room brick school at Kerrick, Minn. It will cost $8,000.

Shurick & Solheim, architects, have plans out for figures on a flat building for Janet Parkhurst at Second street and Fifth avenue east. Its cost is estimated at $10,000.

* * *

E. F. Broomhall, architect, is preparing plans for a 30 by 160-foot addition to the high school at Wheaton, Minn. It will be utilized for manual training and domestic science departments and a gymnasium, and will entail an approximate outlay of $35,000.

* * *

A permit has been taken out for a brick house for Peter Johnson on Woodland avenue between St. Marie and Bruce streets. The plans were prepared by E. C. Gilluson, architect.

* * *

G. A. French is building a brick garage to cost $7,000 at his new home on First street between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues east. The plans were prepared by F. W. Perkins, architect.

* * *

A dwelling is being built for William Turner on Osakis street, between Morris avenue and the Hartley farm. It will cost $3,500. John Nordquist is building a $2,500 home on Eighteenth avenue east, between Sixth and Seventh streets, and William Tunell a house on Osakis street to cost $3,500.

* * *

George H. Lounsberry, general contractor for the new armory on London road, is making good progress on the job. The brick work is being rushed and considerable structural steel was installed this week. The building is due to be ready to open early in November.

* * *

Considerable important business will be brought up for discussion at the monthly meeting of the Duluth Builders' exchange next Tuesday. In addition a program of entertainment has been arranged by the committee.

* * *

The following permits were issued during the week at the office of the building inspector:

MANY SMALL REALTY SALES CLOSED DURING THE WEEK

Bargain Hunters Numerous But Few Owners Will Sacrifice.

As the records show, a large number of realty transfers were recorded during the present week.

While no special large deals were actually closed up during the last few days, a healthy condition in the market was shown in the record of transactions put through, involving building lots and moderate-priced houses. The sale of an East end house is said to have been practically closed, and receipt of earnest on sales of two large sites in the high-class residential districts were reported.

Bargain Hunters in Market.

Bargain hunters are in the market in numbers these days, and that more business is not being put through is said to be ascribable to the fact that property holders are bullish in their views and refuse to be pried loose from anything they own unless their views as to value are met. With intending investors holding back for snaps, a condition approaching a deadlock has come about in the market and is unlikely to be broken till interest is quickened through the development of some more favorable factors, such as the harvesting of bumper crops and a more definite unfolding of the foreign situation.

In the meantime real estate operators are in possession of bunches of inquiries for house properties and lots, and they are hopeful of putting through a good volume of business during the next few months.

The A. A. Fider company sold a 40-acre tract in section 16, 52-14 for I. T. Burnside to George Taronski at $425. A lot at Eleventh street and Twelfth avenue east was sold to Louis Anderson at $750, and a lot in Gray's addition to M. Schuman.

* * *

The Hoopes-Kohagen company reported sales of three lots in the Park Drive division and forty acres of land near Rice lake.

Continued good inquiry for 2½-acre tracts at Greysolon Farms was advised by Charles P. Craig & Co. Seven tracts were sold there during the week for immediato improvement.

* * *

Activity in market gardening propositions was also noted by the Alliance Real Estate company. That office disposed of five additional parcels at Exeter Farms. In the great bulk of tracts sold out there so far this season, the buyers have undertaken improvements.

* * *

A good sale of lots in the Homewood addition above the boulevard between Fifth and Tenth avenues east was met with by the Whitney Wall company during the week. It is announced by that office that salesmen will be at that addition tomorrow afternoon to conduct visitors over it. Disposition of a number of lots was effected last Sunday when over 500 visitors were attracted to the spot on the occasion of a concert given by the Third Regiment band.

* * *

The Field-Frey company sold for Frank A. Greene to Karl R. Lehto, three lots on Minnesota avenue at $300 each. An offer made through that office upon a 250-foot frontage in the East end residence district has been accepted, and in addition, earnest money was received on the sale of a building lot in the Congdon park district.

* * *

A gratifying renewal of interest in Gary building lots was reported by the Gary Land company. Good outside investment inquiry has been received during the last few days.

The West Duluth Realty company effected the sale of a building lot in West Duluth for L. J. Mullin to Andrew Johnson, at a consideration of $650. A 2½-acre tract at Proctor was sold for C. J. Orion to Elijah Allen at $600.

* * *

The Benjamin F. Schweiger company sold this week for Conrad Johnson to Per Hjalmar Esbjornson, a double dwelling of eleven rooms and 32 by 100 foot lot, at No. 417 Twenty-seventh avenue west, at a consideration of $4,600; a six-room dwelling and 50 by 140 foot lot at No. 1924 East Sixth street, for Ernest Peterson to Elmer S. Poirier at a consideration of $2,100, and a four-room cottage and barn on a 41 by 125 foot lot at No. 3732 West Second street, for Adolph Olson to John A. Johnson, at a consideration of $1,600.

* * *

A. W. Taussig & Co. reported good interest in their Central acres proposition over the Duluth Heights. A number of lots were sold during the week.

PROGRAM FOR FOURTH READY

Herald Relay Race for Children Will Be Big Feature.

Col. Graves and Judge Morris Will Address New Citizens.

PROGRAM FOR MONDAY.

9:30 a. m.—Sunday School league relay race.
10 a. m.—Herald relay race, starting at city hall.
12 m.—Presidential salute of twenty-one guns by U. S. S. Gopher and Luzon.
2 p. m.—Americanization day program for new citizens in front of courthouse.
2:30 p. m.—Parade of military and civic organizations.
4 p. m.—Play festival at Twelfth avenue east.
8 p. m.—Public fireworks display at Northland Country club grounds.

All arrangements have been completed for Duluth's first civic celebration for Fourth of July.

J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, who is in charge of the celebration, this morning announced the complete program for the day.

At 9:30 o'clock there will be a relay race for the members of the Sunday School Athletic league, the course starting at Twenty-second avenue east and Superior street and ending at the city hall. Teams have been entered by the Glen Avon, First Presbyterian and First Methodist churches.

Immediately after this race The Herald relay race will start at the city hall for the school boys of the city. Three teams have been officially entered for the run from the Franklin, Lincoln and Cathedral schools. All the boys have been passed upon by the physical examining board as to their fitness to enter a race. The winning team will receive The Herald trophy.

Presidential Salute.

At noon the U. S. S. Gopher and the Illinois training ship, Isle de Luzon, which will be in the harbor, will give a presidential salute.

At 2 o'clock the Americanization day program for the 229 new citizens of Duluth will start. There will be a parade, following which will be addresses in front of the court house. Mayor Prince will preside and the orations of the day will be delivered by Federal Judge Morris and Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden. The Third Regiment band will furnish a program of music.

Because of objections to the use of the court house lawn, the play festival will be staged at Twelfth avenue east instead. Mr. Batchelor and Miss Pauline Strode will be in charge.

At 8 o'clock the officials of the Northland Country club will stage their fireworks display. The entire golf grounds will be thrown open to the people of Duluth.

NO ACTION TO PAY SALARY

Judge Windom Continues His Policy of "Watchful Waiting."

Arguments in Judgeship Contest Made Before High Court.

No action has been taken by E. A. Thompson, clerk of the municipal court, following a demand yesterday upon him for $250, June salary alleged to be due W. L. Windom, former judge of the court.

Fulton, Fryberger & Spear, attorneys for Mr. Windom, in the letter, contend that he was legally elected judge in April, and that he is entitled to the salary for the period since then, even though Judge W. H. Smallwood has occupied the bench since a recent district court ruling that he was entitled to the position.

Arguments now are being presented before the state supreme court by H. H. Phelps, attorney for Judge Smallwood, and Fulton, Fryberger & Spear, Former Judge Windom's representatives.

The letter received by Clerk Thompson reads:

Demand is hereby made upon you on behalf of Judge Windom for his salary for the month of June, 1915. This demand is based upon the claim of Judge Windom that he is duly elected, qualified and entitled to the office of municipal court of the city of Duluth, and as such is entitled to the salary of said office."

"I made the demand for the salary for the reason that I believe that I am the legal holder of the office," said the former judge, when asked about his action. "I have not filed a demand for the May salary, but intend to do so."

"I learned about Judge Windom's claim yesterday afternoon," said Judge Smallwood. "I do not care to talk on the subject. The question was argued before the supreme court yesterday, and I look for a decision in my favor."

Former Clerk of Court John G Ross, now humane agent, said Judge Windom made a verbal demand upon him for the May salary before Clerk Thompson was sworn in.

Mr. Thompson planned to confer with City Attorney Henry Greene this morning, but was prevented by illness which prevented Mr. Greene presenting himself at his office.

QUIET TRADING IN THE COPPERS

Business Confined to Few Stocks and Market Is Slightly Easier.

There was the usual pre-holiday quiet market in mining stocks at Boston today. Trading was confined to a few issues, and selling appeared in some quarters, due to disposition of operators to lighten their holdings over the two-day holiday. The zinc stocks again absorbed a large proportion of the trading. Butte & Superior was erratic, opening unchanged at $72, selling off to $70.75, and closing $1 off at $71. American Zinc closed 50 cents off at $56.12, after selling up to $56.75.

Calumet & Arizona closed fractionally up at $63.75; Copper Range 25 cents off at $53.25; Granby unchanged at $87; Greene-Cananea unchanged at $38; Mohawk unchanged at $79; North Butte 38 cents off at $31.25; Shattuck unchanged at $28.50, and Osceola $1 off at $85.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper closed 37 cents off at $73.87, and Anaconda 25 cents off at $35.12.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following from New York: "A large number of inquiries are in the copper market and considerable business has been closed at 20¼c and 20½c, according to conditions and delivery. A leading interest in the trade says that all signs point to a revival of orders."

• • •

An official Greene-Cananea report estimated that production of copper by the company this month would be between 2,600,000 and 3,000,000 pounds.

Commenting upon the current mining stocks situation, Skillings' Mining and Market Letter of today says: "Earnings of the copper, lead and zinc mines are very large. A big move in stock should be experienced in conjunction with increased dividend disbursements during the third and fourth quarters of this year, combined with improved general business conditions. This should be a good time to accumulate stocks. The European liquidation and bonds of late has curbed bullishness in the stock market, but a better market is expected to occur next week, after the double holiday."

Among the cars of manganiferous ore that were shipped from the Iron Mountain Mining company's property on the Cuyuna range this week was one which was reported to assay as follows: Manganese, 35.13; iron, 18.80; phosphorus, .080, and silica, 10.84. President L. D. Goldberg declares that this is the highest grade car of manganiferous ore that has ever been shipped from Minnesota. The car was billed to the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company at its Newberry, Mich., furnace.

Good news from the property of Big Ledge Development company was received yesterday at its offices in Duluth.

At shaft No. 1 crosscuts are being driven in four directions, at a depth of fifty feet. All four of the crosscuts are reported in an excellent grade of copper ore. Charles Batre, vice president, wiring the Duluth office from New York, says that a report from the mine announces that another ledge of ore has been uncovered south of Copper Springs shaft. Surface assays across the ledge show 16 per cent copper. Mr. Batre says that this gives the company a probable width at this point of 300 feet. It is an iron porphyry deposit which has been sought for for some time. He estimates that this discovery will double the whole east side of the property in values, and triple it in tonnage. Development in the Mountain View tunnel, one mile south, discloses the same character of ore, as well as two miles south, on the extreme edge of the east side.

CLEAR SKIES FOR FOURTH

Weather Forecaster Seeks to Dispel Gloom By Welcome Promise.

Bad weather today has caused many to look with gloom at the prospects of a "glorious Fourth," and with much less hope for a good two-day vacation. H. W. Richardson, weather forecaster, however, comes to the fore with the optimistic news that there will be fair weather during both days.

There is a possibility of showers tomorrow morning, he says, but during the remainder of the day and all of Monday, when the real celebrations of the Fourth will be held, the weather forecaster promises clear skies and balmy air.

This most encouraging news will dispel the gloom which the rain of the last two days has developed, and will cause many, who had almost abandoned hopes of a good outing, to cheer up and enjoy the great holiday in a most fitting manner.

SPEAKERS CHOSEN FOR MASS MEETING

Prominent Duluthians Will Urge Greater National Defense.

As a result of the ever growing demand for increased defenses for the United States, prominent citizens of Duluth have called a meeting for Tuesday evening of next week at the Armory.

There will be several prominent local men as speakers, and the big question will be discussed from all angles. Mayor W. I. Prince will preside at the meeting, and the other speakers will be J. L. Washburn, Col. C. H. Graves, Judge Page Morris, Bishop McGolrick and J. B. Cotton.

Everyone is invited to attend the meeting and women are especially the invited. The question of national defenses has become so prominent that it is now one of the chief subjects of discussion, some arguing that the defense powers should be increased in order to insure future safety, and others pointing out the argument that such action would result only in the development of too great a spirit of militarism.

According to Dr. Hugh P. Baker of the New York State Forestry school, half of that state is better suited to the growing of trees than of anything else. His estimate is that 15,000,000 acres of land there are fit for forestry alone. Dr. Baker yearns for an annual income to the state of $1 an acre from this land instead of present appropriations for forestry work.

EMPTY LIFEBOAT TOWED INTO PORT

Steamship Craigard May Have Been Victim of German Submarine.

London, July 3.—An empty lifeboat and another boat marked "Craigard, Leith," were towed into Penzance, England, today. It is suggested that the steamship Craigard, of 3,286 tons gross, which sailed from Galveston June 3 and Newport News June 11, for Havre, may have been the victim of a German submarine, though there is no proof of this and nothing has been heard regarding her crew.

Gadsby Sunk.

London, July 3.—The British steamship Gadsby, of 3,497 tons gross, was sunk today by a German submarine. The crew was landed at Moville, England.

The Gadsby sailed from Sydney, C. B., June 18 for an European port.

IRONWOOD AUTO IS WRECKED BY TRAIN

Physician, His Wife and an Attorney Have Close Call.

Ironwood, Mich., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Fox and Lawyer C. M. Humphrey had a narrow escape at the Lowell street crossing when the Fox auto was run down by a train of ore cars on the Soo line. Mr. Humphrey, who was in the rear seat, jumped, alighting on the cement sidewalk, and injured his knee. Dr. Fox also jumped and was quite badly shaken up by the fall. Mrs. Fox, who was driving the car, remained at the wheel, and her quick action in turning the car in the direction the train was moving probably saved all three from death under the ore cars.

Engineer H. J. Harris saw the auto in time to apply the emergency brakes and brought the train to a stop within a short distance. Peter Hein, the flagman, says he vigorously waved his flag but both Dr. and Mrs. Fox state that if he did so, they did not see him. The auto is wrecked.

M'GRAW LET OUT BY GRAND FORKS

Muggsy's Work Off-Color—Given His Unconditional Release.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Muggsy McGraw, recalled by the Grand Forks club a few days ago when Altman was benched for indifferent work in the field, was yesterday given his unconditional release.

McGraw's work during the few games he played after being recalled was off color, and the Grand Forks management decided to let him go.

An outfielder has been purchased from a Michigan club, and will report Sunday or Monday.

Fast Field of Athletes.

Chicago, July 3.—The fastest field of athletes ever gathered in a track meet in this city will compete this afternoon in the annual event of the Central Amateur Athletic union. Colleges and athletic clubs will furnish their stars and the meet will serve as a preliminary to the tryouts for the National A. A. U. meet at San Francisco.

Herman Whips Relderberg.

New Orleans, La., July 3.—"Kid" Herman of New Orleans was awarded a decision over "Louisiana" (Joe Beidberg) of Philadelphia here last night at the end of a twenty-round bout. Herman won sixteen rounds. The weights were 117 pounds ringside.

They're Off at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 3.—Eddie O'Donnell crossed the line at 12:30 p. m., leading a field of fifteen cars in the 300-mile automobile race. No. 21, driven by H. A. Wetmore, and No. 5, by Orr, withdrew. Resta dropped out of the race because of engine trouble on the seventh lap.

The present population of Italy is nearly 36,000,000, about 10,000,000 less than Great Britain. Its area is 110,659 square miles, 10,000 square miles less than Great Britain. Included in Italy's population are nearly 11,000 Germans and 12,000 Austrians. The number of Italians abroad has been estimated at about 5,566,000.

SEBENIUS DAIRY SCORES HIGHEST IN CITY TEST

Second Quarterly Report of Health Director on Milk Production Shows Some Remarkable Records.

J. U. Sebenius has the best dairy in Duluth, according to the second quarterly scoring just completed by Gust Hedman, city dairy and milk inspector. He submitted his report to Health Director Fahey this morning.

The Sebenius dairy has a score of 95.3 per cent, this being the highest [illegible] count of any of the dairies in the city.

The second quarterly score, showing the standings, average bacteria to a cubic centimeter of milk, and the butterfat from each dairy follows:

Lights and Shadows of Police Court

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING," SAY POLICE

Search for Keyhole With Flashlight Brings Out Cordon of Bluecoats.

"Burglars?"

"Yes, officer, a gang of them, with flashlights!"

Lieut. E. H. Barber was at one end of the wire and an excited citizen was trying to report an about-to-be burglary.

"They're between Superior street and First street near Twenty-second avenue west," shouted the citizen, "and they've got an automobile to make their get-away in.

By this time the "cit" was badly "rattled."

Lieut. Barber is a man of action.

"Quick, men," he shouted to Jailer L. A. Root and Officer P. Barber.

The three jumped into the emergency and soon were speeding towards the scene of trouble.

At Twenty-first avenue the officers jumped out and scattered, so that they approached the "gang" from various directions, and soon the luckless "burglars" were hemmed in by the guardians of the law.

"What are you doing there?" shouted the lieutenant, when he finally peered around the corner of a barn and saw the flashlight, and three men, and, sure enough, the automobile.

It was a tense situation. Officer Root blocked one exit, and Officer Barber a second, while the lieutenant approached the "gang."

The man with the flashlight spun around and threw the light directly into the lieutenant's face.

"Oh!" he exclaimed. "I was trying to find the keyhole to my garage door."

NO PLACE LIKE "HOME."

"Vag" Longs for Old Haunts; Sent to Jail.

Homesick for his old "hangout" on West Michigan street near the Union depot, James A. Stewart, age 33, couldn't stand it any longer yesterday, so he took a Duluth-Superior car and came "home."

Officers Le Beau and Danielson found him near his pet saloon an hour or so later and brought him to headquarters as a fugitive from the work farm.

On May 19 Stewart was sentenced to the farm for sixty days, but he served only one-twentieth of the allotted time, for on May 22 he made a successful break for liberty.

Judge Cutting in municipal court this morning sentenced him to the county jail for sixty days.

ALIBIS ARE USELESS.

Judge Won't Accept Jitneur's Explanation.

Kaiser Wilhelm's "scrap of paper" attitude agrees very well with an attitude which Municipal Court Judge F. H. Cutting showed this morning towards an alibi.

When Charles Ehle, age 37, jitneur, explained at length why his lights were not in working order last night, the judge listened patiently, but then said:

"I'm sorry, but I can't accept an alibi in a case of this kind. Every automobile driver who appears before me on a charge has a good excuse, but this violation of the traffic ordinance simply must stop."

Ehle paid a $7 fine, even though the wiring on his front light had been short-circuited, as he explained. He was arrested by Sergt. John Englert.

Carl Bloomquist, age 33, was arrested last night by Officers Ricketts and P. Barber, because his rear light was not working. He also paid a $7 fine.

BEGGAR WAS THE RICHEST.

"Poor" Man Has More Than Citizens He Tries to "Touch."

"Will you help out a poor man who is too old to work, and who hasn't had a square meal today?" said William Mitchell, age 64, this morning.

Nick Christenson, the citizen approached, wasn't sure about Mitchell's eating, he said, but was positive about his drinking, and made a complaint to Officer Bert Duff. Mr. Christenson, with Peter Berg, accompanied the officer to headquarters to make the complaint. When searched, Mitchell was found to have 95 cents in his pocket.

"Why," said Christenson, "that's more than I have."

"He beats me, too," said Berg.

By comparing notes they found that Mitchell had more money than both of them combined, and went away, resolving never to regard a beggar as poor again.

Mitchell will be arraigned before Judge Cutting, Monday.

LOTS OF LEISURE FOR THE FOURTH

Everything Closed for Celebrations—Superior Makes Plans.

This year Duluthians will find plenty of recreation for Fourth of July.

With all the stores, banks, city and county buildings and the postoffice closed all day Monday, excepting the stamp and general delivery windows, which will remain open from 8 a. m. until noon, thousands of Duluthians will have a vacation from today until Tuesday morning.

This afternoon trainloads after trainload of Duluth fishermen left for Crosby and nearby points, while as many went to the Vermilion lake on the D. & I. R. road. Special excursions are also scheduled for Crosby.

On Monday there will be civic celebrations in Duluth and Superior lasting the entire day. In addition two games will be played by the Duluth baseball team, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon, while the steamers Columbia and Chicora will ply up St. Louis river all day long.

Special dinners and luncheons, with holiday entertainments are planned by the management of the Holland, Spalding, St. Louis and Lenox hotels.

In Superior there will be an automobile parade, daylight fireworks, a Venetian fete and water carnival and band concerts. Duluth's program is published elsewhere in this issue.

Tower avenue in Superior has been decorated from North Third street to North Sixteenth street with flags and streamers, and at night the thoroughfare will be transformed by myriads of colored electric lights. The ornamental lighting system has been effectively utilized in carrying out the decorative scheme.

The automobile parade on Monday starts promptly at 11 o'clock. During the parade a display of Japanese daylight fireworks will be shot from mortars mounted on motor trucks. Five hundred decorated automobiles and motor floats, with six bands, will be in the parade.

In the afternoon there will be band concerts, and in the evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the Venetian fete and fireworks program on the Superior bay front will commence. The evening program can be seen from any point on Bay street between L avenue and Nettleton avenue. A natural grandstand, sloping from the street to the waters' edge, will accommodate the entire population of Duluth and Superior if need be, without crowding.

SAYS DULUTHIANS WERE "ROAD HOGS"

Big Car at Breakneck Speed Forces Women to Run Into Ditch.

That a party of Duluthians played the part of "road hogs" while riding in an automobile, is the substance of a story published in the Aitkin Republican July 1. The story asserts that the big machine, carrying seven Duluth men, running at breakneck speed, caused a car, containing women, to run into a ditch. The car was stopped by a pedestrian, and the men made to assist the women in getting their car out. Following is the story:

"An unusual automobile incident occurred Tuesday, when Mrs. Gyde with a party of women was returning from Cedar Lake. Near the Finnerty place a seven-passenger car with seven men approached at a high rate of speed and made no effort to share the road. Mrs. Gyde, to avoid a collision, jumped her car into the swamp and the big machine grazed the fender in passing, with no attempt by the driver to stop. J. F. Stonebraker was coming behind the Gyde car and saw the performance. He 'bearded' the whole den of lions and told them a few things, with the result that they were made to go back to the disabled machine, remove their shoes and wade in. After the car had been put back onto the road they went on, but don't ever think their number escaped the party. The incident is not yet closed. The machine is said to have come from Duluth."

MARINE

HEAVY FOGS BUNCH BOATS AT CANALS

June Freight and Passenger Traffic Decreases for This Year.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavy fogs in the river during this week have bunched boats locking through the canals, causing delays to navigation. The steamer Calumet was reported at Sailors' encampment at 8 o'clock last night, but was unable to reach the Sault until 10 this morning. The steamer French, down-bound, passed Brush Point two miles up the river at 10 p. m. and did not report at the canals until 10 this morning.

The statistical report for the month of June, issued today, shows a total tonnage of 8,360,832 tons through the canals at this place compared with a tonnage for the month of June, 1914, of 8,588,081 tons. A decrease of 187,249 tons is the result.

Passenger traffic also shows a decrease for the month of June this year of 2,986 while the number of passengers, which for June, 1915, was 2,581 is 224 less than the corresponding month last year, which totaled 2,805.

The heaviest decrease is in grain and wheat shipments.

STEAMER SETS RECORD.

Maricopa Makes Remarkable Thirty-Four-Hour Run.

The best run ever made by a steamer with a barge in tow is the one made by the steamer Maricopa, which arrived in this harbor but thirty-four hours out of the Sault, and about five hours later left the harbor on the way down the lakes loaded with a full cargo of ore. Within the recollection of local marine men, this is the best time that has ever been made by a steamer-barge combination, and it has probably never been equaled by any other boat of her class on the Great Lakes.

A remarkable record, made by the steamer Schiller only a short time ago, attracted the attention of local marine men when the boat came into the harbor, loaded her cargo and left in the unusual time of four hours and twenty-five minutes. This, however, was done with nothing in tow.

SAILOR DIES SUDDENLY.

Frank Smith, Engineer on Steamer Nuanza, Victim of Heart Failure.

Houghton, Mich., July 3.—Frank Smith, aged 53, first assistant engineer on the steamer Nuanza, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon aboard the boat when the steamer was discharging coal at the Isle Royale docks. Smith was assisting in repairing an engine when he was stricken, death having occurred before physicians arrived. A widow and five children residing in North Tonawanda, N. Y., survive. The body was shipped to New York Thursday evening.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS OPENING

Chester Park Playgrounds Program Given Only in Parts.

Threatening weather last night caused the postponement of the official opening planned for the Chester park playground.

About 500 men, women and children, who had braved the weather, refused to be disappointed, and J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, and Miss Pauline Strode, his assistant, staged a short program of games with about sixty children, who were present. The grounds were very wet and it was found impossible to include the various athletic and field sports.

Director Batchelor announced this morning that the official opening of the playgrounds at Chester park, Thirtieth and Fifty-second avenues west will take place next week.

Mayor Prince will preside at each program and public concerts will be given by the Third Regiment band, it was announced today.

Fargo to Greet Shriners.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many of the Shrine specials from the East going through Fargo en route to the big imperial council in Seattle, will make brief stops here and the delegates will be entertained by members of El Zagel. The local Shriners have named committees to meet these specials and entertain visitors.

GOOD CHANCE IS OFFERED

University Man Tells of Possibilities Northern Minnesota Opens Up.

Says Section Rapidly Becoming One of Most Prosperous.

An interesting article on the possibilities which Northern Minnesota opens up to the person of limited means, written by Prof. T. L. Haecker of the College of Agriculture, appears in a recent issue of Northern Minnesota. The farm school man has the following to say:

"Ever since the discovery of the trans-Mississippi prairies there has been a constant stream of immigration from the East. Judging from the fact that the prairie sections were rapidly settled and the timbered sections in Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota left, in a general way, unoccupied except for lumbering or mining operations, the natural inference would be that the timbered sections were not desirable lands for agricultural purposes. There was a time when the general trend of immigration to the prairies was justified so long as free or cheap lands were available in sections where ample fertility, moisture and length of growing season were assured.

Prairie Sections Settled.

"During the fifty years just passed, and while our prairie sections were being settled, the lumbering interests swept over the timbered sections, stripped them of the choicest forest trees, with slashings left to finish the work of destruction through the agency of forest fires. In the meantime, our prairie farms have risen in price from a merely nominal entry or pre-emption fee to prices that were never dreamed of by their occupants. It is a question whether the average young man can pay for a prairie farm at prevailing prices, and support and educate a family from its products. There are, of course, exceptional cases and conditions where the venture would be warranted, but for the average young couple it would mean a life of toil and hardship, with probably only a partial payment for the land.

"Productive land is the source of wealth and sustenance for man and beast; it is getting scarcer and higher in price every day; the population is rapidly increasing, and judging from what we have witnessed during the half century just passed, the time is not far off when all productive lands will be occupied. In a republic based upon equity in human, as well as vested rights, the free holder will ultimately dominate human activities. The mature of wisdom and foresight aspires to the ownership of a tract of land—to possess a piece of mother earth, where he can establish a home, and working in partnership with the Creator, produce the necessities and comforts of life.

"Of the relatively small area of productive lands that are still available to the man of little or no capital, the most promising are located in the timbered, or so called "cut-over" districts in Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Fertility of Soil.

"The soil is fertile and to those who have a purpose to accomplish things and who are willing to contribute personal effort to that end the climatic conditions are ideal. I am familiar with these conditions in the states and provinces, and all things considered, there are none superior, and few, if any, equal. A fertile soil, ample rainfall, at times which meets the needs of plant growth, sunshine and warmth sufficient to mature all of the farm crops ordinarily grown in Northern states and with an atmosphere that stimulates and invigorates the body of man and beast to its maximum efficiency, are prominent factors that will make Northern Minnesota one of the most prosperous sections on the continent.

"Had it not been for the extra labor required to prepare the timber districts for the plow, they would have been settled at the same time the southern portions of these states were. The very fact that the clearing is either a slow or rather an expensive process will in the end prove a great advantage. Instead of a grain-raising and marketing system, which soon robs the soil of its fertility, a system of livestock husbandry will be adopted. No other locality in the Union is better or so well adapted for legumes and roots. Animals bred and reared under such favorable soil and climatic conditions will develop special quality, efficiency and longevity.

"The winter season is especially favorable to livestock husbandry. Cows give the larger yields if fresh in the fall, and stall fed during the winter, than when fresh in the spring and stall fed during the latter part of their lactation. Meat-producing animals, stall fed during the winter, will make twice the gain they will on pasture in summer. Swine husbandry will be especially remunerative because the pigs farrowed in the spring will be grown and almost finished for market by fall on the luxuriant growth of the legume pastures, and brood sows only will be carried over the winter. Poultry and small fruit will also prove specially profitable."

CORN CROP NEEDS GOOD HANDLING

Unfavorable June Conditions Make Best Attention Necessary.

June conditions were very unfavorable to the corn crop, according to Prof. Andrew Boss of the Minnesota College of Agriculture. Much corn was not planted and that which was planted early came up poorly and many fields had to be replanted.

The season was late and cold. As a result, he says, the best handling will be necessary in order to secure even an average crop.

"The important point in maturing a corn crop," says Prof. Boss, "is to keep down the weeds so that the moisture may be available for the growing corn when warm weather comes. It is especially important that the roots of the corn plants should not be pruned or destroyed. Investigations show that each root-pruning with the cultivator retards the maturity of the corn by several days and also reduces the yield. Deep cultivation in the middle of the row is allowable early in the season, but after July 1, the cultivator shovels should not run more than two or three inches deep. The cultivation should be frequent to stop the weeds and keep the surface mellow, but shallow to avoid pruning."

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS.

A COMPARISON OF THE VALUES IN FARM LANDS ADJOINING AND IN THE VICINITY OF LANDS LISTED BELOW, WILL CONVINCE YOU OF THE BIG BARGAINS THESE FARMS ARE.

80-acre improved farm 3½ miles from the city of Moose Lake on a good road; schoolhouse and church on adjoining land; 20 acres cleared and all plowed; small orchard; 6-room house, stone foundation, cellar, barn and other outbuildings. Price, $3,600; reasonable terms.

120-acre improved farm in Carlton county, 2 miles from town; 75 acres cleared; 60 acres in tame hay meadow; 14 acres in potatoes that are in fine shape; good well and spring. This year's crop should bring the purchaser at least $2,000. Would consider improved city property in exchange.

80-acre improved farm on the Miller Trunk road; a few acres cleared; house and barn and other buildings; partly fenced and is offered at wild land prices. $15 per acre; reasonable terms.

80-acre improved farm 8 miles north of Duluth; 32 acres cleared; fair buildings in a good settled community; half a mile to school; good improved farms adjoining. For price and further information see us.

40 acres all beautifully timbered land on the Itice Lake road; a nice cabin site or will make a good little dairy farm. Offered at $5 per acre under the market. Price $360 for this tract, part terms.

10 acres, 5 minutes' walk from the car line at Duluth Heights; all cleared and fenced; a good well, a house and chicken coop; some apple trees and currant bushes; fronts on the main auto road, and is offered for less than they are asking for wild land. See us for price and terms.

Farmers, florists, fruit growers and dairymen have been invited to attend.

In connection with the social program there will be several addresses of an educational and instructive nature. The meeting will be a sort of a get-together affair for the city and country.

The farmers' clubs of St. Louis and neighboring counties have been invited to attend.

NOW BEST TIME TO MARKET BROILERS

Quickly Maturing Breeds May Be Disposed of to Advantage.

Now is the time to sell broilers.

Surplus cockerels, particularly those of the more quickly maturing breeds may be marketed now to advantage, declares A. C. Smith of the poultry division of the Minnesota College of Agriculture.

"Poultry raisers, particularly those not largely engaged in the occupation," says Prof. Smith, "market their surplus cockerels sooner or later. All realize that cockerels of the lighter breeds become a nuisance very early in life and for that reason it is very desirable to get rid of such at the broiler age. This is comparatively easy to do in Minnesota as broilers are used at all seasons in both St. Paul and Minneapolis. So active, in fact, is the demand for chicks under two pounds in both these cities that often a price of at least 2 cents a pound above other quotations is offered for them.

"While chicks of the broiler size are always salable, it must be borne in mind that they will not always bring the same prices, and that the present is the time of high prices, which—at the top about July 1—drop soon afterwards, and with accelerated rapidity as the season advances. The recent quotations of $6.50 to $7 per dozen, appearing in the St. Paul papers for the two-pound broilers and $5 or $6 for one-pound specimens are attractive."

SLEEPS IN THEATER; LOSES BIG "ROLL"

Charles Sommers, Wide-Awake Companion, Held for the Theft.

So soothing was the "movie" that Fred Kloss of Superior saw in Duluth Thursday night that he went to sleep and his companion took his roll and departed, leaving Fred to slumber on in blissful ignorance of the heroine's danger, the hero's bravery and everything else.

When Fred awoke he was out just $29.85, he said in a loud complaint to police. He told the officers that Charles Sommers, who had accompanied him from Superior to a Duluth "movie" theater and who was sitting beside him when he went to sleep, was the man who had taken the money.

Sommers was arrested by Superior police last night and brought back to face a grand larceny charge. Arraigned before Judge F. H. Cutting this morning in municipal court, he pleaded not guilty and will be given a hearing July 7.

Most of the merchant's REAL anxieties grow out of his absurd anxiety not to spend too much in advertising.

RUSSIAN TROOPS FIGHTING DESPERATELY TO CHECK AUSTRO-GERMAN ADVANCE ON WARSAW

NEW SPIRIT SHOWN IN DULUTH'S CELEBRATION OF NATION'S BIRTHDAY

America's Isolated Peace Brings New Appreciation of Day's Significance.

First Americanization Day Observed Under Sunny Skies.

Program Begins in Charge of City's Recreational Department.

Bright, clear skies favored Duluthians today, and all the programs planned for the observance of Independence day are being carried out successfully.

With nearly two-thirds of the world at war, Duluthians today appreciated Independence day more than ever before and the observance of the anniversary of that famous Fourth of July of 1776, when the colonists signed the Declaration of Independence, is now more joyous and more sincere. There is a new cause for celebration.

America is free from war. Of the largest nations in the world, it is the only one at peace, and this fact was brought home everywhere today.

Although yesterday, Sunday, was July 4, official observance of the holiday began this morning. The downtown streets were in holiday attire, all the stores being closed for the day. By noon most of the public parks were filled with picnickers.

Of biggest importance is the all-day civic celebration planned by the city, under the direction of J. R. Batchelor, head of the city recreational department. The program began at 10 o'clock this morning with The Herald relay race, the Lincoln, Franklin and Cathedral schools having entered teams.

First Americanization Program.

Duluth's first Americanization day program for the newly naturalized citizens of the city is scheduled to take place in front of the courthouse at 2 o'clock this afternoon, following a parade of the military and foreign-speaking organizations of the city. Mayor Prince will preside and the principal addresses will be delivered by Federal Judge Page Morris and Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden. The Third Regiment band will play a program of music.

Immediately after the Americanization day program, Mr. Batchelor and his assistants will stage a play festival at Twelfth avenue east for the children of the city. This program will continue until about 5:30 o'clock.

This evening there will be a public fireworks display at the North-

THREE NEGROES SHOT TO DEATH

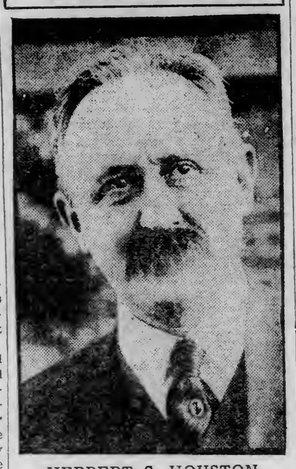

Wholesale Lynching Occurs Near Towns of Round Oak and Wayside, Ga.

Macon, Ga., July 5.—Three negroes known to have been shot to death by a mob last night near Round Oak and Wayside, two villages about thirey miles from here, and the authorities today began a search for others who are missing.

News of the lynchings did not become known here until early today where sheriff's deputies arrived with the three negroes, who are being held in connection with the killing of Silas Turner, a farmer whose death precipitated the outbreak of race feeling.

Turner went yesterday to the home of W. H. King, a negro, near Round Oak, to collect a bill from one of several other negroes there. A dispute resulted, during which the farmer was shot with a pistol.

ARE WARNED BY ADMIRAL

Germans Must Not Underestimate the Danger of Breach With U. S.

Von Truppel Prints a Remarkable Article in Berlin Paper.

Berlin, July 5, via London.—Admiral Oscar Von Truppel, at one time governor of Kiao-Chow, the German concession in the Chinese province of Shantung captured in November by the Japanese, contributes an article today to Der Tag, warning his compatriots not to underestimate the danger of a breach with the United States and asking them to weigh seriously the question whether the value of Germany's submarine warfare against British commerce is great enough to justify a continuance of its present form at the expense of a rupture with a trans-Atlantic nation.

The article is remarkable not only for its open statement regarding the wide-reaching effects which the participation of America in the hostilities might exercise on the future course of the war—effects which Admiral Von Truppel says are greatly underestimated in Germany—but also as a contribution from a naval officer.

Against Modification.

All the naval publicists of Germany hitherto heard from have been devoting their energies to accelerate public opinion against any modification of the submarine campaign and endeavoring to prevent or to limit concessions to American demands in the forthcoming German note to Washington.

The campaign between the advocates and the opponents of a compro-

SUBMARINE SHELLS BIG BRITISH STEAMER

Captain of Anglo-Californian From Montreal and Twelve of Crew Killed By Fire From German Submarine.

London, July 5.—The British steamship Anglo-Californian, of 7,333 tons gross, bound from Montreal, arrived at Queenstown today with a number of dead on board as the result of being shelled by a German submarine.

Twelve men were killed on the Anglo-Californian, including the captain. Eight injured men were landed at Queenstown.

J. P. MORGAN OUT OF DANGER; HOLT IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Physicians Notify Family That Banker's Condition Is Normal.

Would-Be Assassin So Sick He Cannot Sit Up.

Not Believed He Will Be Able to Appear in Court Wednesday.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 5.—J. P. Morgan, who was shot twice by Frank Holt last Saturday, is out of all danger. His physicians so notified his family this morning. Mr. Morgan's pulse was normal, his temperature was normal and he passed a restful night.

Holt, the would-be assassin, on the other hand, was so weak today that when his keepers went to his cell to arouse him he could not sit up on his couch. Unless his condition improves rapidly—and there seemed no reason to expect so radical a change—it will be impossible for him to be taken into court for examination next Wednesday.

All plans to submit Holt to a further questioning today were abandoned because of his serious condition.

Summoned to Cell.

Dr. Guy Cleghorn, the jail physician, was summoned early to Holt's cell. The physician examined Holt thoroughly and found that his injuries were graver than at first thought. Extreme weakness seemed to be the chief feature of Holt's indisposition. This was due, Dr. Cleghorn said, to the great quantity of blood which Holt had lost from the wound over his eye.

Two stitches had been taken in this wound but the flow of blood was not entirely checked. When the wound was dressed today it still evinced a tendency to bleed and all possible efforts were made to prevent a further loss of blood. In addition, Holt sustained a black eye, his shoulder was severely wrenched and he was struck a powerful blow in the stomach which left a mark that had turned black and blue.

Sick Physically and Mentally.

"Holt is very sick," Dr. Cleghorn said, "sick physically and mentally. He is, apparently, exhausted and is unable to answer questions."

Sheriff Grifenhagen of New York county, came here today to question the prisoner. He stayed only a short time in Holt's cell. When he left the jail, Sheriff Grifenhagen said that he did not see how Holt could be taken into court next Wednesday, the day to which his examination was adjourned last Saturday.

With the knowledge that his wounds were less grave than the doctors had

JANE ADDAMS.

New York, July 5.—More than a hundred representatives of peace organizations and kindred associations of women gathered at the American line pier today to welcome Miss Jane Addams, president of the women's peace party, returning from Europe on board the steamship St. Louis. Since attending the women's peace conference at The Hague Miss Adams has visited the capitals of several of the belligerent countries in the interests of the promotion of peace.

Driver Killed at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 5.—C. C. Cox, one of the entrants in the 300-mile sweepstakes race, run Saturday, died yesterday of injuries received when his car plunged through the fence and turned turtle. Cox's home was in Cincinnati. His body will be taken there for burial.

BRITISH PURCHASING AGENT SAYS GERMANY MUST BE DEFEATED

D. A. Thomas Arrives in America for an Indefinite Stay.

Thinks War Will Be Long, Ending With Defeat of the Teutons.

Will Buy Supplies for Allies in United States and Canada.

New York, July 5.—The American line steamer St. Louis arrived here today from Liverpool. She was escorted down the English channel by two torpedo boat destroyers to a distance west of Daunt's Rock, probably owing to the presence on board of D. A. Thomas, the British capitalist and coal operator. Mr. Thomas comes here to supervise and expedite the production of munitions for the allies.

The two destroyers remained with the St. Louis two days and nights, it was said, and did not leave her till the war zone was cleared.

When the St. Louis docked here, Mr. Thomas was met at the pier by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador to the United States and Willard D. Straight of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Thomas was accompanied on the trip across by his wife, his niece, Miss Jameson, his secretary, R. H. Carr, and two business associates, V. Lloyd-Owen and R. H. Mahon. One of Mr. Morgan's yachts lay close to the pier, its name not distinguishable through the pouring

RELIEF FOR MEXICO CITY

Americans Reach Capital With "Light Supplies" for People.

Believed Roads Too Bad to Bring in Heavier Supplies.

Washington, July 5.—With American Consul General Shanklin and Charles J. O'Connor in Mexico City in charge of relief measures undertaken by the Red Cross with the aid of the United States government, officials today expected that they would set in motion steps to assist the famine-stricken population of that city.

In reporting the arrival of Shanklin and O'Connor in the Mexican capital, American Consul Silliman said that they took "light supplies" with them. The fact that the two men carried light supplies is believed to have been due to the condition of the roads being too soft for motor trucks because of heavy rains. It was expected here that they would immediately arrange for the transfer of heavier supplies, left behind at Pachucah, to Mexico City by automobile instead of by railroads, which have been destroyed as a result of military operations.

The fact that Mr. Silliman made no reference to disorders or of foreigners in Mexico City was taken here to indicate that the foreign element there had not been molested by the fighting between the Carranza and Zapata forces.

ENCOUNTERS OF DESPERATE CHARACTER

Fighting Between Vistula and Bug Rivers of the Fiercest Nature.

Russians Claim to Have Checked Teutons at Several Points.

Concede Retirement in East Galicia From Guila Lipa.

In Southern Poland the Russian armies driven over the Galician border are fighting determinedly to check the Teutonic thrust at Warsaw. The most recent Austrian official statement admits that the Russians have been "strongly attacking" in several sectors.

Petrograd tells of desperate engagements between the Vistula and the Bug rivers, and claims to have checked the Austro-Germans at different points, but concedes a retirement in East Galicia from the Gnila Lipa to the Zlota Lipa. Vienna declares that at what seems to have been the chief point of the Teutonic attack in Poland, near Krasnik, the heights to the north were taken.

IN THE WEST.

German assaults in force on the French lines are continuing and have been successful in regaining ground previously lost on a front two-thirds of a mile long between Fey-en-Haye and the Moselle. The French official statement of the day admits this, while recording the breakdown of attacks along other parts of the front.

A Turkish statement declares the entente allies lost heavily in an attempt to land reinforcements on the Gallipoli peninsula and that the effort was frustrated.

KILLED BY SHELL FIRE.

Twelve persons were killed and eight injured on the British steamer Anglo-Californian, from Montreal, by shell fire from a German submarine. The steamer arrived at Queenstown with the dead and injured on board.

AMERICAN COLONY IN BERLIN CELEBRATES

Entertained as Guests of United States Consul General Lay.

Berlin, July 4, via London, July 5.—More than 200 members of Berlin's American colony met this afternoon for the annual celebration of the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Instead of gathering at a suburban park as in former years, however, the Americans were the guests of Julius G. Lay, United States consul general, and Mrs. Lay, who entertained them in the gardens connected with one of the city's hospitals.

The anonymous founder of the "World Association of Friends" who placed today upon the statue of Frederick the Great a wreath tied with the United States colors shrouded with crepe, had extended through the newspapers to Americans of German descent an invitation to attend a rival gathering at the suburb of Grunau, but there were very few who answered the call.

THE SPIRIT OF JULY FOURTH.

GERMANS BOMBARD FRENCH AT ARRAS

Violent Attack Made on Allies' Positions in Front of Souchez Repulsed With Loss to Teutons.

Paris, July 5, 2:30 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a statement on the progress of hostilities, reading as follows:

"In the region to the north of Arras two attempts at attack on the part of the enemy, preceded each by a violent bombardment, were checked by us at about 10 o'clock last night.

'One was directed particularly against our positions in front of Souchez. The Germans came out several different times from their trenches, armed with grenades and bombs. We, however, compelled them to withdraw, leaving many dead on the ground. The other took place at 'the labyrinth,' but it was at once stopped by our fire. In the course of yesterday afternoon and in the evening, the Germans assumed the offensive along a front of about three miles stretching from Fey-En-Haye to the Moselle. To the east of Fey-en-Haye, as well as in the western section of the forest of Le Pretre, along a front of about two-thirds of a mile, they were successful, after a very violent bombardment, in again gaining a footing in their old lines recently taken by us. But in spite of the vigor of their action they found it impossible to move beyond these lines.

"Further to the east, on a line running from La Croix-Des-Carmee to the village of Riept, on the Moselle, a German attack resulted in complete failure and the enemy suffered very heavy losses.

"There is nothing of importance to report from the rest of the front."

WAS ARRESTED AS SPY IN EUROPE

Clergyman Who Passed Through Trying Experience, in Duluth.

Rev. Dr. Preston Bradley, arrested soon after the European war began as a spy in France, was a guest at the Spalding hotel Saturday. Dr. Bradley said that he and his friend were arrested in Paris when the agitation was at white heat and there was very little mercy with spies. Shortly after, however, they were released.

"The people of the several European races will be grouped together at the conclusion of the war on certain territory in Europe," declared Dr. Bradley, "and each of these groups will be a nation in itself."

The Chicago clergyman is planning to build a summer home at Lake Vermilion, and he came to Duluth to make arrangements. He appeared especially enthusiastic over the prospects for Duluth's future, declaring that the rare combinations of commercial activity and scenic beauty of the harbor make Duluth one of the most beautiful ports in the world.

COME FROM SHELL LAKE, WIS., IN AUTOS

Seventy-five motorists from Shell Lake, Wis., arrived in Duluth Saturday night after having traveled since that noon. Business men, farmers, professionals and bankers are represented in the large party, all of them being members of the Shell Lake Boosting club.

The visitors made a tour of the range towns yesterday, the trip being a holiday outing for the party. Among the prominent village men who made the trip were: A. J. Dennally, Barney Hanson, Milton Heistercamp, Dr. O. F. Rischer, Charles Shaffer, Mrs. S. S. Bourne, J. M. Smith, Ole Wang, John Kissell, L. D. Garnhardt, Ed. Rylander, R. R. Cable, G. W. Cable.

LIVING "NEXT TO NATURE"

Former Farmer Arrives in City in a "Prairie Schooner"

Has Traveled 5,000 Miles By Team; Likes Outdoor Life.

"This is the life," said W. T. Lemon, aged 61, who yesterday drifted into Duluth with his "home" on wheels after having traveled more than 5,000 miles in the last year. He is at present making a short call on his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Grove, 205 Eleventh avenue west.

His "house" might be called a "prairie schooner." It resembles one with the exception that instead of being entirely covered by canvas the "house" covers the front part of a hayrack and the after part is screened in so as to keep his stock intact. His stock comprises chickens, turkeys and other fowl.

The poultry and his team of thoroughbred horses, which he calls Sam and Jerry, are his sole companions. Since the death of his wife, Mr. Lemon has been wandering from place to place living, as he says, "next to nature." During his rovings he has traveled in nearly every part of the country. Traveling any other way he says is a bore.

Mr. Lemon was a farmer for many years. Later he became a civil engineer and installed the water system for Alexandria, Minn. He expects to stay here, visiting in Duluth, until the "town gets too close" for him, then he plans to get back into the country districts.

NO COMPROMISE WITH THE DEVIL

Pastor Scores Men Who Would Start War for Selfish Purposes.

Those who seek to create war sentiment from a selfish standpoint, should be silenced, said Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the Swedish Baptist Temple church last night in speaking on "A Pledge of Allegiance With No Compromise." The pastor touched on the significance of the Fourth of July and patriotism to the country.

"We celebrate the Independence day because it stands for the citizenship of these United States, pledging their allegiance to our flag and country, and sealing this pledge with their blood," he said. "Our God requires that our pledge of allegiance shall be lived up to without our making any compromise to sin and the devil.

"The type of Christianity that is forever making overtures to the fads and cults of modern times loses its power to save men from sin and command respect among the ungodly. Only such as will keep the pledge of loyalty to God and his word shall count in the last great analysis.

"The church of Jesus Christ has a right to expect every member to keep sacred the promise made to live a consistent life that men of the world may respect the institution that has stood in our communities with the message of salvation, and pointed out sin and corruption as it has tried to pollute the civic life, and for the sake of graft, permits pitfalls that ruin our young men and women. The church in her great missionary enterprises requires that every member keep his pledge as he keeps his own life.

"Our country requires that every citizen shall be a true patriot. At such a time as this in the life of our nation, our manhood and womanhood should show forth the very best there is in us. The jingoism that for selfish interests seeks to create a war sentiment should be forever silenced. The office-holder who ignores the clean sentiment and favors corruption and vice is a traitor to his country. Let this national Independence day to every American be a renewing of our allegiance to God, the church, and our country."

OWE ALLEGIANCE TO AMERICA FIRST

No Country Offers Freedom Like the U. S. A., Says Rev. Milton Fish.

"New Citizens" was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, last night. He said that in this country citizenship means freedom as never before had been enjoyed by those who swore allegiance to the United States. It means, he said, free speech, school, church, press and ballot.

The pastor touched on the fact that 229 new citizens of this country, living in Duluth, will celebrate the birthday of their land of adoption for the first time on this holiday. These, with their families, he said, would be formally recognized as incorporated and adopted citizens.

"The obligations to maintain our free institutions depend largely on this class of citizens," said Mr. Fish. "As these institutions were secured at great cost, they must be maintained with continuous self-sacrifice. Even at cost of opposing the land of their nativity, naturalized citizens have sworn to be ever loyal to this nation."

ONE THOUSAND GO PICNICKING

Pupils of Many Sunday Schools Pass Day at Parks.

All-Day Program of Sports and Other Features Given.

More than 1,000 children, members of Sunday schools of the West end, left early this morning for parks and playgrounds of the city to pass the day picnicking. The promise of excellent weather for the day brought out nearly the entire membership in each school.

The Sunday school of the First Swedish Methodist church and that of the Oneota branch of the church is picnicking at Fairmont park. The crowd met at the church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, and took street cars to the picnic grounds. Games and sports of various kinds have been planned for the day.

The Sunday school of the Swedish Baptist Temple left at 9 o'clock this morning in automobiles for Ironton, where the children will spend the day. An all-day program has been arranged for the members of the school.

Lester park is the scene of the Sunday school picnic of the Central Baptist church. The crowd took street cars for Lakeside at 10 o'clock this morning.

The members of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. Sunday school are holding their picnic at Grassy Point. Various forms of sports and games are planned for the day.

I. O. S. NOTICE

BELGIAN REFUGEES REACH DULUTH

Great Rejoicing in Van Elsande Home When Family Is Reunited.

Driven from their home by the siege guns of the German army, which bombarded the village of Boesinghe, Belgium, the town of their birth, and having drifted from place to place with refugees until financial aid came from their relatives in Duluth, Victor Van Elsande, age 76, and his granddaughter, Alice Van Elsande, age 13, arrived Saturday afternoon to make their home with the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrille Van Elsande, 2103 West Third street.

The story of their wanderings from the time the home was destroyed until the middle of last month when they got word that money for their passage to America had been forwarded, includes many harrowing hardships and privations through the southern part of Belgium and in Western France. The shells of the German guns tore their home to pieces, but their lives were spared.

Until April the home had been unmolested. Then the siege of Ypres and cities and villages of Southwestern Belgium again began in real earnest. Hundreds of shells were dropped on the town, and many of its non-combatants killed. With other neighbors they fled to a point behind the friendly lines of the English and French.

There was great rejoicing at the Van Elsande home in the West end Saturday evening and yesterday. The mother and daughter were joined for the first time in seven years. Alice had been left with the grandparents, when Cyrille and his wife came to this country in 1908.

FIND REMAINS OF CARL MATTSON

Pleasure Seekers Discover Corpse in River at Fond du Lac.

The body of Carl Mattson, age 28, whose clothes were found on the bank of the St. Louis river near the Duluth stone quarry above Fond du Lac last Tuesday evening, was found yesterday afternoon floating in the river opposite the boathouse at Spirit Lake. The body had been carried down stream more than six miles from where the clothes were found.

A party of pleasure seekers in a launch sighted the body shortly after 3 o'clock and notified the police at New Duluth. Patrolman Boland went out and it was taken to the West End Undertaking company's rooms, 2118 West First street. The funeral will be held from the undertaking rooms at 2 o'clock, with interment in Park Hill cemetery. Members of Fridhem Lodge No. 43, Independent Order of Svithold, to which he belonged, will turn out for the funeral.

Mattson had evidently gone in swimming in the river near the stone quarry and attempted to go across the heavy current. The current undoubtedly was too strong for him. In some parts of this current the water travels about five miles or more an hour.

Mattson was employed by the Dunlop-Moore company as a tile-setter. He was a member of the tile-setters' union. He had for some months before his death roomed at the Osborne apartments, 1906 West Superior street. An uncle, August Anderson, 2201 West Twelfth street, another uncle in Minneapolis and his parents in Sweden survive him.

Swedish M. E. Notes.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the First Swedish M. E. church will be entertained tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Alfred Engstrom, 731 North Twenty-fourth avenue west.

The official board will meet tomorrow evening in the church parlors.

Midweek services will be held Thursday evening.

The Oneota ladies' aid society will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Carlson, 201 Devonshire street.

Misses Myrtle and Ruth Larson will entertain Friday evening at the meeting of the Epworth league, to be held in the church parlors.

CHILD HURT IN FALL.

Lucile Burdash Has Narrow Escape From Losing Eye.

Lucile, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Burdash, 2816 Railroad street, sustained a severe injury yesterday, which for a time threatened to result in the loss of the child's eye.

While visiting at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. S. Russell, 424 Mesaba avenue, the child fell from a beach while taking pictures of the street with a small camera, and struck her forehead on one of the steps. A deep gash over the eye necessitated the taking of five stitches in the wound. The physician who attended the child, said that he believed she would fully recover.

Will Install Officers.

The annual installation of officers for Sons of Sweden lodge, No. 170, Order of Vasa, will be held at the Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. H. L. Nelson, local deputy for the order, will be installing officer. The new officers to be installed are: President, George Lundeen; vice president, Rev. W. I. Wermine, and secretary, Phillip Wicklund. Theodore Anderson will be made master of ceremonies and Ed Horngren will be named chaplain.

LABORER KILLED IN STEAMER HOLD

Adam Melchekle, age 40, a laborer was struck by a large clam shell and died twenty minutes later while working in the hold of the steamer America at the Reiss dock early yesterday morning. He failed to see the heavy bucket coming down into the hold and was crushed underneath it. He leaves a widow and three small children living at 1114 Cedar avenue. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning.

DECREASE IS SHOWN BY SAULT PASSAGES

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 5.—The statistical report of lake commerce passing through the canals at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Canada for the month of June, 1915, shows little change from the report of May, which gave a decrease in tonnage from last year. In the month of June, 1915, there were locked through the canals, 2,581 steamers carrying an aggregate total of 8,360,832 tons. In June, 1914, 2,805 vessels passed through with a tonnage of 8,588,081, a decrease for this year of 187,249 tons and 224 vessel passages.

Wheat and grain show a decrease of 10,437,835 bushels, there being 18,106,009 bushels transported in June, 1914 and 7,668,174 during the last month. Passenger traffic also is in the decrease column, 2,986 less passengers making the trip through the locks. Copper again shows an increase, 6,036 tons being carried eastward this year.

During the month of June, 1914, 4,654,055 tons were locked through the Canadian canal, as against 3,934,026 through the American canals. Since the operation of the third lock only a small percentage now goes to the Canadian side, the amounts for June, 1915 showing 7,909,390 through the American canals and 370,442 tons through the Canadian locks.

STATE TURNERS MEETING

Forty-Fifth Annual Session Being Held at New Ulm.

New Ulm, Minn., July 5.—The forty-fifth annual turnfest of Minnesota started here Sunday morning and will conclude tomorrow night. Delegations are present from the Twin Cities, St. Cloud, Winona and many other parts of the state. The city is well decorated for the occasion and the visitors are being royally entertained. Interest in the outcome of the various contests is keen.

CANADIANS EMPLOYED.

Enlistment Removes Surplus and Many Are Needed for Harvest.

As a result of the great exodus of Canadian workmen to the European battlefields, there is a great shortage of men that are needed for the harvesting of the bountiful crops all over the dominion this year, according to J. L. Leacy of Winnipeg, who was in Duluth Saturday. He stated that there are very few unemployed in Canada now and that there will be great difficulty in getting enough workmen.

Three hundred miles of track have been laid out of Edmonton, north into the Peace river country, by the railroads and that part of the country is fast settling up.

German people expect a long war and are responding nobly to the call of their mother country. There is no especial ill feeling toward the Germans, though the Canadians have become somewhat incensed at the Lusitania disaster.

CELEBRATE AT FARM.

Jean du Luth Employes Stage Ball Game and Picnic.

Employes at the Jean du Luth farm staged a Fourth of July celebration last Saturday for all the residents in the neighborhood.

The program began at 2 o'clock with a ball game between the Jean du Luth team and a nine from the city and county work farm. The former defeated Fred Ward's players by the score of 14 to 10.

Following the game, the women served a picnic supper on the farm grounds. About 150 persons were present.

In the evening there was a dance for the entire neighborhood, the music being furnished by Miller's orchestra.

the battle last Friday. This is semi-officially denied in Berlin.

The latest advices from Berlin confirm recent intimations that the German reply to the American note may not be delivered for several days, during which time an agreemnt may be effected between the naval extremists and those favoring a compromise as to Germany's submarine policy, it is hoped.

German Statement.

Berlin, July 5, by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.—The German official statement issued yesterday is as follows:

"In the southeastern theater:

"Gen. von Linsingen's army in full pursuit of the enemy, is advancing towards the Zlota Lipa. Three thousand Russians were taken prisoners yesterday under pressure of the Germans, the enemy is evacuating his position from Narajow to Miasto and to the north of Przemysl and from Kamionka to Krylyow.

"In the western theater:

"In the Argonne the Germans continue their offensive. Our booty has increased considerably and amounted July 1 and 2 to 2,556 prisoners, among them thirty-seven officers and twenty-five machine guns, seventy-two mine throwers and one revolver-gun.

"On the Meuse heights the enemy renewed four times his attempts to win back the positions he had lost near Les Eparges. The attacks were easily repulsed.

"Yesterday German areplanes bombarded a fort near Harwich, England, and a British torpedo boat destroyer flotilla, and attacked the fortified town of Nancy and the railroad station at Dombasle (11 miles southeast of Nancy) thereby severing railway communication with the fort at Remiremont.

"An English aeroplane came down burning at a point north of Ghent on the Dutch frontier. A German fighting aeroplane forced a French aviator to land near Schlucht.

"The enemy dropped bombs on Bruges (capital of the Belgian province of West Flanders) without doing any military damage."

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE

Duluth Statement Indication of Good Financial and Business Conditions.

Gratifying financial and business conditions were reflected in an increase of $5,996,990 shown in Duluth bank clearings for the half-year ended June 30. The aggregate was reported at $89,857,740.88, as compared with $83,860,750.71 during the corresponding period in 1914.

Judging from general indications and reports being received from corresponding over the Northwest, regarding crop prospects, local bankers are optimistic regarding the trade outlook for the fall months.

Bank clearings figures in detail are as follows:

	1915.	1914.
January	$16,686,553.71	$14,666,562.73
February	13,888,887.76	11,566,347.70

GRAIN SCALES BEING TESTED

Inspector to Determine Difference in Duluth and Mill City Weights.

Forty Cars of Wheat Arrive For Official Testing.

With a view to determining the exact difference between the scales at Duluth and Minneapolis grain elevators, a test upon a large scale is being conducted.

A special train of forty cars containing 3,000,000 pounds of wheat, which arrived here last Saturday afternoon over the Great Northern railroad, is being unloaded at Elevator D, and its weights are being taken, car for car, under the supervision of Michael-Fox, assistant weighing inspector of the state grain department. The unloading will be completed tomorrow and the weights will then be checked up against those taken at Minneapolis.

The shipment as arranged for by H. E. Emerson, chief state grain inspector at St. Paul, and G. H. Tunnell, chief deputy in Minneapolis, was made by the Hallett & Carey company of Minneapolis. The grain will be forwarded from here later to Eastern millers.

It is pointed out by F. M. Schutte, state weighmaster, that there must be always a slight difference between the weight of the grain put into and taken out of a car, and that this special test is being made with a view to determining the exact difference, so that in future any allowances necessary in computations in large shipments may be accurately made.

land Country club, the entire grounds to be thrown open to the people of the city.

Celebration at Exeter Farms.

Residents at the Exeter farms began a special Fourth of July celebration at 10 o'clock this morning. W. H. Gurnee opened the festivities with an address, after which games were played and a program of music enjoyed. The Ladies' Aid Society of the Exeter Presbyterian church served a dinner to all present and a baseball game between teams of the neighborhood is scheduled for this afternoon. A fireworks display and open-air dance is scheduled for this evening.

Bright and early this morning 1,000 West end Sunday school children left for the various city parks to spend the day celebrating the Fourth with games and musical programs. Basket lunches were carried.

Two baseball games were scheduled for today between the Duluth and Superior teams, one for 10 a. m. and the other for 2:30 p. m.

Pupils Go Picnicking.

The pupils of the Tanis school have planned a picnic for this afternoon north of Highland. The program will start at 2:30 o'clock and it includes recitations, music and games. An athletic and field contest is also planned.

Many Duluthians are in Superior today for the special civic celebration being staged there by the large organization of the city. There was an automobile parade at 11 o'clock this morning and in the afternoon there will be band concerts and a Venetian fete and fireworks display is planned for this evening.

Varied Celebration in New York.

New York, July 5.—This city's official celebration of Independence day today comprised an unusually varied list of events, including the Americanization day meeting in the stadium of the college of the city of New York, where thousands of immigrants admitted to citizenship here within the last year were to be addressed by Federal and state representatives and numerous suffrage meetings and dancing fetes in the streets.

Milwaukeeans Sing "America."

Milwaukee, Wis., July 5.—As a special tribute to the loyalty to America in today's celebration of Independence day, Milwaukeeans, it was planned, would at 11 o'clock this forenoon sing "America."

At the hour named the church bells were to peal forth and traffic of all descriptions was to stop and everybody was to halt for a moment to ponder in fealty to the country.

Arrangements were made for celebrating in a safe and sane manner.

One hundred thousand children were to march into ten parks, each child carrying the nation's emblem, the parades to be led by bands of music.

Gorgeous dance pageants descriptive of old time and modern civilization and athletic exercises and games were to be participated in by the children.

Magnificent fireworks in eight different parks were planned for this evening.

Parade of Foreign Born.

Detroit, Mich., July 5.—A parade of 6,000 foreign-born employes of an automobile plant and a reception on Belle Isle to other thousands of recently naturalized citizens were features of the program arranged for the Americanization celebration in Detroit today.

Among the speakers announced for the island exercises were United States Senator William Alden Smith and Mayor Oscar B. Marx of Detroit. Buttons bearing a picture of the United States flag and the word "Citizen" had been prepared for distribution to the new Americans. Each wearer was asked to repeat after the mayor the oath of allegiance which gave him the right to display the button.

It had been arranged that when the parade of automobile workers reached the city hall it was to halt long enough for the marchers to sing "America."

Day of Rest in Chicago.

Chicago, July 5.—Independence day was not celebrated as such in Chicago today, but only as a day of rest. The large number of flags displayed and the unusual quiet were all that marked the occasion. There were no fireworks, no patriotic addresses of importance and no official program. The Americanization feature was ignored.

Exercises By School Children.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 5.—Independence day was celebrated here today with exercises by large numbers of school children at the public playgrounds and parks as well as at a mass meeting of the local members of the Grand Army of the Republic and Spanish war veterans. The Americanization day movement was not officially observed.

Ellen Wilson Memorial Service.

Little Rock, Ark., July 5.—Principal interest in the Independence day observance here today centered about the Ellen Wilson memorial service to be held in municipal park late today. The ceremonies will be under the auspices of Little Rock Ellen Wilson Memorial chapter, and will be conducted as a tribute to the work the late wife of the president did in alleviating the economic conditions among the poor in Washington.

Approximately 400 Boy Scouts from over all of Arkansas, who came to this city from their homes by foot, to hold a three-day reunion, will take part in the services.

FINE WEATHER TO CONTINUE

High Wind, However, Is Warned Against on Great Lakes.

The good weather of today will continue over tonight and tomorrow, according to Weather Forecaster Richardson, and there will be very little change in the temperature. Moderately fresh winds are expected to shift to easterly.

Yesterday rain prevailed over the Southern Mississippi valley and east to the Atlantic ocean, while strong winds blew over the northern lakes. The gales reached high velocities in some places. At Portage a velocity of 34 miles an hour was reached, at Whitefish it attained 32, at Middle island, 36 miles, and at Plum island it touched 40 miles an hour. The wind was especially marked around Erie and Buffalo, attaining the great velocity of 56 miles. This maximum of last night settled down to 40 miles this morning. The weather over the lakes was clear to partly cloudy.

At 10 a. m. this morning, Forecaster Richardson issued a warning of a high wind all over the Great Lakes, coming from the west. Indications are that it will attain a heavy velocity.

rain, ready to take Mr. Thomas and his party aboard.

Stay Indefinite.

"I have come to America prepared for an indefinite stay," Mr. Thomas said. "I may stay till the end of the war, and I don't know how long that will be. It looks as if the war might last a long time. But no matter how long it lasts there can be but one ending—Germany must be defeated, and will be.

"My business in the United States and Canada—I expect to go to Canada very soon—is to co-operate with Mr. Morgan's firm and firms in Canada in the purchase of munitions of war for England. In this connection, I want to say that there has been no criticism of the manner in which Morgan has fulfilled his contracts. What criticism there has been was chiefly in Canada and was to the effect that Canada had not been favored so much in the award of contracts as the United States."

Mr. Thomas said he did not care to comment on the latter subject. His immediate plans, he added, were not yet ripe for publication but embraced a trip to Canada within the near future.

News of the attempt to assassinate J. P. Morgan had been received aboard the ship.

"It gave us all a feeling of nervousness," Mr. Thomas said.

mise still is intense and delivery of the note which a few days ago was scheduled for Monday or Tuesday will probably be delayed several days.

It is hoped by those who favor a compromise that these days of additional consideration will produce a change in the attitude of the naval party, whose views thus far have been opposed to any note of a character outlined previously in these dispatches.

This was to the effect that in all probability the reply will embody proposals to exempt ships employed wholly or principally in passenger traffic from submarine attacks though making them subject to stoppage and naval examination. The naval party, however, has been bringing heavy pressure to bear upon the ministers engaged in consideration of the answer.

PREDICT LIVELY GRAIN MARKET

Holiday Expected to Be Followed By Unusual Activity.

An active market is predicted in grain and stock brokerage circles tomorrow after today's holiday on all the exchanges.

It is conceded by operators that weather conditions from day to day will continue to govern the markets in wheat. In many quarters, it is thought, however, the bumper crops have been largely discounted in the present range of quotations, and that in the event of any bullish factors intervening, such as unfavorable weather for harvesting in the Middle West or continued rains and cool weather in the Northwest, sharp advances are to be expected.

Taking a line on the present heavy demand for copper metal, activity with further advances is generally looked for in mining stocks, provided complications do not arise over Germany's reply to President Wilson's note in the Lusitania incident.

MARSHALL SLEEPS; NO RECEPTION

Citizens of Little Rock Unable to See Vice President.

Little Rock, Ark., July 5.—Vice President T. R. Marshall slept through the reception arranged for him by Little Rock citizens upon his arrival here this morning from St. Louis, en route to Hot Springs, to be the principal speaker at an Independence day celebration.

When the vice president's train arrived there was a rush of leading citizens, including Governor George W. Hayes, Mayor C. E. Taylor, other state and city officials, members of the Arkansas supreme court and citizens, but the guest of honor slumbered peacefully through the noise made by 500 or more persons who desired to shake his hand. The special remained here but ten minutes.

THIEVES HAVE BUSY MONTH

Property Valued at $6,426 Stolen in Duluth During June.

Four automobiles, stolen by joy-riders and later recovered by police, brought up the total value of property lost or stolen during June to $6,426.62.

Lieut. N. U. G. Terry of the police department, supervisor of the work of recovering lost and stolen property, in his monthly report, issued today, showed that an excellent record was made by the department, as 70 per cent of the goods were returned to their owners. The totals, both of lost and recovered property, are larger than for any other month of the year so far.

Petit larceny thieves did a land office business early in the month, for there was an average of three petit larceny cases handled daily between June 1 and June 20. In all, 66 cases were on the police books. Twenty-two grand larceny cases, ten cases of larceny from the person, two hold-ups and ten burglaries, complete the list of misdemeanors or crimes in which property or money was lost.

"Four automobiles in a month is a record for Duluth," said Lieut. Terry in commenting on the report. "With the coming of summer we expect more trouble of this nature. This will be true particularly now that there are many more cars on the streets, due to the inauguration of the jitneys."

WORK FARM MEN WILL CELEBRATE

Not Their Own Freedom But the Anniversary of National Independence.

While they will not be able to celebrate their own independence, men at the county and city work farm will observe the nation's anniversary of freedom, according to Fred Ward, superintendent of the institution.

An athletic program will feature the celebration. At 11:30 o'clock this morning, picked teams started a baseball game on the work farm diamond. The winners will receive a box of cigars. This afternoon, the winners of a tug of war contest will also receive a box of cigars.

First, second and third prizes consisting of 50 cents, 25 cents and a cigar will be offered in various foot races, high jump, three-legged race, sack race and potato race. The best team in the horseshoe throwing contest will pull down a $1 prize.

CELEBRATE ON BOUNDARY LINE

Representatives of Four Nations Participate in Affair Near Blaine, Wash.

Bellingham, Wash., July 5.—Representatives of four nations and the Pacific coast states participated in a celebration on the United States-Canadian boundary line near Blaine yesterday of the 100 years of peace, recently concluded between Great Britain and the United States. The celebration was under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Highway association.

Among the speakers were E. G. Britton of England, chairman of the Overseas & Dominion Peace commission; Kanachi Abe, Japanese consul at Vancouver, B. C., representatives of the governors of Washington, Oregon and California and several Canadians. Samuel Gintzberger, Swiss consul at Vancouver assisted in flag raising ceremonies.

A movement was set on foot to erect a marble shaft on the spot to commemorate the celebration.

NO DRUG RING FOUND IN DULUTH

"Dope Fiends" Said To Be Able to Get Stuff in Twins.

A report from Minneapolis states that even in the face of the strict Harrison act those who are victims of the drug habit are still able to procure their favorite drugs, though in very small quantities and at excessive prices. This is true in Minneapolis and St. Paul, but in Duluth, say those that are acquainted with the facts, it is absolutely impossible to obtain the drugs at any price. This speaks exceptionally well for the law enforcement of this city as contrasted with that of the Twin Cities.

C. J. Swendson, a member of the state board of control, paid a visit to the state hospital for inebriates recently, and as a result was convinced that there exists in the Twin Cities a "drug ring" through which it is still possible to obtain the precious articles. The number of drug users seeking the cure at the state institution are greatly on the increase, but, according to one of the inmates, there are some who yet find it possible to obtain drugs at a "sky high" price.

HURT WHILE RACING TO BEDSIDE OF WIFE

Grand Forks, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Racing to the side of his wife in a local hospital, when she was about to undergo a serious operation, M. J. Brandt of Grafton was in an automobile accident, and today he occupies a cot in the hospital in the same room with his wife.

Brandt was only a few miles out of Grafton when his car skidded on a slippery road, leaping into the ditch and turning over. Brandt was pinned under the machine, and had several ribs fractured and his collar bone broken.

CIVIL SERVICE NECESSARY.

Commission Answers Charges of Commissioner Silberstein.

That civil service is necessary for the good of the city government and that knocking the system will never help, is the answer of members of the commission to the charges made Saturday by Commissioner Silberstein.

In addition, it is claimed that political appointments are desired by the safety head, who is unable to make them because of the civil service rule.

"If Commissioner Silberstein doesn't like the system," suggested H. W. Nichols, a member of the civil service body, this morning, "let him change the rules. The board has been named to enforce the regulations and we are doing our duty. If he wants to carry out those plans, he will have to revise the entire system."

Commissioner Silberstein would have all the department heads choose their own employes, claiming the civil service regulations making this procedure unlawful as being inefficient.

NORMAN COUNTY FAIR

Opens at Ada With Largest Attendance in Fair's History.

Ada, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Norman county fair opened here today with the largest first day attendance in the history of the fair grounds at Ada.

A number of new buildings constructed this year gave better opportunity to display the exhibits which made a splendid showing. The woman's department and the cooking and sewing exhibits by the school children are very fine, and the stock is the best ever assembled in Norman county, including beef and dairy cattle, draft horses, hogs, sheep and poultry. With a monster first day attendance, and a good race and amusement program for the two following days, the attendance record for the three days will without question be shattered.

COUNCIL MEETS TUESDAY

Utility Controversy Will Hold Center of the Stage.

The city hall is closed today and as a result the regular council meeting will be held tomorrow evening, instead of tonight. The controversy over the charge for labor in turning on water from the hydrants will be settled at the meeting, as Commissioner Farrell plans to introduce a resolution, which will empower the water department to appoint a man to be hired by the works division. This man will have charge of turning on the water.

In addition, the jitney referendum petition will come up for consideration.

Several ordinances will be advanced and saloon license renewals will be granted to W. A. Wagner, 15 Second avenue west, and August Toettcher, 605 East Third street.

DULUTH WINS MORNING GAME.

Duluth won the morning game of baseball at Athletic park today. The final score was 12 to 1. The locals got an early lead and at no time did the visitors have a "look-in."

WILL FILE MORE NAMES TUESDAY

Some time tomorrow officers of the Duluth Jitney association will file an additional list of 250 names to the referendum jitney petition.

This was announced this morning by Edward M. Kelley, president of the association, who said that a sufficient number of names has been obtained to make the measure legal. In addition, he announced, the proposed amendment to the ordinance, making provision for co-operative indemnity insurance in place of the liability policies now required, will be submitted to the members of the council.

If the list of names is filed tomorrow, it will be presented to the city council at the regular weekly meeting in the evening. City Clerk Borgen will be instructed to check these additional names and if there is enough to make the petition legal, a total of 1,323 signatures being required, then the council will take into consideration the amending of the ordinance or the calling of a special election. The petition at present has 1,150 legal names.

President Kelley has received word from Kansas City that the National Indemnity Exchange will shortly receive a license to sell insurance in Minnesota. In that event, the council has agreed to accept the amendment making provision for co-operative insurance.

"If the council accepts the amendment," said Mr. Kelley this morning, "we will call off the special election."

THE NORTHLAND COUNtry club, the three houses of the boat club, country homes, town homes with large lawns and picnic spots on lake and river were scenes today of Fourth of July festivities.

The sports program at the country club will be followed by a dinner-dance. More than 250 reservations have been made for dinner which will be served at small tables on the gallery which is decorated in the national colors. A feature of the dance which will follow will be the Highland fling danced by Miss Daisy MacAskill in Scotch costume with Robert Mowbray playing the accompaniment on the bagpipe.

The tournaments in women's singles and in men's singles and doubles that were begun Saturday continued today on the Oatka courts. There is no special attraction at the main house of the boat club, but the Spirit Lake branch is gay as all the oarsmen rowed up from the main house yesterday to remain over today and all cottages and tents were taken for parties for the week-end and Fourth. Among the hosts are James Ten Eyck, Allan Trux, Oscar Branstadt, J. Harris Trux and S. Dibbel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn of 101 Oxford street are host and hostess for the "neighborhood picnic" that is held every Fourth of July by several families of Hunter's Park, among whom are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McGonagle, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Bohannon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Denfeld, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Richardson, Lieut. and Mrs. Gerald Howze, Mrs. C. A. Smith and Mrs. Frank D. Day.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stone of 2222 East Superior street, who are entertaining a house party at their summer home at Caribou lake, have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Colburn, Miss Berta Schmied, Harvey Clapp, Alfred Hanchett, Leo Schmied and Richard Hillis.

Johnson-Julin Wedding at Home of the Bride

Miss Helen Johnson and Albert Julin were married Saturday night by Rev. Albert Johanson of Moline, Ill., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Johnson, 1924 West Second street. Miss Signe Norlander was maid of honor and Walter Forsman was best man. Miss Hedwig Benson played the "Lohengrin" wedding march for the processional and vocal numbers were given by Miss Benson and Arthur Nelson.

The bride wore a gown of white silk trimmed with filet lace and pearls and a veil arranged in cap effect with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. Miss Norlander was gowned in white crepe de chine, combined with shadow lace and a yellow girdle and wore a corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas.

The ceremony was followed by a supper for forty guests.

The rooms were decorated with peonies, roses and garden flowers. A yellow and white color scheme was carried out in the parlor and the national colors were used in the dining room.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Julin will make their home in the West end after July 10.

Mrs. Graves Will Be Guest of Honor

Mrs. Millie Bunnell of 2017 East Superior street will entertain Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in compliment to Mrs. C. H. Graves.

Needlecraft Club

The Lester Park Needlecraft club will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Clyde Russell of 5715 Wyoming street.

No Venetian Fete This Year.

There will be no Venetian fete at the boat club this year, as the officers of the club remember that last year only four yachts out of the fleet of thirty were decorated, that less than one-third of the rowboats and canoes were on the water and that on the night of the carnival it was necessary to call on the members of the rowing squad to man the crafts, as most of the members refused to take part.

Long Island Society Set Turns Out En Masse to See "Polo Match"

—Copyright by the Bain News Service.

MRS. SKIDDY VON STADE.

Katherine Steele was married recently to "Skiddy" von Stade, a well-known polo player. The wedding was a great society event, and all the Long Island set was present at Westbury and went later to see a polo match at the Meadowbrook club. But unfortunately the weather was not propitious for polo, and the match did not occur. The wedding was distinctly a "polo match," as was the marriage of Miss Steele's sister to Devereux Milburn. Mrs. von Stade is herself a good polo player.

Women Speak for Suffrage at Open-Air Meetings

Accorded Close Attention and Good Treatment—Duluth Women Join Congressional Union.

"Keep still; she knows what she is talking about," said a man to another man who tried to interrupt Miss Mabel Vernon of Washington, D. C., who was explaining the proposed Federal amendment for woman suffrage at the open air meeting held Saturday night at Superior street and Second avenue west. That was the spirit of the crowd during the talks by Miss Vernon, Mrs. Gertrude Hunter and Miss Elsa Ueland of Minneapolis, members of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, who spoke from 9:15 o'clock to 11:30 o'clock. About 150 persons remained for the entire meeting, and others came and went, making a total of about 500 who heard the explanations of and the arguments made in favor of the Susan B. Anthony amendment. The talks were made from Thorwald Hansen's automobile, which was decorated with banners of the Congressional union.

About 11:30 o'clock, when the crowd numbered about 150, not more than twenty of whom were women, a vote was taken for a resolution to be sent to Congressman Clarence B. Miller. Three men voted against woman suffrage, but only one of them raised his hand. Miss Vernon congratulated him on having the courage of his convictions and asked if he would tell why he was opposed to the enfranchisement of women. He raised his hat, bowed graciously and said: "Because woman's place is in the home."

"How many of you men are in politics?" Miss Vernon asked. One man at the edge of the crowd raised his hand.

Turning to the man who had raised his hand to vote against woman suffrage Miss Vernon asked:

"Do you get my point?"

"I guess you've got me on the hip," was his reply.

Had to Change Location.

It was necessary to change locations three times as the large number of interested listeners interfered with traffic.

Open air meetings were held today at 10:30 o'clock at Superior and Second avenue west, and at noon in Superior. This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock there will be one at Central avenue and Ramsey street and tonight at 8:30 o'clock there will be another one at Superior street and Second avenue west.

Before the Saturday night meeting the speakers sold all the copies they had of "The Suffragist," the organ of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage.

At the first of the series of meetings, held Saturday afternoon in the library clubroom, every woman present joined the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage. The first speaker was Miss Ueland, whose mother, Mrs. Andreas Ueland of Minneapolis, is president of the Minnesota Woman Suffrage association. Miss Ueland urged the importance of Minnesotans supporting the Susan B. Anthony amendment rather than the Shafroth amendment which she characterized as a subterfuge of politicians.

Mrs. Hunter's Talk.

Mrs. Hunter, who worked energetically in Wyomink just before the election last fall in interest of the Federal amendment, said:

"Political questions today are fundamentally commercial questions, and commerce knows no state lines. The evils women particularly desire to combat, the white slave traffic, the employment of child labor, the sale of impure food and diseased clothing, are national evils nationally organized. Before the influence of women's opinions on these questions can be felt in the nation women must be enfranchised throughout the nation."

Miss Vernon, who is one of the national organizers of the Congressional union, said:

"Just after the war Susan B. Anthony asked that the word 'sex' be inserted in the Fifteenth amendment to the Constitution that extended the franchise to men regardless of 'race, color or previous condition of servitude' and she was told, 'This is the negro's time.' In 1875 the Susan B. Anthony amendment was presented and now, forty years later, we are told women have had no experience in government, though the fault certainly is not ours.

No Franchise For Women.

"The congress of these United States has in its wisdom enfranchised the male negro, the Indian and the native-born Chinese. Now, there is serious talk of extending the franchise in the insular possessions, so that the Filipino may feel his responsibility and learn the lessons in self-government which the use of the franchise teaches. But native-born American women, with generations of American blood and American patriotism back of them are, in thirty-six states of our Union, still asking for political freedom.

"When the Democratic party came into power we felt that the time had arrived for a great party to do an act of justice. We appealed unwearyingly to that party to pass the national suffrage amendment. The president seven times refused all help to the women's movement in his answers to the suffrage deputations. The leaders in the senate forced our measures to defeat through a premature vote. The leaders in the house blocked the amendment in committee.

"After waiting until six weeks before the election, hoping something would be done, we appealed to the enfranchised women of the nine states to make plain to the whole country that no candidate opposed to the enfranchisement of women could expect to receive their support. A California senator who had a majority of 43,000 at the previous election had a majority of 3,000 this time. At the election before he knew three weeks before the ballots were cast that he would be elected; this time it was two weeks after election before he knew that he would return to Washington.

"Resolutions in favor of the enfranchisement of women must be sent to the congressmen. The resolutions will receive publicity and congressmen will not be able to say, 'The people of my district are not interested in the matter.' If they do say so there will be proof to show them that their constituents are interested in it.

"It is not sufficient to send to congress men who 'believe in suffrage.' You must send to congress men who will work for the Susan B. Anthony amendment and vote for it, instead of against it.

"The congressional union is absolutely nonpartisan. What it did last year it would do again, to Republicans, Progressives or Socialists if they were in power and opposed the suffrage amendment."

Miss Vernon will go from Duluth to Denver for a short stay and then to Nevada, where she worked successfully just before the election in that state last fall.

Mrs. Hunter will go to Cloquet, Hibbing, Virginia and other range towns to speak in interest of the Federal amendment and Miss Ueland will go to Minneapolis and later to the southern part of the state to speak in interest of the Congressional union.

Duluth Boat Club's Social Program for Current Month

In the Log, published by the Duluth Boat club, the social and sporting program for the current month is announced and is quite a pretentious one. Aside from the races last Saturday, the regular program begins on Wednesday of this week, when the tennis games begin. That evening the midweek dance will take place at 8:30. The program, as published, gives the events up to and including the Northwestern regatta on July 23 and 24. The program for the month follows:

Wednesday — At Oatka branch, match play on courts; 8:30 p. m., midweek dance.

Thursday—At main house, 6 p. m.—Second of special dinner dances in charge of the tennis division.

Saturday—At main house, 3 p. m.—Second race of first series of sailing races; 6 p. m., rowing races; 6 to 8 p. m., dinner in cafe; 8:30 p. m., weekly dance.

At Oatka—3 p. m., match play on tennis courts; 8:30 p. m., weekly dance.

Wednesday, July 14—At Oatka branch, 4 p. m., semi-finals in tournament; 8:30 p. m., midweek dance.

Saturday, July 17—At main house, 3 p. m., third and last race of first series of sailing races; 6 p. m., rowing races; 6 to 8 p. m., special dinner in cafe; 8:30 p. m., weekly dance.

At Oatka—2 p. m., finals in club championship tennis matches; 8:30 p. m., weekly dance.

Tuesday, July 20—At main house, 6 p. m., dinner dance under auspices of motorboat and canoe divisions.

Wednesday, July 21—At Oatka, 8 p. m., midweek dance.

At Oatka—8:30 p. m., weekly dance.

Wednesday, July 28—8:30 p. m., midweek dance.

Saturday, July 31 — Main house, ladies' day, 3 p. m., ladies' sailing races in yachts of all classes; 6 to 8 p. m., special dinner in cafe; 8:30 p. m., weekly dance.

At Oatka—8:30 p. m., weekly dance.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Before Vacation.

You can pick out the women who are making ready to take their vacation by the clothes they wear. They are wearing their oldest clothes and their personal appearance will be perceptibly less smart than it has been heretofore. The stock of pretty and clean things grows steadily as the week before vacation time draws near its weary end. Skirts, waists, neckties, belts, collars, handkerchiefs, gloves, underwear, ruffles and laces are gathered together and laid in readiness several days previous to the start. Often girls will deny themselves the pleasure of theaters and parties because they are keeping their pretty clothes fresh for the vacation season and would not be seen about in the clothes they have forced themselves to wear the week preceding their summer holiday.

Ardent lovers who are seemingly relegated to obscurity need not take alarm or offense if they are informed that they are not to be entertained even for one evening during this last week. There is a deal of preparation necessary to the average girl's vacation and this absorbs her evenings. The chances are that it is not that you are no longer favored, but that she will not disturb her freshly starched wardrobe and also that she prefers not to entertain you dressed in the old duds which she is wearing half shamedly and at the same time bravely, so that she may make a display of purple and fine linen a week hence.

It is well for a girl to plan to carry the bulk of her wardrobe away with her when she goes on her annual trip, and undoubtedly some concessions to one's appearance are necessary in order to do so. It is carried too far in many cases, however. Women make themselves obnoxious to their families and the men and women with whom they work, and I am afraid that they make themselves miserable at the same time. More careful planning would do away with the dowdy costumes during the week previous to their vacation.

The leaving behind of two or three dainty waists and their accessories will have no serious effect upon your enjoyment of your vacation. The wearing of old cast-off garments the week before and the week following your return cannot fail to have a depressing effect upon you and to a certain extent upon those who work with you.

Keep yourself looking as smart and fresh as you can both before, during and after your vacation. To do this, wear some of your pretty shirtwaists and skirts the week before and leave them behind to be washed, starched and ironed and put away, waiting your return with a trunk full of soiled, wrinkled finery.

FURS

ON A HOLIDAY

But it's easy to talk about our cold storage vaults. They were built expressly to keep the moths out of your furs and to keep the quality in. It is only in cold, dry air that furs retain their original luster and where in Duluth can you find such air except in our cold storage vaults?

Remember we use no smelly chemicals. Cold, dry air makes them unnecessary. Bring your furs in now—you may save yourself vain regrets later.

NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.

REX—Max Figman and Lois Meredith in "My Best Girl," photoplay.

DENATURED "UNCLE TOM"

No Ice, Blood Hounds, Whipping, in Baldwin Players' Interpretation.

But Famous Old Play Is Put on Well and Acted Excellently.

Uncle Tom and little Eva are back. They will be at the Lyceum theater all this week.

But this time—the 'steenth—they are assisted in presenting Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous slave play, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," by a troupe of colored singers and dancers from the South, who lend the only Southern atmosphere to the play.

There are no bloodhounds and they sure are missed. Even the cakes of ice are absent, Eliza making her daring escape across the Ohio on a long board, while two sets of moving scenery along both sides suggest "ice."

And this time also the audience is deprived of the opportunity of seeing faithful Uncle Tom whipped almost to death by his master, Simon Legree, who, instead, hits the former over the head with the whip handle, felling him to the ground. Of course, Uncle Tom dies anyway, but the whipping was expected. Not that we don't like Harry Minturn as Uncle Tom, but between us, that whip never hurts Tom, anyway.

However, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as presented by the Baldwin Players yesterday before two large houses, is a credit to the management and players. It is a very hard production to stage, because of the many scenes; and the local company did well. There are six acts and about four scenes to an act. We quit counting after the third act.

The hit of the entire show is Miss Anne Bronaugh as Topsy. Her interpretation of this little darky slave is a revelation, for no one ever thought that "our" stately leading lady, inclined to plumpness, could cavort and hop about like Topsy. Now they know that she can. That's the revelation.

Miss Bronaugh not only acted the part, but she talked it. She has the accent down to perfection and there is a strong suspicion that Miss Bronaugh played this part when a little girl. That's something one would like to know, just to satisfy curiosity.

Harry Minturn fails to suggest the kind, loving, venerable Uncle Tom, although he acts very well. Phyllis Thibodeau makes a delightful little Eva and the local actress dies "beautifully" in the third act. As a matter of fact, they all die "beautifully," including Eva, Mr. St. Clare and Uncle Tom. Even Simon Legree dies in an able manner.

Two of the best character studies in the play are those of Mr. St. Clare by A. Romaine Callender, and Marks, the lawyer, by George Fox. The latter scores especially in his many comedy scenes, while Mr. Callender makes one fall in love with Mr. St. Clare, always kind, considerate and loving. He plays the part just as it should be.

Others in the cast include Mark Elliston as George Harris, William Mortimer as Phineas Fletcher, Al Smith as Tom Loker and Skeegs, the auctioneer, Walter Baldwin, Jr., as George Shelby, Miss Margaret Lotus as Eliza, Miss Maud Melville as Phelia and Miss Geraldine Blair as Marie St. Clare.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will continue throughout the week, with matinees today, Wednesday and Saturday.

NEW SHOW AT GRAND.

Vaudeville Stunts That Create Laughter Are Furnished.

There is fine vaudeville and photoplay at the New Grand this week and just the kind of a bill to please holiday crowds.

The Three Lyres in a comedy musical act, offer tinkling tunes that would tickle the risibles of the most chronic grouch. Comedy, novelty, music, song and story are combined by this versatile trio.

Little bits of everything in a vaudeville way make up the offering of Bill Dooley. Imitations, rope spinning, talking, songs, yodeling and eccentric dancing are among the many offerings of this accomplished young man.

Eastman and Moore in a musical comedy skit, "His Gypsy Sweetheart," offer a distinct novelty with special scenery and effects. His lady member of the duo is a winsome young artist, good to look upon and who trills a song in a charming manner. Her partner is an admirable foil with quaint fooling and ludicrous dancing.

A characteristic singing and talking diversion is the offering of Cooper and Ricardo, who register one of the laughing hits of the bill. An excellent wardrobe adds to the enjoyment of the offering.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are the stars of the photoplay feature, "Providence and Mrs. Urmy." The story is in three reels. One of the Billy Reeves comedies, "The Substitute" and "The Heart of Jim Brice," a drama, are other photoplays on the bill.

On Tuesday and Wednesday the sixth chapter of "The Diamond From the Sky" entitled "Shadows at Sunrise" will be added to the above program.

Max Figman at Rex Beautiful.

B. A. Wolfe presents the two popular stage stars, Max Figman and Lois Meredith in the rollicking comedy drama "My Best Girl" at the Rex today and tomorrow. "My Best Girl" was made from the play by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, author of "The Beauty Shop" and "Red Widow."

Mr. Figman is well remembered from his work in "The Man on the Box," which played at the Rex last season and Miss Meredith recently appeared in two of the best productions of the year, "The Woman" and "Help Wanted."

The first "Aerial Jitney" is shown in current events at the Rex today and tomorrow.

TWENTY-ONE GUNS FOR "OLD GLORY"

Gopher and Isle de Luzon Salute the Flag at Noon.

Salutes to "Old Glory" were fired at noon today by crews on the United States naval training ships, Gopher of the Minnesota naval militia, and the Isle de Luzon of the Illinois naval militia. The salute to the flag consists of twenty-one guns.

The Isle de Luzon arrived in port at 6 o'clock yesterday morning with the Gopher as an escort. She carries a crew of 125 officers and members of the Illinois naval militia and is under the command of Lieutenant Commander D. V. Guest.

The Gopher, under command of Commander Guy A. Eaton of this city, met the Chicago boat Sunday morning, thirty miles off the Duluth pier on the Sand island course. The Chicago boat will remain at anchor in the local harbor all day.

The Isle de Luzon is a steel ship. She was captured by Admiral Dewey at Manila bay. While it has more the appearance of a battleship than the Gopher, it is not as commodious as the Minnesota vessel. Both ships are gaily decorated in honor of the nation's birthday.

ORDER REIGNS ON FOURTH

Duluth Police Have Most Quiet Day in Weeks.

Even William Jennings Bryan could have found no fault with the manner in which Duluth observed the Fourth, for it was the most orderly day in weeks, as far as the police department was concerned.

Three men comprised the list of offenders. They were John Collins, a sailor, who imbibed too freely; John Nyman, a transient, who did likewise, and Erick Mattson, a laborer, who wanted to fight.

Judge W. H. Smallwood, wearing a tiny American flag in his buttonhole, suspended sentence on the three, as well as on ten of the thirteen men who were arrester Saturday.

"I'm giving you men your freedom," said the court, "because I want you to realize that today the American people are commemorating the birth of this great republic.

"Remember that you are citizens of the United States, and that you should do all in your power to make yourselves better men. You owe it to your fellow-citizens and to your country."

There were three unfortunates out of the sixteen who spent the Fourth in jail, and who will stay there today. Remington Taylor, age 21, a "bad" man with a record, hurled a cuspidor through a $100 mirror at the Sterling Wine house, 31 East Superior street. He waived examination on a charge of willful destruction of property.

James Parker and Jacob Larson, two old offenders, were given 60-day sentences at the work farm for third and fourth offenses of intoxication respectively.

UNABLE TO CLEAR UP HOLT MYSTERY

Wife of Morgan Assailant Unable to Give Any Information.

Dallas, Tex., July 5.—Mrs. Frank Holt was unable today to clear up the mystery about the past of her husband, who is under arrest for shooting J. P. Morgan, Her father, O. F. Sensabaugh, questioned Mrs. Holt specifically to learn if she could recall anything which might throw light on the matter. Mrs. Holt said her husband was born in Wisconsin, but while she believed he might have told her his birthplace there, she was unable to recall the name of the place.

Working on Mystery.

New York, July 5.—Efforts were made here at Glen Cove, L. I., and in several other cities today to clear up the mystery said to surround the identity of Frank Holt, who on Saturday attempted to assassinate J. P. Morgan.

One of the important questions which was to be solved was that raised by the police of Cambridge, Mass., regarding the possible identification of Holt as Erich Muenter, a former Harvard instructor, who disappeared from that city after the death of his wife from alleged poisoning in 1906. Statements from relatives of Muenter and men who knew him as a student in Chicago, comparing descriptions of Holt with their recollections of Muenter were read with interest by the detectives working on the case. Photographs of Muenter were compared with those of Holt.

Auto Driver Dead.

Tacoma, Wash., July 5.—Billy Carlson, an automobile driver, injured in the races in the Tacoma speedway yesterday, died here early today.

DULUTH POLES WOULD AID WAR-RAVAGED COUNTRYMEN

Branch of National Association Will Conduct Tag Day in This City Next Saturday—Polish People War Sufferers in Three European Countries Now in Strife.

Next Saturday will be "tag day," conducted by the Polish people of Duluth, the object being to raise funds with which to give relief to their fellow countrymen who are suffering in three war-ridden countries of Europe. The solicitation for such funds will be under the direction of the Duluth branch of the Polish National association and 125 Polish women and girls will do the canvassing. It is hoped that a large fund will be raised, as this will be the first attempt of the people of that race in Duluth to try to raise money in this way and for this purpose.

The movement to raise such a fund was started last year wherever there is a Polish organization. The money realized is forwarded to the American branch of the committee at Chicago and from there will be sent to Berne, Switzerland. Ignace Jan Paderewski, the famous pianist, and Henrik Sienkiewicz, the noted author, are at the head of the Swiss branch of the committee.

Duluth officers of the association are Anthony Grabarkiewicz, president; B. Kryspin, recording secretary; Louis Zmyslony, financial secretary; George S. Maleski, treasurer. Rev. S. A. Icick, pastor of St. Mary's church, and Rev. F. P. Schultz, pastor of St. Peter's and St. Paul's church, are associated with the officers.

Priest Talks of Need.

Concerning the movement and the needs of the people whom the Poles of Duluth are trying to help, Father S. A. Icick said today:

"While this country is celebrating the Declaration of Independence on the Fourth of July as the day of its national birth, brought forth through the great efforts of its citizens in the Revolutionary war, assisted by the friendly republic of France and other generous minds and patriotic spirits of the Germans, French and Poles, it is with that certain spirit of well-deserved pride and complacency that we look with glory on the Stars and Stripes.

"Yet some of those who have helped us gain our independence and right to national existence are this very day bathed in a sea of blood, fighting for their very existence. Among the combatants in Europe where the loss of human life is appalling, no nation, perhaps, feels harder and suffers deeper misery than the first republic of Europe, which came in its day to our assistance, and that is Poland.

Between the Foes.

"If the past century has given it the name of Niobe of Nations, what can we call it at the present time when its plains are the battlefield of Europe? The battle-tide of Europe has waxed and waned between the ancient capitals of Poland, Cracow and Warsaw. At one time the citizens of Cracow heard the boom of the Russian guns battering at its fortifications, and at another time Warsaw was all but captured by the invading army, and for the last six months it has seen the greatest struggle in Europe, where countless thousands have given their lives for its possession and defense. Each time this wave of struggling armies has swept the country it has left ruin and desolation unheard of before in human history.

"Although other nations in no small measure feel the dire results of war, they know that they are fighting for their homes and firesides and that they might not be swept from the face of the earth. Poland is an innocent victim in this terrible calamity. Over a million Poles are bearing arms of those who have put the shackles on their hands.

Fighting Their Own Countrymen.

"Some time ago a soldier who served in the Russian army, on his return to Warsaw stated that at the battle front in Galicia he and his colleagues called out to the Austrian trenches, from which they were just a few yards, if there were any Poles, and as the Austrian regiment contained a good number of Poles in Galicia, the two opposing lines, although wearing different uniforms, spent the evening telling about their homes, and towards night sang together the Polish religious anthem committing their souls to God. The next day he tells they were ordered to charge the Austrian trenches, and killed a good many of those with whom they conversed the previous evening. A member of the Austrian ambulance corps who was picking up the wounded on the battlefield, related the story that in one ambulance wagon he had men wearing the gray uniforms of the kaiser, the blue of the Austrian emperor, as well as that of the czar, and each of those was a Pole.

Battle Territory in Poland.

"To come down to concrete facts of how that once prosperous country appears at the present time, the Associated Press information tells us that there is involved in the present field of destruction in Russian Poland 40,000 square miles. About the same area in Galicia, which would mean over twice the size of Minnesota, including close to 8,000 larger and smaller cities and nearly 16,000 villages, which were practically wiped off the face of the earth. Of once prosperous cities, happy and contented communities nothing remains but ruins and ashes. The people, as the Associated Press tells us, to a great extent have died of disease and starvation and a good many were either deliberately or accidentally killed in battles. Thousands of them have lived in cellars, dug-outs and forests, feeding on bark, branches and leaves from trees, on dead horses and picking up the waste of various armies. It is stated that over 7,000,000 people are today gradually dying of starvation.

"The report of the American Red Cross committee which investigated the conditions in Poland states that a good many of the sufferers were so depressed with this calamity that they were praying to God that they might get some disease in order to finish their miserable existence and to cut short their sufferings. An eye witness of the eastern campaign during the winter said that he saw in some of the rivers, for many miles, protruding through the ice, hands, feet and heads of men and horses. The fertile fields of Poland, which resemble greatly our own Western plains, are furrowed with trenches, plastered with concrete gun implacements and strewed over with countless shallow graves of men and horses. The wolves, ravens and starving dogs go about the fields dragging out the decomposing bodies and scattering them throughout, poisoning the very atmosphere.

Poland Ancient Nation.

"If we realize that at the time that Columbus set sail to discover America Poland was then one of the greatest empires of Europe, with 600 years of cultivation and development, possessing numerous prosperous villages and opulent cities, we may form some idea of how terrible the destruction must be.

"Not long ago an eye witness tells us that on the railroad going from Warsaw to Cracow not one bridge, culvert, depot, telephone or telegraph wire was left intact. Last August a citizen of Duluth, Dr. Oredson, saw the burning and destroying of crops and at night as far as the eye could see there was nothing else but fires of villages and wheat fields destroyed by the Russian army, so they would not be of any benefit to the enemy. The forests are either cut down by the soldiers, the lumber used for fortifications, or else mutilated by fire. The highways are blasted with dynamite and the country roads plowed up so as to impede the enemy on his march.

Has No Spokesman.

"Whilst unfortunate Belgium, war-ridden Serbia and other belligerents of Europe have their governments and their ambassadors to appeal to the generosity of the world, Poland has no official spokesman. Poland, which at one time was called the knight of nations, the shield and bulwark of Christianity in Europe, ready to take arms in defense of the oppressed and to shed its blood for the liberty of other nations, today is suffering and almost forgotten. Some of its great sons like Paderewski, Sienkiewicz and others have organized a national relief committee with its headquarters in Switzerland and in the United States it is represented by some of its most prominent clergymen and Polish national organizations—centered at Chicago. Duluth Poles have affiliated themselves with this organization and have formed a local committee which has up to the present time collected among themselves $1,400 for the sufferers.

"This committee will have a tag day on July 10 to solicit funds for that noble cause from the citizens of Duluth and we are trusting that our appeal to their generosity will not be in vain."

CURRICULUM FOR COPS IN PROPOSED SCHOOL

Includes Deportment, Personal Appearance, Handling of Children and Demented Persons.

Duluth's school for cops will be modeled after New York's institution, according to Commissioner Silberstein, who announced the plans Saturday for establishing a local training school for patrolmen.

The safety head expects information shortly from the New York school and a local organization will be perfected at once, with Chief McKercher and a few of the detectives and officers in charge. Every patrolman on the force will have to attend the school.

Here are some of the subjects to be taught the "minions of the law," so that they will know just what to do and how to do it on all occasions:

Discipline—Its importance and necessity.

Deportment—To the public, to superiors, when on duty, when off duty.

Physical condition—Simple rules of exercise, slovenly appearance.

Patrol—How to patrol properly, clear and concise instructions on the proper handling of every situation likely to be confronted.

Observation—What and whom to be suspicious of, how to verify suspicions.

Fires—Sounding the alarm, warning those in danger, assisting fire department, suspicious fires, methods of "fire-bugs."

Handling accidents—Securing assistance, applying first-aid remedies, causes to be ascertained.

Duties before and after an arrest—Preserving evidence, safeguarding prisoner, handling of unruly prisoners.

Handling children—Needless interference with innocent amusement, preventing contact with crime and adult criminals.

Humane handling of demented persons.

Fugitives from justice—Laws and procedure applying.

Evidence—Various kinds of evidence described, manner of obtaining, safeguarding and presenting evidence.

Court procedure—How to prepare and present cases to the court.

Criminal identification and finger prints—The Bertillon finger print and the portrait parle systems explained, showing the necessity for distinctive descriptions.

Traffic and street conditions—How to regulate traffic; causes of congestion; securing the maximum use of streets consistent with safety.

Parades and street meetings—Proper handling of crowds.

Animals—How to safeguard; how to destroy; how to stop runaways, on foot or mounted; rules for mounted men.

Criminals and classification of crime—Methods and procedure of up-to-date criminals; how different crimes are committed; how pickpockets can be detected and prevented from operating; burglars, including safe, store, loft, flat and house burglars, showing tools used and how carried and concealed.

Confidence men — "Wire-tappers"; fake gamblers; "pocket-book droppers"; coin matchers; miscellaneous swindlers.

Dishonest servants—How they obtain employment and operate.

Thieves in the making—Some of the causes and reasons why youths become thieves.

Receivers of stolen goods—How "fences" may be detected; how they assist the thief; how stolen property is disposed of.

Public morals—Prostitutes and disorderly houses of different classes; how each class operates; how to observe and to obtain evidence: the street-walker; the "creeper"; the "badger," etc.

Gambling—How different gambling games are played; evidence necessary to arrest and convict; precautions taken to avoid arrest; how gambling houses obtain patrons.

Habit-forming drugs—How procured and concealed; sellers of; how to obtain evidence.

Investigations and reports—Essential points to be brought out; whom to question and how to question unwilling witnesses; simple rules governing investigations.

Sample reports—What and how to report; samples of every common report made by policemen.

Co-operation with city departments—How policemen should assist other departments of the city government.

CITY WORK FARM SHARE TOO MUCH?

Commissioner Voss Declares It Should Be Fourth, Not Half.

Commissioner Voss has started another controversy.

This time it's about the cost of maintaining the city and county work farm.

The finance head claims that the city is paying too much for the maintenance of the work farm and that the municipality's share of the upkeep should be one-fourth instead of one-half.

"A report I have from Walter Richeson, deputy municipal court clerk, says that last year there were 131 cases in which the city sentenced prisoners to the work farm," said Commissioner Voss. "Sentences involved a total of 7,000 days at the farm. I am given to understand that the farm accommodates, on an average, 100 men a day. The city is paying half the expense, which runs into many thousands of dollars. We are therefore getting the worst of it. The city should pay but a fourth of the maintenance cost, considering the proportion of the farm's facilities it uses.

"If prisoners in these 131 cases had been sent to the county jail, we would have paid 33 cents a day, or $2,310 for their maintenance.

"I do not want to be understood as belittling the farm's work. It is splendid and along the right lines. But there is the annoying 13-mill city tax limit again. If we are paying too much, we must cut down."

A. H. Crassweller, president of the city and county work farm commission, disputes the commissioner's claims, declaring yesterday that the city furnished about nine-tenths of the prisoners. He denied that there are 100 men at the farm daily, that being the largest number handled in one day, according to the records.

RUSS CLAIM TO HAVE SUNK BATTLESHIP

Germans Say Mine Layer Only Ship Lost in Baltic.

London, July 5.—The Russian general staff, according to a dispatch from Reuter's correspondent at Petrograd, reports that a German battleship of the Deutschland type which was leading the enemy's line during Friday's naval engagement in the Baltic sea was blown up by two torpedoes discharged by a Russian submarine.

The German official account of the battle off the Swedish island of Gothland admits the loss of only the German mine layer Albatross. The Deutschland class consists of five ships laid down in 1903-4-5. They are, besides the Deutschland, the Hannover, the Pommern, the Schleswig-Holstein and the Schlesien. These vessels are predreadnaughts of 13,200 tons displacement and carry a complement of 729 officers and men in times of peace.

The Deutschland class of boats are armed with four 11-inch guns, fourteen 6.7-inch guns and 20 24-pounders and are equipped with six submerged torpedo tubes. They are built to travel 18 knots an hour and cost complete about $6,000,000 each.

Violated Swedish Neutrality.

Berlin, July 5.—The plucky fight of the German mine layer Albatross against four Russian cruisers of the armored class and what is charged by German naval officers as the violation by the Russians of Swedish neutrality claimed the center of public attention in Berlin today.

According to Swedish and Danish reports, the Albatross, while passing through a dense fog, lost sight of the accompanying small cruisers and was suddenly attacked by four big ships.

The Albatross fought desperately for several hours, but was slowly driven towards the Swedish coast and finally entered Swedish waters. The captain ran the ship aground near Henviker.

The Russians, it is said, continued firing long after the Albatross entered Swedish territory. The Oestegarn lighthouse was hit by Russian shells and the keeper compelled to flee.

The Albatross was hit about thirty times. Lieut. Loewenberg and twenty-seven men were killed and many others were wounded. One shell entered the ship hospital, killing ten wounded men and fatally wounding a doctor.

After the Albatross was beached, the captain assembled the crew around the flag flying aft, the foremast having been shot away, and sang the national hymn and gave three cheers for the emperor and the fatherland.

The captain then struck the flag and requested the Swedes to intern the ship and the crew. The Swedish government then, advices say, immediately ordered the Swedish minister at Petrograd to protest vigorously against the violation of Sweden's neutrality.

The Russian cruisers, after the action with the Albatross, were engaged by one large warship and several small German cruisers off the coast and disappeared, hotly pursued by the Germans.

PRESIDENT ASSISTS PARTY IN DISTRESS

Comes Across Car Over Brink of Hill While Motoring.

Cornish, N. H., July 5.—President Wilson, out for an automobile ride with members of his family, yesterday offered assistance to some motorists whose machine had gone over an embankment, throwing one of the party, a woman, into Echo lake. The president's car was running around the edge of the lake near Ludlow, Vt., when it suddenly came upon a group of persons surrounding a small machine hanging over the side of the road.

With Dr. Grayson, his physician and naval aide, Mr. Wilson alighted from his car and learned that Mrs. Bert Balch of Ludlow has been thrown into the lake and badly bruised and that another woman and a man had been slightly hurt. He expressed sympathy and inquired whether Dr. Grayson could do anything and was informed that the injured had been removed to a farmhouse.

The president then offered to have his automobile pull the wrecked machine back over the embankment, but an automobile truck had already been sent for and therefore his assistance was not required. Several recognized him and thanked him for his offers of help.

The president yesterday rode eighty miles among the high mountains and secluded valleys through some of the most beautiful scenery of the Green mountains of Vermont. He received word from the White House that "everything was quiet" in Washington.

HEADING OFF A PROPERTY GRAB

Italian Consul Fighting to Save Estate of Woman in Old Country.

When Achille Curioni, an Italian farmer living in Michigan, died twenty-three years ago, he deeded his property to a sister in Italy and started a contest between her and Michigan real estate men which has not yet been settled.

Recently the land, with house and barn, valued at several thousand dollars, was ordered sold to satisfy a $6 claim on the estate which was twenty-one years old. Attilio Castigliano, Italian consul, intervened in an attempt to have the court's order set aside, and save the property for the rightful heir.

Thomas S. Wood of Duluth, acting as Mr. Castigliano's representative, made a trip to Iron River, Mich., last week, and appeared at a rehearing of the case. It was shown that Curioni had left his property free of debt when he died, and that the only encumbrances would be taxes accumulating in the twenty-three years.

Originally the Curioni home comprised 160 acres of land, a house and barn, with cattle and farm machinery. It has been practically stripped to satisfy taxes, and now is encumbered heavily.

"We are going to keep on fighting for the property," said Mr. Castigliano yesterday. "It rightfully belongs to Curioni's sister, still living in Italy, and I believe that in a year or so we will have cleared the title and secured possession."

ISLE ROYALE POPULAR.

Thousands of Duluthians Will Visit Famous Summer Resort.

Probably one of the most popular summer resorts for the coming tourist season will be Belle Isle, of the Isle Royale group, on the north shore. The resort there is conducted by F. Schofield, well known here. Thousands of tourists from Duluth are planning to visit this famous summer place.

Possessing a delightfully cool and refreshing climate, offering a fine field for fishermen, fine boating and yachting, the island has steadily gained in popularity year by year. Anglers, however, find the best fishing along the north and east shores of the island.

Nature and man have put forth their best efforts in making this place attractive, and numerous hotels and other resort features, and excellent passenger service, are big attraction cards.

POSTAL REVENUES RETURNING TO NORMAL

Washington, July 5.—Postal revenues, so depleted after the outbreak of the European war that the department closed the fiscal year with a deficit of something like $10,000,000, are rapidly returning to normal, according to a statement issued last night by Postmaster General Burleson.

"But for economies initiated by the department," said Mr. Burleson, "the deficit would have been much larger. In this connection I am able to report an unexpected balance of the funds appropriated for the year's expenditures which it is estimated exceeds $14,500,000. Had we used the full amount which we were authorized to spend by congress, the deficit for the year would have approximated $25,000,000."

VICE PRESIDENT IS THREATENED

Marshall Has Received Many Anonymous Letters in Past Few Weeks.

St. Louis, Mo., July 5.—Thomas R. Marshall, vice president of the United States, has been threatened with death in more than a dozen anonymous letters which he has received during the last six weeks.

Vice President Marshall made this statement to newspaper men here last night.

Mr. Marshall spent several hours in St. Louis last night. At 9 o'clock he departed for Hot Springs, Ark., where he will participate in an Independence day celebration today. Mr. Marshall said the threats came to him while he was in Washington. He added that as he was more or less a fatalist he did not notify the secret service department. Mr. Marshall said he had no fear of death, but that he naturally was startled when he learned of the explosion at the capitol. He did not believe there was any special significance in the fact that the bomb which was exploded in the reception room of the senate chamber had been placed within a few feet of the vice president's desk and had damaged the doors leading to his room.

Canadians Reach England.

Ottawa, Ont., July 5.—The steamer Missanabie, with the Twenty-ninth battalion, one company each of the Thirty-eighth and Forty-seventh battalions and a Canadian dental corps arrived in Plymouth Saturday, according to a statement issued by the militia department last night.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

The nation's birthday, which is the birthday of world freedom, ought to have new sanctity today.

The United States is at peace with the world, while Europe, from which it sprung, is swept with the blasting fires of the greatest, most destructive, most monstrous and most stupid war in history.

And Europe is at war because of the very institutions which this nation, in its inception, deliberately abandoned—kingships, aristocracies, military castes.

Never before in all its glorious history has the American experiment in freedom and self-government shone in brighter relief against the dark background of Europe than it does today.

Never before, in a critical hour, has the American ship of state ridden the storm more magnificently.

In the spasm of morbid self-criticism that has passed over the American people in recent years they have been prone to envy some things Europe enjoyed.

They have envied French thrift; yet today the fruits of that painful thrift are being poured into the bottomless pit of war expenditures.

They have looked upon the German people—contented, placid, living a well-ordered existence with a paternal government doing for them in every imaginable way, and doing capably always. They have envied, in some respects, the enormous efficiency of the German governmental system, and some have even been tempted, for the sake of the results, to swallow their natural resentment of its unpalatable autocracy. Yet that governmental system has simply made it possible to amalgamate the German people into a compact and easily handled machine which the German rulership has caught up and hurled bodily into the insatiable maw of ruthless war.

To this woeful end have French thrift and German efficiency come at last.

America is not without its faults. They are many. It's our job to correct them. There are still things in Europe from which America can learn—if the war does not destroy them. French thrift, coupled with security against militarism, is a fine model. German efficiency, leavened and made human by democracy, may teach us much.

But surely nobody in America today envies either France or Germany—or any other nation in Europe.

Still young, with its faults the faults of robust youth rather than vices of senile age, the United States faces the world on this, its birthday, calm, poised and confident.

A hundred millions strong, ruling itself and submitting to the domination of neither king nor class, with its century-old experiment in freedom magnificently surviving the hardest tests, surely the United States has reason to be proud and patriotic and happy on this, its one hundred and thirty-ninth birthday.

It begins to look as if the principal corn belt is to be the one supplied by the strap-hangers.

THE UNBALANCED.

It seems beyond doubt that the attempt to blow up a part of the United States capitol and the attack upon J. P. Morgan were the work of the same man, and that the man is one of those altogether too much neglected specimens known as cranks.

Holt probably isn't insane, though those who have been associated with him in the past now report that sometimes he seemed queer—which they attributed at the time to over-application to study. Now he has been "queer" again, this time from thinking too much about a fancied grievance against the government for its failure to stop the shipment of war supplies to the allies.

And this time his queerness has taken a serious turn, very nearly a tragic one. That his half-German parentage and consequent German sympathies were contributing causes is only an incident. A mind so ill balanced might have been turned by morbid thinking about religion, sex or almost any other complex and deeprooted subject.

The moral, if there is any, seems to be that men of the Holt type should be more carefully studied, more carefully watched. Too sane for detention, they often are not sane enough to be given too much freedom.

Many people, in this country and others, are thinking deeply about the war. Many heads have been turned by it, and doubtless many more will be turned. Those who are inclined to become morbid must be watched and warned; and anybody who lets any subject obsess his mind constantly to the exclusion of all other thoughts and subjects for talk has become morbid.

Manufacturers of beverages ought to thank Champ Clark for bringing to their notice such a word as "Honeyshuck."

A MELANCHOLY JOB.

Nobody, surely, envies Congressman Mann of Illinois his job.

The Republican leader of the house, where the political fodder crop is grown, it is his business to attempt on every possible occasion to manufacture Republican campaign material by nagging and criticizing the Democrats. That isn't patriotism, or citizenship, or anything useful or admirable at all. But it seems to be held essential, and it is part of the job of minority party floor leader in the house.

Returning from a visit to Hawaii, Mr. Mann bursts into speech with a criticism of the president's correspondence with Germany over the Lusitania case.

"President Wilson," declares Mr. Mann, "was swept off his feet by the Lusitania case."

If Mr. Mann were seeking personal advancement by his tactics, they would be contemptible. As he is primarily seeking party advancement, his tactics are simply foolish.

It was those who demanded more radical action than the president took who were swept off their feet.

Those who demanded less radical action had no firm footing in good citizenship to lose.

If there is anybody, anywhere, who has not been swept off his feet by the whirlwind of war that has raged around the world, it is Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America.

But to the Mann type, Woodrow Wilson is not president of the United States. He is just a Democrat who has been elected to office and who should be embarrassed and hectored and hampered to the end that he may stumble and fall, so that a Republican may slip into his place.

Europe might subject itself to a local option proposition on the question of submarines.

LITERACY AND VOTING.

It is proposed to insert in the new state Constitution now being made in New York a provision for a reading and writing test for voters. Under it nobody could vote who could not read the English language and write their own names.

That's not an unreasonable test, and there is precedent for it. Nobody can vote in Massachusetts who cannot read and write. In Connecticut voters must be able to read English. Louisiana and Mississippi also have educational tests, but these are coupled with "grandfather clauses" which show that they are intended more to draw race lines than lines of literacy. In Louisiana, for instance, an utterly illiterate person can vote if his father or grandfather was a qualified voter Jan. 1, 1867.

Literacy is a much better limitation than that of sex, for instance.

Why not make the rule general, and put it about this way: that all adult citizens, male or female, who can read and write English and are not otherwise disqualified, may vote on equal terms?

It's an oddity of human nature that the same person who is moved to sympathetic tears by seeing love-making in the movies, is prompted to nothing more sympathetic than immoderate laughter on seeing the same kind of carrying on in real life.

Who Wrote This Poem?

The Literary Digest: Several weeks ago we reprinted the late Madison Cawein's beautiful poem, "The Wharf of Dreams." A correspondent sends another poem of the same title, and asks the author's name.

The charm of this poem has caused us to depart from custom and print it, in the hope that some reader will supply the name of the true poet who wrote it.

THE WHARF OF DREAMS.

Strange wares are handled on the wharves of sleep.
Shadows of shadows pass, and many a light
Flashes a signal fire across the night;
Barges depart whose voiceless steersmen keep
Their way, without a star, across the deep;
While from lost ships, housing with ghostly crews,
Come cries of incommunicable news,
And cargoes pile the wharves, a moonwhite heap.
Budgets of dream-dust, merchandise of song,
Wreckage of hope, and packs of ancient wrong.
Nepenthes gathered from a secret strand.
Fardels of heartache, burdens of old sins,
Luggage sent down from dire ancestral inns
And bales of fantasy from No-Man's Land.

No Home Products.

Arkansas Democrat: He gets up at the alarm of a Connecticut clock; buttons his Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls; washes his face with Cincinnati soap in a Pennsylvania pan; sits down to a Grand Rapids table; eats Chicago meat and Tennessee flour, cooked with Kansas lard on a St. Louis stove; puts a New York bridle on a Kentucky mule, fed on Iowa corn; plows a farm covered by an Ohio mortgage, with a Chattanooga plow; when bedtime comes he reads a chapter from a Bible printed in Boston; says a prayer written in Jerusalem; crawls under a blanket made in New Jersey, only to be kept awake by an Arkansas dog—the only home product on his place.

Reveling in Blood and Horrors

From the New York Herald.

A young futurist painter, who is a Belgian, was residing in Paris at the outbreak of the war and joined a French infantry regiment at the first call for recruits. In due time he found himself on the firing line, incidentally taking part in the severe fighting around Betheny, about which he has this to say:

"Six days and six nights we were cooped up in the burning city, surrounded by a girdle of cannon and machine guns which spouted death in all directions. There was fighting in the streets, which were choked with the corpses of men and carcasses of horses. Sometimes we slipped in the pools of thick, warm blood. We rushed into the houses. More fighting, cutting, slashing, and oh, how the claret tumbled in cascades down the steps! We cursed, swore, damned, shouted and killed, while the shells spurted and burst and the houses went crashing down.

"It was intoxicating! I was dirty, burnt, ragged, smeared from head to feet. In short, it was grand! Crawling through a heap of corpses, bricks and wreckage, I got hit by a fragment of a shell. I stumbled over a wounded horse, which gave me a violent kick in the back of the head. It was a good thing that it did not kill me outright, for I would not have liked to die just then. Oh, those six days and nights! They were surely the most beautiful and happiest I have spent in all my life!"

Twenty-seven days this young war enthusiast dwelt in the trenches.

"Life was most charming there," he writes, "with a wild charge on the enemy every once in a while. Sometimes I had nothing to eat for forty-eight hours, and the trenches were rather wet. But all this was forgotten when we were let loose and tore through the barbed wire entanglements in front of the German lines."

"One day," he continues, "our major called for volunteers to carry a message to another detachment. To get there one would come within twenty-five yards of the German trenches. The task was fraught with danger, and the major wanted two men for it. The first one was bound to draw the enemy's fire and eventually get killed, but the second one might be able to sneak past in the excitement that would be caused by his comrade's appearance. I had the great fortune of being selected as number one, because the major was very favorable to me on account of having made some sketches of him in the trenches.

"Off I went, and what a glorious time I had! Shortly after starting I was discovered by the German outposts, and a bouquet of bullets was thrown at me. One of them went through my right arm, yet it did not bother me much at the time, and I plunged ahead without further adventure until I reached my destination and delivered my dispatch. My uniform was soaked with blood, which poured freely from the wound in my arm, and the officer in command suggested that I let the surgeon attend to me right then.

"However, I asked as a favor to be permitted to take part in a bayonet charge which was to be made as a result of the information contained in the message I had brought. In the charge some rascally German shot a large hole in my left hand, and a little later I toppled over, weakened by loss of blood.

"I happened to fall on a wounded German, who seemed to become unreasonably provoked and tried to finish me with his bayonet. I resented this very much, and grabbed him around the throat with my right hand, while I pushed the left one, now a bloody mass only, into his stomach, which had been conveniently opened by somebody's bayonet. I strangled him to death finally, and then I collapsed over his body myself.

"When I regained consciousness the fight was still going on in the distance. We had evidently broken through the enemy's line, and here was I lying idle in this immense open air morgue. I listened for a while to the pandemonium going on all around me. The loud breathing of the dying sounded like rattling chains. Those less wounded were calling for help, cursing and laughing hysterically, according to each individual's temperament. Much as they impressed me, I could not afford to stay and watch these scenes any longer. I suffered quite some pain, but I was strong enough yet to get on my feet and hobble along until I reached the rear of our line, now considerably advanced through the recent charge."

As a result of the experiences here described the cheerful futurist was compelled to while away many tedious days in a field hospital. At present he is serving as a map maker on the staff of the French corps commander.

One More Vain Protest.

Chicago News: Late news from Paris is to the effect that in the world of fashion in that traditionally well garbed city the waist line of woman is still rising and the condition of woman's feet is rather more deplorable than ever before.

"The only shocking note of the day in fashion," says a Paris writer, "comes with the shoes. They are lamentable, as we see them in the avenues and streets. The heels are so high that the figure of the women who wear them is positively ridiculous, and the colored cloths which are used to make them are so striking as completely to extinguish the importance of any other part of the costume. Green, violet, bright yellow, blue, anything vivid, seems to have called on the imagination of the bootmakers and their clientele. Fortunately the best bootmakers look askance at such fantastic things, and they make all things in moderation."

While there is no immediate hope of relief from the freakish footgear of women, perhaps one may venture at least to utter a plea for moderation in this respect. It is true, as the fashion writer says, that the bizarre foot coverings of the day kill the rest of woman's costume. What woman really wishes to be judged solely by her feet, with a handbreadth of shimmering ankle thrown in for good measure? Feet are well enough, but the average woman still has faith—and with good reason—in her face's attractiveness. She ought to give her face a chance by studiously refraining from making her feet the most striking things about her.

No Rest for the Wicked.

Christian Herald: But the complacency of sly soakers who are in the habit of enjoying in seclusion the comfort that a bottle grants is shaken by a decision given by the full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court. A woman, drunk, but quietly sleeping on a couch at her home, was complained against, arrested and convicted of being drunk. The court instructed the jury that "if they were satisfied upon all the evidence that the defendant, when found in the room, was drunk by the voluntary use of intoxicating liquor, she might be convicted under the complaint." Appeal was taken to the superior court and to the supreme court, but both sustained the conviction. The offense made punishable by the Massachusetts statutes, according to the interpretation by the supreme court, is "drunkenness by the voluntary use of intoxicating liquor," and "the place where the offense is committed, whether public or private, is not an element to be considered in determining whether an accused person is guilty under the law."

A Promising Pupil.

New York Evening Journal: The laird wished to show his pet gillie a favor, so he offered him a "dram" out of his own silver flask.

"Nae, nae, laird," replied the man. "I'm feared I couldna' drink oot o' a bottle."

But his master persisted, so at last the man lifted the flask to his lips, where it remained until it was empty.

"Man Dougal," said the laird, as he held the flask upside-down to confirm his suspicions, "mebbe you can't drink out of a bottle just now, but ye'd soon learn!"

All Right in the Box.

Boston Transcript: "Do you object to cigarettes, Mrs. Prim?"

"No; unless people are smoking them."

Oh, the Joys of an Outing at the Lakes

Richard H. Little in the Chicago Herald.

"Hoo-ray! Hoo-ray!" chortled Mr. Catchem as he bustled into his flat night before last. "The office says I can got away next week, and we'll leave Sunday night for the little lake 'way up in good old Wisconsin. There's nothing in the world like fishing!"

"Nothing!" declared Mrs. Catchem with emphasis, "absolutely nothing!"

"Ah!" continued the enraptured Mr. Catchem, "just to think of sitting out there again in the boat, with my good old bamboo rod in my hands and old Jap Saggs rowing the boat——"

"And spitting tobacco juice straight against the wind," observed Mrs. Catchem. "Oh! I can hardly wait!"

"Ah! That's the life!" chortled Mr. Catchem. "There you sit in that wonderful silence, with the great blue dome of heaven over your head and the winds singing through the nodding trees on the shore like a great pipe organ. It's the same as being in some mighty cathedral!"

"Especially when Jap Saggs gets his hook caught on a log," said Mrs. Catchem. "Then the religious atmosphere is unusually noticeable."

"I tell you it's the greatest sport in the world," declared Mr. Catchem. "You'll find it out some day. I don't see why you pretend you don't like it."

"I'm crazy about it," said Mrs. Catchem. "Oh, do tell me more. Promise me that Jap will meet us at the landing across the lake from the hotel so that he can row us the three miles across and we won't have to get off at the town, where an automobile would take us over in twenty minutes."

"Sure Jap will meet us at the landing, all right," shouted Mr. Catchem; "we won't have to go over by any motor car."

"Oh, splendid, and promise me that he will be quite drunk and slap water with the oars all over me."

"Just think of the fresh air and the lights of the hotel gleaming in the gathering gloom across the water——"

"Oh, it's heavenly!" gasped Mrs. Catchem, "and tell me, will dear old Jap insist that we are pursued by a whale with pink ears and ask us to take refuge on the Japanese battleship which moored the day before in front of the Gillsons' cottage?"

"Oh, everything has its handicaps," admitted Mr. Catchem, "but wait till we get to the hotel Monday night and sit down at the groaning table——"

"I never blamed the table for that," said Mrs. Catchem, "not when I saw who it was obliged to have around it. If I were a table and that idious Mrs. Snooper ever put her feet under it I would——"

"But the eats!" chortled Mr. Catchem; "oh, the country is the place to eat.

"And the pine logs burn bright in the fireplace," shouted Mr. Catchem, "and the dogs lay stretched out in front of it——"

"Scratching fleas," said Mrs. Catchem, "and Judge Borem tells how he caught the 175-pound muskellunge, but he put it back because nobody would believe it, even if they saw it."

* * * * * *

"And then we go to our own, snug, little room——"

"With a bat in it," said Mrs. Catchem, "a snug little bat that flops all over the place and tangles up in my hair. Oh, promise me that there will be a bat in our snug little room, and the snug little room must be across the ravine and down the hill from the dining room, so that we can fall over all the logs in Wisconsin getting there and the partitions must be of thin wood, and the people on each side of us must snore like sawmills, and the roof must leak, and it must rain every night, oh joy! oh bliss! oh ecstasy!"

Mr. Catchem arose in disgust and went down the street to show his new tackle to the bartender.

The Trading Stamp Nuisance

Louisville Courier-Journal: What John Wanamaker does not know about merchandising nobody knows. It is everywhere recognized that there is no more succesful retail merchant in this country than he, and it is equally recognized that his success is built upon the sterling, straight-forward principles which must underlie real and enduring success in business—success which means the legitimate interest of both the seller and the buyer. What he has to say, therefore, about the modern nuisance of trading stamps is worth attention. He writes thus to the editor and publisher:

"Over fifty active years of merchandising experience—years during which I have studied and thought out almost every kind of plan and proposition to serve the public and increase my business with it—have convinced me that trading stamps or premium schemes of any kind whatsoever have no legitimate place in the distribution of merchandise.

"The coupon is an admission that the goods carrying it do not measure up to the price asked and that something extra must be included to give money's worth.

"No retail store that I have any knowledge of has built up what is seemingly a permanent business on the plan of giving away something for nothing. In the long run, it is the public who are fooled. Someone must bear the expense of the 'catch penny' device and that someone is eventually the purchaser. Recently I wrote in one of our advertisements of business obstructions. I placed trading stamps, coupons and premiums on the list as second in importance of obstructions that are found on the railroad track of business successes.

"Store keeping, as I see it, consists in the collection and distribution of merchandise with the smallest possible expense between the producer and the consumer, and surely this cannot be done where premiums must be included in 'overhead' expenses.

"In conclusion, permit me to state that we do not sell merchandise either in Philadelphia or New York that is packed with coupons. Years ago we decided on this policy and though sometimes goods have been shipped in with coupons concealed—and sometimes actually sealed in—we stop such goods wherever we find them.

"There is nothing in this which is not true; which every merchant, whether he uses trading stamps or not, does not know to be true, and which every intelligent buyer, if he will stop to look into the matter, will not be bound to confess to be true. Purchasers who get trading stamps with their goods pay for both stamps and goods, and they are bound to get less or inferior goods when part of the price they pay goes for stamps. The whole trading stamp folly is an excrescence and a burden on merchandising which honest merchandising is bound to get rid of.

The Ethical Challenge of the War.

William J. Tucker in the Atlantic: The contention of the half-truth that superiority gives the right to dominion, a right to be incorporated into the state, has become in a very disinct way the ethical challenge of the war. Whatever the war may or may not declare in regard to other matters, it calls the attention of the civilized world to the new moral valuation which it puts upon the power of the state. Tracing the war back to the teachings in which it had its origin, we find in them the constant idealization of power, at times almost the deification of it. The most authoritative teachings have been only an ampler statement of the Machiavellian axiom that the state is power. "The highest moral duty of the state is to increase its power." "War is the mighty continuation of politics." "Of all political sins that of weakness is the most reprehensible and the most contemptible; it is in politics the sin against the Holy Ghost." It will give a proper background to these teachings to have in mind Milton's conception of the state: "A nation ought to be but as one huge Christian personage, one mighty growth or stature of an honest man, as big and compact in virtue as in body, for look, what the ground and causes are of single happiness to one man, the same ye shall find them to be to a whole state."

The Height of Generosity.

Harper's Magazine: It was small Isaac's birthday, but no amount of hints had brought forth any suggestion of a celebration. At last he determined to know the worst, and went to his father, demanding:

"Pa, what you going to give me for a birthday present?"

Pa obligingly stopped his work and regarded his offspring beamingly.

"Birthday present? Well, now, what you want for a present? I tell you, Ikey; I'll ask your mother to wash a place on the window so you can see the trolley cars go by."

North Dakota Notions

Various Views Expressed by Newspapers of That State.

"It Was Not Like This in the Olden Days."

Fargo Courier-News: Possibly the reason Anthony Comstock was fired was that things that seemed salacious, obscene and indecent twenty years ago are now considered modest and respectable.

Some So-Called Nations.

Adams Standard: One good and sufficient reason why some so-called nations don't like civilization enough to notice it with the naked eye is because it usually provides more work. Their motto is, when you can get along without work, what's the use of civilization?

Might Get Action.

Devils Lake Journal: Mr. Carnegie yearly distributes through his hero fund a large sum of money to those who have been adjudged to have performed some feat of daring during the year. Mr. Carnegie's attention is earnestly requested to the fact that Mr. Taft is showing unmistakable signs of running for president again.

Paint and Progress.

Grand Forks Herald: What sensible, persistent use of paint will do for humble but conspicuous placed edifices, whether in country or city, can be noted by almost any automobilist on his or her next ride. It adds valuation to properties when sales are forced or are voluntarily sought. It saves wastage otherwise inevitable of the attack of the elements. It enables persons responsible nearer their ideals. It tones up neighborhood, village or town self-respect.

Remember It?

Valley City Times-Record: The town of Ely, Minn., which is a small town somewhere up in the iron range country, is about to dedicate a school building costing $175,000. Doesn't that recall the old admonition to "get there Ely?"

Boy, Page Bob Dunn!

Bismarck Tribune: With four new gas tractors, every day is Good Roads day in Burleigh county. Results are noticeable already. The county board deserves praise for the manner in which it is launching the good roads campaign. Co-operation between the city of Bismarck and the county will assist greatly in furthering the good work.

Fargo a Real City.

Fargo Forum: Fargo is of age. The city has reached and passed the 20,000 mark in its population growth, according to the official state census. The total population of Fargo, according to John Wetz, who had charge of the count, is 20,549. The announcement of these figures marks an important milestone in the growth of Fargo. It is proof that the past five years have been by far the greatest growing period in the history of the city. Since the official United States census was taken in 1910 the city has added 6,218 souls. The growth between the years 1900 and 1910 was but 4,742. * * * There are many classes of statistics published for cities of "20,000 or over," and now that Fargo has climbed into that class, it will gain a great deal of added publicity. An analysis of the figures will prove an interesting study. * * * They speak volumes. Fargo's 20,000 population is a population in the prime of life. It is a population in the full vigor of life's activities, and it means much more to have 20,000 population in a new Western city like Fargo than in an Eastern city where a very much larger percentage of the population is past the age of 60 years.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quintius, the Sunshine Man.

Father, we know that Thou dost suffer in the suffering of men, and that Thy sympathy is quick and tender and deep. We thank Thee that our blessed Lord has wept human tears, and borne the weight of human sorrow. May we comfort others with the comfort wherewith we have ourselves been comforted of God.—From "Daily Prayer."

Trust in Him at all times; ye people, pour out your heart before Him; God is a refuge for us.—Ps. lxii, 8.

That prayer taught by the saints, "Make me reach, my God, the degree of holiness to which Thou didst call me in creating me!"—Lady Georgiana Fullerton.

It is a good thing to have fixed seasons for lifting up the heart to God, not merely the appointed hours of prayer, but a momentary act before and after meals, beginning any occupation, entering into society, leaving the house, etc. Especially is it a help to make such brief acts after having said or done anything either wrong or foolish, after any trifling vexation or disappointment, when the spirit feels, it may be, wounded and desolate, or when one's vanity is annoyed at having been guilty of some little folly or unseemliness. Sometimes we are more really troubled and sore at trifles of this sort than at far weightier things. But if all such things were met with a momentary uplifting of the heart to God, all these little frailties and worries would tend to mold the character more and more to God's pattern, and they would assuredly lose their sting; for he who thinks much of God will daily think less of himself.—H. E. Sidney Lear.

Make Thyself so real to me that my first thought in everything shall be to do Thy will, and to avoid whatever might give Thee sorrow.—From F. B. M.

Who gave Himself for us, that He might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto Himself a people for His own possession, zealous of good works.—Titus ii, 14 (R. V.)

Dayton, Ohio.

A Woman's Shortcomings.

She has laughed as softly as if she sighed,
She has counted six, and over,
Of a purse well filled and a heart well tried—
Oh, each a worthy lover!
They "give her time"; for her soul must slip
Where the world has set the grooving;
She will lie to none with her fair red lips
But love seeks truer loving.

She trembles her fan in a sweetness dumb,
As her thoughts were beyond recalling,
With a glance for one, and a glance for some,
From her eyelids rising and falling;
Speaks common words with a blushful air,
Hears bold words, unreproving;
But her silence says—what she never will swear—
And love seeks better loving.

Go, lady, lean to the night-guitar
And drop a smile to the bringer;
Then smile as sweetly, when he is far,
At the voice of an indoor singer.
Bask tenderly beneath tender eyes;
Glance lightly on their removing;
And join new vows to old perjuries—
But dare not call it loving.

Unless you can think, when the song is done,
No other is soft in the rhythm;
Unless you can feel, when left by One,
That all men else go with him;
Unless you can know, when unpraised by his breath,
That your beauty itself wants proving;
Unless you can swear "For life, for death!"—
Oh, fear to call it loving!

Unless you can muse in a crowd all day
On the absent face that fixed you;
Unless you can love, as the angels may,
With the breadth of heaven betwixt you;
Unless you can dream that his faith is fast,
Through behooving and unbehooving;
Unless you can die when the dream is past—
Oh, never call it loving!

—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Scattered Comments Taken From Minnesota Papers.

All in Good Trainings.

Little Falls Transcript: Minnesota newspapers are supposed to nearly burst their little selves boosting for the state during the second week in October. Their usual exercise along this line will put them in fine shape for the final sprint. No other class has habitually practiced the stunt more than has the newspaper fraternity—or got more lemons withal.

"We Told You So."

Slayton Herald: That Governor Hammond is making good is attested by the fact that some of the staunchest Republican papers are crediting him with being one of the best governors Minnesota ever had. And not only are the papers learning his ability, but the citizens as well.

Naturally.

Montgomery Messenger: Two New York plumbers tossed a coin to see which should get a municipal contract; the city lost.

Black Knavery.

Tower News: A story from the range in the Duluth dailies states that a fishing party on Lake Vermilion last Sunday lost their lunch when crowds from Ely laland found it where the party had left it and proceeded to confiscate it. We forgot to warn the boys that every Lake Vermilion crow carries a corkscrew.

And That's Putting It Mildly.

Brown's Valley Tribune: Can you beat Northern Minnesota's climate?—Chisholm Tribune-Herald:

No, nor Southern Minnesota's climate, nor Western Minnesota's, nor Eastern Minnesota's, nor Central Minnesota's. Minnesota's climate is all good.

Too Dry to Dig It, Maybe.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: In certain sections of Northern Minnesota the fishing is reported to be very good, but there are many hazards connected with the sport because of the difficulty in securing "bait."

Ought to Be Restored.

Red Wing Republican: There are some things that "come back.' Back-stamping on letters is now being demanded and will probably be restored so that a check may be kept on the receipt of mail at the local postoffice receiving it.

"Look Pleasant, Please."

Albert Lea Tribune: The women are proving every day that they are worthy of the vote. One hundred women in Chicago have started a unique movement to stop the advance of vice in that wicked city. They have stationed camera men at certain points where men coming and going from these places can be snapped. We don't know what the women are going to do with the pictures, but we are willing to leave it to the women to place the pictures, with a detailed description of each one, in a place where they will receive the most notice. Yes, the "female of the species is more deadly than the male."

Sportsmanship.

Lee Shippey in Collier's Weekly: The dead-game sport is not the chap a lot of people think he is. He doesn't even care a rap if no bar fly's esteem is his. He does not squander golden disks with lordly air for fools' applause. He does not take foolhardy risks—the thought of others makes him pause. He'd rather be a little slow than by his speed make others sad. He is not a gay Lothario, but rather a Sir Galahad—

In fact, the dead-game sport is he
Who this big truth has learned:
True sportsmanship means square to be
With all who are concerned.

True dead-game sports are scarce, I think, for I've known only one or two. I knew one chap who wouldn't drink, as nearly all the cheap sports do, because he loved his home and wife, and feared if booze got hold of him 'twould sadness bring into her life, as well as put him out of trim. He would not gamble, though he knew that he could lose his all and grin, because he knew 'twould make her blue to have him do it, lose or win—

In fact, he'd used his thinker some
And got on this a grip:
One's sportsmanship must start at home
To be true sportsmanship!

Made Grandpa Take Notice.

Kansas City Star: It is often literally true that "the weak things of the world" are able to "confound the things which are mighty." Not long ago a member of parliament was caught napping by his little granddaughter, who is the delight of her parents and the idol of her grandfather. She came before him, her face wreathed in smiles, and said:

"Grandpa, I saw something running across the kitchen floor this morning without any legs. What do you think it was?"

He studied for awhile, but finally was obliged to give it up. "What was it?" he asked.

"Water," aswered the little lady triumphantly.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

Never before in the history of Duluth has the Fourth of July been more thoroughly celebrated. In the morning great crowds gathered at the Seventh avenue Pavilion, where the Declaration of Independence was read impressively by Page Morris, and addresses were given by Rev. C. H. Patton and Col. A. A. Harris. There were bicycle races and other sports in the afternoon, and at night thousands of dollars worth of fireworks delighted the patriotic hearts.

Miss Ada V. Harris, formerly teacher of the normal training class at the high school, has accepted a position in the state normal school at Ypsilanti, Mich.

Misses Hattie Harper of Ottawa, Ont., and Charles E. Brown, a compositor with the News Tribune, were married on July 3 at the First Methodist church parsonage by Rev. Dr. Thoburn. Miss Jessie Harper was bridesmaid and L. T. Rutter was groomsman.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 60; maximum yesterday, 68; minimum yesterday, 59.

The first annual ball of local union No. 32 of the National Alliance of Theatrical Employes, held at I. O. O. F., was attended by about eighty couples. Muhlbauer & Trautvetter's orchestra played. The committees were: Arrangements, J. J. Lanagan, E. J. Meagher, M. O'Rourke; floor, Nils Anderson, A. McCallum, E. J. Meagher and J. J. Lanagan.

Consolidated Iron Mines stock was quoted today at $15 bid.

A petition is being circulated requesting Governor Clough to create the office of court commission at Grand Marais and to appoint J. Selmer Johnson to the position.

Col. Colvill is building a house at Grand Marais and will open an office in the building occupied by Judge Durfee for the practice of law, making a specialty of cases before the land office.

The Nautilus left yesterday for a week's fishing trip around Lake Superior. Among the party were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Howard, Judge and Mrs. S. H. Moer and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rothermel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Keifer and Miss Conroy of Indianapolis are visiting Mr. and Mrs. George W. Logan.

H. Kalstad and family have removed from West Duluth to Moose Lake.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

AMERICANIZATION DAY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Some days ago I read a letter written by Dr. D. D. Murray, suggesting that every school day be made Americanization day, instead of naming but one day, July 4, which has reference to the granting of citizenship, on that particular date.

Dr. Murray's suggestion is an excellent one. The children of foreign-born parents, in fact, all school children, should be taught lessons of patriotism and civic responsibility. They will then the more thoroughly appreciate our institutions and the purposes for which they were created, become better acquainted with the spirit and letter of the government and have a keener appreciation of the advantages they enjoy. W. S. McCORMICK.

HOW TO REMOVE PAINT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will someone please tell me how to remove paint and varnish from windows? I also would like the song, "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee." Very truly, MRS. F. G. HILL.

CURE FOR WARTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Seeing a request for a cure for warts in the Open Court, I send you one that will take warts off either man or beast: Take common castor oil and wet them two or three times a day and in four days they are all gone. I am told it will cure moles also.

HORSE THIEF WILL LEAD BETTER LIFE

North Dakotan Who Ran Afoul Law Promises to Be Good.

Amidon, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Back in the penitentiary for a three-year term, Mike Cherneshow vows if he ever gets out again he will lead an honest life. Coming to North Dakota a decade ago from Russia, Cherneshow saved some money and for a time operated a meat market at Hettinger, but was cheated out of his place by a pair of swindlers. The iron entered his soul and he turned horse and cattle thief. After stealing two horses he was sent to the state prison for a year. Soon after his release he ran off a bunch of cattle, was captured by the Bowman county sheriff and escaped from jail.

Decoy Letter Didn't Fool.

A few weeks later the sheriff received a letter postmarked in Russia, purporting to be from the jail breaker, but he evidently had sent the letter to a friend to mail for him, because his propensities for accumulating other people's livestock got him in the state prison of Montana, from which he was recently discharged. Three weeks ago he stole a team and wagon at Marmarth, this county. He was traced into Montana, where he was recently captured and brought here. He signified his intention to plead guilty, was taken before Judge Crawford and has begun his sentence.

FAVOR MORE SILOS.

Delay in Maturing of North Dakota Corn Crop Booms Idea.

Fargo, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the delayed corn crop in the Red River valley because of the unfavorable conditions there a movement has been started by leading farmers and representatives of the better farming association to have more silos constructed. The building of silos has been going on rapidly for the past five years. Some of those who have already built will add another and many farmers who have not constructed any are being urged to get busy at once. In some instances the banks are loaning money to farmers for this work at a very low rate of interest and some manufacturers are giving the farmers easy rates as an extra inducement.

It is contended that the corn may not now get beyond the ensilage stage and the farmers should construct silos in order to get the full benefit of the crop. Should the fall be warm and frosts late the corn would mature, but otherwise much of it would be lost without silos.

STOLEN MONEY NEARLY ALL NOW RECOVERED

Houghton, Mich., July 5.—John Spilich, who it is alleged, stole $1,080 from Mrs. John Messner of Dodgeville, a suburb of Houghton, is under arrest. The money included $1,000 paid Mrs. Messner on her husband's life insurance. Spilich had $979 on his person when arrested.

Powder Plant Busy.

Washburn, Wis., July 5.—Over 100 more men were put to work at the powder works of the Dupont company, near this city, last week. The company is now employing nearly 700 men on construction work and about 300 in the operating department. Four triton lines are to be built in addition to other enlargements.

PATRIOTISM THAT COUNTS

Larger Self-Love Makes True Citizenship, Says Rev. G. R. Gebauer.

Right Kind of Man Retains Tender Memories for Home Land.

Rev. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, preached yesterday morning on "The Patriotism That Counts." Mr. Gebauer dwelt on the axiom that he who best reveres his home land is the best type of citizen in his adopted country, for he has within him the true attribute of patriotism. He argued that the alien coming to these shores cannot be expected to cast aside old ties and that he would be undesirable should he do so.

Self-love, while a necessary part of man's makeup, Mr. Gebauer declared, has a danger point, that being where it denies the rights of others to self-love, and where it crowds out patriotism. Mr. Gebauer said, in brief:

Larger Self-Love.

"'Patriotism,' as Herbert Spencer tells us, 'is nationally that, which egoism is individually.' In other words it is a larger kind of self-love. I think that this is true, and it proves the naturalness and needfulness of patriotism. For in the face of all altruistic sentimentality I am inclined to believe that the love of self is a fundamental thing, and that the world could not go on without it for a single day. It is for this reason that the Master bases his ideal of social life upon self-love. 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' True, he says elsewhere, that we should hate ourselves but only that self which overreaches itself.

"Now the love of that larger self, patriotism, is necessary for the life of the nation, as it also is indispensible for sane international relations. It came into being through the development of nations and it only will cease when nations will cease to exist. Patriotism is instinctive to the normal being, the healthy soul. The true man loves his country, not because it is rich or powerful or may be beautiful, but simply because it is his country. There is no calculation in such a love. And the thousand songs of that love for the homeland prove just how that sentiment rises out of the soul of men. Indeed it is something akin to moral shudder with which we regard the man who is without this sentiment. We realize that there is something lacking in him, that he is hardly a man to be trusted.

Must Remember Home.

"It is therefore not foolish to expect of those who come to us from other shores to change their patriotism and to become Americans as soon as they leave the gang plank at Ellis island. An immigrant who brings to these shores no love of his native land will hardly become a true patriot in his adopted country. A true citizen must be a true man, and a true man is ever true to his past.

"The man who quickly forgets the land where his fathers died, is apt to be a grafter in soul and a parasite at heart. He simply looks for green pastures, and his motto is 'ibi bene, ibi patria.' He has a mercenary soul, which will ever be ready to sell itself to the highest bidder. In the man of deep feeling there can be no such sudden change of sentiment. As a healthy tree transplanted into new soil will slowly grow root, so he will gradually grow into the love of the new country. He will grow the faster the more he finds that the patriotism of the foreign land meets his own with sympathy and respect. He will grow in his love as he realizes the blessing he owes to the new land. To him it is a foster mother, who gives to him out of a free grace, and mighty and noble ethical ties bind him to this mother. It is a new affection and loyalty that arises in him by the side of the old love. The new patriotism cannot sing, 'Land where my fathers died,' but it may sing, 'Land where my sons and daughters are born, land of my soul's future, where children's children will but dream of the ancient home across the sea.'

May Become Menace.

"But this noble and needful sentiment of patriotism may easily become perverted, just as all love of self may become a monstrous thing. The selfish man is abhorrent to us, because his self-love limits the rightful egoism of others. And so there is a patriotism which may become a menace to humanity. That self-love is most healthy which is the basis of altruism, and that patriotism is most wholesome which is the pedestal upon which stands the statue of humanity. This is something quite different from a maudlin cosmopolitanism, which would deny all distinctions of country, race and nation. 'Treat your neighbor as yourself,' is the maxim of individual ethics; 'treat other countries as your own,' is the maxim of international morality, which recognizes national distinctions. The true patriot is also the man who, through love, is at home in other lands. He is the man who demands for the sake of his country's honor, that his country act honorably toward other nations. He stands for fair play among peoples and for that neutrality which turns with malice toward none and with friendly regard and good will toward all. Ah, our patriotism in this fearful day of international strife finds its highest test. For us it is not to fan international hatred but by good will to all to hasten the day of peace."

BULLS IN CHINA SHOP.

Col. Davidson of St. Paul Gives Patriotic Address at First Methodist.

"Bulls in China Shops" was the subject of a patriotic address delivered in the First Methodist church last evening by Col. J. H. Davidson of St. Paul. He declared that the neutral nations should have the wisdom and strength to "dehorn the war-mad bulls in the European china shop, securely tie them and thereby redeem civilization from the barbarism which seems to be spreading all over the world."

Outlining the disgusting conditions among the warring nations, Col. Davidson declared that they could certainly not be reasonable and delight in their devastation, with the poor people left destitute.

Humorous anecdotes with reference to the stand being taken by the United States were used by Col. Davidson to illustrate several of his points.

Diaz Funeral Tuesday.

Paris, July 5.—The funeral of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former president of the Mexican republic, who died in this city Friday night will be held on Tuesday at 11 o'clock at the Catholic church of St. Honore d'Eylaua.

NATION BASED ON RELIGION

Dr. Hovis Preaches Patriotic Sermon on Founding of United States.

Says Constitution Is Sermon on the Mount Fashioned in Modern Law.

As the Fourth of July fell on Sunday this year, Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, preached a patriotic sermon yesterday morning, taking for his subject "A Nation Whose God Is the Lord." He said in part:

"When the Fourth of July falls on Sunday it is fitting that a sermon should recount the record of this important day. It is a noteworthy fact that Rhode Island, the smallest state in the Union, was the first to declare itself free from all dependence upon the British crown. Massachusetts and Virginia were the next to instruct their delegates to the Continental congress to vote for any proposition which affirmed the independence of the colonies. Others followed their example, until finally New York and Pennsylvania the last of the original thirteen, acquiesced in the demand for a declaration asserting the right of the American colonies to institute a government of their own.

"On June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced the following famous resolutions: That these United Colonies are and of a right ought to be free and independent states; that they are absolved from allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; that it is expedient forthwith to take the most effectual measures for forming foreign alliances, and that a plan of confederation be prepared and transmitted to the respective colonies for their consideration and approval.

Declaration of Independence.

"These resolutions were seconded by John Adams and an animated discussion ensued. On the next day a committee of five consisting of Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston, was appointed to draft a declaration of independence which would embody the sense of the resolutions offered the day before. This committee presented its report on June 10 but action was delayed until the third of July because the congressmen from New York and Pennsylvania were waiting for instructions from their fields. On the last named date the formal declaration almost precisely as Jefferson had penned it was presented by the committee with John Adams as the orator in its defense. The discussion was resumed the following day, July the fourth, and continued until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when, after one or two slight modifications, it was adopted by a unanimous vote.

"It was immediately signed by the fifty-six members present, and Thomas Jefferson remarked, 'We must all hang together or we will certainly all hang apart.' The announcement of the signing was hailed with great enthusiasm and the bell on the State house in Philadelphia bearing the inscription, 'Proclaim liberty throughout the land to all the inhabitants thereof,' rang out the message of political emancipation for all mankind.

Birthday of Nation.

"The Fourth of July is the 'Birthday' of our nation. It is our greatest holiday. Its observance has never been interrupted since the republic had its birth. Its recurrence recalls the fact that the United States was one of the first nations to create public holidays in token of the people's achievements in their own behalf. Other nations have followed our example. France keeps July 14, the anniversary of the destruction of the French Bastile as a public holiday. Mexico celebrates May the fifth in memory of a signal victory over the invading army of the French. The Italians make merry on Sept. 21 in honor of the day when Victor Emanuel battled down the Porta Pia and marched his army into Rome. In Canada, July the first is kept as the anniversary of the promulgation of the confederation of provinces and named 'Dominion day.'

Problems of Immigration.

"The nature of the celebration of our national holidays should be such as to inspire true patriotism and to arouse enthusiasm for the men whose lives embodied the principles on which our national life is built. There was a time when the names, Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Hamilton, Adams, and Lincoln were venerated and reverenced and the great principles they illustrated were woven into the fiber of every American heart. The case is altered now. Multitudes of our people are foreign born. They have no knowledge of American history, nor interest in the great names in which American principles are enshrined. A people have arisen who know not Joseph and who have no traditions of the past to hold them to the ideals of American national life. The vast hordes of foreigners with which our country has been deluged must be enlightened and evangelized and naturalized in fact as well as name or our nation is in danger. When Mr. Beecher defended unrestricted immigration by saying, 'If you eat bear, you don't become bear, the bear becomes you,' he did not take into account what would happen to a man if he ate a whole bear or what the result might be if he ate diseased bear.

"America has a welcome for the industrious, intelligent, law-abiding foreigner who is willing to be Americanized, but no place for the pauper, the lawless, the vicious from distant lands. Those who find their home within our borders must be taught the genius of American life; they must learn that this is 'a government of the people, by the people, and for the people,' wherein the will of the majority is supreme and on whose domain anarchism, nihilism, and communion must never find a berth. We must foster the institutions that make the masses intelligent, sober, and virtuous, if we perpetuate the existence of our land.

Private Life Basis of Society.

"The exaltation or degradation of any nation depends upon the exaltation or degradation of its people. The elements which make for the greatness or destruction of a nation reside in private life. We boast that in America every man is a king. We ought to remember that kinship involves responsibility. We are fond of saying that public office is a public trust; we need to learn that private citizenship is a public trust. It has been truly said that our independence and prosperity as a nation rests upon seven pillars—purity in our legislative chambers, inflexibility in our courts of law and justice, an elevated tone in our public press, the conservation of our American Sunday, the regulation of interests between capital and labor, a sense of stewardship on the part of the rich, and a recognition on the part of all men of the public claim upon them whether they be filling an office or simply exercising the rights and responsibilities of an American citizen in private life.

"Voltaire once said that no man of reflection or of taste could count more than four authentic ages in the history of the world—that of Philip and Alexander, with Pericles and Demosthenes, Aristotle and Plato, Apelles, Phidias, and Praxiteles; that of Caesar and Augustus, with Lucretius and Cicero and Livy, Virgil and Horace, Varro and Vitruvius; that of the Medici, with Michael Angelo and Raphael Galileo and Dante; and that which he was engaged in depicting—the age of Louise XIV, which, in his judgment, surpassed them all. It is a noteworthy fact that the nation which counts Voltaire among its most gifted sons, under the leadership of its most distinguished scholars and men of state, took the lead in recognizing what might justly be called "The American Age" and planted at our gateway opening toward the sunrise, a gigantic statue inscribed with the legend 'Liberty Enlightening the World.'

Question of Slavery.

"We profess to have given to the world the example of a rational, regulated, enduring constitutional liberty and to have proved the capacity of man for the government of himself. Self-government politically can only be successful when it is accompanied by self-government personally. The Declaration of Independence proclaimed political liberty, but political liberty did not mean personal liberty. The time came when the injustice of individual slavery was perpetuated by wealth and politics. Untimely greed precipitated the irrepressible conflict. A lone, strange, John the Baptist of the newest dispensation, arose and charged the grim monster with his single lance. John Brown died upon the scaffold, but a somnolent nation was aroused from its lethargy of patriotism and made to face its crisis.

"A careful contemplation of the significance of 'Independence day' must bring two thoughts to every honest mind—the power of a religious purpose as indicated in our history and the future of our nation if she is loyal unto God. The record of America like the record of the Hebrews can not be written and leave religion out. When Columbus with the faith of Abraham set out not knowing whither he went, he speaks in his journal of the means to be taken for the conversion of the people to Christianity, and when his weary voyage was over and he had set his foot upon the borders of the strange new land his faith had found, he threw himself upon his knees and kissed the earth and wept with holy joy. George Bancroft says, 'Every enterprise of the Pilgrims began from God.'

Built on Christian Faith.

"Our government is built upon the fundamental principles of the Christian faith. The Constitution is but the Sermon on the Mount fashioned in the form of modern law. When this great document was being framed amid unsurmountable difficulties and prolonged debate, at the suggestion of one of the deliberating members it was 'Resolved that daily prayers be offered for divine wisdom and guidance.' Meaningless as the legend may sometimes seem to be, the inscription 'In God we trust,' stamped upon our money, points to our original purpose to be a 'nation whose God is the Lord.'

"Lord Baltimore in Maryland, Oglethorpe in Georgia, and Penn in the city of 'Brotherly Love' were moved by religion to found a state. When the colonies found themselves chafed by the iron fetters of oppressive rule, and tremblingly sighed for deliverance, the electric words of Patrick Henry thrilled their hearts when he said, 'An appeal to arms and the God of hosts is all that is left us.' The power of a religious purpose marked our explorers, characterized our colonists, made itself felt in the beginning of our national councils, and shaped the career of the Father of our Country.

"Theoretically, we are a 'nation whose God is the Lord.' The stability of our essential being will depend on our being such in fact. The path of history is strewn with the carcasses of nations which forgot to acknowledge God. The future of our country will be secure if our faith in God is firm. Our belief that a nation whose trust is in God is a 'blessed' nation is evidenced by the fact that the Bible is reverently kissed by the president of the United States before assuming the duties of his office. This act is not only an act of worship but a recognition of the value of the book which has made us what we are. In this book God says, "Them that honor me, I will honor, and they that despise me shall be lightly esteemed." Here God declares concerning the nation that obeys not his voice, 'I will utterly pluck up and destroy that nation.' Here also we are encouraged by the comforting benediction, 'Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord.' The way of peace is plain."

PATRIOTISM IN GRAVE DANGER

Democracy Undermining It, Declares Dr. A. W. Ryan in Sermon.

Democracy is gradually undermining patriotism in this country, according to Rev. A. W. Ryan in his morning sermon yesterday. He spoke on "Patriotism." Among other things, he said:

"In a modern democratic country there is a strong tendency towards individualism and the government is rather criticized by its citizens than upheld by them. Enlargement of a sense of a personal duty and relationship to the entire world will be arrived at only when true cosmopolitanism has bloomed and national boundaries are swept away, leaving the earth one united country."

The speaker traced the growth of patriotism from the early history of the Greeks and the Jews. He pointed to the Greeks as an intensely patriotic people and also declared that the very religion of Hebraism was racial in character.

"The ideal patriotism," he said, "consists of fidelity to family, state and church."

AT GLEN AVON CHURCH.

Dr. Lawrence Speaks on John Huss in Observation of His Natal Day.

Taking advantage of the five hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Huss, Rev. W. W. Lawrence, in his sermon yesterday at Glen Avon Presbyterian church, reviewed the life of the great reformer and martyr. Mr. Lawrence spoke of the untiring labors of Huss to further the spirit of democracy in the church, even despite great opposition which finally resulted in his death.

In the church last night before a large audience Dr. Brandt of Chicago, Western secretary of the Presbyterian foreign board, gave an illustrated lecture of a tour around the world.

FOUR PERSONS LOSE LIVES IN LAKE ST. CLAIR

Wallaceburg, Ont., July 5.—Four persons were drowned last night in Lake St. Clair as the result of a sudden squall which capsized a launch in which they were riding. There were nine in the party. Five were rescued by another launch after they had clung to their overturned craft for several hours.

The drowned are:

MR. and MRS. CHESTER McDOUGALL.

A MRS. HOWARD and a MISS FOTHERGILL, all of Wallaceburg.

Asquith's Daughter to Wed.

London, July 5.—Premier Asquith last night announced the engagement of his eldest daughter, Violet, to Maurice Bonham Carter, Mr. Asquith's principal private secretary.

ACTIVITY IN STEEL TRADE

Operations of Plants at Nearly Ninety Per Cent of Capacity.

More Advances in Prices Are Expected Within Few Days.

Iron and steel companies continue to report activity, as attested in current operations estimated at between 85 and 90 per cent of capacity, and the fact that iron ore shipments from the Head of the Lakes since the opening of navigation show an increase of 60 per cent over last year.

Further large orders for war materials are pending, which means a resumption of the demand for bars for shells. The call for steel of this character has become so heavy of late that the price for steel rounds has been advanced about $7 a ton. The earlier sales of shrapnel shells, for example, were made on a bisas of $31 a ton at Pittsburgh, while it is understood that later sales have been at $38 a ton.

A revival of car buying and shipbuilding continues to stimulate activity in plates, and the Pittsburgh mills are now said to be getting enough orders for tin plate from Europe and South America to insure operations at full capacity for the balance of the year.

More Advances Expected.

Steel prices are being well maintained and it is expected that within the next few days minimum prices on leading products, such as wire nails, steel bars, bars and structurals, will be advanced $1 per ton. The leading steel companies have notified their customers to that effect and advised them to place their orders early.

More Pittsburgh pig iron producers are becoming interested in steel making grades, and new business in that department is said to be in fair proportions for the East.

Steel Authority Optimistic.

Commenting upon the general situation in the trade, the Iron Age says:

"The steel trade enters upon the second half of the year with production about 60 per cent greater than on Jan. 1, and with the increase in production and consumption which has been more marked in the past two months still in progress.

"That the Carnegie Steel company will buy billets in the east, so that it may have available for the Central West steel which would otherwise go to an eastern subsidiary of the Steel corporation, is a possible development.

"A new French contract for 25,000 tons of shrapnel bars has been awarded to the Buffalo mill, and new bar inquiry, which is large, includes 50,000 to 60,000 tons for export and 42,000 tons of 3½-in. rounds for high explosive shells. Shrapnel and bars have only begun to figure in the export returns.

"With spelter at 21 cents to 22 cents against 29 cents a pound a fortnight ago, prices of galvanized sheets are being readjusted, and 4.50 cents is now asked for No. 28. Consumers are not reassured, however, and sheet mills look for no large buying until the spelter situation is clearer. Black sheets also are far from active. Two or three Ohio mills have gone $2 to $3 below the recent level on blue annealed in the competition due to the shutting up of galvanizing plants.

"Tin plate mills are coming into better operating conditions, thanks largely to demand from abroad. A new inquiry from France is for 140,000 boxes.

"In the situation that has developed in open-hearth steel in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts, there is a new interest in Bessemer sheet bars and billets, and the market for Bessemer pig iron has felt the effect. A sale of 10,000 tons was made last week, and $13.75 at furnace is now minimum.

"In Eastern Pennsylvania a purchase of 6,000 tons of basic iron was made by a new buyer at close to $13.75, delivered."

GOVERNOR WILL VISIT BOTH FAIRS

Accompanied By Staff and Friends Will Leave on July 14.

St. Paul, Minn., July 5.—Governor W. S. Hammond, members of his staff and political friends of the governor will make a pilgrimage in two special cars to the Pacific coast and return during the last half of July. C. M. Andrist, secretary to the governor, announced after making arrangements with the Great Northern railway to charter the cars. Members of the party will share the expenses.

Leaving the Twin Cities at 10:45 a. m., July 14, the party will spend one day at Glacier park, a day at Spokane, a day at Seattle and Tacoma, another at Portland and two days at San Francisco visiting the fair. A day will be spent at San Diego and Los Angeles, and from the latter city the tourists will go to Salt Lake, returning from there by way of Denver and Omaha. They will arrive in the Twin Cities over the Northwestern road July 28.

For Assaulting Officer.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 5.—Kenneth Way, son of Charles M. Way of Minneapolis, was arrested here, charged with assaulting an officer. Way's refusal to submit to arrest when hailed by a policeman, who charged Way with speeding, brought about the encounter and the Minneapolis man's arrest on a charge more serious. Way is charged with striking Policeman George Boyd when the latter told him he was under arrest for speeding.

BURKE IS COMING HOME.

Former North Dakota Governor May Announce Senatorial Candidacy.

Fargo, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Political significance is attached by the Democrats of the state to the coming visit of United States Treasurer John Burke, former governor, who is slated for an address before the state association of county treasurers July 10 and for other speeches in the state. It is supposed that while he is in the state he will intimate to the Democrats whether he wishes to be considered in the senatorship contest next summer.

MAN DIES OF POISON.

Girl on Whom He Is Calling, Detained By Mill City Police.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 5.—Discovery of strychnine in the stomach of Fred A. Henderson was followed by the examination at police headquarters of Miss Olga Kangas, a roomer at 11 Twelfth street north, on the porch of which house Henderson was found dying the night of June 21.

The girl, who was an acquaintance of the tragedy victim, occupies a cell at Central station today. The police said they had no evidence tending to connect her with the death of Henderson. They said she was being held at the direction of County Attorney John M. Rees. A few minutes after he was found on the porch of the Twelfth street house, Henderson died on the way to the city hospital. He had called on Miss Kangas shortly before he was found dying.

GERMAN SUBMARINE RAISED; ONLY ONE DEAD

Amsterdam, via London, July 5.—The German submarine U-3 which was sunk off the mouth of the Ems through an accident, has now been raised and only one man of the crew, who for 36 hours were on the sea bottom, is dead, according to dispatches to the Telegraaf. The underwater boat has been towed to Emden for repairs.

Five Dead in Fire.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 5.—Two more persons died yesterday from burns received in a Roumanian lodging house fire Saturday night, bringing the total of dead to five.

DOOKS WIN A GAME ON GLORIOUS FOURTH OF JULY

Stirred By Patriotic Fervor Duluth Cellar Champs Whack Victory.

Not So Lucky on Saturday, But Play Good Game.

Darby O'Brien and his rejuvenated gang of cellar champs yesterday celebrated the Fourth by administering a beating to the fading Superior Marines by the score of 2 to 0.

Poor weather kept the attendance down, and the officials of the Duluth club lost no small amount of the stuff that makes the league turn around.

Jackson and Hawkins opposed each other in a good pitching duel, honors being about even. Tight pitching and sharp fielding kept down scores that were threatened when the bases were full. In the seventh Bassey and Ford walked and Williams scored the former with a clean hit over short. In the eighth Wolfe's single and sacrifices by O'Brien and Sweeley counted the other run.

There will be two games today, one at 10 a. m. and the other at 3 p. m. Owner Blume is looking for a big crowd at both of the contests, as it will be the last appearance of the Superior team as an organization. The score:

Saturday's Game.

It took eleven innings to do it, but, on Saturday, Superior showed up the Dooks' lack of stamina in the eleventh inning and won a game that outside of that inning was a good one.

The Superior Orphans had scored one run in the fourth inning and then for inning after inning there was nothing doing on either side, and it looked like a 1 to 0 shutout for the homeless. Berger was responsible for that run. Then along came the ninth inning, at which time Mr. Wolfe sauntered to the plate, and when the second ball was pitched at him, he clouted it heartlessly for a home run. That tied the score. Then Berger, for Superior got to first on a poor throw by Ford, was sacrificed to second by Swalm, went to third on a hit through Superior, got to first on a poor throw to Wolfe managed to steal home.

For Duluth, in the tenth, McGraw fanned out and then Altman soaked a low one under the center field fence and beat the throw home. That tied the score again.

In the eleventh Curtis and McGee, who had been walked, were scored by Berger's wallop over second, then Swalm scored two more by hitting over center, after which Swalm counted on a sacrifice by Kirkham.

Oh yes, the pennant won by Duluth last season, was raised during the fourth inning, but it did no good. But at that the game was a thriller. The score:

VIRGINIA TAKES LAST OF SERIES

Expensive Errors Cost Fort William Well-Pitched Game.

Fort William, Ont., July 5.—Virginia Ore Diggers split even on the series Saturday by taking the last game by a score of 5 to 2. Noble for Fort William pitched a good game, striking out twelve batsmen. Virginia found him for eight hits, but they were scattered over six innings. Three expensive errors were mostly responsible for the defeat. Homers by Sundheim and Derose were features as was also a double steal by Fortier and Wertz, in which Wertz stole home and Fortier second. Score:

SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER.

St. Boniface and Grand Forks Each Gather Scalps.

St. Boniface, Man., July 5.—The Saints and Grand Forks teams split even after two hard-fought pitchers' battles here Saturday. In the first game Mueller's triple and Stevenson's single gave the locals a 1-to-0 victory. In the second game Brenner held the locals to three hits, while the Forkers bunched hits with errors on Culver for a 2-to1 victory. Morse and Anderson were the star stickers. Score:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cubs Beat Pirates.

Chicago, July 5.—Chicago defeated Pittsburgh 8 to 5 in the final game of the series here yesterday. The locals made their runs by bunching hits off McQuillan and Cooper. Cheney weakened in the fifth inning, when the visitors started a rally and retired in favor of Lavender, who stopped the visitors' attack. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburgh	0 0 0 1 3 0 0 0 1—5	7	3
Chicago	2 3 2 0 0 1 0 0 x—8	12	3

Batteries—McQuillan, Cooper and Gibson; Cheney, Lavender and Archer.

Reds Take Two.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 5.—Cincinnati nosed St. Louis out in both games of a double-header here yesterday, winning the first 1 to 0 and the second 3 to 2. Dale's pitching and some remarkable fielding on the part of his teammates accounted for the visitors' defeat in the first game. Cincinnati's only run was scored in the second inning by a base on balls, a sacrifice and a single by Dale.

In the second game Cincinnati hit Sallee hard and he left the mound in the seventh, after one run had been scored, tieing the score with two men on bases. Griner could not stop the locals, for a single by Herzog brought home the winning run. Rain then interfered and the game was called. Scores:

First game—	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0	6	1

Many in Track Meet.

Toledo, Ohio, July 5.—Approximately 100 athletes, some of national reputation, will take part in a municipal free-to-the-public field meet here today. One of the feature events will be a 440-yard run between Meredith of Pennsylvania and Ted Souder, Cornell long-distance runner. Steve Farrell, track coach of Michigan, will act as starter. Twenty events are on the program.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Tigers Take Series.

Detroit, Mich., July 5.—Detroit defeated Chicago in the tenth inning yesterday, 8 to 7, giving the local team the series, winning three out of four games. Detroit knocked Scott out of the box in five innings and secured a lead of six runs. Steen, who had been pitching good ball, became wild in the eighth and his support weakened, enabling Chicago to tie the score. Coveleskie then relieved Steen, and Wolfgang, who had relieved Scott for two innings, gave way to Faber. With two out in the tenth and Cobb and Crawford on bases, Faber purposely passed Bush, filling the bases, to get at Baker. Then he walked Baker on four pitched balls, forcing in Cobb, with the winning run. Score: R. H. E.

Chicago	0 1 0 0 0 0 1 5 0 0—7	9	2
Detroit	1 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 1—8	15	4

Batteries—Scott, Wolfgang, Faber and Schalk; Steen, Coveleskie and Stanage, Baker.

Shuts Out Indians.

St. Louis, Mo., July 5.—Lowdermilk shut out Cleveland 2 to 0 yesterday in a one-hit game in which both teams played errorless ball. Smith robbed St. Louis' pitcher of a no-hit game by a triple in the fourth. Lowdermilk went even farther to help his team win by doubling to right in the eighth and scoring on Shotton's double to the same locality. The other run was brought in by Walker, who doubled in the fourth and was enabled to score by Walsh's single. Score: R. H. E.

St. Louis	0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 x—2	8	0

Batteries — Mitchell, Jones and O'Neill; Lowdermilk and Severeld.

AMERICAN ASS'N.

Hoosiers 5; Colonels 2.

Louisville, Ky., July 5.—Tipple, whose only defeat this season was at the hands of Louisville, yesterday defeated the local team, 5 to 2, allowing five scattered hits. Indianapolis hit Northrop opportunely for ten safeties, taking an early lead. Bronkie broke a run of twelve hitless games with three hits, none of which counted in the scoring. Score: R. H. E.

Indianapolis	0 2 0 2 0 1 0 0 0—5	10	1

Batteries—Tipple and Blackburn; Northrop and Clemons.

Spiders Win Both.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 5.—Cleveland beat Columbus two games, 5 to 4 in eleven innings and 5 to 2, Carter tying up his own game with a triple in the ninth while Brenton outpitched Ferry in the second game. Willie's single, Gardner's sacrifice and Nixon's single won the first contest. Score: R. H. E.

First game—
Cleveland	2 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 1—5	11	2

Batteries — Brenton and Devogt; Ferry, Schenberg and Coleman.

Brewers Draw Double.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 5.—Milwaukee won a double-header from Kansas City here yesterday afternoon, 6 to 2 and 3 to 2. Excellent pitching by Shackleford with men on bases won the first game for the local team. Rhoades, a recruit, started in the second game, but was benched in the fifth inning, Slapnicka finishing the game. Scores:

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Kansas City	0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—2	5	1
Milwaukee	0 0 3 1 0 0 0 2 0—6	13	2

Milwaukee	0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 x—3	7	1

Batteries—Gardner and Gelbel, Alexander; Rhoades, Slapnicka and Brannan.

Twins Split It.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 5.—Minneapolis and St. Paul divided a double-header yesterday, the home team winning the first, 4 to 3, and the visitors the second, 6 to 4. A delayed double steal, in which Sullivan and Jennings figured, brought over the winning run in the first game. Niles' home run was the only earned run St. Paul made in the second game, but poor fielding gave the team five more. Altizer tied the score with a home run in the seventh, but two errors, a pass and an out enabled St. Paul to go ahead in the eighth. Rain fell at intervals during the afternoon. Scores:

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Minneapolis	0 0 0 0 4 0 0 0 x—4	12	0

St. Paul	0 0 2 1 0 1 0 1 1—6	9	0
Minneapolis	2 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—4	11	7

Batteries—Hall and Glenn; Ingersoll and Sullivan, Gharrity.

FEDERAL LEAGUE

Whales 5; Pittfeds 4.

Chicago, July 5.—McConnell's hitting and pitching were leading factors in Chicago's 5 to 4 defeat of Pittsburgh yesterday. Wet grounds made fielding difficult and many of the hits might have been outs on dry grounds. The visitors pounded McConnell hard, but he was strong in most of the tight places, while Dickson was the victim of a rally in the sixth which caused his retirement and Allen sent in one run on a balk. Score: R. H. E.

Pittsburgh	0 2 1 0 0 0 1 0 0—4	12	0
Chicago	0 1 0 0 0 3 1 0 x—5	13	2

Batteries—Dickson, Allen, Barger and O'Connor, Berry; McConnell and Wilson.

ORDEMAN EASY FOR CHAMPION GOTCH.

Humboldt, Iowa, July 5.—Frank Gotch, champion wrestler, after two years' retirement, won a match with Henry Ordeman of Minneapolis here Saturday. Gotch won in straight falls in 21 and 18 seconds, respectively.

READY FOR FINAL DRIVE

Big Leagues Near Second Half of Season in Close Contest.

Four National Teams Near Top; Big Lead for Chicago Americans.

New York, July 5.—With the halfway marks of the baseball season close at hand, the clubs in the two major leagues are gathering into well-defined groups for the drive to the finish. Should the teams continue playing during the second half of the race approximately as they have during the first, any one of four clubs in the National league has an excellent chance for the flag, while in the American three teams are in line for the honors of the year.

In the senior organization, the Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Pittsburgh clubs are so closely bunched that fifty points will come close to covering the span between first and fourth. Separated sharply from the first group come the Brooklyn, Boston, New York and Cincinnati teams, still nearer together, as twenty points recently has been sufficient to bridge the gap between fifth and eighth place clubs.

The Chicago leaders have been slipping back of late, while Philadelphia has been gaining and St. Louis and Pittsburgh are about holding their own.

In the second division the long-looked-for brace of the Bostons has not been in evidence.

The Brooklyns at present are making the strongest threat to redeem past misdeeds and move out of the ruck of the second division. If the present select quartet is to be broken up, some club in the lower group will have to strike a sustained winning streak, and recent indications have favored the Robins rather than the Braves.

Chicago Americans Strong.

The American league race finds the Chicago team far out in front, but with the chances of Boston and Detroit by no means hopeless. The pace set by the White Sox, however, is a dizzy one, and the second and third place teams, until the past week, have not been able to keep up with it. But both the Red Sox and the Tigers are doing better, the latter in the present series having given Clarence Rowlands' pacemakers all they could take care of, incidentally causing Urban Faber his fourth defeat of the season, leaving his record at thirteen games won.

New York and Washington form the second American league group, and are in a sharp fight for fourth place, with the advantage just now with the Yankees, who Saturday put forth Ray Caldwell to enter the lists with Walter Johnson and helped New York to an easy victory over the speedy Washington twirler.

In an apparently hopeless position are Cleveland, St. Louis and Philadelphia, forming the third and emphatically last group in the league. The once famous Athletics were still further broken up during the week, Jack Barry, long the shortstop of the club, going to Boston to play second base. McInnis alone remains of the $100,000 infield.

Feds Remain Unchanged.

The Federal league clubs stood at the close of the week just as they did a week before, with St. Louis and Kansas City fighting for the leadership, the latter having had slightly the better week of it. Chicago and Pittsburgh, both winning with considerable regularity, pulled up rapidly on the other teams of the division clubs. In the other division the Buffalo team alone gained ground, Newark doing worse than breaking even, and Brooklyn and Baltimore dropping rapidly.

Indianapolis continues in front in the American association. Holding their own with their nearest rivals, the Hoosiers have increased their lead at the expense of the second division clubs, and have a margin of about half a dozen games.

FIFTY MOTORBOATS ENTERED IN RACE

Annual Three-Day Regatta Opens at Hannibal, Mo.

Hannibal, Mo., July 5.—The eighth annual three-day regatta of the Mississippi Valley Powerboat association was scheduled to open here today and to witness it several thousand visitors were in the city this morning.

Approximately fifty motor boats are entered in the speed events. The United States torpedo boat Cushing adds a naval touch to the scene.

Among the spectacular events, exclusive of races on the program of the regatta, are a Venetian boat parade, a production of the sea fight between the Oregon and the Viscaya and fireworks spectacle on the water tonight.

OMAHA AUTO TRACK "BEATS THEM ALL"

Eighteen Speed Kings on Hand for Prize 300-Mile Race.

Omaha, Neb., July 5.—All eighteen contestants will compete today in the 300-mile $15,000 automobile race at the new Omaha board speedway, as there were no elimination rounds yesterday. Most of the pilots arrived too late to participate in preliminary trials.

Practice runs were participated in by three early arrivals, who pronounced the Omaha track the fastest in the world. The three sent their machines over the boards at an average rate of 95 miles an hour.

That the Omaha track is a year head of the motors is the assertion of race experts, who witnessed the practice rounds yesterday. Few of the racing cars of the country are fast enough to hold the steep pitched walls at the turns and drivers, with cars that are capable of over 100 miles an hour found it hard to hang on. It is also a difficult track to drive and the pilots let it be known that several days of practice would be required to establish new records.

Favorable weather conditions prevailed and from the popularity the race has received in and about Omaha, it is expected that upwards of from 10,000 to 12,000 people will attend.

CHICAGO LAD HAS BEST OF CHAMP

Charley White Outpoints Freddie Welsh in Five Rounds.

New York, July 5.—Charley White of Chicago outpointed Freddie Welsh, world's lightweight champion, in their ten-round bout in the open at the Brighton Beach race track Saturday night. The ringside weights were, White, 133½; Welsh, 136 pounds. Both men agreed to weigh in at 135 pounds at 3 p. m.

Welsh led in the opening round, while White came back with right and left body blows. The second was even. In the third Welsh used his left to face and right to ribs. Welsh was forced into his corner in the fourth, two of White's left hooks landing on the opponent's ear.

First blood was drawn in the fifth, when a straight left landed on White's nose. The latter kept up a forcing contest and had a shade the best of the round.

Although Welsh had the advantage in the sixth and seventh rounds, White came fast in the eighth. Welsh, who was tiring, held long in the clinches. Several times White failed to land with his left, but he forced the fighting in the ninth and tenth. Five rounds were White's, four Welsh's with honors even in one.

PEERLESS

Long Cut Tobacco

Put PEERLESS in a pipe and it goes right to the spot with the man who knows real tobacco. Chew it and you get the limit of tobacco enjoyment.

PEERLESS is made especially to suit the sturdy man who wants a natural, full-bodied smoke, or a natural-sweet, satisfying chew.

PEERLESS has been the same fine old satisfying tobacco for 50 years. It is made today just as it was half a century ago, of leaf aged three to five years, which makes it mellow and smooth. It never varies, is always just right because a large reserve stock of leaf is carried to protect this famous old brand.

Stick PEERLESS into your overalls for a week's trial—and you'll always stick to it. Sold everywhere in 5c packages.

Guy Ruckstell finished first with a time of two hours and fifty-seven minutes. Earl Cooper was second and Eddie Pullen third. A blowout on a steep curve hurled Carlson's machine from the track. Franzen, thrown clear, struck a stump and his back was broken. He died soon afterwards.

At the hospital to which Carlson was taken, physicians said last night the driver's injuries were more serious than was at first thought and it was doubtful if he would recover. His head was crushed, and it is believed he sustained internal injuries.

SEVEN RECORDS GO IN C. A. A. MEET

Chicago Association Wins Track Events—Fine Showings Made.

Chicago, July 5.—The Chicago Athletic association won the annual senior track and field championship meet of the Central Amateur Athletic Union Saturday, gaining a total of 89 points to 72 by the Illinois Athletic club, which won second place. Seven records of the Central A. A. U. were broken and two tied. Sixteen institutions were represented in the meet. The track at the University of Chicago where the events were held was lightning fast and good marks were set in all events.

Those who broke records were Campbell, University of Chicago, who did the half mile in 1:55 4-5, clipping 3 1-5 seconds from the old record held by F. Sauer of the C. A. A.

Marceau, the Chicago Athletic association, ran the mile in 4 minutes 21 1-5 seconds. The old record, held by George Waage, Illinois Athletic club, was 4:32 2-5.

Dismond, Chicago, broke the 440-yard run record in 49 flat. The old record, held by N. A. Merriam, Chicago, was 50 2-5.

Kenourck, I. A. C., won the pole vault, setting a new record of 12 feet 5¾ inches. The old record, held by Leroy Samse, C. A. A., was 12 feet 1½ inches.

Loomis, C. A. A., set a record of 6 feet 3½ inches in the high jump, beating Alma Richards' record of 6 feet 2 inches.

Mucks of Wisconsin, put the 16-pound shot 46 feet 6¼ inches, beating the old record of 45 feet, held by A. W. Achler. Mucks also broke the discus throwing record with 143 feet 3½ inches. The old record, held by M. Giffin, was 136 feet 8 inches.

Loomis of the C. A. A. tied the record for the 100-yard dash in 9 4-5.

RICKENBACHER WINS.

Takes Sioux City Three-Hundred-Mile Auto Race.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 5.—Eddie Rickenbacher, one of the favorites, was the winner of the $15,000, 300-mile automobile race here Saturday, leading nearly all the way. The victor drove a steady race and averaged 74.7 miles for the distance.

Eddie O'Donnell was a close second, flying across the tape less than two laps behind Rickenbacher.

Tom Alley, a team mate of O'Donnell, captured the third money.

Only one accident marred the contest. C. Cox, who took Rawlings' place, brushed the rear of Rickenbacher's car on the back stretch and crashed through the fence. His condition is serious. His mechanician was only slightly hurt.

Nearly 10,000 people witnessed the race.

W. A. McGONAGLE WINS BOGEY HANDICAP

Despite weather that made good golf different, W. A. McGonagle won the bogey handicap match play at the Northland club Saturday afternoon, finishing with a score of 1 up on the colonel.

Because of his remarkable showing, Mr. McGonagle will have his name inscribed on the bogey handicap trophy, which is given to the player winning the greatest number of matches during the season.

A large number of golfers started in Saturday's match, but a driving rain, which lasted throughout almost the entire match and which made ground conditions miserable, eliminated many of the contestants.

Other scores for the afternoon were:

F. P. Towne	1 down to bogey
F. H. White	2 down to bogey
A. B. Cullum	2 down to bogey
J. L. Mullin	3 down to bogey
F. E. House	3 down to bogey

SUPERIOR AND GRAND FORKS DROPPED FROM NORTHERN

League Magnates Decide to Cut Organization to Six Clubs.

New Schedule Drafted—Players of Ousted Teams Assigned.

Superior and Grand Forks were dropped from the Northern league last night.

When the smoke cleared away after a regular Fourth of July meeting at the Spalding hotel, officials of the league were hard at work revising the schedule and planning to finish the season with six clubs.

The elimination of Grand Forks came as a big surprise to many, and in fact was only negotiated after a long discussion. The action in regard to Superior was not unexpected, as it was conceded that the team's backers would not be able to meet conditions necessary to retain the team.

Superior men were given until the eleventh hour to "say something," according to league officials, and at no time were told they were not wanted. It finally became evident, from the trend of the discussion, that the Wisconsin men did not intend to maintain a team and the axe fell.

"We had applications from several Canadian and Minnesota towns that wanted to join the league," said President Burmeister, "but we decided that it was better to end the season with six clubs rather than take any further risks and pile up additional expense."

Dividing the Players.

The new schedule has been drafted and teams will start on it tomorrow. Players from Superior will be divided between Winnipeg and Duluth, strengthening the two teams who have been playing ragged ball and who are low in the percentage column.

President Blume drew Bergwald, Superior's strong third baseman, and a catcher, while most of the remainder of the Wisconsin bunch will go to Winnipeg. The acquisition of Bergwald will fill a big hole in Duluth's infield and strengthen the team materially, it is believed.

"We will be back here next Friday to open a series with Fort William," said President Blume after the meeting. "Our team will be strengthened greatly and then it will be up to the fans to attend the games.

"Up to this time the club has gone badly and rainy weather has played havoc with the attendance, as well as increasing the operating expenses. We hope to win a lot of games from now on, however, and expect the patronage a Duluth team deserves."

Credit to Blume.

"Owner Blume deserves credit for putting baseball on a high plane in Duluth," said President Burmeister. "Fans are apt to be critical at times but a sense of loyalty to the home town and players ought to overbalance a little hard luck."

Those who attended the meeting were Dr. F. T. Mitchell, representing Fort William; President John Burmeister, Winnipeg; Charles Moll, St. Boniface; Messrs. Coates and Finch, Virginia, and Messrs. Hardy and Huth, Fargo. Mr. Huth also held a proxy for Grand Forks.

Northern league magnates, at Saturday's meeting in the Spalding hotel, drew up a new schedule for the six-team organization.

COMISKEY OF WHITE SOX DUE IN DULUTH TUESDAY MORNING

The "Old Roman" of baseball will be entertained in Duluth for several hours tomorrow morning.

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox and probably one of the best known men connected with the great American game, will arrive here with Mrs. Comiskey, his son and daughter, aboard the steamer South American. The party will leave for Chicago aboard the same boat several hours later.

One of the most picturesque figures in the baseball world, the "Old Roman's" life story reads like a romance from a best seller.

Starting when 17 years old as a $60-a-month third baseman for Milwaukee, Comiskey graduated into the old Northwestern league and thence to the American association.

In 1833 he was made manager of the St. Louis Browns and piloted that famous team to three championships, winning one world's series. Seven years later Comiskey was made manager of the Cincinnati Reds, shortly after the team was put into the National league.

It was at Cincinnati that Comiskey met Ban Johnson and helped conceive the idea that resulted in the American league. Johnson was a newspaper man and the two saw the possibility of another major league. They were instrumental in the reorganization and upbuilding of the old Western league, which later became the American.

Chicago's famous White Stockings, or White Sox, under Comiskey's leadership, won pennants in the American league in 1900 and 1901. The team became nationally popular and won the world's championship in 1905 from the Chicago Cubs.

The "Old Roman," soon after this world's series, became president of the Chicago club, being the only player to rise to the position of magnate from the diamond.

One of Comiskey's most elaborate feats was the world tour of the White Sox with the New York Nationals under John J. McGraw in 1913-14. Illness, which followed this tour of the American and National league stars, compelled Comiskey to give up some of his baseball interest, but he has been active in the fight against the Feds during the past year.

DRAWS COMPLETE FOR TENNIS TOURNEY

First Matches Now On; Women Have Three Strong Teams.

Draws in the tennis tournament are completed, and from now until July 17 matches will be run off rapidly, in order to reach the finals by that date.

Rain interfered Saturday and the courts were wet this morning because of yesterday's precipitation, but Lauren Kennedy announced that they would be in shape for tournament play by 2 o'clock today, and that the first matches would be called promptly at that time.

The draw in the women's doubles, made Saturday afternoon, shows three strong teams and gives promise of some excellent matches. Duluth will be represented in both singles and doubles at the Minnesota state tournament at White Bear, it is expected, and on this account unusual interest will be attracted by the women's matches in the tourney starting today.

The draw in the doubles follows:

First round, Miss Jessica Marshall and Miss Katherine Abbott, who drew a bye; Miss Dorothy Moore and Miss Virginia Moore vs. Miss Genevieve Washburn and Miss Muriel Prindle; Miss Mildred Washburn and Mrs. J. F. Thompson vs. Miss Ruth Neimeyer and Miss Mabel Neimeyer; Mrs. Arthur Barnes and Miss Gertrude Barnes, who drew a bye; Miss Gertrude Hegardt and Miss Maren Mendenhall vs. Miss Roberta Ritchie and Miss Josephine Cotton; Miss Elizabeth Lynam and Miss Florence Jennison, who drew a bye; Miss Amelia Andrews and Miss Caroline Marshall vs. Miss Mary Winton and Miss Frances Winton; Miss Louise Frick and Miss Betty Merrill, who drew a bye.

The first team play will take place Saturday, July 10, at Oatka, when the Duluth Boat club team—Mac Washburn, L. Kennedy, W. Kennedy, Frank Falk, Jack Thompson and Carl Heimbaugh—will meet the Country club team, Walter Fraker, Charles Fraker, Nat Davis, Ray Smith and J. Gardiner. Singles and doubles will be played and two courts given over to this event.

Aug. 14 is the date of the team play of the boat club with the Minneapolis team and the Head of the Lakes open tournament, which opens the same day, will include members of the Minneapolis team and several players from St. Paul, White Bear and the range cities who already have entered.

Local entries in the northwestern tournament July 24 at Deephaven are Mac Washburn, Walter Fraker, Charles Fraker and Lauren Kennedy.

FLICKERTAILS AT HOME.

Back From Winning Eleven Out of Eighteen Games.

Fargo, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local baseball aggregation is home for a double-header today after a tour of the league circuit, playing eighteen games, winning eleven, losing seven and having seven postponed on account of bad weather.

Unglaub reports signing Bobbie Nifnecker for short. Nifnecker was with Grand Forks last year, was drafted by St. Paul and sent to Flint, Mich. He will be played at short and Hooper transferred to second to take the place of Patterson, whose leg was recently broken sliding to a base.

A long string of games is to be played here on the home grounds.

Games Postponed.

Philadelphia—National: New York-Philadelphia morning game postponed; wet grounds.

Brooklyn—National: Boston-Brooklyn morning game postponed; wet grounds.

first feared, Mr. Morgan rested comfortably at his home, East Isle, during the night, awoke much refreshed and seemed cheerful. The X-ray examination of yesterday had dispelled fears that one of the two bullets had entered the abdomen or shattered the bone. Both bullets passed through the muscles of the hip and out through his clothing. The only possible danger, it was asserted, was from blood poisoning and this grew less with each succeeding hour.

Physicians' Bulletin.

The physicians issued the following bulletin:

"The patient had a restful night. His temperature and pulse are normal. His general condition is most favorable."

Why We All Grow Bald

SOME pathogenic, or disease-producing, microbes are so ubiquitous that nearly everybody keeps a culture on hand at all times. There is the pneumococcus, or "cold" germ, which is found present in practically every mouth; and the colon bacillus, which normally inhabits the alimentary canal and frequently "starts something" in the way of appendicitis or gallstones or gastric ulcer. And most lamentable of all, we have the microbacillus of seborrhoea (dandruff) which is planted and transplanted from head to head by our friend the barber, with as little compunction as the restive winds of summer feel about spreading the seeds of that indigenous shrub, the dandelion.

Sabouraud proved that his microbacillus causes dandruff; he produced typical dandruff in guinea-pigs by rubbing in material from the head of a human victim of the disease—an experiment which has not as yet been seriously protested by the antis. Prof. Sabouraud teaches that the little germs work their way down the hair shaft and attack the follicle, thus eventually denuding the unfortunate dome of its wealth of hirsute adornment.

Combs, brushes, fingers, towels, head-rests, perhaps even hats in the lid emporium, would readily convey the infection from dome to dome, and the busy little microbes may safely be trusted to do the rest, protected as they are from the germicidal rays of the sun by our top pieces, and favored by frequent watering of the scalp—moisture being one of the indispensable conditions for germ culture.

But what about the women? Why don't they grow bald? They sometimes have dandruff, too.

Women don't wet their hair so frequently as men. They brush the scalp more thoroughly. They wear a head dress which is better ventilated and admits more light. And more important still, they do not wear a torniquet tightly gripping the head and interfering with circulation in the scalp, as men do.

His Hot Springs Experience.

Some time ago, writes C. T., you answered an inquiry about the Wassermann blood test from a correspondent who stated he had been under treatment two years. Is it really necessary to be treated that long for syphilis? Last fall I had two months' treatment at Hot Springs and the doctor there pronounced me cured. I had no Wassermann test. Now, after four months, I find I am not cured.

REPLY—Makes no difference where, or by whom, or by what you are treated, Wassermann test, or no test, it is impossible to pronounce a case of syphilis cured inside of two years. The pronunciamento, in your case, speaks for itself. Better give the family doctor a chance. This disease is so very common that every competent physician has all the known methods at his command. Geography scarcely enters into the question of efficient treatment.

Gastritis With Hyperacidity.

Kindly explain, asks O. W., what hyperacidity gastritis is, its cause, effect, and whether it is curable. Is atropine sulphate 1-300 grain tablet before each meal good for the heart? What heart trouble requires such treatment?

REPLY—Gastritis means inflammation of the stomach, and does not refer to "gas." Hyperacidity means an excess of the hydrochloric acid naturally present in gastric juice, as determined by chemical examination after a test meal. It may be functional, or it may indicate ulcer, or gallstones, or appendicitis of chronic character. Atropine is used for certain disturbances of heart rhythm.

To Be Held as Hostages.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 5.—Mrs. J. P. Morgan and the Morgan children were to be held as hostages in their own home and killed with dynamite if J. P. Morgan refused to use his influence to stop the exportation of war munitions, Frank Holt, who Saturday attempted to assassinate Mr. Morgan at his home near here, told Police Commissioner Arthur Woods in his cell at Mineola yesterday. Holt said his plans miscarried; that he planned to send Mr. Morgan out to stop the exportation of munitions while he held the other members of the family in an upstairs room.

Neither Mr. Morgan nor members of his family were told of the startling statement made by Holt to Commissioner Woods. The Morgan home was closely guarded Sunday, the force of armed men surrounding the estate being doubled as the day wore on and all suspicious looking persons were kept at a distance. Every incoming train was watched.

Not more than a dozen visitors were received at the Morgan home. Mrs. Morgan remained at the bedside of her husband.

Placed Bomb in Capitol.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 5.—Frank Holt, a former Cornell university instructor, who attempted to assassinate J. P. Morgan, confessed last night that he was the man who set the bomb which exploded in the United States capitol at Washington Friday night.

Holt, by his confession, and the detailed description of the bomb he used in the capitol outrage, stamped himself as an expert on the use of explosives, the police assert.

In a statement made to Justice Luyster and Thomas Tunney, head of the bomb and anarchist squad of the New York city detective bureau, Holt confessed setting the bomb and described it in detail. "As a missile of terror, it was said to be unique in the annals of the New York police department.

"I made this bomb," Holt is quoted as having said in his confession, "with three sticks of dynamite, some match heads and a bottle of sulphuric acid."

"Pretty slick," continued Captain Tunney. "I don't see how you did it."

Experimented Before.

"Well, you see," Holt answered, his eyes brightening, "I had experimented on it before. Not once, you know, but many times. I knew just what I was doing and just how to do it. I really didn't take any chances, for all my observations had been checked up and I knew when the bomb would go off, almost to the minute. In fact, I waited until I heard it go off. Then I hurried away as fast as I could and caught the train for New York. I didn't have much time, so I had to hurry."

"How did you make the bomb?" he was asked.

"Well," he answered, "I took three sticks of dynamite and bound them together. Then I took my knife and hollowed out a place in one of the sticks. When I had cleaned it out deep enough I put some match heads into the hole—three or four, I don't know exactly how many.

Timed the Acid.

"When the match heads were put in the hole I took a little bottle of sulphuric acid out of my pocket and put a regular cork in the neck. I turned the bottle upside down and fastened the cork in the hole in the dynamite, just above the match heads. You see I had timed the sulphuric acid in my tests before and I knew just how long it would take to eat through the cork and get to the match heads. When the acid reached the match heads, it set them on fire, and caused the explosion.

"There was no guess work about it. I knew how much time I had, so I hung around while the acid was eating its way through the cork. I pulled out my watch and said to myself that it ought to be going pretty soon. And, sure enough, it did go pretty soon. Then I hurried away."

Holt's confession of the capitol outrage came fast on the heels of his denial to newspapermen of the same charge. Reporters told him the story from Washington, calling his attention to the marked similarity in the language used by him in his statement today and that of the writer of the letter relating to the bomb in Washington.

Business of Morgan & Co.

New York, July 5.—In explanation of the part the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. has taken in the furnishing of war munitions and supplies for the European nations at war, it was stated authoritatively here last night that the firm had handled contracts amounting to more than $500,000,000 for the account of foreign governments since the war began.

Of this amount about $400,000,000 worth has been purchased for the British government since the Morgan firm was appointed as agents for that government in this country and $50,000,000 worth for the French government, contracted for within the last month, the Morgan firm having been appointed by the French government to act in the same capacity as it does for the British government. About $150,000,000 worth of war supplies were purchased for the British government in this country during the early months of the war, which the Morgan firm had placed in part. About one-half of the total amount contracted for in this country represents contracts for ammunition, shells, powder and the like, but of the whole amount of ammunition contracted for only a small part, it was stated, had been forwarded to the purchasers. The remainder is now being manufactured.

This explanation was given to correct the impression that the large purchases of war supplies had been responsible for the fall on the foreign exchange. The low quotations were due, it was stated, to the enormous purchases in this country of grain and foodstuffs.

WILL LAUGH FOR TITTERING PRIZE

Salesmen in Unusual Contest at Grocers' Picnic This Month.

Several unusual events of interest will comprise the program that has been arranged for the grocer's picnic, to be held in Lester Park on July 17.

One of the decided features of the affair will be the laughing contest. In it about twenty of the city salesmen will compete for the honor of being the best laugher. It is expected that not alone will the score of salesmen be laughing—it will undoubtedly produce a like effect with the several thousands of persons that are expected to be in attendance, as laughing is said to be contagious.

The picnic, according to George M. Peterson, secretary, will be an all-day affair, the big program starting at 2 o'clock. There will be a ladies' whistling contest and a girls' singing contest, in both of which the volume will count for the prize. Prizes will be given for the best bread. Two boys' races, one barefoot and the other with shoes on will be held. Other events will be a fat men's race; a grocers' wives' walking contest; a women's clothes pin contest; a married women's race; a 100-yard dash for grocers; a 100-yard dash for any one; and a 100-yard dash for grocers' clerks; a drawing contest for wives of the board of directors; a women's ball throwing contest; a 50-yard dash for girls; pie eating contests and a cracker eating contest. Special prizes will be given for the oldest married couple on the grounds, and for the handsomest and homeliest grocers present. A baseball game will be held between the retail grocers and the commission men, and a dance at night will conclude the festivities.

For Sunburn

Do you remember the pain and how your skin peeled off when the sun burned you up on that outing trip last summer?

You can avoid all that this year by taking along a jar of Benetol Ointment.

Use it liberally on face, hands, arms, or any part that is exposed to the sun.

To prevent burning use this ointment before you go out for the day. It won't show if you rub it in well and then dust over with a talcum powder.

If you have already burned before you take these steps to prevent it, use Benetol Ointment freely and it will almost instantly take away all the pain and inflammation.

For a severe burn bathe the spot with Benetol (liquid) either diluted or full strength. Read and be guided by the directions.

No known remedy will relieve the pain and so quickly heal burns, as Benetol.

It has many other uses. Keep a bottle at hand.

Samples free upon request direct to The Benetol Co., 130 Benetol building, Minneapolis, Minn.

Sold, recommended and guaranteed in Duluth by all druggists and leading drug stores everywhere.

PROTEST ARMS EXPORT.

German-Americans of Duluth Will Hold Meeting.

A formal protest against the shipment of arms and ammunition from America to belligerents may be made at the meeting of the Deutsche-Amerikanischer bund at Gonska's hall, 431 East Fourth street, next Sunday.

Detroit Germans started the movement and are endeavoring to create a nation-wide sentiment with the view of having the president call an extra session of congress for the purpose of passing an act placing an embargo on arms and munitions. Several Austro-Hungarian societies are also supporting the movement.

A. L. Braun, vice president of the bund, stated that he expected Duluth Germans to follow the course which had been laid out by their Detroit countrymen.

"I favor a protest on moral grounds," said P. S. Anneke, "but local societies should go no further than that."

MUNITIONS ON GERMAN LINER

Many War Supplies on Boat Confiscated By Italians.

London, July 5.—The cargo of the German liner Bayern which was confiscated lately at Naples, includes half a million revolvers, 100,000 rifles, 200,000 cases of ammunition, four aeroplanes, 14 field guns and two complete wireless stations, according to the Rome correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company.

The Bayern's cargo was unloaded by the Italian authorities on June 11. The steamer had been interned since August and the war munitions were found hidden under merchandise, it was stated.

TO AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

During the last few weeks there have been many collisions and near collisions between street cars and automobiles.

Fortunately these have not been attended with any serious results.

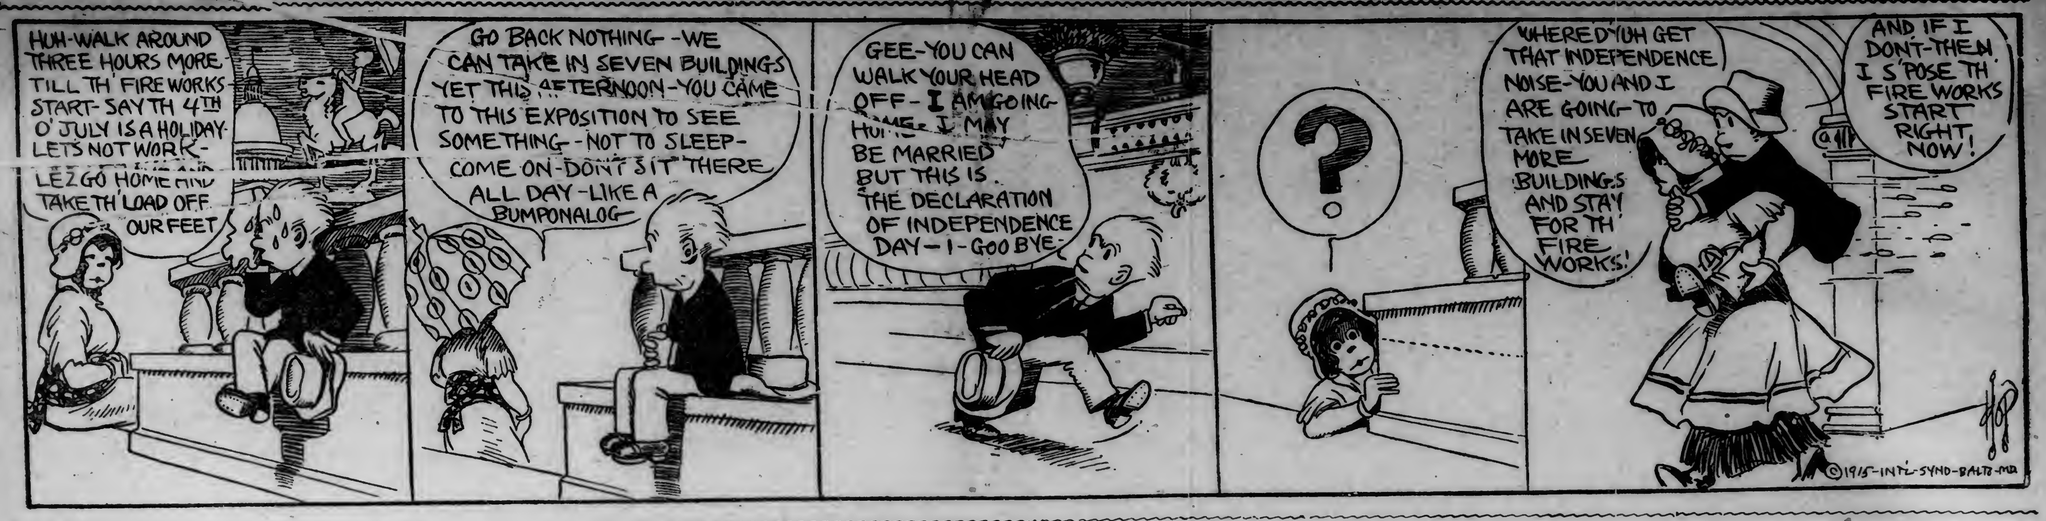

Most of these collisons have been between street cars and automobiles crossing the track on steep avenues. Our motormen are warned to keep a sharp lookout for automobiles at such intersections, but at many corners their view is obstructed until they reach the corner.

Again, there are cases where an auto may be hidden from the motorman by a low obstruction, like a fence, billboard or bushes, but where the larger and higher street car is visible to the automobile driver. Remember the motorman may not always be able to see your automobile when you can see the upper part of his car.

We would respectfully ask automobile drivers to use great care in driving across streets where there are car lines. Slowing up when approaching the street would prevent many collisions. Remember that a STREET CAR CAN'T DODGE. When a motorman is suddenly confronted with the possibility of a collision, he can only go ahead or stop. He cannot change direction. Our streets are becoming so congested that the number of collisions is showing a decided increase, and unless greater care is exercised fatal accidents are very likely to occur. We will try to do our share. Will you do yours?

LONE TRAPPER IS MURDERED

Body Found Shot to Pieces and Decomposing in Wilds of Ontario.

One of Men Making Discovery Drowns Getting Out to Civilization.

Fort Frances, Ont., July 5—A tragedy of the Lost Mountain Lake country was brought to civilization when William Salt, a trapper living on Patton lake, fifty miles east of Mine Center, came into Mathieu and told of the finding of the body of Harry S. Brown, riddled to death with bullets, in Brown's cabin.

Salt and Tony Ross, another trapper, started for Fort Frances recently to visit Salt's brother, ignorant of the fact that the latter had been drowned. As they came this way from the woods they stopped at the cabin of Harry S. Brown in the Lost Mountain Lake country and were horrified to find Brown's body doubled up in a corner in a bad state of decomposition, death having resulted from several bullet wounds. There were plenty of evidences of a struggle. That robbery was not the motive was evident, as there was money in the dead man's clothes.

Companion Drowned.

The two men at once withdrew and started for Mathieu Siding, and while crossing Whitefish lake a squall upset the canoe, and Ross was drowned. Salt managed to get to shore, and making his way to a tote road of the lumber company, came out at Mathieu Siding. He at once notified the authorities, and Provincial Constable Campbell was sent to investigate. This he did, taking Salt back with him and another assistant. Reaching Whitefish lake Salt's canoe with paddle and a packsack were found on the shore. Proceeding on they arrived at Brown's cabin on Lost Mountain lake, where the gruesome sight of a lone tragedy was only too evident.

Disgusting Spectacle.

In describing the awful find Constable Campbell said: "We entered the cabin, first pulling the staple which held the padlock, and a terrible smell of decayed flesh greeted us. An upturned table and chairs with revolver cartridges on the floor. A long trail of blood across the floor and the huddled-up body of Brown decomposed almost beyond recognition under a pile of sacks showed evidences of a violent murder. A bottle of whisky almost intact and a loaded rifle in one corner belonging to Brown had been left, also a sum of money in Brown's clothes, which showed that robbery was not the motive. Several bullet holes in the clothes showed only to plain the cause of death, but the condition of the cabin indicated that a terrific struggle had taken place."

The body was sewn up in an oilcloth and the several articles bearing on the tragedy brought here, taking three days over portages, across lakes and down river and rapids to Mine Center. While on the way down a search was made at Whitefish lake for the body of Tony Ross, but no trace of it was found. Ross is said to be an American from Stevens Point, Wis.

Coroner to Investigate.

Dr. Moore, the coroner, empanelled a jury to review the remains and adjourned the inquest until July 9, to await the result of a post mortem examination by Dr. Johnston.

William Salt is in town and seems to be pretty well shaken up by his experience. Brown's death is a mystery, as it is not known who shot him, or when. The last he was seen alive was by some lumbermen in February last. It is not known whether he has any relatives, but he was born in 1871 near Heron, Ont., near the Soo.

MOORHEAD MAN AGAIN PRESIDENT OF R. R. D. A.

LESLIE WELTER.

Moorhead, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a recent meeting of the Minnesota Red River Development association held at Crookston Leslie Welter, a well known business man of this city, was re-elected president of the association.

RURAL PROBLEMS TO BE DISCUSSED

Country Life Conference to Be Held at St. Paul This Month.

University Farm, St. Paul, Minn., July 5.—At the rural life conference to be held here at University Farm, July 27 to 30, rural workers of all classes will get together for a discussion of problems of vital interest to people of the open country.

Dean A. F. Woods of the College of Agriculture, will welcome visitors and review the general trend of the country life movement. Rev. Mr. C. O. Bemies of McClellandtown will lead a round table on rural education problems. In the afternoon Rev. Mr. E. C. Hickman, a successful rural pastor of Byron, Minn., will present rural church problems. Following this will be a discussion of rural recreation by D. D. Mayne, principal of the Minnesota school of agriculture. In the evening Rev. Mr. Bemies will deliver an address entitled "How One Community Found Itself."

The programs for the other days of the week are just as full as that for the first day. The whole round of country life will be thoroughly discussed, the aim being to get at means of making country life relatively as profitable, useful, and enjoyable as city life may be.

The total expense of the stay at University Farm, including board and room on the campus, need not exceed $5. Those planning to attend should communicate early with Dean A. F. Woods, University Farm.

WILL ADVERTISE CLOVERLAND MORE

Upper Peninsula Development Association Going After Settlers.

Houghton, Mich., July 5.—The necessity of advertising Cloverland in a broader manner to reach people who are searching for homes and the need for more co-operation among the business men and citizens of the Upper Peninsula was the keynote of addresses at the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development association, just held here.

Possessed of facts that substantiate the claims of the bureau, the delegates were keen to appreciate the remarks of the speakers and various methods suggested during the course of the session doubtless will become realities.

Those who made addresses were Rev. Father Barth of Escanaba, Roger M. Andrews of Menominee, Jason Woodward of Paw Paw, General Manager W. W. Walker of the D., S. S. & A. railroad, company agent J. M. Longyear of Marquette and A. E. Petermann of Calumet. The Imperial quartet rendered several selections.

Menominee Man President.

George W. McCormick of Menominee will head the Upper Peninsula Development association during the coming year, being the choice of the delegates. Thornton A. Green of Ontonagon, retiring president, and Senator Alton T. Roberts of Marquette were named vice presidents. H. W. Read of Menominee will serve as treasurer and Col. C. W. Mott was renamed as secretary-manager and will have charge of active campaign work for another year.

Roger M. Andrews suggested Manitou and Grand Island for the next meeting and this was referred to the executive committee with the understanding it will consider it favorably.

ST. PAUL SLEUTH IS FOUND GUILTY

Convicted in Fargo Federal Court of Violating Mann Act.

Fargo, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Convicted of violation of the Mann act Albert Gillette will be sentenced this week in the Federal court.

He is said to represent a St. Paul detective agency and was sent to Traill county for the purpose of securing evidence against some women at Galesburg for the authorities at Hillsboro. He took one of the girls to Minnesota on a trip. Later when he gave his testimony, his trip was reported to the Federal authorities. There were three cases at the recent term of court, two men and a woman, all were convicted. The woman, who was charged with taking a young girl to various cities of the country, was sent to prison for fifteen months.

THE BUILDING OF TANKS FOR WATER

Crookston Farm School Professor Gives Farmers Pointers.

Crookston, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. T. R. Sewall of the Crookston school of agriculture has prepared a timely article on concrete water tanks which is of interest to many who are planning on permanent farm improvements.

The first requisite is to select sand and gravel very carefully. This is necessary to obtain the best results in all concrete work. The use of dirty material or fine sand will not make a strong or waterproof concrete. The sand should be clean and sharp, containing no more than 3 or 4 per cent of clay; sand that contains more than this should be washed. Gravel should be clean and not larger than one inch in diameter.

A good mixture of concrete for tanks may be made of one part of Portland cement, two parts of clean, coarse sand and three parts of screened gravel. For small tanks, the gravel should not be larger than three-quarters of an inch.

Thoroughly Mixed Dry.

The cement, sand and gravel should be thoroughly mixed dry by turning with a shovel or hoe. Water should be added a little at a time, to a mushy consistency, care being taken not to get the mixture too wet or sloppy. If too much water is used and the forms are not tight, a part of the cement will leak out with the water and the concrete will be weakened.

In the making of a large tank or one that is going to be moved from place to place, reinforcing material should be used. Iron rods or wire mesh make the most satisfactory reinforcing. Old wagon tires, pieces of strap iron, etc., are often used with satisfactory results in place of new rods. It is important that the wall reinforcing be made continuous around the corners.

The tank, if a large one, should rest, preferably, on its own foundation, and should have a concrete floor surrounding it. This floor keeps the tank more sanitary and also keeps the water which the stock spills from making mud holes around the tank and undermining it.

HALLOCK JAIL FULL.

Many Foreigners Who Entered From Canada Detained.

Hallock, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Kittson county jail here is full of Europeans who stole across the Canadian border presumably to escape being interned in Canada during the war. United States Immigration Inspector O. B. Holton rounded up twenty-eight last week and will take them all back to the boundary and turn them over to the Canadian authorities.

URGE FARMERS' LOBBY.

Flickertail Soil Tillers Advised to Watch Lawmakers.

Langdon, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers of the state are being appealed to through several statewide organizations to plan for the maintenance of a big lobby at Bismarck during the next session of the state legislature.

Declaring that bankers, lawyers, doctors, business men and various associations maintain lobbies at Bismarck to look after their interests, the prime movers in the farmers' lobby campaign contend that the agricultural interests, the greatest in the state, should be ably represented.

The matter was laid before the Cavalier County Federation of Farmers' Clubs here, but no definite action was taken.

FARM BOYS CAMP AT LANGDON, N. D.

Langdon, N. D., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The encampment of the Cavalier county farm boys is to be held here this week. About 100 will be in attendance, coming from every township in the county. The boys will camp at the fair grounds and there will be a general mess tent. The program will provide for a number of prominent speakers on agriculture and livestock and there will be ample amusement and entertainment for the youngsters.

IRONWOOD PERSONALS.

Hibbing Couple Are Visiting in the Michigan City.

Ironwood, Mich., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Bryant of Hibbing, Minn., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Paull.

Miss Mae Weight has returned from a two weeks' visit with relatives at Rockland.

William Bowden has returned from Rochester, Minn., where he received treatment for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan and daughter of Butte, Mont., are visiting Mr. Sullivan's sister, Mrs. William Meade.

Carl Baker has gone to Virginia, Minn., for an extended visit with relatives.

Miss Doris Chisholm has gone to Jackson, Mich., to visit Miss Marie Root.

Miss Elizabeth Josephson is at Memphis, Tenn., visiting for a few days before returning to her work at New Orleans, La.

Miss Florence Best has returned home from Lake Forest, Ill., where she attended Ferry Hall.

Edwin Higgins left last week for Pittsburgh, Pa., on a business mission for the bureau of mines. He will go to Joplin, Mo., before returning here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Meyers left Friday for La Crosse, Wis., to spend the Fourth.

Firecracker Victim.

Fairfax, Minn., July 5.—Wyzetta Margaret Caven, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Caven, Fairfax, while shooting firecrackers, was burned so severely that she died.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Bismarck, N. D.—General orders have been issued from the state adjutant general's office to the various military organizations composing the North Dakota National guard, for the annual state encampment at Devils Lake July 9 to 18.

Mandan, N. D.—Joseph M. Devine, ex-governor of North Dakota, has assumed control of the state reform school here. Vice Supt. J. W. Brown resigned. Mr. Devine automatically lost his job as secretary of the state normal school board, when the educational institutions passed under control of the board of regents.

Fargo, N. D.—In the awards for building the new school at Poplar, Mont., the Meinecke Building company of Fargo was awarded the contract for the construction of the building, their bid being for Hebron brick, $28,738 and for Twin City brick, $29,708. T. P. Riley was awarded the plumbing, heating and ventilation contract at a price of $6,511.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A letter received from Winnipeg states that B. W. Lattimer, who had charge of the local curling rink last winter, has joined the British army. At present he is in the military training camp just outside of Winnipeg.

Sheldon, N. D.—The reunion of a 4-year-old boy and a frantic mother, who thought the baby had been kidnaped, was a feature of the recent entertainment here. The woman was the wife of a farmer in this county. She missed the child on the street and began a search.

Bisbee, N. D.—The winter rye crop in this section may be a complete failure, the result of the early June frosts. Until recently, it was believed that the crop would revive, but even with the very good weather conditions prevailing, the growing grain failed to come back.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The report of Police Magistrate J. R. Church for the month of June shows that thirty-two drunks, one automobile speeder and several men charged with disorderly conduct had been arrested during that period. The police magistrate collected a total of $103 in fines in June.

Devils Lake, N. D.—That Peter G. Moscripp, son of Mrs. P. M. Poole of this city, was shot by a bullet from across the Rio Grande, is the opinion of P. M. Poole, who with his wife left for Tipton, Iowa, to meet the remains of the boy being shipped from Fort Douglas, Ariz.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—Mrs. Jacob Gottliebson of Houghton, one of the directors of the Jewish Consumptives' Relief society, has received orders to open a Copper country branch and organize a society here.

Hancock—Miss Tillie Grekila, deputy city treasurer, has returned from a visit with friends in Duluth, Hibbing and Virginia, Minn., and resumed her duties in the city treasurer's office.

L'Anse—James A. Green, assistant attorney general, has left for Lansing after completing the investigation of a complaint that Sheriff Pennock and Prosecuting Attorney Brennan had not done their duty in investigating charges that liquor was being sold to Indians. Mr. Green stated that he was satisfied that there was nothing to the charges, and that the men were doing their duty.

Calumet—The annual camp of the Calumet Y. M. C. A. boys at Grand Marais, near Eagle Harbor, will be held from Aug 3 to 17, Secretary E. B. Switzer announces.

Houghton — The stave mill being erected by C. F. Hancock at Arnheim will begin operating Aug. 1, the intervening time being spent in installing equipment. The mill proper, kilns and quarters for the employes have been erected, and a boiler house is in course of construction, the building to be completed by July 15. The capacity of the plant will be 25,000 staves per day.

Calumet—The funeral of the late Guy Edwards was held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, with services at the Sacred Heart church. The remains lay in state at the home of the decedent's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edwards of Yellow Jacket.

Marquette—E. F. Douglas of Berglund is in St. Mary's hospital with a dislocated vertebra, a broken arm, an injured head, and several other bruises which he sustained when he slipped and fell under some logs while fishing on a skidway in the river near Berglund.

Negaunee—Hans Appleberg of Palmer, who was the lowest bidder for carrying the mail between Negaunee and Palmer, has purchased a touring car, and commenced service on the mail route. Mr. Appleberg will also carry pasengers on the different runs.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Green Bay—Amos Baird, an Oneida Indian was killed when a team he was driving ran away. His neck was broken.

Milwaukee—Mayor G. A. Bading appointed Adolph Finkler a member of the governing board of the Milwaukee Foundation. The foundation was established by the Wisconsin Trust company to administer funds given for charity.

Washburn—The Washburn strawberry season has arrived and home grown berries are on the market.

Ashland—The Ashland city band of twenty pieces has been organized under the leadership of Claude Talaska. The band opens its season Monday in the Fourth of July celebration, furnishing music all day and giving a concert at night.

Bayfield—Attorney Henderson of Washington, D. C., was here last week taking testimony from a number of Indians who had been rejected on the Odanah roll.

Washburn—Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh and daughter Elizabeth have returned from Washington, D. C. Mr. Walsh recently underwent a serious operation and he has come home to recuperate his health.

Kenosha—Eugene Belfonte, 4 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Belfonte, was found dead in the family home here. The child had been in good health when the mother put it to bed the night before.

Milwaukee—Notwithstanding the disastrous effect the European war has had on the mail service of this country, the Milwaukee postoffice realized $1,990,514.52 in receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30. This is an increase of $89,707.81 over the receipts of last year.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Mankato—One of the largest farm transfers ever recorded in the county has just taken place, J. C. Mundle of Calhoun county, Iowa, disposing of 640 acres in Lincoln township to J. K. Lemon and A. V. Everett of this county for $51,000.

Thief River Falls—The Commercial club and the automobile club have decided to unite to secure the enforcement of the road dragging provisions of the Dunn law in this county. There are about $3,800 available for road work in Pennington county this year.

Roseau—Since July 1 local people have been able to telephone over either the Northwestern or Tri-State lines from their business or residence 'phones.

Pine City—There are twenty-eight Pine county teachers in attendance at the University farm school, the second largest number of any county represented at this school.

International Falls—Thomas Godin is now carrying the Loman mail. Jesse Kennedy, who has carried the route for several years continues his passenger and freight service on the same schedule as heretofore.

Red Lake Falls—L. A. Dusterhoft, who has the contract for building the new grandstand at the fair grounds, has the job nearly completed.

Pine River—Representative E. R. Hinds and James Wilkins of Park Rapids were here consulting with A. W. Moulster in regard to the possibility and cost of a state road to connect with a Hubbard county road, giving a more direct route to the cities by way of Pine River and Brainerd.

Foley—Mrs. Mary Mushel, age 97, wife of the late Thomas Mushel, and mother of the late Stanley Mushel, died June 30, the immediate cause being the shock, coupled incidentally with old age. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Frank Cywinski of Chicago, who had been summoned by the death of her brother here. The funeral services were held at St. John's Catholic church Saturday.

Ada—The sluiceway leading from the Wild Rice river into the lake a few miles east of Ada came very near going out during the high water last week. A gang of men watched it continually.

Fosston—T. T. Juve has taken charge of the mail business on Queen star route, succeeding Ira Jacobs, who retires to his farm near Theodore.

Wahkon—The members of Mille Lacs Lake lodge No. 57, I. O. O. F., are considering an invitation to join with their brethren from Mora, Milaca and Onamia in a union picnic at Cove or Isle at an early date.

St. Hilaire—The semi-annual meeting of the Thief River circuit of the Norwegian Synod church was held in this village last week. Representatives from a score or more Synod churches throughout this section of the state and a number of guests and visiting pastors were present.

Mamnomen—A carelessly shot skyrocket went through the upper front windows of Ed Waldun's dry goods store. Some damage was done to the goods inside and it took quick work to prevent a conflagration.

Kelliher—Chris Lampinen, wife and two children came here until the water got out of his house. The river in that neighborhood was half a mile wide. He had to build a platform as high as a table in his living room to keep out of the water and to sit and sleep on.

East Grand Forks—Joseph Vanyo of Northland township received a patent on a car door lock from the patent office in Washington.

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my housework now, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES ROWE, R. F. D., No. 1, Hebron, Maine.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter wil be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FINE WEATHER ON THE RANGE

Celebrations at Virginia, Hibbing and Other Points in Full Blast.

Thousands Sing "America" at Virginia Following Immense Parade.

Virginia, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ideal weather favored the Independence day celebration here and at other range points today.

A two-mile long parade opened the day's festivities.

H. J. Eaton and C. E. Harris were among the war veterans in the line of march. Following the parade 10,000 people sang "America" and "Star Spangled Banner" at the bandstand.

Morning and afternoon games between the Virginia and Fort William Northern league teams attracted large crowds.

Julius Schmahl Speaks.

Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, delivered the address of the day. The Grand Rapids fife and drum corps pleased many. Music was furnished by the City, Finnish and Mohami bands.

Range and north country points are represented at the local celebration.

Hibbing Parade Marvel.

Hibbing, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big parade here starting at 9 o'clock this morning was one of the greatest affairs of the kind ever seen in Hibbing.

It comprised floats, decorated autos, various fraternal societies, 200 school children carrying a flag sixty feet in length and twenty-five feet in width.

The parade was headed by Chief of Police Dwyer and Fire Chief McIlhargey, the school band in a float, decorated autos, decorated industrial and comic floats following. The civic section was after the floats. The Hibbing Concert band, the National Guard, escorting colors, come next. School children carrying the largest flag in the United States formed the next section of the parade. Fraternal organizations, embracing the Elks, Moose and Knights of Columbus, brought up the rear of the parade. The society making the best showing will be given a valuable loving cup.

The Line of March.

The line of march was along Pine street to Third avenue, down to the Missabe depot, up to the Washington school on Second avenue. The Americanization ceremonies were conducted at the Washington school. C. C. Alexander, superintendent of schools, read the Declaration of Independence." Judge Martin Hughes delivered the principal address. U. G. Holloway, deputy clerk of district court, administered the oath of allegiance.

Children's sport events began immediately after the parade. Refreshments were served the children at the Washington school on the opposite side the grounds on which the Americanization ceremonies were held. After this athletic contests were held. Following the parade children 16 years of age vied for sport honors at the ball park.

The big athletic program was featured by a three-mile marathon. A ball game between Chisholm and Hibbing will take place at 4:30 o'clock.

In the evening the fire department will make a run. A pyrotechnic display will be given at the foot of Third avenue. Members of the ball club will stage a dance at the county fair pavilion.

MAKING PROGRESS ON WATER SYSTEM

Hibbing, July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rapid progress has been made during the last two weeks on the new water system, which will give Hibbing a water supply of 3,000,000 gallons daily.

O. J. Ogran, superintendent of the Layne & Bowler company which has the contract has already developed four wells with a total output of more than 2,500,000 gallons per day. The fifth well, which shows a better formation than any of the other four, is now under development and in order to insure an abundant water supply. Mr. Ogran is making tests for the sixth well.

All these wells are equipped with the Layne & Bowler punip, said to be the most satisfactory for permanent work.

Building Big Reservoir.

R. J. Morehouse, construction engineer, has already started the work on the 1,000,000-gallon reservoir which is to be constructed at the same place. The E. W. Coons company has the contract for the construction of the reservoir.

The water tower, which has a capacity of 300,000 gallons, has been completed for some time and will be tested this week. Water mains connecting the reservoir, with the tower, which is constructed between Hibbing and Alice, will be laid by E. W. Coons company which has already done a considerable portion of this work.

A steam shovel is being used in excavating for the reservoir. This work, it is expected, will be completed by the end of this week.

IRON RANGE ROAD SHIPPING HEAVILY

Two Harbors, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ore business on the Iron Range road continues to be very brisk, as shown by the dock agents' report of shipments for the month of June. There were 1,244,026 tons of ore shipped down the lakes from the local ore docks last month, a substantial increase over the month of May. The shipments for June, 1915, were larger than those of June, 191, when just a little over 1,000,000 tons were shipped. This year to date the Iron Range road has shipped 2,490,248 tons of ore against only 1,767,689 tons for the same period last year.

The indications are that business will continue to be heavy until the end of the season, with a possible chance for an increase as the summer advances.

An average of about twenty-six crews are kept busy daily hauling the ore from the various mines to this city. The boats are coming regularly. Ten of them were loaded yesterday at the docks.

Boats Loaded at Two Harbors.

The following boats were recently loaded here.

Thursday, June 24—Fulton, Black, Pathfinder, Constitution, Joseph Wood and Victory.

Friday, June 25—Maunoloa, Sir William Siemens, Midland Prince, Lynch, Lehigh and Weidner.

Saturday, June 26—Corrigan, Canopus, Odanah, Lupus, Malleton, Schiller and Frick.

Sunday, June 27—W. A. Rogers, Ericson and barge Marcia.

Monday, June 28—Adriatic, Murphy, Matsafa, Baker, Watt, and barges Nasmyth, Manda and Manila.

Tuesday, June 29—James Olcott, Amasa Stone, Trimble, Alexander McDougal and Bunsen.

Wednesday, June 30—Norway, Bessemen, Thomas Taurus and W. D. Crawford.

Thursday, July 1—Caurus.

Friday, July 2—Indus, Venus, A. E. Nettleton, Coralia, Jacob T. Krupp, Ball Bros., P. O. Mills, Venona, Perkins and barge John Smeaton.

The Percival Roberts, Jr., arrived Friday with a cargo of coal and was unloaded at the local coal docks.

ITASCA LAND SALES.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the next sale of state lands which will be held in Itasca county, July 19, the state will offer for sale three forties of land in section 30, 54-24, upon which the state reclamation board cleared about twenty acres per forty, and built camps which were used while the clearing was being done. The lands are well located, about ten miles from Grand Rapids, in a splendid neighborhood, on a good graded road not too far from schools, and there is land adjacent which can be bought so that a good-sized farm, including one of the improved forties, would not cost too much. The improved forties are appraised at around $25 per acre.

ITASCA COUNTY'S FAIR WILL BE DISCUSSED

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Saturday there will be a public meeting of those interested in Itasca county fair matters to discuss the holding of the fair here Sept. 22, 23 and 24.

The meeting will be held at the village hall at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The final touches will be put on the premium list, and committees will be appointed to look after various parts of the fair work.

LAKE COUNTY STREAMS ARE BEING RESTOCKED

Two Harbors, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Two Harbors Rod and Gun club received several dozen cans of trout fry Saturday from the state fish hatcheries. The fish were planted in Stewart, Sliver, Encampment and the Gooseberry rivers. The fish in several of the nearby streams are being thinned out and the Two Harbors Rod and Gun club is making an effort to restock them.

ENGINEERS' CLUB TO MEET AT CHISHOLM

Chisholm, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Engineers club of Northern Minnesota will meet at the Chisholm public library next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. J. F. Wolf will talk on "The Structure of Mesaba Range Ore Bodies."

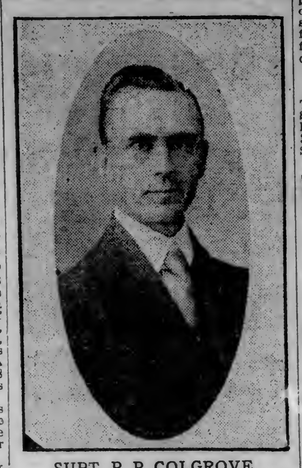

B. E. Charlton is secretary-treasurer of the organization and F. E. Downing of the Shenango mine, is making local arrangements for the reception of the visitors. The question box, an innovation proposed at the last meeting of the club will be open for members who have questions or suggestions to bring before the assemblage.

HEARS ABOUT CHILD AFTER MANY YEARS

Ely, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Dyer, who has not seen or heard from his daughter for twelve years or since the death of his wife, has just received an announcement of his daughter's graduation from a high school. She resides with her grandparents in Texas. She is now 16 years of age. Dyer became lost in the woods during the early part of the winter and both feet were so badly frozen he had to have them amputated.

When he read the graduation announcement of his daughter he broke down and wept. Dyer will be able to leave the hospital in a couple months. He has a good education but has been unable to secure a position which he can qualify for owing to his misfortune.

VIRGINIA SCHOOL HEAD GOES TO THE EAST

SUPT. P. P. COLGROVE.

Virginia, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superintendent P. P. Colgrove of the local schools accompanied by Mrs. Colgrove and their daughter, Helen, left yesterday for Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, later passing some time at Bath, Me., where Dr. Colgrove has a sister.

OF MINNESOTA TIMBER.

Ely, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. S. Whitten, manager of the St. Croix Lumber & Manufacturing company, returned from Chicago, where he attended the Chicago speedway races. The St. Croix Lumber company and Winton, the Rainy Lake company at Virginia associated with the Hines Lumber company furnished the lumber for the massive speedway. The work was completed in forty-seven days and required 14,000,000 feet of lumber. The credit of this massive job being completed on time is due to Chris' Wiehe, secretary of the Hines Lumber company. The cost of the speedway was $1,500,000. The construction was begun on May 8 and completed in forty-seven days.

SOUGHT ON VERMILION.

Ely, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. A. O'Neil, 218 Broadway, Wilmington, Cal., is trying to locate his brother, John E. O'Neil, weight 210 pounds, height 6 feet 1 inch; slightly pitted on the face from smallpox. The last time O'Neil heard from his brother he worked at Winton or Ely. A considerable amount of money has been left to them and every effort is being made to locate "Jack."

ELY-TOWER ROAD BEING IMPROVED

Ely, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Commissioner Grant McMahon has a crew working on the Ely and Tower road straightening out some of the curves and making cut-offs to get around some of the hills. Visitors speak in glowing terms of the scenery and excellent condition of this road. One fine piece of road has been finished and another will be finished in a few days.

HIBBING MAN BURIED.

Hibbing, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Impressive funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the Italian Catholic church for Jean Ormond, aged 27, who was killed Wednesday morning while putting carbon in an arc lamp on the viaduct on North street.

Members of the Loyal Order of Moose, the Italian society, village band and Company M, all joined in the services and the procession was one of the most solemn which has taken place here. Interment was in Hibbing cemetery. Ormond is survived by a widow. He was a member of the Moose, Italian society, Company M and Hibbing Concert band.

ENTERTAIN SHELL LAKERS

Hibbing, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator John A. Healy, R. J. Burrows and J. E. Lawler, secretary of the Commercial club, met a party of Shell Lake visitors at Virginia last night. The Shell Lake Commercial club members are touring the range and are guests of the Hibbing club here today.

NASHWAUK MAN IS NEW COMMISSIONER

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Archie McWilliams, a well known business man of Nashwauk, was elected commissioner for the Fifth district to succeed Dr. John L. Shellman, also of Nashwauk, resigned, at a meeting held here of the president of the village councils and the chairmen of the town boards of Itasca county.

Mr. McWilliams is a man of experience along the lines of activity that will be required of him as a member of the county board, having served in the same capacity before, being the first commissioner from that district when the county was redistricted some years ago.

Mr McWilliams is also an experienced road man, having for many years been a successful road contractor, and his knowledge of conditions along this line will be of great value to the county.

Dr. Shellman, who has been commissioner from that district for the last five years, filed his resignation last week with County Auditor Sherman to take effect as soon as his successor was appointed.

Dr. Shellman, who has been in St. Paul for some time engaged in his profession, has decided to remain permanently in the capital city.

Pupils in Recital.

Chisholm, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pupils of the Pearle A. Sheehy Studio of Music appeared in recital at the auditorium of the library Friday evening. Miss Pearl Paulson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Paulson, was presented in Part I. of the program. Pupils from Hibbing, Buhl, Eveleth and Chisholm participated, and John D. Sheehy of Hibbing, vocalist, assisted on the program.

Ely Game Postponed.

Ely, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "Fats" and "Leans" ball game, scheduled for yesterday afternoon, was postponed until Sunday, July 18.

Longyear Official Quits.

Hibbing, Minn., July 5. — Alexander Gerry, who has been employed as superintendent of the Longyear Mining company's properties here for the past several years has resigned and has left for Duluth where he will visit friends for several days. Mr. Gerry has not decided as yet where he will locate.

Bridal Couple Home.

Chisholm, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Sapero have returned from Minneapolis, where they were married on June 30. Mrs. Sapero was Miss Annette Schaefer of Minneapolis.

WEST ENDERS ARE WINNERS

Lincoln School Captures Trophy in The Herald Relay Race.

Boys from the Lincoln school won the first annual Herald relay race this morning.

The victors completed the relay run of about four miles in 17:56 minutes, just 16 seconds ahead of the time made by the Cathedral school team.

As a result of this victory, the Lincoln school will be awarded The Herald shield, which is to be contested for on every Fourth of July by all the school teams in the city. The school winning it three times in succession, obtains pernanent possession of the trophy.

This year but two teams, the Lincoln and Cathedral, were entered in the race.

Promptly at 10:30 o'clock the boys lined up their teams at the various relay points, and at the shot of Mayor Prince, David Cameron and Donald Anderson of the Cathedral and Lincoln schools respectively started out from the city hall. Each runner carried an American flag, with his school ribbons which were handed to the succeeding runners along the route. J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, who was in charge of the race, followed the runners in an automobile.

Route of Race.

The course continued from the city hall on Superior street to Sixth avenue east, the first relay station. From this point the course continued to Twelfth avenue east and Second street, to Tenth avenue east and Fourth street, Sixth avenue east and Fourth street, Second avenue east and Fourth street, Second avenue west and Fourth street, Mesaba avenue and First street, Fifth avenue west and Superior street, First avenue west and Superior street, and back to the city hall.

The Cathedral started out in fine style, but Walter Brown, No. 3, fell down and the boys lost about a block and a half. Herman La Tendresse and Frank McIntyre caught up and succeeded in getting a lead on the Lincoln runners, but George Lagleske, No. 6 on the West end team, made a record spurt and got a safe lead that was kept until the end of the race. This spurt took place between Second avenue west and Fourth street to Mesaba avenue and First street. Magney Stortz of the Lincoln came in at the finish.

Crowds lined the entire course, while a number of automobiles followed the runners. The teams consisted of the following:

Lincoln—Donald Anderson, Russell Germeroth, Charles Walezak, Karsten Nissen, Ladislaus Budzynski, George Lagleske, Russell Anderson, Leonard Emerson, Frank Lagleske, Herbert Quade, captain; Gerald Gillett, Magney Stortz.

Cathedral—David Cameron, Willard Sauntry, Walter Brown, Herman La Tendresse, Frank McIntyre, Anton Drahurad, Raymond Kunzelman, William Cleary, Clement Tierney, captain; Raymond Keating, Theodore Harris and Arthur La Bree.

GOT WRONG "HUNCH"

Hotel Proprietor Held for Selling Property He Didn't Own.

Persian ideas of high finance do not agree with the American interpretation and consequently Sam Badal, a Persian, is under $1,000 bail awaiting trial on a charge of selling mortgaged property.

Badal was the proprietor of the Radisson hotel on Second First street, but the hotel business was on the decline, he thought, so he sold the place to Mrs. Bessie Hanson.

He overlooked the fact that he didn't own the place, and after Mrs. Hanson had counted the beds, pillow cases, sheets, mattresses and other paraphernalia, she was rudely awakened by John T. Stack, 217 East First street, who informed her that he was the owner of the hotel she had purchased.

Mrs. Hanson swore out a complaint against Badal at once and he was arrested by Chief of Detectives Frank Schulte.

Much averse to staying in jail over the Fourth, Badel insisted that police call upon his wife, when the court set his bail at $1,000.

Capt. A. G. Fiskett accordingly made a trip to the Badal home and the exhotel man's wife nonchalantly handed him two $500 bills. Badal will be given a hearing July 7.

FIRES NOT FROM CRACKERS.

Two Small Ones Demand Attention of Department in West End.

Two small fires brought out apparatus this morning, but firemen were unable to trace the origin of either one to fire crackers or any Fourth of July demonstration.

About 10 o'clock apparatus from No. 2, with Assistant Chief Granzow, made a run to 1701 West Second street. A storehouse and shed belonging to Andrew Carlson was destroyed, with a property loss of about $150, and a barn nearby belonging to Thomas Wetterlind, also was badly damaged. The Wetterlind loss amounted to $125.

Almost before the assistant chief had returned from the first blaze a call came from Sixty-fourth avenue west and Worden street brought on engine company No. 8. Property loss amounting to about $600 was sustained by John Siler and the adjoining residence, at 6412 Worden street, was scorched.

"It wasn't fireworks, because the buildings were too wet on the outside," said the assistant chief.

CROP DAMAGE SMALL

Crookston, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The weather has apparently settled, following showers Friday and Saturday, and with the wind in the northwest, minimum damage is being done because of the excessive previous rainfall, which for June, amounted to over nine inches. A careful inspection of the grain crops causes surprise that greater damage has not been done by the rains, and the only explanation is the extremely cool weather which has prevailed.

SUFFRAGE SPEECHES ON STREET CORNERS

Noted Women Workers Will Hold Afternoon and Night Meetings.

Women's suffrage in all of its phases will be discussed by speakers this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at an open air meeting to be held at the corner of Central avenue and Ramsey street. Prominent workers will give various reasons why the women should be granted the ballot, and also explain the purpose and intent of the Federal amendment, which in 1875 was first submitted by the late Susan B. Anthony.

Miss Mabel Vernon of Washington, D. C., one of the national organizers for the Progressive Union For Women's Suffrage; Miss Elsa Ueland, daughter of Mrs. Andrea Ueland of Minneapolis, who is president of the Minnesota State Suffrage association, and Mrs. Grace Hunter of Minneapolis, a prominent worker in the interest of securing the vote for women, will be the speakers.

It is expected that a big crowd will greet the women. Many West Duluth people are interested in woman's suffrage, and at one time a lively suffrage club existed in this end of the city. The women will speak again this evening at the corner of Superior street and Second avenue west.

WOUND PREVENTS ENTRY INTO WAR

Samuel Pappovick, aged 32, of 229 South Fifty-seventh avenue west, sustained a flesh wound in the left leg by the accidental discharge of a revolver, which he was packing away in his trunk yesterday afternoon. Pappovick was getting ready to go back to Europe where he intended to join the Montenegrin army.

The bullet entered the leg just below the knee and passed through the limb. Dr. D. E. Seashore was called and dressed the wound.

Pappovich has been making preparations for some time to go to his home in Europe. He intended leaving early this week and was getting some of his baggage together. He had received a revolver which he intended taking back with him. He has a wife and family living in Montenegro. Pappovich will leave for his European home as soon as his wound is healed.

EARLY MORNING FIRE DESTROYS RESIDENCE

Fire at an early hour this morning destroyed the home of John Siler, 6416 Worden street, and badly damaged the home of Mrs. Watczik, 6418 Worden street. The cause of the fire is unknown, Mr. Siler not being home at the time.

Mr. Siiler is a batchelor, who has been living alone in the place. When the fire was first discovered, and before the firemen from No. 8 station arrived, it had made big headway.

Only strenuous efforts on the part of the firemen saved the adjoining residence. The side of the house was badly scorched, and the fire had worked into the dining room of the house.

The loss at the latter place is placed at about $300, while the value of Mr. Siler's home has not been estimated.

DIES AT SANATORIUM.

Miss Elsie Haven Called After a Long Illness.

Miss Elsie Hoven, age 27, died yesterday at the Nopeming sanatorium, following an illness of several months of tuberculosis. The young woman had made her home with her brother, Chris Hoven, 315 North Fifty-second avenue west.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from Filiatrault's undertaking rooms and at 2 o'clock from Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue and Wadena street. Rev. B. L. Opdahl will officiate. Interment will be at Oneota cemetery.

Burial for Pioneer.

The funeral services for Mrs. Rose D. Filiatrault, age 76, a pioneer resident of Duluth, who died Saturday morning, was held at 9 o'clock this morning from St. James' Catholic church. Interment was made in Calvary cemetery.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mrs. F. C. Kersten, 4604 Medina street, left yesterday for a visit with relatives at Franklin, Mich. She will also visit relatives in the Twin Cities before returning home.

Miss Ellen Rennell, 431 North Fifty-third avenue west, returned yesterday from a visit with relatives at Detroit and Bay City, Mich.

Miss Bessie Frost of Chicago is a guest at the home of Mrs. William Holm, 112 North Forty-eighth avenue west.

Mrs. E. G. Olson, 5807 West Eighth street, is spending a few days visiting her sister, Mrs. A. F. Johnson at Meadowlands.

Francis Ehr and George Steiner of Aitkin, Minn., are visiting at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ehr, 617 North Fifty-sixth avenue west.

Miss Inez Brotherton, 316 North Fifty-second avenue west, who recently was operated on at the Duluth hospital, is rapidly recovering. She returned to her home yesterday.

Duluth Ahead of Most.

James H. Sullivan, who has just returned after a month's trip in the East says business conditions here are far better than in Chicago, Detroit and Grand Rapids. He says one does not have to go far to discover that Duluth is one of the best cities in America this year.

Many Coming From Chicago.

According to William H. Black of Chicago, general agent of the Chicago, Duluth & Georgian Bay Transit company, who was in Duluth Saturday, there will be hundreds of people visit Duluth this summer by way of the boats that come from the Windy City. More money is in circulation, and business conditions are much better in Chicago than they were six months ago. There are a great many Chicagoans, who still insist that there is snow in Duluth in July, and the tripe will be in the form of an educational campaign to acquaint the persons with the real facts.

Socialists Name Committeemen.

At the annual meeting of the Jewish Socialist local of Duluth Saturday night at the Foresters' hall, H. Singer and H. Ashlen were elected members of a city central committee. The latter was named financial secretary, and S. Berger was chosen for the position of recording secretary. Mayor Prince gave the picnic committee the use of Chester park for their picnic on July 11.

Asked to Send Delegates.

The management of the National Drainage congress, which will meet in San Francisco Sept. 11 to 21, has asked W. I. Prince to name ten delegates to the convention in the fair city on the dates named. Should there be ten Duluthians, who will be near the Western city on those dates, Mayor Prince would be glad to hear from them.

Clan Will "Round the Horn."

Plans for a moonlight excursion around the horn to be given under the auspices of Clan Stewart, No. 50, S. C. will be made at a meeting of the clan Wednesday evening at Foresters' hall. The excursion will be held some time this month. At last week's meeting, it was announced that the clan membership roll had reached the 500-mark as a result of a recent campaign for new members.

Y. W. C. A. to Camp.

Twenty high school girls, members of the Y. W. C. A., left this morning for their camp at Sturgeon lake. The party was in charge of Miss Edna Thatcher. About the same number of Campfire girls will leave next week for the camp under the charge of Mrs. J. T. Batchelor.

Stewart Funeral Tuesday.

The funeral service for James Stewart, who died Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. August Rissich, 322 East Tenth street, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the daughter's residence. Mr. Stewart was a pioneer resident of Duluth.

Fishermen Sally Forth.

Despite the disagreeable weather there was a great exodus of fishermen to all parts of Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin during the last few days. They were scattered to all parts of the woods, few of them going to summer resorts. A special train was run over the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific line yesterday to accommodate the many fishermen that are seeking the woods.

Mrs. MacDougall's Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Dorcas MacDougall, who died Saturday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. J. Thompson, 320 Fourth avenue west, will be held from Crawford's undertaking rooms tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Public Affairs Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club will take place tomorrow at 6:15. Quite a number of reports of committees, dealing with important matters, are scheduled to come up.

MADE NEW FOREMAN OF LETTER CARRIERS

ARCHIBALD POWERS.

Archibald Powers, for several years letter carrier at the Duluth postoffice, is the new foreman of carriers. This position was created for the purpose of checking up the work of all the carriers in the city, and Mr. Powers' appointment completed the reorganization of the office force in Duluth.

Mr. Powers was recommended by Postmaster William E. McEwen for the position after careful consideration of all employes eligible, and the promotion comes as a high honor for efficiency and conscientious service.

FIRST INJURY IS TO CHILD

Leah Jensen, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jensen, 125 North Twenty-fourth avenue west, was seriously injured about the chest, arms and hands and had her face and hair singed while whirling a "sparkler" this morning. The child at noon today was under opiates prescribed by the physician and hopes are being held out for her recovery.

The chest was badly burned and the most serious consequences may probably result from this wound, say the girl's attendants. The child with several other children, had been burning the sparklers on the street. No serious accidents from the sparklers was expected by the child's parents and a liberal supply had been given the girl.

RAINS PREVENT OPENING

Completion of Bathing Beach Delayed for Ten Days.

Because of the heavy rains Saturday and Sunday, the public bathing beach at Fairmont park was not opened this morning according to schedule.

Park Manager Cleveland announced this noon that it was impossible to complete the detailed work on account of the rains and that as a result the beach will not be opened for a week or ten days.

The pavilion was erected Friday and Mr. Cleveland expects to install the bathhouses this week.

PATROLMAN MAGNER DROPPED FROM FORCE

Suspension for Negligence Followed By Permanent Discharge.

Patrolman John Magner of the West end, who was indefinitely suspended from the force June 23 for alleged gross negligence, was discharged by Chief R. D. McKercher Saturday afternoon.

The order calling for Magner's removal came after the chief had personally investigated the charges against the patrolman, and after the facts developed in the investigation were presented to the civil service commission.

Shortly after 3 o'clock, on the morning of June 23, burglars entered a saloon at 2229 West Superior street, operated by Joe Mantaj. Police claimed that according to Magner's report, he was near the saloon at about the time it is known to have been burglarized, and that he saw a man, carrying what looked like a rifle.

The man was not questioned nor stopped by the officer, and hurrying past the nearest building, he dodged around it, into an alley, and disappeared.

The patrolman defended his conduct and has maintained his innocence since his suspension. He claims that the saloon is not on his beat, and that he was not on duty at the time the burglary took place.

"If I had made no report in this case, nothing would have been said," he stated. "I was reporting for duty nearly half an hour early, or I would have known nothing of it. The man was not near enough for me to tell whether he had a rifle, or a stick, or a broomhandle, and his actions were not suspicious."

Magner was on the force but about four months, having been appointed in March by Former Chief C. H. Troyer.

WORK BEGUN ON NORTH SHORE ROAD

Extensive Repairs Will Be Made; New Roads Planned.

Work was started Saturday on improving the North Shore road between the Lake county line and Sucker river. A crew of men, with a rock crusher, roller and traction engine will be occupied in improving this highway for the next few days according to T. H. Little, county commissioner from the Second district.

The crew is now near the Lake county line and is working west to Sucker river. Three grades of crushed rock will be used on the road.

Commissioner Little today declared that two new roads might be built this fall in his district. One was a cut-off from the Jean Duluth farm to the Palmers' stock farm. It will be a cross country road from the Lismore to the North Shore road.

The other will be a short-cut from the Woodland district to the country around Pike lake. Under the present arrangement people living in the Woodland district are obliged to come into town and take the Pike Lake road where it comes down to the boulevard drive. It is now planned to build a road from the Calvary road to the Rice Lake road and then west to the Pike Lake road.

"COME ON IN, WATER'S FINE;" "Y" SWIMMIN' POOL OPEN

"Come on in, boys, the water's fine."

Duluth youngsters are availing themselves of the opportunity of taking a free swim today at the Y. M. C. A. pool.

The tank and showers were thrown open to the boys at 11 o'clock this morning, and there was a large number on hand to take advantage of the opportunity.

Norman D. McLeod, secretary of the boys' department, said today that there would be an outdoor swim for the boys at Park Point on Wednesday. A swimming trip will be made once a week providing weather is favorable.

Representative teams of the boys' department will have a baseball game tomorrow at the playgrounds at Ninth avenue west and Third street.

The members of the boys' department will go to camp for an entire month on Aug. 2.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

State of Minnesota, State Auditor's Office.

St. Paul, June 1, 1915.

Notice is hereby given, That on July 21, 1915, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the office of the County Auditor at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable on June 1 in each year.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority.

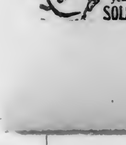

Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.

Lists giving legal descriptions of lands to be offered may be obtained of the State Auditor or the State Commissioner of Immigration at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at above address.

J. A. O. PREUS,
State Auditor.

DIFFICULTIES WITH GERMANY MAY BE INFORMALLY SOLVED BEFORE BERLIN REPLY IS SENT

MAY MODIFY CAMPAIGN OF SUBMARINES

Desire to Know Just What Would Satisfy United States.

Views of German Government Sent Informally to Washington.

This Government Has Not Yet Replied to the Dispatch.

Washington, July 6.—Indications in official quarters today are that the difficulties between the United States and Germany over submarine warfare may be solved in informal diplomatic discussion prior to the final drafting of the German reply. The seriousness of the issue between the United States and Germany has so impressed officials in Berlin that they are undertaking to learn through Ambassador Gerard, informally, exactly what modifications of the submarine campaign will satisfy the American demand for the protection of its rights without reducing the effectiveness of the submarine as a weapon against Germany's enemies.

Dispatch Received.

Secretary Lansing stated today that a dispatch had been received from Ambassador Gerard, giving informally the views of the German government on submarine warfare but this government has not replied.

While declining to discuss the contents of the dispatch Mr. Lansing let it be known that the proposals contained in it were similar to those which have already been discussed in Berlin press dispatches, indicating a desire to clarify the situation before making formal answer.

Mr. Lansing stated that there had been no exchange of views as yet and that no negotiations had been entered into by the American government. Mr. Gerard's dispatch has been transmit-

FRENCH RUSH WITH GOLD TO BUY NOTES

Six Tellers Kept Busy Receiving Private Hoards for War Certificates.

Paris, July 6.—The Bank of France has been compelled to designate six receiving tellers to take the gold offered in exchange for notes in consequence of the invitation to the public to turn in its private hoards of gold so as to strengthen the national reserve.

Long lines of persons waited in front of the institution all day yesterday and were again there today. The largest sum exchanged was 85,000 francs ($17,000), the smallest 10 francs. The usual amounts were 1,000 or 2,000 francs.

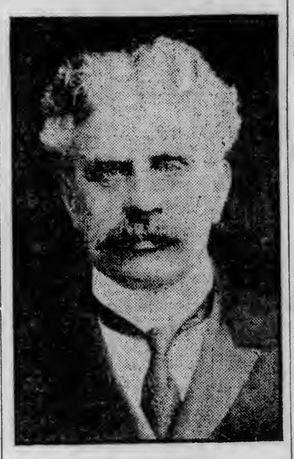

The certificates given for the gold bore an inscription stating that the exchange was made for "national defense."

RUSSIANS MAKE AN APOLOGY TO SWEDEN

London, July 6.—The Russian government has apologized to Sweden for the violation of the latter's neutrality by the fact that a stray shell "accidentally fell within Swedish waters owing to a fog during the pursuit of German vessels," says a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd.

THAW'S WIFE ARRIVES IN NEW YORK; DECLARES SHE WILL NOT TESTIFY

CANADIAN PREMIER WHO IS PASSENGER ON THE ADRIATIC

R. L. BORDEN.

Report coming from the other side that the Germans were lying in wait to torpedo the Adriatic has caused much apprehension to the friends of R. L. Borden, the Canadian premier who sailed on that ship. The Adriatic sailed from New York last Wednesday.

Answers Subpoena But Will Stand on Constitutional Rights.

Attorney Will Ask Court to Direct Her to Testify.

Woman Buys Ticket Back to Camp in Readiness to Leave.

New York, July 6.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, summoned by the state to testify against Harry K. Thaw, her husband, in the jury proceedings to determine his mental condition, reached New York today from her camp at Chateaugeay Lake, near Malone, N. Y., and announced that she would stand upon her constitutional rights and would not take the stand against her husband.

Mrs. Thaw made her statement to newspapermen and when Deputy Attorney General Cook was informed of what she had said, he asserted that inasmuch as the hearing was a civil proceeding and not a criminal case that the court could direct her to testify and that he would ask the court so to direct.

Mrs. Thaw's appearance did not bear out reports to the effect that she was suffering from nervous prostration. She looked extremely well, was dressed in a dark blue silk gown with white trimmings, wore a broad brimmed hat trimmed with roses, and white kid pumps, edged in black.

Feels Well.

"I have spent most of my time out of doors and feel splendid," she said.

"Are you going to testify at the present hearing?" she was asked.

"Take it from me," she declared with emphasis, "I am not. You come with me and I'll show you that that is not jest."

Mrs. Thaw made this declaration at

CIRCUS JOCKEY KILLED.

One of Barnum & Bailey Performers Loses Life at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the close of the circus performance here last night, Nick Costello, one of the Barnum & Bailey jockeys, was fatally injured when his horse fell under several others that were following.

He died this morning in a local hospital.

SIX HUNDRED ARE KILLED

Carranza Loses That Number in Battle of Paredon.

Total Casualties on Both Sides Said to Reach 2,000.

Laredo, Tex., July 6.—Six hundred Carranza troops, it is reported, were killed in an all-day battle yesterday in a fruitless attempt to capture Paredon, a Villa stronghold about thirty miles northwest of Monterey. Eighteen thousand men are said to have been engaged in the battle, with total casualties on both sides of 2,000. Carranza reinforcements renewed the attack today.

About 8,000 Carranza troops under Gen. Jacinto B. Trevino advanced yesterday morning along the railroad from Villa Garcia, a village about midway between Monterey and Paredon. The advance followed a Sunday truce, during which both sides buried the dead, who, during the two weeks incessant fighting about Villa Garcia, had fallen so thickly as to menace health.

Villa Had 10,000 Men.

The Carranza officers estimated that Villa had nearly 10,000 men concen-

RUSS PREPARING FOR AN EARLY OFFENSIVE

Great Quantities of Munitions Are Being Made and Thousands of New Troops Are in Training.

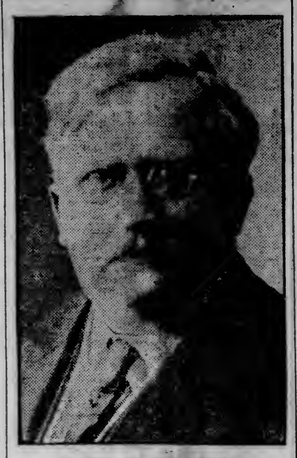

New York, July 6.—Dr. B. R. Ward of New Haven, Conn., who arrived here today on the steamship United States from Copenhagen, after spending a year in Russia, said that the Russians were making expensive preparations in arms and munitions for an early offensive against the Germans in Galicia.

"I left Petrograd about the middle of June," said Dr. Ward. "Despite the Russian reverses, there was no indication of discouragement. Thousands of new troops already are in training and in readiness to be rushed to the front as soon as the danger of another shortage of munitions is past. They are simply awaiting ammunition and equipment. Within ten miles of Petrograd over 600,000 troops are encamped ready for the word to go into action; and I was reliably informed as many more are in readiness in dozens of other places.

"While Russia is not receiving much help from Japan in the form of munitions or men, I know of my own knowledge that hundreds of trained Japanese officers are engaged in drilling Russian troops in the use of heavy artillery. At the hotel in Petrograd where I lived, there were seventeen Japanese artillery officers, the majority of whom had served in the siege of Port Arthur. They made no secret of their presence or of what they were doing."

ALLIED TROOPS SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES IN TERRIFIC FIGHTING BETWEEN ARRAS AND LA BASSEE

AMERICAN MINISTER TO SAN DOMING IS ASKED TO RESIGN

JAMES M. SULLIVAN.

Washington, July 6.—James M. Sullivan, American minister to the Dominican republic, has in effect been asked to resign his post as a result of an investigation conducted by a commission headed by Senator James D. Phelan of California. The report, it is understood, criticises Mr. Sullivan for indiscretions in the conduct of his office, but exonerates him of all charges affecting his integrity.

BRITISH AIRSHIPS ATTACK GERMANS

Demonstration Against the Positions in North Sea Repulsed By Teutons.

Berlin, July 6, by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.—A great British aeroplane attack was directed against the German positions in a German bay of the North Sea on the morning of July 4, according to a German statement issued late of July 5. The attack, the announcement adds, failed.

German airships sighted at dawn off Terschelling, an island off the Netherlands, the advancing British naval forces. They consisted of several hydro-aeroplane motor ships accompanied by a number of cruisers and torpedo boat destroyers. The British vessels were forced to retreat.

One British hydro-aeroplane which succeded in rising in the air was pursued by German aeroplanes but it escaped by flying over Dutch territory.

Trial of Indian Begins.

Denver, Colo., July 6.—The trial of Tse-Ne-Gat, (Everett Hatch), a Piute Indian, charged with the murder of Juan Chacon, a herder, began here today in Federal court.

ASSAILANT OF MORGAN TRIES TO END HIS LIFE BY CUTTING AN ARTERY

Frank Holt Discovered Writhing in Agony in His Cell.

Makes Sharp Instrument From Eraser Holder on Lead Pencil.

Attempt to Be Made to Connect Him With Muenter.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 6.—Frank Holt, J. P. Morgan's assailant, who has also confessed to setting the bomb that exploded in the capitol at Washington last Friday night, attempted to kill himself at midnight by trying to open the artery in his left wrist with a lead pencil.

The attempt was unsuccessful. Holt, lying on his side in a cell in the Nassau county jail at Mineola, was seen by an attendant to writhe with pain. The attendant entered the cell, found blood flowing from the wound, summoned the warden and bound up the wrist, checking the flow of blood. Notwithstanding the promptness with which Holt's attempt was discovered, he lost a considerable quantity of blood.

Spent Restless Night.

Holt spent a restless night, tossing about on his cot, from which he had been unable to rise during the day, and muttering to himself at intervals. His keepers had taken from him his belt, his suspenders and every other article in his possession with which they thought he could have attempted suicide. He had seemed to be so despondent during the day that a strict watch had been kept on him.

After several hours had passed without sleep during the early night, Holt called to an attendant and asked for a lead pencil. He said that he wanted to write to his wife. A lead pencil was brought to him and, a few moments later a pad of paper. The attendant remained in the cell a few minutes, and Holt, turning on his left side, apparently started to write.

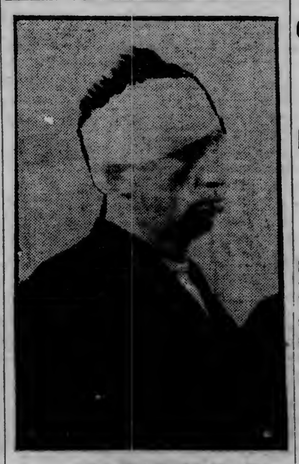

The attendant then left. Within less than five minues he passed the door of Holt's cell again. He then noticed that Holt seemed to be in pain, entered the cell and found blood flowing from a jagged cut in his wrist.

Made Knife From Eraser Holder.

After the flow of blood had been checked and the wound bandaged, the keeper and Warden Hulse searched for

RUSS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Planning an Extensive Campaign for the Defense of Warsaw.

Desperate Fighting Continues Between Vistula and Bug Rivers.

London, July 6.—Special correspondents in Petrograd telegraph optimistic predictions concerning a coming Russian campaign for the defense of Warsaw which forms the center of a vast circle of 100 miles of strong fortifications. Even the fall of the fortress of Ivangorod, according to these correspondents, would not mean the loss of the Polish capital.

Fighting, described as desperate in the official Petrograd reports, is raging between the Vistula and Bug

WEATHER PREDICTIONS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, July 6.—Weather predictions for the week beginning tomorrow, issued by the weather bureau today are:

Great Lakes region—Partly cloudy with normal temperatures until later half of week, when there will be showers with lower temperature.

Plains states and Upper Mississippi valley—Moderately warm weather will prevail during next three to four days, with widely scattered thunder showers. Latter half of week will be cooler and fair.

BATTLES ARE INCESSANT ON A LONG FRONT

One Command Said to Have Lost 3,400 Men Out of 4,200.

City of Arras Bombarded By Germans All Night Long.

French Report Repulse of the Enemy in Many Sections.

Berlin, July 6, via wireless to Sayville.—Special dispatches from the western front say that in the battle between Arras and La Bassee the French and British forces suffered fearful losses, one command alone losing 3,400 men out of 4,200.

French Statement.

Paris, July 6, 2:35 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out the following statement:

"Last night showed much activity at several points along the front. In Belgium the British troops, supported by our artillery, took possession of some German trenches at a point to the southwest of Pilliken, on the east bank of canal. There was a very spirited engagement around the railroad station of Souchez. The station, however, remained in our hands in spite of the repeated efforts of the enemy to take it.

"The town of Arras was bombarded all night long.

Incessant Fighting.

"In the Argonne there was incessant fighting last night with bombs and

WESTERN RAILROADS ASK HIGHER RATES

Hearing on Increase Asked By Forty-Seven Roads Begins in Chicago.

Chicago, July 6.—The Western passenger rate hearing in which forty-six Western railroads hope to prove that present rates, said to be unremunerative, should be advanced, began here today before Examiner Thurtell of the interstate commerce commission.

C. C. Wright made the opening statement for the railroads. He said in part:

"The carriers expect to show that the net operating income of the roads involved during the last seven years has been materially less than it was for the seven years immediately prior to that period. It will be shown that this is true notwithstanding the fact that there has been an increase in the volume of business and an increase in the property investment. This, of course, results in a higher operating ratio and naturally a lesser rate of return than has been maintained heretofore.

"Comparisons also will be given showing present conditions as against those of 1910. Explanations of the increase in expense also will be shown. It will be shown that it is largely due to increases in the cost of labor and for taxes. And that the economies which have been effected by the carriers, and the increased volume of business have not been sufficient to meet the increased cost of operation."

Mr. Wright stated that the present rate of return on property devoted to passenger service does not amount to 3 per cent.

"It is believed," Mr. Wright continued, "that it is impracticable to maintain state and interstate rates upon any substantially differing base."

THEN AND NOW.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Stiffer resistance to the Teutonic advance toward Warsaw is being offered by the Russians from day to day, the latest official reports indicate. Along the entire eastern battle front of approximately 850 miles, from the Baltic to Bessarabia, in fact, the Russian lines are apparently holding the Austro-Germans except at one point. Near Krasnik in Southern Poland the Archduke Ferdinand's army has broken through and continued its advance toward the Polish capital.

In France the Germans continue pounding trench lines, but toward the north the silence which for some time has prevailed along the front held by the British remains unbroken.

The Italians report the satisfactory development of their offensive on the Carnic plateau and the success of air attacks on Austrian encampments in the vicinity of Doberdo. Severe fighting is in progress in the edge of the Doberdo plateau, according to the latest Austrian statement.

Through Manila come reports of serious unrest among the native population of British India.

A British attack by aeroplane and cruiser against the German positions in a bay of the North sea on the morning of July 4, was repulsed by German airships, according to a statement given out in Berlin.

The German official announcement of today says two French attacks at Les Eparges have been repulsed; that German aviators have been active against the French near Epinal and in the Vosges, and that in Russian Poland the forces of Emperor William took a Russian position and 500 prisoners near Suwalki.

The French war office reports a very active night along virtually the entire front. British troops have taken some German trenches in Belgium. Arras was bombarded all night long, there has been incessant fighting in the Argonne and French troops have repulsed the enemy on the heights of the Meuse as well as near the forest of Le Pretre.

An official statement issued in Berlin calls attention to Great Britain's actions in torpedoing a hospital ship and unarmed passenger ships in Turkish waters while she at the same time is protesting against the submarine warfare of Germany.

"GIVE ME HUSBAND, OR TAKE CHILDREN"

Wife of Prisoner Presents Her Ultimatum to the Police.

"Give me back my husband, or take care of my children!"

That was the ultimatum delivered to Capt. A. G. Fiskett at police headquarters this morning by Mrs. M. Rolski, 12 Railroad street, a few minutes after Mike was lodged in the bastile for disorderly conduct.

Arbitration did not appeal to Mrs. Rolski and all the captain's diplomacy went for naught, because the angry woman finally "planted" her 2-month-old baby and 1½-year-old daughter on the counter and stalked out, leaving them to their fate.

"We'll bring her in for deserting her children, if she doesn't come back before long and take care of these kids," said the captain. "Just look at them—they both ought to be in a cradle."

Mrs. Rolski did not want to go to work, according to police, as she seemed to be togged out in her best, but she wasn't going to stay home and spoil her day even if her husband was in jail.

Unless her party is a short-lived one, she may join her erring spouse, because the captain is planning to carry out his threat.

DELAYS REPORTING ACCIDENT.

Police Put on Week Old Trail of Jitney Driver.

A week after 5-year-old Clara Kverno was badly injured when struck by a jitney, police today were confronted with the difficult task of searching for the driver, who, it is alleged, drove away, leaving the little girl lying in the street.

Ivar Kverno, 222 West Seventh street, father of the girl, in telling about the accident this morning, was anxious to find the driver, and promised prosecution if he could be identified.

Last Tuesday afternoon Clara, with her mother and 15-year-old Jennie Olson, started to cross Superior street near Lake avenue. The Olson girl went ahead, leading Clara, and piloted her to safety on the opposite curb.

When the child turned and saw her mother in the center of the street, however, she ran out, and the car hit her. The girl was thrown to the pavement, turning a somersault and striking her head. Before the driver could be identified, he drove away, according to Mrs. Kverno.

Clara was carried to the offices of Dr. W. A. Coventry, nearby, and after her injuries had been dressed, was taken home. She still is suffering from her injuries, but will recover.

CARRIED GAME TOO FAR.

Hailing Limousines for Jitneys "Went" on Fourth, Profanity Didn't.

"Hi, jitney!"

Harry Evins, age 26, ran out into Superior street and stood in the path of a large limousine, evidently from an East end garage.

He stood there until the chauffeur was compelled to slow down and almost stop, as the crowded street prevented him from passing the man.

Evins' friend, Lawrence Pfeffer, age 25, was playing the same game on the opposite side of the street, when Chief of Police McKercher drove past in his car.

The chief laughed in a good-natured way at the term "jitney," but told the pair to get up on the sidewalk, where they belonged, before they were run down.

"Go to h—!" was the response, and the show ended abruptly.

Both men were sentenced to seven days at the work farm this morning, or to pay a $7 fine.

DOG CATCHER'S JOB FOR SOBER MEN ONLY

Commissioner Silberstein this morning discharged J. B. Fullerton as city dog catcher.

Last Saturday Fullerton was arrested for being drunk and creating a disturbance in the East end, while on duty. He pleaded guilty in police court yesterday, Judge Smallwood having suspended his sentence along with those of all the other prisoners brought in on the Fourth.

Commissioner Silberstein said this morning that another dog catcher will be appointed within a day or two.

BURGLAR CAUGHT WITH HAND THROUGH WINDOW

Caught reaching through a hole in a plate glass window at the National store, 29 West Superior street, John Peterson, age 28, was brought to police headquarters emptyhanded.

Despite the fact that there was a large hole in the glass, and many articles on display, Peterson had made little progress in transferring anything to his pockets.

J. E. Anderson, watchman, heard a noise, and with Officer Kreager swooped down on the would-be burglar before he could "say Jack Robinson," as the officer put it.

Peterson will be arraigned in court this afternoon.

DETROIT PARTY REACHES DULUTH

Fifth Excursion to This Point Conducted By Michigan Paper.

The fifth annual Duluth excursion of the Detroit, Mich., News is in the city today. The excursionists came up on the steamer Noronic, flagship of the Northern Navigation company's fleet, and they number 244. They are in charge of F. H. Harvey of the Detroit News.

"We have had a most pleasant trip up the lakes," said Mr. Harvey today. "At Port Arthur yesterday we had a picnic at Kakabeka Falls, and dinner at a hotel in the evening; and, in fact, the whole trip has been pleasant. This is the fifth excursion we have run to Duluth, and each has been most pleasant and successful. The weather has favored us well on this trip."

Included in the excursion which the News is giving was a trip around the the chiefly advertised features. It was taken by the party this afternoon.

DULUTH MAN HONORED.

C. D. Oreckovsky Elected to General Committee By Grand Lodge.

Charles D. Oreckovsky, representative of Covenant lodge, Independent Order of the B'nai B'rith, was this morning elected a member of the general committee of district grand lodge, No. 6, at the annual convention, now in session at Elkhart Lake, Wis., according to word received by officers of the Duluth lodge.

This is the highest honor ever attained in the grand lodge by a Duluth member of the order. There are but ten members on the general committee representing forty-seven lodges in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Western Canada.

The convention opened yesterday morning and will continue until tomorrow night. Besides Mr. Oreckovsky, the local lodge is represented by Dr. Maurice Lefkovits.

The general committee consists of the president and first and second vice presidents and seven members elected at the annual convention. It is the executive power of the district lodge and meets in Chicago about four times a year.

NEW AEROPLANES GET FIRST TEST

Machines Being Built at Toronto Make 80 Miles Per Hour.

Fritz Ericson and Tony Jannus, the first a former resident of Duluth, while the second spent one summer here making aeroplane flights, are evidently making a success of their gigantic new war aeroplanes being manufactured for use in the European war, at the Curtiss factory in Toronto, of which they are in charge.

Only recently the new type of war air monster was given its first test. The machine attained a speed of 80 miles an hour, this speed being made at an estimated height of 7,400 feet.

It is claimed that the machine is being manufactured at the Canadian plant, where the two men so well known in Duluth are in charge, will be the largest aeroplanes ever made, larger than any of the types manufactured in the United States. They will be known as the Canada type and will be capable of carrying a maxim gun and three men, in addition to the pilot. It is expected that the first machines will be ready for delivery in a few days.

Modeled somewhat on the lines of the monster seaplane, the "America," which was built for the purpose of flying across the Atlantic, and which was sold to England after the outbreak of the war, and was subsequently lost in the North sea, the Canada type will be even larger and is expected to create somewhat of a revolution in war aircraft.

It is just possible that Tony Januus may apply for a war pilot's license and drive one of the big new machines in the service of Great Britain.

IS ACCUSED OF NAVAL ESPIONAGE

Trial of Robert Rosenthal Who Had American Passport, Begins.

London, July 6.—The court-martial of Robert Rosenthal who is accused of naval espionage, and who, when arrested had a passport issued by the American embassy in Berlin, was opened today in London. Maj.-Gen. Baron Cheylesmore, whose wife is a daughter of the late F. O. French of New York, presided over the court.

Walter Frampton defended Rosenthal who was guarded in the dock by three soldiers with fixed bayonets. The hearing was in camera.

Robert Rosenthal was arrested in London early in June and confessed, according to officials of Scotland Yard, that he had been sent to England by the German admiralty to obtain information concerning British naval matters. Ambassador Page, on reporting the case to the state department at Washington, said that stories were current in London to the effect that Rosenthal, in his confession, had charged that Capt. von Priger, of the German admiralty office, had a complete equipment for issuing fraudulent American passports.

LONG-WINDED.
WILLING.

Argonaut: A young woman with a party of Americans going through the parks and gardens of Warwick castle, England, lingered behind to admire the gorgeous peacocks.

"Do these birds ever drop any of their tall feathers?" she asked of a gardener who stood by.

He looked around, lowered his voice and replied:

"They're hobstinate beasts, miss, but they drops 'em heasy at the sight of a shillin.'"

M'EWEN RAPS DEFENSE PLEA

Scores Advocacy By C. A. Congdon of American Intervention in Mexico.

Labor Will Have Most to Say on Peace or War in Future.

The policy of C. A. Congdon, advocating a large standing army for the defense of the United States, was roundly scored yesterday by Postmaster William E. McEwen, who addressed about 2,000 people at the Fourth of July celebration at Duluth Heights. He spoke on "The Patriotism of Service," urging every man, woman and child in the nation to put forth the best efforts for the country's welfare. Touching on the European war, he declared this war would be the last between enlightened nations. He said in part:

Urges Patriotic Service.

"It is within the province of every man, woman and child in the land to display this sort of patriotism every day of their lives. I deplore the sentiment that is being kindled throughout the land at this time in which it is urged that America have a large standing army. Without such today this nation is the greatest moral force in the world, and I do not share the fears of Mr. Congdon about the dangers which face this country.

"The travelers whom one meets on ocean steamers pretend to be authorities on international questions, but they are usually the idlers of this life, and most of their information is got by word of mouth from fellow travelers. Such may or may not be without authority. It is all very well for a rich man to urge large armies, but it is the poor man's son who enlists, and it is the people of the poor, now heavily overburdened, who must pay the cost of maintaining an army. So long as the people of this country remain a peace-loving people, and have the wisdom to elect a president with the ideals of Woodrow Wilson, there will never be any reason for a costly army in the United States.

Scores Congdon.

"Mr. Congdon would have us go into Mexico to settle with the police club the domestic affairs of the Mexican people. I recognize that the revolution in the southern republic has resolved itself into a struggle between ambitious leaders, but nevertheless the great body of the Mexican people are hopeful that out of it will come human liberty—the thing they have hoped for these many years. The Mexican revolution was caused by the tyranny of the rich over the poor, and by denying the poor their right to the soil. No question is ever settled until it is settled right, and the police club of the United States might bring quiet and order in Mexico—not without great cost and sacrifice of life—but the question that caused the revolution would still remain unsettled. Mexico should be given the opportunity to work out her own salvation. Her people may not use our tactics, but if let alone will settle her problems much better than through any troublesome interference from the United States.

"From what I have been able to learn the Americans who have lost their lives in Mexico took their chances in a country torn with civil strife. They had plenty of opportunity to get out. Nothing has occurred that would warrant the United States sending an expeditionary force into Mexico for the purpose of stopping the war or establishing a government.

"I have no fear of the future of any of the nations of the world. Man is seeing the last war that will occur between enlightened nations. The cost of the present war in life and in money will be so terrific that the most ambitious military nation of today will seek other methods in the future to settle international controversies.

Labor to Decide Question.

"The laborer is going to have the most to say in the future about questions of peace and war, for it is from his household that the greatest draft is made for men and money. I remember when a boy of having seen a cartoon in an English paper. It represented a laborer bowed under a heavy load with his hands upon his knees. Upon his back was a preacher, upon the preacher was a king, and upon the king was a soldier. The soldier said: 'I fight for all'; the king said, 'I rule all'; the preacher said, 'I pray for all'; and the laborer said, 'I pay for all.'"

How to Perform Service.

The speaker enumerated a number of ways by which any person could discharge patriotic deeds of service in his every-day walk of life. He held that persons commissioned by the people for public service, who drew salaries and failed to perform painstaking and earnest labor therefor, as much as they would do for a private concern, committed a crime that was akin to treason.

He closed his speech with a plea to the mothers and fathers to inspire their children with ideals which would lead them to perform patriotic service throughout their lives. He said:

Standing for Ideals.

"Every man should stand for something. There is nothing like having an ideal. No man who really ever amounted to anything in the world won his fame by following the crowd. The men we tell our children about, whose ideals we want them to follow, were seldom with the majority of their time. We are busy now gathering up their scattered ashes and depositing them in the golden urn of the world's history.

"I would rather enjoy the confidence and respect of a thoughtful and honest minority than to be lionized by a fickle majority, that, like the weather-vane, changes with each gust of wind, without thought, and apparently with perfect consistency.

"Patriotism consists in more than waving the flag. Samuel Johnson declared that this sort of patriotism was the refuge of scoundrels. True patriotism consists in holding sacred the ideals of our government and its free institutions. There never was a time when it was more required than now."

All-day Program.

Duluth Heights celebrated the Fourth of July yesterday with an all-day program, which was patriotic in spirit and enthusiastic to a marked degree. Large crowds assembled, and speeches, a parade, sports and games, and dancing in the evening were prominent features.

The parade was the biggest attraction of the day's events. Headed by a body of policemen, the parade extended almost a half mile in length. Following were automobiles, in which were the speakers and the committees in charge of the program. Twelve floats, all of a patriotic nature, came next, and a long file of marchers brought up the rear.

Prize-Winning Float.

The prize-winning float was decorated by the Junior Endeavor class of the Presbyterian church, and was a reproduction of Uncle Sam and the Goddess of Liberty. Those who occupied seats on this float were Mayme O'Conner, Albert Barnes, Luelle Collins, Mary Boyer, Fern Hagerty, Minnie Mahan, Thordys Norman and Margaret O'Connor.

No second nor third prize was offered, but the committee gave honorable mention to a float of all-nations, which carried figures typical of Germany, Belgium, Russia, Italy and the American farmer and the Indian.

After the parade the crowd gathered to hear the addresses of the day. Robert Donaldson read the Declaration of Independence. Rev. A. H. Mutchler led in prayer, and W. N. Donaldson presided.

The Junior Duluth Heights baseball team won a victory over the Spaulding of Duluth by a score of 9 to 7. The seniors beat the M. B. A. nine by a score of 5 to 3.

Winners in the sport contests follow:

One hundred-yard dash (boys 10 to 15 years old)—W. Bowe; E. Bruneau, second.

One hundred-yard dash (girls, 10 to 15 years)—Nora Westberg; Ruth O'Leary, second.

The program of the day was in charge of H. W. Harwood and the following committees: Race committee, W. H. Donaldson, Jr., H. Ames; awarding committee, A. Brayton, W. N. Donaldson, Jr., A. Ames; parade committee, A. Brayton, M. Mahan and R. Johnston. A dance in the evening closed the day's events. Music was furnished by the Duluth Heights band.

EVERYBODY HAS WAR CONTRACT

Duluthian Says Few Westerners Realize Extent of Export Trade.

F. M. Crosby, managing director of the St. Louis hotel, declared that in the East it is the belief that the immense export trade due to the war is just beginning.

Mr. Crosby is back from a several months' visit to New York and Boston. He declares that in New York apparently every manufacturer claims to have contracts for articles of some kind that are to be used in connection with the war.

"While in New York I heard it said that an agent of the Chinese government came to this country to place a contract for 1,000,000 rifles at $30 each," said Mr. Crosby, "and it was reported that the contract was refused over here for the reason that the manufacturers of this country have more war munition contracts than they can handle."

Mr. Crosby also declared that few persons have any idea of the number of rifles that are being made down in the New England manufacturing district or of the number of contracts that have been let but recently.

STATE GETS QUARTER MILLION FROM TIMBER

Minnesota realized $253,049 from the sale of the timber cut from state lands during the season of 1914-1915, according to announcement from the state auditor's office.

Of approximately 100,000,000 feet of timber which has been sold and under permit, 50,000,000 feet of it was cut during the last winter. This consists of pine, spruce, tamarack and cedar. Tamarack and cedar timber is made into railroad ties, fence posts and telephone posts; pine and log spruce is made into lumber and the pulp spruce into pulwood.

All state timber is sold at public auction to the highest bidder.

WOOL GROWERS WAIT FOR BETTER PRICES

Bowman, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bowman is the wool market for a large part of the southwestern corner of the state. There are now already stored here 200,000 pounds and during the present week that amount will be more than doubled. So far little has been sold. The offer is only 24 cents and the growers believe they are entitled to more, because as high as 26½ cents has been paid in other localities. As the wool here is of very high quality the growers have decided to hold for 27 cents and the bulk of them have agreed to stand by those prices. The others would probably sell at 26 cents.

BRIDEGROOMS PAY $350 TO COUNTY

June Receipts From Activities of Dan Cupid Were Heavy.

June bridegrooms netted St. Louis county $350 this year, according to the monthly report of J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court, which has been filed with the county auditor.

June, 1915, was the record month for marriage licenses in St. Louis county, the clerk's records showing that in Duluth and on the ranges 176 permits were taken out.

The total cash receipts for the clerk's office were $1,887.19, which has been turned over to the county treasurer. In addition to this the office did $70.85 worth of work for the county for which no charge was made.

ST. PAUL SLEUTH GIVEN SENTENCE

Gets Eighteen Months for Violation of the Mann Act.

Fargo, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—One variety of "spotting" or detective work probably will be unpopular in this state hereafter, as a result of an eighteen months' sentence imposed this morning on Albert Gillette by Judge Amidon in Federal court. The court exonerated the methods used by Gillette in committing a serious crime for the purpose of obtaining evidence for a minor one.

Gillette was employed by a St. Paul concern to secure evidence against some Traill county women and made a trip to Minnesota with the most attractive one, being arrested and convicted on a charge of violating the Mann act.

MAY WITHDRAW THEIR PETITION

Jitneurs Hope to Carry Their Point on Insurance Question.

In all probability officers of the Duluth Jitney association will ask the city council at its weekly meeting this evening to amend the jitney ordinance so that it will provide for mutual indemnity insurance in place of liability policies.

Capt. C. C. Teare, attorney for the association, said this morning that such a move is planned and that if an agreement can be reached, the referendum petition will be withdrawn tomorrow or the following day.

"We want the ordinance amended," said Capt. Teare, "so that mutual or co-operative indemnity insurance will be acceptable to the city legal department. Otherwise, we have no objection to the ordinance and if the commissioners agree to amend, we will drop the referendum petition calling for a special election."

Besides consideration of the jitney ordinance, the additional list of names, for which probably will be filed during the afternoon, the council will have a very light program for this evening. Commissioner Voss will introduce a resolution rescinding the contract with Rogers & McLean for the paving of Kenilworth and Sussex avenues. Property owners have filed a remonstrance petition against the pavement.

Third reading will be given the ordinance appropriating $500 for incandescent lights and second reading the ordinance appropriating $525 for repairing the city incinerator plant. Contracts for furnishing the water and light department with water and gas gates will be awarded to J. B. Clow & Sons on their bid of $2,137.60 for inspecting of cast iron pipe to Robert Hunt & Co. on their bid of $157.50, for furnishing five hydrants to R. D. Wood & Co. on their bid of $36.35 each, and for furnishing tapping sleeves to the A. P. Smith Manufacturing company of East Orange, N. J.

Saloon license renewals will be granted to W. A. Wagner, 15 Second avenue west, and August Toettcher, 605 East Third street.

OBITUARY

Charles A. Conant of New York, a banker and financial expert, died in Havana July 4, of hemorrhage of the stomach. He was in Cuba at the request of the Cuban authorities to reform the financial system of the republic.

Samuel T. Johnson, one time public examiner of Minnesota and for many years a resident of Minneapolis, where he was engaged in fire insurance and banking, died July 3 at the home of Henry Wolfer, St. Petersburg, Fla. He had lived in Florida since 1911. Mr. Johnson was born at Indianapolis in 1858. He was named public examiner by Governor Samuel R. Van Sant in 1902 when that office also had supervision over the state banks. He served as public examiner three years and on his retirement from public office he became vice president of the Minnesota National bank and of the Mortgage Loan Investment company of Minneapolis. Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife and a son, Everett Johnson.

James T. Mitchell, former chief justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, died at Philadelphia July 4 from uraemia. He was 81 years old.

Mrs. Bohlen und Halbach, the mother of Lieut. Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, the head of the great German gun works at Essen, Germany, died July 2. She was formerly Miss Sophie Bohlen of Philadelphia.

JULY "FIFTH" ORDERLY DAY

No Fires, Serious Accidents or Arrests Due to Holiday Enthusiasm.

Two Minor Injuries Not Counted By Police as Important.

Duluthians kept in mind all "safety first" and "sane Fourth" admonitions yesterday, for the "Fifth" was the most orderly "Fourth" ever celebrated in the city.

Chief of Police R. D. McKercher pointed to the day's blotter with pride this morning, for aside from a few stragglers who insist upon conviviality, regardless of the date, the sheet was clean.

Not a single arrest, serious accident or fire, traceable to Fourth of July enthusiasm, could be found. Two minor cases of injuries were on the tab, but neither were of any importance.

Benjamin Rovenfeldt, 9½ East Third street, told officers that his wife was burned slightly by Roman candles. Small boys who set off the candles prematurely escaped and Mrs. Rovenfeldt was cared for at home.

Firemen were called out three times, twice on false alarms and once by a grass fire at Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street, which was stopped before it did any damage. A smoldering squib was given as the cause.

At the Exeter Farms celebration Arthur Eckholm, age 11, became too brave while holding a two-inch squib in his hand. His mother bandaged a singed thumb and Arthur forgot all about it a few minutes later.

Two automobiles were stolen by joy riders during the evening, but returned them later, slightly the worse for wear. Dr. H. Hovde, 715 East First street, reported that his five-passenger car had been left standing in front of the New Jersey building, and had disappeared.

About midnight last night the car, with one fender bent, was found in the alley just behind the New Jersey building. Officer Kreager saw the thieves enter the alley, and reached the car before the engine hood had cooled.

Officer John Link found an abandoned Ford automobile in the rear of the Crane-Ordway building, between Lake avenue and First avenue east, near Michigan street, earlier in the day. So far the owner has not been found.

SUPERIOR

SIX SUPERIOR MEN WOULD BE MAYOR

Two Others Expected to File Petitions By Wednesday Night.

There are now six residents of Superior who have announced their intention of becoming candidates for mayor of Superior at the primary election to be held on July 27. F. J. Wildner, a pioneer resident of the city, this morning filed papers announcing his candidacy. The others are Frank R. Crumpton and Victor Linley, both former mayors of the city; David Dobie, a pioneer resident; James R. Hile, who was a candidate against Mayor J. S. Konkel in the recall election held a year ago, and Otto Elck, who has the Socialist support.

The last day for filing for aspirants for the position will be tomorrow. One of the candidates will be chosen to run against Mayor J. S. Konkel at the recall election to be held on Aug. 10. It is intimated that at least two others may announce their names before tomorrow night.

THOUSANDS SEE 'FOURTH' CELEBRATION

Many Duluthians Cross Bay to Join in Holiday Festivities.

Superior turned out en masse to the celebration of the nation's birthday yesterday. Throngs of people, hundreds of whom were from Duluth, crowded on Tower avenue during the parade yesterday and witnessed the various features of the entertainment provided by the citizens of Superior.

Central park was crowded to capacity last night by people who wished to witness the fireworks display. This celebration began at 9 o'clock in the evening. The Venetian fete was one of the features that pleased the crowd.

Races and various kinds of sports took place during the afternoon. Hundreds of children took part in this feature of the program. A liberal number of prizes were donated by the merchants of the city for this purpose.

Crackers Cause Two Fires.

Two small fires that occurred in Superior yesterday are credited to firecrackers. A show window of the Tower Avenue Clothing company caught fire from either a firecracker or smoldering cigar carelessly thrown. The damage was slight. The department also answered a call at 402 Hughitt avenue, where a smoldering fire had broken out in a clothes closet.

Rev. Peter Rice Given Place.

Rev. Peter Rice of Stanton, Wis., has been appointed to take charge of the Sacred Heart cathedral at Superior, commencing Saturday. He will take the place recently made vacant by the resignation of Rev. Christopher Schmidt. The latter will go to Rice Lake, Wis.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING

Sub-Committees Expected to Report on Number of Important Questions.

The public affairs committee of the Commercial club will hold a monthly meeting this evening. It will be preceded by dinner, to be served at 6:15.

In view of the fact that the subcommittees under the new regime of the club, have been at work for a month, and have on hand some very important questions, it is expected that the meeting this evening will prove to be a most important one, even though no single matter stands out with especial prominence. A full attendance is expected.

MUST WAIT FOR FUNDS

No Firehall for West Duluth Until City Raises Money.

Offered Loan By Commissioner Silberstein Would Not Help Matters.

Even though Commissioner Silberstein has agreed to sign a personal note for the money with which to build the West Duluth firehall, the council will not have the authority to award a contract and as a result it will be necessary to wait for the 1916 budget, which will be made out in the fall, according to Commissioner Voss, head of the finance division.

"The charter prohibits us from awarding a contract when we have no fund from which to pay for it," said Commissioner Voss this morning, "and our permanent improvement fund is now $100,000 in the hole. By loaning us $20,000, Mr. Silberstein would only liquidate part of the debt and we would have no authority to grant a contract until the entire amount is cleared.

"This fall we plan to place $120,000 in the permanent improvement fund and so by clearing our debt will have $20,000 for the fire hall. It's the only legal propedure we can follow. The budget is made out in the fall and work can start on the building some time in October."

Recently Commissioner Silberstein, on learning that there was no money in the city funds, agreed to sign a personal note for $20,000 to pay for the fire hall. He planned to collect the money when the budget was made out.

According to the tentative plans, the new fire hall at West Duluth will be two stories high and will accommodate the fire department, the police station and the municipal court. Two lots were purchased last winter by the city council at Cody street and Central avenue, directly opposite the present building.

TWENTY-ONE IN ACCIDENT

Only One Person Seriously Hurt When Rigs Meet in Collision.

Outing Party Overturned on Thomson Road During Night.

Twenty-one persons, more than half of whom were children, had a miraculous escape from serious injury and death in a collision between teams on the Thomson road at 10 o'clock last night. Mrs. Gust Anderson, 6309 Elinor street, as far as is known, was the only one whose injuries were of a serious nature. It is believed that she strained her side or sustained a fracture of a rib. A horse belonging to Roach brothers broke a leg and had to be shot.

The party, which was composed of West End and West Duluth people, had gone to Peter Nordeen's farm at Midway to pass the day and was returning in a big wagon fitted with a hay rack. The team hauling this wagon belonged to Knute Larson, 618 North Twenty-first avenue west. As the rig got a short distance below the D. M. & N. railroad, a stop was made in order to let some of the older people get out to walk down the steep grade.

It was while the team was standing at this place that a team of horses belonging to Roach brothers, West Duluth liverymen, came down the hill at high speed and collided with the wagon. The force of the collision tipped the loaded wagon over and threw it into the bushes beside the road.

For a time it was thought that at least half a dozen persons had been killed. Gradually each member of the party recovered sufficiently from the shock to get up. Underneath a pile of six persons was an infant 1 year old, unharmed.

Just as the crowd was recovering, Dr. C. W. Taylor came along in his automobile, and stopping, offered aid to any of the injured. Careful inquiry by the physician showed that only Mrs. Anderson was badly injured, and the physician had her placed in his machine and taken home. Dr. Taylor also notified the police as soon as he arrived in the city. Sergeant Andree and Patrolman Oscar Peterson went to the scene in the police auto.

According to the story told the police, the Roach rig was driverless. The rig had been sent out by the liverymen with Ernest Christianson driving, to take two men home to Midway.

The heavy wagon had been sent out by Mr. Larson with Hartvig Gritdahl driving the team. The party left early in the morning. He had been told to be careful in going down the hill with the load and advised that several of his passengers get off to walk down the steepest grades. It was while he was carrying out this advice that the accident happened. Mr. Gritdahl had pulled off to the side of the road in order that autos or rigs might pass.

PAVING IS UP TO PROPERTY OWNERS

Protest Petition Has More Signatures Than Paving Request.

Some of the property owners on Central avenue are indignant because of a report that the protest against the paving of the thoroughfare north of Cody street contained only 19 per cent of the signatures instead of the necessary 26 per cent. They will take the matter up with the department of public works.

Inquiry by Commissioner J. A. Farrell, head of that department, this noon, elicited the information that 38 per cent of the property owners owning 33 1-3 per cent of the property had signed the protest petition, and that the petition for the improvement was the one that had only 19 per cent.

"We can go ahead and pave that street any time the property owners are ready for it," said Mr. Farrell today. "If the property owners desiring the improvement can get enough signatures, we will pave it this summer and have it completed long before snow falls. We have the money now available, and it's up to the owners entirely."

The information that the money is available will probably be good news to the West Duluthians. A systematic canvass is to be made, according to action taken by the West Duluth Commercial club at its last meeting, among the property owners for the improvement of several streets in this end of the city.

NEW CUT OFF WILL SHORTEN ROAD

A new cut off which will save more than a half mile of travel to New Duluth has been prepared by Street Commissioner Olson of Fond du Lac at the Smithville railroad crossing. The new cut off crosses the Northern Pacific railroad a short distance east of the place that has been in use since the closing of the subway crossing and runs parallel with the railroad to an intersection with Grand avenue.

Considerable complaint was made because of the distance that it was necessary to go on the old roadway.

The new road was put into use yesterday.

The Northern Pacific railroad is rushing the building of the subway and is expected to have all of the excavation completed within three more weeks. The dirt that is being taken out is used for filling the ravine east of the subway.

Arrested for Assault.

Frank J. Jones, 44, who gave his occupation as a sailor was arrested yesterday afternoon on Grand avenue near Fairmont park on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was alleged to have assaulted a woman on the street. Patrolman David Perry arrested the man. He furnished $100 bail for his appearance in the West Duluth police court this morning but forfeited the amount.

West Duluth Briefs.

Joseph Brassard and Fred Fortier who have been spending the week end with relatives at 4920 Wadena street, left this morning for Hibbing.

A. J. Lindgren of the Spencer Pharmacy company, left this noon for Minneapolis where he will attend the annual meeting of the Professional School of Photography. He will return home the last of the week.

Miss Tillie Johnson, a school teacher at Ironwood, Mich., and Miss Hilda Johnson of Ironwood, are guests at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Charles F. Engel, 132 West Second street.

Mrs. S. B. Newton and daughter Dorothy of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., are guests at the home of Mrs. Newton's sister, Mrs. Milton E. Allen, 608 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

Edward Holland, former resident of West Duluth, now of Minneapolis, was a week end visitor in this end of the city. He left for his home this noon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will entertain Friday evening at a musical and literary program in the church. Following the program refreshments will be served. The hostesses in charge will be Mrs. Janet Jennings, Mrs. Robert Jennings, Mrs. C. L. Peterson and Mrs. C. T. Johnson.

Plans for the proposed picnic of the four A. O. U. W. lodges of Duluth to be held on Labor day at Grassy Point will be discussed tomorrow evening at the meeting of West Duluth lodge No. 145. It is expected that a big delegation of uptown visitors will be at the meeting.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

Mrs. N. J. Hill of St. Paul is a guest of Mrs. E. G. Olson, 5807 West Eighth street, this week.

Mrs. Bert Wiggins, 4714 West Sixth street, and Miss Clara Benson are spending a few days visiting relatives at Mahtowa, Minn.

Society - Women's Clubs - Music - Drama

NORTHLAND COUNTRY club was a gay place from 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning when the flag contest for women golfers began until the last dance was finished at a late hour. A program of sports for the children of club members, a dinner-dance that was attended by about 250 and a display of fireworks that was open to all the people of Duluth made the day a busy and eventful one.

The fireworks were exceptionally good and included several set pieces of Japanese scenes and "Good Night." They were viewed by thousands of persons on the club grounds and by a large number in automobiles which were lined up for many blocks on Superior street and London road.

The idea of introducing a program of sports for children originated with Cassius H. Bagley. The new feature was appreciated by the parents of the contestants, and the boys and girls under 18 years old enjoyed their part in the celebration. The program was planned late, but it is the intention of those in charge to make the affair more extensive next year. The program of sports was conducted by Mr. Bagley, Howard T. Abbott and George W. Wells.

The Winners.

Miss Roberta Ritchie won the tennis tournament for girls, receiving a tennis racquet donated by the Kelly-How-Thomson company. Miss Katherine Abbott won the second prize, three tennis balls donated by the same firm. In the archery contest for boys and girls, Miss Elinor Mitchell won the first prize, a pair of tennis shoes given by Pentecost Mitchell, and Miss Frances Sellwood won the second prize, a small silver trophy cup donated by Bagley & Co.

Miss Charlene Bagley, who won the bowling contest, received a tennis racquet donated by J. L. Mullin. Miss Katherine Johnson of St. Paul and Miss Josephine Cotton won the three-legged race, receiving silver loving cups donated by Howard T. Abbott. In the putting contest, Harry Neimeyer won the first prize, a scout outfit donated by Williamson & Mendenhall, and Miss Anna Paull won the second prize, a pair of gloves donated by the same firm. Stewart Peyton won the putting contest for children under 10 years old, receiving a box of candy donated by J. H. McLean.

In the contests for children under 12 years old, Harvey Williamson won the baseball mitt given by Pentecost Mitchell for the 80-yard dash. John Abbott won the prize for the 50-yard dash, an official baseball donated by Fred White. Harvey Williamson and Charles Britts, Jr., won the pocket knives given by W. J. Olcott for the three-legged race. The running broad jump for boys was won by Gerald Sellwood, who received a flashlight donated by Bagley & Co.

Buttercups were used for centerpieces at dinner which was served in the large dining room and large flags were draped in the rooms. La Brosse's orchestra played for the dancing.

Dinner Parties.

Those who entertained at dinner were: Miss Elcey Cole, party of twelve; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Cotton, eleven; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Davis, eight; Miss Dorothy House, six; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hegardt, nine; Miss Genevra Johnstone, three; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Merrill, five; Mr. and Mrs. James Wanless, five; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Van Bergen, ten; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miss Lepeta Perea With Barnum & Bailey Circus Risks Life Daily But Fears Mice

LUPETIA PEREA

"Yes, I'm back again with Barnum & Bailey's circus. It gets us all in the spring and we come back again and again."

Miss Lupeta Perea doesn't really have to come back to the circus each year, but she says it is in her blood and the call of the tanbark always proves too strong.

The nimble young trapeze artist came to the big top from the political turmoil of Mexico and her father, who was a well known don and cattleman in the vicinity of Monterey, accompanied her with a comfortable remnant of his one-time big fortune.

The young woman, who is one of the popular members of the big circus family, really began her trapeze work before she was old enough to realize its dangers. Her first efforts were made on crude apparatus indeed. The trapeze consisted of a stout broom handle at the end of ropes of dubious strength, suspended from a rafter in one of the hacienda outbuildings.

There the aspiring young artist would entertain her playmates with feats which none of them—not even the boys—could duplicate. Older persons watched her work and became interested to the point of aiding the ambitious girl.

Then came the really big event in her life. The fiesta days of early December presented the opportunity, and Miss Perea rose to the occasion. A grand display was arranged. The affair was held in El Toro, the famous bull ring in Mexico City, and the star of the show was the unknown Senorita Perea. It was a short step from the fiesta to the circus.

"Oh, no," said Miss Perea in answer to a question. "I am not afraid when I am working. The risk is all in the day's work and if one is always careful there is nothing to fear. I am used to my work and that keeps me from being afraid."

"Is there anything you are afraid of?" she was asked.

"Mice," she replied with a smile.

Mrs. Henry Marshall Is Guest of Honor

Mrs. A. M. Marshall of 2605 Greysolon road entertained sixteen guests at luncheon at the Kitchi Gammi club today in compliment to her guest, Mrs. Henry Marshall of Swarthmore, Pa., formerly of Duluth. Garden flowers were the table decorations.

Mrs. Marshall will be the guest of honor at several other affairs this week. Tomorrow Mrs. C. H. Munger of 2330 East First street will entertain at luncheon and tomorrow night Mrs. F. E. House of 2210 East Superior street will entertain at dinner at the Country club. Mrs. Walter Turle of 2216 East Superior street will be hostess at a luncheon for her Thursday.

Many Duluthians Dance at Solon Springs

Several hundred Duluthians attended the dance which was given last night at Solon Springs. The Esther Gomberg orchestra furnished the music.

Shannon-Sleepack Wedding at Cathedral Rectory

Miss Harriet Shannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Shannon of Muskogee, Okla., and Harry Frederick Sleepack of this city were married this afternon at 5 o'clock at the rectory of the Sacred Heart cathedral. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Philip H. Kiley. Mrs. Harry L. Cummings of Omaha, sister of the bridegroom, was an out-of-town guest.

Oatka Lark Will Try It's Voice Wednesday Night

The first of a series of Oatka larks will be given tomorrow night from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock at the Oatka branch of the Boat club. The unusual Agony quartet of three members will sing several songs they have composed and the popular songs, "By the Light of the Jungle Moon," "Tipperary" and "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." Miss Myrtle Hobbs, in comic costume, will, without accompaniment, give soprano solos to match her costume. Gustav Jackson, violinist, will play "Romance," by Svenesen, a Beethoven minuet and popular numbers. Miss Esther Gomberg will play on the piano "My Little Dream Girl," "Mighty Like a Rose," "When I'm Leaving the World Behind Me" and "Good-Bye, Girls," from the "Chin Chin" music.

Dinner will be served early at the main house in order to give the diners time to paddle to Oatka. Large picnic parties at Oatka are asked to notify the management in advance.

Canoes will not be reserved at Oatka but will be at the service of those who get to them first.

The lark program will be given Wednesday nights, rain or shine. If the weather is fair the programs will be given on a float between the canoe float and the Oatka main porch. Rainy nights the programs will be given in the Oatka house. There will be a piano on the float, which will be moved back to the house for the regular mid-week dances which will follow the larks.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Some Divorces Justified.

It is humanity and not divorce that is at fault. The very worst thing about divorce is the company it keeps. Birds of a feather flock together, it is claimed. On that authority we should make a very villainous thing out of divorce. And yet the idea of freeing a man or woman from a cruel, degrading, hateful tie is not a bad one, nor did it originate from any desire to do the race harm. It was a helpful, even necessary, measure, provided for the safety of those who otherwise would have no redress against the wrongs heaped upon them.

The people most entitled to divorce by reason of the indignities suffered and the utter contempt and disregard in which their partners hold the marriage contract are the very ones who cannot be induced to take advantage of the means that would at least insure them peace and comfort and in many cases positive assurance that their lives would be spared them.

Patient, long suffering, meek and striving ever to find some way out of their troubles and sorrows that shall save them the disgrace of separation and the evils of divorce, such rightly principled people live their entire lives in the constant shadow of abuse, neglect and torture, endeavoring to make some good out of it, and failing utterly because the other part is wholly lost to right and decency.

What is the use of making such a tremendous sacrifice and winning at most a death bed repentance? I suppose that there are many women and a few men superhumanly loyal and loving to whom a reconciliation and a few fleeting moments of peace at the end are worth all the suffering that the preceding years have contained. But there are people just as loyal and loving, who cannot see any sense or future in putting up with poverty and neglect, physical abuse and mental suffering to no end or purpose save their own undoing and live-long misery.

No one could wish to withhold happiness from those who had endured much and reached the limit of their endurance. For people who try to do their duty and find that it is without avail, the institution of divorce should be maintained. Now and again a really worthy person takes his or her case before a divorce court and is relieved of a burden of shame and sorrow too heavy to bear. But for the most part those who flit in and out of wedlock after the fashion of a bee relieving a flower of honey, are undeserving and it is this constantly growing horde who make conservative people condemn the whole.

Use the Cheaper Cuts of Meat

Prepared for The Herald by Ada E. Hunt, Home Economics Department of the University of Wisconsin.

How can I lower the cost of the family food supply?

This is a question which many careful housekeepers are trying hard to answer. And as the meat bill is usually one of the largest, our attentions are, very naturally, first given to it.

In her desire to find a remedy the housewife may decide to try the cuts of meats which retail at low prices. Failing to produce a palatable dish she goes back, discouraged, to the well known and easily prepared tender steaks, chops and roasts.

Although highly nutritious, the cheaper cuts, unless properly handled are generally lacking in flavor, possess long and coarse fibers, and a large amount of connective tissue which the small boy calls "gristle."

To give them the desired flavor these cuts may be cooked with vegetables and carefully seasoned.

From such cuts as the lower round, the tail pieces of the porterhouse steaks, and even plate meat we can fashion delicious combinations as Salisbury steak, mock duck with dressing and garnish of vegetables, cannelon of beef, or beef loaf with tomato sauce.

The fibers of some of the cuts which we do not care to grind, can be broken by pounding with the edge of a heavy saucer or a specially devised hammer. This allows a large amount of juices to escape and lose flavor unless we take the precaution to pound flour into the meat to absorb these juices. Upon browning, the flour gives an added flavor.

Meat treated in this way is called "Swiss steak." This needs, at first, a high temperature and very careful cooking at a low temperature afterwards. Another variation may be made by using round, chuck, flank or skirt steaks with vegetables, finishing the cooking at a low temperature in a casserole, a small round porcelain dish. By cooking a pot roast slowly for several hours the connective tissues are softened and the meat made more tender.

The meat is best if first seared to retain the flavoring materials, then carefully "simmered" over a very low gas burner, on the back of range, or in the fireless cooker for a time depending on the size of the piece. Some very good cuts which may be obtained and very successfully cooked in this way are cross ribs, boned and rolled; rolled flank; chuck or rump.

In solving the meat problem the housekeeper must keep clearly in mind, the retail price, the amount of waste in fat and bone, the time and fuel consumed in preparing.

"AMERICANIZATION" IS KEYNOTE OF DULUTH'S FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION

New Citizens Hear Impressive Talks on Duties and Privileges.

Sectional Programs Given in Several of the City's Suburbs.

Perfect Weather for Picnics; No Fatal Accidents Mar Day.

Duluth's first all-day civic celebration of the Fourth of July was more properly "Americanization day" as planned, for the festive part usually dominant on such occasions was subdued and the more solemn and earnest phase of the day was emphasized.

Of course there were festive features, for the program for the day, starting at 10 o'clock in the morning, began with a relay race for The Herald trophy, and was won by the Lincoln school team over the Cathedral school by a margin of 16 seconds, but the program of the afternoon took on the Americanization air. Not only was it a novelty, but those who took part in it were impressed and inspired, as was the audience, with the truly unique position held by the United States among the great powers of the earth, being the only one not in strife.

Sectional Programs.

Aside from the main program for the city as a whole, there were sectional programs that were enjoyed by large crowds, such, for instance, that at Duluth Heights, that at the Exeter farms, and one by the Woodland Neighborhood club. Thousands of people also spent the day picnicking at various scenic points, a number of Sunday schools held their annual outdoor gatherings at city parks and other places, and the parks, generally, were alive with families who were taking the opportunity afforded by the holiday and the unusually fine weather to have an outing.

As to the weather, it was perfect for such an occasion and vindicated the declaration of Weather Forecaster Richardson, made on Saturday, that Monday would be fine.

Free From Accidents.

Another thing, over which the police department is feeling happy, is the fact that the day was singularly free from accidents of any kind. As to injuries from explosives, the list is at a minimum. There were few burns reported, and only one case was found where anything of a dangerous nature resulted from the use of fireworks or fire-crackers. This is the second celebration in Duluth of the nation's natal day on which this condition has existed, and it is looked upon as vindicating the stern regulations of the police and city officers against the indiscriminate use of explosives of heavy force.

In the bay a pretty picture was presented during the day and evening. The naval militia training ships, Gopher of the Minnesota contingent and Isle de Luzon of the Illinois divisions, were decorated from top-mast to waterline with flags and bunting, and in the evening both were dressed with lights. A great many visitors were shown over both vessels.

Jackies in Race.

Yesterday afternoon jackies from both boats were given shore leave, and visited the two cities at the Head of the Lakes in company, the Gopher men acting as escorts for the visitors. In the afternoon a race between six-oared crews of the two ships took place, resulting in a victory for the Gopher crew, by two lengths. Last night the officers of the Gopher entertained the officers of the Isle de Luzon at dinner at the Spalding, and this noon the Illinois boat pulled out for home.

As to private celebrations of the day, it is estimated that fully 10,000 people went "somewhere," as they say in France these days, to spend the day, taking steamers and trains out of the city. Every motorboat in the harbor and river was in use with parties who were out to get all the good out of the day that they could, and auto parties were too numerous to mention. Lake Nebagamon and Solon Springs were favorite holiday places for many hundreds, it is estimated that close to 1,000 people went to the Twin Cities for the day, and an innumerable host went to streams and lakes along the various lines of road for fishing.

Many at Fond du Lac.

Fond du Lac, as always, was the magnet for several thousand people and the steamers that carry excursions to that point were kept the busiest they have been in several years. Lester park, that old and favored beauty spot, was not forgotten by any means, for it was the object of travel of hundreds of Duluthians who sought its cooling shades and pretty groves for the day. In fact there was not one of the scores of active places about the city that did not entertain many scores of Duluthians and their families.

The afternoon's formal program for Americanization day was not as largely attended by the public in general as usual, for the reason, it is believed, that too many had not waited in the city, getting out to beauty places early in order to get placed for the day and not have the more attractive spots usurped by early-comers.

Parade Is Short.

The parade, with which the program started, was not all that could be desired. It lacked much of what Duluth has been accustomed to. It was deplorably short and floats were completely absent. In fact there was nothing picturesque about it. Also the spectators were fewer than usual.

Following the parade, the program, as announced, was given at courthouse square. The Women's Relief corps had decorated the speakers' stand handsomely and members of the same organization pinned citizenship badges on the breasts of the 225 newly made citizens who took part in the affair. The Third Regiment band played with its usual excellence during the parade and gave an attractive program at courthouse square. Mayor Prince presided and introduced the speakers, who were Federal Judge Page Morris and Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden. J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, led the audience in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Following the Americanization day program, Mr. Batchelor and his assistants staged a play festival on the courthouse grounds for the children of the city. A series of 100 games were played, including volley ball, tug-of-war, peanut scrambles, dances, field sports and drop-the-handkerchief. During the play the Third Regiment band rendered a program of patriotic music.

Fireworks at Country Club.

Hundreds of Duluthians witnessed the fireworks display on the Northland Country club grounds in the evening. The program started about 9 o'clock and continued until 11 o'clock, when the "Good night" piece was set. Automobiles lined both sides of Superior street along the club grounds, while men, women and children were massed on the entire golf course.

Among the large set pieces were whistling rockets, a monoplane raid, salute to the Stars and Stripes, floral bombs and volcanic gardens.

At courthouse square, the program was opened by a speech of welcome to the newly made citizens by Mayor Prince, following which Judge Morris was introduced, and the program was closed by Col. Graves.

Judge Morris, who has granted citizenship to thousands of aliens while serving on the Federal bench, spoke with great solemnity to the new citizens, making an earnest appeal to them to not only take advantage of the wonderful opportunities offered by the land of their adoption, but also to fit themselves by education and loyalty to return, in so far as possible, an adequate service to this country for the many opportunities offered them. No nation in the world, he declared, offers such advantages to its adopted sons and daughters as do the United States of America. The priceless legacy of liberty, free education, free speech, free ballot and unparalleled commercial and industrial advantages are among the things offered to every foreigner who qualifies as a citizen of this country, he said.

Contrast Is Sharp.

While the nations of the old world are running red with blood and fathers and brothers are torn from their homes and families, he pointed out, the citizens of the United States are enjoying peace, prosperity and happiness. He declared that the great European war was bringing a new era of patriotism in America, and that both naturalized and native-born citizens are coming to realize more and more what it means to be citizens of this great country, to enjoy its freedom, partake of its wealth, and help frame its laws and choose its governing officials.

It was particularly fitting, he said, that the Fourth of July should give an Americanization program, and impress upon its new citizens the meaning of the nation's natal day and that the example of the forefathers should be set up before them, inspiring them with the deeds of bravery, sacrifice, industry and loyalty. Naturalization from now on will be more solemn and all Federal officials in charge of this work will make the occasion more solemn and impressive, was the prediction of the judge.

In conclusion he urged the new citizens to be loyal and true to their new country, become familiar with its laws and customs, learn to speak its language intelligently, take part in its politics and promote civic righteousness and justice.

Comparing America with the European nations, the respective governments, laws and institutions, Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden, addressed Duluth's new citizens at the Americanization day program on "American Citizens; Their Duties," and urged them to study the laws, to always cast a vote, to defend the country whenever necessary, and to educate their children to good citizenship.

Col. Graves' address follows, in part:

"I have been requested to speak on this occasion, because of the fact that I have lived nine years in Europe, living in one of the countries from which you new citizens came, as the representative there of the United States of America.

"During that residence abroad I was very much interested in studying the constitutions and laws of those countries, and in noting the differences between them and those of our republic.

"It is an honor to have been born in one of those great and historic nations, of which you may always be proud. Now you have acquired citizenship in this new land. With it you have gained considerable advantages.

"This is a republic where each and every man is equal before the law. You can go into court of justice here or appear before any judge or government officer, knowing that no other man will have any more consideration than you have because he has a title or is of noble birth, as is the case in many monarchies.

"You can go to the polls on election day and cast one ballot—just as much as anyone else. In some other countries a man has as many votes as his wealth calls for; sometimes as many as twenty to your one.

"In one country in Europe a man has a vote in every locality where he owns property. That is not so in America.

Schools Free to All.

"In this country your children can go to the public schools, to the best schools in the land, with just as good chances for education as the children of anyone, no matter what may be their wealth or position, and you will find in those schools the children of all the people. Go over this city and this whole country and see the schoolhouse buildings. There is no such sight elsewhere in the world.

"In this country you have equal opportunity with everyone else, and can acquire wealth and position if your ability equals it. You will not be debarred because you were born a farmer or a laborer, nor will you be held to the same position in life and employment as your parents. I have lived in this community for forty years and have known hundreds of foreign-born. I have seen hundreds of them come to wealth.

"In short, you have now become free citizens of a free country, with equal rights, privileges and opportunities. Thousands of your fellow-countrymen have come here before you, and have found happiness and success here. I hope it may be the case with you. Here is your change. Go in and win.

Duties Required.

"But with these rights and privileges there come duties. They are not hard duties, but you must do them, that these free institutions may continue to bless you and your children.

"You must see to it that your vote and influence always goes for honest and conservative government. Never vote for a thief or a liar. Don't be fooled by mere fine words, and don't be led off after absurd and impossible schemes. HELP RANGES CELEBRATE

Duluth Motorists in Evidence in All Parts of Iron Country.

Vermilion Road Suffered From Rains—Fishing Reported Good.

Duluth automobilists were much in evidence in the range towns yesterday, and everywhere cars bearing Duluth pennants could be seen.

From Biwabik to Grand Rapids the range cities, towns and villages were celebrating. They were gaily decorated with flags and bunting, and baseball games, field sports, parades, and races were the center of attraction.

Many Duluthians took the range trip to view the celebrations, and hundreds of cars passed over the Vermilion and the Miller Trunk roads.

Duluthians who went by one road and returned by the other, report the Miller Trunk road to be in much better condition than the newer highway to the range. The Vermilion has suffered from the heavy rains, and there are many deep ruts. The stretch just beyond the Island Lake inn is also dangerous in places, and a slight swerve would send a car into the muddy ditch.

The range roads are in excellent condition despite the rains, and Duluth cars could be seen on almost any road leading to good fishing spots adjacent to the range cities. Among the favorite spots for Duluth motorists seemed to be the bass lakes north of Grand Rapids, Vermilion lake, the lakes around Ely and Tower, and trout streams near Carlton and Cloquet and along the north shore of Lake Superior.

From the reports brought back by the fishermen, the bass and pike fishing is good. Several parties had excellent luck with pike on Lake Vermilion, and some good catches of bass were made.

ARCHBISHOP IS GROWING WEAKER

Not Thought That Catholic Prelate Will Survive Long.

Rochester, N. Y., July 6.—James Edward Quigley, Catholic archbishop of Chicago, ill here at the home of his brother, is gradually growing weaker and the end may come at any moment, according to the statement issued by his physicians early today. Free use of stimulants was being continued. Among the visitors to the bedside of the sinking prelate today was Auxiliary Bishop Paul R. Rhode of Chicago.

At 1 o'clock the archbishop's condition was worse. The patient was in a semi-conscious state, the paralysis had reached the vocal chords and relatives were notified that signs of approaching death were apparent. It was not thought the prelate would survive the nightfall.

DIAZ FUNERAL HELD IN PARIS

Large Attendance at Services for the Former President of Mexico.

Paris, July 6.—The funeral of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, the former president of Mexico, was held at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the Catholic church of St. Honore d'Eylau. The ceremony was largely attended and included the representatives of the government of France and the city of Paris.

Mexico was represented by Francisco de la Barra, and all the prominent members of the Mexican colony. The Ecuadorean minister to France, and the military attache of the Japanese embassy also were present.

The body of the late Mexican president was deposited in the vault of the church, where it will await shipment to America a few days hence.

SOUTH DAKOTANS ARE HURT BY EXPLOSION

Java, S. D., July 6.—Fred Taumann, aged 21, was probably fatally injured and Fred Weisgram and John and Fred Spiry were seriously hurt Monday by the explosion of a two-pound sack of giant powder while they were firing charges in an anvil in celebration of Independence day.

LOFTUS GETS "DECISION."

Declared to Have Better of Debate With Treadwell Twichell.

Aneta, N. D., July 6.—The famous debate held here between George Loftus of St. Paul and Treadwell Twichell of Cass county, N. D., as to whether a terminal elevator should be established by the state at St. Paul and whether the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce "beared" wheat prices, as claimed by Loftus, ended, it is declared, in Loftus' favor by an almost unanimous vote. The discussion was followed by several thousand people from all over the state and of all political creeds and Loftus is declared to have had the better of the discussion.

Resolutions were adopted to the effect that the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce is depriving wheat growers of from 15 to 25 cents per bushel on their grain and "have so robbed the producers for many years"; that the attorney general of the United States has had proof of alleged unlawful acts on the part of the Mill City concern for eighteen months and has done nothing to prosecute, and condemning the delay of the department of justice. A copy of the resolutions will be forwarded to Attorney General Gregory.

Mr. Twichell concurred in the resolution calling for the investigation.

One of the most interesting features of the argument was the remedy proposed by Mr. Twichell for the evils to which the grain producers of the state are now subjected. He admitted many of Mr. Loftus' statements in regard to these evils but maintained that they could not be cured by the terminal elevator in St. Paul.

SENATOR CUMMINS MILL CITY ORATOR

Says If America Is Ever Assailed Foreign Born Will Fight.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—Amid waving flags and fluttering colors of red, white and blue, with the band waiting to take up the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner," hundreds of newly naturalized citizens and hundreds more whose citizenship is of longer standing repeated the oath of allegiance to the flag and to the republic it represents at Minneapolis' first Americanization day celebration at the Armory yesterday afternoon.

John Lind, introduced as chairman by President W. F. Decker of the Civic and Commerce association, spoke briefly and in turn introduced Senator Knute Nelson.

Senator Nelson, likewise, did not speak at length. He said he considered Senator Cummins the real orator of the day and refused to intrude at length upon his time.

Last Great War.

Senator Cummins was listened to with close attention, which merged into enthusiasm when, in closing, he predicted that this might be the last of all wars, but that if the honor of the United States were assailed the foreign-born citizens would be found shoulder to shoulder with the native-born American.

The meeting closed with the singing of "America" by the entire audience.

St. Paul's Celebration.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—More than 20,000 children participated in an Independence day program at Como park Monday, at which citizens naturalized during the last year were guests.

William Mack, aged 13, was the victime of the most serious accident here. His right hand was blown off by the premature explosion of a toy cannon. Several other children suffered minor burns.

TROLLEY TRAFFIC SETS YEAR'S RECORD

Street Cars Carry 60,000 Passengers; Jitneys Take in $600.

The Duluth Street Railway company broke all records for the year yesterday, carrying in all 60,000 persons who paid cash fares. This record beats that of Memorial day. Jitneys also did a big business, cutting into the street car traffic to the extent of $600.

The street railway carried hundreds of passengers to Superior, where a big Fourth of July program was staged. The jitneys did most of their business between Twenty-ninth avenue west and Sixteenth avenue east. Many passengers rode the "jits" to and from Lincoln park. Few jitneys made the run from Duluth to Superior.

The street cars ran between the two cities until late this morning, greatly extending their schedule. About seventy cars, which included twenty extras, were run on the street railway lines during the day.

What to Do for Itching Skins

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment, that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is, the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for 20 years.

Resinol stops itching instantly, and almost always heals the eruption quickly at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's, and are not at all expensive. Write for free sample, Dept. 22-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Heat a Menace to Lives of Old Folks

Sickness and Misery Are Caused by Constipation in Hot Weather.

People of advancing years should be very careful of their health during the hot months. One has only to follow the mortality record of elderly people as reported in the papers, to realize that these are the hardest months of the year for them.

It is most important to the maintenance of health and vigor at this time to avoid constipation, with its accompanying headaches and muscular and blood congestion. This can be best accomplished by the timely use of a gentle laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, an ideal remedy that is pleasant to the taste, easy and natural in its action and does not gripe. Its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system.

Elderly people should avoid strong physics, cathartics purgatives, salts and pills as these afford only temporary relief and are a shock to the entire system. In every home a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should always be on hand. It is inexpensive and can be obtained in any drug store for only fifty cents For a free trial bottle write to Dr. Caldwell, 453 Washington street, Monticello, Ill.

"AMERICANIZATION" IS KEYNOTE OF DULUTH'S FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION

New Citizens Hear Impressive Talks on Duties and Privileges.

Sectional Programs Given in Several of the City's Suburbs.

Perfect Weather for Picnics; No Fatal Accidents Mar Day.

Duluth's first all-day civic celebration of the Fourth of July was more properly "Americanization day" as planned, for the festive part usually dominant on such occasions was subdued and the more solemn and earnest phase of the day was emphasized.

Of course there were festive features, for the program for the day, starting at 10 o'clock in the morning, began with a relay race for The Herald trophy, and was won by the Lincoln school team over the Cathedral school by a margin of 16 seconds, but the program of the afternoon took on the Americanization air. Not only was it a novelty, but those who took part in it were impressed and inspired, as was the audience, with the truly unique position held by the United States among the great powers of the earth, being the only one not in strife.

Sectional Programs.

Aside from the main program for the city as a whole, there were sectional programs that were enjoyed by large crowds, such, for instance, that at Duluth Heights, that at the Exeter farms, and one by the Woodland Neighborhood club. Thousands of people also spent the day picnicking at various scenic points, a number of Sunday schools held their annual outdoor gatherings at city parks and other places, and the parks, generally, were alive with families who were taking the opportunity afforded by the holiday and the unusually fine weather to have an outing.

As to the weather, it was perfect for such an occasion and vindicated the declaration of Weather Forecaster Richardson, made on Saturday, that Monday would be fine.

Free From Accidents.

Another thing, over which the police department is feeling happy, is the fact that the day was singularly free from accidents of any kind. As to injuries from explosives, the list is at a minimum. There were few burns reported, and only one case was found where anything of a dangerous nature resulted from the use of fireworks or fire-crackers. This is the second celebration in Duluth of the nation's natal day on which this condition has existed, and it is looked upon as vindicating the stern regulations of the police and city officers against the indiscriminate use of explosives of heavy force.

In the bay a pretty picture was presented during the day and evening. The naval militia training ships, Gopher of the Minnesota contingent and Isle de Luzon of the Illinois divisions, were decorated from top-mast to waterline with flags and bunting, and in the evening both were dressed with lights. A great many visitors were shown over both vessels.

Jackies in Race.

Yesterday afternoon jackies from both boats were given shore leave, and visited the two cities at the Head of the Lakes in company, the Gopher men acting as escorts for the visitors. In the afternoon a race between six-oared crews of the two ships took place, resulting in a victory for the Gopher crew, by two lengths. Last night the officers of the Gopher entertained the officers of the Isle de Luzon at dinner at the Spalding, and this noon the Illinois boat called out for home.

As to private celebrations of the day, it is estimated that fully 10,000 people went "somewhere," as they say in France these days, to spend the day, and river was in use with parties who were out to get all the good out of the day that they could, and auto parties were too numerous to mention. Lake Nebagamon and Solon Springs were favorite holiday places for many hundreds, it is estimated that close to 1,000 people went to the Twin Cities for the day, and an innumerable host went in streams and lakes along the various lines of road for fishing.

Many at Fond du Lac.

Fond du Lac, as always, was the magnet for several thousand people and the steamers that carry excursions to that point were kept the busiest they have been in several years. Lester park, that old and favored Duluth spot, was not forgotten by many means, for it was the object of travel of hundreds of Duluthians who sought its cooling shades and pretty groves for the day. In fact there was not one of the scores of attractive places about the city that did not entertain many scores of Duluthians and their families.

The afternoon's formal program for Americanization day was not as largely attended by the public in general, as usual, for the reason, it is believed, that too many had not waited in the city, getting out to beauty places early in order to get placed for the day and not have the more attractive spots usurped by early-comers.

Parade Is Short.

The parade, with which the program started, was not all that could be desired. It lacked much of what Duluth has been accustomed to. It was deplorably short and floats were completely absent. In fact there was nothing picturesque about it. Also the spectators were fewer than usual.

Following the parade, the program, as announced, was given at courthouse square. The Women's Relief corps had decorated the speakers' stand handsomely and members of the same organization pinned citizenship badges on the breasts of the 225 newly made citizens who took part in the affair. The Third Regiment band played with its usual excellence during the parade and gave an attractive program at courthouse square. Mayor Prince presided and introduced the speakers, who were Federal Judge Page Morris and Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden. J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, led the audience in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Following the Americanization day program, Mr. Batchelor and his assistants staged a play festival on the courthouse grounds for the children of the city. A series of 100 games were played, including volley ball, tug-of-war, peanut scrambles, dances, field sports and drop-the-handkerchief. During the play the Third Regiment band rendered a program of patriotic music.

Fireworks at Country Club.

Hundreds of Duluthians witnessed the fireworks display on the Northland Country club grounds in the evening. The program started about 9 o'clock and continued until 11 o'clock, when the "Good night" piece was set. Automobiles lined both sides of Superior street along the club grounds, while men, women and children were massed on the entire golf course.

Among the large set pieces were whistling rockets, a monoplane raid, salute to the Stars and Stripes, floral bombs and volcanic gardens.

At courthouse square, the program was opened by a speech of welcome to the newly made citizens by Mayor Prince, following which Judge Morris was introduced, and the program was closed by Col. Graves.

Judge Morris, who has granted citizenship to thousands of aliens while serving on the Federal bench, spoke with great solemnity to the new citizens, making an earnest appeal to them to not only take advantage of the wonderful opportunities offered by the land of their adoption, but also to fit themselves by education and loyalty to return, in so far as possible, an adequate service to this country for the many opportunities offered them. No nation in the world, he declared, offers such advantages to its adopted sons and daughters as do the United States of America. The priceless legacy of liberty, free education, free speech, free ballot and unparalleled commercial and industrial advantages are among the things offered to every foreigner who qualifies as a citizen of this country, he said.

Contrast Is Sharp.

While the nations of the old world are running red with blood and fathers and brothers are torn from their homes and families, he pointed out, the citizens of the United States are enjoying peace, prosperity and happiness. He declared that the great European war was bringing a new era of patriotism in America, and that both naturalized and native-born citizens are coming to realize more and more what it means to be citizens of this great country, to enjoy its freedom, partake of its wealth, and help frame its laws and choose its governing officials.

It was particularly fitting, he said, that the Fourth of July should give an Americanization program, and impress upon its new citizens the meaning of the nation's natal day and that the example of the forefathers should be set up before them, inspiring them with the deeds of bravery, sacrifice, industry and loyalty. Naturalization from now on will be more solemn and all Federal officials in charge of this work will make the occasion more solemn and impressive, was the prediction of the judge.

In conclusion he urged the new citizens to be loyal and true to their new country, become familiar with its laws and customs, learn to speak its language intelligently, take part in its politics and promote civic righteousness and justice.

Comparing America with the European nations, the respective governments, laws and institutions, Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden, addressed Duluth's new citizens at the Americanization day program on "American Citizens; Their Duties," and urged them to study the laws, to always cast a vote, to defend the country whenever necessary, and to educate their children to good citizenship.

Col. Graves' address follows, in part:

"I have been requested to speak on this occasion, because of the fact that I have lived nine years in Europe, living in one of the countries from which you new citizens came, as the representative there of the United States of America.

"During that residence abroad I was very much interested in studying the constitutions and laws of those countries, and in noting the differences between them and those of our republic.

"It is an honor to have been born in one of those great and historic nations, of which you may always be proud. Now you have acquired citizenship in this new land. With it you have gained considerable advantages.

"This is a republic where each and every man is equal before the law. You can go into court of justice here or appear before any judge or government officer, knowing that no other man will have any more consideration than you have because he has a title or is of noble birth, as is the case in many monarchies.

"You can go to the polls on election day and cast one ballot—just as much as anyone else. In some other countries a man has as many votes as his wealth calls for; sometimes as many as twenty to your one.

"In one country in Europe a man has a vote in every locality where he owns property. That is not so in America.

Schools Free to All.

"In this country your children can go to the public schools, to the best schools in the land, with just as good chances for education as the children of anyone, no matter what may be their wealth or position, and you will find in those schools the children of all the people. Go over this city and this whole country and see the schoolhouse buildings. There is no such sight elsewhere in the world.

"In this country you have equal opportunity with everyone else, and can acquire wealth and position if your ability equals it. You will not be debarred because you were born a farmer or a laborer, nor will you be held to the same position in life and employment as your parents. I have lived in this community for forty years and have known hundreds of foreign-born. I have seen hundreds of them come to wealth.

"In short, you have now become free citizens of a free country, with equal rights, privileges and opportunities. Thousands of your fellow-countrymen have come here before you, and have found happiness and success here. I hope that may be the case with you. Here is your change. Go in and win.

Duties Required.

"But with these rights and privileges there come duties. They are not hard duties, but you must do them, that these free institutions may continue to bless you and your children.

"You must see to it that your vote and influence always goes for honest and conservative government. Never vote for a thief or a liar. Don't be fooled by mere fine words, and don't be led off after absurd and impossible schemes. Apply your good common sense to the judgment of candidates for office and to your judgment of public measures.

"Remember also that this is now your country—as much yours as mine. Stand ready to defend it, if need be, and back up those who do defend it.

"Inform yourselves on all public affairs. Attend public meetings and learn what is going on.

"In connection with that, there is to be tomorrow night a meeting in this city to consider the question of the national defense. I recommend you to go to it. You will hear some things of value and of interest.

"You are now a citizen, one of the rulers of this nation as much as any man. Take your share of the privileges and your full share of the duties, and may God bless you and yours, and make you very happy in this new free land."

TROLLEY TRAFFIC SETS YEAR'S RECORD

Street Cars Carry 60,000 Passengers; Jitneys Take in $600.

The Duluth Street Railway company broke all records for the year yesterday, carrying in all 60,000 persons who paid cash fares. This record beats that of Memorial day. Jitneys also did a big business, cutting into the street car traffic to the extent of $600.

The street railway carried hundreds of passengers to Superior, where a big Fourth of July program was staged. The jitneys did most of their business between Twenty-ninth avenue west and Sixteenth avenue east. Many passengers rode the "jits" to and from Lincoln park. Few jitneys made the run from Duluth to Superior.

The street cars ran between the two cities until late this morning, greatly extending their schedule. About seventy cars, which included twenty extras, were run on the street railway lines during the day.

Acquit N. D. Banker.

What to Do for Itching Skins

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment, that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is, the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for 20 years.

Resinol stops itching instantly, and almost always heals the eruption quickly at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's, and are not at all expensive. Write for free sample, Dept. 22-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Heat a Menace to Lives of Old Folks

Sickness and Misery Are Caused by Constipation in Hot Weather.

People of advancing years should be very careful of their health during the hot months. One has only to follow the mortality record of elderly people as reported in the papers, to realize that these are the hardest months of the year for them.

It is most important to the maintenance of health and vigor at this time to avoid constipation, with its accompanying headaches and muscular and blood congestion. This can be best accomplished by the timely use of a gentle laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, an ideal remedy that is pleasant to the taste, easy and natural in its action and does not gripe. Its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system.

Elderly people should avoid strong physics, cathartics purgatives, salts and pills as these afford only temporary relief and are a shock to the entire system. In every home a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should always be on hand. It is inexpensive and can be obtained in any drug store for only fifty cents For a free trial bottle write to Dr. Caldwell, 453 Washington street, Monticello, Ill.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."
GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
REX—Max Figman in "My Best Girl," photoplay.

GRAND POPULAR ON FOURTH.

Large Crowds See Classy New Vaudeville and Picture Bill.

The Fourth of July was a big day at the New Grand despite the many outside attractions. A new bill, one of the classiest seen in some time, opened yesterday, and crowded houses greeted every performance. The new show is right and full of ginger, making an ideal entertainment for the summer season.

Bill Dooley had a bit of nearly everything in a vaudeville way in his act, and he proved one of the most popular players on the bill. His rope throwing, enhanced by a good line of breezy comedy, proved very entertaining.

Eastman and Moore in "His Gypsy Sweetheart," had an excellent line of songs and chatter, which took well. Cooper and Ricardo in character comedy, songs and chatter did their part well and in a decidedly original manner.

The Three Lyres in a musical diversion headlined the bill, and introduced many lines of instrumental music, all of which was done cleverly, proving the musicians to possess much talent. Patriotic airs proved popular in this act.

"Providence and Mrs. Urmy," a three-reel feature film, starring Francis X Bushman and Beverly Bayne, was a strong screen attraction. Two comedy films rounded out the bill.

Today and tomorrow the $10,000-prize feature film, "The Diamond From the Sky," will be given as an added attraction.

Theater Gossip.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is apparently bearing out the theory of Walter S. Baldwin, manager of the Baldwin company, that theater patrons enjoy seeing old-time favorites revived.

"UNCLE TOM" DRAWS WELL.

Sunday afternoon the Baldwin Players had the biggest audience of the spring and summer season. The evening audience and yesterday's were also large, and if the remainder of the week is proportionately good, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be the best drawing card of the entire season of the company since its reopening in January. The only downcast member of the company is "Al" Smith, the property man, who is disconsolate because he failed to get the proper kind of dogs. His "bloodhounds" were altogether too tame for the purpose, and the crossing of the ice would have been ridiculous instead of thrilling with his pets in the role of bloodthirsty beasts. Consequently the scene was changed to eliminate the dogs, but with the addition of the Nashville jubilee singers, the production is quite elaborate, and lives up to the expectations of those who saw "Uncle Tom" twenty years ago.

An unusually high-class attraction is at the Rex theater today—Max Figman and Lois Meredith in the Rolf-Metro feature, "My Best Girl," who will appear on the screen both today and tomorrow. This will be the first joint appearance of these noted stars in the "movies."

MAX FIGMAN AT THE REX.

Mr. Figman, who is widely known because of his remarkable record in "The Man on the Box," is said to be even funnier in this film drama. Miss Meredith is known here for her work as the telephone girl in "The Woman."

In addition to the film program, Kenneth E. Runkel will play a program of music on the pipe organ.

Important Meeting.

Members of the Wide-Awake club will attend Gray's half price coat and suit sale.

A CAB DOOR NEEDED.

Philadelphia Record: A number of jockeys and horses had lined up for the start of a free-for-all steeplechase, but a delay occurred owing to a tall, raw-boned beast obstinately refusing to yield to the importunities of the starter.

The patience of that gentleman was pretty well exhausted.

"Bring up that horse," he shouted; "bring him up! You'll get into trouble if you don't!"

The rider of the stupid animal, a grocer's delivery boy, yelled back:

"I can't help it. This here's been a cab horse, and he won't move till the door shuts; and there ain't no door."

"Voter" Who Had Celebrated Too Well Tries to Interrupt Suffrage Meeting

"SOAP BOX" CAMPAIGNING UP-TO-DATE.
Miss Elsa Ueland Speaking for Suffrage From Rear of Automobile.

An anti-suffragist, who had celebrated Independence day thoroughly, if not wisely, thought he would finish the day by causing a disturbance at the open air meeting held last night at Superior street and Second avenue west by members of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage.

"That's all right, don't pay any attention to him," said Miss Mabel Vernon, whose speech he had interrupted. "Evidently he isn't responsible, but he's a voter."

In addition to last night's meeting three open air meetings were held yesterday by Miss Vernon of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Gertrude Hunter and Miss Elsa Ueland, both of Minneapolis. A morning meeting was held at Superior street and Second avenue east, a noon meeting in Superior and an afternoon one in West Duluth.

Mrs. Hunter and Miss Ueland explained how the work, that was formerly done in the home under the direct supervision of the women who were responsible for it, has been taken out of the home and that the women are anxious to do their parts to help the men to care for this enlarged housekeeping.

Conditions Have Changed.

"Enlarging on this point," Miss Vernon said, "about a century ago women spun and wove and made the clothes for the women and the men of the family and if the material was not all wool the women were to blame. How would you men like to go back to that time and wear clothes of home-spun? How would you like to wear hose your wives knit?"

As there were no Belgian refugees who had been puzzled to distinguish between toes and heels Miss Vernon's question was not answered.

"Foods in bottles, cans and packages were adulterated and treated with preservatives that were harmful after food was prepared in factories instead of in homes," she said, "and a law was passed to remedy this evil. Your own city is doing housekeeping on a big scale and the women want to help in the work they understand. Commissions that are appointed for factory inspection, for juvenile courts and for other things in which women are interested have women on them so woman's point of view may be obtained."

Broader Suffrage for Men.

Miss Vernon reviewed the enfranchisement of negroes, Indians and native-born Chinese since the adoption of the Constitution, the proposed extension of the franchise to Filipinos and spoke of the celebrations held yesterday in many cities to welcome the newly-naturalized American citizens. She contrasted the eagerness with which the government has extended the rights of citizenship to all classes of men with the feeble excuses that have been put forward to keep women from getting the ballot or delaying the time as long as possible.

Miss Vernon and Miss Ueland left last night for Minneapolis. Miss Vernon will go to Denver and then to Nevada and Miss Ueland will go to the southern part of the state. They will speak in favor of the Susan B. Anthony Federal amendment for woman suffrage, which was first presented in 1875 and which the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, through the women voters of the twelve equal suffrage states, are working to make a reality at the next session of congress.

Mrs. Hunter left today for a trip over the Eighth district before going to Wyoming to work for the Federal amendment.

OLD REALTY DISPUTE NOW BEFORE COURT

Transfer of Property Brings About a Legal Tangle.

A dispute over a real estate transaction, which took place eight years ago, is today being aired before District Judge Cant in an action which Edward Finch of Virginia has brought against Ida C. Rossom, as the legal representative of the estate of her late husband, Fred B. Rossom, and the Rossom Investment company.

Mr. Rossom was engaged in the real estate business prior to his death. The plaintiff claims that back in May, 1907, Mr. Rossom, while acting as agent for John L. Owens and himself, purchased 280 acres of land in sections 2 and 9, 60-15. Mr. Finch claims that he and Mr. Owens gave Mr. Rossom $885 as purchase money. The latter had the deed made out to himself, and it is claimed that the agreement was to reconvey it in equal shares to Finch and Owens, reserving for himself an undivided one-sixth interest in the mineral rights.

The plaintiff asserts that Mr. Rossom transferred him his share, but did not convey to Mr. Owens. The latter has assigned his interest to Mr. Finch, and the suit is one to compel the conveyance of Owen's share. The title is now held by the Rossom Investment company.

Most of the merchant's REAL anxieties grow out of his absurd anxiety not to spend too much in advertising.

ASK GOVERNMENT TO REFUSE CLEARANCE

Petition Presented By Labor Interests Bearing on Munitions.

Washington, July 6.—The United States is urged to refuse clearance to any ships carrying munitions of war in a petition presented to Secretary Lansing today by Representative Buchanan and Former Representative Fowler of Illinois and Frank S. Monnett, former attorney general of Ohio, who were acting in behalf of the national labor peace council.

The organization's membership is said to be made up mainly of members of labor organizations. The petition contends that clearance of such vessels is, in effect, at least, violation of neutrality.

Secretary Lansing, it was stated, asked them not to discuss their conference for publication and they will later file data with the department.

"PIFFLE!"

The morning paper yesterday, choosing the morning of Independence day, published a long and remarkable interview with Chester A. Congdon of Duluth, whom it describes as "financier, lawyer, globe-trotter, student of international politics." In this amazing outgiving, apparently, Mr. Congdon sought to use the results of his experience as "financier, lawyer, globe-trotter, student of international politics" in destroying whatever respect Americans may have for their country.

So fantastic is the type of patriotism this interview discloses that, for the respect in which we have held Mr. Congdon, we shall hope to hear that he was misquoted.

Bile rather than reason or patriotism seems to characterize the interview in the form in which it was published. For instance:

> If Germany wins in the present war, the kaiser will be the master of the land and the water. If, then, we are in our present defenseless condition, he will need to send to us only commands, and we will obey them; for to resist would mean only death.
> If the allies win, England will be the mistress of the seas, and on them we will do whatever she orders, because we must.
>
> The smug satisfaction with which we exploit our exceptional goodness to mankind has aroused the contempt of the world. No one save ourselves believes in it. Our ever-shouted goodness is believed to be a mere cover for our unwillingness to fight.
> Etc., etc., etc., ad nauseam.

Mr. Congdon has drawn—or has been represented as having drawn—a pitiful picture of the United States as the abject butt of the world's jokes and the prospective helpless subject of the world's pillage. He draws—or is represented as drawing—a picture of the United States as a weak, supine, backboneless, hypocritical and impotent creature with no achievements that anybody will recognize and no rights that anybody will respect.

Americans will scarcely recognize their country as thus described; and not even a much more elaborate catalogue of the gossip affected in the luxurious smoking rooms of palace steamers, with their abundance of social condiments, by the class of dilettante shapers of world policies usually found there, and of the bumptious junkerisms of renegade European editors in Oriental communities, will convince them that it is a true picture.

A country that, though confessedly unprepared for a great war, has just brought about a manifest revolution in Germany's submarine campaign, so that instead of being sunk without warnings—crews, passengers and all—vessels are now halted and searched and their human occupants given a chance to escape, does not deserve this appallingly contemptuous abuse.

The burden of it all is that unless we vie with the caste-ridden nations of Europe in their mad and stupid competition to see which can groan most bitterly under the burden of armament, when the war is over, no matter who wins, we shall be the errand boy of the victor.

Mr. Congdon's fancy may be able to paint a mind picture of the victor, whether he be king or kaiser, issuing orders to the United States, and the United States cringingly obeying. Ours cannot; nor do we believe that many people, anywhere in the world, are nursing such silly fancies.

Many advocate better preparedness for emergency on the part of the United States, but few couple it with a sneer except those who wish to charge unpreparedness upon the present administration, and thereby manufacture political capital out of it. We do not charge that Mr. Congdon is attempting this, even though his utterances harmonize with those of partisans engaged in such enterprises.

The old wives' tales told with bated breath by Mr. Congdon have a very familiar ring. They seem to be a faithful reflection of an amusing book published a few years ago by a young man named Homer Lea, whose callow reflections, though laughed at by those not subject to the sway of shallow panic, were swallowed with amazing credulity by many in whom they created absurd and pathetic alarms.

Men may and do differ honestly on the questions of preparedness and its sinister exaggeration, militarism; but there is no reason why they should not differ in peace and mutual respect. Those advocates of militarism who seek to advance their cause by beating tin tom-toms do it no good, and to foster militarism by seeking to create contempt for one's country can have but two effects: to irritate and antagonize or, if the attempt succeeds, to compel a belief that a thing so contemptible is not worth fighting for.

Mr. Congdon tells us that when American troops landed in Vera Cruz and President Wilson told the world that conquest was not our aim—an utterance which Mr. Congdon describes with biting sarcasm—a Hongkong editor ran the president's statement as an editorial, with this one word in comment: "Piffle!"

Thus Mr. Congdon supplies the one word that fittingly describes the interview he is represented as having given out for publication.

If Mr. Congdon has been misrepresented, we are sorry for him.

If not, we are ashamed of him.

There are strong weatheristic arguments in favor of always having the Fourth come on the Fifth.

A CHANCE TO HELP POLAND.

The Poles of Duluth for some time have been contributing to the relief of stricken Poland out of their own slender means.

Saturday they will give the rest of us a chance to contribute to this best of all causes. There will be a Tag day collection, the results of which will go toward relieving the incredible and indescribable sufferings of war-ravaged Poland.

Terrible as are the sufferings of the Belgians, to whom Duluth has given generously, the sufferings of the Poles are a thousand times worse.

One flood of war passed over Belgium, and so far it remains.

But in Poland war has been a flame that passed over once, passed over twice, passed over thrice—and now is passing over again. Each time it passed, it seemed to blast everything in its path. It might have seemed that the first blast was so terrible that the full capacity for human suffering had been reached; but each time the flame has passed it has added enormously to sufferings already too great for human endurance.

Poland, like Belgium, is a non-combatant. It is as completely guiltless of responsibility for this war as a gentle sisterhood in its nunnery. Yet of all the peoples engaged, none have been so terribly flayed as the Poles.

Poland, the country of Kosciuszko, the country of Chopin, the country of Paderewski and Sienkiewicz, the country of a people who love liberty as much as any people on earth and have enjoyed less of it than most, is prostrate, stricken, destroyed. The all-embracing flame of war has annihilated castle and hovel alike. Not only men of military age but women, children and the old have sunk under the torture of all-destroying war. Shells have shattered, fire has flayed. Want, wounds, death and pestilence stalk unchallenged, monarchs of all they survey.

To give to such a cause is noble. The chance to give should be welcomed by everybody. There will be such a chance on Saturday, and we are sure every lover of humanity will embrace it eagerly.

Incidentally it's surprising what a pile of noise those fireless poppers can make.

DULUTH CELEBRATES.

Duluth seems to have had a pretty good Fourth of July yesterday. It celebrated in various ways, but in some way pretty nearly everybody seems to have celebrated, and the spirit behind it all gave it an old-fashioned ring of real patriotism.

Probably more people really thought earnestly of the significance of the day yesterday than on any Fourth of July in a couple of generations.

That's good. That's as it should be. Patriotism isn't a good thing to be taken for granted, or to be suffered to lapse into neglect. It's the food a country lives on, and when it is withheld the country dies.

And patriotism isn't at all a matter of going around with a chip on the shoulder and arms all over the person, inviting a fight. It's much more a matter of studying public questions and voting wisely and picking good public officials and supporting them in office. Even keeping one's back yard clean and sightly is pretty good patriotism—much better patriotism than picking a quarrel with some other country so a lot of people can patriotically fight and bleed and die.

Moreover, Duluth had a good time and suitably observed the Fourth without blowing off its fingers with giant firecrackers.

The Northland Country club gave a bully fireworks show last night, and invited everybody to see it; which was a particularly nice thing to do, and manifestly gave pleasure to thousands.

A man who celebrated by taking a lot of street car rides around the city complains that not enough people decorated their homes with flags.

"I watched particularly for this," he says, "and I don't believe more than one home out of seven had flags out. What's the matter? Is Duluth a foreign city?"

Perhaps people didn't think. Perhaps they planned to be out all day and neglected having the home celebrate by displaying the national colors. Everybody ought to have a flag, even if it is only a little one, and everybody ought to fly it on the Fourth.

On the whole, though, it was a mighty fine Fourth, and very creditable to Duluth's brand of patriotism.

Seriously, which do you prefer—to have your boys and girls all present today, or to have them scattered around in three or four extra pieces?

Judging from the recklessness with which mice and rats sometimes gnaw matches, one is forced to the conclusion that the creatures would even rock the boat if they were able.

The Fifteenth Amendment

By Savoyard.

Washington, July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court of the United States, as everyone with a grain of sense knew it would when it fairly tackled the question, has decided that the Fifteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States is a part of the fundamental law of the land, as binding as any other article of that instrument. The Fifteenth amendment became a part of the Constitution in 1870. It was designed to make the cotton South Republican in politics till we had ice in June down there and roses in December up here, while it was confidently expected that patriotism—a word the most abused in the language—would hold the North in league with the party of "great moral ideas." Roscoe Conkling proclaimed that proposition as vital to the salvation of his party, to the peace of his country, and to the weal of the world.

But if the Fifteenth amendment were not a part of the Constitution at this time, and if it were now presented to congress and every Democrat should stand mute and only the Republicans should vote, it would be overwhelmingly defeated in both houses. Indeed, except Bill Chandler, it would take a search-warrant to find a statesman of either party who believes in the tyranny of the Federal government's prescribing the qualifications of voters in the states. I reckon I may be wrong about that—I forgot those long-haired men, who ought to have been born women, and those short-haired women, who ought not to have been born at all, all of whom are screaming for woman suffrage by constitutional amendment. But on the negro proposition, cut away from the woman proposition, and as an original proposition, not a single member of either house of congress would vote for the Fifteenth amendment today.

I was amused when I read this slush in the columns of the Washington Post the day after the decision:

"Politicians yesterday admitted the possibility, in the event the Republicans controlled the Sixty-fifth congress, of the enactment of a more drastic Federal election law for application particularly to the Southern states. In this connection, too, the oft-proposed plan of basing representation upon the actual vote cast and not upon population may be urged as a proper piece of legislation. The decision does not materially affect any of the Northern states where the colored man is allowed to vote if he has the same qualifications required of every other voter."

"In the event" of the Republicans controlling the Sixty-fifth congress, is good. First catch your rabbit.

Now, let me tell you something—the G. O. P. is never, never, never again "going to the country" on "the negro question," though "the nigger" is its daddy and all historians agree that had there been no "nigger" there would have been no Republican party.

This proposition, according to the passage quoted in the foregoing, is that a "Federal election law" must apply particularly to the South. If I were not a patriot, rather than a mere partisan, I would pray fate to induce the G. O. P. to make another "force bill" the paramount issue. At the general inquest it would lose every electorate in the land except Vermont and the Mormon church.

As for the suggestion that representation be based on the actual vote cast, it is too silly to consider—an instrument known as the Constitution of the United States stops that.

It is folly to suppose that the decision of the supreme court upholding the Fifteenth amendment will have the slightest effect on the political situation in any state of the Union. In the boundless economy of time, history may record the name of a negro senator in congress from Massachusetts, but there will be a negro senator from Mississippi sooner. Sometimes it comes from Massachusetts as soon as there is another negro senator from Mississippi.

In my father's household when I was a child there were negro slaves as five to one. My mother often licked me for an inveterate disposition I discovered "to be raised in the kitchen," where I gathered happiness, and some wisdom, from the sage counsel of "Uncle" Archie and "Aunt Caroline." Many a time and oft I was lulled to sleep in the lap of either of these, each of whom loved me fondlier, would have fought for me bravver, and would have died for me sooner, than for any offspring of their own. Like ten times ten thousand other Southerners, I love their memory, and the loftiest praise that can be accorded to any tongue, or race, or people of all God's children, is due to the slaves of the South during the war of 1861-65. In all that horrible four years not a single outrage was perpetrated by a slave in all the South.

Slavery was impossible—it was bound to go for the benefit of the white more than for the advantage of the negro. This was the idea of Lincoln, a Southerner, and eulogy is exhausted when it is confronted with the conduct and the devotion of the slave toward his master during that terrible war. It almost makes slavery noble.

It is the most docile of the races—the negro. It enjoys the day. As a peasant class it is altogether admirable, and if the day of wrath comes and capital and labor shall fly at each other's throats at the North, the man of property at the South may sleep in peace, for the negro loves the Southern white man and will be true to him to the end.

The North only knows your professional negro. We of the South know and love the real negro. And I am free to admit that the whole South should bow her head in shame that she has not erected at the center of the South, somewhere in Georgia, or Tennessee, or Alabama, a shaft to the old black mama and the old black uncle. It is a shame that this has not been done. Let the youngsters of the South take it up.

And let its summit be cloud-capped. You cannot build it too high for the honor of your daddies who fought and your mothers who suffered during that great war, while their slaves took care of the old plantation. Do it before I die.

A Suppressed Telegram

New York World: The following telegram was sent by the Russian to the German emperor on the evening of July 29 last year:

> Thanks for thy conciliatory and friendly telegram, whereas the official communications made today by thy ambassador to my minister were framed in a very different tone. Pray explain the difference. It would be more correct to submit the Austrian-Serbian problem to The Hague conference.

This telegram did not appear with other telegrams passed between the two sovereigns and printed in the German "White Book" issued after the outbreak of war. The world knew nothing of it until weeks later it was given out at Petrograd. Now that it can no longer be suppressed, it is included in a German "Blue Book" just published.

The kaiser in his reply ignored the czar's suggestion of a reference of the Austro-Serbian problem to The Hague. The German government evaded England's suggestion of arbitration supported by France and Italy. Serbia, after yielding to all of Austria's demands save two, offered to arbitrate these two. The offer was rejected by Austria, and Germany backed up Austria in the rejection. All wanted arbitration except Germany and Austria. The record here is now complete.

The Cleanness of Dickens.

Kansas City Star: You have noticed, of course, that with growing and mentally acquisitive kids in the house you never worry about their picking up a Dickens book and reading it. You run over in your mind the scenes and characters and themes of Dickens. You do not think of anything that would hurt your growing boy or girl. Yet you cannot think of Dickens as flabby, or insipid, or weak. You do not wish all writers to be Dickenses. But you cannot withhold gratitude from the great English master for his glory of cleanness.

Elihu Root's Idea of Liberty

Editorial in the San Francisco Bulletin.

Elihu Root is the cleverest of American reactionaries. He dignifies and exalts reaction. He makes reaction a struggle for liberty. He leads the reactionary to believe that he is standing shoulder to shoulder with the great liberators, the Cromwells, the Lincolns. His intellect focuses the cold, clear light of money-class selfishness until presently a little smoke arises and a little smolder of warm emotion glows and vibrates.

Thus Mr. Root recently lit up the souls of the members of the Union League of Philadelphia in a speech now being circulated in pamphlet form.

"All that," said Mr. Root, after he had summed up the symptoms of business depression, "is nothing compared with the danger that the people of the United States shall become subservient to power; all that is nothing compared with the danger that we lose all that independence of individual character which has been built up through all the thousands of years of growth of Anglo-Saxon freedom. (Applause.) If we maintain that nothing can prevail against us. (More applause.) If we lose it we are slaves to the first conqueror."

It will be observed that the power which Mr. Root fears is the power of popular government encroaching on the powers of certain forms of big and little business. He does not fear the concentrated money power of New York city. He does not fear the industrial power of the Rockefellers, which can reach out from an office at 26 Broadway, New York city, and control the courts and government of Colorado. He is afraid of the interstate commerce commission, the central reserve board, the comptroller of the currency and the trade commission, which are all responsible to the people. He is afraid that the people will steal away their own liberties if they get a chance. Consequently he does not want them to have a chance. He finds his ideal of popular freedom in power exercised by and for a limited, self-interested, irresponsible minority.

Reaction in this country is becoming more and more synonymous with the Republican party, and Elihu Root is one of the frankest and most intelligent of its exponents. What he proposes the Republican party, together with the reverse-action Progressives now assembled under the banner of George W. Perkins, now proposes. The only difference is that the Root Republicans are more open and honest than the Perkins Progressives.

Within a few years, at the most, a presidential election will turn upon the question whether the power of the common people to control their own economic destinies, through political action, shall be extended, restricted or definitely discouraged.

Benefits of American Citizenship

Chicago Herald: A lively sense of the benefits of American citizenship continues to be shown by alien residents. On Tuesday 1240 took out naturalization papers before Federal Judge Carpenter. The same process is going on all over the country, and has been going on with increasing speed since the outbreak of the European war.

All of which points anew to the simple and undeniable fact that, after all is said and done, the United States is the best place in the world for the average man—particularly the poor man. It gives him opportunities he could never have in Europe. It gives him an actual participation in the great work of self-government which is still the goal, and the far-distant goal, of a large part of the people of the European continent.

Every now and then we hear a great deal of criticism of America from some who are dwelling among us. Sometimes it comes from native-born citizens who have had no opportunity for comparing their own country with others. Sometimes it comes from foreign-born citizens who, as men everywhere are apt to do, make the mistake of forgetting all the bad and remembering only the good they have left behind. Sometimes it comes from alien residents who forget that national, like private, hospitality commits the recipient at least to good manners.

But all this passes as words and the wind pass. It is answered sufficiently by the fact that thousands keep coming and claiming the priceless benefits of the American citizenship and the American opportunity, while those who turn their glances back to Europe's shores, save in sentimental reveries, are few and far between. It is another case of actions speaking louder than words.

Bryan's "Do-Nothingism."

New Republic: Mr. Bryan's speech at Carnegie hall deserves a place in college textbooks as the perfect example of how do-nothingism may go hand in hand with immense pretensions. Mr. Bryan is against armament; he is also against the attempt to create some kind of international organization. He is is for the Monroe doctrine, but he would presumably not fight to maintain it. And though he would not fight to maintain it, he would also refuse "entangling alliances" which might make the doctrine safe without fighting. Here is the ideal he offers his countrymen: That they should not arm, but also they should not disarm; that they should, in other words, be unarmed; that they should maintain their isolation and at the same time maintain the guardianship of a hemisphere; that they should uphold international law and order, but decline to consider any plan for international organization. They should stand absolutely pat, trust the arbitration treaties, and set a moral example. As a program for American pacifism it would have about as much sense as a demand for omelettes accompanied by the specification that no eggs be broken.

Credit Where Credit Is Due.

Life: "President Wilson's efforts to undo work done for twenty-five or thirty years in behalf of special business interests naturally has resulted in 'bad times.'"—Senator La Follette.

But, when you come right down to it, have President Wilson's efforts in this direction been half so effective as the noble work done by the special interests themselves?

Have they not looted railroads in plain view of the people, maintained conspicuous lobbies in Washington, bribed for political bosses so that the clink of the gold dollars could be heard even above the roar of legislatures, invaded the judiciary and laughed to scorn the crowd of muckrakers that they themselves raised up?

President Wilson would have had a sorry time trying to regulate special business interests if they had not been so good as to show how much they needed regulating.

Sitting Caused the Trouble.

Kansas City Star: By way of enlarging the children's vocabulary, the village school teacher is in the habit of giving them a certain word and asking them to form a sentence in which that word occurs. The other day she gave the class the word "notwithstanding." There was a pause, and then a bright faced youngster held up his hand.

"Well, what is your sentence, Tommy?" asked the teacher.

"Father wore his trousers out, but notwithstanding."

Yes, It Has Come to This!

Galesburg Republican-Register: A miscellaneous shower was given last evening in honor of C. Oscar Johnson of Altona, whose marriage to Miss Mabel Boostrom will be solemnized this evening. At 8:30 over fifty men, friends of Oscar, assembled in Hart's hall where the evening was spent in playing various games, after which a dainty lunch, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, cakes and cookies was served.

The Pinnacle of Sacrifice.

Judge: "I love you so much, my darling," cooed the clinging young thing, "that for your sake I would even forgo a church wedding and consent to be married by a justice of the peace!"

And greater love than this hath no woman.

A Suspicion.

Kansas City Star: There's a suspicion that some of the grape juice Mr. Bryan has been imbibing is made from sour grapes.

A Defection and a Betrayal

Editorial in the Chicago News.

Nothing, perhaps, gives a clearer indication of the organic changes that have quietly been revolutionizing the Democratic party within the last two years than the confession of K'Lamity Bonner, the mighty hunter of Texas and editor of the Harpoon, published in Austin.

K'Lamity, with a sob in every stroke of his trenchant stub pencil, recites the story of his long loyalty and devotion to the once peerless leader and tells how he followed the Bryan banner to defeat from 1896 down to 1915, even though he considered the immortal ratio an immortal blunder and the prohibition clause rank heresy.

It was Bryan who rallied K'Lamity to the support of Wilson, but it was Wilson who kept the rallied one a faithful retainer, even when "with a bleeding heart" the plainsman editor had to choose between the two great Democrats. When Bryan forsook Wilson he forfeited the support of the influential and slaughterous Harpoon.

And there are no half-way methods in the repertory of the man who has edited all over Texas with a plant consisting of a Bible, a six-shooter and a serene conviction of his own rectitude.

K'Lamity lays bare in a recent article not only the reasons for his defection from Bryan, but some of the methods by which popular heroes are thrown into the limelight.

He tells, for instance, of a panther hunt staged by him in Texas for the benefit of the innocent William Bryan. A pet panther belonging to a well-known citizen was planted in a patch of woods and then a farm hand rode in with the startling story that "a painter ketched my cow and a'most got me."

Mr. Bryan and his party thereupon armed themselves and started in pursuit of the ferocious monster. Unfortunately, just as the party came up with the ravening beast, a little rat terrier that had sneaked along smelled out its ancient household enemy and bit it in the hind leg. With a yell of pain the terrible creature leaped into a tree. The terrier stood at the foot of the tree, daring the panther to come down. Because of the prowess of that microscopic pup the hunt was declared off and was not written up for the edification of a nation of hero worshipers.

This revelation does not injure in any degree the fair fame of Mr. Bryan, which rests not at all upon his hunting exploits. Still, it shows how things sometimes are staged for the glorification of the mighty. One faintly recalls, by the way, how once upon a time Col. Roosevelt was treed in Texas by a drove of wild hogs.

The colonel's thrilling and perilous adventure has, of course, no bearing on the case of Mr. Bryan and the pet panther. The thing to be emphasized is the fact that Democratic veterans even in Texas are forsaking Bryan for Wilson.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quintius, the Sunshine Man.

"I delight to do Thy will, O my God; yea, Thy law is within my heart."—Ps. xl, 8.

Crown us with love, and so with peace
Transfigure duty to delight;
Our lips inspire, our faith increase,
Brighten with hope our darkest night.
Bring us from earthly bondage free
To find our heaven in serving Thee.
—Henry Wilde Foote.

We often make our duties harder by thinking them hard. We dwell on the things we do not like till they grow before our eyes, and, at last, perhaps, shut out heaven itself. But this is not following our Master, and He, we may be sure, will value little the obedience of a discontented heart. The moment we see that anything to be done is a plain duty, we must resolutely trample out every rising impulse or discontent. We must not merely prevent our discontent from interfering with the duty itself; we must not merely prevent it from breaking out into murmuring; we must get rid of the discontent itself. Cheerfulness in the service of Christ is one of the first requisites to make that service Christian.—Frederick Temple.

I am become all things to all men that I may by all means save some.—I Cor. ix, 22.

The more spiritual is a man's religion the more expansive and broad it always is.—Phillips Brooks.
Dayton, Ohio.

Wise Senator Westlake.

Virginia Enterprise: Senator E. J. Westlake says it is not a far cry to imagine that some day, to qualify as a member of the legislature, candidates will have to show that they have a knowledge of their state that will enable them to pass upon measures affecting different localities with the same degree of intelligence as upon those affecting their own. He thinks it might be a good idea for the state to make an appropriation to aid in this educational work.

One thing is certain and that is that the state is annually making appropriations for less worthy purposes. It is equally true that there are too many men in the legislature who are not possessed with a broad knowledge of the needs of the state, who as a result become obstructionists of really meritorious measures, not because they wish to hinder any meritorious measure, but because they are not fully informed upon it and in casting their votes go upon the principle that in case of doubt it is best to take the safe side and register a negative vote which will leave conditions as they are.

The recent trip of the state senators and Governor Hammond to Northern Minnesota has opened the eyes of a good many people, not only in their party, but right here at home. "Do you know Minnesota?" is a question that every member of the state legislature ought to be able to answer affirmatively and honestly. But the fact remains that many members of the legislature do not know Minnesota. Perhaps that accounts for some of their quaint vagaries, not to say shortcomings, on questions of state development of vital interest to Northern Minnesota.

Oft in the Stilly Night.

Oft in the stilly night
Ere slumber's chain has bound me
Fond memory brings the light
Of other days around me.
The smiles, the tears
Of boyhood's years,
The words of love then spoken;
The eyes that shone,
Now dimmed and gone,
The cheerful hearts now broken.

When I remember all
The friends so linked together,
I've seen around me fall.
Like leaves in wintry weather,
I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed.

Thus in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Sad memory brings the light
Of other days around me.
—Thomas Moore.

Was Saying a Strange Mass.

Ernest Poole in the American Magazine: "As we marched through a deserted village one day," a wounded German soldier told me, "we looked into a Catholic church and saw a priest who was saying mass. In the town a few miles further on we found that the Russians knew we were coming. So it was sent back in a squad of men to look for the priest in that village.

"We went in the church and found him. He was still saying mass as before, but his mass was all about our troops. He was saying it into a telephone hidden in the altar. We took him out and hanged him."

Minnesota Editors Are Thinking About Politics

Some Comments From the State Press on Candidates and Booms.

Who Is He?

Elk River Star-News: There are several gubernatorial booms being launched, but up to this time the right man has not come out in the open.

Julius Has Friends.

Long Prairie Argus: Secretary of State Julius Schmahl, Minnesota's efficient secretary, may become a candidate for the governor's chair in 1916. He has a legion of friends throughout the state who would be pleased to have him enter the race.

Cold Water on Lee's Boom.

Preston Times: Why all this fuss and feathers about Todd county, the home of Bill Lee, going dry, and why should this fact mean his re-entry into the gubernatorial race? There are 500 men in this state who have labored as hard and efficiently for county option, some of them for a much longer time, but we do not hear of their making any claim to the governorship or other political honors. Then why should Bill Lee, who cannot even lay claim to being one of the earliest advocates of county option? He did only his duty and duty should be its own reward.

Learn By Experience.

Princeton Union: We have heard that there are several gentlemen who aspire to head the Republican state ticket next year. The Democrats have only one candidate for governor—the present incumbent. It would be well for the Republican aspirants to bear in mind that, from present indications, Governor Hammond will be a hard man to defeat, and they had better conduct a civil preliminary campaign.

Bouquet for Fritz.

Mora Times: Andrew Fritz, state public examiner, is being favorably mentioned as a candidate for secretary of state on the Republican ticket at the next election. Mr. Fritz is a resident of St. Cloud and has an extensive acquaintance throughout the state. He is popular and should he enter the race would become a formidable candidate.

Lee Ought Not to Run.

Bemidji Sentinel: Rumors persist that William E. Lee is to again seek the Republican nomination for governor. As a newspaper that hopes for Republican success in this state next year, the Sentinel is frank in its belief that it will be unfortunate if Mr. Lee should permit his ambition to get the better of his judgment. If Mr. Lee could not be elected governor under the conditions that were as favorable to his candidacy as they were at the last election, it is hopeless for him to anticipate success in an off year with a strong Democratic governor seeking re-election. Mr. Lee has had his chance. If he now is the patriot that his friends say he is, he may be expected to aid in bringing about harmony. The next campaign will be no time to throw monkey wrenches.

Concerning Lindbergh.

Mankato Free Press: "Let it be recorded! Congressman Lindbergh is making prohibition speeches, but will not be a candidate for congress on that ticket," says the St. Cloud Times. Sure not. He will be a candidate on the Republican ticket, but he is a Republican in name only.

Has Farley a Secret?

Little Falls Transcript: The Walker Pilot says editorially: "The fellow who will eventually be elected to lift Senator Clapp's scalp hasn't been mentioned yet, notwithstanding that the names of Eberhart and Stevens have been used in this connection with due frequency." Now, what has the Pilot boy got up his sleeve, anyhow? Unburden thyself and let the other fellows in on thy secret, Farley.

Not to Be Murdered.

Northwestern Christian Advocate: Two men on a train west of Davenport, Iowa, one a horse buyer and the other an Iowa farmer: "Mr. ——, you're the man I'm on my way to see. I understand you have a bunch of horses for sale. If they will measure up to army requirements, I will pay you the biggest price you ever heard of." The farmer waited a moment before replying, and said, "Jake, if I didn't love horses, I wouldn't raise them."

Germany's Targets.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The boys in the trawlers seem to be hit oftener than the boys in the trenches in the Kaiser-Christendom war.

Twenty Years Ago

•••T. W. Hugo is being urged to be a candidate for member of the school board.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CARSON AND WAR.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see by The Herald the other day where the valiant warrior, Sir Edward Carson, K. C. B., rah, rah, rah, who some months ago never took off his spurs in Ireland trying to incite riot among the honest Irishmen when they were trying to obtain their God-given rights, is now holding down a soft spot as under secretary of something or other with a nice sanitary office in London. I wanted to ask if you had any idea why he is not out fighting for his beloved country—God save the mark—now, when the fighting is good? You don't suppose he has a tender hide? I dunno. Yours,

TOM YOUNG.

Duluth, July 2.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

John Norberg—Is it true that in the early days of Duluth, Duluth and Superior were on such bad terms that it was the cause of Superior blocking the waterway in the bay from the Superior entrance to the Duluth shore by putting up a dike or filling in to stop lake traffic to Duluth from the Superior entrance?—There was much feeling between the two cities, but the dike was built by Duluth. Superior feared that the Duluth canal would divert the water from the natural entry at Superior and make the Superior part of the harbor simply a muddy pond. Superior forced Duluth to build the dike for this reason.

DULUTH WILL BE WELL REPRESENTED

Epworth Leagues Will Send Many Delegates to State Convention.

Duluth is expected to send a large number of delegates to the state convention of the Epworth League societies of Minnesota, which will be held at Lake Minnetonka, Minneapolis, for eight days, beginning next Sunday. William H. Hancock, Jr., is the official delegate of the Duluth union, and in a few days others who will attend will be announced. It is expected that the number will be large from the various Epworth League societies in Duluth.

A daily schedule for the state meeting has been arranged. The morning watch will be under the direction of Rev. Alexander C. Stevens, pastor of Trinity Methodist church at St. Paul. Rev. E. V. Du Bois will lead the Bible study. He is pastor at Red Wing and assisted in the reorganization of Parker college when that institution was taken over by the Minnesota conference.

A class in Sunday school methods will be conducted by the Rev. W. S. Bovard, general secretary of the Methodist brotherhood and superintendent of the adult department of the board of Sunday schools of the Methodist educational institutions including the school for theology at Chattanooga and Moor's Hill college.

Rev. John G. Benson will speak daily at the social service hour. He is the pastor of a church which has the largest men's Bible class in the world. Rev. M. A. Bader, editor of the Philippine Observer and district superintendent of the Philippines, will speak on missions, and Wallace Nelson, professor of biblical literature and ancient history at Fargo college, will give a series of talks on "Teaching the Teachers."

"The Child in Our Midst" is the subject of the hour given over to Miss Annie Hobbs Woodcock, general secretary for children's work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church. The district superintendents and a number of the local clergy will also take part.

MANY TOPICS ON PROGRAM.

Retail Merchants Will Boost Duluth at Monthly Meeting.

Several topics of interest will be discussed this evening at the monthly meeting and luncheon of the Duluth Retail Merchants' association, which will be held at the Holland hotel at 6:30 o'clock. Among other subjects for discussion are good roads boosting, securing of conventions, and advertising effectiveness. About seventy-five members are expected to be in attendance. In the absence of Bentley P. Neff, president, A. C. Pearsons, vice president, will preside.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three entirely different kinds of baking powder, namely:

(1) Cream of Tartar, derived from grapes,
(2) Alum, a mineral acid, and
(3) Phosphate of Lime.

(1) Baking Powders made of Cream of Tartar add to the food the same healthful qualities as exist in the ripe grapes from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Baking Powders made of Alum add to the food some form of Alum or Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

(3) Phosphate of Lime is made from rock or by burning bones which by chemical action are changed into a white powder. It is used in baking powder only because it is a cheaper substitute.

A Cream of Tartar powder never contains Alum or Phosphate.

Every housekeeper should read the ingredients printed on the label and know what she is using.

Probation System as Operated By Municipal Court Proves Success — Small Army Reports on Behavior During June.

Since Dec. 12, 1912, when the probation system was instituted in connection with Duluth's municipal court, nearly 400 men have escaped a jail or work farm sentence temporarily and have been given a chance to make good.

That the system has been a success as handled by Probation Officer Frank Hicks, and that the work of the municipal court has been amplified largely, is shown in the last monthly report to Mayor W. I. Prince, which Mr. Hicks filed yesterday.

A small army of probationers, 226 of them, called at Mr. Hicks' office during June, to report on their behavior and give evidences that they were deserving of liberty. Mr. Hicks, with his assistants, went into the homes of 273 probationers, counting the visits necessarily made in connection with the work of the free legal aid bureau.

Twenty-four persons were placed on their honor during the month. This is double the number liberated in April and a big increase as compared with May. No parole violations were reported during the month, cases of that kind being very rare, according to Mr. Hicks.

New records in aiding Duluth's poor also were made by the free legal aid bureau during June, for 399 persons were helped out of difficulties, even though they had no money with which to pay a lawyer. Fifty claims for wages were settled, the detailed list of cases handled covering a wide scope and including every imaginable kind of trouble.

One minute Mr. Hicks is arranging to satisfy a creditor for some pensioner, and the next minute he is fixing a mother's pension. He is a walking employment agency, and handled seventeen public welfare cases, to say nothing of four disputes with real estate dealers, during June.

At the municipal lodging house, where women sent from the municipal court are cared for, 579 meals were given lodgers during June. Mrs. Anna Cruikshank, matron, also gave aid to 167 persons, and lodging to 144 others.

BRADLEY TO SEATTLE AS DELEGATE OF AAD TEMPLE

T. P. BRADLEY.

T. P. Bradley, past potentate of Aad temple of Duluth Shriners, has been elected delegate to the imperial council, to be held at Seattle July 12-17, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of A. P. Cook, who is unable to go.

Mr. Bradley will leave with the local delegation of fifty Shriners next Thursday evening over the Northern Pacific road. The other official delegates are: Lyonel Ayres, potentate; Henry Nesbitt and Jesse Norton, past potentates.

Eighteen Thousand Inhabitants Before the War, But Now Not One—Absolutely a Dead City.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

British Headquarters, France, June 21.—"How are the turrets? Still holding out?" they ask up and down the line of any one who has come from Ypres. Everybody has a tender personal interest in the turrets of the old Cloth hall which deepens with each day that they survive in defiance of the German gunners above the wreckage wrought by German shells.

People are still living in Rheims and Louvain, but Ypres is absolutely a dead city; dead as Pompeii; dead as a deserted camp in Alaska. No face appears in any door or window that can still be called a door or window; no figures are seen moving through the shell holes in walls that are still standing.

Before the war Ypres had some 18,000 inhabitants. Now it has not a single one. No one is making any effort to make any ruin habitable. The only signs of life, except occasional soldiers coming out and going to the lines, are cats grown wild which become streaks of fur disappearing among the ruins of their former homes.

Cloth Hall Unique.

The cathedral which stands back of the Cloth hall was a noble edifice no doubt, but there are a great many cathedrals in Europe. The Cloth hall is unique; the best of its kind. Anyone who ever saw it always remembered its turrets. Different conquerors of Ypres put her women and children to the swbrd but no one had ever harmed the old Cloth hall beyond taking away a few statues.

Last February perhaps 4,000 or 5,000 people remained in Ypres. They were going and coming about the streets as usual, keeping their shops open and doing what business they could at the old stand. A visitor could get a meal in a restaurant or have his shoes cobbled. Only one house in the big square had been hit. Its roofs dropped over the edges of a corner section which had been torn out of the main floor.

Was Being Restored.

The Germans threw in occasional shells mostly directed at the cathedral with some of the misses bound to hit the Cloth hall. Restoration work which age required had just been finished on the Cloth hall before the war began. The people paid for this in their civic pride and let other civic improvements wait. For the Cloth hall gave Ypres a civic distinction. It was the historical soul of Ypres. The old frescoes on its walls told the city's early history. It meant to Ypres quite as much in its way as Westminster Abbey to London or Faneul hall to Boston. Every man or woman born in Ypres had been brought up to tell the time of day by the raised gilt figures of the old golden clock face.

By February the people's sense of horror was exhausted. Destruction of things sacred to them had become routine. When they heard another explosion and word was passed that the ermans had scored another hit they went around to the Grande Place to see if the turrets and the gilt clock face were still unharmed. And they said: "The Cloth hall still can be restored"—these stubborn Flemish who would not let shell fire drive them away from their old town.

Not a House Left.

The next time the Associated Press correspondent went to Ypres there was not a single house left on the Grande Place that resembled a house any more than a rubber bag with the gas out of it resembles a baloon. In the second battle of Ypres when the Germans had another try for the channel ports the sensation of their attack with asphyxiating gas overshadowed what they did with their guns. Heretofore their practice on Ypres had been comparatively teasing playfulness. This time they went at the job of destruction systematically; jumping from one space on the checkerboard to another, they smashed Ypres section by section.

As they meant to take the town this seemed poor policy, for they would find no roofs for shelter when they moved in. But their object was confusion for British reinforcements hurrying up along roads crowded with refugees: wholesale death for men in billets in town and destruction and delay for supplies and munitions coming through the streets. This was excellent theory which did not work out in practice. The British were not billeting troops to any extent in Ypres and you could count the number of army wagons hit on the fingers of one hand. One shell in the British trenches accomplished more than ten into Ypres. The main result was that the homes and offices and cafes of 18,000 people were destroyed.

Debris in the Streets.

The 42-centimeter (17-inch mortar) had its part in the work. When a 17-inch shell struck a house the remains of the building not distributed on the pavement were in an enlarged cellar. Debris in the streets still remains where it fell. There is no purpose in cleaning it up in an uninhabited town. Paving stones are scattered about from the explosion of a 17-inch shell which struck in the center of the Grande place and made a crater about fifteen feet across and ten feet deep. This 2,000 pounds of steel and powder did not kill anybody so far as could be learned. It would not take a paving gang long to make repairs. Another which could have brought down a cathedral tower dug a still larger crater in the soft earth of the cathedral grounds. Big shells or little shells, they do not count unless they hit. On the principle that lightning never strikes twice in the same place, probably the safest cover you could find in case of another bombardment of Ypres would be to sit in the bottom of one of those craters. Another bombardment would seem as bootless as flailing last year's straw or kicking a dead dog. However the Germans keep on throwing shells into the wreckage at intervals, as if they could never be satisfied that they had properly finished the job of chaos. Every standing wall was chipped with shrapnel. If there was a house which looked from the outside as if it were unhit, it would be found that it had been eviscerated by a shell through the roof.

Turrets Untouched.

Yet only one of the figures of that golden clockface had been bent and three out of the four turrets hold their place untouched in relief against a genial afternoon sun of June above the desolation of that dead city.

"Well, what do you think of Ypres, as a place of residence?" asked an officer who rode by.

"Pretty rotten," the visiting correspondent replied.

"I know one that is rottener," he replied with a suggestive nod back toward the trench line beyond Ypres.

Were the turrets still holding out? The visitors could report that they were. To the German gunners they must be like the high apple on the tree that will not come down for all the small boy's stone throwing. It must have cost about $2,000,000 in shells to destroy Ypres by manufactured piecemeal earthquake and it will cost several millions to restore it.

Occasionally a father of a family who had to leave the town during the bombardment is able to secure a cart and permission to return to the salvage of the remains of his house. He finds that nothing has been disturbed except by shell fire. Ypres is forbidden bad lands where no one may go except on military business. In a sense it is policed, too, in the same way as a rattle snake's nest. The citizen who goes to glean a mattress, a bureau and the family Bible from the debris of his roof takes time to see if the turrets and the clock face of the old Cloth hall are still holding out.

Rich Haul by Robbers.

Chicago, July 6.—Four robbers overpowered two watchmen at the Midway gardens, an amusement park, early today, blew open the safe and escaped with between $10,000 and $12,000, according to a report made to the police.

McIntosh Wins Twice.

McIntosh, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The McIntosh baseball team won a clean-cut victory over the Fertile nine at Fertile Saturday, 7 to 3, before an unusually large crowd, who attended the closing of the Polk county fair. The McIntosh nine won another victory Sunday afternoon on their own grounds, when they met and defeated Shevlin by a score of 11 to 0. O'Brien was in the box for McIntosh and pitched an unusually fine game, allowing the visitors only one hit. Only twenty-seven men came to bat during the game.

Alive to Opportunity

A man who expects to better his condition must be keenly alive to opportunities as they present themselves.

The time when a man can drift along and still make progress has passed.

To get in a "rut" and stay there, shows lack of ambition, grit and perseverance.

Opportunities are coming up every day only to be passed by for want of ready money.

It therefore follows, that the man "alive to opportunity," banks something out of every pay against the time when "ready money" will enable him to take advantage of it and profit accordingly.

The Real Signs of Heart Disease

NOT palpitation, nor pain in or near the heart, nor fainting spells are the usual indications of heart disease. These symptoms are much more frequently caused by anaemia, digestive disturbances or masked exophthalmic goiter (over-activity of the thyroid gland).

The indications of failure in the heart, of loss of the efficiency of the heart, are rather distant from the heart itself, as a rule. That is, the symptoms are not such as would make the patient think his heart is affected; perhaps a mere failing off in physical or mental capacity to cope with ordinary strains; perhaps breathlessness on slight exertion; perhaps disturbed sleep; perhaps symptoms of "stomach trouble," "kidney trouble" or "bronchial trouble."

To know that there is no valvular defect or damage in a heart is no assurance that the heart is not seriously diseased; to say that there is "no organic" change, but only a functional disturbance, is a very difficult thing, for the doctor who examines the patient the first time, at any rate.

In order to estimate the condition of a heart which is under suspicion it is necessary to examine not alone the heart itself, but also the patient in general. For the vital question to be answered in every case is, Has the heart normal efficiency? For instance, the careful examination of a twenty-four hour specimen of urine not rarely tells the physician as much as he can learn by listening to the heart action with a stethoscope, or by questioning, or observing the patient under examination.

The most serious heart troubles are those which involve the heart muscle, not valvular troubles. When the muscle is infiltrated with fat, or degenerated in any way, then the outlook is serious enough. There would be no murmur to be heard by listening over such a heart, as is the case in valvular disease; nor would the patient necessarily feel any discomfort in or about the area of the heart; but he would show distinct loss of heart efficiency, and that is the problem for the doctor to solve in any examination.

It is quite safe to say that the best diagnostician could not decide whether or no a heart were seriously damaged simply by listening to the heart beat with a stethoscope. He must take into consideration the many related functions and know all there is to be known about the patient, else his opinion is of little value. Nowhere is the "snap" diagnosis, the off-hand opinion, fraught with greater chance of error than in the physical examination of the heart.

HARRY CONEY OF DULUTH MURDERED ON BRITISH STEAMER OFF BARBADOES

No Motive for Shooting Given; Shot Fired By "Madman."

Slain Man Well Known Here; Local Agent for Grain Firm.

SAYS BRAVO WAS PERUVIAN.

About noon today the local office of Kellogg, Spencer & Sons received a wire confirming the earlier Associated Press report. It read: "Coney was shot and killed July 4 by a Peruvian saloon passenger on steamer Tennyson, named Caesar Bravo. Bravo then shot himself and is dying." The message was originally from agents of the steamer Tennyson at Barbadoes and does not agree with news reports to the effect that Bravo was a former member of the United States navy.

En route home from a six months' South American trade trip, Harry J. Coney of Duluth was shot and killed Sunday by Caesar Bravo, aboard the British coastwise steamer Tennyson, as the vessel was nearing the Barbadoes.

"Coney killed at Barbadoes by madman," read the telegram received from the Buffalo office of Kellogg, Spencer & Sons, grain merchants, by Edward F. Rheinberger of the Duluth office yesterday afternoon. Mr. Coney was Duluth agent of the Kellogg-Spencer firm.

Bravo, who is said to have been a member of the United States navy, turned the weapon used to kill Coney upon himself after firing several shots and is in a dying condition at a Bridgetown hospital, according to Associated Press dispatches.

The telegram received at Buffalo from the American consul at the Barbadoes, and which was forwarded to Mr. Rheinberger, intimated that Bravo and Mr. Coney were strangers, and that no motive for the shooting could be assigned.

The steamer Tennyson was on her way from Rio Janeiro to New York at the time of the accident, and it is believed that Bravo, suddenly becoming insane, ran amuck among the passengers, and that Mr. Coney happened to be in his path.

Mr. Coney was 38 years old and was very well known among Duluth business men, particularly the grain men.

HARRY J. CONEY.

He had offices at 700 Board of Trade building, as the Duluth agent for Kellogg, Spencer & Sons. He was a thirty-second degree Mason.

Mrs. Coney Ill.

Mrs. Coney was not told of her husband's death until this morning, although Chief of Police R. D. McKercher last night, when informed of the shooting, telephoned the Roberts residence, 3615 Minnesota avenue. She has been ill since the morning of the Fourth and friends, fearful of the result, informed her that her husband had been hurt.

Shortly after Mr. Coney left for South America, where he had been studying trade conditions, the family home at 5520 London road was closed and Mrs. Coney with three children took up her residence with Mrs. T. A. Roberts in a Park Point cottage.

Miss Della Bastable of Los Angeles, Cal., for several years a Duluth resident, an aunt of Mrs. Coney, wired friends here this morning that she was leaving for Duluth and would arrive here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coney of Jackson, Mich., parents of the murdered man, will not come here, according to friends, as the body probably will be sent to Mr. Coney's old home at Jackson for burial.

rivers along the base of a triangle of which Warsaw forms the apex. The country there is marshy and it is predicted in London that because of the character of the terrain this campaign will be a constant drain on the German resources until even victory will be almost as costly as defeat.

The German thrust against the French positions to the west of the Moselle river apparently has not extended beyond the infantry attack which regained the trenches previously lost by the Germans; but preparations probably are under way for a further advance, as Paris reports a violent bombardment in this region.

In reply to the German wireless statement of an aerial raid on Landguard fort at Harwich, the British admiralty states that a German seaplane and an aeroplane, flying, at a great height, were pursued by British airmen and forced to drop the bombs harmlessly into the sea.

To Care For War Orphans.

THE GOOD JUDGE OFFERS TO HELP

SOME folks have tried so many kinds that they can hardly believe that there is a Real Tobacco Chew.

A user of ordinary tobacco needs to get the taste and comfort of the Real Tobacco Chew. Then he knows for sure that he has found the tobacco he's hunted for half his life.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

Must Pay Alimony.

Andrew Le Neau, who was cited to appear before Judge Dancer Saturday and show cause why he should not be required to pay his wife temporary alimony pending the divorce action which she recently instituted against him, was today served with an order directing him to give her $20 a month.

Mrs. Clara M. Le Neau, the plaintiff, in her complaint charges her husband with cruel and inhumane treatment covering a period of eight years. She claims that four months ago his conduct became intolerable and she was forced to take her three children and leave him.

They were married in this city on July 20, 1905.

A boss painter of Bath, Me., said that one of his workmen was slighting his work, and on investigation the boss found that the man had neglected to put on his spectacles. He was told to mount them, and an improvement was noticed at once in his work, which from that time on for the entire day was perfectly satisfactory. When "knocking off" time arrived, the man found that both lenses of his spectacles were in the case, and he had been doing fine work with just the frames to improve his eyesight.

DIFFICULTIES WITH GERMANY MAY BE SOLVED

ted to President Wilson, where the decision rests as to the character of instructions to be given the American ambassador in answering the inquiries of Berlin officials.

Will Be Amicably Settled.

The effort of the German government to learn informally what proposals would be acceptable to the United States government so that when embodied finally in the German reply they might be acceptable as a basis for negotiation, created the distinct impression in officials' quarters that the dispute of the two governments eventually would be amicably solved.

The message from Mr. Gerard was somewhat garbled in transmission. It gave no indication as to the time when the formal reply would be ready.

What Herr von Jagow, the German foreign minister, suggested in his conference with Ambassador Gerard, as a means of meeting the American point of view on submarine warfare, was not revealed at the state department. It is known, however, that the aim of the German government is to insure the safety of Americans traveling on passenger ships and at the same time maintain the effectiveness of submarine as a destroyer of ships primarily engaged in contraband traffic.

the Grand Central station, where she was met upon her arrival. She then walked across the lobby to the ticket office and bought a ticket to Lake Chateaugeay, saying that she would take a Montreal express leaving at 9 o'clock tonight.

"Have you engaged counsel?" she was asked.

"No, and I don't want any," she said. "I have obeyed this subpoena," and she flourished the document in her hand, "and will be in court today. But I know my constitutional right and cannot be made to testify."

She then went to her home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Thaw had not arrived in the courtroom when the trial was resumed today and it was stated by one of the state's attorneys that he did not expect her to appear. The reading of testimony taken at previous trials and hearings where Thaw was involved occupied the early part of the morning session.

Scribner First Witness.

The first witness of the day was Frank K. Scribner, a writer, who took a law course at Harvard in 1891-2. He said he lived in a house with Thaw at that time and was asked to testify as to the time that "Thaw came home in a cab."

"I returned one morning between 10 o'clock and 11," Mr. Scribner said. "I heard him come upstairs and pass my door. He went into his room and came out in a few seconds. I looked out and saw him going downstairs with a shotgun in his hand. A friend of mine and myself followed him, and near the front door my friend, who was a powerful man, disarmed him. He went back to his room and sat on his bed."

James O. Nichols, the next witness, testified that he saw Thaw on the sidewalk opposite his boarding house at Cambridge, Mass., when Thaw was a student at Harvard, engaged in an altercation with a cabman over the amount of his fare and that he heard Thaw threaten to shoot the cabman. Thaw was induced, he said, to enter the house.

trated near Paredon under Generals Urbana and Chao, two of his best known fighters. Their purpose was to halt a Carranza advance on Torreon about 200 miles west of Monterey.

Infantry, cavalry and artillery on both sides began the battle about Paredon early yesterday morning. At night the Carranza charges ceased and Gen. Trevino was reported to have failed to gain ground. This morning's reports said, however, that he had received reinforcements estimated at 8,000 and was renewing the attack on the Villa army.

All regular trains out of Monterey have been annulled, being used for transporting military equipment and wounded. The Carranza authorities received reports that equally large trainloads of wounded had been sent westward from the Villa battle line towards Torreon. It was estimated that Villa losses about equaled the Carranza casualties.

Gonzales Renews Attack.

Washington, July 6.—Officials of the Washington government today awaited word of the result of Gen. Pablo Gonzales renewed attack on Mexico City.

Advices to the Carranza agency here said that Gonzales had begun his attack with fresh reinforcements. The Zapata commanders had prepared to offer determined resistance. It would not be surprising to Washington officials, however, to learn of the evacuation of the Mexican capital by the Zapata army because of a shortage of ammunition.

Villa leaders have already told officials of their willingness to enter into negotiations with Gen. Carranza looking to a restoration of peace in the southern republic.

While Carranza has consistently declined peace overtures by Gen. Villa, Washington officials count upon Charles A. Douglas, legal adviser here, to Carranza, who has gone to Vera Cruz, to persuade the first chief to adopt a more conciliatory attitude towards his opponents.

hand grenades. Our artillery on several different occasions was successful in checking the attacks of the enemy.

"On the heights of the Meuse the Germans attacked on two different occasions our positions on the south side of the ravine of Sonvaux, which is to the east of the trench of Calonne. They were completely repulsed.

"In the vicinity of Le Pretre forest the enemy also assumed the offensive. Two attacks were made. One spread little by little from the western side of the forest as far as Fey-En-Haye, while the other was directed particularly against that portion of the forest which is found to the west of Croix-Des-Carnes. Both were checked by the fire of our artillery and our infantry fire which inflicted very heavy losses on the enemy."

German Statement.

Berlin, July 6, via London, 3:20 p. m. —The German army headquarters staff today gave out the following statement:

"In the western theater:

"Two French attacks at Les Eparges were repulsed during the night.

"The booty taken after our success in the forest of Le Pretre has been increased by one field gun and three machine guns. Furthermore a pioneer's supply station with a large amount of material fell into our hands.

"Our aviators attacked the aviation grounds at Corieux, east of Epinal, and a French camp on the Breitfirst to the east of Krust, in the Vosges.

"In the eastern theater: A strongly fortified wood to the east of Bialebloto, and west of the road between Suwalki and Kalwarya was taken by storm early this morning. We took about 500 Russian prisoners.

"In the southeastern theater:

"The situation with the German troops is unchanged."

ASSAILANT OF MORGAN TRIES TO END HIS LIFE

the pencil. They found it on the cot. Holt had extracted the rubber eraser from the tip of the pencil, and with his teeth had bit the metal which held the rubber in position until the edges met. The result was a fairly sharp weapon with a blade perhaps a quarter of an inch long.

Apparently Holt had not reached the artery. He had cut a vein, however, and from this the blood was flowing. To the warden's questions as to why he had attempted to kill himself, Holt refused to reply.

Hears From Wife.

Holt was cheered somewhat today by the receipt of a telegram from his wife at Dallas. It read, "Have best counsel here. Advised to rest and wait. You must do the same. Send loving greetings hourly. Beautiful tribute to you in both evening papers here. I am tarrying for details of our finances. I will come when you need me. Do not be afraid. Rest."

The telegram was signed "Leone."

The condition of Mr. Morgan, who is recovering from the two wounds in his left hip inflicted by bullets from Holt's revolver, continued to improve. It was said Mr. Morgan felt so much better that he wanted to get up, but that this was not approved by his physicians. The physicians feel so encouraged by his progress that they have virtually reached a decision to issue no more bulletins on his condition.

Callers from Cambridge, Mass., were expected at Mineola today to see Holt with a view to determining if he resembles closely Erich Muenter, who disappeared from Harvard in 1906 after the death of his wife from alleged poisoning.

In Serious Condition.

Holt was considered to be in such a serious physical condition from loss of blood and refusing to eat that forcible feeding and his removal to the Nassau county hospital at Mineola were considered at a conference of county officials.

"I have never seen a man in worse condition," said District Attorney Lewis J. Smith. "Holt is very weak and I shouldn't be surprised if he died."

Charles R. Apted, assistant superintendent of buildings at Cambridge, Mass., who knew Muenter at Harvard, nearly ten years ago, reached Mineola today to see if Holt and Muenter were the same man. Mr. Apted visited Holt in his cell, and remained there a few minutes but did not attempt, because of Holt's weakened condition, to question him.

"There is a remarkably striking resemblance between this man and Muenter," Mr. Apted said. "But it has been nine years since I saw Muenter and I cannot say positively that Holt is the man. He certainly looks very much like Muenter, however."

Muenter Had Scars.

Chicago, July 6.—Prof. John Maxwell Crowe, a teacher at the University high school of this city, suggested today that the identity of Frank Holt, who shot J. P. Morgan, might be cleared up by looking for certain scars on his body.

"Photographs and Holt's conduct suggest strongly to me that he is really Erich Muenter, who disappeared nine years ago," said Prof. Crowe. "However, there were scars on Muenter's body left by repeated operations for a chronic malady which should show on Holt if they are the same person.

Brilliant Student.

"Muenter and I were married about the same time in 1902 and went to live in the same flat building. He was brilliant and a tireless student. Stories that he attempted to asphyxiate his wife I do not believe. Once she was asleep and the wind blew out the feeble gas flame. His alarm for her safety at the time was genuine. We succeeded in resuscitating her.

"Before I ever saw the photographs of Holt I thought he might be Muenter, although for years I had believed the latter dead. The suggestion came to me when I was reading Holt's statement. 'That sounds like Muenter,' I thought."

Ottmar M. Kremba, a brother of Muenter's wife, after whose death at Cambridge, Mass., Muenter is said to have disappeared, said today that he would go East to assist in clearing up Holt's identity. He has a number of photographs of Muenter, some of them without the beard, and he declares that the likeness between the smooth-faced pictures of Muenter and those of Holt were striking.

Career Unrolled to 1906.

The career of Frank Holt, who shot J. P. Morgan, was unrolled to July 1906 only a few months after the disappearance of Erich Muenter, college professor suspected of having poisoned his wife. C. B. Campbell, instructor in the agricultural and mechanical college of College Station, Texas, a research student in the University of Chicago, supplied the data.

Holt had appeared in Mexico City late in June or early in July 1906, he said. Muenter had disappeared in April of the same year. Holt was employed as a stenographer in the City of Mexico office of the Krupp Gun Works of Essen, it was said.

Campbell said he had gone to Mexico in 1906 and in order to acquire the language rapidly had gone to a boarding house not patronized by Americans. Here he met Holt.

Miss Berta C. Muenter, sister of the missing college professor, admitted that hours spent in studying pictures of Holt tended to confirm her belief that he might be her missing brother.

Known Him Since 1908 Only.

Dallas, Texas, July 6.—Mrs. Frank Holt knows nothing of her husband's career to the time that he entered college in Fort Worth, in 1908, according to a statement issued last night by her father, the Rev. O. F. Sensabaugh. She was married to Holt two years after he entered the Southern school.

Further than that Holt came from Mexico in 1908, took up some land near Brownsville, Texas, abandoned it because he could not secure water rights, and started for Chicago, only to leave the train at Fort Worth and enter college there, no information could be secured. Nor was it known why he stopped off at Fort Worth.

Holt talked freely of his travels in Europe and Mexico, but all his friends here agreed that he talked little of himself.

Alexander Hamilton Encouraged Brewing.

FIRST CONGRESS A UNIT IN THE OPINION THAT BREWING DESERVES SPECIAL ENCOURAGEMENT.

In 1789 Alexander Hamilton introduced a revenue system with the object of encouraging the industry of brewing for moral and hygienic reasons. His efforts were supported by the First Congress which moved that if "The morals of the people are to be improved by whatever enters their diet, it would be prudent of the National Legislature to encourage the manufacture of malt liquors."

Dr. Benjamin Rush, father of real temperance, famous publicist and professor of medicine, taught that the promotion of temperance could be accomplished only by the encouragement of the brewing industry.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON

Upon every clause of the constitution of the United States his individuality is indelibly stamped. Daniel Webster says of him: "He smote the rock of national resources and abundant streams of revenue gushed forth."

FITGER NATURAL BEER IS A SPARKLING DRAUGHT BEER—BUT BOTTLED

It is draught beer because it has the full natural character taste and aroma of the best beer as drawn from the wood. Heretofore the only known way to keep bottled beer was by pasteurization. Pasteurization, or steaming, gives beer that noticeable flatness of taste, heretofore the great objection to bottled beer.

Kieselguhr filtration our new process keeps bottled beer better than pasteurization. It filters beer to a pure brilliancy heretofore unknown. It preserves in Fitger Natural Beer all the qualities that heretofore have made draught beer preferable to bottled.

Our Kieselguhr filter is the first of its kind in America.

"TANLAC" MAN IS IN DULUTH

Discusses Health and Hygiene According to Advanced Thought on Subject.

Prepares to Introduce New Preparation to Abbett's Drug Store.

Claude J. Meredith, a Kentucklan, "the Tanlac man," closely associated with L. T. Cooper of the Cooper Medicine Company, is in Duluth at the Spalding Hotel.

Mr. Meredith comes to Duluth from the larger cities in the East, where he and Mr. Cooper have spent many months meeting the public and have attracted widespread attention through their views on health and hygiene. Mr. Meredith, who has Mr. Cooper's full confidence, is a man of rare talents, magetic force and charm of manner. He never ceases to surprise you with the infinite variety of his knowledge and with its absolute correctness and thoroughness.

Both Mr. Cooper and Mr. Meredith, who express their views much the same, declare that most of the illhealth of today is due to those habits which distinguish the white man from the savage of the jungle. They say that nine-tenths of our suffering is due to too much eating and drinking and to too little out-of-door exercise and air.

But it is always possible, they say, to make some effort toward healthful living, and, in connection with their views, Mr. Meredith is introducing their famous medicine, Tanlac, to prove their advanced thoughts.

Tanlac is called "the master medicine." It is compounded mainly from roots, barks and herbs and from flowers, gathered from all parts of the earth. The medicine obtains a high efficiency under the direction of Joseph Trimbach, a German chemist of note.

In many American cities, thousands have been converted to the Cooper-Meredith views and have benefited from their remarkable remedies.

Both gentlemen are philanthropic, and contribute a large proportion of their incomes annually to the poor and the suffering public.

The agency for Tanlac is awarded to only one drug store in each city. In Duluth it has been awarded by Mr. Meredith, after long consideration, to the W. A. Abbett drug store, 219 West Superior street. Sale of this, "the premier preparation," will begin July 10.

AGED MAN HIT BY STREET CAR

N. N. Rusfeldt of Superior Victim of Accident in Duluth.

Wanders for Thirty-Six Hours; Injuries Will Not Be Fatal.

For three score years Nels N. Rusfeldt of Superior has been a carpenter, and, although now 83 years old, he survived an experience early this morning which would have proven fatal to many young men.

Physically, Mr. Rusfeldt is a young man, for after a 36-hour jaunt starting Sunday afternoon, during which he walked probably fifteen or twenty miles, he was struck by a street car and badly cut about the head when he attempted to cross Superior street at Fourth avenue east about 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Police, answering the call in the emergency ambulance, found that Mr. Rusfeldt was far from dead, for he helped himself into the automobile and when they reached the hospital he walked up the steps without any assistance from Dr. Harry Klein, police surgeon.

"He will live for a long time yet," said Dr. Klein this morning, "unless some very much unexpected complication develops. An experience like his would put an ordinary young man into the hospital for several weeks, but I expect Mr. Rusfeldt to be out in a day or two."

Mr. Rusfeldt lives at 2313 Butler avenue, Superior, with a son, John, and daughter, Elvira. The daughter, when notified by Lieut. E. H. Barber of the accident, said that she had reported her father's disappearance to Superior police Sunday afternoon and that "they all had been looking for him for hours."

"He left here early Sunday afternoon," said one of the members of the Rusfeldt family this morning. "We missed him right away, and began to search. He must have got lost in wandering around, but I don't understand how he got to Duluth."

The car which struck him was westbound on the Woodland line. Its number was 261, and was in charge of Motorman S. Singleton and Conductor Oscar Olson. Rusfeldt was identified by cards and letters in his pocket.

LAUD PROGRESSIVE SPIRIT OF RANGE

Wisconsin Tourists Return After Visiting Chief Cities and Towns.

The wonderful development of the iron country was lauded last night by seventy-five tourists of Shell Lake, Wis., who returned from a tour of the range towns. Mines and schools were visited at Eveleth, Mountain Iron, Buhl, Chisholm and Hibbing. At Virginia the tourists were royally entertained b ythe Commercial club.

Walter Wye, chairman of the party, described the school at Chisholm as the "finest in the state." He said it was modern in every respect, and one that the range people should be proud of.

"All our people were thoroughly surprised at the wonderful range country," continued Mr. Wye. "The big mines were a source of wonder to us. They seem so big, so magnificent —far greater than we ever realized. The range country is truly a great one. The people are hospitable, treating us like kings. They have a fine educational system, and the school buildings are the very acme of all that could be wished for in modern education."

The tourists stopped at the McKay hotel last night. They returned home this morning.

OLD LIBERTY BELL STARTS FOR FRISCO

Revolutionary Relic Leaves Philadelphia on a Special Train.

Philadelphia, July 6.—Philadelphia bid good-by to the Liberty Bell yesterday. Escorted by the First Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania, composed of three Philadelphia regiments and the first troop, city cavalry, the old Revolutionary relic passed between lanes of thousands of persons to the Pennsylvania railroad station, was hoisted on a specially constructed car and amid cheers left for the Panama-Pacific exposition.

The bell is being taken west on a special train which will make more than seventy stops for local celebrations before it reaches San Francisco on the night of July 16. Six months will elapse before it will be returned to its case in Independence hall.

RAILWAYS HOPE FOR FAVORABLE REPORTS

Bumper Crop Expected and Officials Are More Optimistic.

Prominent railroad officials are hopeful that from now on traffic returns will make favorable comparisons with last year in nearly every section of the country. In that connection it is mentioned that the freight movement has shown marked improvement during the last two months, more especially in the large manufacturing centers.

With the harvesting of what promises to be bumper crops now under way in the Southwest and a good outlook in the Northwest, a heavier movement of grain and all classes of freight is foreshadowed during the fall and winter months.

Roads operating in the Northwest have been doing much better of late. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul reported gross earnings of $7,244,196 for May, an increase of $132,000 over last year, but on account of liberal expenditures for upkeep, net returns fell off $136,000, amounting to $1,694,166.

Northern Pacific's net earnings for May made a close comparison with a year ago, being $1,340,773, a drop of just $41,000.

The Soo line's net income for May was $204,562, a falling off of $50,000, but for the eleven months a betterment of $234,831 was recorded.

In the East, the New York Central and Pennsylvania systems were each able to report large traffic increases in May, and the records of the other leading roads are also becoming more favorable.

THINKS DEFENSE IS GUARANTEE OF PEACE

W. H. Gurnee Discusses Preparedness at Exeter Farms Picnic.

In his Fourth of July oration at the Exeter farms, W. H. Gurnee, speaker of the day, yesterday afternoon urged war preparedness as the best guarantee of peace.

The program in charge of the Exeter Farmers' club was begun about 2 o'clock with an address of welcome by W. H. Gardner, chairman of the day. He introduced Mr. Gurnee and the latter said in part:

"We do not desire war, but we must let it be understood by nations that we can fight if we must. Now we are helpless. We must be ready. By becoming so we are not preparing for war, but for peace, until such time when we can lead the nations of the world in laying aside the sword and the gun forever, to join hands with all peoples in good-will and love."

Following the speakers, a program of field sports was staged under the direction of Mr. Gardner. The results follow:

Children's dash—First, Ray Eckholm; second, Walter Nelson.

Boys' 100-yard dash—First, Alfred Lundholm; second, Frank Rouse.

Girls' race (less than 12)—First, Ceora Hagadorn; second, Julia Guiter.

Women's race—First, Mrs. George Wagner; second, Mrs. C. Eckholm.

Young men's race —First, Percy Oreck; second, James Hagadorn.

Free-for-all, 100-yard dash—First, Lyle Oreck; second, George Wagner.

Potato race—First, Walter Nelson; second, Alfred Lindholm.

Sack race—First, A. Latendressen; second, Raymond Eckholm.

During the afternoon luncheon was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Exeter Presbyterian church. In the evening there was a fireworks' display on the picnic grounds. About 500 persons attended the festivities during the day.

OPERATIONS FROM COAST TO COAST

Canadian Northern to Complete System By Next September.

The main line of the Canadian Northern railroad from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be ready to operate early in September, according to an announcement made by Sir William Mackenzie, president of the company.

Laying of rails on the system was completed several months ago and since then progress has been made in the work of providing the necessary station and terminal facilities. It is intimated that had it not been for the disarrangement in business brought about by the war, regular freight and passenger traffic on the new transcontinental would have been established last month.

Announcement is also made that the first train will be run through on the National Transcontinental and Grand Trunk Pacific railroad on July 13. The section from Moncton, N. B., to Winnipeg will be operated by the government, and at the latter point connection will be made with the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will operate through to the Pacific coast.

This will give Canada three transcontinental systems, whereas up to the present the only railway connection between the East and the West has been the single Canadian Pacific track paralleling the north shore of Lake Superior. All the transcontintal traffic of the country during the last thirty years has been carried over it.

The two new roads through Northern Ontario and Quebec have been built 100 and 200 miles north of the Canadian Pacific's line, and it is claimed that they will open for settlement enormous acres of rich agricultural country.

PROGRAM AT WOODLAND.

Neighborhood Club Conducts Celebration for Local Residents.

Residents at Woodland enjoyed a special Fourth of July celebration yesterday under the direction of the Woodland Neighborhood club.

The program began at 1:30 o'clock with a series of games and races for the children. Following this the entire audience sang "The Star Spangled Banner," and the children saluted the flag. Ice cream and peanuts were served free during the afternoon.

In the evening there was a dance at the Cobb school for all the residents of Woodland.

PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL.

Former Superior Man Will Fill Pulpit in St. Paul.

Rev. James Robert Smith, former pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Superior and recently of Quincy, Ill., has accepted the pastorate of the People's church of St. Paul, according to word just received here.

Rev. Mr. Smith was very well known at the Head of the Lakes while in charge of the Superior church and his many friends will be pleased to learn that he has accepted one of the largest pastorates in the Twin Cities.

He will succeed the late Dr. Samuel G. Smith, who was also a member of the University of Minnesota faculty.

FOURTH CELEBRATED FOR "BABY" SAYRE

Cornish, N. H., July 6.—"The Fourth" was celebrated last night at Harlakenden house, for the benefit of Francis Woodrow Sayre, President Wilson's infant grandson. "Baby" Sayre received a box of fireworks and they were touched off while Mr. Wilson and others of the household watched the proceedings from the porch.

No definite plans have been made for the president's departure from Cornish. He has already been here longer than on any previous visit.

German General Killed.

Berlin, via London, July 6.—Lieut. Gen. George Hildebrandt, commander of a German infantry division, fell in battle on July 3. He had a distinguished record and possessed iron crosses of both the first and second classes. Another lieutenant general, von Pebel, has died of an illness contracted during the campaign.

Tower Falls, Fifty Hurt.

Rock Island, Ill., July 6.—A light tower sixty feet in height in Exposition park here fell to the ground yesterday, carrying fifty persons with it. Seven were injured, none fatally. The tower collapsed while a flying exhibition was in progress.

Burning Balloon Causes Fire.

Chillicothe, Ill., July 6.—A burning balloon, lighting on the top of the Turner Hudnut elevator here late last night, set fire to the structure, causing a loss of $60,000.

DULUTH HOTEL MANAGER SAYS AKOZ IS WONDERFUL MINERAL

Harmon L. Powers, a well-known Duluth hotel manager of 322 West Third street, suffered for five years with kidney and stomach trouble and has at last found relief by using Akoz, the new California mineral rival of radium.

"I am highly pleased with the results I obtained from Akoz," said Mr. Powers. "It is a wonderful and a remarkable mineral remedy. I suffered for a long time with kidney and stomach trouble. The pains in my back were very bad at times and I had gas and sour stomach.

"I am feeling fine now after taking Akoz only a short time and I can and will cheerfully recommend Akoz to all suffering as I was."

Akoz has also proven very effective in the treatment of rheumatism, bladder and liver troubles, eczema, catarrh, piles and other ailments, as is shown by the statements of a great number of residents in this city and vicinity.

Akoz is not a patent medicine. It is sold at the Lyceum pharmacy, Duluth, and all other leading drug stores, where further information may be had regarding this advertisement.

SWAMPERS ARE BEATEN IN THEIR FINAL GAMES

Duluth Wins in Morning 12 to 1 and in Afternoon 4 to 1.

Superior Team Disbands Immediately After Double Defeat.

Superior's baseball team passed out of existence yesterday in a sad and mournful manner, losing two games, the first by the hopeless score of 12 to 1 and the second by the count of 4 to 1. Thus on the glorious day that a nation celebrated its birth with eclat and a lot of hurrahs, did Swamptown witness the last dying efforts of its team.

The morning game was more in the nature of a burlesque on the great national game than a real exhibition of baseball. Red Nelson essayed to pitch for the visitors and was larruped to all corners of the lot.

Kid Boley made another successful start. The shrimp held the visitors to eight scattered hits. Kirkham belted the pill for a home run and counted the only tally made by the forlorn visitors. Kuhn, Bassey and Collins all hit for home runs. These circuit swats were sandwiched in between numerous blows, Nelson being about the easiest hill proposition the Dooks have encountered during the present season.

Posten Shows Form.

Palisade Posten was hill laboref in the afternoon game, the visitors garnering but four hits off the zip ball of the Minnesota kid. Benton mounded for the Swamper crew and allowed seven hits, the Dooks concentrating their attack in the sixth round.

Bassey strolled in the sixth and Jerry Altman doubled. Ford hit a fly to Doyle in right which that worthy promptly dropped. Bassey and Altman scoring. Ford went to second on the error and scored on a single by Williams.

In the eighth, Bassey singled, was sacrificed to second, pilfered the third sack and scored on Ford's infield out.

Superior's only run came in the fifth, the result of two passes and a single.

FLICKERS AND PEGGERS SPLIT

Grand Forks Wins First Game 4 to 2 and Maroons Second 9 to 0.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 6.—Grand Fork's last games in the Northern league for the season were marked by an even break with the Winnipeg Maroons, the Flickers winning the initial contest by the score of 4 to 2 and losing the second game by the count of 9 to 0. Larson pitched effective ball in the first contest, while Frosty Thomas was invincible in the final game of the afternoon.

UHLANS WIN BOTH GAMES FROM CHEFS

Grand Forks Wins First Game 4 to 2 and Maroons Second 9 to 0.

Fargo, N. D., July 6.—Fargo went into a tie with St. Boniface by winning both games of yesterday's doubleheader with the Chefs. The Uhlans won the first game by the score of 3 to 2, Rhoads pitching nice ball for Col. Unglaub's forces. Bell was effective in the final game of the day and was given great support by his teammates. Scores:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Reds Damage Cubs.

Chicago, July 6.—Cincinnati cut down Chicago's pennant lead to one game yesterday when they took both games of the holiday bill by 8 to 5 and 12 to 7, while Philadelphia defeated New York a game. Both the games were slugging maches, which abounded with erratic playing, especially on the part of the locals. In the first game Manager Bresnahan crossed the plate while the pitcher was in the act of delivering the ball and ran to first base under the assumption that it was the fourth ball. Umpire Quigley called him. Bresnahan rushed at the arbiter, who threw his mask to the ground and started after Bresnahan. Players stepped between the two men and after considerable wrangling Bresnahan was ordered to the clubhouse.

In the second contest Cincinnati took a commanding lead of Lavender when a single, a double and two home runs netted four runs. Erratic playing followed and the visitors continued to pound out hits, making eighteen for a total of thirty-one bases. Groh made five of them, two singles, a double, a triple and a homer in five times at bat. Scores:

First game— R. H. E.

Cincinnati .....5 0 1 0 1 0 0 1 0—8 10 2

Cards and Pirates Split.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 6.—St. Louis and Pittsburg broke even in a double bill here yesterday, the visitors taking the morning, 3 to 1, and the Pirates winning the afternoon game, 5 to 0. The early game proved a pitching duel between Mamaux and Doak. Harmon, for the Pirates, was very effective in the afternoon and was never in danger. Pittsburgh scored two runs in the second inning on two hits and a pass and three more in the eighth on three hits and a pass. Scores:

First game— R. H. E.

St. Louis .....0 0 0 1 0 0 0 2 0—3 4 2

Phillies 2; Giants 0.

Philadelphia, July 6.—Merkle, who doubled in the second inning, was the only New York runner to get on bases in the game yesterday afternoon, which Philadelphia won from the Giants, 2 to 0. The home team's victory was due to the bunching of four singles and a sacrifice off Perritt in the second. This was the third game in a little more than four weeks in which Alexander held the opposing club to one hit. The morning game was prevented by wet grounds. Score:

Dodgers 6; Braves 3.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 6.—By bunching their hits off Hughes and Strand in four innings, Brooklyn beat Boston in the afternoon game yesterday by a score of 6 to 3. Brilliant catches in the outfield saved Pfeffer on numerous occasions. Getz's double with the bases full in the first inning was the batting feature. Wheat and Cutshaw tripled in succession in the eighth with nobody out, but only one run was scored. An oddity of the game was the fact that Maranville did not have a put out, assist or error. The morning game, prevented by rain, will be played as part of a double-header today. Score:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Tigers Win; So-So Indians.

Detroit, Mich., July 6.—Detroit and Cleveland divided yesterday's double bill, locals winning the morning game, 9 to 7 and the visitors taking the afternoon contest 6 to 3. Heavy hitting in the eighth inning coupled with two bases on balls won for Detroit in the forenoon. In the afternoon game Detroit outbatted Cleveland and Dubuc outpitched Hagerman but the Tigers weakened in the pinches. A bad throw by Kavanagh enabled Cleveland to score two of her runs. Scores:

Mackmen Beat Yankees Twice.

New York, July 6.—The Philadelphia Athletics gave a flash of their former great form by winning both sections of a double-header yesterday from the New York Yankees, 4 to 2 and 2 to 1. The Athletics won the first game through errors by New York. Walsh scored the Athletics' last run by a clean steal of home. Bush was effective in the pinches. In the second game the Yankees outhit the visitors but Bressler kept men from the plate at critical stages. Walsh sent in both Philadelphia's runs, one with a home run and a second with a sacrifice fly. Scores:

First game— R. H. E.

Victory for Each.

Chicago, July 6.—Fast ball running gave Pittsburgh the first game, 5 to 3, and Zelder's good batting brought victory to Chicago, 2 to 1, in the second part of the holiday double-header here yesterday. In the opener, both Allen and Brown were hit hard, but the visitors brought runs in by clever work on the base lines and a successful squeeze play with Berry at the bat, while errors helped. Homers by Zwilling and Mann drove in all the locals' scores. Zelder's double in the first inning of the second game and his triple in the eighth, paved the way for the Chicago runs and gave Prendergast the verdict over Hearne in a close battle, which was played in one hour and 15 minutes. Scores:

First game— R. H. E.

Cut It in Two.

Louisville, Ky., July 6.—Louisville and Indianapolis divided honors here, Louisville winning yesterday morning, 17 to 5, and Indianapolis taking the afternoon game, 5 to 2. The hitting of Callahan was the feature of the morning game, he getting four singles and a pass in five times at bat. In the afternoon Burk of Indianapolis, in addition to pitching a steady game, drove in two runs with a double and scored himself. Scores:

Morning game— R. H. E.

Indianapolis ...2 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 1—5 13 2

Spiders Take Two.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 6.—Cleveland made it four straight from Columbus yesterday by winning its second successive double-header. Bunched hits and O'Toole's unsteadiness decided the first game, 5 to 3, while James' pitching and Wood's batting were features of the second game, which went to the locals, 9 to 0. A peculiar incident of the first game, which had an important bearing upon the result, took place in the ninth inning. Columbus had runners on third and second with one out when Robertson, batting for O'Toole, hit a ground ball that hit Davis standing on third. He was ruled out despite the fact he was standing on the base. Scores:

First game— R. H. E.

Cleveland .....0 0 0 0 1 1 0 3 x—5 7 1

Columbus .....0 0 0 2 0 0 0 1—3 8 1

Nice to Each Other.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 6.—Milwaukee and Kansas City split a double bill yesterday, Kansas City winning the first in eleven innings, 9 to 8, while the home team took the second, 2 to 0. Kansas City made a great rally in the ninth inning of the first, coming from behind and scoring four runs. The champions tied up in their half, but the visitors won out in the eleventh. Dougherty allowed only two hits in the second game and only two of the visitors reached second base. The scores:

First game— R. H. E.

Kansas City..3 0 0 0 0 0 1 4 0 1—9 18 4

Twins Draw for Day.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—A ninth-innning rally won yesterday afternoon's game for Minneapolis, 3 to 2. Altier opened the last inning with a triple and scored the tying run on Rondeau's single. Rondeau was thrown out trying to stretch his hit. Smith was given Karger's only pass, stole second and scored the winning run on Jennings' single. Both St. Paul runs were homers. Score:

RING RESULTS

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis and George Chip of Newcastle, Pa., fought ten rounds to a draw here last night. Chip forced the fighting throughout, but Dillon was stronger in the exchange. The weight, 158 pounds at 3 o'clock, apparently weakened Dillon.

Memphis, Tenn., July 6.—Joe Azevedo of Oakland and Joe Welling of Chicago, lightweights, fought eight rounds to a draw here yesterday.

Canton, Ohio, July 6.—Johnny Griffith of Akron and Joe Mandot of New Orleans, lightweights, fought twelve fast rounds to a draw here yesterday afternoon.

STRONG MOOSE TEAM DEFEATS AITKIN NINE

Foryziak, pitching for the Moose lodge No. 1478, defeated the Aitkin baseball team at Aitkin Monday afternoon by the score of 5 to 3. Foryziak pitched airtight ball, striking out sixteen men and walked only one man. But for one bad inning, when one hit and two errors gave Aitkin three runs, he would have shut them out. The feature of the game was the hitting of the Moose team which gathered eleven hits and the base running of Vic Olson and McLaughlin. Aitkin has defeated all teams in that vicinity this season, not losing a game. One of the largest crowds of the season turned out to witness the affair. The Moose team will play the Superior box factory team at Superior next Sunday and as the Moose are playing the fastest ball of the season a good game is looked for.

"Old Jim" Ten Eyck is here. More than that, he celebrated his arrival in Duluth by getting out and rowing with the boys in the quadruple.

Early today the veteran rowing coach of Syracuse donned a rowing suit and got out with the other youngsters, rowing with Kent, Grant and Hall in the "quad," pulling strongly and giving the other youngsters of the boat some valuable advice.

Whiteside and Osman are also back. It is probable that both of these boys will be used in the senior lineup. Just in what manner Jimmy Ten Eyck has not as yet determined.

It is likely that Whiteside will be used in the senior eight, while Osman may be used in the quadruple four, or Ten Eyck may decide that Osman and Kent will make a great double.

From this point on the finishing touches will be put on in preparation for the Northwestern regatta, which will be staged here on July 23 and 24.

There is a great deal of work to be done on the junior eight and four, while the bantam four will also come in for some finishing off. There is power in both of the junior eights, but the rough spots stick out as yet.

The senior eight is going along nicely and the famous senior four is the same wonderful machine of the past.

OMAHA AUTO RACE FREE OF ACCIDENT

Rickenbacher Wins First Money, Going at High Speed Average.

Omaha, Neb., July 6.—Eddie Rickenbacher won the 300-mile, $15,000 automobile race held on Omaha's new board speedway yesterday. O'Donnell was second, Tom Orr third and H. Donaldson fourth.

Rickenbacher led from the start and kept ahead of the field through the 300-mile grind. His time was 3:17:37:20, and his average speed 91.07 miles an hour.

The winner's share of the prize money was $6,000. In addition to this, Rickenbacher won $500 for leading at the end of the first and second 100 miles. Before the race Tom Orr broke the world's record for five miles, negotiating it in three minutes flat, the former record was made by Caleb Bragg in Los Angeles in 3:11:75 seconds.

Though eighteen drivers were entered, but seven arrived in time to start. They were Rickenbacher, O'Donnell, Alley, Donaldson, Orr, Cooper and Chandler.

Joe Cooper and Chandler went out of the race on account of burned bearings before they passed the 100-mile mark.

O'Donnell received $3,000 for second place, Orr $2,000, H. Donaldson $1,000

Wins Motorcycle Race.

Galesburg, Ill., July 6.—Joe Walters took first place in the 100 miles professional motorcycle race here yesterday in 1 hour, 37 minutes, 4 2-5 seconds. There were no accidents.

SHAKEUP IN WHITE SOX

Collins, Ford, Bassey, McGraw and Boley Are Given Release.

Bergwald, Paul and Pete Morse, Kurke, Bartoff and Schroeder Signed.

There was a lopping of baseball heads following the games of yesterday, when two Northern league teams passed unobtrusively out of existence.

Old standbys passed before the grim ax-swinger and new faces are due to make their appearance.

Jimmy Collins, who last year was given credit for winning the pennant for the Dooks more than any one man, drew the blue envelope, as did the veteran Dad Ford, the young and scrappy Mickey McGraw, Bassey and Kid Boley.

Collins made a home run in the game of yesterday and Boley flung his team to a decisive victory—thus were the final appearances of the two Dooks crowned with glory.

Bergwald will play third base on the new aggregation and Pete Morse second base. Schroeder, who was seen with Fort William, is to cavort in right field. Kurke will relieve Sweeley of some of the catching duties, while Paul Morse and Bartoff have been added to the pitching staff.

With this aggregation of players it is hoped that some real baseball will be given to the Duluth fans—something they surely have not been provided with so far during the present season.

Officers of the local baseball association are optimistic in the expressed belief that the club will start climbing the percentage ladder from this stage of the race until the last game in September.

The dropping of both Superior and Grand Forks has thrown a number of players on the market and will result in the strengthening of several of the clubs that are left to finish the season that has been marked by a series of unfortunate events.

Just where some of the players of the dropped teams will land, it is difficult to state. It is a bad year both for the baseball magnate and the baseball players.

There is a rumor that Fred Curtis will catch on with a team and that Kirkham, the class of the Northern league outfielders, will also be given work.

CROOKSTON-MILL CITY AUTO RACE ON JULY 14

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—A 300-mile automobile road race between Walter Hill, son of James J. Hill of St. Paul, and A. S. Harlan of Des Moines, Iowa, from Crookston to a Minneapolis downtown hotel for a purse of $1,500 will be run as soon as the roads are in condition, according to C. W. Hanson, stake-holder. If weather conditions permit, the race will take place Wednesday, July 14.

Hanson exhibits two certified checks, one for $1,000 and the other for $500, both of which will be turned over to the winner. Hill put up $1,000 against Harlan's $500 that "he will beat Harlan a city block or more." In addition, a considerable amount of money has been wagered on the proposed race by friends of Hill and Harlan.

JONES SORE AT UMPIRE; QUITS

Resigns Management of St. Louis Feds Because of "Rotten Umpiring."

St. Louis, Mo., July 6.—Fielder A. Jones, manager of the St. Louis Federals, has resigned that position, according to a message received here last night from Gaty Fullen, a stockholder in the local club, who is now with the team at Kansas City.

According to the message, Jones resigned because of a disputed decision of Umpire Howell in yesterday's game between St. Louis and Kansas City at the latter place. Jones is quoted as declaring he would not stand for the "rotten umpiring" in the Federal league.

Fullen's message said Jones had wired his resignation to Phil Ball, vice president and principal stockholder of the St. Louis Federals. Mr. Ball at his home here last night at 7 o'clock, said he had received no telegram from Jones. He added, however, "you can quote me as saying that I will back to the limit any action Jones may see fit to take. I will not let him resign as long as I am a director of this club."

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Fielder Jones, manager of the St. Louis Baseball club, telegraphed his resignation to Phil Ball, one of the owners of the club, following his being put out of yesterday afternoon's game here by Umpire Harry Howell. Jones' banishment came in the second inning on a close decision at second base.

DAVENPORT LEADS IN THREE-I LEAGUE

Davenport, Iowa, July 6.—The Davenport baseball team has won the Three-I league pennant in the first half of the split season schedule, standing yesterday four and a half games ahead of Rockford. Had Rockford won Saturday and Sunday it would have postponed the pennant decision until yesterday.

The first half of the season closed yesterday and the second half will open Wednesday.

Aurora, Ill., July 6.—Elgin and Aurora yesterday withdrew from the Bi-State Baseball league, a six-club circuit organized this season. With the dropping out of Elgin and Aurora after yesterday's double-header, only four cities remain in the league, namely: Racine, Freeport, Streator and Ottawa.

CLAY COURT WINNERS HAVE LUCKY STREAK

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 6.—The clay court tennis championships were finished on the Pittsburg Athletic association courts yesterday afternoon with the final of the mixed doubles, which went to Mrs. G. W. Wightman and H. C. Johnson of Boston who were fortunate in getting defaults from their opponents in the first round, then defeated Miss Snyder and her brother, W. P. Snyder in the second round, got a default in the semi-finals and opposed Miss Clare Cassel of New York and Percy Siverd of Pittsburgh in the final. The Boston team was victorious by scores of 6-2, 6-0.

Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norwegian champion, proved her superiority over Mrs. Wightman of Boston after losing the first set, 3-6, by taking the next two 6-1, 6-3.

Fabre Wins Distance Run.

Boston, Mass., July 6.—Edouard Fabre of Montreal yesterday returned to the scene of his American Marathon victory of three months ago and won easily from a fast field in a twelve-mile race. His time was 67 minutes 7 seconds.

DEAD HEAT IN SHELL RACE AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, July 6.—The intermediate eight-oared shell race in the People's regatta, rowed over the national mile-and-a-quarter course on the Schuylkill river yesterday, resulted in a dead heat between the Vesper Boat club and the Analostan Boat club of Washington. Undine Boat club was second. In the race-off, Vesper won, with a time of 7:50 1-5.

Philadelphia oarsmen won nine of the sixteen events of the day's program.

Robert Dibble of the Don Rowing club, Toronto, who was entered in the senior sculls, failed to appear, while John J. Kelly of the Vesper club was disqualified for rowing out of his course. The event was won by Thomas J. Rooney of the Ravenswood Boat club, Long Island City. Waldo Smith, New York A. C., was second and Leo Scharfe, Arundel B. C., was third. Time, 8 minutes, 2 3-5 seconds.

CONNORS' BOATS WIN POWER BOAT LAURELS

Hannibal, Mo., July 6.—The Buffalo Enquirer took first place in the first heat of the 25-mile river race for the American power boat championship and the Webb trophy—the principal event of the first day's racing in the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association's annual regatta which opened here yesterday.

The Enquirer, owned by William J. Connors of Buffalo, N. Y., covered the course in 41 minutes 21 2-5 seconds. The average speed was 36.3 miles an hour.

Buffalo Courier, also owned by Connors, came in second and the Dodger IV third. It is estimated 10,000 persons witnessed the races.

AMERICAN WHIST LEAGUE OPENS PLAY

Chicago, July 6.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the American Whist league opened here yesterday. Games for the Hamilton trophy were played throughout the afternoon and evening.

At the close of play last night, Atwater and Tobin of the Cicero club, and Montgomery and Martin of the Chicago club were tied in the north and south section, while Glison and Cohen of the Chicago club had won in the east and west section from Cole and Cadley of the New York club, and Weston and McDonald of the Knickerbocker club.

Koob to Browns.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 6.—The national baseball commission in a decision yesterday awarded Player Koob to the St. Louis American league club. Battle Creek club of the Southern Michigan league laid claim to the player but the commission ruled that this club had no written agreement and disallowed the claim.

Roller Tourney Opens.

Charleston, W. Va., July 6.—The National Amateur Roller Skating championship opened here last night under the auspices of the Western Skating association. The entries include thirty skaters of national reputation. Eddie Krapp of Detroit won the semi-final in the one-mile event. His time was 3:28. The final will be run Saturday.

Dooin to Giants.

New York, July 6.—Word was received here last night from Cincinnati that President Hemstead of the New York Nationals had succeeded in purchasing the release of Catcher Charley Dooin, former manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, from Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati club. Dooin will report immediately to Manager McGraw.

Overheating Kills Him.

Mount Carmel, Pa., July 6.—Sylvester Elgin, a boxer of Locusdale, Pa., died yesterday in his dressing room after a six-round bout with John Harvey of Shamokin at a local baseball park. A pail of water was thrown on Elgin at the end of the sixth round and physicians say his blood became congealed and caused death. An investigation is being made by the district attorney's office.

DULUTH INSURANCE MEN WILL ATTEND

Duluth insurance men are planning to send several delegates to the national convention of the National Association of Mutual Insurance companies when it meets in Minneapolis Aug. 17 to 20.

Governor Hammond will head the list of Minnesota men on the program and State Insurance Commissioner S. D. Works, Deputy Insurance Commissioner Ira C. Peterson and V. E. Butler of Minneapolis will speak.

The lits of speakers will include Justice Peters of Philadelphia, C. F. Mingenback of McPherson, Kan., United States Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, G. A. A. Pevey of Boston, W. B. Gasche of Topeka, F. J. Martin of Seattle, Wash., J. C. Adderly of Chicago, L. Pierce Botelar of Washington, D. C., Mark T. McKee of Detroit, Mich., H. L. Ekern of Madison, Wis., W. M. Deisher of Reading, Pa., and V. N. Valgren of Washington, D. C.

This will be the first time the association, though it is 19 years old, has met in Minneapolis. Delegates will be present from all parts of the United States. More than 2,000 mutual insurance companies are comprised in the association.

The Minnesota Association of Mutual Insurance Companies will be host to the national organization. C. I. Buxton of Owatonna is president of the state association. A. H. Cheese of Minneapolis is vice president and O. M. Thurber of Red Wing secretary-treasurer.

BATHERS MUST START DRY BOTH OUT AND IN

No Liquor Permitted at Public Beach and Those Under Its Effect Also Barred; Wet Weather Causes Postponement of Opening.

A dry bathing beach!

No, this is not a paradox.

It's the truth.

Park Manager Henry Cleveland has issued an order that persons under the influence of liquor will not be permitted at the Fairmont bathing beach or on the park grounds. In addition, liquor will not be sold and anyone caught with whisky or beer on or in his person will be ordered out of the park.

The beach was scheduled to open yesterday, but because of the heavy rains Saturday and Sunday a postponement was necessary. Mr. Cleveland expects to have the beach ready for the public within a week.

WORK FARM "BOARDERS" ENJOY PROGRAM OF SPORTS ON HOLIDAY

Officers Are Defeated in Baseball Game—Tug of War and Races Also Included in Day's Sports.

Independence day was celebrated all day yesterday at the county and city work farm, where a program of athletic events was carried on under the direction of Fred Ward, superintendent.

The celebration began in the morning with a ball game in which the "boarders" at the farm defeated the officers by a score of 15 to 8. William Singsheim, who did mound duty for the "boarders" also distinguished himself along other lines, carrying off no less than four prizes.

A tug of war contest between the mill crew and a team made up of crews from outside camps was won by the mill boys. The prize was a box of fifty cigars. The same reward was given to the winning ball team.

George Erickson and Peter Johnson were winners in the horseshoe pitching contest. They received a $1 prize. First prizes in most of the events were 50 cents; second, 25 cents and third, one cigar. The winners in other events were:

Shot put—William Singsheim, 22 feet and 5 inches, first prize; Niemi, second; Nelson, night watchman, third.

Running broad jump—Hagen, 14 feet and 4 inches, first; Singsheim, second; Barkel, third.

Old man's race (50-yard dash)—McCarthy, first; Roberts, second.

Running high jump — Singsheim, first; Nafdal, second.

Three-legged race—Abrahamson.

Sack race—Abrahamson.

Potato race—Hagen.

Wrestling match — James Hagegnes, first, and Eugene Ferguson, second.

The line-up of the ball teams follows:

Men — Hagen, 1b; Ferguson, 2b; O'Leary, 3b; Hagen, cf; Gray, rf; Holland, lf; Barkell, ss; Singsheim, p; Brown, c.

Officers—Dease, 1b; B. C. Erickson, 2b; Cummings, 3b; Hanson, cf; Abrahamson, rf; Erikson, lf; J. Erickson, ss; Temple Dease, p; Ward, c.

GENERAL STURGIS' WIDOW IS CALLED

"Great Grandmother of Army" Passes in Mill City.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—Mrs. Jerusha Wilcox Sturgis, widow of Gen. Sturgis and known as the "Great-grandmother of the army," died here late yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edmund Pennington. She was 87 years old and Monday was the sixty-fourth anniversary of her wedding day. Four children survive her. She will be buried at the Arlington National cemetery.

At the outbreak of the Civil war, Mrs. Sturgis, who lived at army posts from 1851 to 1857, led the women of Fort Smith, Ark., out of the war zone.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

RULING TO BE IGNORED

North Dakota Tax Commission Pays No Attention to Attorney General.

Going Ahead With Assessment of Monies and Credits Despite Ruling.

Bismarck, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the face of a ruling by the attorney general that the new state law governing the assessment of monies and credits is unconstitutional, the state tax commission will attempt to collect such taxes.

That the total of money and credits in the state, subject to taxation under the act, is nearly $100,000,000, is estimated by the tax commission.

Immediate steps will be taken in several counties of the state to prevent the certification of the monies and credits up for taxation, and when such step is taken, the constitutionality of the act will be officially called to the attention of the courts of the state.

Ruling Does Not Govern.

In explaining its action in proposing the collection of the monies and credits tax, the commission declares the attorney general's ruling does not govern. The law is in operation until such time as the courts may knock it out, and the tax commission has no alternative.

The several county boards of equalization began their work today. These boards will review the work of the assessors and will equalize the same for certification up to the state board.

HIT NATURAL GAS IN NORTH DAKOTA

Reported to Have Been Struck in Well Near Expansion.

Expansion, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is considerable excitement in this section over the discovery of gas on the Phillip Benz farm a mile and a half west of here. Well drillers were down seventy-five feet when the gas was struck in a vein of lignite coal.

When lighted the gas burns up to a height of about forty feet. For many years there have been rumors of gas pockets on this side of the Missouri river and a general idea that the country was underlain with gas if it could be located.

Local people are planning to make an investigation here to discover whether the gas is in large volume or its presence is merely due to the lignite coal. Many believe it can be found in sufficient quantities to be commercially valuable.

BEMIDJI OBSERVES FOURTH SUCCESSFULLY

Largest Crowd in History of Such Affairs Takes Part.

Bemidji, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the largest crowds in the history of this city attended the Independence celebration held here yesterday.

Among the attractions of the day were the big automobile parade in which about fifty cars were entered; the automobile races at the fair grounds and the motorcycle race in which Harry Erickson, who, for many years, has taken all laurels in motorcycle racing in this city, and who has won a statewide reputation as a daring driver, was forced to second place by W. G. Ferguson with an Indian motocycle. Erickson rode a Harley-Davidson.

Fosston Beats Bemidji.

In a pitchers' battle Fosston beat Bemidji, 4 to 0, for a $150 purse.

Athletic sports of all kinds also took place and in the evening boat and canoe races were held on Lake Bemidji. The Bemidji band furnished music during the entire day. The evening program was ended by a grand display of fireworks from a large barge on the lake. No accidents were reported.

TWO HARBORS NINE BEATEN BY CARLTON

Carlton, Minn., July 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were three games of baseball here yesterday among other attractions of the celebration that brought many people to this village. Carlton won two out of the three. Carlton began the day by beating Cloquet, 8 to 5 and in the afternoon won again by defeating Two Harbors, 8 to 3. The third game between the Carlton Juniors and the Wrenshalls was won by the latter, 12 to 11.

While moving rapidly south of Cloquet yesterday afternoon Doddridge's automobile driven by "Pete" Peacha and containing eight people threw a wheel and the occupants were thrown out and bruised but none was seriously injured.

CLOQUETITES GIVEN THRILL.

Log-Rolling and Other Water Events Delight Throngs.

Cloquet, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration of the Fourth here yesterday came up to expectations and brought a great crowd to Cloquet. The star events were the log rolling and other water stunts pulled off by the Delya brothers, William, Victor and "Babe" of Eau Claire, Wis., who hold world's records in such contests. They thrilled the crowds with their skill at riding the logs in the water under various adverse circumstances. "Babe" Delya, the youngest, furnished a novelty by riding logs on roller skates, something never seen here before.

The water was churned to foam as "Babe" Delya danced upon the log, but the only sign the crowd had that the log was turning one way and the rollers of the skates another was the click of the skates in a tattoo.

William Delya again established his claim to being the world's best log roller.

He leaped from log to log, and as the timbers turned he reminded spectators of a child skipping the rope. Victor Delya, not to be outdone, mounted a wooden ball three feet in circumference and cake-walked while it rolled from one end of the lake to the other.

As the ball turned it seemed certain its rider's flying feet would bring their owner to a humiliating fall. But he maintained his poise throughout the exhibition. The rider made his way for several hundred yards along the shore of the lake and returned to the cheers of the crowd.

NORTH DAKOTA FAIR PLANS PROGRESSING

Exhibition to Be Given at Grand Forks This Year Promising.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the opening of the North Dakota state fair two weeks from today, plans for the exposition have been advanced to such a point that officials of the State Fair association are confident of having the biggest show the state has seen.

Governor L. B. Hanna of North Dakota will open the exposition with an address at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of July 20.

The troubles that have confronted fair associations all over the country in overcoming the quarantine regulations because of the foot and mouth disease, have been met here through co-operation of the state and federal inspection officials, and the framing of stringent rules regarding the handling of all shipments to the fair.

Seventeen northwestern herds of cattle will be shown, a big showing as compared with the first state fair held here several years ago, when there were only eight cattle herds shown—and about a fourth of all the cattle on the ground was from one herd.

There will be free attractions, a carnival, a five-day racing card, and a big automobile racing day, with several daring automobile drivers in attendance.

CHAUTAUQUA WAS SUCCESS AT CROOKSTON

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chautauqua closed here Sunday evening with a fine musical program, and despite bad weather proved a big success. Sufficient tickets were pledged to insure the chautauqua next June.

The meetings during the past two years have proven of special benefit as presenting an opportunity for city and country people to meet for a common purpose, and close to half of the audience each day and evening has been composed of farmers and their families. The last lecture was given Sunday afternoon by Senator Vardaman of Mississippi, to an audience of 2,000 people.

INDIANS GETTING READY TO DANCE

Gathering on Couderay Reservation for Annual Event.

Couderay, Wis., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Most of the 1,100 Chippewa Indians on the Couderay reservation are assembling at Chief lake, near the Indian village of Reserve, on the reservation for their annual war dance, which they will hold for the next ten days.

Nearly every Indian tribe and reservation in the Northwest will send their best dancers.

Several years ago white visitors to the dances were looked upon with disfavor by the Indians, and picture taking was forbidden, but of late they do not object, and settlers for miles around and tourists from the nearby lakes never miss witnessing the festivals.

Only Pagans Dance.

Christian Indians attend, but do not dance, only the pagans do the dancing. Dog soup is a delicacy during the celebration, the soup being passed around after a few hours' dancing and then the chief passes the peace pipe and all take a puff of smoke from the long-stemmed pipe of peace. Old Indians from the different reservations relate war stories through an interpreter, and prizes are awarded to the best dressed tribe, the Winnebagoes as a rule being awarded the honors.

NEVER MENTIONED CRIMES.

Niagara, N. D., Lunatic Never Spoke of Alleged Murders.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eugene Butler, the Niagara recluse, who is believed to have murdered six persons whose skeletons were found under his home at Niagara 15 or 20 years after the commission of the crime, made no mention of his career of murder while an inmate of the state asylum for the insane from 1904 to 1911, when he died.

Dr. A. W. Cuest, who was chief physician at the asylum during the entire period that Butler was confined, says that never once did Butler let drop any hint of his supposed career of crime.

Butler used to have delusions of grandure and visions of exalted character. Once he fell desperately in love with one of the women nurses.

County officials are continuing the investigation in the hopes of establishing the identity of the several murder victims, and they have gained several clews which may serve to unravel the mystery.

COUNTRY DISTRICTS LOSE.

Have Less Population Than Shown in Federal Census of 1910.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rural population of the Red River valley as reported in the state census just completed, has fallen off in practically every Red River valley county, including Richland, Cass, Traill, Walsh, Grand Forks and Pembina, since the Federal census of 1910.

Only two counties, Grand Forks and Cass, will show an increase in the total population, being brought about by the growth of Grand Forks and Fargo.

In Grand Forks county, all but two rural precincts, which in 1910 reported a total population of 14,634, as against 14,439 this year. Fifteen years ago, the rural population was 15,951.

JILTED FARMER LOSES.

North Dakotan Fails to Recover Money Advanced to Woman.

Crosby, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plea of Andreas Skjalbred, a farmer, that he had advanced to Miss Regnhild Eckstrom the sum of $100 to apply on the expense of proving up a homestead, and that he made such loan to her while they were engaged to be married, failed to win for him in the district court a verdict. He sought damages in a breach of promise action, the girl having jilted him for another farmer.

The trial developed that it was through Skjalbred's correspondence with the girl, while she resided in Norway, that she came to the United States, expecting to wed him.

This was the second breach of promise ever tried in the state in which a woman was made defendant.

EDITOR'S CATTLE DRIVEN AWAY AND ABANDONED

Bowman, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—An attempt was made to run off seventeen cattle from the ranch of Editor Workman of the Bowman Pioneer. The fence was cut and the cattle driven by some one with an unshod horse for about ten miles, after which the horse tracks disappeared. The cattle were found about twelve miles from here, where they had been taken up by a farmer. It is supposed the thief became alarmed and, fearing detection, abandoned the herd.

SOO BRAKEMAN'S LUCK.

Wisconsin Railroad Man Said to Have Inherited $1,250,000.

Grand Rapids, Wis., July 6.—M. R. Helexon, a Soo brakeman, is said to have fallen heir to half an estate of 10,000,000 marks Norwegian money, about $1,250,000 American money. Mr. Helexon's grandfather died in Norway twenty-five years ago, and it was stipulated that the will should not be opened for twenty-five years. In the meantime death has claimed all but two heirs, Mr. Helexon and a cousin.

RIDES BAD BRONCHO, DARING COST LIFE.

Wing, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Injuries from being thrown from a broncho resulted fatally to Herman Haltunen, a Finn, who recently arrived here. He had been celebrating with some countrymen and was unable to ride the obstreperous animal he selected for his mount.

NORTH DAKOTAN NOT KILLED IN BATTLE

Report William Falk Was European War Victim Is False.

Glen Ullin, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the killing of William Falk in the European war was a mistake. A letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Falk of this place, announces he was shot through the hand but had recovered and is again in the field. His parents here are naturally greatly relieved to learn of the error.

Another North Dakotan Hit.

Falk writes that Ray Crandall, also of this section, was shot in the leg but will recover. Both were in the Canadian Northwest at the outbreak of the trouble and enlisted with the troops from there.

DICKINSON FISHERMEN HAVE FRY PLANTED

Dickinson, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fishermen of this locality are elated over the arrival of a lot of trout from the state fish hatchery, which were placed in different spring streams in this section. Each year fish have been sent here and the stocking of the streams will make good sport within a few years. The consignments were received through the efforts of the local gun club.

BAD OKLAHOMA BOY SENT BACK TO HOME

Cando, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Convicted of being an undesirable citizen, Clayton Ottinger has been returned to Oklahoma. He was formerly in the state reform school and was paroled. His brother-in-law brought him here and left him with a brother, a laboring man. The youth quickly commenced a lot of petty acts which resulted in a warrant being sworn out for him and he was held to be mentally incompetent and sent back to his former home.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Dickinson, S. D.—Capt. John Latta, one of the pioneers of Hughes county, died July 3 at Waverly, Iowa, where he was visiting. Burial will be at the old family home, Harrold, in the eastern part of this county.

Dickinson, N. D.—Crop conditions in this district are better than normal, while the rainfall for the season has been the heaviest of many years.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Robertson of University Place went to Larimore where Dr. Robertson gave the address Sunday at the memorial services for Mrs. Louisa Fuller, mother of W. E. Fuller of this city, who died at River Falls, Wis., on June 11.

Dickinson, N. D.—The Dickinson city census, just completed, shows a total population of 4,160, as against 3,678 in the Federal census five years ago, and over 5,000 in the special census two years ago.

Ayr, N. D.—There was quite a little damage to crops by the recent hail storm that visited this section. Fortunately the storm was confined to a comparatively small section of country.

Fargo, N. D.—Karl W., the 3-months-old son of Mrs. Karl Bowman of this city, died on June 30. Funeral services were conducted at the Maple-Sheyenne church and interment was made in Maple-Sheyenne cemetery.

Bismarck, N. D.—Dr. O. G. Libbey, secretary of the State Historical society, has left for the old Custer battlefield, where he will camp for ten days or two weeks, gathering data and information on the historic site. Accompanying Dr. Libbey were Red Star, one of the best known of the old Ree scouts, and his son, Alex Sage, of the Berthold reservation.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

La Crosse—John Desmond, 80 years old, Civil war veteran and oldest member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Wisconsin, is walking to Washington. He hopes to reach the national capital between Sept. 20 and 24.

Milwaukee—Richard Welk, 36 years old, whose home is in Oshkosh, died at Emergency hospital on Saturday. He was struck by a Chicago-Milwaukee electric line interurban Friday night near South Milwaukee, and sustained a fractured skull. An operation was performed by staff physicians without success.

Glenwood City—Work has been begun on a new $12,000 Catholic church in this city to replace the one destroyed by fire last winter.

Manitowoc—This city in the future will prohibit women from conducting saloons.

Manitowoc—After fifty years' service in the treasury department at Washington, Sherman Platt, former Manitowoc resident, will retire to enjoy a fortune of $100,000 left him by his uncle.

Two Rivers—Mrs. Felix Greenwood, the first white child born in Two Rivers and a resident here all her life, died suddenly at the age of 67 years. During her life Mrs. Greenwood was absent from the city but one week.

Tomah—The eighty-fifth birthday of Jessie Boorman was celebrated with a family reunion.

Grand Rapids—The store of Robert Schrieber at Sherwood was destroyed by fire Saturday morning, the loss being $3,000.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Menominee—Playing with a dog proved a painful experience for Elvira Smith, 2 years old. The girl walked away from her mother while on the farm of a relative, and her shrieks brought the mother to her side. The girl was on the ground and the canine on top of her, biting and scratching her in the face and body. She is seriously injured.

Ontonagon—John Karl, a man of about 85 years, commonly known as Finn John, was killed in the yards here by a night train.

Hancock—Over 1,200 feet of pipe carrying full water pressure has been laid in the lower residence section of the Ripley location. It extends from the coal dock of the Portage Lake and company up the hill three blocks and over one block. It goes through a thickly settled district of the town.

ON THE IRON RANGES

LEAVE RANGE FOR BIG WAR

About 400 Serbians, Montenegrins and Bosnians Depart for Winnipeg.

Transported to Europe By English Government to Fight With Allies.

Virginia, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 400 Serbians, Montenegrins and Bosnians have left the range for Winnipeg where they join a small army of about 9,000 men which will be transported to Europe at the expense of the English government to fight against Austria and Germany. One hundred and fourteen men of those nationalities left Virginia Sunday night and about 280 passed through the city yesterday en route from Hibbing and Chisholm to Winnipeg.

May Affect Labor Situation.

The departure of so many laborers at one time brings the effect of the war at home to the range. If the men of Southern European countries continue to return to their mother country there is some apprehension felt here that a scarcity of laborers will be felt before fall.

AMERICANIZATION DAY AT COLERAINE

Men of Foreign Birth Evince Interest in Celebration.

Coleraine, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The feature of the big celebration of the Fourth here yesterday was the keen interest displayed by those of foreign birth in the Americanization day idea featured by the speaker. The celebration here was one of the most memorable ever held on the Western Mesaba.

The parade led a great throng to the park, where the patriotic program was given before the largest out-of-door audience ever assembled here on such an occasion. Miss Cameron of Taconite read the Declaration of Independence and the address of the day was given by Supt. J. A. Vandyke. The attention given to this part of the program was highly gratifying to those having the celebration in charge. There was something in the stirring events now taking place in the affairs of nations which seemed to cause the populace to give heed to the lessons of patriotism which the program afforded.

The lessons of higher patriotism were drawn from the American flag.

All Had Good Time.

The remainder of the day was one continual round of pleasure and entertaining sports. The best of good feeling prevailed and every one had a good time.

The baseball game between the teams from Bovey and Taconite in the afternoon drew a great crowd. It was an interesting contest with a score of 6 to 4 in favor of Taconite.

The Coleraine baseball team played the Nashwauk team at that village and won the prize of $50 and 50 per cent of the gate receipts by defeating them, 16 to 6.

Virginia Sport Events.

Virginia, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big parade, speaking and other features of the celebration of the Fourth here yesterday were witnessed by thousands, the weather and all conditions being most favorable. Mayor Boylan presided at the patriotic exercises and introduced Secretary of State Julius Schmahl, who dealt in the main with reasons why the people residing in the United States have reason to be thankful. Rev. Hans Wolner of St. Paul's Episcopal church gave the invocation and Rev. Father W. J. Power gave the benediction.

In the afternoon the sport program was held on several of the main avenues. The entries in all events were numerous and all events were good. H. W. Pribnow won the three-quarter mile race with a big lead. More than ten woodsmen and "pegs" participated in the log rolling contest.

Two League Ball Games.

There were two league ball games, Virginia against Fort William and Virginia won both. The score of the morning game was 8 to 5 and that of the afternoon 9 to 4. About 2,500 persons witnessed each game.

The fireworks display was easily the feature of the day. The display was beautiful and the manner in which it was shot off left nothing to be desired. The Smith's Fireworks Display company very ably fulfilled its contract to furnish Virginia with the best display ever shown on the range. The fireworks were set off from the bank of Virginia lake.

Taking Oath Thrills Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The administration by Deputy District Clerk U. G. Holloway here yesterday of 150 men of foreign birth before thousands of the oath of allegiance constituted a big feature of the celebration of the Fourth. The address of Judge Hughes was in keeping with the spirit of the day and evoked frequent applause.

"The most important duty of man is to bring up his children right; to teach them reasons for correct living and educate them to know the meaning of brotherhood," declared Judge Hughes. "To do this the child must have the proper training and environment to cultivate broad-mindedness.

"We are proud to have you citizens of the United States. Examinations, which show your fitness for this, are stringent enough to insure a high type of citizenship. To admire your pluck in attending night schools here in an endeavor to accustom yourself to the ways of this nation.

"No nation can be better than the average type of its citizens. The type of citizenship a nation has establishes the type of government. The fact that citizens from every nation in the world have amalgamated, would indicate that the United States is the great brotherhood of the world."

The Americanization exercises followed the parade, which beat anything ever seen here. The balance of the day was taken up with ball games and various other events.

Aurora's Fine Celebration.

Aurora, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration here yesterday was a very succesful affair.

The races in the morning were very exciting and greatly interested the contestants and spectators. The bulk of the prize money went to the children, who greatly enjoyed the day. The address of the day by Representative Charles T. Murphy was excellent. the large crowd listened attentively and roundly applauded the speaker.

Aurora Wins Both.

The local baseball team won in the game with Gilbert 8 to 4, after which both teams went to Gilbert and played another game, which was won by Aurora also, 15 to 5. Both games were for a $50 purse.

The fireworks display in the evening was one of the best on the range and was viewed by many people. The street decorations were second to none, and in the evening, with the red, white and blue lights, the Aurora street was the prettiest on the entire range.

Eveleth Hears Dulutnian.

Eveleth, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ray Hughes of Duluth delivered a very patriotic and eloquent address during the celebration here yesterday, that made a great hit. Ernest Lampi read the Declaration of Independence, while patriotic exercises were sung under the direction of Capt. Mahon. The parade and sporting events were all that could have been asked.

MAYOR OF GRAND RAPIDS TAKES LIFE WITH RIFLE

GEORGE RIDDELL.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—This village was thrown into a fit of excitement this morning by the announcement that George Riddell, village president, or as he was known, mayor, had shot and killed himself at his home. No apparent reason has developed and Coroner Dr. Gendrell and a jury are trying to find out this afternoon what prompted the act. It was about 6:30 o'clock this morning when Mrs. Riddell, who had arisen and was in another part of the home, heard two shots in the bedroom where her husband was sleeping. She ran in and was horrified to find him lying partly on the bed with his feet resting on the floor, bleeding from a wound in the throat. She summoned aid but death resulted in a few minutes. Beside the man lay a 32-caliber rifle. Two shots were fired, the first going wild and the second striking him in the throat, severing the jugular vein and causing a wound that meant death.

Was Old Resident.

Mayor Riddell was about 45 and had lived here for about twenty-five years. He was a blacksmith by trade. He had been village president several terms, having been re-elected at the last election. He was once chief of the fire department. Six years ago he was candidate for sheriff against T. T. Riley, and though defeated, carried the case into the courts where he finally lost out. Some think this may have affected his mind as he seemed to feel the defeat keenly. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Iva Anderson, who prior to her marriage in December, 1912, worked as a compositor in a local printing office and was well known and popular here. They have one child, aged about 1 year.

The funeral arrangements have not been perfected.

"GRANDMA" MOODIE IS BURIED AT WADENA, MINN.

MRS. JANE MOODIE.

Wadena, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Jane Moodie, for thirty-one years a resident of this city and vicinity, and known affectionately as "Grandma" Moodie, who died Sunday at 4 p. m., aged 91 years, was buried here this afternoon. The funeral was a large one. Born in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1824, reputed to be a descendant of the Condes, princes of the house of Bourbon, who gave to the French nation five of its greatest soldiers and to the Huguenot cause two of its great leaders, she came to America when 16 and lived the greater part of her life in Eastern Canada, coming to Minnesota thirty-seven years ago and locating first in Winona county. Her husband died twenty-eight years ago. The immediate members of her family surviving are: Hugh and William Moodie of Wadena, Thomas Moodie of Hewitt, Mrs. S. A. McElmurry of Brookings, S. D.; Mrs. J. S. Childress of La Crosse, Wis., and Mrs. J. W. Ketter of Park Rapids. All were at the bedside when death came. Mrs. Moodie has a sister, 94 years of age, residing at Montreal. Another sister died at the age of 91. She has sixty living descendants, including four great great grandchildren. Her oldest son is 71. A grandson, Thomas H. Moodie, is managing editor of the Virginia, Minn., Enterprise.

WEEPING ECZEMA ON BOY'S NECK

Shoulders, Around Waist and On Face. Like Ringworm. Could Hardly Sleep. Well in 2 Weeks.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little boy was troubled with eczema when about one year old. It started something like ringworm on the back of his neck, then on his shoulders, around his waist and at last spread to his face. He had what was called weeping eczema. Clear water would come out in drops most all the time. The skin would get red and the water oozed out of it. His clothes rubbed the places on his back and they stuck tight to his clothes. He could hardly sleep at night; he would roll and scratch.

"So I sent for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and he was well within two weeks." (Signed) Mrs. H. A. Brown, Atwood, Kan., March 26, 1915.

BOYS "SENTENCED" TO SUMMER SCHOOL

Novel and Practical System of Handling Eveleth's Wayward Youth.

Eveleth, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The summer school as a penal institution is the latest development in the all-the-year-round school plan that is being tried out in Eveleth. Ten boys have been sentenced to date to attend school regularly during the summer months. When a boy, or boys, are brought into municipal court, the first question asked by Judge Moylan is whether they are enrolled for the summer school. In each instance this summer it has been found that the boys brought before the judge were not attendants at the school.

Five in One Batch.

Five were rounded up by the police, charged with burning a shack kept at the dump to shelter the caretaker during bad weather. Their guilt was established and more as a preventative against further offenses than as a punishment, they were let off with a lecture and a "sentence" to summer school. Each of the ten sent to school are required to make weekly reports to the judge.

The theory in requiring attendance at school is simple. The boy with nothing to do is naturally the one to get into trouble while the boy attending classes regularly gives the officers little trouble.

BOOTH OF HIBBING MAKES HOME RUNS

Distinguishes Himself in Two Games Played on Monday.

Hibbing, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dwight Booth, heavy slugger for Brady's colts, thrilled two large crowds of spectators in the first inning of both the game at Chisholm and at the local ball park yesterday afternoon, when with two men on bases he caught the ball on the nose and lifted it soaring away over the fences of both grounds.

Brady's colts won both games, the first at Chisholm, 4 to 3, the second here, 5 to 1.

In the Chisholm game Edmunds, first striker up for Hibbing, hit safe. Geiselman got to first on an error. Fautsch reached first on a fielder's choice. Geiselman was thrown out at second. Dwight Booth then clouted the ball for the circuit. Hibbing made its other run in the fourth, when Brookins slapped one of Mahan's offerings for four bags.

Chisholm scored twice in the second frame. Benrud walked. Chase got to first on an error. Cullis sacrificed. Kriz singled, knocking in both Benrud and Chase. A double play from Fautsch to Williams retired the side.

Withers did brilliant mound work for Hibbing. He held down the heavy Chisholm strikers to three measly hits and had perfect control. Mahan was hit hard.

The Second Game.

Edmunds, in the game played at the local park, got to first on balls the first time up. Geiselman sacrificed him to second. Fautsch hit safely and Edmunds was on third. Dwight Booth, despite the fact he already had his reputation cinched and is held in fear by all hurlers, especially when hits mean runs, just leaned against the ball and did the usual thing with it.

Williams then reached first on a pass. Brookins knocked a three-bagger. Booth struck out. Nord was out pitcher to first. Hibbing garnered four runs this inning. Nothing happened until the third inning, when Dwight Booth, first man up, hit safely. Williams sacrificed him to second. Brookins, playing up to form, made a hit, scoring Booth.

Chisholm made its lone tally in the ninth. Schafer made a hit. Ward reached first on fielder's choice, Schafer being thrown out at second. Benrud flew out to right field. Cullis singled, scoring Schafer. Freeman wafted.

Reiger pitched his usual game, allowing but four hits and only two passes. He retired seven by the strikeout route.

Chase, pitching for Chisholm, allowed seven hits, gave four passes and struck out three men.

PETERSON ESTATE VALUED AT $20,000

Property of Eveleth Pioneer Will Be Divided Among Children.

An estate estimated to be worth upward of $20,000 was left by A. N. Peterson, Eveleth pioneer, who died July 1, according to papers filed today in probate court. The will devises the property in equal shares to his five children: Roy, Walter, James, Grace and Ruth, all minors. The estate, however, is not to be divided until the youngest child becomes of age.

The will further provides that a sister, Christina Peterson, residing at Racine, Wis., shall assume guardianship over the children until they become of age. She is also named as one of the executors. The other executors are: Peter Norgun, a brother, living at Racine and George W. Peterson, a nephew, of Benton Harbors, Mich.

George Peterson, one of the children named in the will, died ten days before his father. The Peterson estate consists principally of realty, although it includes personality to the value of $7,000. The late Mr. Peterson at the time of his death was engaged in the lumbering and mining business. For a number of years he was a merchant at Eveleth.

ELY TEMPERANCE LODGE ELECTION

Ely, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ely Temperance lodge held its election on July 4. The following were chosen for three months: Arvid Kantola, president; John Willman, vice president; Peter Waisainen, recording secretary; John Palmgard, corresponding secretary; Mike Gomsero, treasurer; Helmer Anti, secretary of treasury. John Kukko will epresent the Ely lodge at the convention of the Finnish National Temperance Brotherhood at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 26.

RIDES LOG OVER DAM.

Grand Rapids Young Man Furnishes Crowd With Thriller.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harvey Jorgenson, a young man of this village whose father is employed in the paper mill, furnished the crowd here for the celebration yesterday a thriller when he went over the dam in the Mississippi river at the paper mill standing on a log. He rode the log down the river and right over the dam into the whirlpool below, a distance of about fifty feet and then calmly swam ashore while the crowd that lined the banks of the stream cheered. It was one of the events in the water sport line not on the program and today Jorgenson is some hero. The celebration here yesterday was a fine one. There was an auto parade in the morning followed by patriotic exercises at the Central school during which W. W. Barron, a local attorney, delivered a patriotic address.

There were two baseball games between Grand Rapids and a team made up of the best players at Marble and other Canisteo district points and the locals won both. The first was played at 2 p. m., the score being 5 to 2 in favor of Grand Rapids, and the second at 6 p. m., the locals winning 10 to 0. Dancing, fireworks and other doings wound up the day. There were many people here from Deer River, Cohasset and other points.

EVELETH'S SPRINKLER NOW BEING TESTED

Eveleth, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth's new street flusher and sprinkler is being tried out under the direction of two experts from the factory. The machine has a capacity of 850 gallons and attachments for sprinkling and flushing.

The tests given the machine have been satisfactory but it has not been officially accepted. The sprinkler was given a place in the Fourth of July parade yesterday. The machine is kept at the fire hall where room has been made for it on the floor with the fire apparatus.

DULUTHIANS AT HOUGHTON.

Party Enjoys Outing Trip on the Launch Triune.

According to a dispatch received yesterday from Houghton, Mich., the cabin launch Triune, which left Duluth at midnight Friday arrived at Houghton at 12:19 Sunday morning, the exact running time being twenty-four hours and three minutes. The Triune is owned by Stacy H. Hill and Earl Patison of this city, who are on board with a party of friends for a ten-days' cruise. The other members of the party are Clifford Cook, Roy Mills, H. B. Haroldson and Walter F. Dacey. The Triune is now on its way to Grand Island. The return trip will be made along the north shore course via Isle Royale.

TWO FIREMEN KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS ENGINE

Bay City, Mich., July 6.—In a collision between a Michigan Central passenger train and an automobile fire engine at a grade crossing last night two firemen were killed, one fatally hurt and three others were seriously injured. The dead are: Edward Jolly and Henry Fletcher. Martin Thielmyer, surgeons say, cannot survive.

The locomotive carried the fire engine along on the pilot for fifty feet and then jumped the track.

A horse-drawn hook and ladder truck, responding to the same fire alarm, was thrown down an embankment at a bridge approach when the team became frightened. Three firemen on the truck were dangerously hurt.

Youthful, Wrinkleless Skin Easy to Have

You who desire to regain a youthful appearance will do well to make the acquaintance of the two simple, but valuable, prescriptions here given.

To make an effective wrinkle remover, mix an ounce of powdered saxolite and a half pint witch hazel. Bathe the face in the solution—immediately every wrinkle is affected. It acts wonderfully on sagging facial muscles, also, the lotion possessing remarkable astringent and tonic properties.

To get rid of an aged, faded, freckled or discolored complexion, buy an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drug store and apply nightly as you would cold cream, erasing the mornings with soap and water. This will slowly absorb the undesirable surface skin, revealing the younger, brighter, healthier skin underneath. There's nothing to equal this treatment as a facial rejuvenator. —Advertisement.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

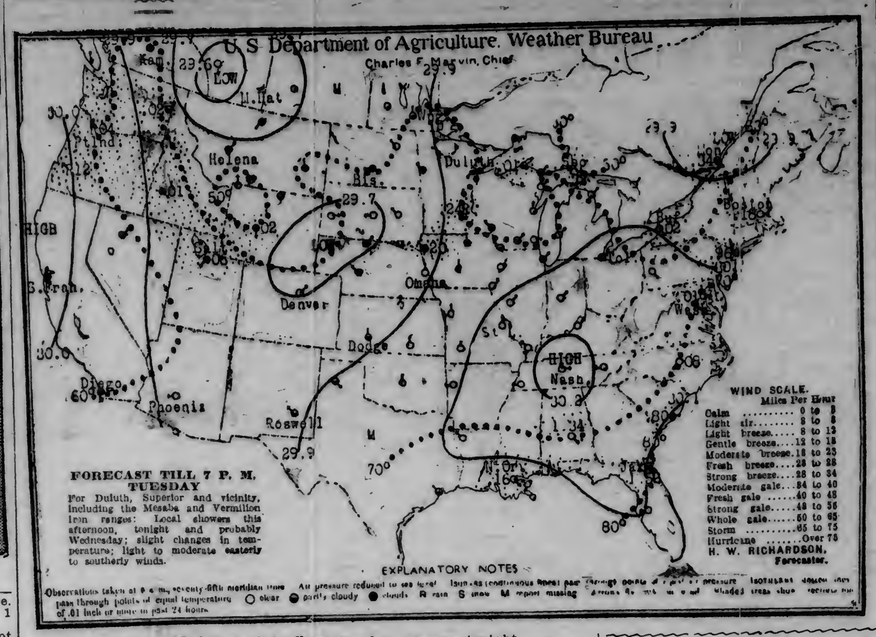

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. —Advertisement.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SHOWERS

Today started off as though it had inherited the habit of fine weather from yesterday, but now comes along a crape-hanger of a prediction that there will be local showers later in the day and probably tonight or tomorrow. Well, such is life, offering variety with all. A year ago today was fair. The sun rose this morning at 4:20 and will set this evening at 8:05, giving fifteen hours and forty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours showers fell over Atlantic and East Gulf states, the St. Lawrence valley, Northern Michigan, Southern Minnesota, Western Iowa, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. Heavy rain occurred at Jacksonville, Fla., and Montgomery, Ala. Warmer weather prevails in the Western lake region, central states, Rocky mountains and the Northwest."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 6.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Minnesota—Showers tonight; warmer in southeast portion; Wednesday partly cloudy.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, possibly showers in east portion tonight.

South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; cooler Wednesday.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight.

Lower Michigan—Fair tonight and Wednesday; warmer tonight.

Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, probably local showers; warmer in extreme east portion tonight.

SAYS BRITISH USE THE SAME METHODS

German Report Declares Turkish Ships Torpedoed Without Warning.

Berlin, July 6, by wireless to Sayville.—Included in the news items given out today by the Overseas news agency was the following:

"An official report gives full particulars of a number of cases in which British submarines and torpedoboats in Turkish waters had torpedoed without warning unarmed passenger ships, and even one hospital ship with 700 wounded on board."

Continuing this statement points out that while England condemns submarine warfare within a specified war zone as a barbarous, cruel and murderous practice, in violation of international law, she uses the same methods in other parts of the globe which have not been specified as war zone."

NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME.

Brainerd's Pitchers Win Glory In Contest With St. Paul Team.

Brainerd, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Flor de Knispels of St. Paul won two out of three games in the series here with Brainerd, but Brainerd gained the greater glory by getting a no-hit no-run game, shutting the visitors out, 4 to 0, in the last game.

Bowman of Brainerd pitched yesterday morning, went on the mound again in the afternoon and landed the no-hit no-run game. Heinke, Knispel southpaw, was batted out of the box and was succeeded by Dixon in the seventh inning. Bowman struck out ten and passed none. He sprained his ankle early in the game, but stuck it out. Bowman is 19 years old and is pitching his first season. He is over 6 feet, weighs 190 pounds and is a clever hitter and a good runner.

RETURNING TO ITALY.

Northern Minnesota Has Already Furnished 200 Soldiers for Army.

The period of business depression which prevailed on the iron ranges last year is resulting in hundreds of Italians returning to their native land and enlistment in the armies of King Victor Emmanuel, according to an Italian school instructor of Eveleth, Minn., who was in Duluth today. This man served in the Italian artillery before coming to America, and has been studying the movements of his fellow countrymen on the ranges during the last few weeks. He declined to have his name published.

"Many Italians on the ranges are now in debt," he said today, "and they will take this opportunity of returning to their native land, where they may receive temporary relief. Patriotism, of course, is a big factor, but the fact that many were out of work has made it easier for them to go."

He stated that about 200 Italians had already left the ranges and other parts of Minnesota to return to Italy. Many of these he said would return to America after the war if they escaped with their lives from the battlefield. A great many of them have families here, and this will draw them back.

DURUM WHEAT WINS ITS WAY

Federal Cerealist Writes Interesting Treatise on Hard Grades.

Reviews Development of Despised Grade; Duluth First to Recognize.

"Hard Wheats Winning Their Way," is the title of an interesting treatise in the department of agriculture's year book for 1914, by Mark Alfred Carlton, cerealist in charge of cereal investigations by the bureau of plant industry.

The progress of the various species of wheat, and more particularly durum, in the Northwestern states, is exhaustively treated and the relative courses of their markets from time to time are shown.

Hard spring wheat, the article sets out, was introduced into the northern great plains of this country and Canada about the middle of the last century, but it did not become firmly established as a profitable crop until after 1870, coincident with the introduction of the purifier and roller mill. Fife and blue stem are the two chief varieties. Until 1870 hard wheat was very unpopular, and it sold at from 10 to 15 cents under soft winter wheat. From then on a change in sentiment came about. New lands in the Dakotas and western Canada were occupied by wheat farmers, and the center of the milling industry moved westward from New York to Minnesota. Hard spring wheat had won its way, as was evidenced in statistics showing that the output of the Minneapolis mills had grown from 940,000 barrels in 1878 to 22,737,404 in 1909.

Hard Wheat Area.

The area of hard spring wheat cultivation at present includes Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and portions of Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Wisconsin and eastern Montana. Hard winter wheat has steadily encroached upon that area from the South, and in the Dakotas an extensive substitution of durum for hard spring wheat is going on.

Special attention is devoted by Mr. Carlton to the remarkable development in the cultivation of durum wheat and the demand for it.

"Durum was introduced first by the department of agriculture in 1900 in response to a demand for harder and better wheat varieties from east and south Russia," says the article. "So far its greatest production has been near the Red river, with its center in Ransome and Sargent counties in Southeastern North Dakota. No doubt since durum wheat prices have greatly increased, a greater extension of the crop westward will occur.

"A quality of durum of no little importance is its rust resistance, that fact being clearly brought out in the spring wheat crop of 1904. There was a loss in that year from that source of 25,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels in the crop of the Dakotas and Minnesota, all of which would have been avoided if the total crop had been durum.

Duluth First to Recognize.

"Durum, the hardest of all hard winter wheat, met with the most violent opposition at first, chiefly from millers. Various epithets, such as 'bastard' and 'goose,' were applied to it without restriction. In 1905 a crop of 10,000,000 bushels of it was produced, and it was marketed on the Duluth board of trade for the first time. The report of the Duluth board for that year said that prices for No. 1 durum ranged from 60 to 70 cents a bushel, and that opinions differed as to its future position in the grain market. For 1903 the average price of No. 1 durum at Duluth was 19¾ cents under No. 1 northern. In 1904 it was 15 cents under; in 1905, 16¾ cents under, and in 1906, 10 cents under.

"Production of durum increased greatly each year," says the report. "In 1907, the farm value of the crop was $30,000,000, or more than 2,000 times the original cost of its introduction. The yield per acre was constantly from 30 to 50 per cent greater than that of any other wheat on the same farm, and often 100 per cent greater in very dry localities.

"With the steadily extended use of durum wheat the market for it has broadened, and its price in comparison with No. 1 northern has become more attractive. On Sept. 1, 1911, for example, durum wheat at Duluth sold at a premium for the first time, its price being $1.04¼, and for No. 1 northern $1.04⅛. Recently it has sold constantly above hard spring, often more than 20 cents over. Durum first reached the $1.50 mark at Duluth on Dec. 8 last, and it sold in New York on Dec. 17 at $1.61 a bushel.

HUERTA HURT BY HIS TREATMENT

Mexican General Sheds Tears Because His Word Is Doubted.

El Paso, Tex., July 6.—Talking with newspaper men yesterday, Gen. Victoriano Huerta wept when he spoke of the deep hurt, as he characterized it, he had received from Americans. The aged prisoner sat on the edge of his iron cot and in bitter tones expressed indignation and surprise that his word should not have greater weight.

"I gave them my word, my word of honor, that I would not attempt to leave El Paso," he said. "And I gave ball and yet I am forced to occupy this cell. There is one thing no man can say, and that is that I have ever broken my word."

Huerta spent the day in his small cell with Gen. Ignacio Bravo, except for thirty minutes walk in the corridors of the building.

Huerta reiterated his assertion that he had broken no laws of the United States and declared his willingness to face trial. He insisted that he, like Orozco, might have eluded the men set to guard him but that he was detained by the word he had given.

NO AMERICAN RIGHTS VIOLATED IN ATTACK

Washington, July 6.—Officials here pointed out that apparently no American rights had been violated in the attack by a German submarine of the British steamer Anglo-Californian, since the officers of the vessel admitted their attempts to escape.

If any Americans were killed, officials held that the case was parallel to that of the British steamer Armenian, on which a number of Americans lost their lives. Continued efforts of merchantmen to escape when ordered to heave-to by a hostile war vessel places neutrals aboard outside of the protection of their home government according to the rules of international law.

COUNTY WILL PASS ON BIDS

Board Will Let Contracts for Ten Pieces of Road Work.

Commissioners Will Consider Proposal to Reroute Swan Lake Road.

At the regular monthly meeting of the county board at the courthouse this afternoon, it is expected that contracts will be let on ten pieces of county road work for which bids were opened this morning. The morning session of the board was given over entirely to the opening and reading of the proposals. Eighty-one bids were presented.

The work embraced by the bids is as follows:

1. Constructing approximately one and one-half (1½) miles of the Fraser Bay extension of the Miller Trunk road, south and west from Miller Trunk cut-off, near northeast corner of section 15, township 62, range 17, to E1-16 corner on south line of said section; in the Fourth Commissioner's district.

2. Constructing one (1) mile of the Carlson road, west and south from northeast corner of section 1, township 55, range 19.

3. Constructing approximately one (1) mile of the Harger road, on south line of section 7, township 62, range 21.

4. Constructing one and one-half (1½) miles of the Halvorson road, on east lines of sections 18 and 19, township 63, range 21.

5. Constructing one (1) mile of the Kasun road, on E line of section 8, township 63, range 21;

6. Constructing two (2) miles of the Laine road, through sections 29 and 32, township 61, range 19;

7. Constructing one-half (½) mile of the Gustafson road, between southeast corner and south ¼ corner of section 6, township 61, range 20;

8. Constructing one (1) mile of the Winter road, on south line of section 31, township 62, range 20;

9. Constructing one (1) mile of the Tamminen road, on east line of section 28, township 57, range 19; and

10. Constructing one-half mile at the Goodwill road, on south line of west half of section 32, township 61, range 19; all in the seventh commissioner district.

The monthly meeting of the board today will probably be a short one, in view of the fact that the board will hold its semi-annual session on July 12. Few matters of more than routine importance are scheduled to come before the commissioners for consideration.

* * *

Tomorrow the commissioners will visit Pike Lake with the view of going over the proposition of rerouting the Swan Lake road around the southwestern end of the lake. The matter of buying an acre of land on the lake shore to be dedicated for public parks purposes will also be considered by the county board members.

SETTLER DIES WHILE FRIENDS SEEK AID

Joseph Olson of Olson & Hoppenyan, undertakers, left this afternoon for Kelsey to get the body of Gust Johnson, a settler living near Cotton. Johnson died yesterday afternoon while a party of friends, who had visited at his cabin during the forenoon, had gone out to make arrangements for bringing him to a hospital. When they returned with a team he was found dead.

Johnson had been a settler on his claim for the last ten years. He formerly resided in the West end. He leaves a brother, John, residing in the West end.

CLAIM $323 DUE FOR BUILDING MATERIAL

An action to recover $323 claimed to be due for material furnished in the construction of a schoolhouse at Remer, Minn., during the fall of 1912, was brought to trial before Judge Dancer in district court this morning in a case wherein the Remer Lumber company appears as plaintiff and J. A. Hazelcamp and the National Surety company appear as defendants. Hazelcamp, the contractor, ordered the material, but never paid for it. The surety company, which furnished his bond, is held liable for the amount. The contract for the school was awarded for $14,178.60.

MAYOR PRINCE ACTING AS STARTER.

RESIGNATION SIGNIFICANT

Comiskey Smiles as He Comments on Fielder Jones' Action.

"Is Too Wise to Quit Merely on Umpire's Decision."

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago American League Baseball club and perhaps the most famous baseball character in the world, as well as one of the most powerful forces in the game, reached Duluth at 7 o'clock this morning on the steamer South American, leaving for the return trip down the lakes three hours later.

With the famous baseball magnate were Mrs. Charles A. Comiskey, Louis Comiskey, the magnate's son, his wife, and several girl friends of the younger Mrs. Comiskey.

The "Old Roman" was met at the dock by Len Culberson, Paddy Doran, Charles Campbell and John McGreevy. The members of the Comiskey party were bundled into waiting automobiles and taken for a trip around the boulevard. The automobile carrying the baseball magnate drew up to the wharf just as the warning bell of the South American was ringing and the gang plank was being drawn in.

"Sure I've a great team," exclaimed Comiskey, and a smile beamed over the countenance of the man who is credited with being the most potent force in the American league.

"No, Eddie Collins shouldn't be given credit for making all the improvement in my team. There is Roth and Felch, both great baseball players, and the hitting of Fournier. Collins is a wonderful ball player; one of the greatest in the world, but all of the other boys are going well.

"We are going to win the pennant. The team is good enough, but, say, I don't like the way it has been going the last four games."

Will the Feds Last?

"Are the Feds fading?" was a question put to the old wizard of baseball.

"Oh no," said the Old Roman, and a smile lit up his face. "They are still keeping their parks open. But of course Fielder Jones has left them, and you know he is too old in the baseball business to quit on an umpire's decision."

At this point the smile that was playing about the lips of the baseball magnate became a positive grin and then broke forth into a real laugh.

"Yes; the Fielder is too wise to quit merely on an umpire's decision."

As for Clarence Rowland, the new manager of the White Sox team, the that Commy picked from the verdant sticks and placed in charge of his team, the visiting baseball magnate had nothing but praises.

Rowland a "Good Boy."

"Clarence is a good boy and is keeping the team hustling," said Comiskey. "I believed at the time I chose this young fellow as manager of my team that I was making no mistake, though lots of persons took the trouble to inform me otherwise. Nothing has happened so far to cause me to change my mind, while a lot of things have happened to make me think that I was quite right. Rowland has judgment, ability and the respect of his players. Those are three great qualities for any manager. As I said, I believe the Sox are going to win the pennant. I believe we have the class on the team and I also believe that the team will get better as the season grows older. The White Sox are a fighting team and a fighting team doesn't quit after a spurt."

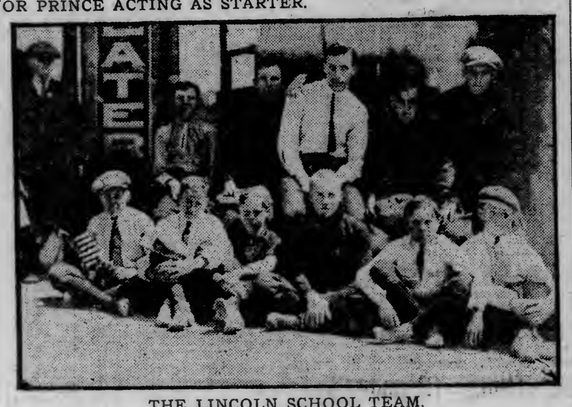

The genial owner of the White Sox team asked for the result of yesterday's double-header between Chicago and St. Louis upon arising this morning. When informed that the Sox had been badly beaten in the second game the Old Roman became so peeved that he almost refused to eat any breakfast.

From his appearance the famous baseball magnate has fully recovered from the illness that a little over a year ago caused his legions of friends the very gravest anxiety.

Tanned, with sparkling eye and jaunty step, the greatest Roman of them all, despite the encroaching years, looks scarcely older than in the days when he made his last efforts to play the initial sack, a position that he filled with greater ability in his younger days than any predecessor and better than the majority of stars that have come since his active playing days have ceased.

CUTLER IS DEFEATED

Joe Stecker Downs Chicago Wrestler in Straight Falls.

Omaha, Neb., July 6.—Joe Stecker, the Dodge, Neb., farmer boy, won the American heavyweight wrestling championship from Charles Cutler of Chicago here last night, winning the first fall in eighteen minutes and the second fall in ten, the famous leg scissors of Stecker bringing about the downfall of the famous Chicago Nonpareil in both bouts.

Stecker, the pride of the Nebraska farmers, outclassed the big Chicago wonder, surprising even the confident following from Dodge and other Nebraska towns by the ease with which he vanquished the Chicago man.

Sporting men believe that Stecker's sensational victory will result in the return of Frank Gotch to the mat. Gotch was among the spectators of last night's contest, but refused to comment on the victory. At the conclusion of the second and deciding bout Stecker issued a defi to the world's champion, offering to meet Gotch within sixty days.

Competent followers of wrestling declared after the bout that Stecker is the greatest wrestler developed in years, some even going so far as to say that the young Nebraskan will take the measure of Gotch, should the Humboldt, Iowa, wonder return to the mat.

NO OFFICIAL ACTION ON HYDRANT PROBLEM

Farrell and Merritt Will Settle Labor Charges Peacefully.

No official action will be taken by the council on the controversy over the payment of labor charges for the turning on of water hydrants for sanitary sewer flushing.

Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division, who raised an objection against the payment of a requisition for $45 from the water and light department for labor hire in turning on the hydrants, said this morning that he would not bring the matter before the city council this evening. Instead, he said, he would settle it with Commissioner Merritt some time this week.

"We want to work together," said Commissioner Farrell, "and I am sure Mr. Merritt and I can come to some satisfactory arrangement. There is no need of special legislation whatever, and I expect to submit my plan to Mr. Merritt within a day or so. I am certain we shall settle this affair without any further trouble.

"I shall suggest that the water department send three men to me, and if they are satisfactory, I will hire them to turn on water hydrants and work with my crews. They will be paid by my department, and there will be no need in the future of having an additional expense. This arrangement will be acceptable, I am sure."

Last week Commissioner Farrell refused to countersign a requisition for $45 for labor charges, declaring that he will not pay that much money for about $11 worth of water, which was used in flushing the sewers. The water department sends a man out every time the works division orders flushing done, and a charge of about $3 is made against the latter department for labor. This man, Commissioner Farrell has claimed, should work for the works division and do sewer work, besides turning on the hydrant and "loafing" while the crew flushes the sewer.

At a special meeting of the commissioners last week it was decided to prepare a resolution covering the matter, but Mr. Farrell has since decided that special legislation is not necessary, if an agreeable settlement can be made.

Coast Guard Promoted.

John McDonald, a member of the Portage Lake canal coast guard, has been appointed warrant officer, with the title of captain, at the Vermilion station near the Sault. His predecessor, James Carpenter, has been transferred to the station at Tawas. Capt. McDonald has an enviable record in the coast guard service and carries a medal for bravery.

Grounds in Sault River.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 6.—The steamer Plankington, upbound with coal, ran aground at Striblings point during the fog yesterday. Tugs were sent to her assistance and her cargo lightered at noon, after which she was released and proceeded on her way without apparent damage.

Keeping the Fourth.

Not a ship left this harbor yesterday, except those on excursion business, for the sailors were keeping the Fourth. It was not so much the sailors as it was the dock hands, for whom yesterday was a holiday and ships could not load. Between midnight, Monday, and early this morning, nothing went out. Quite a number of ships came in, however, during that time.

CARL BECK DIRECTS NEW YORK CELEBRATION

Carl Beck, who organized and directed the first "safe and sane" Fourth celebration in Superior, had charge of yesterday's celebration in New York city. Mr. Beck became well known at the Head of the Lakes through his playgrounds management. He has been in the East for some time, and a short time ago was appointed secretary of Mayor Mitchel's committee of eighty citizens of New York who had charge of the Independence day celebration.

The celebration was in the form of meetings in the five boroughs and a central one in the new city stadium.

The construction of a new port on the east coast of the island of Luzon is expected to reduce the time for trips between the Pacific coast of the United States and Manila by four days.

CRIMINAL TAKEN TO JOLIET PRISON

Barney Bertsche to Serve Sentence for Swindling Woman.

Chicago, July 6.—Christian P. (Barney) Bertsche, who for several years was the most picturesque and successful criminal in Chicago, was taken to the penitentiary at Joliet today in an automobile. Bertsche, head of the so-called clairvoyant ring, was convicted of swindling Mrs. Hope McEldowney of La Crosse, out of $15,500. James Ryan, convicted in the same case, also went to prison. Their sentences call for indeterminate incarceration for one to ten years.

Bertsche was at different times crook, saloonkeeper and politician and most of the time, according to his own testimony, all three. Swindles aggregating $1,000,000 by the clairvoyant ring were testified to by Bertsche. His confession implicated a score of other persons, including a number of police officers.

Bertsche was among the wounded in a pistol fight in the street with Detective Sergeants Egan and Monaghan. He recovered and claimed that an attempt to murder him had been made to prevent him from squealing. Nevertheless he went on the stand and largely as a result of his testimony John J. Halpin, former chief of detectives, Lieut. John H. Tobin and others were indicted. Some of these trials are set for this week.

"HOOKS" RIDE ON STEAMER; ARRESTED

Youthful Fort William Giant Will Be Sent Back to Canada.

Stealing a ride on a cargo vessel is not held as lightly by the officers of the law as "hooking" a ride on the "bumpers" or in a freight car. Harry White, aged 19, who left Fort William, July 3, was arrested by Immigration Officer McDonald yesterday on a charge of being a stowaway. He will be returned to Canada on the steamer Noronic.

According to Mr. McDonald, White hid in the coal carried by the freight steamer George F. Moll. The captain discovered him and turned him over to the officers here.

White is a youthful giant, being six feet and one and one-half inches tall. He had all his earthly possessions wrapped up in a newspaper and was without cash.

Deaths and Funerals

COLBRATH—Funeral services for Mrs. W. C. Colbrath, former Duluthian who died at El Segunda, Cal., Thursday, July 1, were held in El Segunda Saturday, according to a message received by friends in this city today. The body will be sent to Minneapolis for burial. Mrs. Colbrath left Duluth last August, going west to visit a daughter, Mrs. Olive Colbrath Putney, at El Segunda. She lived in Duluth nineteen years and had a wide circle of acquaintances, in addition to the daughter living in California she leaves a daughter Cora, 226 Fifth avenue east, Duluth, and a grandson, Charles Colbrath Putney of El Segunda.

WALKOWICK—Pauline, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walkowick, 2425 West Seventh street, died yesterday afternoon after an illness of several weeks of diabetes. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's and Paul's Polish church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Fifth street with interment in Calvary cemetery. The girl was one of a family of thirteen children. Six sisters and six brothers survive her.

INCREASED WAGES LENGTHEN LIFE

Statement of Gen. Gorgas Read Into Arbitration Hearing.

Chicago, July 6.—Attorneys for the carmen read into the testimony at their wage arbitration hearing today part of a published interview in which Maj. Gen. William C. Gorgas, surgeon-general of the United States army, said increases in wages would lengthen the lives of Americans. "Add to the laboring man's wages from $1.50 to $2.50 a day and you will lengthen the average American's thread of life by thirteen years at least," Gen. Gorgas was quoted as saying. Asked by the lawyers if he believed the average length of life can be increased by increases in wages, President Leonard A. Busby of the Chicago surface lines said:

"The question of the welfare and best interests of the men has, of course, some effect."

PRACTICE CRUISE FOR NAVAL CADETS

Battleship Wisconsin to Sail for Frisco By Way of Canal.

Washington, July 6.—The battleship Wisconsin of the naval academy practice cruise squadron sails today from Annapolis for San Francisco via the Panama canal. The other two ships, the Missouri, Rear Admiral Fullam's flagship, and the Ohio, will leave tomorrow. Only those cadets at the naval academy specifically accused of misconduct in connection with the pending cribbing and hazing inquiries will not make the trip. The two naval courts have completed the examination of such cadets. The squadron will return to Annapolis about Sept. 9 and the fall term at the academy will open Oct. 1.

MANY EXPOSED TO SMALLPOX

Minneapolis Health Department Looking for Passengers on Train.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Health department authorities began a search this morning for passengers on Great Northern passenger train No. 4, which arrived in Minneapolis Sunday night from Seattle. Leon Wilson, 10 years old, who traveled with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Crouley, of Minneapolis was found to be suffering with smallpox when the train reached here and as the lad mingled with other passengers in the tourist and the day cars, health department physicians began a hunt for persons who were exposed to the disease that they might be properly vaccinated. Authorities in St. Paul were asked to aid in the case. Neither Mr. and Mrs. Crouley or Raymond Wilson, 12 years old, a brother of Leon, showed any symptoms of the disease today. Leon Wilson was removed to the city quarantine hospital this afternoon.

"WIRE TAPPER" IS SENT TO STILLWATER

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Labar, convicted of swindling E. W. Coyle, Mason City, Iowa, out of $5,000 by means of a "fake" wire tapping game, was sentenced to the penitentiary today after the judge had denied the motion for a new trial. After sentence had been imposed Labar's bond was revised and he was released, pending the decision of the supreme court on the appeal, notice of which was given.

SEVEN MEN MISSING AFTER BIG EXPLOSION

Montreal, Que., July 6.—Seven men were missing and believed to be dead after a cordite explosion today at the plant of the Canadian Explosives company at Beloeil, Que., about twenty-five miles from here. Ten persons were severely injured. Among the missing are Capt. Murray Wilson, manager of the cordite department of the company; Aylmer Brown, of the Du Pont Powder works, Wilmington, Del., and J. Sammons, a British government inspector.

ITALIAN CONSULS LEAVING TURKEY

Berlin, July 6, wireless to Sayville.—The Overseas News agency today gave out for publication a dispatch under a Constantinople date declaring that the Italian consuls in Turkey were slowly leaving the country, and that they probably would be followed by the Italian ambassador. American representatives will take care of Italian interests when the Italians leave. An exception to this is Palestine, where Spain will protect Italian interests.

Wife Pursues Same Work as Her Husband

MRS. W. R. HEARST.

Mrs. W. R. Hearst is one of the few women who are publishers of magazines. Some years ago she bought a London periodical, and she is interested in several American publications as well. Mrs. Hearst will be a visitor at the San Francisco exposition soon. She spends most of her summers at her husband's great ranch in California.

Woman Took Motion Pictures of Big Game Hunting in Africa

Lady Mackenzie, one of the famous woman hunters of big game, has come to New York after a hunt in Africa and is making her home for the time in the big city, surrounded by pet tigers and other trophies of the chase. Lady Mackenzie went on her last expedition for the express purpose of getting moving pictures of wild animals in their native surroundings and she brought back with her a series of remarkable films. One of them shows Lady Mackenzie and one of her chief shooters standing before the charge of a three-ton rhinoceros until, at a distance of only twenty-five feet from the camera, he was brought down by a bullet from an express rifle. Another shows a big African lion charging Lady Mackenzie in the open. There is a decided thrill to the sight of a lion coming head-on at full speed to attack the woman who stands coolly, gun in hand, waiting for the right moment to bring him down with a shot from her rifle—the right moment being the limit of safety, for the prime object of the expedition was to get pictures, and the lion was allowed to get very near to the camera before he was killed.

LADY MACKENZIE.

THREE YOUTHS ARE SENTENCED

Records Do Not Lead Judge to Show Any Leniency.

When Roy Murnian, Fred P. Clark and Lawrence Carey, West Duluth young men who broke into the bottling room of the People's Brewery at Forty-second avenue west on June 28 last, admitted their crime to District Judge Dancer in district court this afternoon, they were told that they could not continue to defy the law and remain at liberty.

Murnian has been in police court on various charges on four different occasions since February, 1912, and has twice been paroled. Clark's first misstep was in November, 1909, when he was held before the juvenile court on a charge of burglary. Three times since April, 1914, he has been in police court on disorderly conduct charges, but has been forteunate enough to escape punishment.

Carey's record showed two former arrests. In May, 1913, he was paroled for a year after having been sentenced to twenty-five days for disorderly conduct. In October of the same year he was committed to jail for forty days.

Mason M. Forbes, assistant county attorney, declared that Carey was the only one of the three to "come through" with the truth about their offense and recommended that he be dealt with more leniently than the rest.

The court gave Murnian and Clark straight jail sentences. Murnian drew sixty and Clark thirty days.

Carey was paroled under a thirty-day jail sentence. He was directed to report regularly to Chief of Police McKenzie.

The three young men were arrested on a charge of third degree burglary but were permitted to plead guilty to a charge of unlawfully entering a building. The court warned them that there would be nothing ahead for them but prison sentences unless they mended their ways.

TWO DEER ARE SEEN BESIDE CAR TRACKS

Passengers on a westbound Lakeside car early this afternoon were given a real treat just as they passed the Northland Country club.

Two deer were peacefully grazing alongside the car track, paying no attention to the oncoming car, but the motorman, seeing the deer, slowed up and gave the passengers an opportunity to watch the animals a few minutes.

Just as the car approached the deer a few minutes later, they both sped off into the woods.

REALTY DEALERS MEET.

Bridge Plan and Ordinances Discussed But Not Acted on.

The Duluth Real Estate exchange held its regular meeting this afternoon at the Commercial club, following luncheon, but did not take decisive action on any of the matters that came before it. Those of the Fond du Lac bridge and of the approach to the bridge at the steel plant were discussed and were then put over for one month. The plumbing and electrical ordinance was up for discussion but was referred to a committee. At the next meeting, it is expected, the prices and dates for the sale of the Lester Park plat will be offered for sett—ttlement, it will be announced.

The exchange had as its guests W. J. Davis and E. M. Horine, large real estate operators in Atlanta, Ga., who are on their way to the Pacific coast and who have stopped over here for a day.

Today's meeting was the first that the exchange has held under its new officers, who are: President, J. E. Cooley; vice president, John A. Stephenson; secretary, August J. Frey, and treasurer, E. B. Gridley.

SUPPOSED "COUNT" DEAD FROM POISON

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Count" Curt Garden von Knoblesdorf, supposed scion of German nobility, with an uncertain career in America as society lion and forger, is dead. Poison which he took ten days ago when on his way to the state penitentiary to serve an indeterminate sentence for a statutory crime resulted fatally today at the city hospital.

Count von Knoblesdorf was sentenced at Milwaukee to the Wisconsin penitentiary for forgery but was paroled, the parole being revoked when he became involved in difficulties with a St. Paul woman.

The "count" denied his royal connections when faced with the criminal charges.

Reports Not Exaggerated.

Washington, July 6.—Secretary Lansing today gave out a message from an unnamed man, who has been traveling through Northern Mexico, saying reports of famine have not been exaggerated. The information came through Tampico.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

So many thousands of women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that there is hardly a neighborhood in any city, town or hamlet in this country wherein some woman has not found health in this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy. If you are suffering from some womanly ill, why don't you try it?

JACK COOMBS FAINTS WHILE PITCHING GAME

New York, July 6.—While preparing to pitch to J. P. Smith, Boston third baseman then at bat in the fourth inning of today's baseball game between the Boston and Brooklyn Nationals, in Brooklyn, Jack Coombs fainted in the pitcher's box and was carried off the field.

It was said his attack was a recurrence of the injury he sustained in the world's series between the New York Nationals and the Philadelphia Americans.

Damage Suit Dismissed.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 6.—The $1,250,000 damage suit brought by the Bache-Denman Coal company against more than 200 officers and members of the United Mine Workers of America was dismissed in the United States district court here today. The court held it had no jurisdiction.

President Plays Golf.

Cornish, N. H., July 6.—Weather conditions being favorable today, President Wilson went out for a round of golf and he planned to devote most of the day to official business and take an automobile drive this afternoon.

THE FEMINIST OF BIRDLAND

The Female Phalarope Exchanges Garments With Her Henpecked Husband, Who Minds the Children While She Flits About.

William L. Finley in Recreation: Sometimes in bird life we find a male that is male only and not a father; sometimes a female that is not a mother; sometimes we have a real father and a real mother. Again we find a female that is a father-mother. I think I found the last in the phalaropes. (The Wilson phalarope, a North American water bird resembling a sandpiper but having a ducklike body). I found two eggs in a little worn down place in the grass. There were not more than half a dozen dry stems to indicate the building of a home. I hid in the willows to spy into their secrets.

Saw "Him" Lay an Egg.

While on watch I saw the larger and brighter colored bird pick his way in among the grass. Finally he stood over the two eggs. He settled himself down as if to incubate. In half an hour he left and, behold, there were three eggs in the nest! I hardly believed my eyes. I returned the next day and waited for four hours. I saw this male phalarope lay another egg!

Of course, it wasn't the male at all; this male-attired bird was the femalc. Such a trick as nature has played with these phalaropes would fool any naturalist. She certainly twisted things when she made these little waders, as far as dress is concerned. But how far has she carried this paradox? Had she interchanged their characters also?

Again I stood watching the pair at the edge of the pond. They were devoted. My ear caught a faraway "Woof! Woof!"—a throaty yet musical call note that I thought at first was the love language of a distant sand hill crane. I looked in the grass about me, then in the air above; I couldn't locate the sound. It came closer. It was the love note of the phalarope. Along flashed three bright females. They whirled and lighted near the pair I was watching at the rim of the pool. The male looked scared; he was up and away. Hard after him went all four females.

Very "Forward" Ladies.

Does the female phalarope take over the courting antics of the male? There was no question that she was wearing his coat. Could the three ladies entice him away? Were they literally fighting among themselves for this one husband? This was not the first time I had seen from two to five females hard in the chase after one male. There was apparently a real dearth of males. Out of thirty-six phalaropes I counted about the marsh that day, thirty were females.

I verily believe this poor male had been chased and forced into the state of matrimony. I couldn't tell whether he had been coy and used some judgment in selecting a wife, or whether he had fallen to the lady who gave him the severest drubbing. There were surely no bachelors here in the phalarope on the margin of the Malheur.

Day after day I saw the father phalarope sitting on the eggs. He reached under and turned them with his bill. He protected them from enemies by his colorless dress. He warmed and nursed life within the shells. I approached him and he sat perfectly still. I went nearer and still nearer. He was afraid but he would not leave. I knelt in the salt grass, a great crouching monster, within four feet of him. I heard the far-away "Woof! Woof!" of the female.

I glanced up and saw a party of four turning, zigzagging, gliding, glittering, playing in the sunshine, as they swung along over the meadow. They swerved aside as they spied me in the grass. I was afraid to test him further.

I have often edged very slowly up to a bird-mother on the nest and touched her with my finger-tips. Of course that is mother-love.

Borrowed the Babies.

The eggs pipped and hatched—four of the daintiest feathered chicks that ever breathed the breath of life, tiny bits of buff down on stilts. I took them away from the father to get a photograph. He was scared. It almost broke his heart. He called him in body, and wrenched his soul. He cried. He begged. He called for help. But no help came.

The sun was lowering in the west. The warmth of the day, which is life to the chick, was going rapidly. The bits of down were not so lively as earlier in the day. I knew they had to be mothered. I lay on the ground and held the four in my open hand. The father quivered to me with drooping wings, the mother-tone in his voice and soul. The babies tottered to the protection of his breast. He cuddled them close. He was their father-mother.

Woman Gives Report on "Raffles Burglary"

MRS. SHERWOOD ALDRICH.

Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich of Southampton, wife of a well-known mining man of New York, has lost $60,000 worth of jewels through a robbery and has advertised a reward and "no questions asked" for their return. The affair was a mystery for a time because the police were not notified; but when reports began to be circulated that it was a "Raffles" case and a "society burglary," Mr. Aldrich decided to make the facts public.

Governor's Wife as Brave as Husband

MRS. JOHN SLATON.

Mrs. John Slaton is the wife of the former governor of Georgia, who recently commuted the sentence of Leo Frank, and she was with him in their mansion near Atlanta when it was besieged by a mob. She showed remarkable fortitude in the trying conditions.

AN INTERESTING GRAMOPHONE EXPERIMENT.

Strand: A remarkably curious experiment may be performed with any ordinary gramophone. The sound-box is reversed, so that the needle slopes the other way, enabling the disc to be turned backwards by the finger being placed near the center. The effect produced is extremely astonishing. You hear the human voice singing songs backwards; you hear the harmony of Wagner backwards; plain English sounds like a Chinese language. The most remarkable effect is perhaps to play a chime of bells in this reversed manner. The sound rushes up and up—but there is never a single strike or clash of a bell; the strike on the ear is reversed, and is nothing but a sharp "cessation of sound."

A BUMP FOR MOTHER.

Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph: Worn out by a long series of appalling French exercises, wherein the blunders were as the sands of the sea, a hapless high school mistress declared her intention of writing to Florence's mother.

Florence looked her teacher in the face.

"Ma will be awful angry."

"I am afraid she will, but it is my duty to write to her, Florence."

"I don't know," said Florence doubtfully. "You see, mother always does my French for me."

SOME ELECTRICAL FACTS

Electric News: Wireless telephony is now possible for a radius of 225 miles.

Electric vehicles are extensively used for carrying mail in cities.

Electric incubators are extensively used as window displays in large cities.

The large water powers of Canada are fast being developed to generate electrical energy.

A new 18-suite apartment house in Worcester, Mass., will be equipped with electric ranges.

Large bakeries are using electric power to drive the mixing machinery on account of its cleanliness.

Electric refrigerating systems are now being installed in florists' shops to keep flowers in cold storage until sold.

Although wireless apparatus was not fully developed until 1909, it is estimated that over 5,000 lives have been saved by its use.

The Borneo islands boast a telegraph line constructed of mahogany and ebony poles. This is no doubt the most valuable telegraph line in existence.

A submarine cable will carry electrical power from Sweden to Denmark. The electricity will be generated by the fall of the Lagan river and the underwater cable will carry the power to the island of Zealand, where it will be used in manufacturing.

Boston had the first telephone exchange in the world.

Electric hammers are made which strike 3,800 blows per minute.

Jerusalem is rapidly becoming modern. Four street railway lines are being constructed through the city.

By using field buzzers the United States Army Signal corps can communicate many miles with ordinary copper wire laid on the ground.

A big electrical power station is being erected at Austin, Tex., where the Colorado river is being dammed for water power development.

WOMEN WHO HOLD STEAMBOAT LICENSES.

At least half a dozen women in America hold licenses to command steam vessels, says a writer in the Strand. Two of them have been granted authority to sail on any ocean, and all have the title of "captain" and are as capable of handling a ship as any man who ever hung on to a wheel in a tough nor'-wester. Several years ago Miss Jane Morgan of Philadelphia became the commander of the steam yacht Waterus, with the full authority of the United States government to sail on any ocean on the globe. She was a fearless master, yet cautious and capable. Another woman whose license permitted her to sail any ocean was the Countess Festetics de Tolma of California. She was the master of several yachts and no captain of a full-rigged ship knows the art of navigation better than she. Brooklyn also has had its woman "captain" in Miss Maude Jensen of the tug boat Major Ulrich, at the wheel of which she daily plied about the water of New York bay. Capt. Maude is the daughter of Capt. Julius Jensen, who many years sailed the bay, supplying the yachts of the New York Yacht club with water and delicacies.

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.—Advertisement.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— STEWART - MACKINTOSH, INCORPORATED.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, the undersigned, do hereby associate ourselves together for the purpose of forming a corporation pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 58 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for the year 1913 and all Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto, and do hereby adopt the following Certificate of Incorporation:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be: "STEWART-MACKINTOSH, INCORPORATED."

The general nature of its business shall be as follows, namely: To conduct a general advertising business, both as principals and agents, including the creation, preparation and arrangements of advertisements, and the manufacture and construction of advertising devices and novelties; to erect, construct, purchase, lease or otherwise acquire buildings and other structures suitable for advertising purposes; to carry on the business of printers, lithographers, publishers, painters and decorators in connection with the advertising business, and to make and carry out contracts of every kind that may be necessary for or conducive to the accomplishment of any of the purposes of the company.

The principal place of business of this corporation shall be the City of Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE II.

The term for which this corporation shall exist shall be thirty (30) years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators of this corporation are: Milton I. Stewart, Charles H. Mackintosh and Alonzo W. Taylor, all residing at the City of Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The government of this corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of not less than three (3) and not more than five (5) Directors, each of whom shall be a stockholder, who shall be elected annually at the annual meeting of said corporation, and who shall, at the first meeting of said Board held after said Annual Meeting, elect the following officers, to-wit: a President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer. Any two of said offices may be held by the same person with the exception of the offices of President and Vice President.

The annual meeting of said corporation shall be held on the first Wednesday in February in each year.

The names and addresses of the persons composing the first Board of Directors, until the first election, are: William A. Abbett, Arthur M. Abbett and John A. Hoyt, all of the City of Duluth, Minnesota; and until the first Annual Meeting, and until their successors are elected and have qualified, William A. Abbett shall act as President and Treasurer, Arthur M. Abbett shall act as Vice President, and John A. Hoyt shall act as Secretary.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Eighty Thousand ($80,000.00) Dollars, which shall be paid in in money, property or both, in such manner, at such times, and in such amounts as the Board of Directors shall order. The capital stock shall be divided into eight hundred (800) shares of the par value of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars each.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be the sum of Fifty Tousand ($50,000.00) Dollars.

In testimony whereof, We have hereunto set our hands and seals this 1st day of July, 1915.

CRIMINAL TAKEN TO JOLIET PRISON

Barney Bertsche to Serve Sentence for Swindling Woman.

Chicago, July 6.—Christian P. (Barney) Bertsche, who for several years was a most picturesque and successful criminal in Chicago, was taken to the penitentiary at Joliet today in an automobile. Bertsche, head of the so-called bond swindling ring, was convicted of defrauding Mrs. Hope McEldowney of Chicago, out of $15,000. James Saindles was convicted in the same case, also was sentenced to prison. Their sentences call for indeterminate incarceration for one to fifteen years.

Bertsche was at different times a prize fighter, a saloonkeeper and politician and one of the city's wealthiest men, according to his own statements. Saindles is said to have been employed by the chairvoyant Mrs. Bertsche to testify to Bertsche. His wife implicated a score of other persons, including a number of police officers.

Bertsche was among the wounded men taken to the street with Detectives Egan and Monaghan. Bertsche said and claimed that an attempt to murder him had been made to keep him from squealing. Nevertheless he went on the stand and largely as a result of his testimony led to the dismissal of former chief of detectives, William H. Tobin and others. Some of these trials are set for this week.

"HOOKS" RIDE ON STEAMER; ARRESTED

Youthful Fort William Giant Will Be Sent Back to Canada.

Taking a ride on a cargo vessel is looked on as lightly by the officers of the law as "hooking" a ride on the bumpers or in a freight car. Harry Ward, aged 19, who left Fort William, Ont., was arrested by Immigration Officer McDonald yesterday on a charge of being a stowaway. He will be returned to Canada on the steamer Wilkins.

According to Mr. McDonald, White was brought here on the freight steamer George F. Mull. The captain discovered him and turned him over to the officers here.

Ward is a youthful giant, being six feet and one and one-half inches tall. He had all his earthly possessions wrapped up in a newspaper and was without cash.

Deaths and Funerals

CATH—Funeral services for Mrs. W. C. Colbrath, former Duluthian, who died at El Segunda, Cal., Thursday, July 1, were held in El Segunda Saturday, according to a message received by friends in this city today. The body will be sent to Minneapolis for burial. Mrs. Colbrath left Duluth last August, going to visit a daughter, Mrs. Olive Hoge Putney, at El Segunda. She lived in Duluth thirteen years and had a wide circle of acquaintances. In addition to the daughter living in Minnesota she leaves a daughter in Fifth avenue east, Duluth, Mrs. Sanderson, Charles Colbrath of El Segunda.

PECK—Pauline, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peck, 2425 West Seventh street, died yesterday afternoon after an illness of several weeks of pneumonia. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's and Paul's Polish church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street with interment in Calvary cemetery. The girl was one of a family of thirteen children. Six sisters and six brothers survive her.

INCREASED WAGES LENGTHEN LIFE

Statement of Gen. Gorgas Read Into Arbitration Hearing.

Chicago, July 6.—Attorneys for the carmen read into the testimony at their wage arbitration hearing today part of a published interview in which Maj. Gen. William C. Gorgas, surgeon-general of the United States army, said increases in wages would lengthen the lives of Americans. "Add to the laboring man's wages from $1.50 to $2.50 a day and you will lengthen the average American's thread of life by thirteen years at least," Gen. Gorgas was quoted as saying. Asked by the lawyers if he believed the average length of life can be increased by increases in wages, President Leonard A. Busby of the Chicago surface lines said:

"The question of the welfare and best interests of the men has, of course, some effect."

PRACTICE CRUISE FOR NAVAL CADETS

Battleship Wisconsin to Sail for Frisco By Way of Canal.

Washington, July 6.—The battleship Wisconsin of the naval academy practice cruise squadron sails today from Annapolis for San Francisco via the Panama canal. The other two ships, the Missouri, Rear Admiral Fullam's flagship, and the Ohio, will leave tomorrow. Only those cadets at the naval academy specifically accused of misconduct in connection with the pending cribbing and hazing inquiries will not make the trip. The two naval courts have completed the examination of such cadets. The squadron will return to Annapolis about Sept. 8 and the fall term at the academy will open Oct. 1.

MANY EXPOSED TO SMALLPOX

Minneapolis Health Department Looking for Passengers on Train.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Health department authorities began a search this morning for passengers on Great Northern passenger train No. 4, which arrived in Minneapolis Sunday night from Seattle. Leon Wilson, 10 years old, who traveled with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Crowley, of Minneapolis was found to be suffering with smallpox when the train reached here and as the lad mingled with other passengers in the tourist and the day cars, health department physicians began a hunt for persons who were exposed to the disease that they might be properly vaccinated. Authorities in St. Paul were asked to aid in the case. Neither Mr. and Mrs. Crowley or Raymond Wilson, 12 years old, a brother of Leon, showed any symptoms of the disease today. Leon Wilson was removed to the city quarantine hospital this afternoon.

"WIRE TAPPER" IS SENT TO STILLWATER

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Labar, convicted of swindling E. W. Coyle, Mason City, Iowa, out of $5,000 by means of a "fake" wire tapping game, was sentenced to the penitentiary today after the judge had denied the motion for a new trial. After sentence had been imposed Labar's bond was revised and he was released, pending the decision of the supreme court on the appeal, notice of which was given.

SEVEN MEN MISSING AFTER BIG EXPLOSION

Montreal, Que., July 6.—Seven men were missing and believed to be dead after a cordite explosion today at the plant of the Canadian Explosives company at Beloeil, Que., about twenty-five miles from here. Ten persons were severely injured. Among the missing are Capt. Murray Wilson, manager of the cordite department of the company; Aylmer Brown, of the Du Pont Powder works, Wilmington, Del., and J. Sammons, a British government inspector.

ITALIAN CONSULS LEAVING TURKEY

Berlin, July 6, wireless to Sayville.—The Overseas News agency today gave out for publication a dispatch under a Constantinople date declaring that the Italian consuls in Turkey were slowly leaving the country, and that they probably would be followed by the Italian ambassador. American representatives will take care of Italian interests when the Italians leave. An exception to this is Palestine, where Spain will protect Italian interests.

Wife Pursues Same Work as Her Husband

MRS. W. R. HEARST.

Mrs. W. R. Hearst is one of the few women who are publishers of magazines. Some years ago she bought a London periodical, and she is interested in several American publications as well. Mrs. Hearst will be a visitor at the San Francisco exposition soon. She spends most of her summers at her husband's great ranch in California.

Woman Took Motion Pictures of Big Game Hunting in Africa

Lady Mackenzie, one of the famous woman hunters of big game, has come to New York after a hunt in Africa and is making her home for the time in the big city, surrounded by pet tigers and other trophies of the chase. Lady Mackenzie went on her last expedition for the express purpose of getting moving pictures of wild animals in their native surroundings and she brought back with her a series of remarkable films. One of them shows Lady Mackenzie and one of her chief shooters standing before the charge of a three-ton rhinoceros until, at a distance of only twenty-five feet from the camera, he was brought down by a bullet from an express rifle. Another shows a big African lion charging Lady Mackenzie in the open. There is a decided thrill to the sight of a lion coming head-on at full speed to attack the woman who stands coolly, gun in hand, waiting for the right moment to bring him down with a shot from her rifle—the right moment being the limit of safety, for the prize object of the expedition was to get pictures, and the lion was allowed to get very near to the camera before he was killed.

LADY MACKENZIE.

THREE YOUTHS ARE SENTENCED

Records Do Not Lead Judge to Show Any Leniency.

When Roy Murnian, Fred P. Clark and Lawrence Carey, West Duluth young men who broke into the bottling room of the People's Brewery at Forty-second avenue west on June 28 last, admitted their crime to District Judge Dancer in district court this afternoon, they were told that they could not continue to defy the law and remain at liberty.

Murnian has been in police court on various charges on four different occasions since February, 1912, and has twice been paroled. Clark's first misstep was in November, 1909, when he was held before the juvenile court on a charge of burglary. Three times since April, 1914, he has been in police court on disorderly conduct charges, but has been fortunate enough to escape punishment.

Carey's record showed two former arrests. In May, 1913, he was paroled for a year after having been sentenced to twenty-five days for disorderly conduct. In October of the same year he was committed to jail for forty days.

Mason M. Forbes, assistant county attorney, declared that Carey was the only one of the three to "come through" with the truth about their offense and recommended that he be dealt with more leniently than the rest.

The court gave Murnian and Clark six months jail sentences. Murnian drew sixty and Clark thirty days.

Carey was paroled under a thirty-day jail sentence. He was directed to report regularly to Chief of Police McKercher.

The three young men were arrested on a charge of third degree burglary but were permitted to plead guilty to a charge of unlawfully entering a building. The court warned them that there would be nothing ahead for them but prison sentences unless they mended their ways.

TWO DEER ARE SEEN BESIDE CAR TRACKS

Passengers on a westbound Lakeside car early this afternoon were given a real treat just as they passed the Northland Country club.

Two deer were peacefully grazing alongside the car track, paying no attention to the oncoming car, but the motorman, seeing the deer, slowed up and gave the passengers an opportunity to watch the animals a few minutes.

Just as the car approached the deer a few minutes later, they both sped off into the woods.

REALTY DEALERS MEET.

Bridge Plan and Ordinances Discussed But Not Acted on.

The Duluth Real Estate exchange held its regular meeting this afternoon at the Commercial club, following luncheon, but did not take decisive action on any of the matters that came before it.

Those of the Fond du Lac bridge and of the approach to the bridge at the steel plant were discussed and were then put over for one month. The plumbing and electrical ordinance was up for discussion but was referred to a committee. At the next meeting, it is expected, the prices and dates for the sale of the Lester Park plat that will be offered for settlement will be announced.

The exchange had as its guests W. J. Davis and E. M. Horine, large real estate operators in Atlanta, Ga., who are on their way to the Pacific coast and who have stopped over here for a day.

Today's meeting was the first that the exchange has held under its new officers, who are: President, J. E. Cooley; vice president, John A. Stephenson; secretary, August J. Frey, and treasurer, E. B. Gridley.

SUPPOSED "COUNT" DEAD FROM POISON

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Count" Curt Garden von Knoblesdorf, supposed scion of German nobility, with an uncertain career in America as society lion and forger, is dead. Poison which he took ten days ago when on his way to the state penitentiary to serve an indeterminate sentence for a statutory crime resulted fatally today at the city hospital.

Count von Knoblesdorf was sentenced at Milwaukee to the Wisconsin penitentiary for forgery but was paroled, the parole being revoked when he became involved in difficulties with a St. Paul woman.

The "count" denied his royal connections when faced with the criminal charges.

Reports Not Exaggerated.

Washington, July 6.—Secretary Lansing today gave out a message from an unnamed man, who has been traveling through Northern Mexico, saying reports of famine have not been exaggerated. The information came through Tampico.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

So many thousands of women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that there is hardly a neighborhood in any city, town or hamlet in this country wherein some woman has not found health in this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy. If you are suffering from some womanly ill, why don't you try it?

JACK COOMBS FAINTS WHILE PITCHING GAME

New York, July 6.—While preparing to pitch to J. P. Smith, Boston third baseman then at bat in the fourth inning of today's baseball game between the Boston and Brooklyn Nationals, in Brooklyn, Jack Coombs fainted in the pitcher's box and was carried off the field.

It was said his attack was a recurrence of the injury he sustained in the world's series between the New York Nationals and the Philadelphia Americans.

Damage Suit Dismissed.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 6.—The $1,250,000 damage suit brought by the Bache-Denman Coal company against more than 200 officers and members of the United Mine Workers of America was dismissed in the United States district court here today. The court held it had no jurisdiction.

President Plays Golf.

Cornish, N. H., July 6.—Weather conditions being favorable today, President Wilson went out for a round of golf and he planned to devote most of the day to official business and take an automobile drive this afternoon.

THE FEMINIST OF BIRDLAND

The Female Phalarope Exchanges Garments With Her Henpecked Husband, Who Minds the Children While She Flits About.

William L. Finley in Recreation: Sometimes in bird life we find a male that is male only and not a father; sometimes a female that is not a mother; sometimes we have a real father and a real mother. Again we find a female that is a father-mother. I think I found the last in the phalarope. (The Wilson phalarope, a North American water bird resembling a sandpiper but having a ducklike body). I found two eggs in a little worn down place in the grass. There were not more than half a dozen dry stems to indicate the building of a home. I hid in the willows to spy into their secrets.

Saw "Him" Lay an Egg.

While on watch I saw the larger and brighter colored bird pick his way in among the grass. Finally he stood over the two eggs. He settled himself down as if to incubate. In half an hour he left and, behold, there were three eggs in the nest. I hardly believed my eyes. I returned the next day and waited for four hours. I saw this male phalarope lay another egg.

Of course, it wasn't the male at all; this male-attired bird was the female. Such a trick as nature has played with these phalaropes would fool any naturalist. She certainly twisted things when she made these little waders, as far as dress is concerned. But how far has she carried this paradox? Had she interchanged their characters also?

Again I stood watching the pair at the edge of the pond. They were devoted. My ear caught a faraway "Woof-Woof"—a throaty yet musical call note that I thought at first was the love language of a distant sand hill crane. I looked in the grass about me, then in the air above; I couldn't locate the sound. It came closer. It was the love note of the phalarope. Along flashed three bright females. They whirled and lighted near the pair I was watching at the rim of the pool. The male looked scared; he was up and away. Hard after him went all four females.

Very "Forward" Ladies.

Does the female phalarope take over the courting antics of the male? There was no question that she was wearing his coat. Could the three ladies entice him away? Were they literally fighting among themselves for this one husband? This was not the first time I had seen from two to five females hard in the chase after one male. There was apparently a real dearth of males. Out of thirty-six phalaropes I counted about the marsh that day, thirty were females.

I verily believe this poor male had been chased and forced into the state of matrimony. I couldn't tell whether he had been coy and used some judgment in selecting a wife, or whether he had fallen to the lady who gave him the severest drubbing. There were surely no bachelors here in the phalarope on the margin of the Malheur.

Day after day I saw the father phalarope sitting on the eggs. He reached under and warmed them with his bill. He protected them from enemies by his colorless dress. He warmed and nursed life within the shells. I approached him and he sat perfectly still. I went nearer and still nearer. He was afraid but he would not leave. I knelt in the salt grass, a great crouching monster, within four feet of him. I heard the far-away "Woof! Woof" of the female.

I glanced up and saw a party of four turning, zigzagging, gliding, glittering, playing in the sunshine, as they swung along over the meadow. They swerved aside as they spied me in the grass. I was afraid to test him further.

I have often edged very slowly up to a bird-mother on the nest and touched her with my finger-tips. Of course that is mother-love.

Borrowed the Babies.

The eggs pipped and hatched—four of the daintiest feathered chicks that ever breathed the breath of life, tiny bits of buff down on stilts. I took them away from the father to get a photograph. He was scared. It almost broke his wings, mashed him in body, and wrenched his soul. He cried. He begged. He called for help. But no help came.

The sun was lowering in the west. The warmth of the day, which is life to the chicks, was going rapidly. The bits of down were not so lively as earlier in the day. I knew they had to be mothered. I lay on the ground and held the four in my open hand. The father quivered with drooping wings, the mother-tone in his voice and soul. The babies tottered to the protection of his breast. He cuddled them close. He was their father-mother.

Woman Gives Report on "Raffles Burglary"

MRS. SHERWOOD ALDRICH.

Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich of Southampton, wife of a well-known mining man of New York, has lost $50,000 worth of jewels through a robbery and has advertised a reward and "no questions asked" for their return. The affair was a mystery for a time because the police were not notified; but when reports began to be circulated that it was a "Raffles" case and a "society burglary," Mr. Aldrich decided to make the facts public.

SOME ELECTRICAL FACTS

Electric News: Wireless telephony is now possible for a radius of 225 miles.

Electric vehicles are extensively used for carrying mail in cities.

Electric incubators are extensively used as window displays in large city stores.

The large water powers of Canada are fast being developed to generate electrical energy.

A new 18-suite apartment house in Worcester, Mass., will be equipped with electric ranges.

Large bakeries are using electric power to drive the mixing machinery on account of its cleanliness.

Electric refrigerating systems are now being installed in florists' shops to keep flowers in cold storage until sold.

Although wireless apparatus was not fully developed until 1909, it is estimated that over 5,000 lives have been saved by its use.

The Borneo Islands boast a telegraph line constructed of mahogany and ebony poles. This is no doubt the most valuable telegraph line in existence.

A submarine cable will carry electrical power from Sweden to Denmark. The electricity will be generated by the fall of the Lagan river and the underwater cable will carry the power to the island of Zealand, where it will be used in manufacturing.

Boston had the first telephone exchange in the world.

Electric hammers are made which strike 3,800 blows per minute.

Jerusalem is rapidly becoming modern. Four street railway lines are being constructed through the city.

By using field buzzers the United States Army Signal corps can communicate many miles with ordinary copper wire laid on the ground.

A big electrical power station is being erected at Austin, Tex., where the Colorado river is being dammed for water power development.

WOMEN WHO HOLD STEAMBOAT LICENSES.

At least half a dozen women in America hold licenses to command steam vessels, says a writer in the Strand. Two of them have been granted authority to sail on any ocean, and all have the title of "captain" and are as capable of handling a ship as any man who ever hung on to a wheel in a tough nor'-wester. Several years ago Miss Jane Morgan of Philadelphia became the commander of the steam yacht Waterus, with the full authority of the United States government to sail on any ocean on the globe. She was a fearless master, yet cautious and capable. Another woman whose license permitted her to sail any ocean was the Countess Festetics de Tolnna of California. She was the master of several yachts and no captain of a full-rigged ship knows the art of navigation better than she. Brooklyn also has had its woman "captain" in Miss Maude Jensen of the tug boat Major Ulrich, at the wheel of which she daily plied about the water of New York bay. Capt. Maude is the daughter of Capt. Julius Jensen, who many years sailed the bay, supplying the yachts of the New York Yacht club with water and delicacies.

AN INTERESTING GRAMOPHONE EXPERIMENT.

Strand: A remarkably curious experiment may be performed with any ordinary gramophone. The sound-box is reversed, so that the needle slopes the other way, enabling the disc to be turned backwards by the finger being placed near the center. The effect produced is extremely astonishing. You hear the human voice singing songs backwards; you hear the harmony of Wagner backwards; plain English sounds like a Chinese language. The most remarkable effect is perhaps to play a chime of bells in this reversed manner. The sound rushes up and up—but there is never a single strike or clash of a bell; the strike on the ear is reversed, and is nothing but a sharp "cessation of sound."

A BUMP FOR MOTHER.

Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph: Worn out by a long series of appalling French exercises, wherein the blunders were as the sands of the sea, a hapless high school mistress declared her intention of writing to Florence's mother.

Florence looked her teacher in the face.

"Ma will be awful angry."

"I am afraid she will, but it is my duty to write to her, Florence."

"I don't know," said Florence doubtfully. "You see, mother always does my French for me."

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.—Advertisement.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

DEFECTIVE PAGE

WHEAT STILL SELLS DOWN

Market Is Weak on Good Crop Reports From All Points.

Trading in Flax Quiet and Market Eases Off Moderately.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 6.—The market was weak at the close on fresh selling pressure.

July wheat closed 5½c off, September 1⅞c off and December 1⅞c off. July durum closed 5c off and September 1½c off.

Oats closed 2c off at 48¾c for on the track. Rye slumped sharply 10c to $1, and barley closed unchanged at from 65@70c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed ¼c off at 59⅛c and October 1c off at 42c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at $1.00¾, and calls at $1.03⅝ asked.

Favorable reports regarding harvesting conditions in the Southwest, good growing weather over the Northwest, and lower cables, led to weakness in all the wheat markets today.

Steady liquidation was reported and there was no support from exporters. The market position in the July future was reported easier and declines in it were recorded. Receipts showed considerable improvement with 71 cars inspected at Duluth, and 390 cars against 258 last year at Minneapolis. There were 57 cars on the track here today. This grain is coming forward to enable shippers to complete their July contracts, and it will be practically all loaded out for Eastern shipment from the elevators.

A bearish influence these days is the expectation of liberal shipments of new wheat at Southwestern points shortly. The movement has not yet started, while last year at this time marketings of new wheat were heavy, as attested in receipts of 635 cars at Chicago a year ago, while today only nine cars came to hand. Forty cars of new wheat were reported at St. Louis today and at Kansas City only a few cars were received. In the meantime wheat stores at Duluth are gradually reaching the vanishing point, there being at present only 513,000 bu of all grades and varieties on hand as against 1,352,000 bu a year ago. Minneapolis has 2,755,000 bu, compared with 8,291,000 bu last year.

The American visible wheat supply showed a decrease of 2,246,000 bu for the week, or just about as had been expected. Falling heavy exports, it is expected that supplies will begin to pile up from now on in view of new winter wheat marketings.

Weakness at Liverpool was brought about by large American shipments over there and a break at Winnipeg yesterday.

July wheat opened 1c off at $1.38, and it broke 2c more up to the noon hour. September opened ¾c off at $1.05, and declined 1c more. July durum opened 1c off at $1.25, and declined 4c more. September opened 1c off at $1.06 and declined ½c more. Business in durum continued light with apparently no interest shown in any quarter.

Flaxseed Weak.

Business in flaxseed was light, and moderate weakness was shown throughout the session. Crushers picked up small lots at the low spots, and with limited offerings trading came within comparative narrow limits.

July flax opened ½c off at $1.75½, and closed 1c off at $1.75 bid. September opened ½c off at $1.78 and closed ¾c off at $1.78¼. October opened ½c off at $1.79½, and closed ¼c off at $1.79¾ bid.

At Winnipeg July flax closed ¼c off at $1.55 bid, and October ¼c off at $1.59⅛.

At Buenos Aires flax closed 1⅝c off at $1.28⅞, and London ⅞c up at $1.91⅞.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Satisfactory results were obtained in a weighing test of 39 cars of wheat at Consolidated elevator D yesterday. Duluth weights of the shipment, as reported by State Weighmaster J. M. Schutte, aggregated 3,019,320 pounds, or 50,322 bu. The Minneapolis weights reported at the time of shipment were 3,024,000 pounds, or 50,400 bu. The difference in the weight was thus 4,680 pounds on the entire shipment, or 78 bushels. The smallest car weighed 66,000 pounds and the largest 88,000 pounds.

This is regarded as a splendid showing by Mr. Schulte, fully attesting the accurate adjustment of the scales at the Duluth and Minneapolis terminal elevators. A certain amount of loss sustained through leakage in the cars is unavoidable, he pointed out. Then again allowance must be made for natural shrinkage in the grain during transit, and also for an average of three samples per car taken out here for inspection and marketing purposes. This is the largest weighing test ever made by the department here, and gratification is expressed by grain men over the outcome.

Wheat stocks in Duluth and Minneapolis elevators as on July 3 were reported at 3,268,000 bu, against 9,643,000 bu last year. At Duluth there were 513,000 bu, against 1,352,000 by last year, and at Minneapolis 2,755,000 bu against 8,291,000 bu a year ago.

Flaxseed stores in Duluth and Minneapolis elevators as on July 3 were 1,347,000 bu against 2,35,000 bu last year. At Duluth there was 1,292,000 bu against 2,113,000 bu a year ago; and at Minneapolis, 55,000 bu against 241,000 bu last year.

In summing up the winter wheat situation, Inglis says he finds much difficulty in making a fair approximate estimate. Loss from fly, head worm and other insects is large. Hail storms in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska have been more serious than in former years; probably not less than 1,000,000 acres have been destroyed, but shadowed by enormous damage by excessive rains. He has no hesitation in saying that Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri will show a loss of 100,000,000 bu from last year. A winter wheat crop of 600,000,000 bu he thinks a high estimate, as damage is still increasing. Unless a speedy change in the weather comes, receipts at primary markets for July will run 50 per cent below last year, he believes. Oats in all states show a large gain over last year. Corn is mixed very good in some sections of the West and especially in Central Illinois.

At Minneapolis, demand for cash wheat was fair. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 11@13c over July, and velvet chaff at 3@4c over July. Flour sales were moderate.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—Wheat was easy on large shipments to the United Kingdom and weakness in Winnipeg yesterday. Spot market is easier 1 to 1¼d lower, while cargo market is weak, Plates 6d lower, Manitobas a shilling lower, winters 9d to 1s and Indians unchanged.

American crop advices continue favorable and the Canadian outlook is maintained.

Corn—Spot demand is urgent with arrivals lighter and firmer feeling in Plates. Cargo market is easier and after the opening it declined 6d with rains in the United States. Crop developments in the corn trade are for bullishness as spot trade is urgent and exporters are taking it at the advance. Stocks are light and holders showing no willingness to sell.

European visible wheat 83,168,000 bu against 79,480,000 bu last week, increase 3,688,000 bu. Total last year was 61,800,000 bu.

...orld's shipments—Wheat, American 5,973,000 bu; Russian, 168,000 bu; India, 3,184,000 bu; Argentine, 1,816,000 bu; others, 56,000 bu; total, 11,197,000 bu. Corn, 4,922,000 bu; oats, 2,167,000 bu.

Foreign crop summary: United Kingdom: Weather prospects have been maintained. The outlook for spring crops has improved.

France—Crop prospects are becoming less favorable. Weather is against progress and many complaints of weeds and lodging are heard.

Germany—The drought has been relieved and crop prospects good.

Russia—Both official and unofficial reports are quite favorable as to the general condition of wheat.

Roumania and Bulgaria—Harvesting is progressing, and reports of the yield are favorable.

India—Wheat offers are liberal but strong. Crop prospects are good.

Australia—Weather is favorable and crops are doing well.

North Africa—Crop prospects are maintained. Weather has improved.

Holland—Crops are mostly favorable but rain is wanted.

Scandinavia.—Drought continues. Some rain has fallen but more is wanted.

* * *

Lecount wired from Bradley, S. D.—"Past week has been favorable for small grain, but corn has made no progress. Wheat and oats look fine. Wheat is coming to a head. With favorable conditions the crop will be large if the cool weather continues. There is no danger from rust."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Greatly Improved Harvest Conditions Cause Sharp Break in Wheat.

Chicago, July 6.—Greatly improved harvest conditions led today to a sharp break in wheat values. According to one authority the outlook for field work was better than at any time since May 18. A decided increase of the European visible supply total counted also against the bulls. Open prices, which ranged from ¾@2¼c lower, were followed by an additional setback before the market showed any signs of a rally.

Prospects that there would soon be liberal receipts of new wheat kept the market from any radical upturn. The close was steady at 1⅝@1⅞c to 3½c under Saturday night's level.

Corn weakened with wheat. On the decline, however, there was good buying headed by large houses. After opening ¼@½c down, the market recovered to about Saturday night's level.

The market influenced by decreasing stocks and by the lateness of the crop, showed considerable resistance to selling pressure. Closing quotations were steady, ⅛@¼c under Saturday's final figures.

Good crop prospects had a bearish effect on oats. The trade showed a noticeable lack of any aggressive buying.

Higher prices for hogs lifted provisions. The advance, though, encountered an increase of packing house sales, chiefly in lard.

Wheat—No. 2 red new, $1.15½@1.21½; No. 2 hard, old, $1.30.

GRAIN MOVES MORE SLOWLY

Both Receipts and Shipments Show Falling Off in June.

Movement of grain fell off sharply at Duluth during June. Wheat receipts aggregated just 571,607 bu against 1,923,080 bu during the corresponding month last year. Oats arrivals were reported at 114,939 bu against 494,449 last year; barley at 476,450 bu against 621,123 bu; rye at 22,284 bu against 172,669 bu; and flax at 86,874 bu against 477,461 bu. Arrivals of all grain aggregated 1,765,801 bu, compared with 4,026,766 bu during June, 1914.

Shipments for the month were reported at 3,472,901 bu, as compared with 7,515,732 bu last year. Wheat shipments fell away to the extent of 2,500,000 bu. Due to the heavy Eastern demand, oats shipments increased to the extent of 1,500,000 bu, and 341,000 bu more corn was shipped east. The first shipment of flaxseed since the opening of navigation, and that only 25,526 bu, was made.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, July 6.—Hog arrivals today proved to be far less numerous than expected. The cattle supply, too, was far from liberal. Receipts of sheep and lambs overran the immediate requirements of the trade.

Hogs—Receipts, 8,000; strong, 5 to 10c above yesterday's average; bulk, $7.40@7.70; light, $7.55@7.90; raixed, $7.25@7.90; heavy, $7@7.70; rough, $7@7.15; pigs, $6.50@7.65.

Cattle—Receipts, 2,000; strong; native beef steers, $6.85@10; western steers, $7.20@8.40; cows and heifers, $3.35@9.50; calves, $7@10.25.

Sheep—Receipts, 18,000; weak; sheep, $5.60@6.75; lambs, $7@9.75.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—Hogs—Receipts, 1,200; 15c to 25c higher; range, $7.40@7.60; bulk, $7.40@7.50.

Cattle—Receipts, 400; killers, steady; steers, $5.00@8.85; cows and heifers, $4.75@7.35; calves, steady, $4.00@9.25; stockers and feeders, steady to slow, $4.50@7.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 150; steady; lambs, $5.00@9.50; wethers, $4.75@5.50; ewes, $2.00@5.25.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Especial Weakness in Canadian Pacific, St. Paul and Missouri Pacific.

Some Unsettlement in the Late Dealings, and Closing Irregular.

New York, July 6.—Some very substantial gains were registered on the resumption of stock trading today. Reading opened with a material fractional advance which it soon increased to 2 points on last Saturday's favorable court decision. Gains of 1 to 4 points were made by Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, General Motors, Sears-Roebuck, United States Rubber and United States Steel. Active railways and various specialties showed marked improvement over last week's close. Trading was moderate but broad. London's prices for Americans were mostly lower.

With the driving in of the short interest, prices began to recede, one of the contributing causes being the renewal of weakness in St. Paul. That stock fell off to 82¾, a fraction over last week's low record. Other western stocks and Canadian Pacific also developed heaviness and steel lost much of its initial rise, while war shares yielded a considerable part of their advantage. In the second hour, trading became almost stagnant with continued irregularity. The feature of the bond market was the further extensive offering of high grade railway issues for foreign account.

Specialties, notably Baldwin locomotive and Studebaker were the only active features of the mid-session, both adding slightly to early gains. Otherwise the market showed increasing dullness.

Dullness and uncertain price changes with especial weakness in St. Paul, Canadian Pacific and Missouri Pacific, were the dominant features of today's market.

Weakness in St. Paul which fell to 80½ caused some unsettlement in the late dealings. The closing was irregular.

SHERIFF'S EXECUTION SALE.

Under and by virtue of an Execution issued out of and under the seal of the District Court of the State of Minnesota, in and for the Eleventh Judicial District, and County of St. Louis, on the 26th day of June, 1915, upon a Judgment rendered and docketed in said Court and County in an action therein, wherein Illinois National Bank was Plaintiff, and Brewester & Evans Company, B. D. Brewester and W. C. Evans were Defendants, in favor of said Plaintiff and against said Defendants, Brewester & Evans Company, B. D. Brewester and W. C. Evans, and each of them for the sum of seventeen thousand fifty-three and 50-100 ($17,053.50) Dollars, and 70 cents increased costs which said execution has to me, as sheriff of said St. Louis County, been duly directed and delivered, I have levied upon and will sell at public auction to the highest cash bidder, at the Sheriff's Office in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County of St. Louis, on Saturday, the 14th day of August, 1915, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, all the right, title and interest that the above named judgment debtors had in and to the real estate hereinafter described on the 18th day of January, 1915, the day the same was attached herein, and on the 24th day of April, 1915, that being the date of rendition of said judgment, or any interest therein which said judgment debtors may have since that day acquired. The description of the property being as follows, to-wit: Section twenty-nine (29), Township fifty (50), North of Range Nineteen (19), west of the Fourth Principal Meridian, in St. Louis County, Minnesota, according to the United States government Survey thereof.

Dated, Duluth, Minn., June 26, 1915.

RUSS CLAIM TO HAVE CHECKED TEUTON ADVANCE ON WARSAW; IS DENIED IN AUSTRIAN REPORT

ALL QUIET ON REMAINDER OF LONG FRONT

Austro-Germans Halted Near Krasnik in Russian Poland.

Daily Successes of Kaiser's Troops Suspended for Time.

Vienna Says Russians Have Suffered Defeat Across Line.

London, July 7.—Petrograd claims that a distinct check has been inflicted on the Austro-Germans near Krasnik in Southern Russian Poland, where the invaders are threatening one of the most important railroad connections with Warsaw. The claim directly contradicts the Vienna official report which states that the Russians have suffered a defeat in this section. Otherwise the Russian and Austro-German reports agree that quiet prevails along the remainder of the eastern front where for the first time in several weeks the Austro-German armies have ceased to win daily successes.

Italy keeps up her heavy battering tactics against the Austro-Hungarian positions along the Isonzo river, Vienna reporting particularly fierce but fruitless attacks on the lower Isonzo between Gorizia and the sea.

Only Usual Activity.

Rumors continue to reach London from many scattered sources of a great German offensive against the western front with Calais on the English channel, as the objective, but actual reports from this war theater show no more than the usual activity.

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton's report of the British landing at the Dardanelles has caused much comment in the Brit-

FRENCH WARSHIP AT ASIA MINOR

Destroyer Sinks Twelve Vessels and Sets Fire to Forest.

London, July 7.—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Telegraph sends the following:

"A French destroyer made a tour of the Asia Minor coast from Chios to Kiobama, visiting all the bays and harbors. The warship destroyed twelve vessels acting as enemy supply ships and set fire to Birmen forest. Another French destroyer bombarded Hitsia, Chesmes and Agallion, destroying a lighthouse and a customs station and sinking several ships."

TURKISH TROOPS MAKE DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO DRIVE ALLIES INTO SEA

Attack at Dardanelles Opened With Intense Artillery Fire.

Followed By Infantry Attacks on Franco-British Lines.

French Report Says That All Efforts Proved Unsuccessful.

Paris, July 7.—The French war department this afternoon gave out the following statement on recent operations in the Dardanelles:

"In the Dardanelles, on the fifth of July, the Turks delivered a general attack, the most important they have undertaken since their efforts in the early days of May. Their purpose was to drive us into the sea.

"At 4 o'clock in the morning a very intense artillery fire was opened on our first lines, as well as on the zone behind these lines occupied by French and British troops. The enemy subsequently endeavored to deliver several infantry attacks but not one was successful in coming as far as our trenches.

Decimated by Artillery.

"Decimated by our artillery fire and mowed down by our rifles and our machine guns, most of our assailants never left the field of battle. During this action batteries of the enemy on the Asiatic coast fired without interruption. A Turkish cruiser, steaming between Maidos and Chanak, also took part in the engagement. On several different occasions aviators of the enemy bombarded our lines.

"At the end of the day a group of about fifteen British and French aviators flew over the Turkish aerodrome at Chanak, threw down several bombs, and were successful in striking the principal hangar with a big bomb."

WANT MILLION NEW MEMBERS

Christian Endeavorers Also Desire $1,000,000 for Missions.

Chicago, July 7.—"Get a million new members and $1,000,000 for missions," is the slogan of the fifth world's and twenty-seventh international Christian Endeavor convention which opens here today.

The call for millions was the subject of an address which was to have been read by the Rev. Francis E. Clark, president and founder of the society. He was unable to be present, however, because of illness.

Delegates were urged to enroll a million new church members, a million signers to a peace petition, and a million pledges to make the country a saloonless nation by 1920.

Selection of the next convention city and election of officers was the chief business before the delegates today.

MORGAN'S ASSAILANT IDENTIFIED AS MUENTER, HARVARD INSTRUCTOR

Holt and Man Indicted for Murder of Wife, Same Person.

Identification Made By Three Men From Massachusetts.

Body and Especially Teeth Carefully Examined By the Men.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 7.—Frank Holt, who attempted to take the life of J. P. Morgan and who committed suicide last night in the Mineola jail, was today identified as Erich Muenter the Harvard instructor, who disappeared after being indicted as the murderer of his wife, Leona, in Cambridge, Mass., in 1906.

The identification was made by S. P. Smith, state detective of the district attorney's office of Middlesex county, Mass., Theodore Hillier, an automobile man of Cambridge and A. T. Brown, a Boston newspaper man.

Make Careful Examination.

The identification of Holt as Muenter came after the three men, Smith, Hillier and Brown, had made a careful examination of Holt's body. Holt's teeth were carefully examined by Smith who stated that the gold bridge in the upper right jaw was the same as that in the mouth of Muenter. The Massachusetts state detective told the Nassau county authorities that he was positive of his identification and that there was no question in his Prison Explosive, Used for Fertilizer, Lets Go at Annapolis.

Annapolis, Md., July 7.—About 60,000 pounds of old-time prism powder that the government rejected and is disposing of for fertilizer exploded on the naval academy dairy farm near here yesterday. Two workmen were killed and one person badly injured.

While the prisms were being shoveled into a hopper to be crushed it is supposed that friction caused the powder to ignite.

SHORTAGE FOUND AT RHINELANDER

Auditors Say Books of City Treasurer Show Deficit of $5,793.

Rhinelander, Wis., July 7.—Auditors who have been investigating the records of city officials during a period of four years reported to the city council last night that a shortage had been found in the records of Alex Sutton, city treasurer, of $5,793. In the report a statement was made that a cursory examination had been made of the books for two years previous and further shortages were found. The council voted to extend the investigation back to 1906. Mr. Sutton has been treasurer for twenty years.

WIRELESS WARNINGS FLASHED TO SAXONIA AND PHILADELPHIA

Letter Written to Wife Tells of Deed and That the Steamship Should Sink on July 7.

Man Who Shot J. P. Morgan Ends Life By Leaping From Top of Cell to Floor, Fracturing His Skull.

HOLT'S LETTER

The text of Holt's letter to his wife and telegraphed to the navy department follows:

"A steamer leaving New York for Liverpool should sink, God willing, on the 7th. It is the Philadelphia or the Saxonia (spelled Saxony) but I am not quite sure as these left on the second or third."

On the margin of the letter is written: "Tear this off until after this happens."

The vague nature of Holt's message made it possible, officials thought, that some steamer other than those he named, had been marked for destruction.

ANXIOUS TO COMPROMISE

Further Messages Are Received Regarding Germany's Attitude.

Proposals in Present Form Not Acceptable to United States.

Washington, July 7.—Further messages from Ambassador Gerard were today transmitted to President Wilson at Cornish, N. H., outlining the point of view of the German government on submarine warfare as embodied in a tentative draft of the German reply to the last American note.

The dispatches tended to show that Germany is anxious to bring about a compromise on the question of her submarine campaign and there were indications in official quarters that the proposals in their present form are not acceptable to the United States.

After careful examination of the contents of the proposed note as outlined by Ambassador Gerard, which coincides with Berlin press dispatches of the last few days, high officials are practically agreed that the United States cannot without sacrificing important neutral rights express its ap-

MENACED BY DYNAMITE.

New York, July 7.—The dead hand of Frank Holt, assassin, bomb maker and alleged wife murderer, reached out over the Atlantic today and menaced with dynamite attacks two trans-Atlantic liners with nearly 1,000 men, women and children aboard.

Somewhere on the ocean, Holt wrote his wife, the liner Saxonia or the Philadelphia—he wasn't sure which—would be destroyed today. A dynamite bomb containing thirty pounds of explosive which Holt is known to have received and which has not been accounted for, is believed by the police to be the means Holt had chosen to destroy the ship.

WIRELESS CRACKS WARNING.

While Holt lay today a suicide in his cell at Mineola, L. I., where he was taken after his attempted assassination of J. P. Morgan, the wireless crackled a warning over the Atlantic telling of his threat to blow up a ship; and the mystery of his life was cleared away with his positive identification as Erich Muenter, the alleged wife murderer, who fled Harvard university in 1906.

Nothing more dramatic in the last few crowded days of Holt's life has come to life than the warning of destruction that was uncovered after his death. His confession that he placed the bomb in the capitol at Washington last Friday, his attempted assassination of J. P. Morgan, the growing belief that he was Erich Muenter, alleged murderer of his wife, culminating today in his positive identification—in death—as Muenter, and his sensational suicide by leaping twenty feet from the top of his cell to the floor, formed a series of events to which the threatened destruction of the Philadelphia or the Saxonia fitted as a startling climax.

PHILADELPHIA REPLIES.

The powerful wireless stations of the navy department were enlisted in the effort to prevent the threatened disaster at sea. In answer to the warning there was received today a message from the captain of the Philadelphia which said that everything aboard had been identified and all was well. The Saxonia had not replied; her failure to do so was attributed to the weakness of her wireless batteries which could not, it was thought, span

MONTENEGRINS ON THE WAY TO WAR ARE HELD

Whole Trainload of Alleged Recruits En Route From Globe, Ariz., to Vancouver Arrested at Portland.

Portland, Ore., July 7.—A whole trainload of Montenegrins, alleged recruits, en route from Globe, Ariz., to Vancouver, B. C., was arrested here today. The men were said to be on their way to join their colors in Europe.

The train was under rush orders.

Due to Ignorance.

Washington, July 7.—American Red Cross officials attribute the arrests of Montenegrin officials in New York, Portland, Ore., and Bisbee, Ariz., to ignorance of the neutrality laws of the United States and over-zealousness. They remember that Capt. Anton V. Seferovich, arrested in New York, and B. Martinovich, one of those arrested at Bisbee, have at various times communicated with Red Cross headquarters to get relief supplies for their country.

Sent Supplies.

Seferovich, Miss Mabel Boardman said today, went to the Red Cross headquarters in New York recently and asked for medical supplies, which were sent. The Red Cross appropriated $5,000 for supplies for Montenegro, and also instructed the sanitary commission, operating in Serbia, to include Montenegro in its district.

Miss Boardman said the Montenegrins arrested might be members of the American Red Cross here, but membership is open to anyone who contributes to relief work. Martinovich was formerly Montenegrin minister to Constantinople, and came to the Red Cross headquarters here with a letter from the Russian ambassador at Washington.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Last night saw a continuance of heavy fighting along the western front. The French, in the official report from Paris, claim to have repulsed German attacks north of Arras and on the heights of the Meuse.

Near St. Mihiel, at the point where the Germans have maintained their salient position since the early months of the war, German troops were successful in penetrating the first line of French defenses along a front of 700 yards.

In Le Preire forest a German attack, preceded by the hurling of flaming liquors, was repulsed, according to the French official report.

Turkish troops, in a general attack on the Dardanelles expeditionary force on July 5, were mowed down in masses and failed to drive home the assault, according to the French office, which today gave out an announcement describing the engagement. The statement declares the attack was the most important delivered since early in May and that it was launched with the purpose of driving the invaders into the sea. A Turkish cruiser in the Dardanelles took part in the engagement, as did the batteries on the Asiatic shore. Aviators were active, Turkish airmen bombarding the French and British lines and French and British fliers throwing down bombs on Turkish positions.

Unofficial dispatches from Italy emphasizes the violence of the fighting along the Austrian frontier and declare the troops of that nation are making a determined attempt to open the way to Tarvis, regarded as the key to interior Austria.

In the Caucasus the Russians report having checked a Turkish attempt at an offensive west of Ahlavat.

French destroyers have been operating on the Asia Minor coast, sinking Turkish vessels and inflicting other damage.

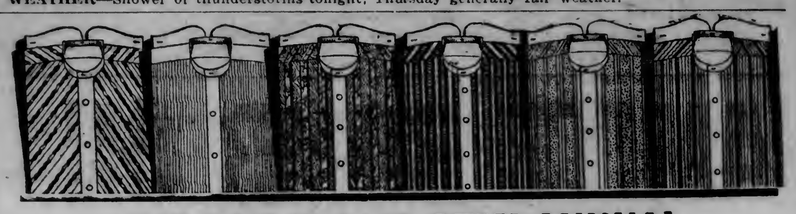

The force of the Teutonic thrust in Southern Poland seems to have slackened for the time, at least, and there is less apparent anxiety on the side of the entente allies over the outcome of the campaign in this region. The latest official statements from Vienna, however, claim that the Austrian advance is continuing in at least one sector of the front south of Warsaw.

Divergent claims come from Vienna and Rome as to the situation on the Austro-Italian front. Italian headquarters reports infliction of severe losses upon the Austrians in counter-attacks on the Carnic frontier, the repulse of attacks along the Tyrol-Trentino line and of a determined assault upon the Italian position on Avostano peak.

The most recent Austrian official statement declares the Italians have been on the offensive and have been repulsed in attacks at several points.

LODGE INSTALLS OFFICERS AND FORMULATES PLANS FOR PICNIC

GUST LANDIN, President.

H. A. NELSON, Installing Officer.

Newly elected officers were installed and plans formulated for a big joint picnic of all Vasa lodges at the Head of the Lakes, last night at the meeting of Sons of Sweden Lodge No. 170, Order of the Vasa, at the Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

H. A. Nelson, district deputy for the lodge, was installing officer. He was assisted by Jacob Granlund, John Anderson and Peter Olson. The new officers installed were: Gust Landin, president; Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, vice president; Edwin Horngren, chaplain; William Wicklund, secretary; George Johnson, assistant secretary; Theodore Anderson, master of ceremonies; Albert Melander, assistant master of ceremonies; Albert Johnson, inner watch, and Selgfred Berglund, outer watch. The new president appointed Rev. Mr. Wermine, Ed Horngren, Hugo Nelson, Dan Melander and O. W. Olson, members of the sick committee.

A committee of three, consisting of Edwin Horngren, Rev. C. W. R. Wermine and Jacob Granlund, was appointed to confer with other lodges of Duluth, Superior, Two Harbors and Proctor, for the purpose of holding a big joint picnic some time in August. The committee from the West end lodge will visit the other lodges to talk over the proposed picnic plans.

A report of the recent grand lodge convention of the order was given by Andrew Horngren, past district master of the lodge. A committee was also appointed to arrange for a social to be held for the members on July 20. The committee comprises Ed Horngren, George Johnson, Hugo Nelson, John Gustafson and Carl Carlson.

Outing at Billings Park.

Members of the congregation and Sunday school of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will hold a picnic at Billings park, Superior, on Tuesday, Aug. 10, according to plans made last night at the monthly business meeting. Plans for the affair will be completed under the direction of Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the church, and E. E. Churchill, superintendent of the Sunday school.

BETTER CONDITIONS FOR GARFIELD AVENUE

Club Will Complete Organization and Start Campaign.

At a meeting of residents of Garfield avenue to be held this evening at the Madison school, the organization to be known as the Garfield Avenue Improvement club will be formally organized. Preliminary steps for the organization was taken two weeks ago, and temporary officers elected. The officers are: H. J. O'Brien, president; H. Christianson, vice president; Einar Jacobson, secretary; and L. M. Rudin, treasurer.

One of the first steps to be taken will be that of securing better enforcement of traffic regulations for Garfield avenue. It is claimed by residents that speed regulations are entirely disregarded by many automobile drivers and that some of them delight in racing on the thoroughfare between the Northern Pacific viaduct and the railroad crossing at 1200 Garfield avenue.

The smoke nuisance in this neighborhood is also to be taken up. According to members of the club many trainmen on the engines in the railroad yards pay little head to the ordinance prohibiting heavy black smoke from engines for a period of more than five minutes.

CONSIDERING COUNTY PARK

Commissioners Visit the Site Suggested at Pike Lake.

Law Limits County to Purchase of But One Acre.

For the prupose of looking over the situation at Pike lake, where a number of farmers have petitioned for the establishment of a county park, five members of the county board made a trip to the lake this morning in automobiles, returning to the city in time to attend the 10 o'clock session of the board.

Those of the commissioners taking the trip were: Charles Kauppi, T. H. Little, R. S. O'Neil, U. S. Grant McMahan and W. A. Swanstrom. The committee will report to the board at its semi-annual meeting on July 12.

The law limits the county to the purchase of but one acre on one lake for park purposes. If a park is established at Pike lake, it is probable that the site selected will be at the outlet at the southwestern end of the lake. The Pike lake road swings around this outlet and it is said that it would make a very desirable spot.

The feasibility of changing the road from its present zig-zag course to a more regular route about 150 feet further back from the shore was also considered by the commissioners. If the road is changed, said one of the commissioners this morning, it is probable that some action may be taken on the park proposition. If not, probably no step towards getting the park will be made.

The proposed route is shorter and has no more grades than has the present road. It will conform more closely to the natural contour of the lake, but will be further back from the shore.

Many Duluthians are in favor of the proposition of creating parks on lakes scattered throughout the county. Some expressions of opinion follow:

John Jenswold, Jr.: "I am heartily in accord with the idea of creating public parks wherever nature's beauty spots may be found. I felt the same way about it when I was serving on the park board. Country roads should be more than mere arteries of communication. They should connect these lakes and recreation spots which embellish and beautify the country. Attractiveness adds to the value of the land and what would be more attractive than a string of parks on the shores of the various lakes of the county connected by a network of roads."

J. W. Walker of Marshall-Wells: "I think that it is a fine thing for the farmers as well as the city folk. They will have an opportunity to make much use of it. It will also be a great thing for Duluth people."

W. E. McEwen: "I think that it is a splendid idea. Under the present arrangement, practically all of the desirable property on the lakes easily accessible to the city is held by private interests and the picnicker is always liable to be arrested for trespass. I am in favor of establishing a number of these parks."

Fred Ward, work farm superintendent: "While I am not acquainted with the particular proposition being considered by the county at Pike Lake, I believe that the idea is an excellent one and is something that should be encouraged."

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."
NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
REX—Photoplay, "Brother Officers."

Theater Gossip.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is proving a big drawing card for Duluth children.

The Baldwin Players have entertained more little IS PLEASING folks this week than LITTLE FOLKS. during any two previous weeks of their Duluth engagement. This is the first opportunity Duluth children have had in fifteen years to see Topsy and Uncle Tom and Little Eva, and at every performance this week—especially the two matinees—a large percentage of the audience has been composed of children under 15 years of age who are seeing "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for the first time. Another matinee is being given this afternoon, and the usual Saturday matinee will be presented.

After two weeks of old-time plays, the Baldwin company will return to the modern drama next week. "The Squaw Man" will be presented all next week, beginning with the Sunday matinee. It was seen in Duluth several years ago with William Faversham in the title role. Both Miss Bronaugh and Mr. Minturn have played the leading parts in the play before and are familiar with the lines and situations.

The last performance of the present excellent bill current at the New Grand will take place today and tomorrow the bill will be changed entirely for the week-end.

ANIMAL CIRCUS COMING TO GRAND.

Heading the present bill the Three Lyres have registered one of the biggest hits of the season with their musical tom-foolery.

Character singing and talking as featured by Ricardo and Cooper also register in the hit class. Bill Dooley, the versatile Eaton boy; Eastman and Moore in a comedy singing and talking diversion, "His Gypsy Sweetheart," and a fine array of photoplays, including the sixth chapter from "The Diamond From the Sky," complete the bill.

Tomorrow the new bill for the week is headed by an original dog act, Prelle's Circus. This animal act is claimed to be the acme of animal training and features the "Robbery of the Overland Mail Coach" in a realistic manner.

Kennedy and Burt, "two nifty folks," in a new line of songs and chatter; Davis and Walker, featuring a lesson in dancing, and Dix and Dixie in odds and ends of vaudeville complete the program.

Among the photoplays will be "The Wives of Men," a Biograph special in two reels; the Hearst-Selig News of events; Charlie Chaplin in one of his best comedies, "A Film Johnnie," and other photoplays.

"Brother Officers," a story of British high society and army life, will be convincingly portrayed by an entire ENGLISH COMPANY AT THE REX. British company at the Rex today and Thursday. The actors give to it touches that no American company would be likely to effect, although the well known American, Harold Shaw, prepared the scenario.

The race track scenes at the start are full of life and color, and the later quieter action in English barracks and English manor houses is even more dramatic. "Brother Officers" is the story of two men whose faithfulness to each other survives even when put to the test of loving the same woman.

MINNESOTA DAY AT EXPOSITION

Governor Hammond Names Committee to Make Arrangements.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota day will be a feature at the Panama exposition and for the purpose of making arrangements for the celebration, Governor Hammond has named a committee consisting of W. J. Murphy and Frank Nelson of Minneapolis, and T. D. O'Brien and Henry Van der Weyer of St. Paul. Rev. John E. Bushnell of Minneapolis, is also a member of the committee.

The selection of the committee by Governor Hammond is in answer to a letter from the exposition officials stating, that they desired to honor Minnesota and one of its prominent citizens on a calendar day to be named later. Governor Hammond will likely be the recipient of the honors planned, as he is now preparing to visit the exposition with his staff the latter part of the month. A special train will carry the party and the itinerary for the affair is now being planned.

There are a number of Minnesotans in California and arrangements will probably be made for their presence at the celebration. There will be addresses and programs of exercises.

Asks Departments Approval.

Washington, July 7.—Governor Dunne of Illinois, a member of the Illinois waterway commission, asked Secretary Garrison today for the war department's approval of the commission's plan to improve the Illinois river from Joliet to the Mississippi for which the state has appropriated $20,000,000.

LODGE INSTALLS OFFICERS AND FORMULATES PLANS FOR PICNIC

GUST LANDIN, President.

H. A. NELSON, Installing Officer.

Newly elected officers were installed and plans formulated for a big joint picnic of all Vasa lodges at the Head of the Lakes, last night at the meeting of Sons of Sweden Lodge No. 170, Order of the Vasa, at the Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

H. A. Nelson, district deputy for the lodge, was installing officer. He was assisted by Jacob Granlund, John Anderson and Peter Olson. The new officers installed were: Gust Landin, president; Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, vice president; Edwin Horngren, chaplain; William Wicklund, secretary; George Johnson, assistant secretary; Theodore Anderson, master of ceremonies; Albert Melander, assistant master of ceremonies; Albert Johnson, inner watch, and Seigfred Berglund, outer watch. The new president appointed Rev. Mr. Wermine, Ed Horngren, Hugo Nelson, Dan Melander and O. W. Olson, members of the sick committee.

A committee of three, consisting of Edwin Horngren, Rev. C. W. R. Wermine and Jacob Granlund, was appointed to confer with other lodges of Duluth, Superior, Two Harbors and Proctor, for the purpose of holding a big joint picnic some time in August. The committee from the West end lodge will visit the other lodges to talk over the proposed picnic plans.

A report of the recent grand lodge convention of the order was given by Andrew Horngren, past district master of the lodge. A committee was also appointed to arrange for a social to be held for the members on July 20. The committee comprises Ed Horngren, George Johnson, Hugo Nelson, John Gustafson and Carl Carlson.

Outing at Billings Park.

Members of the congregation and Sunday school of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will hold a picnic at Billings park, Superior, on Tuesday, Aug. 10, according to plans made last night at the monthly business meeting. Plans for the affair will be completed under the direction of Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the church, and E. E. Churchill, superintendent of the Sunday school.

BETTER CONDITIONS FOR GARFIELD AVENUE

Club Will Complete Organization and Start Campaign.

At a meeting of residents of Garfield avenue to be held this evening at the Madison school, the organization to be known as the Garfield Avenue Improvement club will be formally organized. Preliminary steps for the organization was taken two weeks ago and temporary officers elected. The officers are: H. J. O'Brien, president; H. Christianson, vice president; Elnar Jacobson, secretary; and L. M. Rudin, treasurer.

One of the first steps to be taken will be that of securing better enforcement of traffic regulations for Garfield avenue. It is claimed by residents that speed regulations are entirely disregarded by many automobile drivers and that some of them delight in racing on the thoroughfare between the Northern Pacific viaduct and the railroad crossing at 1200 Garfield avenue.

The smoke nuisance in this neighborhood is also to be taken up. According to members of the club many trainmen on the engines in the railroad yards pay little heed to the ordinance prohibiting heavy black smoke from engines for a period of more than five minutes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

Zion Church Outing Will Be Given Next Sunday.

The annual picnic of the Sunday school of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will be held at Fairmont park next Sunday. The officers, teachers and members of the school will meet at the church at 9:30 o'clock to take cars for the picnic grounds. A program, which includes short open-air services at 11 o'clock, is being arranged. Games and sports will feature the afternoon's activities.

The following program has been arranged for the forenoon:

CONSIDERING COUNTY PARK

Commissioners Visit the Site Suggested at Pike Lake.

Law Limits County to Purchase of But One Acre.

For the prupose of looking over the situation at Pike lake, where a number of farmers have petitioned for the establishment of a county park, five members of the county board made a trip to the lake this morning in automobiles, returning to the city in time to attend the 10 o'clock session of the board.

Those of the commissioners taking the trip were: Charles Kauppi, T. H. Little, R. S. O'Neil, U. S. Grant McMahan and W. A. Swanstrom. The committee will report to the board at its semi-annual meeting on July 12.

The law limits the county to the purchase of but one acre on one lake for park purposes. If a park is established at Pike lake, it is probable that the site selected will be at the outlet at the southwestern end of the lake. The Pike lake road swings around this outlet and it is said that it would make a very desirable spot.

The feasibility of changing the road from its present zig-zag course to a more regular route about 150 feet further back from the shore was also considered by the commissioners. If the road is changed, said one of the commissioners this morning, it is probable that some action may be taken on the park proposition. If not, probably no step towards getting the park will be made.

The proposed route is shorter and has no more grades than has the present road. It will conform more closely to the natural contour of the lake, but will be further back from the shore.

Many Duluthians are in favor of the proposition of creating parks on lakes scattered throughout the county. Some expressions of opinion follow:

John Jenswold, Jr.: "I am heartily in accord with the idea of creating public parks wherever nature's beauty spots may be found. I felt the same way about it when I was serving on the park board. Country roads should be more than mere arteries of communication. They should connect these lakes and recreation spots which embellish and beautify the country. Attractiveness adds to the value of the land and what would be more attractive than a string of parks on the shores of the various lakes of the county connected by a network of roads."

J. W. Walker of Marshall-Wells: "I think that it is a fine thing for the farmers as well as the city folk. They will have an opportunity to make much use of it. It will also be a great thing for Duluth people."

W. E. McEwen: "I think that it is a splendid idea. Under the present arrangement, practically all of the desirable property on the lakes easily accessible to the city is held by private interests and the picnicker is always liable to be arrested for trespass. I am in favor of establishing a number of these parks."

Fred Ward, work farm superintendent: "While I am not acquainted with the particular proposition being considered by the county at Pike Lake, I believe that the idea is an excellent one and is something that should be encouraged."

BATHHOUSES BEING INSTALLED AT CITY'S NEW BATHING BEACH

BATH HOUSES ON WAY TO NEW FAIRMONT PARK BATHING BEACH.

Although the heavy rains of last Saturday and Sunday delayed the opening of the Fairmont park bathing beach on the Fourth of July, Park Manager Cleveland expects to have everything in readiness within the next few days.

If the present warm weather continues throughout this week, Mr. Cleveland hopes to throw the beach open to the public next Saturday morning.

Yesterday the twenty-four portable bathhouses were taken out to the park grounds and today a crew of workmen is putting them into place. There will be two sections, one for men and the other for women, with twelve bathhouses in each section.

The automobile roadway from Seventy-first avenue west and Pulaski street has been completed and is now open to motorists. Yesterday workmen finished the pavilion that was under construction when the heavy rains started last Saturday.

CLAMORING FOR ROADS

County Board Swamped With Petitions From Settlers.

Many Delegations Appear at Meeting to Press Claims.

County road matters occupied the attention of the county commissioners at their adjourned monthly meeting yesterday afternoon and this morning. Both sessions were attended by delegations of settlers from remote sections of the county who were seeking to have the county build roads in their respective districts.

The county commissioners have for several months been obliged to continually curtail expenditures in order to keep within the appropriations alloted to each district. In many cases, it has been difficult to figure out just where the money may be spent to the best advantage.

Appeals for new roads are coming in continually and the board has been swamped with petitions for new highways or improvements of existing thoroughfares. One petition received yesterday afternoon from Alango township said:

"Our children have been kept from school. We have lost the comforts of home. In every way that highways would bring us benefit, we have suffered. We have lived in this vicinity for a great many years, some from ten to thirteen years. The roads connecting us with the outside world are a disgrace to the county and state." The settlers ask for the completion of the Laine road, which runs through sections 17 and 20, 61-19.

Seven new highways were legalized this morning and in three cases hearing dates on petitions were set for Sept. 8.

Work on decreasing the grade on the Thomson road hill into West Duluth has again been begun. This job was begun last year, but was discontinued last fall. Commissioner Swanstrom of the Third district this week put a crew of men at work on the job. It is planned to reduce the grade from 10 per cent to about 8 per cent.

• • •

The board this morning confirmed the appointment of George W. Power as deputy sheriff to take the place of Frank L. Magie, who resigned more than a year ago. The appointment was made recently by Sheriff Meining.

• • •

Charles E. Adams, special counsel for the county and attorney for the county board, was reappointed for another year at the board session yesterday afternoon.

• • •

The board will conclude its monthly meeting this afternoon and will then adjourn until the semi-annual session on July 12.

"DEADHEADS" ARE MENACE

Motorboat Owners Want River Cleared of Sunken Logs.

Accidents Are Reported Almost Daily—Hard on Propeller Wheels.

A movement to have the "deadheads" in the St. Louis river removed as far as is possible will be started among the motor boat owners of Duluth and Superior. Almost every day some unlucky motor boat owner breaks a wheel and is compelled to drift until some one gives him a tow.

"Deadheads" are to be found almost anywhere in the river. The "deadheads" are sunken logs, some of which are partly submerged and others that lie entirely concealed under the water and prove a constant menace to the owners. On many occasions in the past owners of boats have had holes stove in their boats and sometimes the entire side taken out as the result of running into one of these sunken logs.

It is claimed by the motor enthusiasts that one thorough cleaning up of the river and its tributaries would effectually remove this menace for years to come. An appropriation, they say, should be secured from congress to have the work done as early as possible.

The government launch Nemadji has been kept busy this spring answering calls up the river. Drifting logs and other material in the waters have been removed by the government engineers when their attention is called to them.

"What is needed is a thorough cleaning of the river, Spirit lake and the tributaries," said Frank H. Wade, president of the Western Boat club of West Duluth. "The 'deadheads' get into the channel from the still waters and prove a menace to all of the boats. Several boat owners have recently lost their wheels and had their boat otherwise damaged because of them."

"We spend on an average of $300 each year in trying to keep the channel clear," said Capt. Harvey Clow of the Clow-Nicholson company. "Several times in recent years we have had the propeller wheel broken off on our excursion steamers by their striking one of these sunken logs. It costs us $400 every time one of them breaks. Something should be done to remove this menace, which is far more serious to the small boats than it is to our big steamers. The small craft may be sunk in quick time. The logs would, of course, not sink our boats, although they could easily put them out of running order and delay their operation for some time."

WILL SURVIVE DESPITE AGE

Nels Rusfeldt, 83, Is Recovering From His Injuries.

Surviving an experience that would have been fatal to many a young man, Nels N. Rusfeldt, 83-year-old Superior citizen, is on the road to recovery at St. Luke's hospital after being struck by a street car Monday night. He has two severe cuts on the head.

The accident, which occurred at Fourth avenue east and Superior street, was the culmination of a 35-mile walk which had lasted for thirty-six hours, according to his relatives at 2313 Butler avenue, Superior.

"The man has an extremely rugged constitution," said Police Surgeon Harry Klein this morning. "The shock would have killed most men of his age."

MAY LEGALLY BEGIN PAVING ANY TIME

The city may legally begin any time it wishes to pave Central avenue above Cody street.

Such was the statement of one of the leading property owners this morning, who asserted that the information given out by Commissioner J. A. Farrell in last evening's Herald was misleading. The recent protest against the paving of the street was not legally filed, he said, and constituted only a request to have the work laid over for another year.

"The original petition for the paving of the street was filed last fall," said the property owner. "It called for a paving to Eighth street. The old council passed resolutions to have the street paved as far as the D., M. & N. railroad tracks. The protest petition that was filed within the legal sixty days contained only between 18 and 20 per cent of the owners. This spring this was further added to on the pretext of having the work postponed for a year.

"We want the work done at once and as Commissioner Farrell has informed us that he has the money on hand to go ahead, it now only remains for him to advertise for bids and let the contract.

About 10 per cent of the property benefited by the paving belongs to the city. This includes fifty feet on the corner of Cody street, which is the proposed site for the new No. 8 firehall; six lots constituting the site of the West Duluth public library, and the remainder of the same block owned by the school board. The school board went on record, at the time the original petition for the paving was circulated, favoring the improvement and expressing its willingness to pay its share of the work.

GIVEN CHANCE TO PROTEST

Public Hearing Will Be Held on Proposed Plumbing Code.

Civic Organizations Appointing Committees to Study Measure.

Conferences on the proposed plumbing code are now being arranged by the civic organizations of Duluth, while a public hearing at the city hall the latter part of this month will wind up preliminaries before the measure is presented to the city council.

At the Commercial club last evening, George W. Morgan, W. E. McEwen and W. J. McCabe were appointed to represent the municipal committee at all conferences and public hearings to be held for the discussion of the proposed ordinance. Similar committees will be appointed this week by the other bodies, including the Rotary club, Builders Exchange, Real Estate Exchange and Building Owners and Managers. Last week the municipal committee filed a statement objecting to many features of the measure.

Mayor Prince said this morning that copies of the ordinance have been distributed to all the organizations and that as soon as the conferences are held and sufficient opportunity given the public to study its features, a public hearing will be called. At that time, he said, the ordinance will be gone over for the last time before it is presented to the commission.

The principal feature of the ordinance is the proviso for a plumbing board, to consist of a master plumber, the city inspector and a member of the water and light department inspection board. The members will be appointed by the council to serve two years, without pay. Some of the more important features follow:

Each building must be separately plumbed.

It shall be unlawful to employ unlicensed plumbers.

No person shall be appointed a city inspector unless he has five years' experience.

The plumbing inspector shall be appointed by the commissioner of public safety.

All plumbing work must undergo the five-pound air or water test.

Underground sewers must not be nearer than two feet from a wall or in bad ground.

All pipes must be supported or properly secured.

All pipes must be free from defects and must be of the proper size set down by the ordinance.

All joints must be made with pure lead.

Every fixture must be trapped separately as near the fixture outlet as possible.

All refrigerator waste pipes must be of galvanized iron.

The inspector shall charge $1 for inspecting a drain and one fixture, 50 cents for each fixture up to ten and 26 cents for each fixture above ten.

For violating the ordinance there should be a fine of not less than $5 and not more than $50 or imprisonment of from five to sixty days.

CHALLENGE CITY EMPLOYES.

Federal Workers Eager for a Clash on the Diamond.

Shortly before 9 o'clock this morning an ultimatum was issued by employes of the Federal building to the city hall.

An answer was requested by 11 o'clock.

After a conference, John Hoppe of the engineering department, Deputy Assessor Ash and J. Harris Trux, secretary to the mayor, decided to fight to a finish. The honor of the city hall was at stake. This answer was immediately dispatched to the Federal building.

What's it all about?

Employes of the Federal building have organized a baseball team and they challenged the city hall workers. The challenge has been accepted, and the game will be played next week.

"Y" BOYS BEGIN BASEBALL SERIES

Camp Miller Is Mecca for Youngsters; Outing Parties Popular.

Yesterday the first of the outdoor baseball games that the boys of the Y. M. C. A. will play every Tuesday afternoon, took place. Two teams reported at the grounds, and a hot game was played with a score of 14 to 15. Next Tuesday the boys will meet at the boys' department at 2 o'clock for another afternoon of outdoor sport.

After the games the boys had a swim in the pool.

This afternon a party left for an all-night trip to French river. Each boy carried his blankets and enough food for the two days. At French river they will erect a shelter and each boy will do his own cooking. The party will return tomorrow evening. Next Wednesday there will be another all-night trip to Zenith island.

Another party of boys left the boys' department for an outdoor swim to Park Point. Today opened the first of the outdoor swims, which will be held every Wednesday. The weather was a little cool for outdoor swimming, but the water was warm, and a big bonfire was built on the shore that the boys enjoyed after their swim.

The trip for Saturday afternoon will be a planked fish party. The club will supply the big fish, and each boy will bring his lunch. After a swim there will be a program of games and campfire stunts.

The boys' clubrooms are open every day and evening, and special programs are carried on daily, including a swim. Many boys are learning how to swim. Applications for Camp Miller are coming in every day, and when the big camp opens Aug. 2, there will be a capacity crowd.

CITY READY TO FORGE AHEAD

Just Rates Put Duluth on Equal Footing With Other Cities.

G. Roy Hall Gives Report on Freight Regulations and Rates.

At the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, held last evening, G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner, made an extensive report on matters pertaining to freight rates and regulations, controversies and adjustments, and other matters that come under the attention of the commission. Incidentally the traffic commission's work came in for considerable complimentary comment during the course of the evening. When Mr. Hall had finished reading his report, H. C. Strong of the Minnesota Radiator company arose and said:

"Mr. Hall omitted to mention what he did for the Minnesota Radiator company. Our rate to the Twin Cities was increased by the railroads to 16 6-10 cents, and he immediately got busy and had it put back to 10 cents, the difference being enough to cover our profit. That helped a good deal."

Joseph B. Cotton, president of the club, who was one of the speakers of the evening, declared that railroad discrimination is what has held Duluth back, building up other cities at the expense of this one. He asserted that Duluth is now on its way to prosperity and to a great future, and for that fact the work of the traffic commission may be thanked.

Charles A. Duncan, vice chairman of the public affairs committee, in a short address, declared that the traffic commission is making a great future for Duluth.

"All lines feel it," said he. "The work already done has had its effect and it will be felt more and more as time goes on."

Mr. Hall's report was as follows:

Will Demand Back Rates.

"Although the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the rail and lake cases was handed down approximately two months ago, the rates therein required to be established have not yet been published by the interested carriers. We have been advised that efforts have been made to arrange for a conference between the various lines to take action in accordance with the commission's decision referred to, but on account of other more important meetings or conferences it has been impossible to bring all parties in interest together. We expect, however, that the conference will take place at an early date as we understand that the carriers are very desirous of complying with the requirements of the commission's order.

"We have taken the position that these rates should have been established with the opening of navigation in the spring of 1914, in compliance with the commission's decision in the original Duluth case and we propose to endeavor to have the rates retroactively applied.

Selling of Freighters.

"Your committee has been watching carefully the result of the order of the interstate commerce commission divorcing the package freight lines on the Great Lakes from their railroad owners. Some of the boats have already been sold into the Atlantic coast service and a contract was recently made between the Erie railroad and the American Shipbuilding company under which the latter will cut several of the Erie lines' boats into two sections so that they can pass through the Welland canal and thence to the sea. We understand that other boats of other lake lines are to be similarly disposed of, but so far all of the boats offered for sale have been the old obsolete vessels, all of which have operated to and from the port of Chicago. We understand that no definite proposition can be had from the railroads for their large, first-class vessels and although inspired articles, appearing in various newspapers or other publications, predict dire results from the divorcement of the boats and the railroads, we believe that independent operation can be made just as effective and the service just as good and the rates much lower than the railroad boat lines have afforded us.

Will Confer With Roads.

"A complaint was filed before the interstate commerce commission in December, last, attacking the rates from Duluth to points in Northern Minnesota as being unreasonable and unduly discriminatory against Duluth and unduly preferential of the Twin Cities. The railroads asked if we would object to meeting with them and with Twin City interests in an effort to arrange some amicable and satisfactory settlement of our differences. We have advised them that we will be more than pleased to take up the matter in this way and we expect a conference will be held probably this week.

"For some time we have had up with the boat lines and the Eastern railroads the matter of rates on horseshoes and horseshoe calks from Duluth to Eastern points. We asked the carriers to give us the same rates eastbound as they contemporaneously maintain from the same Eastern points westbound to Duluth, and we have just been advised that, effective Aug. 1, the rates will be established on a basis of sixth class. This will give us the same rates as are in effect westbound to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and points taking the same rates, but to Boston, Albany, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and points taking the same rates, the rates from Duluth will be still higher than the rates from those points to Duluth and we have asked our lake line friends to continue the good work until the rates are the same in both directions. The new rates will represent reductions of approximately 20 per cent on the average and will be a great assistance to the Duluth manufacturer.

As to Switching Charges.

"About a year ago we had a hearing before the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission at which we attacked the switching rates of the Northern Pacific railway between Duluth and points on the Fond du Lac line. The commission has handed down no decision in this case as yet, but in a letter written by the commission to a party interested in that case, the commission stated that they had never accepted the Northern Pacific tariff canceling the $5 switching charge which formerly applied between Duluth and New Duluth, nor has it ever accepted the contention of the Northern Pacific Railway company that the Cashman law destroyed the right of a carrier to name switching rates within a given point, and that the commission was now in the courts engaged in an attempt to compel the Northern Pacific to reinstate their old switching rates. We understand that the case in the court is one involving the general question of the propriety of switching rates which came up in Minneapolis. The order of the commission was upheld by the district court and the railroad company appealed to the supreme court of the state. The decision in this matter ought to be forthcoming in a short time, and, if favorable to our contentions, the commission will immediately issue an order and we will proceed to collect the difference between the old switching charges and the charges which have been assessed by the Northern Pacific railway since Jan. 1, 1914.

"The Duluth-Twin City lines have published a tariff, effective July 25, restoring nearly all of the old free storage privileges which we had practically wiped out, effective Aug. 1 last. However, the carriers will make a charge of ½ cent per 100 pounds wharfage and the new tariff does not permit the distribution of less than carload lots from storage. We will continue to carry on our campaign against this practice, paying particular attention to the situation at Milwaukee and Chicago, as it was the competition through those Lake Michigan ports which caused the Duluth lines to restore the old practice.

Other Rate Reductions.

"We have been advised that the rates of calcium carbide from Duluth to the Twin Cities will be reduced from 16.6 cents per 100 pounds to 10 cents per 100 pounds. We have also arranged for the application of through rates on less than carload shipments of carbide from Duluth to points east of Chicago, and we are now endeavoring to bring about a reduction in the rate on this commodity in carloads from Duluth to Grand Rapids, Mich., from the present rate of 27.6 cents per 100 pounds to 15.6 per 100 pounds. The rate from the Sault to Grand Rapids is 15.6 cents and from Niagara Falls 17½ cents. At both of these places carbide plants are located which compete with the Duluth product.

"After long negotiations we were successful in arranging the reduction in the rates on matches from Duluth to points in Arkansas, our rates being the same as the rates from Oshkosh, Wis., enabling our manufacturers to reach that territory in competition with trust products. We have been advised that an effort is being made to bring about an increase in the rates from Duluth which would practically eliminate us from that market, and we have protested to the Duluth lines that such advances should not be made. We will watch this situation carefully and if new tariffs are published advancing the rate we will endeavor to have them suspended and a hearing had on the reasonableness of the proposed rates before the interstate commerce commission.

"We brought about the reduction of the rate on matches from Duluth to the Twin Cities from 20.7 cents to 17 cents, enabling our shippers to compete with trust products. We also brought about reductions in the rates on matches from Duluth to points east of Chicago amounting to 8 cents per 100 pounds. There are two match factories located at Oshkosh, Wis., Detroit, Mich., Wadsworth and Barberton, Ohio, and other points with which Duluth manufacturers come in competition and the freight rates are an important matter.

Gives Help Outside.

"A short time ago we were asked by people living along the Soo line, between Frogner and Black Hoof, to assist them in getting better service from the Soo Line railroad. The matter was taken up with the vice president of that company, who agreed to send a man through the territory, ascertain the needs of the farmers in that vicinity and provide necessary service for them. We are following the matter up to see that it is not overlooked.

"Package freight boat lines serving Duluth proposed to change their tariffs, under which they have always made deliveries of all freight at private docks in the Duluth-Superior harbor, so as to provide that they would make delivery at such docks in lots of not less than fifty tons arriving on any one boat, and that freight in lots of less than fifty tons would be delivered at the Union dock or a railroad dock and the expense of getting goods from such point of delivery to private dock would be borne by the consignee. This is a very serious matter, as it practically wiped out the capital investments of many of the Duluth business houses which had gone to the expense of buying bay front sights, erecting docks and dredging channels thereat. A protest was made before the interstate commerce commission and the proposed advances suspended. A conference was had with the lake line representatives and an agreement entered into under which the objectionable tariffs were withdrawn. New tariffs will be published and filed in due course providing for deliveries of all freight in lots of 10,000 pounds or more arriving on any one boat, this being satisfactory to the Duluth interests.

"The boat lines have rented a dock from the Northern Pacific railway at which they deliver Duluth local freight, known as the Union dock. The tramway and approach of this dock have been in very bad shape and almost impassable for teams with heavy loads. This condition has been taken up with the lake line managers and they have agreed to see that the roadway is put in good shape immediately.

Demanding Other Concessions.

"The Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railways have published rates on grain from Pacific coast points to Chicago which are the same as the rates to Duluth. The normal basis for these rates to Chicago is 7½ cents over the rates to Duluth. Protest was made to the interested carriers against this parity of rates, but they advised that they could not stop the publication of the tariffs. They have offered us milling and transit arrangements, but this will not meet our needs. Conferences will be arranged between the Duluth interests and the Northern railroads and an effort made to bring about a reduction in the Duluth rate to preserve the 7½-cent differential.

"We are endeavoring to arrange for a special rate on machinery from Duluth to Atlantic coast points when destined to foreign countries. Our manufacturers find it very difficult to compete for the trade of the world at large under the present rates. We have had some little correspondence with the interested railroads regarding this matter and expect to be able to arrange a satisfactory figure.

"The lake lines proposed an increase in the rates on salt from Port Huron, Mich., to Duluth. The advance was protested and suspended by the commerce commission. A hearing will be had in Chicago on July 31. We understand that the lake lines will withdraw the advanced rate. We have asked the interested parties in Duluth if it is their desire that we appear at Chicago in opposition to the advance.

Refrigeration Taxed.

"The refrigerator facilities on the Great Lakes, which were established as a result of an order of the interstate commerce commission at the request of Duluth shippers, have been taxed to their utmost capacity so far this season. In fact there has not been enough space to take care of all the shipments offered. We are keeping the interstate commerce commission advised as to the development of this traffic and we expect that, as the business increases, more space will be provided.

"Railroad street is one of the most important streets in Duluth and this thoroughfare is the only means of access to a number of freight stations and docks over which a very large traffic into and out of Duluth moves. We have several times found it necessary to take up with the city and with the railroad people the question of improving this street. We were recently able to induce the city and the Soo Line railway to join forces, and as a result the street is now in very good condition for heavy traffic.

"We have recently arranged for a reduction in the rate on radiators with gas-heating attachments from Duluth to California points from $1.50 to $1 per 100 pounds. We also asked the lines from Duluth to North Pacific coast points to establish a similar rate. We are advised that this rate has been agreed upon and will be published in the first tariff issued.

"We are taking up the question of rates on machinery from Duluth to points in Northern Michigan, on the Chicago Northwestern railway. The rate from Chicago and the Twin Cities is 20 cents, while the rate from Duluth is 23 cents per 100 pounds. We feel that our rates should not be higher than those of our competitors and we will insist upon them being readjusted.

Correcting a Violation.

"In common with a general practice, many of our shippers have been in the habit of making shipments to certain junctions or basing points and then reshipping from those points to the final destinations, in order to get a lower rate, by the combination of the rates to and from the basing point, than the through rate. The interstate commerce commission has recently decided, following the law as laid down by the supreme court of the United States, that this practice is a device by means of which the lawful rate is defeated. The fourth section of the act to regulate commerce provides that no railway company shall charge more for a through transaction than the sum of intermediate rates, subject to the provisions of the act, and I believe that it will eventually be held that this section of the act will cover all cases where the through rate is higher than the sum of the intermediate rates. The commission has always maintained that they would regard such through rate as prima facie unreasonable, and, while the railway companies cite this latest decision of the commission, it would be well for shippers to thoroughly investigate their rights before paying any unreasonable charges, or, in event the charges must be paid, they should follow the matter up and collect the difference.

"This report is necessarily incomplete. The matters herein contained are important and there are hundreds of others which ought to be included in the report which because of lack of time cannot receive attention. You are again reminded of the fact that the service of the traffic commission is at your disposal and we will be very glad to give further information on any of these subjects or others at any time."

WOULD ASSIST UNEMPLOYED

Plan for Government to Finance Workers Taking Up Land.

Congress to Be Asked to Enact a Rural Credit Measure.

Washington, July 7.—An interdepartmental committee named by Secretary of the Interior Lane and Secretary of Labor Wilson is at work on a plan to relieve unemployment under which the Federal government would finance workers desiring to take up farm land. A complete program with preliminary drafts of necessary legislation, is to be framed before congress meets in December to be proposed in connection with a rural credits bill which the administration is expected to press at that time.

"The committee, which includes officials of the general land office, the reclamation service and the department of labor, was appointed specifically to consider means of broadening the scope of the Federal employment bureau in the department of labor, and it had the co-operation of officials of the postoffice department and the department of agriculture.

System of Farm Credits.

The plan now under consideration contemplates a system of farm credits operating through the department of labor which would enable workers in congested cities to take up agricultural land on government reclamation projects, or public lands on easy payment loans. Commissioner General Caminetti of the immigration bureau had suggested a government backing to the farm scheme some time ago and the interdepartmental committee now has developed the idea to the point where work has been begun on the framing of the initial drafts of necessary legislation. In addition to requiring an auxiliary rural credit system under the control of the department of labor, the scheme would necessitate amendments to the reclamation laws and the land laws, liberalizing the financial arrangements that may be made with the government by settlers on Federal lands.

President Wilson, in a message to the final session of the last congress, regretted the impossibility of the passage of a rural credits bill at that time, and it has been generally believed that he will recommend some action on the subject next winter.

Eliminate Overhead Charges.

"The proposed plan," said Commissioner Caminetti, "would eliminate all overhead charges, as the officers who would be employed are already in the service of one of the departments cooperating and under salary. One of the departments involved would have a representative in most counties of the United States. The postoffice department would certainly have one or more employes in each county, particularly at the county seat, where records of real estate transactions are kept. The departments would possess exceptional opportunities—particularly the department of agriculture—through their staff and field officers to examine and report on the quality of land offered for security for loans; determine whether the terms of loans are observed; collect interest and attend to other details."

Mr. Caminetti suggested that a part of the immigration fund, consisting of the head tax collected from immigrants which now amounts to some $10,000,000, might be used in financing the unemployment feature of the rural credits plan, on the ground that congested conditions and unemployment are due to the concentration of immigrants as well as native citizens in the larger cities.

The committee will meet at intervals this summer and it is expected the plan and proposed legislation will be completed by the time congress convenes in December.

UTILITY ROW SETTLED.

Three Works Division Men Will Care for Hydrants.

After a conference yesterday afternoon Commissioners Farrell and Merritt agreed to settle their controversy over payment of labor costs for the turning on of water hydrants without taking any official action in the council.

Commissioner Merritt agreed to the plan suggested yesterday morning by Commissioner Farrell, and in the future the water department will select three laborers for sewer flushing work who will be hired by the works division. These men will have complete charge of the hydrants.

Last week Commissioner Farrell objected to the payment of a bill amounting to $45 for labor in turning on water hydrants.

NOT AN ACCIDENT.

Saloonless Bemidji Pulls Off "Quiet" Celebration.

Bemidji, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the crowd attending the Independence celebration Monday was estimated at about 5,000 not a single accident took place. Not a doctor in Bemidji was called on an accident case nor were the doors of the hospital thrown open to receive anyone who was injured while celebrating. Saloonless Bemidji did not have a single arrest while a year ago twelve had to answer to the judge of the municipal court for wrongdoing.

DULUTH SHRINERS, FORTY STRONG, WILL ESCORT IMPERIAL POTENTATE TO SEATTLE CONCLAVE

LYONEL AYRES,
Potentate of Aad Temple.

A. H. PAUL,
Captain of Arab Patrol.

FREDERICK B. SMITH,
Imperial Potentate.

At 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening forty Duluth Shriners and fifteen women will leave over the Northern Pacific on their pilgrimage to the forty-first imperial council of the Ancient and Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine, to be held at Seattle, July 12-17.

Preceding the departure of the train there will be a parade at 7 o'clock from the Masonic temple to the Northern Pacific station. The music will be furnished by the Temple band, with Charles Helmer directing the musicians, and Arab patrol of Aad temple will follow in uniform.

There will be two special cars attached to the regular train for the local caravan, while W. H. Strachan, superintendent of the Duluth division of the road, will accompany the Shriners in his private car as far as Fargo, N. D.

Arriving at Fargo on Friday morning the members of Aad patrol and the delegation will be met by El Zagal patrol and band and, after a parade and breakfast, the two caravans will join and continue together in a special train to Seattle. Both temples will act as the official escort of Dr. Frederick B. Smith of Rochester, N. Y., imperial potentate, who will be met at Helena, Mont., on Saturday morning, where the Shriners will dedicate the new Shrine temple recently completed.

The Aad-El Zagal train will be attached to the imperial potentate's special and the pilgrimage will continue to Spokane, where Sunday will be spent as the guests of El Katif temple. The imperial council sessions will open next Monday morning at Seattle shortly after the Aad-El Zagal train arrives in the city and a grand entry is made into Seattle by the imperial potentate and his staff, escorted by the official patrols of the conclave.

Lyonel Ayres, potentate of Aad temple, will head the local caravan to Nile temple at Seattle, while Capt. A. H. Paul will be in charge of the patrol. The official delegates of the local shrine are Mr. Ayres, Henry Nesbitt, Jesse Norton and T. P. Bradley.

Will Visit Expositions.

The convention at Seattle will continue until Thursday evening, July 17, when the local delegation will break up, most of the party continuing to San Francisco and San Diego for the expositions. The remainder plan to return over the Canadian Pacific road. Special entertainment for all visiting Shriners is planned by the San Francisco temple, including automobile rides through the exposition grounds and a trip in the Golden Gate harbor to the San Quentin prison.

At Seattle the members of Nile temple have arranged for special automobile rides, boat excursions, a trip to Mt. Rainier, dances and banquets throughout the week.

The transportation committee of Aad temple consists of Potentate Ayres, Lieutenants Wallace Welbanks and C. C. Jones and Sergeant G. A. Sherwood of the patrol and J. I. Thomas.

Those who will be in the Duluth caravan follow:

Messrs. and Mesdames R. K. Abraham, Nels Hillman of Two Harbors, August Berger, Philip Bayha, R. H. Rathbun, George M. Fay, C. L. Haney, James H. Cudlip of Virginia, W. J. Works, J. I. Thomas, George Sherwood, Henry Nesbitt and W. A. McWatty; Albert Cox and two daughters of Cloquet, Frank Scribner and sister, Mrs. E. Tozer; Lyonel Ayres, A. P. Cook, Jesse Norton, T. P. Bradley, R. R. Gould, George Funck, W. J. Suttel, J. D. Myers of Virginia, A. C. Stevens of Virginia, and the patrol, the members of which are: Capt. A. H. Paul, Lieut. Wallace P. Welbanks, Lieut. Charles C. Jones, Sergeant George Sherwood, Ralph Pond, John E. Carlson, Dr. C. L. Haney, George H. Kermott, W. A. Pittenger, A. E. Anderson, W. F. French, George M. Fay, R. K. Abraham, Hogan Lindahl, Darwin C. Gray, Harvey C. Buchanan, Theodore C. Larson, A. B. Kapplin, R. H. Rathbun, Harold N. Giertson, Fred L. Koehler, Frank G. Scribner, Joseph T. Lundquist, Frank H. Farrell, Harry Olafson, Alex S. McDonald, Richard M. Funck, Philip Bayha, Dr. W. J. Works and James O. Wanzer.

BOUQUETS FOR DULUTH

Visitors From Atlanta Speak at Public Affairs Committee Meeting.

Outlook Bright in Iron and Steel Industry, Says McGonagle.

Duluth was eulogized by visitors and citizens last night at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, and the speeches were singularly free from anything of a "boosting" character. Facts were presented to show the imminence of unprecedented prosperity, and the comments of the visitors, two leading business men from Atlanta, Ga., were given with a sincerity that was unmistakable.

E. M. Hornine of Atlanta declared that ever since he spent a week in Duluth last year he has been eager to come back, so fascinated with the city had he become.

"I fell in love with Duluth," said Mr. Hornine, "and I needed no invitation from my friends here to come back."

Mr. Hornine also urged a large attendance from Duluth at the annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, which will be held in Atlanta in September. He said that the people of Atlanta are eager to show the Northerners real Southern hospitality.

Mr. Hornine also spoke of the proposed plumbing and electrical ordinances. He said that Atlanta was recently confronted with much the same kind of plan and found it gravely wanting and anything but desirable.

"The question that the city should consider," said he, "is not who shall do your plumbing, but how it is done."

Taking Lessons in Hospitality.

W. A. Davis, also of Atlanta, said that ever since he came here eight years ago, he has been returning annually, for he knows of no place that is so beautiful and in every way attractive as Duluth.

"I had great difficulty," said he, "in convincing my wife that she should not come, when she heard I was coming through Duluth, for she is as much in love with it as I am; but the fact that I was to take a long and tiresome trip to the Pacific coast caused her to abandon the trip this year.

"Mr. Hornine spoke of 'Southern hospitality,'" said Mr. Davis, "I want to say that we have to learn a good deal from Duluth hospitality, and we come here to get pointers.

"When I first started visiting Duluth, I wondered why Duluth is such a wonderful place, but as I have become better acquainted, I realize that it is because of the remarkable body of men she possesses. It is no wonder that Duluth is making headway with the business men she has, and when I see the thoroughness with which you deal with public questions and the matter of developing your city and your trade at meetings of this kind, it would cause me more wonder if you did not go ahead."

Prouder Than Ever of City.

W. A. McGonagle declared that he finds the same "go-ahead" spirit in the public affairs committee as of old, and declared further that with the new president of the club and the new chairman of the public affairs committee that Duluth will begin to build its superstructure on the fine foundations laid by their predecessors. Mr. McGonagle said that in the three months of traveling he has recently ended, he has never found anywhere anything to equal the Duluth spirit, and he returned prouder than ever of his home city.

"The iron and steel industry," said Mr. McGonagle, "had never so bright an outlook as now. This year bids fair to exceed even 1910, which was the banner year. And the iron and steel industry is the forerunner, at all times, of other development. The prospects for prosperity in the near future are brilliant. Even the Pacific coast feels it, for the stranded tramps out there signify nothing, the business men being the real voice of business. It is up to us to improve the situation, and in the general prosperity Duluth will reap her reward."

Faith in Duluth Grows.

President Cotton asserted in opening his address, that the belief in Duluth that caused him to come here many years ago has never faltered, but, rather, has grown stronger as the years passed. He spoke of his recent trip to Texas and of seeing the two strong and energetic cities of Houston and Galveston.

"When I saw what those cities have done with so little, when I saw the marvelous stamina of Galveston which overcame disaster and rebuilt on its ruins," said Mr. Cotton, "I thought of our own, strong, virile and great city, which has so much and which is to receive so much more. Steel is to be made here soon. It had to come in the very economy of things for the steel companies were shipping more waste than they were of value. The value of this development in Duluth will come from the specializing in things which will follow that steel making and which will give Duluth the population which she needs."

Mr. Cotton declared that 1915 will not be a great year anywhere, for in the very fact that a world-wide war is on is contained the impossibility.

America in Lead.

"I am told that France was just recovering from the Napoleonic wars, not the Franco-Prussian war," said Mr. Cotton. "If that is true, Europe will be set back fully fifty years by this war, and America, if she lays her course aright will be the dominant nation for the next fifty years. Duluth must play her part and she will get her proper share of the benefits.

"You can't stop Duluth. I have known for twenty years that what held her back was railroad discrimination, that the railroads were building up artificial centers at the expense of Duluth. Thanks to the work of your traffic commission and your newspapers, that day is passing, and Duluth will hereafter stand out as she should have done long ago, as the gateway of the great Northwest."

Charles A. Duncan, vice president of the public affairs committee, spoke briefly, in which he said that he is heartily in accord with the work the club is doing. He spoke of the work being done by the traffic commission and declared that not only is it being felt strongly in every line of business but that the traffic commission is opening the way for a great future for the city.

OLD AGE A CRIME!

Some people are young at 60—red checked, ruddy and vigorous. Others are old at 40—joints beginning to stiffen up a bit; step beginning to lag and lose its springiness; occasional touches of pain in the back; feel tired without cause, and possibly a twinge of rheumatic pain.

In most cases, these are the danger signals to warn you that the kidneys are not promptly doing their work of throwing off the poisons that are always forming in the body. To neglect these natural warnings is a crime against yourself. If you have these symptoms, you can find prompt relief in GOLD MEDAL, Haarlem Oil Capsules. For more than 200 years this has been the recognized remedy for kidney and bladder ailments.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories at Haarlem, Holland. Prices are 25c, 50c and $1.00. Get them at your druggists. Do not take a substitute.

"AMAZING BARGAINS"

Mysterious "Smugglers" Take Place of "Poor Old Captain Stephenson."

Duluthians Are Offered $4 to $6 Dress Patterns for $12.

Last week the story of poor old "Captain Stephenson" and the wreck of his steamer the "Sultana" off the banks of Newfoundland, was told in The Herald. The poor old mariner died in a good cause. The cargo of "his ship" was "saved" and resulted in some amazing "bargains" for Duluthians.

This week some kind, thoughtful "smugglers" are offering some more "amazing bargains" to the Duluth public, through house to house canvassers. Through the agency of these mysterious "smugglers" who have brought their goods through Uncle Sam's custom houses in some place not designated, Duluthians are permitted to purchase for $12 a dress pattern that can be bought in any Duluth drygoods store for from $4 to $6. In addition the purchaser is given a coupon which entitles him to make purchases from a big electric van which will call later, and offer more amazing bargains, such as $3 hose for sixty cents; priceless laces for a trifling sum, etc. But the van never calls.

Between "poor old Captain Stephenson" and the "smugglers" Duluthians may be able to lay in a year's supply of goods at but little more than twice what the goods would cost them purchased in the regular way.

BUSY SESSION FOR ROTARIANS.

Important Questions Coming Up at Thursday Noon Luncheon.

The Duluth Rotary club has a number of questions coming up for discussion at its noonday luncheon at the Holland hotel tomorrow noon. One of the most important of these is whether there shall be an industrial exposition this year.

The question of adjourning for a month or more during the summer is being considered. The membership committee has revised the classifications, and the club will take action on this report. Four delegates named to attend the national rotary convention, have announced that they will be unable to attend, and the question of selecting new delegates will be decided upon.

The club has changed its fiscal year to correspond with the club year, and bills now cover the fiscal year instead of the calendar year. Dues have not been raised.

WAGES AND "SALARIES"

Railroads May Pay Only Part of Employes Semi-Monthly.

May Claim That Clerks and Office Employes Get Salaries.

The semi-monthly pay day law, passed by the last state legislature, is likely to be fought by certain railways running into Duluth, and a bitter fight may ensue if the roads carry out the plans now being formulated, according to Senator Richard Jones, who was one of the warm supporters of the bill. In some instances he declares there will be an attempt to discriminate between the earners of "wages" and "salaries," and only shopmen will be considered as eligible for semi-monthly pay slips.

Again another road, having headquarters in Winnipeg, is said to be planning a fight because its offices are not within this state. Mr. Jones' belief is that the law is clear on this point, and that it will be impossible for the roads to dodge the measure.

"The semi-monthly pay day bill, which became a law on the first of this month, is the result of a legislative fight dating back about fifteen years," said Senator Jones today. "Organized labor as well as the unorganized railroad employes fought for the measure during all this time.

"The railroads and other public service corporations put up just as strenuous a fight in opposition to the measure as the labor interests put up in favor of it. Now that the bill has become a law, it is rumored that some of the railroads will pay their shopmen twice a month, while the office men and clerks will be paid monthly as before. It will be remembered that the law reads 'all public service corporations doing business within this state are required to pay their employes at least semi-monthly, the wages earned by them to within fifteen days of the date of such payment.' Some of the railroads will take the stand that clerks and office employes are not paid 'wages.'

Supreme Court Ruling.

"In construing the exemption laws the supreme court of Minnesota has held that persons working for wages are not limited to toilsome and unskilled laborers merely, to which the term laborer is more strictly applicable. The Minnesota court has stated that the word 'laborer' as used in connection with 'wages' should be applied to employe other than workmen engaged in manual labor. Considering the stand taken by the court, I cannot see the fairness in the position of certain public service corporations in their attempts to evade the clear provisions of the law and on such a flimsy pretext.

"One railroad running into Duluth, it is said, will refuse to pay its employes semi-monthly on the ground that the payroll is made up in Winnipeg. This, of course, is a disappointment to the employes of this company who expected that beginning July 1 they would receive their wages twice a month.

"This company must qualify under the laws of Minnesota before it can do business in this state. The new law includes 'all public service corporations doing business within this state' and it is difficult to see why this particular railroad should take the stand it does."

POLITICIANS ATTACKED

Mann and Underwood Assailed for Stand on National Prohibition.

Campaign Begun to Push the Movement for Constitutional Amendment.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—In a review of the work of the National Anti-Saloon league before the annual convention of the organization here last night, Dr. P. A. Baker, national superintendent, attacked Representatives Mann and Underwood for the stand they took during the debate on national prohibition at the last session of congress.

He charged that Mr. Underwood had made "a strained effort to deceive by misrepresentation and to furnish material for the liquor propaganda," and said the "liquor traffickers are now circulating his speech by the million copies."

Of the minority house leader, Dr. Baker said:

"Mr. Mann, the alleged author of the law against the white slave traffic, and Mr. Mann, the sponsor for the liquor traffic, become the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of the United States congress. * * * The liquor interests are already trying to reimburse Mr. Mann for his activity in their behalf by backing his candidacy for the presidency."

Would Avoid Issue.

Dr. Baker began by referring to what he termed the effort on the part of politicans to keep the liquor question from becoming an issue at the next presidential election and said:

"Their reason is that if this question once gets into the campaign it will absorb everything and nothing else will receive consideration. This is but confessing that this issue is paramount in the thought of the people.

"The way, however, to keep this question from being an issue and the all-absorbing issue in the next congressional and presidential campaign is for the political leaders of both parties to get busy and see to it that the question is submitted to the people by the next congress before the political conventions are called. This is an easy, practical method of keeping it out of party conventions, and a method that will find favor with all public men who are not unduly influenced by the drink traffic. We are not asking any political party or candidate to declare for national prohibition. We do ask that the question be referred to the states for their approval or disapproval.

Cannot Stop It.

"To deny it on the ground that it is a question for the states to settle locally is to assign it to a position of less importance than is now accorded to the cattle-tick, the boll weevil, tainted meat, or the hook worm.

"A movement which for a hundred years has rooted itself in the heart of the church and the conscience of the people, and which received a clear majority of eight, exclusive of pairs, the first time it got a hearing in the open forum of congress, does not lie down and die at the behest of its enemies. To all such we wish to say you had as well try to stop the mouth of Vesuvius with a wisp of straw, or turn back Niagara with a child's hand, as to stay the progress of this mighty movement.

"The Fall of Mann."

"It is not a pleasant task to single out public officials and discredit them in the public mind; but when men called to high positions of honor and trust, as Mr. Mann and Mr. Underwood have been called by the people, step down from their lofty positions to become the specific guardians and protectors of the liquor interests against the people, they forfeit all right to the favorable consideration of a decent, self-respecting, home-loving public. Mr. Mann, the alleged author of the law against the white slave traffic, and Mr. Mann, the sponsor for the liquor traffic, become the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of the United States congress.

"There was great fitness in the theme used by Dr. Boynton, who lives in Mr. Mann's district, when he preached on the following Sunday night upon 'The Fall of Mann' and uttered that keen sentence that ought to live, that 'no presidential bee can live in alcohol.' The liquor interests are already trying to reimburse Mr. Mann for his activity in their behalf by backing his candidacy for the presidency."

In speaking of the general situation, Dr. Baker said: "The past eighteen months has broken the record for prohibition progress, not only in the United States but throughout the world. * * * If Russia can abolish $500,000,000 per annum in revenue from drink while engaged in the most expensive war in history and yet declare the surpassing prosperity of her people, it would seem that the United States, which claims to be civilized and Christian, could safely abolish less than half that amount in time of peace."

Funds to Be Raised.

It was planned to appoint a committee of 100 men prominent in business and manufacturing for the purpose of raising funds and to otherwise further the movement for the adoption of the Hobson-Sheppard amendment to the Constitution.

Thirty-five states, it was announced, were represented at the luncheon, where this action was taken. Among those who spoke were Former Governor Foss of Massachusetts, and Governor Carlson of Colorado.

The national board of directors of the league held sessions behind closed doors, reviewed the work of the last two years and disposed of routine matters in connection with the administrative workings of the organization. Bishop Luther B. Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal church was re-elected president; N. A. Palmer of Louisville, Ky., succeeded Rev. A. C. Bane of Westerville, Ohio, as chairman of the national board of directors.

New Office Created.

Wayne B. Wheeler, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, was elected general attorney of the Anti-Saloon League of America, with headquarters in Washington. This is a new office. The board arranged for a national conference in Calvary Baptist church, Washington, next Saturday at which campaign plans will be discussed for prohibition.

TURNING TO REAL ESTATE

Delegates to National Convention Looked for Activity in Investment.

Plenty of Idle Money With Prospect of Big Crops.

Optimism was the keynote at the recent annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, held at Los Angeles, Cal., according to N. J. Upham, who was one of the three Duluth delegates at the gathering. The others were A. H. Brown and Eby G. Gridley.

Nearly 700 delegates were registered at the convention headquarters, of whom 470 were from Eastern points, said Mr. Upham. The Los Angeles realty men spared no expense in entertaining their visitors, many new and delightful ideas being introduced. One of the features was a huge garden party known as the "Festa extraordinary," given at Chester Place, the grounds of a wealthy oil man. The length to which he went may be gathered by his action in paying $100,000 for the adjoining property, razing the buildings upon it and then arranging the land to conform with the general plan of his grounds for the occasion. Another feature was the waxing of two whole city blocks for dancing. At the street intersections, raised platforms were placed and upon them exhibitions of dancing were given by professionals.

On Verge of Activity.

"The general feeling among the delegates at the convention was that the country is on the verge of an active era in the real estate business," averred Mr. Upham. "It was conceded that there is a large amount of money now available for investment, and with the promise of good crops in all sections of the country, confidence is growing. It was reported, that while the market is quiet in the Pacific coast cities, fair activity is being shown at many Eastern and Middle West points. At Omaha, Neb., the list of transfers for the first six months of the year was reported to have set a new high record. Detroit realty is said to be active, and the Kansas City and Columbus, Ohio, markets are good.

"Many interesting topics were discussed at the convention, including city platting, sub-divisions and rentals, and in the discussions, the delegates from Minnesota took an active part. The idea of a valuation board composed of real estate experts, such as has been introduced at Duluth, met with favor. It was reported that in many cities where they have been appointed, these boards have been found of great service in making valuations both for corporations and private individuals."

Associates Increase Capital.

Favorable reports were presented at the annual meeting of the National Realty Associates held at Los Angeles during convention week, and as an outcome it was decided to increase the capital stock of the organization to the extent of $400,000, bringing it up to $500,000. The associates are at present working out a platting proposition at Omaha, Neb., and two deals on business properties in Kansas City have been recently taken on. Their first investment was in Waverly Park here last summer, a good profit being netted from it after a holding of only a few weeks.

Crops Look Well.

Mr. Upham said that in so far as his information and observation went, the crops are looking magnificent through the Middle West, South Dakota and Southern Minnesota. Wheat has been cut south and west of Omaha and large yields obtained. As a general proposition, wheat has not sustained any serious damage through rains, but the corn crop development has been retarded. With warm weather during the next two months, it is thought, however, that the damage may be largely repaired.

Mexican Raiders Get Away.

Brownsville, Tex., July 7.—Despite efforts of a posse of thirty-five North Cameron county citizens, six state rangers and half a dozen county officers to corner a gang of twenty-five Mexican raiders near the coast, forty miles north of Brownsville, the raiders made good their escape and were believed to be headed for the Rio Grande, according to reports here. The Mexicans drove before them a number of cattle and horses.

"Coffee Face"

—ever see one?

There are many with the tell-tale signs of indigestion, heart, liver or nerve troubles who don't suspect that coffee is a frequent cause of these and other ills.

ALLIES' NAVY GREAT HELP

Gen. Hamilton Has High Praise for Its Work in Dardanelles.

Risked Everything to Give Soldiers Fair Run at Enemy.

London, July 7.—"Throughout the events I have chronicled, the royal navy has been father and mother to the army. Not one of us but realizes how much he owes to Vice Admiral de Robeck; to the warships, French and British; to the destroyers, mine sweepers and picket boats and to all their dauntless crews, who took no thought of themselves, but risked everything to give their soldier-comrades a fair run in at the enemy."

Thus Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, commander of the allied troops at the Dardanelles, pays tribute to the navy at the end of his first full report describing the days of the landing on the Gallipoli peninsula.

The commander-in-chief's dispatch to the war office is of great length, but most of the events had already been chronicled in other official dispatches from him. Having reached the conclusion after witnessing the "stupendous" battle between the warships and the land fortresses that it would require the whole of his strength to enable the fleet effectively to force the Dardanelles, Gen. Hamilton prepared to fling all his troops rapidly ashore, in the full knowledge that an attempt to land on such a well-defined shore involved difficulties for which there is no precedent in military history, "except possibly in the sinister legends of Xerxes."

Sometimes Half Were Killed.

Gen. Hamilton admits it was touch and go many times before the invaders established a footing. In several instances half of the landing parties were killed or wounded before they could reach even the slight shelter afforded by the sandy bank of the upper part of the beaches. A great majority of the senior officers were either killed or wounded. The Turks had turned the landing places into death traps. There were wire entanglements the whole length of the shore, with a supplementary barbed wire network concealed beneath the surface of the sea. Land mines and sea mines were everywhere and machine guns, cunningly tucked away in holes in the cliffs were able to convert their fire on the wire entanglements.

"So strong were the defenses," says the general, "that the Turks may well have considered them impregnable and it is my firm conviction that no finer feat of arms has ever been achieved by the British soldier or any other soldier than the storming of those trenches from open boats on the morning of April 25."

Gen. Hamilton speaks of long lines of men being "mowed down as by a scythe." Of the endless chains of wire entanglements, he writes:

Wirecutters Out.

"Again the heroic wirecutters came out. Through the glasses they could be seen quietly clipping away under the hot fire as if they were pruning a vineyard."

Of the Australians he says:

"Like lightning they leaped ashore and each man that did so went straight with his bayonet at the enemy. So vigorous was the onslaught that the Turks made no attempt to withstand it and fled from ridge to ridge, pursued by the Australian infantry."

A shortage of ammunition prevented the allies from gaining the hoped for footing on Achi Baba. "Had it been possible," says Gen. Hamilton, "to push in reinforcements of men, artillery and munitions, Krithia should have fallen, and much subsequent fighting for its capture would have been avoided."

Gen. Hamilton pays high tribute to the French forces, who lost heavily. He reports the British losses during the period between April 25 and May 5, as 177 officers and 1,930 men killed, 412 officers and 7,897 men wounded; 13 officers and 3,850 men missing.

AD MEN REVIEW CONVENTION TALKS

Discontinue Meetings for Summer; Favor Park at Pike Lake.

Impressions of the Chicago national convention of the Association Advertising Clubs of the World were given last evening at a meeting of the Duluth Advertising club by Charles H. Mackintosh, who attended the convention last month. Mr. Mackintosh was chosen chairman of the house organ department of the national association.

Meetings of the local club will be discontinued during the summer months. It was decided to hold the next meeting the second week in September.

The Ad club voted its unanimous support to the proposition of establishing a park at Pike Lake. The meeting was held at the Commercial club.

EXCHANGE BUREAU FOR AID OF FARMERS

County Agent Will Promote Purchase and Sale of Farm Machinery.

Plans for the establishment of an exchange bureau in the office of the county agricultural agent to serve the farmers of the county in the purchase and sale of farm implements, were formulated yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Federation of Farmers' clubs at the courthouse.

If a member of a farmers' club has machinery to sell, under the proposed plan he will notify the agricultural agent and the machinery will be listed for sale. In turn, a farmer may see the list and make purchases from it. A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of agricultural agents, declared that the plan would be carried out.

A special committee reported that Mayor Prince had made arrangements for increased market space at the Armory this season.

Delegates attended the meeting from the Jackson, Garfield, Home Products, Arnold and Lakewood Farmers' clubs. O. J. Larson presided.

CAPT. FISKETT GETS SALARY BOOST

Granted Raise of $360 a Year for Long Efficient Service.

At the regular council meeting last evening, Capt. A. G. Fiskett was granted an increase of $360 a year in his salary.

From Aug. 1, according to the resolution adopted by a unanimous vote, the police captain will receive $1,800 a year, instead of $1,440, his present salary.

In introducing the resolution authorizing the raise, Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, said that he took great pleasure in recommending the salary boost, because of the officer's long and efficient service in the department.

Capt. Fiskett was appointed patrolman on Oct. 27, 1893, and has served the police department ever since. He was promoted to sergeant on June 1, 1904, to lieutenant on Sept. 1, 1906, and to the captaincy on Nov. 1, 1907.

Linnaea Club Meets With Mrs. Carlson

The Linnaea club, that decided to hold its summer meetings at the homes of members instead of in Foresters' hall, met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. William Carlson of 6005 London road. Mrs. Harold Fegraeus and Mrs. O. Olson assisted the hostess. Following the business session at which relief work was considered there was a social hour.

The living room was decorated with honeysuckle, the reception hall with buttercups and the dining room with snowballs and spirea. Kodak pictures of the sixty members were taken on the lawn.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. P. C. Smith, 625 North Central avenue. Mrs. P. A. Sjoselius and Mrs. D. A. Cone will be the assisting hostesses.

Publicity Committee Will Meet Thursday

The publicity committee of the local board of arrangements for the convention of the Federated clubs of the state will be held tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the library clubroom.

Barclay-Blair Wedding Held in Menominee

The wedding of Miss Gladys Barclay of Menominee, Mich., and Coy Sheldon Blair of Duluth, took place Last Wednesday at Menominee. The bride formerly was a teacher in the Virginia schools, and the bridegroom was athletic coach in that town. Mr. and Mrs. Blair will make their home in Duluth, where Mr. Blair now represents a bonding company.

The following account of the wedding is taken from the Menominee Herald-Leader:

"A wedding of note among the social circles in the city was that of Miss Gladys Barclay, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Barclay, and C. Sheldon Blair of Duluth, Minn., which was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert A. Law on Grand avenue. The Rev. F. A. Kuder, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of sixty relatives and intimate friends of the bride.

"An orchestra played the 'Lohengrin' wedding march for the processional. In the lead came the little ribbon girls, Jean Margaret and Elizabeth Cox gowned in white lacy dresses. They were followed by the Rev. F. A. Kuder. The ribbon girls in descending the stairs stretched ribbons as far as the front living room. Master Bobby Law, Jr., was next in the procession as the ring-bearer. The bridegroom and best man, Harry Roudebush of Duluth, followed. Miss Muriel Vennema, maid of honor, descended the stairs, followed by the bride.

"The bridal party stood before an improvised altar of ferns, palms and white peonies in the front parlor. The bride was gowned in ivory satin made en traine. She wore a tulle veil made into cap effect, with two points on either side. The dress was made empire effect. She carried a shower bouquet of Bride roses and lilies of the valley.

"Miss Vennema's dress was fashioned of white crepe meteor made empire style with trimmings of green velvet ribbon. She carried a large bouquet of pink peonies.

"The newly-wedded couple left on the evening train for Minneapolis and after Sept. 1 will be at home in Duluth. The bride wore a traveling suit of black taffeta trimmed with white silk. She wore a hat to correspond.

"The bride was born and reared in Menominee. After completing a course of study at the local high school she attended the Stout institute at Menomonie, Wis., where she pursued a course in domestic science."

Anderson-Pearson Wedding.

Miss Signe E. Anderson and Edwin C. Pearson were married last night at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. J. A. McGaughey at the rectory of the Second Presbyterian church. Miss L. E. Beckman and George Pearson, brother of the bridegroom, were the attendants. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson will make their home with the bride's parents in the East end.

Mrs. Charles H. Munger entertained at luncheon today at her home, 2330 East First street, in compliment to Mrs. Henry Marshall of Swarthmore, Pa., who is the guest of Mrs. A. M. Marshall of 2605 Greysolon road.

Women Study Salesmanship at Simmon's College

Springfield Republican: Suggestive of the increasing interest among college women in business opportunities is the introduction this year of a summer course in salesmanship and department store work at Simmons college at Boston. The course, which covers six weeks, from July 6 to Aug. 14, is informational in character and intended primarily to serve as a general background for the one-year normal course for teachers of salesmanship given by the women's educational and industrial union in co-operation with the college. The summer course in no way attempts to train teachers of salesmanship; its aim is to acquaint students with the subject matter of department store work. It may, however, count as credit for part of the regular course in salesmanship. The demand for trained women in the field of salesmanship is so pressing that many of the students are called to accept positions before they have finished the year's work. A large number of the requests from stores and business firms come in midwinter, and this is largely to meet this situation that the summer course has been established.

Work comprises the study of such subjects as store organization, store system, store principles, progress of merchandise and selling methods. The list of special lectures by experts includes the following topics: the relation of the customer to the department store, the human side of department store business, the history of training for department store work and co-operation of store and school to meet the educational needs of young workers.

In addition to the class-room exercises there will be considerable laboratory work, consisting of observation, investigation and actual store practice. Several of the large department stores in Boston are to be used as laboratories, and arrangements have been made by which students taking this course are to be allowed to do a limited amount of selling in these stores during the summer session. Other forms of practice are service shopping, reports of sales observed, analyses of window displays and comparisons of store-service features.

Princess Active in New York Society

PRINCESS PAUL TROUBETSKOY.

The Prince and Princess Paul Troubetskoy have been spending the season in New York, where they have taken an active part in social life. The prince is a sculptor and has had many commissions from society people since he came to New York. He is related to the Prince Troubetskoy who married the one-time Amelie Rives.

Mid-Summer Fashion Hints

Rose color is a favorite in all kinds of fabrics. There are rose taffeta jackets in Eton style or coming below the waist; rose linen frocks, rose sweaters, rose net, chiffon gowns with rose taffeta hems, and roses themselves used for hat trimmings. Some hats are trimmed with wreaths of roses, others have crowns made of the flowers, and still other hats have single roses on them, single in the sense of being unattached or detached, though wild roses are popular as well as the cultivated double ones.

One of the advantages of this rose color craze is the great latitude in shades, for anything from palest pink to American beauty is stylish.

A nineteenth century fashion that has been revived is the facing of ruffles with contrasting colors. This adds to the bouffant lines so much desired. Flowered organdies over colored silk have returned to favor. It is not necessary to have the slip match the color of the flowers; for instance, a lavender flowered organdie is mounted over pale pink, rose flowered material is mounted over lilac, and so on. Black sashes are effective with such costumes.

Lacings appear in some of the new frocks and blouses. Sleeves are sometimes laced from the elbow to the wrist ,sometimes from the shoulder to the elbow. Lacings appear down the front of blouse or at the collar. The lacing generally contracts with the color of the gown.

Freund Will Lecture Here

Famous Figure in Musical World of America Refuses to Accept Pay for Four Talks in Minnesota.

John C. Freund of New York, the editor of Musical America, will give four free lectures in Minnesota in October. He will speak in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and Winona.

The lecture Mr. Freund gives, and for which he will not allow admission to be charged, is not academic. In his words "It is just a human interest story, full of anecdote, of the rise and progress of musical knowledge and culture and of the musical industries in this country. It has been listened to by 1,200 high school girls and boys and by an audience of college professors. It aims to appeal to all, the busy business man, the woman of culture, the school teacher, the college lad, the physician, the lawyer, the young girl with aspirations, the tired mother with sacrificed ideals."

"The people who hear me may not agree with me," he said before he gave his talk at Albert Lea last month on the occasion of the convention of the Minnesota Music Teachers' association, "but I promise they won't be bored, and they certainly won't go to sleep while I am talking.

"Music purely as an art does not interest me," he said to a reporter for the Albert Lea Tribune. "It is its human side which appeals to me, and above all its spiritual message, for it is the one universal language."

Dangers of Europe.

Several years ago Mr. Freund raised a storm of protest in Europe by saying many disasters befall American girls who, without sufficient money, talent or knowledge of foreign languages, rush to Europe because of the craze for something foreign in musical training. European musicians and others who made money off students from America held indignation meetings but Mr. Freund stood for the propaganda, "America for Americans," and it became a national issue, musically.

Two years ago, Mr. Freund proved this country spends more for music in all its forms and on musical industries than all the other countries put together. This led to calls from musical organizations and civic bodies for him to tell the story. Since that time, although he is almost 70 years old, he has given nearly 100 addresses in more than forty cities from New York to Albert Lea and from Detroit to New Orleans. He made his first trip to Minnesota to attend the convention at Albert Lea.

Mr. Freund was born in London of German parentage. He was educated at Oxford and the University of London. When he came to America in 1872 he had won fame as a writer and playwright. The next year he published New York's first musical paper in English.

How to Make Summer Fudge

In the July Woman's Home Companion, Cora Farmer Perkins, cookery editor of that publication, devotes a page to hot weather menus. She tells as follows how to make uncooked summer fudge:

"Cut one-half pound dipping chocolate in pieces, set saucepan in larger saucepan of boiling water, and let stand until melted. Beat two eggs until thick and add one cupful of powdered sugar gradually, while beating constantly. Add to melted chocolate, and when well blended add one teaspoonful vanilla, a few grains salt, two-thirds cupful of English walnut meats, broken in pieces, and one-third cupful glaced cherries cut in pieces. Turn into a buttered pan, and let stand to set. Cut in cubes."

Mr. and Mrs. Perl Return From Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Allen Perl, who returned Saturday from their wedding trip to the Pacific coast, left today for Chicago. Mr. Perl will go to Honduras for four months, but as the mine which he is developing is in an almost inaccessible part of the country, Mrs. Perl will return to Duluth to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Anneke of 1801 East Second street.

The wedding of Miss Anneke to Mr. Perl took place May 17 at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Oscar Sanne at Glenellyn, Ill. The wedding trip of almost two months included a visit in San Francisco and other western cities, and to Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies.

E. church, will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson, 4218 East Superior street.

Home Conveniences

Prepared for The Herald by Luella M. Scovill, Home Economics Department of the University of Wisconsin

A home convenience should save steps, save strength, or save time.

Many steps and much time and energy may be saved by having the work table and sink of the proper height and properly located. Provide a high stool on which to sit when working at the table or sink so that it will not be necessary to stand while preparing vegetables and other foods. Wood tables, covered with enameled iron or a composition top, will be more sanitary and easier to keep clean. These will serve the purpose of molding boards.

Many steps are saved by having shelves and hooks over the kitchen table, and drawers and a flour bin in the work table. Many utensils, as well as sugar, spices, flour, and other materials can then be kept within reach when one is working at this table. The stove should be near both table and sink. Have some of the drawers tin lined and covered for holding bread and crackers. It will then be unnecessary to carry bread to the cellar and put in a boiler after each meal. For one working in a large farm kitchen, a table or tray on rollers will save many steps in getting utensils or food from one part to another, and getting food and dishes to and from the dining room.

There are numerous small devices which make the household cleaning easier. A mop wringer which fastens to the mop pail saves time and strain; the dust pan with a handle saves stooping; the dustless duster prevents scattering of dust from one piece of furniture to another; the dustless mop lightens the daily care of a floor; a soap dish hung on the side of a pail when cleaning saves the soap by not having it soften in the water and prevents the soap being laid where it might cause a white spot on furniture or floor. A Canton flannel bag, which ties with a string over the broom, is convenient for wiping off walls and ceilings.

The greatest aid in keeping the house clean is the vacuum cleaner. It may be used on the rugs, mattresses, and upholstered furniture, or it will take up dust from the bare floor.

While good arrangement and the many small devices are necessary to make for convenience in the laundry, the greatest saving of strength comes from the use of power machinery. If power, such as water, gasoline engine, or electricity, can be used, the hardest task in the household is made easy. An open floor drain connecting with a sewer pipe will carry off waste water from tubs and washer.

A paper pad and a pencil should hang in the kitchen on which to write when any supplies need ordering.

The fireless cooker will save fuel and hours of watching food. It is especially useful when the housewife is obliged to be away from home a part of the day.

An expenditure to secure any device which conserves the time, energy, and thought of the house worker is not only economic, but is a just recognition of the value to the home of the happy, rested woman who then can live with the family as well as for it.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Remember the Poor Tots.

Did you ever take a journey down into the poorer districts of a city on a sweltering hot day or night and see how the other half spend the miserable, stifling hours in the filthy environs of their homes?

I do not know why it is, but it would appear that the streets in the poorer sections occupied by the poverty-stricken and ignorant are the most sadly neglected. I have seldom seen them when they looked as if they had attention of the slightest description for several weeks. And yet these are the thoroughfares that need the most scrupulous care for the sake of the health of those that dwell there.

Have you ever taken notice of the babies and children who throng the doorways and gutters and of the big mothers and the "little mothers" who sit by them in dull apathy and misery, realizing that something should be done for the sick infants and toddlers, and yet not knowing what to do or how to secure the aid that is needed?

You, who can go away from the hot city and find refreshment of mind and body in the mountains and at the seashore, do not realize how trifling a sum of money will provide the breath of fresh air that may save the life of a "little mother" and her charge. Do you ever stop to consider that the amount that you dissipate in candy alone in the course of a week would give an emaciated city waif quite a few days of the most heavenly comfort and restore physical vigor to a degree never possessed before? Perhaps such an outing would have the effect of changing some boy from bad to good. This contributing to the innocent and the helpless is something that should surely appeal to all. A 25-cent piece will go a long way toward making a baby and its mother comfortable for an entire day, and its bestowal is within the means of thousands of people who never give the matter a moment's thought. These people, however, would be glad to give double the sum if the great need of it, and the great good that would result from their contributing, was brought to their attention.

How many little folks do you feel like helping? Won't you lighten and brighten the prospects for the summer of just one? If you do not believe in charitable associations, you can give yourself for a day and take a baby and its older sister into the wonderful country. It will be a revelation to you.

DREADNAUGHTS OR SUBMARINES?

Word comes from Washington that the government is still undecided on the naval program that will be presented to congress in December; and well it may be.

Ordinarily, the custom is to ask congress to provide for a few more dreadnaughts, with perhaps a few fast cruisers on the side, and congress, after wrangling most of the winter, cuts down the program and grants part of the request.

But what of the dreadnaughts today?

In Europe, apparently, every dreadnaught owned by the belligerent countries is stowed away, safe and useless, in some tight port.

What keeps these monsters—formidable once, absurdly impotent now—out of commission is the submarine.

A submarine costs about one-thirtieth the price of a modern superdreadnaught. It is so tiny that you can stow it away almost anywhere around the dreadnaught, and never realize it is there. Indeed, the whole thirty could be comfortably carried by the big fellow without feeling it.

Yet that tiny instrument of war, so small, so inconspicuous, seems to have put the dreadnaught out of business.

No wonder the government is undecided about its naval program.

Unquestionably, despite the very bad service some of the militarists have been doing their own cause, the country when congress meets will be in a frame of mind that will encourage greater efforts for defense. This country does not want war, and will avoid war by all honorable means; but there is no sense in keeping it in a position where it could be easily assailed.

Purely for defense, and not at all for offense, doubtless the country will sanction a reasonable increase in armament.

Judging from what has been going on in Europe, what better defense can be imagined than submarines enough to cover the exposed coasts and mines enough to pepper exposed harbors?

This is a question which will largely be disposed of by experts, and we do not profess to be expert in it. But if the responsibility were ours, we are quite certain that we'd go out of the dreadnaught business and build swarms of submarines—enough to girdle the coast with a line of peril that would keep every navy in the world stowed away somewhere on the far side of the oceans.

The idea of putting fifteen millions into a dreadnaught, when it would buy about thirty handy little submarines, each capable of sinking a dozen dreadnaughts, doesn't look like good business.

Col. Bryan's latest pronouncement makes it still more difficult to understand his resignation in terms not applicable to those cabalistic figures "1916."

THE VOTING PROBLEM IN THE SOUTH.

The decision of the supreme court of the United States destroying forever the unjust "grandfather clauses" intended to prevent negroes from voting is received, manifestly, with mingled emotions in the South.

Some of the newspapers accept it with creditable grace. Others handle it in a gingerly manner, sparring for time while they find out what they and their neighbors really think about it and really dare to say about it. Others—a minority, apparently—wax indignant about it.

The Observer of Charlotte, North Carolina, heaves a sigh of regret:

> That the constitutional amendments have been a blessing will be denied by few. They eliminated the negro from politics, abolished racial feeling and left him free to devote himself to his industrial advancement. The amendments have been a stimulus to education, because colored youths became ambitious to learn and illiterate white people were spurred by this rivalry to greater efforts. With the multiplicity of schools and the great increase in facilities for disseminating knowledge, the excuse of illiteracy in white or black is fast approaching the vanishing point.

Now this very lamentation unintentionally points the way out for the South, an honorable way that will accomplish all that ought to be accomplished. The Fifteenth amendment is very plain. The franchise provisions of the Southern states were, as the supreme court has said, very plain violations of that amendment. The country is pleased that meaning has been put into this amendment, and there isn't the slightest possibility that the South will ever be able to change it or again to evade it.

The supreme court didn't say that the Southern states cannot impose a literacy test upon their voters. That would indeed be a distressingly bad holding. It did say that the Southern states cannot impose a literacy test that shuts out illiterate black voters and lets in illiterate white voters.

The Observer says that the grandfather clause has stimulated education because it made the negro ambitious for learning, and that the negro's advancement in learning has stimulated ignorant whites to learn also.

A much more direct impetus to educational ambition will be provided if the Southern states impose a general literacy test, as a few states have done already. Then the illiterate negro cannot vote, nor should he vote. True, the illiterate white will be barred also; but there is just as much reason for barring the illiterate white as there is for barring the illiterate black. Voters barred for illiteracy, then, will seek learning; at least they will want their children educated so that they, too, will not be denied the fruit of citizenship.

The vote cast by the illiterate, whether he is white or black, is not and cannot be an asset. No harm will be done if all the states, north and south, restrict the suffrage by requiring voters to be able to read and write—to read and write some language, even if English is not specifically required.

Of course there is always the privilege, if you feel it beneath your dignity to be an American, of becoming either an Englishman, a German or even a Mexican.

THAT PIKE LAKE PARK.

The county commissioners are out at Pike Lake today looking into the proposed farmers' park at the western end of the lake.

We shall hope that the result of this trip will be that the county board will unanimously agree to provide this park. If the land where it is proposed to locate the park can be bought at a reasonable figure, well and good. If it can't be, then some other land at that end of the lake ought to be secured. There isn't a better place for a park in the county than at that end of the lake, with its gently sloping bottom of hard sand, admirably adapted to bathing for everybody from little tots up.

And the country park idea—that appeals. And now is the time to do it, before the country gets settled up and tilled so that land values are too high.

It is a novelty for a county to have a park, but that makes it all the more interesting to have our county establish the precedent. As a center for rural sociability and an outing place for the rural community, the country park idea is admirable, and it is to be hoped that it will be carried out at Pike Lake.

It will be a splendid thing, therefore, if the county board not only approves the plan, but finds a way to work it out. It will be a fine public service.

And to think that in just five years we'll have another Sunday Fourth-of-July.

DOWN WITH THE SILO!

It is very obvious that our prohibition friends, who seek to cancel human appetites by the magic of enacting a law, will need to follow up their laws prohibiting the sale of liquor with measures still more drastic.

A recent magazine article told how, with a jug of molasses, a rubber tube and a bit of fire, it is easy for anybody to make a highly intoxicating liquor very cheaply.

In the lumber camps, they say, cook sometimes puts apple parings, potatoes and other succulent vegetable leavings into a huge pot until they ferment and result in a fiery liquor that will make men very satisfactorily drunk.

And now, it is asserted, a farmer with a silo and a thirst can go out and tap the liquor pressed out of the corn stalks and produce a hilarious intoxication within himself.

The Sheldon, North Dakota, Progress tells this story:

> That a new intoxicant, which fully equals as an inebriant anything that is being dispensed by the numerous saloons which are going out of existence in Moorhead, and at the same time fails to come within the scope of the law, has been discovered, is declared by workmen who have seen a number of genuine "jags" produced by imbibing the stuff.
>
> The new beverage is nothing less than "silo juice." It is a fluid which accumulates in the bottom of an ordinary silo during the winter months, and which becomes accessible when the last of the ensilage is removed in the spring. The silos which were filled with corn are said to afford a generous supply of the liquid, a small quantity of which is sufficient to cause a hilarious state of intoxication.
> The "silo juice" is a colorless liquid which contains a high percentage of alcohol. It is said to be almost as sweet as corn syrup, and tipplers who have resorted to it declare it is highly palatable. The percentage of alcohol is so high, however, that it puts whisky to shame as an inebriant. Those who have found in the silo solacing relief for their county option woes are said to have put up numberless jugs of the stuff in the hope that it will remain palatable until the refilling of the silos with corn and the passing of another winter will afford a fresh supply.

If this story is true, manifestly the passing of prohibitory laws in agricultural districts will have to be followed by other laws looking upon the silo as an illicit still and treating it accordingly.

It occasionally happens that the presence of an automobile in a nearby garage changes an ordinary flat-building into an apartment house.

Whirlwind, the Drummer.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: They were talking about a promising young man who had failed to make good as a traveling salesman.

The first man said to the other man:

"It was queer about the boy. He seemed to be a regular whirlwind. His first trip was a rattling success, but all he brought back from his second trip was a bunch of foolish excuses."

"What was it you called him—a whirlwind?"

"Yes."

"I see. All 'whirl' at the beginning, and all 'wind' at the finish."

Those Queens Again.

She—Did I dance well?

The "Adjourned Session"

Editorial in the Minneapolis Farm, Stock and Home.

A large party, including Governor Hammond and members of both houses of the legislature, has recently been visiting Northern Minnesota. The importance of such a trip, undertaken for the purpose of better acquaintance with the legislative problems arising from the opening up of one-half the entire state, can scarcely be overestimated.

Legislation dealing with the state lands, timber, water powers, roads, schools and community life in general cannot be either fitting or adequate unless based upon such personal observation. The general lack of such information accounts for the failure, during the past three legislative sessions, to pass such measures as the public domain bills of 1909 and 1913 and the efficiency bill of 1915.

Out of this trip has already come many valuable suggestions. The one calling for a five years' suspension of payments on state lands, provided improvements to the value of the payments are made, deserves careful thought.

The one for the clearing of lands out of state funds is not new. Farm, Stock and Home has advocated it for five years. Charles P. Craig brought it forward in 1910. L. B. Arnold was demonstrating the value of the idea prior to that time.

The further idea of a state development congress, with a muffler on the "hot air," is both excellent and timely. The end of the European war, while it is not fixed, cannot be so far away that steps taken now to organize our resources for the forward movement that the resumption of immigration and the taking up anew of the world's business will not pay, both socially and materially.

Such a congress can perform an inestimable service for the state if it convenes with serious purpose. Minnesota needs a constructive state policy. The shyster reformers have held the political stage all too long. The vast and varied business interests of the state, weary of political drivelings, have stood apart from participation in the political thought of the times and from co-operation with each other.

The gigantic problems of the development of our resources have been subordinated to the selfish interests of narrow-visioned and self-centered demagogues. The one large legislative achievement of the past half decade—the county option law—removes any pretext against taking up, boldly and sanely, all the problems that resolve about our state-owned and privately-owned idle acres.

This is a time of going forward such as the present generation has not seen. Let us get together for sober deliberate council, that out of our better knowledge of each other we may so align and direct our forces as to build, more swiftly and surely than ever before, a great state, full of opportunity, and rich in contentment.

Boosting Suggestions

Winchendon, Mass., Courier: Don't be the man that put sit in city.

Building good houses builds a good town.

Save a little money and save a lot of worry.

Good roads lead not only to town, but to money.

Be a live one and the town will never be a dead one.

Why should the town muzzle the dogs and not knockers?

When someone plans to help the town, plan to help the plan.

The best plans a man can have for the future are house plans.

A good way to make the world better is to begin with the home town.

A town is like a perambulator; it is'nt much good unless it is pushed.

Don't spend all your time telling what you could do if you had some time.

Be like a ball player. The thing he is always working for is home.

Don't be a grouch. Everybody in this town wishes you well, even the doctor.

Let's not be trying to stop some thing all of the time. Let's start something.

A town is like a girl. It's wonderful what a little fixing up will do for her.

The world owes every man a living, but the street corner is a poor collection agency.

Don't look for soft snaps; the hard snaps are the ones that have the ginger in them.

It improves the soup to throw a little pepper into it. Same way with a town.

If you spend all you earn, some other fellow is banking your money.

If you would like to have somebody working for you, put a little money in the bank.

You've got to be a citizen in order to vote; but you've got to do a good deal more than vote to be a citizen.

If you will consider the men in this town who are well off you will find that most of them made their money here.

There is only one better man than the man who gets behind and pushes, in an effort to improve the town, and that's the one who goes ahead and pulls.

Some Prophecies of Statesmen.

Kansas City Star: After the war there will be a rush of immigration to the United States.

The war will stop immigration.

The bottom will drop out of business when the war ends.

Industry and commerce will boom as never before when the nations get down to the work of remaking things that have been destroyed.

Europe will be too poor to buy anything from us for many years.

America will sell to Europe all the surplus it can spare for many years, as Europe will need everything.

After this war Europe will be so sick of militarism that it won't pick up a gun for generations.

The spirit of militarism will hang like a nightmare over Europe for generations after this war has ended.

Internationalism has proved to be an "iridescent dream."

Now that extreme nationalism has proved so ruinous, the day of internationalism will come quickly.

Irony.

Ernest Poole in the American Magazine: Tragedy, Comedy, two huge masks, kept staring down on beds of pain in a theater which had become a hospital. And while Tragedy leered on a club-footed peasant, Comedy jeered at a bed nearby.

Here lay a boy of 17. His right leg was in a sling, held up by a pulley weight, and on his face there was a look of such deep concentrated gloom that I thought my long search was at an end, that at last I had found a soldier who profoundedly hated war. I asked a nurse about him. She smiled.

"Don't talk to him," she warned me. "He hates to speak to anyone. You see," she continued, "he lives here in town. Two weeks ago he came home on leave and fell off a trolley and broke his leg. Poor boy, they keep making fun of him so."

I glanced at him often after that and always saw that scowl of gloom. To be wounded by a trolley!

Sticking to It.

I remember, I remember,
A hen is fond of roaming round
And gayly scratching in the ground.
She likes to stretch her legs and wings
And hunt for bugs and worms and things.
Yet, when it's time for her to sit
She does not hesitate one whit,
But goes upon her nest and sticks
Till she brings forth her brood of chicks.

She does not, when she's sat a week,
Give up the work she's at and seek
A softer task. You may depend
She'll keep her purpose to the end.
When "quitters" leave their tasks half wrought
I think—yes, I have often thought—
Success might come to lots of men
Had they the patience of the hen.

Jewish Problems and the War

Editorial in the New York Evening Post.

The annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists, now meeting in Boston, is inevitably concerned with conditions arising out of the European conflict. The war, which has disrupted international movements of all kinds, has paralyzed Zionist activity abroad, and the Boston convention, though made up of American delegates exclusively, has naturally assumed something of the character of an international congress.

The same force of circumstances has compelled an extension of the scope from the specific problems of Zionism to a consideration of the present and future of the Jewish race in Europe. Of the various theaters of war, that portion of Eastern Europe in which more than two-thirds of the Jewish population of the world is concentrated has been the worst sufferer. After the first sweep of invasion over Belgium during the first month of the war, the civil population of that country has been comparatively immune against the actual horrors of battle. But Poland, whose population is one-third Jewish, and Galicia and Bukowina, where the ratio is only a little less, have been devastated by the forward and backward surge of armies. The fate of the Polish Jews has been made harder by the persistence of racial animosity in the midst of war, and the continuance of the benighted Russian policy of treating the Jewish population always with hard suspicion and of making them the scapegoat in times of adversity.

Zionism, though only one phase of the Jewish question, is, of course, directly influenced by general conditions among the Jews in Europe. The movement which has for its aim the establishment of a large Jewish population on Palestinian soil also looks forward towards a general amelioration to be brought about in Europe by draining off the congested masses of the Russian ghettos. At the same time it is recognized that at best only a fraction of the Jews in Russia and Galicia can ever be transplanted to the Holy Land, and that a thorough solution of the problem calls for the removal of the disqualifying laws by which the economic and social development of Jewish life in Russia has been sadly hampered. Both phases, the Zionistic and the general European, have been the subject of consideration at Boston. It has furthermore been recognized that the task of formulating a policy for Jewish amelioration has been thrown by the war upon the Jews of this country.

For some time an agitation has been under way for an American Jewish congress to deal with the needs and opportunities of the present situation.

The Zionist idea has undergone various transformations. Originally it was a political idea. To Theodor Herzl, the founder of modern Zionism, the problem presented itself as the creation of a Jewish state in Palestine through the good will of the Turkish government or through pressure from the powers. The difficulties in the way of so ambitious a program forced, in the course of time, a swing away towards the plan for an economic conquest of Palestine through the establishment of agricultural colonies and the promotion of industrial enterprises under Jewish auspices. The colonizing experiment up to the present has shown encouraging results. But it would be odd if the present European situation were not to produce a recrudescence of political Zionism. In the general reconstructive work which awaits the general European congress after the war the Turkish problem will be to the front. Should the war end in a decisive defeat for the Teutonic allies a broad vista of political rearrangements opens up, not only for Turkey in Europe, but in Asia as well; and it is for the presentation of Jewish claims and aspirations with regard to Palestine before the peace congress that the present movement among the Jews of this country is girding itself.

But fully as important will be the claims put forward in the general European settlement for the establishment of Jewish rights "in all lands," which means, of course, in Russia. With regard to Russia, the Jewish people can speak of claims in a way that will hardly apply to Palestine. Their case against Russian oppression, based on elementary considerations of justice and enlightened statecraft, will be strengthened by the present war, in which the Jews of Russia have borne more than their proportional share. After calling on her Jewish subjects to pay for her political aspirations in blood, in treasure, and in almost unexampled suffering, Russia will find it hard to cling, in the face of the conscience of the world, to her previous barbaric policies.

Cost of Intervention

New Orleans States: It is doubtful if those who talk lightly of intervention in Mexico have ever given thought to what the cost would be—not in lives but in hard coin. The problem of putting a stop to the disturbance in our backyard seems so insignificant beside the tasks of the European nations that we are apt to underestimate the effect on our purse. But Washington has been doing some figuring and it knows what, in a financial sense, intervention would mean.

Ever since Madero was assassinated, the possibility of intervention has not been out of the mind of the war department and it has been carefully estimating the army's needs and the price. According to the Army and Navy Register, if Uncle Sam did decide to go down to the republic and play policeman for a year at the end of that time the bill he would have to foot would be a cool $800,000,000 and the longer the job required of course the greater would be the outlay.

There are 100,000 Mexicans under arms hardened by over two years of actual experience. If it could be arranged to have them give battle in a body, the issue would not be long in doubt, even if we opposed to them only an equal number of American soldiers. But a war now with Mexico would be largely guerrilla in character—partaking to some extent of the later phases of the Boer conflict—and the military authorities believe that a force of not less than half a million would be required to finish the job with neatness and dispatch.

To organize, equip, train and transport such a force and keep it supplied as an army in the field, in the judgment of the military authorities, would eat up in a year nearly a billion dollars.

Sooner or later we may have to undertake the job of restoring order and setting up a stable government in the lower republic. Nations like individuals often have tasks thrust upon them which it is impossible to shed; and the country will not shrink from the sacrifice of life and treasure whenever the emergency leaves it nothing else to do.

But Americans ought not to delude themselves with the idea that intervention would be a picnic of comparatively small cost. They ought to understand before hand that the loss of life will be heavy and the policeman's bill big enough to pay for three or four Panama canals.

La Revanche—The Revenge.

The World's Work: The French Gen. Joffre does not talk much about anything and not at all about himself, but the formula for him nevertheless is easy to find. It is a number: it is a date: it is 1870.

When the war of 1870 broke out Joffre, a young fellow, 18 years old was a student in the Ecole polytechnique. He served through the war as lieutenant of artillery, and suffered all the deceptions and sorrows of the invasion. Since then Joffre has never lost sight of the danger that lay across the Rhine. He said once: "I have seen 1870. I have given my life utterly to see that it did not happen again. I have lived for The Revenge."

Come Now, Mr. Expert, Speak Up.

Marquette Chronicle: Mothers should not do washings; they should have at least four hours a day in the open air with their children, and they should have an average of nine hours uninterrupted sleep nightly, says an authority on things physiological and pathological. Certainly the mothers will be obliged for this outlining of their needs, but the expert would receive more thanks if he'd point out how most mothers of four, five, six or seven children could do any one of these things, let alone all of them.

Talk About Your Home Town.

Hancock Copper Journal: Hundreds of citizens of the Copper country are beginning now to plan for their summer vacations.

In a few days or a few weeks they will be leaving this city for other points of the state or country.

If they but know it they can do their home city a great favor while they are gone.

They can do it by talking and boosting the Copper country every day of their absence.

A Job for Slaton.

Marquette Mining Journal: A Georgia man predicts a boom for Governor Slaton for vice president on the Democratic ticket. One excellent reason why such a boom should be given serious attention is found in the fact that unless there is intervention in behalf of Governor Slaton, or some other prominent Democrat, Tommy Marshall is likely to be the Democrats' choice again.

What is the secret of a life of continuous happiness?

"Just to let the Savior have
All His way;
Just to live the life He led
Every day:
Just to take your emptied self
Unto Him;
Just to let Him fill you up
To the brim.

"Just to let Him put Himself
In your stead;
Just to put your hand in His
And be led;
Just to take Him—Him alone
As your choice;
Just to lose yourself in Him
And rejoice."

The Woe of Canada.

Newark News: A Cleveland man who has just returned from a vacation trip, part of which he spent in Canada, was brought face to face in our sister country with war's soaring impress—an impress felt by a community thousands of miles from the roar of battle.

The long lists of killed and wounded, the printed portraits of the dead, the records of gallantry, the hospital rolls, the missing, the unknown dead—all contribute to the added seriousness of a naturally serious people.

The Cleveland man brought back the story of an incident which shows how closely sorrow treads on the heels of joy.

A widow in a Canadian town sent to the local paper a letter from her only son in which he told her he had escaped all injury so far, but, as he was greatly exhausted by his work in the trenches, was to be retired for a time and given a chance to rest and recuperate. The happy mother, happy in the fact that her son was to be allowed this respite, took the letter to the newspaper office.

It appeared in the paper that afternoon, and, in another column, in a news story from the front, was the son's name followed by the words, "killed in action."

As the Foul Fiend Sees It.

The Foul Fiend spoke: "I'm it," said he;
"I'll steal a slice of heaven soon,
Or get an option on the moon;
My realm is much too small for me.

"Why is it all things come my way?
Why is it all things seem a cinch?
And why should man put man to pinch?
Why these things are no one may say.

"The goose, the ass, the brainless ape
Conduct themselves in wary wise,
But man, who thinks he owns the skies,
Has thrown God's round world out of shape.

"I like the way the nations prate,
Their scrap-of-paper sophistries,
Their bumper crop of brazen lies—
I like their cutthroat brand of hate.

"I likewise like their bird and fish;
Their bird assassin with its bomb,
Their fish assassin, quick to come
With Lusitanias for my dish.

"But most of all—I like it well—
I dote upon the gas they snuff;
For I myself supply this stuff
From out the foulest hole of hell.

"Peace is a cat that meows for me—
Meows and purrs and chews the rag;
I'll bag the cat and brick the bag
And toss it in the sharky sea.

"Swat not the fly, but swat the man!
And send him where the maggots swarm,
Two million souls think hell too warm
Who've come to me since war began.

"Think not I'm getting off a growl;
It seemeth quite a snap to me—
It's velvet—ple—and I can see
No reason why my hell should howl."
—George Morgan in the Philadelphia Record.

Come and See If Fame Is Deserved.

Thief River Falls News-Press: The Northern Minnesota Editorial association will hold its annual summer outing on Aug. 6, 7, 8 and 9, and will be entertained by the citizens of Duluth and the Duluth Commercial club. The entertainment will consist of a tour on the lake, an inspection of the steel plant and a trip through the range country. It will undoubtedly be a winner, as Duluth is noted for its hospitality.

A Bouquet for Naughton.

Paynesville Press: The cartoon which appeared in The Duluth Herald of June 16 correctly depicted the attitude of the house fly. It represented a baby seated in its high chair, with a bowl of something to eat before it. The house fly, the carrier of disease, is standing on the edge of the bowl drinking heartily of its contents, while the baby is yelling at the top of its voice. "Swat 'Em!" That will repulse the attack.

Kansas City Star: The Concordia Kansan reprints this clipping—it is more than twenty-five years old—about Mr. Hagaman, who edited the Concordia Blade in the early days:

"One of the most versatile men in the editorial profession seems to be Editor Hagaman of the Concordia Blade. Mr. Hagaman not only declares that he can go to the case and 'set up' editorials out of his head, which is considered quite a difficult feat among the craft in Kansas, but that he can do so while carrying on an an animated conversation at the same time. Moreover, he expresses a desire to wager $100 on this proposition: 'We will compose and set an article on any subject to be chosen and at the same time beat the best player in Wichita at a game of checkers and worry any man in the state at a game of chess—all the performances to be going at the same moment.' But Mr. Hagaman's accomplishments extend further. He can get right down off the printer's stool, go into court and beat the average lawyer of the state. He has done it and modestly shys he can do it again. He also declares that he can use more profanity in the brifest space of time than any other editor in the state, and in this he is ready to meet all comers. 'We will wager $100 with any preacher in the state,' says he, 'that we can outpray him, and will leave it to his congregation to decide.' And when it comes to lying he will yield the palm only to the reporters of the Armenian troubles, the bubonic plague and the Cuban revolt."

"VISIONARY" PLANS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In my endeavor to condense my answer to "Gun" last week, I omitted to take up his talk on Allen L. Benson's war talk being visionary. Of course, Benson's scheme is visionary, as all schemes are till they are accomplished facts. Any schoolboy knows that. Are not all accomplished facts due to the past efforts of visionary men, who through inventive genius give us the only avenue to progress? All history proves it. The real estate dealer uses it, but not to the best purpose, when he sells a lot to an over-visionary homeseeker. When I saw Duluth thirty-five years ago, my visionary eye saw a great metropolis at the Head of the Lakes. Today it is an accomplished fact. Carl Marx was a visionary when he wrote "Capital," but today it is the textbook of the most progressive people in the world; but he, like Moses, saw the promised land, but did not live to enjoy it; and every Socialist, through his clarity of vision being a visionary, is preparing the way to make this old world—(for he would not tear down to build new)—yes, this old world, to be a heaven on earth, where want and poverty would be unknown, if not in his time. Even our friend "Gun" is a visionary, but does not know it, if he is a Socialist, for they all see ahead of their day, as well as having a good back-sight; for I do not like to think that he may be one of those old-line spellbinders who come into the party with their old party shoes, and travel in the same old rut, and who as Nationalists quote high-sounding words to fool the honest but ignorant constituency to vote the old ticket and keep up the war game of playing hell to win commercial supremacy; playing the devil's tattoo on the workers' back to line the pockets of arms and ammunition makers, and incidentally making promotion for military men, who think only of war, work for war and live by war. But no true politician is so foolish these show-me days as to stand on a public platform and try to blind the working horses, who through our common schools are getting saddle-proud, and may throw their riders any day. CHIPS.

DR. NEARING'S CASE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Allow me to congratulate you upon the fearless stand you have taken in the Dr. Nearing case. Will the Pennsylvania papers publish the affair? Usually newspapers are throttled by the same influences that throttle schools.

Was Dr. Nearing simply asked to leave or did the sheriff go up and throw him out? It is so interesting to study the different methods in other schools.

Did he really say anything or were they forced to a falsehood in order to get his position for some one of their friends?

Is there any difference between a school throttled by an endowment and one throttled by one man? As you say such power "is vicious, wrong, pernicious and sinister."

Your righteous indignation is perfectly natural but is it wise to say too much? They might retaliate and then some things would be all over the country that even our own newspapers have been determined should not be mentioned.

The bosses in other states may be pretty bad—but they always confined their attacks to men. It takes a certain amount of courage to do that when you know you are amenable to the law. Be it to their credit they never sank low enough to try to injure a woman, even if the state would have protected them.

Will they be able to keep Dr. Nearing from having a fair hearing? I am afraid that is a silly question—I was thinking of Minnesota—such a thing could not happen in Pennsylvania or even Georgia. Even should they, there is still public opinion—the strongest force that can be invoked. "The cudgel of public opinion strikes a heavy blow."

Will the trustees be appointed a committee to investigate themselves?

MRS. BELLA BEARD.

TRUTH BASIS FOR PUBLICITY

Committee Tells of High Standard Set By Commercial Club.

Information Booth Reported Active; Club Prepares for Tourists.

The report of the committee on publicity and statistics, made last evening at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, was a most interesting one, chiefly in its review of what properly constitutes and is required in community advertising. The report was made by the chairman of the committee, H. W. Zinsmaster, but that part of the report concerning community advertising was the result of the sub-report made by George D. McCarthy, assistant secretary of the club, and head of the publicity bureau, who attended the recent advertising convention in Chicago. In this connection the report says:

"It is gratifying to those connected with publicity work for the Commercial club that the standards commended at this meeting have always been the standards for publicity work here. Truth is the only sound basis for advertising anything. The falsifier is soon found out. The individual or the factory brought to a city by false hopes created by false advertising is a detriment, not an asset to the city. The time may come when Duluth should conduct a national advertising campaign. We have the material on which to base it, but we should not enter upon it until we are sure that is the publicity measure that will be most beneficial to the city and until we have funds to carry it on over a period of years."

Information Booth Busy.

The committee's report reviewed the work that the tourist season demands of it, and asserted that the committee is prepared to give the desired service. It was reported that since the re-erection of the information booth at the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street, and its opening on June 17, there have been 109 callers daily, on the average. At this booth, besides the ordinary information service given, people seeking rooms and board are directed to places to secure them, sight-seeing trips are outlined, and everything is done to impress the visitor with the fact that he is welcome to the city. A series of "seeing Duluth" shop excursions are being outlined, but will very likely be deferred until the early autumn. The secretary's office has furnished a good deal of material for articles on Duluth in trade journals, and much literature advertising the city is being furnished in reply to demands.

Concerning the community advertising discussion of the Chicago advertising convention, the report says:

"While the conference did not organize as a regular department of the Associated Advertising clubs, and standards of practice were not formulated, some very definite conclusions as to the trend of thought in community advertising are to be drawn from the addresses and discussions. Experts in advertising and experts in community development—both groups being well represented at the conference—were unanimous in the opinion:

Should Have "The Goods."

"First, that a community should not advertise unless it has something to advertise—unless it can truthfully show something entitling it to claim superiority over other cities of its class.

"Second, that all community advertising should be directed to a definite end—such as the attracting of factories, tourist travel, conventions, wholesale trade, retail trade, etc.

"Third, that blatant 'boosting' generalities, superlatives and booklets profusely illustrated with views of single buildings and homes, are ineffective advertising, for the person interested in a city wants definite facts along the line of his inquiry, and is capable of drawing his own conclusions on the facts.

"Fourth, that cities, like business enterprises, must 'tell the truth and make the most of it;' they do not need to advertise their vices to the world, but they should not claim virtues they do not possess.

"Fifth, that the community must be in the right mental attitude before it may advertise effectively; that it must not be deceived as to its own attractions or prospects; that it must know what it has to offer as a manufacturer knows his products, and that it must be able to make good every promise it puts out in its advertising.

"Sixth, that no city should go into a national advertising campaign without, in addition to the other essentials, a fund large enough to support the campaign for at least three years.

Have Something to Tell.

"Advertising can do no more than spread a knowledge of the facts. If a city hasn't facts to its credit that will cause it to stand out among other cities, it might better stay out of the advertising field until it has achieved something worth bringing to the attention of outside public. Very often when it has achieved something really worth while, paid advertising is unnecessary, even though valuable, for the media of publicity are always willing to tell and spread a story worth while.

"One of the greatest results of community advertising on the right plane, and a result earnestly to be desired in every city, is the reflex action—the pride that comes to the people of the city in the greater knowledge and greater appreciation of their city elsewhere. It is admitted that a city whose population is proud of it—not boastfully egotistical, but justifiedly proud—has a great advantage in the race between cities for growth and progress. The spirit of a city is determined by the spirit of its citizens and is gathered by the visitor from contact with the citizens. Unless the spirit is right the visitor is given an unfavorable impression. Accordingly, the strong commercial organization, through which the men of a city who are filled with civic pride may act in stirring up the whole citizenship, is necessary for a progressive city, and the city without such an organization has work to do before it is in a position to advertise."

BRYAN DOES NOT WANT "PEACE AT any PRICE"

San Francisco, Cal., July 7.—William Jennings Bryan, former secretary of state, while strongly in favor of universal peace, is not an advocate of "peace at any price," according to an address delivered at a luncheon tendered yesterday by the national exposition commission to the Cuban exposition commissioners.

"I have been greatly misrepresented," said Mr. Bryan, "but I don't mind it. I am not visionary enough to believe that I can prevent all wars, but I do believe that many of the wars of history could have been prevented. I believe in standing out strongly for peace; but when every means of peaceful settlement has been exhausted, fighting is inevitable."

DO YOU know a little housemother—or a big one—whose appetite is a bit droopy in hot weather?

There's always a refreshing appeal in Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes with ripe fruits or berries—a little cold milk poured in at the side of the dish, and sprinkle the berries with powdered sugar—but not the golden flakes. All by themselves they have the coaxingest flavor.

There is a thought here for all of us perhaps—breakfast, luncheon or supper, or before going to bed—better than so much meat these summer days.

And remember, please, you don't know corn flakes unless you know Kellogg's—the original Toasted Corn Flakes—their goodness insured by our responsibility to over a million homes.

Then too there is the WAXTITE package that keeps the fresh, good flavor in—and all other flavors out.

HALL ANSWERS PACKET MEN

Sale of Fleets Intended to Make Sentiment Against I. C. C. Ruling.

Will Not Impair Service Here; Reviews Trade on Lakes.

A number of lake package freighters have been sold recently by the railroads controlling them to interests which will enter them in Atlantic coastwise trade, and other boats are being negotiated for with the same object in view. Much has been published about this new move and blame has been placed for the threatened "wiping out of the package freighters on the Great Lakes," by many, on the decision of the interstate commerce commission, divorcing the lake and rail lines, it being asserted that boat lines cannot be run at a profit and give proper service without being connected with a railroad, which, it is claimed, uses the boat line as a feeder, even though at a loss. In reply to such statements, G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, has issued the following statement of the case:

Traffic Man in Rebuttal.

"Judging from the press reports, an organized effort is being made by the railroads and their boat lines to create public sentiment in favor of the repeal of the law prohibiting the ownership by a railroad company of boat lines with which it does or may compete, and some rather broad statements of the probable effect of the enforcement of the law have been made. It is true that some of the boats now operating on the Great Lakes have been sold into the Atlantic ocean service and that probably other boats will be similarly disposed of. Those vessels which have been named are those which are practically obsolete or worn out for lake service and their loss will not impair the service to and from Duluth. Practically all of these vessels, with a few exceptions, have operated in the Lake Michigan service.

"Statements have been made that the boat lines have not made any money and that the books will show such to be a fact. While it is true, possibly, that the books will disclose such conditions the books do not disclose the actual conditions. This we have determined from our own investigation and from the reports of the expert accountants of the interstate commerce commission, who have examined the books and found the true conditions.

Where Lines Profit.

"The Western Transit company has shown very satisfactory profits. Although in the year 1912, which was stated by their general manager to be a representative year, that company lost $100,000 in the Lake Michigan service, the profits upon the entire operations for that year were $100,000, which was reached by asking a profit of $200,000 on Lake Superior. The books indicate that the net annual earnings of that company upon its entire business from 1903 to 1913 were 16.1 per cent. There must have been earned upon the Duluth portion of the route alone to overcome the Lake Michigan deficit and still have a profit, a net annual average profit, upon the entire investment in the company's business on both lakes, of about 32.2 per cent. This all came out of the Lake Superior trade.

"The books of the Mutual Transit company show a deficit, but the auditor of the company, under oath, explained that this was not the true condition of the company's finances and that very substantial profits had been covered up in order to defeat the Federal tax laws.

"The Anchor line has paid interest on all of its bonds, and dividends upon all of its stock for years and has rebuilt its fleet out of earnings. This line does a business somewhat similar to that of the Western Transit company and operates both on Lake Michigan and Lake Superior. The result of its operation on the two lakes is probably substantially the same as that of the Western Transit company, and it must therefore follow that the profits above referred to were made on Lake Superior and an additional amount also made on Lake Superior which offset the Lake Michigan deficits.

Statements Absurd.

"The statement made in the inspired articles on behalf of the boat lines and their railroad owners that there would be no through rates after divorcement and that if a shipper wished to use the lakes on shipments from the East to Duluth he would have to ship to Buffalo and then have someone reship from that point to Duluth, is absurd. There will be through routes and joint rates in effect after divorcement the same as at present, and probably very little, if any, interruption or disarrangement of the service.

"Detailed information may be had upon application to the traffic commissioner and Duluth people are urged not to form any opinion in this matter until they have carefully investigated all sides. It seems on the face of it that the lake lines cannot be freely operated and give to the public the full benefit of the Great Lakes service while the boat lines are owned by the railroads with which they compete. In the very nature of things the railroads must seek to prevent the diversion of traffic from their lines. Our experience has been that we have had to go to the interstate commerce commission for everything that we thought necessary to have from the lake lines, although in many cases the lake lines themselves were in sympathy with our position and desirous of giving us what we asked for, but they have always advised us that they were powerless to move until permitted by the railroad owners."

Council Creates Position of Master Mechanic; Ek Retired.

Duluth has a village blacksmith no longer.

From now on this city will have a master mechanic.

At the council meeting last evening the commission adopted a resolution introduced by Commissioner Farrell of the works division creating the new office. Carl Holmstrom, the commissioner announced, has been appointed to the position.

Recently Commissioner Farrell discharged Gust Ek as village blacksmith and the latter immediately brought the matter before the civil service commission, claiming that his discharge was made without cause. The works head refused to take Ek back, and he decided to abolish the position of village blacksmith.

In his resolution Commissioner Farrell stated that the works division has acquired complicated machinery in the last few years and that as a result the services of a skilled mechanic are required.

ORDERS TESTING MACHINERY.

Will Be Installed in Armory By Works Division of City.

Machinery for testing concrete, asphalt, street oil and other materials used by the works division has been ordered by Commissioner Farrell and will be installed in the Armory in the near future.

"There will be no more taking materials on faith in my division," said Commissioner Farrell yesterday. "We are going to get quality for the price, and will be as particular about what we buy as a private corporation. The plant will end the old notion that anything is good enough to sell to the city. Also there will be no more lamenting at leisure after poor materials have been used and paid for."

W. A. ABBETT GETS AGENCY

Will Be Only Druggist in Duluth to Sell Tanlac.

Famous Remedy Has Won Great Success in Other Cities.

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine that has accomplished such astonishing results in other cities, will be distributed exclusively by the W. A. Abbett drug store in Duluth. The Abbett firm is at 219 West Superior street.

This important announcement has just been made by "the Tanlac man," who personally represents L. T. Cooper of the Cooper Medicine company in Dayton, Ohio. He has been sent to this city to investigate conditions locally before introducing the premier preparation, and thereby proving Mr. Cooper's advanced views.

Mr. Meredith, a most cultured and affable gentleman, was seen to excellent advantage last evening in the foyer of the Spalding hotel, where he is stopping during his visit here. After saying that Mr. Cooper probably would contribute substantially to some local charity, in all likelihood to the orphans, he talked freely and frankly of the extensive studies he has made. Among other things, he said:

"Probably the most prevalent and distressing condition is chronic catarrh of the mucous membranes. Catarrh of the stomach and kidneys is the most frequent cause of dyspepsia and Bright's disease. Catarrhal conditions of the nose and throat lead to inevitable deafness. Show me a man whose hearing is affected and in all human probability I will show you a man suffering from catarrh.

"Frequently the lungs become affected by the extension of catarrhal inflammation by way of the bronchial tubes to the lung substance.

"The mental and physical state is, indeed, very fortunate, and it is surprising to know what an immense number of people are really suffering from this almost universal malady when they think something else is wrong with them."

Continuing, the speaker enumerated some of the symptoms of catarrh, such as offensive breath, constant sniffling, drippings from the nose into the throat, frequent sneezing, watery eyes, headaches, pains in the pit of the stomach, side and kidney region, depression of spirits, nervousness, unsound digestion, lost appetite, sleeplessness and susceptibility to coughs and colds. He said he expected Tanlac to combat this condition here as it has for thousands in other cities.

NO INCREASE IN TRAFFIC

Lower Fares Failed to Stimulate Travel on Railroads.

One of Reasons Given for Asking Advance in Rates.

Chicago, July 7.—Failure of predictions made in 1907, when passenger fares in many states were reduced to 2 cents per mile, that the lower fare would be more than offset by the stimulus to travel, was described in figures before the interstate commerce commission today by forty-six western railways which are asking permission to increase interstate passenger fares.

L. E. Wettling, statistician for the railroads, was on the witness stand, continuing the introduction of evidence begun yesterday. He presented figures showing that the return on property devoted to passenger service is only 2.37 per cent and many roads operate at a deficit.

"The reduction to 2-cent fares," Mr. Wettling said, "brought no stimulus to travel such as was anticipated. On top of this failure of the growth of travel to hold its pace, there was resulting from rate reductions a gradual decline in the average revenue, both for hauling the ton one mile and carrying the passenger one mile.

Efforts at Efficiency.

"Efforts at efficiency, to offset the adverse factors of rising costs and falling rates, although they have brought conspicuous results, have not been able to succeed."

The witness said that both services combined earned a net return equaling 4.24 per cent on the value of the property. In the freight service, he said, the return was 5.15 per cent while the passenger service earned only 2.37 per cent on the value of the property devoted to passenger traffic on all of the forty-six railroads.

"Only about one-half of the estimated increase of from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 in passenger revenues from the proposed advance in passenger rates would accrue," Mr. Wettling said, "unless state fares, as well as interstate, are advanced, for almost one-half of the total travel is wholly within one state."

ish press which shows great pride in the achievement of the allied troops. This is not unmixed with criticism, however, of the strategy which dictated the campaign. Lord Northcliffe's newspapers are particularly strong in denunciation of the tactics which led to such fearful slaughter. The Times, describing the naval demonstration which preceded the land operations, says it was a naval Ballaklava and denounces the whole operations, characterizing them as "unforgivable bungling."

French Statement.

Paris, July 7, 2:40 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out the following official statement:

"In the region to the north of Arras the bombardment continued all last night. Two German attacks, neither one in force, against the railroad station at Souchez, were repulsed.

"On the heights of the Meuse at about 9 o'clock at night, a fresh German attack directed against our positions on the southern side of the ravine of Sonvaux was checked by the fire from our barricades. At the same time the Germans delivered an attack to the west of this ravine, but here also they were repulsed.

"To the southeast of St. Mihiel the enemy, after a bombardment of great violence, took the offensive last night along a front stretching from the hill which commands the right bank of the River Meuse, to the south of Ailly, as far as the locality known as the Cow's Head (La Tete-a-Vache) in the forest of Apremont. At one single point in the Veux Fery region they were successful in penetrating our first line along a front of about 700 yards. At all other points they were repulsed with heavy losses.

"In the eastern part of the Le Pretre forest we checked a fresh German attack, which was preceded by the throwing of flaming liquids.

"There is nothing to report from the rest of the front."

mind that Holt was the missing Muenter.

Thomas Hillier, who lived with Muenter and who drove him to the railroad station the night that Muenter disappeared, was equally positive that the dead man was the former Harvard instructor.

A. T. Brown, who had known Muenter, after looking the body over, was agreed with Smith and Hillier in their identification.

Born Near Milwaukee.

New York, July 7.—A Central office detective, placed in the cell with Frank Holt in the Nassau county jail at Mineola, was told by Holt that his father was born in this country, his mother was born in Germany and that they were married in Milwaukee. Holt said that he was born in a town on the outskirts of Milwaukee, worked in a grocery store and afterwards went to Berlin where he received his education.

A telegram was sent to the Milwaukee police asking them if they could verify the story Holt told so far as it related to his birth and the marriage of his parents.

ANXIOUS TO COMPROMISE

proval of the German proposals in their present form.

The draft was shown to Ambassador Gerard with the idea of eliciting from him an expression of opinion, and he promptly asked for instructions from Washington as to whether the United States could make concessions. President Wilson has been advised of the situation in several long messages sent to his summer residence at Cornish, N. H., and the impression, obtained from reliable quarters, was that the American government probably would instruct its ambassador within a day or two to decline to express any view until after the formal reply is delivered to him.

Proposals Not Divulged.

Just what Germany proposed has not been officially divulged. Secretary Lansing took the position that it would not be proper for him to disclose Germany's position as informally reported by Mr. Gerard without authorization from the Berlin government. He stated merely that there had been no exchange of views or informal negotiations between Germany and the United States and declined to predict whether there would be.

From Berlin dispatches and authoritative sources here it is learned, however, that the note is drafted by the German foreign office with Emperor William's subsequent approval, would give assurance that Americans might travel with safety on the high seas on certain conditions imposed by Germany, such as the marking of belligerent vessels carrying Americans, notification by the United States to Germany of the date of the departure and character of such vessels, and an inspection insuring their non-carriage of munitions of war.

President Wilson has before him the views of several cabinet officers, some of whom believe that it is essential to have Ambassador Gerard make clear to the German foreign office that the United States can make no concessions from its position as based on the accepted rules of international laws and the naval prize codes of civilized nations.

Changes Necessary.

Whether the president does or does not finally decide to have Ambassador Gerard tell the German government informally the views of the United States on the rough draft submitted it was clearly apparent that important changes would be necessary in Germany's attitude before it would be receivably hoped that the formal reply would remove from the negotiations the critical aspect they have assumed.

The messages from Ambassador Gerard indicated that Germany was not prepared to yield to the insistence of the United States on its rights under international law, but was disposed to ask for compromises and concessions involving a surrender of some important neutral rights.

During the pendency of the negotiations, the apparent cessation of torpedoing without warning of enemy ships and the absence of mistaken attacks on American vessels have produced a good impression in official quarters here.

BELIEVED HOLT PLACED DYNAMITE BOMB ON ATLANTIC LINER

the distance from mid-ocean to shore, without relay.

Searching for Dynamite.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 7.—The authorities of Nassau county joined the New York city detectives today in a painstaking search for more than twenty-five pounds of dynamite known to have been delivered to and unaccounted for by Frank Holt, the assailant of J. P. Morgan and the man who set the bombs in the United States capitol last Friday, who committed suicide during the night by jumping twenty feet from an iron bar on the side of his cell to the floor.

In the belief that the missing explosive might have been placed aboard a steamship leaving this port prior to last Saturday, a warning by wireless was spread over the Atlantic during the night by plants along the eastern seaboard.

The trunk found last night in a storage room above a livery stable and garage on West Thirty-eighth street in New York city contained 134 sticks—67 pounds—out of 200 sticks of dynamite known to have been shipped to and received by Holt under the alias of C. Hendricks of Syosset, L. I., recently. Six sticks were used by Holt when he went to Washington.

This would leave sixty sticks, or thirty pounds, of the explosive unaccounted for.

Keeper Tells Story.

Jeremiah O'Ryan, the keeper, who was on guard at Holt's cell when Holt committed suicide, had recovered his composure today sufficiently to give a connected story of what happened. O'Ryan said he had been employed by Sheriff Pettit to guard the prisoner on the stipulation that he watch him from 8 o'clock at night till 8 in the morning. Last night at the specified hour, O'Ryan went to the entrance of Holt's cell. Holt seemed to be cheerful.

"I had some food today and managed to retain it in my stomach," O'Ryan says Holt told him. "I feel much better, but I must get some sleep. These detectives have been coming in and asking me all kinds of questions and they have been bothering me day and night. I must get sleep. I have got an important statement to make tomorrow and I must be able to convince people that what I say is true."

O'Ryan said he told Holt to go ahead and sleep and that Holt turned over on his side, with his back to O'Ryan and remained there for about an hour. At the end of that time, O'Ryan heard a noise in the next corridor. He glanced at Holt and saw that he had changed his position so that he was facing the door, but apparently Holt slept. O'Ryan then crept, he said, on his hands and knees down the corridor to check the disturbance so that Holt might sleep.

Noise Like Shot.

He looked into the other corridor and found nothing there. As he was about to start back, O'Ryan said he heard a noise that sounded like a revolver shot.

"I ran back to the cell and said to myself: 'He's done it. Somebody slipped him a gun.' I looked into his cell and did not see him. Then I thought that maybe he had been shot from the outside. I said to myself: 'He might shoot me.' So I drew my revolver and went into the cell, expecting him to jump at me. It was dark and I could not see him. I tripped and fell. When I looked down I saw that I had fallen over his body."

Martin W. Littleton, who had been retained as counsel for Holt, reached Mineola today and examined Holt's cell closely. Mr. Littleton climbed up the iron bars on the side of the cell as Holt apparently had done before committing suicide, to see if it were possible for a man to kill himself in that manner. Mr. Littleton was convinced that it was.

Holt Ends Life.

Mineola, N. Y., July 7.—Frank Holt, the Cornell university professor who shot J. P. Morgan in his home near Glen Cove last Saturday, committed suicide in the jail here last night.

There were many conflicting reports as to the manner in which Holt met his death, but it was definitely established through Dr. Cleghorn, the jail physician, that Holt died of a fractured skull.

Several of those about the jail said they heard an explosion, the report coming from Holt's cell. This noise, it was believed, was due through the falling of boards from the top of the cell. Jeremiah O'Ryan, the keeper detailed to watch Holt, said he was fifteen feet away from the cell when he heard a loud report. He looked in the direction of the cell, but it was dark. Entering he found Holt's body in a pool of blood in the corner.

The excitement that followed the noise brought Warden Hulse and other jail authorities to the scene. District Attorney Lewis J. Smith and Dr. Cleghorn, together with several constables, were soon on the scene and immediately began an investigation.

Denies Report.

Dr. Cleghorn denied a report that Holt had killed himself by chewing a percussion cap. He repeated that death was caused by a fracture at the top of the skull. An explosion which would have blown his head off would have followed an attempt by Holt to chew a percussion cap, the physician said.

A thorough examination of Holt's cell failed to disclose, according to the jail authorities, any weapon or implements of any kind with which Holt could have used to kill himself.

District Attorney Smith searched Holt's cell immediately after arriving at the jail and found a letter written on yellow paper. This letter which Holt must have written before he attempted suicide early this morning when the pencil with which he tried to sever an artery was taken from him, was addressed to "My Dears" and follows:

"I must write once more. The more I think about it, the more I see the uselessness of living under circumstances such as these. Bring up the dear babies in the love of God and man. God bless you, my sweet. Affectionately, Frank.

"P. S.—All please pardon me for all the heartache I have brought you. Pray with me that the slaughter will stop. My heart breaks. Good-by."

Autopsy Performed.

Dr. Guy Cleghorn, after performing an autopsy on Holt's body at Hempstead, stated that Holt had died of a hemorrhage of the brain caused by a depressed fracture of the skull. Dr. Cleghorn said that he found a large contused wound which extended from the top of the head to below the eyes and that both the top and base of the skull had been fractured.

Dr. Cleghorn said that he found no evidences of an explosion or bullet wound.

Dynamite in Trunk.

New York, July 7.—A trunk, containing 134 sticks of dynamite with fuses attached, was found by the police late last night in a house at No. 342 West Thirty-eighth street. The police said that it was sent there by Frank Holt and that it arrived three days ago. The dynamite was packed in sawdust.

The trunk was delivered by a New York transfer company and the bill of lading was made out in the name of Frank Holt. It was found on the top floor of a five-story building.

Besides the dynamite, the trunk contained a number of blasting caps and powder, some sulphuric acid and matches.

Later the police received word from Warden Hulse of the jail at Mineola, to the effect that Holt early in the evening had admitted to him that he was the owner of the 200 sticks of dynamite received at Syosset, L. I., last week.

Holt, according to Hulse, received the dynamite shipment under the name of Hendrick and took it to a small house near Central park, L. I., where he proceeded to "experiment" with it. Holt used about sixty sticks in his "experiments" he told Hulse, keeping all but six of the remainder in his trunk. This the police said would seem to indicate that Holt used only six sticks to make the capitol bomb.

Received in Storehouse.

The building in which the trunkful of dynamite was found here is used as a storehouse. Those in charge of the place said that the trunk arrived from Mineola at 11 o'clock last Saturday morning. They said it was addressed to F. H. Henderson and that it was to be left there until called for.

Inspector Eagan, while admitting that the explosives were the property of Frank Holt, declined to enter into any further details. Under the direction of Inspector Eagan the trunk was taken on a fire department wagon to the magazine of the fire prevention bureau. As a protective measure police lines were thrown about the entire block and they will remain there until daylight.

CIRCUS LOVES MRS. TALBOT, "MOTHER" TO ITS PERFORMERS

No story of the women of the circus would be completed without a mention of that one known to them all as the "mother of the circus." Kindly Mrs. Talbot of the Barnum & Bailey Greatest show on earth has for more than a score of years devoted her life to the welfare of the several hundred performers of the big traveling amusement institution which will establish itself here Saturday.

Her official duties are those of matron of the women's dressing tents. But she is that and much more. She is general chaperon, hospital nurse, friend, guide and counsellor. Men, women and children alike go to her with the petty troubles that are bound to obtrude in the strenuous life they lead. She is cheery, sympathetic or admonitory as the occasion may require and no one leaves her presence without being better for it.

Many of the unmarried men and boys of the circus deposit a weekly stipend with their beloved professional "mother." No plea will force her to disgorge, they know, until the last of the season's performances is over. Then the amassed wealth is handed to them with an injunction to be prudent through the winter.

Every afternoon, when the matinee crowds have left the tents, Mrs. Talbot gathers the boys and girls of the circus about her and holds "school." Under her tuition they recite their lessons just as do the other youngsters who live in houses and don't wear tights and spangles. At night she presides over the luncheon of sandwiches and tea which the women performers spread in the sleeping cars.

Mrs. Talbot is, too, the Worth of circusland. She supervises the wardrobe, mends sudden breeches in tartan costumes and with deft fingers makes tarnished trappings look like new. She is an expert at shaping an elephant covering as a Fifth Avenue modiste is at cutting a gown for a smart patron.

The circus will give a parade in Duluth this year. On its former visit here, many were disappointed at the lack of a parade, but this year the circus will arrive in time to hold it.

KILLS SELF IN KENTUCKY

Former Koochiching County Man Throws Himself Before Train.

International Falls, Minn., July 7. (Special to The Herald.)—Word has been received from Kentucky of the death of W. J. Thomas, a former resident of Loman, Koochiching, who committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a train. He left a note telling of his intention to commit the act. He was sent to the asylum at Fergus Falls from this place a year or so ago. Later he was released, then returned to the asylum from Minneapolis. He was again released and came back here, after which he was taken to his boyhood home in Kentucky, where he remained until he ended his life. His family still live at Loman and Mrs. Thomas has made application to Judge Berg to have his estate probated.

MORE EMPLOYES TO FILL RUSS ORDERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 7.—Nine hundred employes of the H. K. Porter company returned to the shops here yesterday and today in consequence of orders for locomotives from the Russian government. The engines are small, twenty-two being of seventy-two tons each and eleven of sixty-seven tons. Orders also have been received for locomotives from South American countries and one of thirty-three locomotives from Cuba.

A snow sampler and weigher for the use of the Swiss gletscher-kommission in the Alps has been recently acquired. The sampler is twenty feet long, and made in sections of five feet to facilitate being carried to the more inaccessible parts of the mountains.

UTILIZING LIBRARIES.

New York Sun: Some notion of the queer requests made at public libraries is afforded in an article dealing with the library of a Western city. These instances are given:

Many interesting sidelights on those who come to the library are evident to the librarian. Recently a man came in and asked for some of the arguments against woman's suffrage. The proper articles were sought out, and the librarian suggested that he might care to look at those in favor of woman's suffrage as well. "No matter," he replied warily, "I get those from my wife."

The widespread belief that a library can furnish a book on any subject, no matter how vague, is illustrated by this request.

"I have been asked to write a composition on what I saw on my way to school today. Can you give me any book on it?" Thus a boy in the eighth grade. And then there are the high school boys who in a period of revolt from poetry, return the "Idylls of the King" and ask if they can't get "this crazy stuff in prose."

Children about to participate in a debate cause some inconvenience. The following subjects are not easy to give references on: "Which is Necessarier, Water or Fire?" "Which Is Mightier, the Pen or the Sword?"

The impression which some persons have that a library can give information on any topic is not only odd, but pleasing. It may be set off against the opposite notion, equally exaggerated, that a library is of no practical use whatever. As a sample of the first idea consider the woman who called over the telephone the day before Thanksgiving and asked how to pluck a turkey. The librarian hunted it up in a cook book, and read it to her over the telephone, too. And the one who asked for a brief sketch of the French Revolution over the telephone.

TAKE MANY PRISONERS

Germans Capture 3,850 Russians on Zlota Lipa River.

Berlin Reports Good Progress on Upper Vistula.

Berlin, July 7, by wireless to Sayville.—The German army headquarters today gave out the following official statement:

"On the west bank of the upper Vistula we made good progress.

"To the east of the Vistula there was no important change.

"During pursuit of the Russians to the Zlota Lipa river from July 3 to July 5, the Germans captured 3,850 men. The number of prisoners made south of Blale Bloto has been increased to seven officers and about 800 men.

"In Poland, south of the Vistula, the Germans stormed Height 95, to the east of Dolowatka and south of Borzymow. The Russian losses were very considerable. Ten machine guns, one revolver gun and a quantity of rifles were taken.

"More to the northward, near the Vistula, a Russian charge was repulsed.

In the West.

"In the western theater: North of Ypres (Belgium) British troops yesterday invaded one German trench, but were ejected in the evening.

"West of Souchez, two enemy night attacks were repulsed.

"While we were shelling enemy troops gathered at Arras, the town took fire and the cathedral is burning.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle rivers there was lively fighting. There also was some activity to the southwest of Les Eparges, where the enemy continued his efforts to win back the position recently lost. At the first attack the French got into a part of the German line of defense. A counter-attack won back all the trenches with the exception of one piece of 100 yards.

"The enemy abandoned one machine gun.

Charges Fail.

"Two more charges made by the enemy as well as an attack on Trancheo failed completely.

"Half way between Ailly and Apremont the Germans attacked and stormed the enemy positions along a front of 1,500 yards and captured 300 French.

"Near Croix-des-Carnes, in the forest of Le Pretre, the enemy made an exceptionally violent counter-attack, which was repulsed.

"On Sudel, in the Vosges, an enemy trench was stormed and rendered useless for defense purposes.

"In the Champagne, southwest of Suippes, a German aviator shelled successfully an enemy training camp."

FOUR YEARS FOR CITY OFFICIALS

Bill in Wisconsin Legislature Provides Term for Milwaukee.

Madison, Wis., July 7.—With an amendment providing for a popular vote on the subject, the senate today engrossed the Fairchild bill providing for a four-year term for Milwaukee city officials and allowing the mayor to appoint the city clerk, treasurer, comptroller and commissioner of public works.

Another city club bill reducing the size of the council from 37 to 18 was engrossed, but without a referendum clause.

The senate favored a bill aimed at nepotism in the state service. It prohibits appointing officers from appointing any relatives to positions in the state service unless they are certified by the civil service commission. The Baxter bill reducing the tax commission to one paid member and with ex-officio members, was killed.

The senate this afternoon adopted the Bishler substitute to the Poole bill which provides uniform enforcement of tuberculin test ordinances by cities. Immediately thereafter Senator Bray offered an amendment to make the Bishler measure apply only to cities of the first and second classes.

The senate engrossed the bill providing that milk bottles may be so manufactured as to contain a designating mark to which the bottle shall be filled.

Senator Bennett introduced a new bill which he said corrected inequalities in the present drainage law.

With a half dozen members present the assembly held a perfunctory session. Assemblyman Carl Hanson raised a point of order that Bill 553, equalizing taxes of life insurance companies cannot be reconsidered. Further attempts to reconsider failed.

Bought Many Explosives.

New York, July 7.—The police learned that Holt had bought 100 fulminating caps, 100 feet of fuse, 100 electrical explosive caps and 200 sticks of dynamite from a local powder company. This order was delivered to Holt at Central Park, L. I., on June 29.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Baltimore American: When buying tea, before using it spread it on a sheet of paper and place it in a warm but not too hot oven from 10 to 15 minutes. By doing this the tea will be made to go much farther, and the flavor will be greatly improved.

Sprinkle dry flour over any japanned trays that are beginning to look shabby. Leave for an hour or so, then rub off the flour, and polish with a soft duster. It is wonderful how this treatment will improve even a shabby tray.

To remove the smell of fish or cabbage from a saucepan, burn a piece of brown paper on the fire and turn the saucepan down over the burning paper. This will remove all odor, whatever it is, in a few seconds.

Salt will remove black beetles. Put plenty of salt where the beetles frequent and keep it there for a week. Do not leave any water where the insects go. When they eat the salt it will dry up their bodies.

To prevent milk from boiling over place an ordinary pie chimney in the center of the pan of milk. When it commences to boil it will boil up through the little chimney and not over the side of the saucepan.

The popular cabbage is useful for drawing and cleansing a gathered finger or poisoned hand. Take a cabbage leaf, roll it out with a bottle until the juice comes and tie it on the affected part.

Becomes Interested In Social Problems

MRS. W. K. VANDERBILT.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt is spending this summer in America and is expected to be a figure in the social life of Newport. Mrs. Vanderbilt has interested herself in a number of sociological problems. She supplied the money with which the earnest crusade against the use of habit-forming drugs is being waged with such success. She also took a lively interest in the establishment of a dance hall for persons of moderate means in the theater district. Miss Anne Morgan was interested in this place also and she and Mrs. Vandervilt were supposed to give it their personal supervision.

BYSTANDERS.

Chicago News: "The idea that all is fair in love and war makes me tired," said Villdicker.

"The other day two men got out in the street and started a fight in front of my house. I turned the hose on them. They were mad about it. 'Haven't we got a right to fight in this street if we want to?' they asked. 'No, not when you are tearing up the lawn in front of my house and scattering dust all over my porch,' I said. 'I don't recognize a fight as an excuse for punishing the innocent bystander.'

"The other day the grocery boy came with a lot of broken eggs for us, and he explained that he had been in a fight. He thought that under those circumstances we should accept the broken eggs.

"On one occasion the man who brings milk to our house didn't come with the milk. We had a very hard time making out a breakfast without milk or cream or anything, and when I journeyed down to his establishment to see what the trouble was he said that he and his wife had had a quarrel and he got so mad that he threw away the whole pail of milk which he had just brought in from the barn. He was perfectly satisfied with the explanation. I wasn't! I didn't see why he should punish me because he was mad at his wife.

"Mrs. Sinkler, our neigbor, kept nagging at her husband to repair the chicken coop, and hanged if he didn't get perfectly furious and jump out of bed and fix it right in the middle of the night! He thought he was smart to do that because his wife kept nagging him about it. He kept the whole neighborhood awake for four hours and came near getting himself arrested. There were nine babies and seven inoffensive adults made miserable just because Sinkler was mad at his wife.

"Some fellows have dogs and things to kick when they are mad at their wives, and some just smash china and doors and things.

"Then my wife takes it out on me when she is mad at the kaiser. How I come to be responsible for what he does is a mystery to me, but I have to bear the brunt of her displeasure against him.

"Fighting and war are all very well and they ought to be permitted, provided no non-combatant is hurt. But how much fighting can there be without hurting some one not a party to the strife? You can't give a man a black eye without hurting his family, and you can't go to jail without hurting your family.

"That's what I hate about fighting. No one has a right to throw bricks through my windows because they are mad at somebody else."

THE ELUSIVE JEOPARD.

Saturday Evening Post: An applicant for a place as teacher in one of the colored schools at Louisville was being examined touching his fitness for the position. He was a small, dapper, yellow person, wearing gold spectacles, a long black coat and an abiding air of great dignity.

The examination was in part oral and syntax had been reached.

"What is your definition of the word jeopardized?" asked the examiner.

The candidate's brow wrinkled.

"Which?" he inquired.

'What do you understand the word 'jeopardized' to mean?"

For just one short half-minute he hesitated. Then he answered sonorously:

"In reply to yo' question I would state that that would refer to any act committed by a jeopard."

General H. S. Schrapnel, inventor of the shells of that name, died in England in 1842 at the age of 80. Descendants live in Austria.

CRACK AUTO DRIVERS TO ENTER HIBBING RACES

Duluth Promoter to Assist Range Men in Pulling Big Meet—Stecker Proves to Be a Wonderful Wrestler—Will Gotch Come Out?—Welling Gets Draw With Azevedo.

BY BRUCE.

TILTON LEWIS, the well known sport promoter of Duluth, has aligned himself with leading men of the iron range in the promotion of the championship automobile races that will be held on the Hibbing track Sunday, July 18. Lewis has succeeded in securing the consent of practically the pick of the country's best drivers. The speed demons that will compete in the big contest include the winners of four of the big races that have been staged the present season.

Louis Disbrow holds more world's records than any driver in the world. The intrepid Frenchman has been shattering marks on the dirt tracks of the United States for the last three seasons. Two years ago this same daring little driver gave Barney Oldfield a beating on the state fair grounds track at Hamline, Minn., and since that time Disbrow has won several of the big classics of the country.

Like "Wild Bob" Burman, "Wild Bill" Endicott, who will be among the cracks of the wheel to oppose Disbrow at Hibbing, earned his sobriquet because of his demoniac driving. Six times during the present season Endicott escaped death by a hair's breath. Endicott won the 100 mile race at Columbus, driving the last ten miles of the race in a semi-unconscious condition.

Eddie Hearne and Johnny Raimey, who won the 100 mile Detroit classic, are among the drivers that have already been secured to start in the Northern Minnesota automobile race meet.

Lewis announced today that the meet was open to any Duluth drivers and that the entry of local speedsters would be gladly accepted. Several Duluthians have been hitting off some great speed the present season, so that it is expected that there will be at least one entrant from the Zenith City.

Who Is Joe Stecker?

DULUTH and the sporting world in general was startled yesterday by the announcement that Charley Cutler had been beaten in two straight falls at the hands of young Joe Stecker of Dodge, Neb.

Just who is Joe Stecker?

He is a farmer boy of Dodge, Neb., and is 23 years of age, and "rassles" right well.

Some time ago this column printed a story which said that there were two young wrestlers that gave promise of future greatness. The same story told of some of the wrestlers who had gone out to Dodge to defeat Stecker and had come home singing the praises of the new wonder.

Stecker numbered Adolph Ernst, Jess Westergaard, Yussif Hussiane and Marion Plestina among his victims before the big bout of Monday. Yet few believed that this young and raw farmer boy could possibly defeat the really wonderful Cutler.

Every once in a while a new athletic wonder arises to startle the world. Apparently Stecker is the latest athletic wonder of the age; just another of those physical freaks who have stepped out of the tall grass and golden sunshine of the prairies.

Gotch came from the farm and gave the wrestling world its greatest and most brilliant achievements. Gotch was past the mellow athletic age of thirty years before he became invincible. Here is this young Joe Stecker, not yet twenty-four years of age, beating a man who some of the shrewd critics of the wrestling game compared to the Gotch of three years ago.

Will Gotch come out from the hole of retirement and dare the oft beset path of those who attempt to come back?

It was the public demand for the return of Jeffries that led to the greatest tragedy, the most pathetic piece of business that the American ring has ever witnessed.

Will Gotch, wise, conservative, plentifully endowed with the world's goods, tempt the fate that has come to nearly all of the champions of this and other ages?

The American public idolizes Frank A. Gotch. He beat all of the foreigners and he is essentially an American—a splendid example of the young manhood of this thriving country. Nine out of ten sport followers would sigh with genuine regret, were Gotch to come out, prove but a shadow of his former self and crumble down to defeat like poor old Jeff.

Let us all hope—those of us who have riotously raved at the immortal Gotch of the past—that if the master of Humboldt does come out to battle with this young Lochinvar, that he will be every whit the Gotch of old—then it should be some battle.

Joe Welling Draws.

JOE WELLING, who is doped to be one of the principals in the opening legalized boxing show of the Duluth Athletic club, got a draw with Joe Azevedo at Memphis, Tenn., on the Fifth of July.

Welling is a newcomer in the ranks of the lightweights and is touted to carry a heavy punch for the 133-pound brood. Larney Lichtenstein wanted to beat the Mexican in this Memphis soiree, as he is energetically endeavoring to push his pupil to the front. Mandot had the better of Azevedo and Charley White gave him a sweet pummeling also.

Those who have seen Welling in action, however, say the youngster bears the earmarks of a real comer and that he will be heard from among the 133-pound division one of these days.

Ed Whalen, the boss of the new club, endeavored to coax Mike Gibbons and Soldier Bartfield to local pastures, if some of the letters from abroad are to be believed.

Dan McKetrick, the former Gotham newspaper writer who looks after the affairs of the boy who is credited with having bested Gibbons, writes that Whalen made him an offer, but Gibbons refused to listen to it.

Wait until Gibbons and Bartfield meet again.

HAWKINS WITH DIGGERS; BRYANT IS RELEASED

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the dropping of Grand Forks and Superior from the Northern league, the Virginia Ore Diggers today were strengthened by the addition of "Lefty" Hawkins, formerly a pitcher with Superior, and who was a teammate of Second Baseman "Dutch" Fortman at Fort William last season. Hawkins succeeds "Sticks" Bryant, who was formerly with Duluth. Bryant drew his release today.

Bob Nifnecker, Grand Forks shortstop in 1914, who tried out with St. Paul this season, and more recently with the Flint team in the Southern Michigan league, has joined the Fargo Graingrowers. Shortstop Hooper will be used at second during the absence of Second Baseman Patterson, who is on the injured list.

NORTHERN LEAGUE

DOOKS DROP FIRST GAME

Peggers Down Darby's Men in Cellar Scrap 2 to 0.

Gervais Allows the Sox But Three Scattered Hits.

Winnipeg, Man., July 7.—Winnipeg drew first blood in the battle for the cellar championship berth of the Northern league here yesterday, defeating Duluth by the score of 2 to 0. Gervais was invincible and never gave the visitors a chance to count. But three hits were gathered off the twirling of the local heaver, and the visitors did not threaten until the ninth, when Burgwald tripled.

Hallman pitched steady ball for the visitors, but the local attack was bunched in the sixth and seventh innings. The hitting of Mitchell was one of the features of the game.

FORT BILLS WIN FROM VIRGINIA

Canucks Take Heavy Hitting Contest By 5-to-4 Count.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—Fort William won the opening revised schedule game here yesterday, defeating the Ore Diggers by the count of 5 to 4. Wertz and Wines of the visitors hit out home runs and De Rose of the home team scored a run ahead of him in the fifth round by whacking the pill out of the park.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Two Snappy Games.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 7.—Brooklyn defeated Boston twice yesterday, 3 to 2, and 4 to 3, in two of the scrappiest games seen this year at Ebbets field. No fewer than five players were forced to retire through injuries, while the umpires were busy trying to quiet players who complained against decisions.

The Superbas won the first game through the fine pitching of Coombs and Appleton. Coombs held the Braves hitless for three innings and had two out in the fourth when he stepped into a hole as he was about to pitch and strained a tendon in his left leg which caused him to faint and necessitated his removal from the field. He will be out of the game for a week or more. Appleton held the Braves to two hits and two runs. Rudolph was batted freely. He retired with two out in the eighth after spraining his knee while ducking a throw to second base. Gowdy retired earlier with an injured arm and Schmidt gave way to Egan in the eighth after he had been hit twice on the right arm by wild pitches.

In the second contest Ragan was knocked out of the box in the sixth, the Superbas getting a four-run lead. Dell grew wild after the fifth inning, hitting Moran in the sixth and forcing him out of the game. After two of the visitors had singled in the ninth, Dell was sent to the club house and Sherrod Smith, who relieved him, prevented Boston from tying the score.

Fourteen Innings and Fight.

Chicago, July 7.—Chicago defeated Cincinnati, 5 to 4, after fourteen innings of the first game of a double-header yesterday, and tied the visitors, 2 to 2, in the second game, which was called on account of darkness at the end of the seventh inning.

Zimmerman's triple and Knisely's single in the fourteenth inning scored the winning run of the initial game. The locals took a three-run lead in the first inning before Benton had time to steady himself. Thereafter, the visitors played an up-hill game, driving Humphreys and Standridge off the mound. Cheney, the third twirler, held the visitors safe, although it took some great playing by Good and Saier to help him, while Wingo's accidental collision with Groh's hit prevented the visitors scoring in their half of the fourteenth.

Williams made the first run for Chicago in the second game on a homer, Zimmerman scored the other when he singled and scored on Williams' single. Wagner's double, while batting in a pinch in the seventh, enabled the visitors to tie the count when it scored Herzog, who had walked, and Twombley who singled. Poor base running on Manager Bresnahan's part cost Chicago the second game when he was caught napping off second just before Good tripled.

A free-for-all fight occurred in the seventh inning after Good tripled. He slid into the bag and spiked Olson. Olson became enraged and struck at Good. In a moment they were exchanging blows. The local players came to the assistance of Good. Cincinnati players joined the fracas and Umpire Quigley rushed across the field and picked Olson up and carried him to the stand. Olson attempted to free himself but Quigley held him until his team mates could quiet him down. Quigley then ordered him to the club house and made Good follow. All the extra players on the bench also were banished. Scores:

Cardinals 2; Pirates 1.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 7.—St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh here yesterday, 2 to 1, winning the game in the eighth inning when Long singled and scored on Griner's double. The visitors scored their first run in the first inning on bunched hits and the Pirates tied the count in the sixth on Carey's safe bunt and a triple by Baird. Score:

Giants 5; Phillies 1.

Philadelphia, July 7.—New York won yesterday's game by pounding Mayer's delivery for seven hits, which included a triple, two doubles and a sacrifice fly in the first and third innings, the score being 5 to 1. Tincup and Baumgartner blanked New York in the last six innings. Philadelphia hit Marquard's delivery hard, but the safeties were scattered and the only one that counted was Gravath's homer. Score:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Mackmen Yankees' Nemesis.

New York, July 7.—The Philadelphia Athletics took their third straight game of the present series from New York yesterday, 7 to 6. Thomas Knowlson, a semi-professional pitcher from Ridgeway, Pa., started his first major league game for the league champions and was hit hard but was effective in the pinches. The Athletics knocked McHale out of the box in the third inning. He was also poorly supported, four errors being made during his stay on the mound.

Score— R. H. E.
Philadelphia ....2 0 3 1 0 0 0 1 0—7 11 4
New York .....0 2 1 0 0 0 0 2 1—6 14 5

Batteries—Knowlson and Lapp; McHale, Brown, Cottrel and Sweeney, Nunamaker.

Boston Takes Two.

Boston, Mass., July 7.—The Red Sox took two more games from Washington yesterday, further narrowing the margin to first place. The first contest, won by 5 to 1, was decided in the first two inning, when Boston bunched hits for all their runs. Boehling was forced to leave the game in the opening inning when he was hit on the pitching hand by a ball off Speaker's bat.

Boston's four runs in the second game came by hitting Walter Johnson's delivery in the first and third innings. Gregg gave way to a pinch hitter in the second inning and Mays upheld Boston's pitching burden well thereafter. Scores:

Batteries—Gregg, Mays and Thomas; Johnson and Henry.

White Sox 12; Browns 2.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7.—After losing five consecutive games, Chicago braced up and defeated the local team, 12 to 2, here yesterday. Three St. Louis pitchers and a team of sixteen men failed to check the visitors slugging and successful base running. Chicago played errorless ball, while St. Louis fumbled or threw wild seven times.

Batteries—Faber and Schalk; Perryman, Koob, Cook and Agnew, Severeid.

Tigers 7; Indians 6.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 7.—Walker and Harstad were wild and ineffective and Detroit defeated Cleveland, 7 to 6, sending the local team into last place. Long hits were responsible for Cleveland's first three runs, while a rally in the ninth inning sent Cavet from the box but left Cleveland one short of a tie. Score: R. H. E.

ST. PAUL BOXING CARD COMPLETE

Billy Miske and Tommy Gibbons to Clash in Wind-up.

The complete boxing card of the Capitol City Athletic club, the boxing club of St. Paul, has been announced. The opening legalized boxing show of the state will be staged in the St. Paul Auditorium on the evening of July 12. Billy Miske and Tommy Gibbons will clash in the headliner, while Mike O'Dowd and Willie Shafer will meet in the semi-windup. Billy Whalen and Jimmy Cole and Young Groves and Sap McKenna are also on the bill, giving the boxing fans of St. Paul two so-called star bouts and two preliminaries, four bouts in all for the evening's entertainment.

There is some talk in the Twin Cities of a fight arena being built between St. Paul and Minneapolis and being used by both clubs.

John Burmeister holds a lease on the Minneapolis armory, having already paid the quarterly rent in advance, and the promoters of the Mill City seem to be somewhat up against it.

It is said that if the fight arena is constructed on the dividing line of the two cities, there will be no opposition in staging bouts. This will virtually mean that the fans of St. Paul and Minneapolis will witness more than twelve bouts during the year.

It is believed that Joe Mandot and Jose Rivers will open the Minneapolis show. The boys have already met three times, Mandot winning twice and Rivers once, all of the contests being won on decisions.

As has been stated several times, Joe Welling, the Chicago lightweight, is slated as one of the headliners for the opening show of the Duluth club. Officials of the club state that an opponent for Welling has not been selected as yet.

Johnny Griffiths of Akron, Ohio, is one of the boxers under consideration, while Joe Mandot is also being negotiated with.

FIELDER JONES, RESIGNED, IS NOW SUSPENDED

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—Fielder Jones, manager of the St. Louis Federal league baseball club, was indefinitely suspended by President Gilmore yesterday. Shortstop Johnson was suspended for three days and drew a fine of $50 for his part of the argument with Umpire Harry Howell in Monday's game, which led to both being banished from the field.

After being removed from the game Monday, Jones telegraphed his resignation to Phil Ball, one of the owners of the club. It was his intention to remain with the club until arrangements could be made for his successor.

Neither Jones nor Johnson was on the field yesterday, Umpire Finneran notifying the manager before the game that the suspension was on the way.

MAKES RESCUE AND THEN WINS RACE

Remarkable Performance of Buffalo Motorboat in Championship Race.

Hannibal, Mo., July 7.—The Buffalo Enquirer, owned by William J. Connors of Buffalo, N. Y., won the American power boat championship and with it the $1,000 Webb trophy at the eighth annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association here today. The Mark Twain, a St. Louis boat, sank in the free-for-all, but its driver and mechanician were rescued.

The Mark Twain was running neck and neck with the Buffalo Enquirer, and the Buffalo Courier at the head of the fleet of racers when the St. Louis boat struck a snag and in a flash turned upside down and went to the bottom.

Walter Beauvais, the Mark Twain's driver, and George Gaston, his aid, were caught under their boat and carried down. Meanwhile the Enquirer and Courier had wheeled about and sped to the rescue of their competitor. The Enquirer rescued Beauvais and Gaston, then again took the lead and won the free-for-all contest in spite of the fact that other contestants had taken advantage of the accident and had forged ahead.

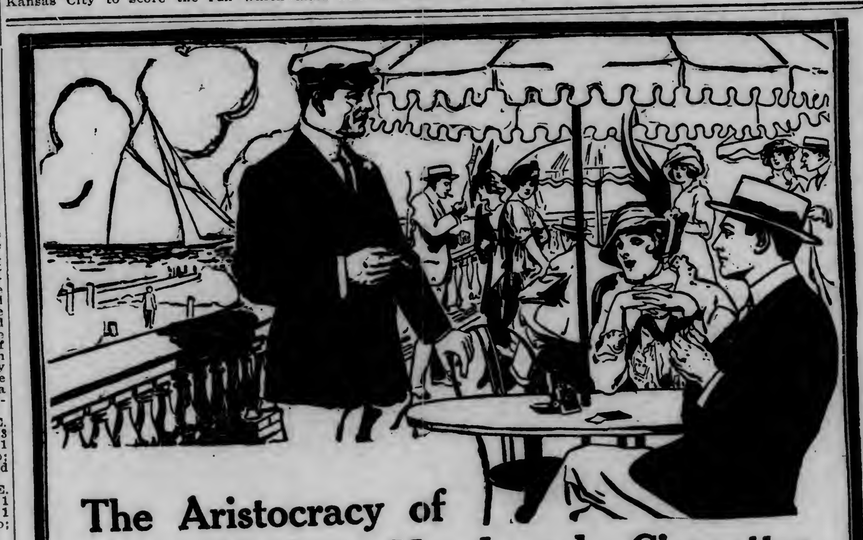

Minneapolis was selected as the place for the 1916 regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association. The following officers were elected: Admiral, E. H. Van Patten, Davenport, Iowa; vice admiral, F. C. Smith, Keokuk, Iowa; rear admiral, Arthur L. Gibson, Red Wing, Minn.; secretary, W. Y. Kidder, La Crosse, Wis.; treasurer, R. A. Maples, Clinton, Iowa; executive board, C. P. Hanley, Muscatine, Iowa; C. C. Butler, St. Louis; H. J. Flecker, Chicago, and J. W. Dixon, Burlington, Iowa.

the Superior franchise, and the league could not possibly carry the team along. With this condition confronting the circuit, the Grand Forks club decided to "pass the buck."

Under the action taken, both Grand Forks and Superior retain their franchises, and if the league is reorganized next year, they may be back in the game.

Bill Fox, retiring manager of the Grand Forks club, is protected against loss through the club's failure to finish the season. Fox has an ironclad contract with the local club, covering five months, so is in good shape.

The situation that governed the Grand Forks club in its retirement was developed during the recent road trip. Playing at every one of the other cities in the circuit, the local club only once received better than the guarantee. That was at Fort William, where one game netted the club just $18 over the guarantee. Every other game was played at the straight guarantee, and with a fifth of all scheduled games going by the boards because of bad weather the financial outlook was such that the club determined it was wise to drop out at this time, thus insuring the continuance of the league on the six-club basis for this season.

TWO CLOQUET GAMES.

City Team and the Cubs Each Took Game on Monday.

Cloquet, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cloquet city team played its first game on July 5, when it defeated the Simons Hardware team of Superior 5 to 0.

All played a good game for the first time out this year and Manager Hayes is so pleased with the showing that he intends to schedule a few more games before the season closes. A game with Carlton has been arranged for Aug. 1.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Cloquet .....1 0 3 0 0 0 1 0 x—5	5	2

The Cloquet Cubs played the Fish hardware team and won, 4 to 3. This game was played on the morning of July 5 in Pinehurst park. The Fish hardware team is a newly organized team of Cloquet. Morton Keller was on the mound for the hardwares and sent sixteen men to the bench. Kuita's three-base hit was the feature of the game.

QUALIFIES FOR FINAL.

Charleston Roller Skater Contender for Championship Honors.

Charleston, W. Va., July 7.—By winning the semi-final of the preliminaries to the national amateur mile roller skating match race here last night, Harold Pierce of Charleston, qualified for the final which will be run next Saturday. Summary:

Red Sox Release Men.

Boston, Mass., July 7.—The Boston Americans have released McCabe, a pitcher, and Holmes, a catcher, to Lynn of the New England league.

Whales Want Kauff.

Chicago, July 7.—President Gilmore of the Federal league, who is in New York is acting as agent for the Chicago club in its negotiations for Benny Kauff, President Weeghman announced yesterday. Manager Tinker is willing to give the Brooklyn club an outfielder, infielder and pitcher for Kauff and Pitcher Lafitte.

SUNDAY BALL ALLOWED.

St. Boniface Club Wins First Round in Legal Battle.

Winnipeg, Man., July 7.—St. Boniface baseball club won the preliminary round in the action taken against it by the provincial morality department in connection with the baseball game staged by that club Sunday, June 13. The case came up before Magistrate Turenne of the St. Boniface police court and the charge was dismissed after prolonged argument by attorneys.

S. M. Jean, president of the St. Boniface club, said Sunday ball will be a regular feature now with his club until a decision had been made in the case.

W. J. Battley, provincial morality inspector, stated at the close of the case that an appeal would at once be made to higher courts. The charge against H. C. Webb of the Winnipeg club was withdrawn.

It is the intention of the department to make the St. Boniface charge a test case.

Popular Delusions About Fractures

A FRACTURE is something more than a broken bone; it is usually accompanied with more or less damage to other structures. The break in the bone may be the least serious part of the injury.

"Setting" the fracture or "reducing" it is unnecessary in some cases, inadvisable in others, and harmful in still others. Furthermore, in many instances it is impracticable to reduce or set a broken bone for a week or more following the injury, though people ordinarily believe a fracture must be reduced at the doctor's first visit. For instance, in fracture of the femur (thigh bone) it is generally impossible to reduce the fracture—to bring the broken ends in line and in contact—inside of several days of treatment. Of course, the physician directs his efforts from the first to the business of overcoming the displacement of the fragments, but under the most skillful management it requires several days to accomplish this.

Properly treated fractures begin to "knit" or grow together a few hours after the injury. First there is bleeding between the broken ends of the bone and from the torn tissues about the bone; then clot-formation; then slow contraction of the clot; then the rapid formation of new blood vessels in the clot; then the deposit of cartilage, and finally the cartilage changes into bone. But there is no particular day or days when cartilage or callous suddenly changes to bone—knits. That is just an absurd notion. Nor is there any particular day when the patient is likely to suffer the most pain. Properly treated, a fracture is not necessarily painful after the first dressing.

What doctor and patient would consider an ideal result, from the standpoint of appearances and function, may look like a bungling job in an X-ray picture. The broken ends may appear considerably displaced, or united in what appears to be an angular position. But this only goes to prove that perfect function and contour may be preserved despite anatomical alterations of considerable magnitude. It also proves how misleading an X-ray photograph is when not interpreted by an expert in that line.

The less splinting, and the earlier the splints are removed, in intelligently treated fractures, the better will the results be. Some of the most deplorable deformities and disabilities are directly attributable to the wearing of rigid splints beyond the minimum necessary time.

ROWING DISTANCE CHANGED FOR NORTHWESTERN REGATTA

All Races Will Be Rowed Over a Mile and a Quarter Course Instead of a Mile and a Half—Lincoln Park Rowing Club May Send a Crew Here—St. Paul Is Coming Strong.

Rowing contests in the Northwestern International regatta, to be staged on the famous old St. Louis bay course, will be a mile and a quarter instead of a mile and a half.

This action was decided upon by Coach Ten Eyck and officials of the Duluth Boat club and the Minnesota Boat club of St. Paul, at a conference held yesterday.

Duluth is going to send a great delegation of oarsmen down to the Springfield, Mass., national, and St. Paul is seriously thinking of sending a crew, or perhaps severals crews to the big event. As the national races are contested over a mile and a quarter course, it was speedily decided to make the rowing distances of the Northwestern conform with the National association of Amateur Oarsmen.

The Senior Eight.

With Phil Moore at bow; Hall, 2; Whiteside, 3; Rheinberger, 4; D. Hagberg, 5; Kent, 6; Dug Moore, 7, and Horak, stroke, it looks like Jimmy Ten Eyck has settled on the makeup of the old rowing machine at least for the Northwestern regatta.

There is a chance that Hoover or Osman may be sent into the eight, but the chances are that the eight as given above will leave the stake boats in the local regatta.

Hoover and Osman are sculling, and Osman is also rowing in the quadruple. Kent and Osman may also double.

A wire received today from the Lincoln Park Rowing club of Chicago, brings tidings to the probable effect that that club will enter a crew in the Northwestern regatta.

St. Paul Getting Ambitious.

The arrival of Jim Wray in St. Paul apparently kicked up a dust cloud of interest. Wallace Quimby was in the Saintly City coincident with the coming of the famous Harvard rowing coach, and Wallace declares that the officials of the Minnesota Boat club declare that they are going to enter a crew in every event on the program.

Antonio Puck, famed in rowing and building circles, is going about the task of getting up an old-timers' race for the Northwestern regatta.

St. Paul veterans want to come here and climb into an eight just once more. The spirit is burning and quivering, even if the flesh is weak and sags around the middle.

It is planned to get out the members of the 1906 eight, the crew that won at Minnetonka, and row against the veterans of the Minnesota Boat club. This event would supply a strain of comedy to the regatta.

Interest Is Picking Up.

Interest in the approaching regatta is sure beginning to stretch, yawn and raise an inquiring voice. The Duluth Boat club crews are coming along in rapid manner these days, while the indications are that several outside crews will be here to add interest and class to the big show.

If there is anything in the world that Duluth is in the big league class, it is in rowing. Our crews have won national fame; the name of the boat club has been flashed the length and breadth of the country, from New York to the Gulf, and from Winnipeg to the Rio Grande, the song of praise has been sung.

If there is any sporting event that should be supported, it is the coming regatta. The fastest crews in the world will compete, and the sport should be of high class.

NORTHLAND TO MEET BOAT CLUB

Rival Tennis Teams Will Clash on Oatka Courts Saturday.

Hegardt defeated Turnbull in the first round tennis games in the men's singles at Oatka yesterday by the score of 6-4, 7-5. John Washburn won from Lee by default and Walter Kennedy drew a bye. Mac Washburn also drew a bye. M. Norski won from Saleen, 6-0, 6-4. Fraker drew a bye and Deighton won from Gillespie, 6-4, 7-5. Lauren Kennedy won from Deighton, 6-1, 6-4, and Thompson defeated Lee 6-3, 6-2.

Starting Saturday the team match between the boat club team and the Northland tennis team will be started. The contest will be played on the Oatka courts.

Following are the lineup of the teams:

Boat club, Mac Washburn, Lauren Kennedy, W. Kennedy; Northland, Walter Fraker, Charles Fraker, Nat Davis and Charles Dickerman. The fourth man on the boat club team has not yet been placed.

PICK STEVENS POINT.

Wisconsin Letter Carriers and Clerks to Meet There in 1916.

Wausau, Wis., July 7.—The joint state convention of Wisconsin state branches, United National Association of Letter Carriers and Postoffice Clerks, just held here, was a big success. The clerks elected officers as follows:

President, C. A. Lind, Menomonie; vice president, Guy A. Roberts, Stevens Point; second vice president, L. O. Premeaux, Ashland; secretary, Theodore Murphy, Eau Claire; treasurer, Edward Koops, La Crosse; chairman finance committee, R. C. Goetsch, Wausau; delegates to the national convention, W. E. Sullivan, Madison; alternate, A. A. Hart, Green Bay.

The carriers elected as president, Frank Frederickson, Madison; vice president, A. E. Bessex, Oshkosh; secretary, Fred G. Beresford, Ashland; treasurer, Sam J. Roden, La Crosse; delegate national convention, H. H. Thiel, Appleton; alternate, Charles F. Miller, Kenosha.

The 1916 joint state convention will be held at Stevens Point.

SET RECORD FOR BREVITY

Council Completes All Its Business in Twenty-Five Minutes.

Considers Afternoon Sessions; Only Routine Business Transacted.

Members of the city commission at their regular weekly meeting last evening conducted all the business in twenty-five minutes. This is the shortest session since the present council took office on April 19 last.

There were but ten persons in the audience, and as no protests were made against improvements, City Clerk Borgen was able to go through his file in rapid order. In the absence of Mayor Prince, who attended the mass meeting at the Auditorium on national defenses, Commissioner Silberstein, president of the council, presided.

Plan Afternoon Sessions.

As a result of the slim attendance last evening and the little business transacted, the commissioners decided to again consider afternoon sessions. The matter will be taken up at the meeting next week and in all probability a return will be made to meetings at 2 o'clock every Monday afternoon. In case special hearings are desired by property owners, then the meeting will be called for the evening, it was announced. This plan is favored especially for the summer months.

Only routine business came up at the meeting last night, including the awarding of several contracts and the ordering of a number of minor improvements.

Commissioner Merritt introduced an ordinance appropriating $3,000 for the purchase of a valve-inserting machine and fifty six-inch valves. The measure was given its first reading, while the ordinance appropriating $500 for the purchase of incandescent lamps for the city hall was passed. Second reading was given the measure appropriating $525 for the repair of the incinerator plant.

Officers of the Duluth Jitney association made no appearance at the meeting, and as a result the commissioners took no action on the jitney ordinance or referendum petition. The amendment providing for regular routes was laid over another week by Commissioner Silbersteln.

Devonshire street, from Pacific avenue to Third street, was ordered paved.

On motion of Commissioner Farrell the council canceled a list of proposed sidewalk improvements. He explained that these walks need some slight repairs and that the expense of new sidewalks is not warranted.

The contract awarded to Rogers & McLean for the paving of Kenilworth and Sussex avenues was rescinded, because property owners have filed a remonstrance petition protesting against the improvements this time. The city treasurer was authorized to return all assessments already paid.

Award Contracts.

Commissioner Farrell introduced resolutions awarding the contracts for laying a sanitary sewer in Minnesota avenue, from Forty-third street to lot 12, block 1, Oatka Beach addition, to Gust Hiner on his bid of $2,882, and for laying a sewer in Owatonna street, from Ewing to Kolstad avenue, to A. Hedenberg on his bid of $1,529. Both measures will have to hold over a week, as the contracts involve an expense of more than $1,000.

A. Hedenberg was granted an extension of time for the laying of a sanitary sewer in Fifty-second alley west, from Ramsey to Polk street.

Water and gas main extensions were ordered in Highland street, from Central to Fifty-sixth avenue west, and in Commonwealth avenue, from the north line of Gary to Crestline court. The assessment levied to defray the cost of extending gas and water mains in Ninth street, from Twenty-third to Twenty-fourth avenue west, was confirmed.

The contract for inspecting cast iron pipe was awarded to Robert W. Hunt & Co., on their bid of $157.50. R. D. Wood & Co. were awarded the contract to furnish the water and light department with fire hydrants on their bid of $36.35 per hydrant.

A resolution was adopted ordering the street car company to move its trolley pole on the southeast corner of Eighth avenue east and Ninth street to allow the water department to place its fire hydrant on the curb line.

Commissioner Merritt was authorized to install pressure governors for gas mains at Eighth avenue west and Superior street and Mesaba avenue and First street.

Licenses Granted.

The following licenses were granted: Saloon, W. Wagner, 15 Second avenue west, and August Toettscher, 605 East Third street; Cigarettes, Ray Abbott, 5631 Grand avenue, and Albert Backstrom, 2821 West Third street; auctioneers, G. A. Klein, 326 West Superior street; second hand store, M. Shapiro, 723 West Superior street, and M. Danelko, 511½ West Michigan street, and plumbers, Charles Ilts, 223 North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

CLOQUET BOY INJURED.

Falls From Tree at St. Charles, Minn., Breaking Both Arms.

Cloquet, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Donald De Poe, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George De Poe, while visiting at St. Charles, Minn., fell from a tree and broke both arms. The right arm is broken in two places and the left in one place. The boy was brought home from St. Charles Sunday and is resting easily.

Carl Swenson, who has been at home for the last month, left Tuesday for Munising, Mich., to accept a position as private secretary to T. B. Wyman of the Northern Michigan Forest Protective association.

Sam Johnson, a member of the firm of Anderson & Johnson, Saturday had a hemorrhage while at work in the store, and is in a very critical condition, being taken to Duluth Sunday for treatment.

Double Tragedy.

Belvidere, Ill., July 7. — Charles Bremer, a young farmer, yesterday shot Miss Ida Camp, his fiancee, and then shot himself, apparently in a jealous rage, because, it is said, she accepted the attentions of another man. Both were instantly killed.

PROBLEMS OF THE FARMER

Bankers and Others Gather to Consider Economic Difficulties.

Chicago, July 7.—Bankers, farmers, educators from various state agricultural schools and experts from the Federal department of agriculture met here today for the first session of a two days' conference on the relations between bankers and farmers. Consideration of economic and practical difficulties in the extension of the work of the agricultural commission of the American Bankers' association was taken up.

F. B. Mumford, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Missouri, said that the farmers' problem was essentially economic.

"The solution of the economics of agriculture as related to the actual business of farming, will carry with it the solution of many of the other problems of the rural community," he said. "But because European countries produce a much larger yield per acre than the United States, it does not necessarily follow that the American farmer would find it profitable or possible to produce yields as large or to bring under cultivation land relatively so poor. The factors of labor, price of product and many other conditions must be recognized. But taking all factors into account, it remains true that the American farmer can largely increase his profits, better maintain the fertility of the soil and incidentally materially increase crops."

Adopting New Methods.

Prof. Mumford pointed out that the American farmers as a class have been slow to adopt new methods and told of the difficulties facing the agricultural college when the institutions try to get the results of their experiments adopted generally. He said that the bankers of the country "are peculiarly well situated to help in advancing the cause of better agriculture" and added:

"Recent investigations have clearly indicated that agriculture in America is under-capitalized. The very first step in farm betterment required a much larger amount of capital in our agricultural operations than has been utilized in the last half century. Fertilizers cannot be purchased without money and money cannot be obtained except through the bankers. Neither can the American farmer buy the best types of domestic animals without money. The real reason in many cases why agricultural improvement has not been more rapid is because the farmer cither has not been able to get money or did not feel justified in borrowing at current rates.

What Bankers Can Do.

"The bankers of America then can promote the cause of better agriculture by cooperating with the agricultural colleges, by promoting the locating of county agricultural agents and by loaning money at low rates for the purchase of fertilizers, building of silos, seeding to alfalfa, purchase of registered sires and for all other enterprises which have been demonstrated to be in the interests of a permanently prosperous agriculture."

Somewhat similar points were advanced by L. H. Russell, director of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. He devoted his paper to a discussion of the work of county agents and urged increased agricultural extension service by state schools.

MUCH LIQUOR IN HIS AUTO

Pine River Man Caught Carrying Contraband Into Dry Territory.

Car Full Seized and Government Agent Is Investigating.

Brainerd, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.) — Interesting developments followed the arrest of Ernest Stetson of Pine River, charged with drunkenness.

At his hearing in municipal court here it was alleged that he was on his way to Pine River, in Indian territory, with the automobile carrying 142 quart bottles of beer, some pint bottles of the same liquid, a gallon jug of liquor and a jug of buttermilk. Stetson was fined $10 or ten days. The liquor was held and the Indian department notified.

Uncle Sam Interested.

W. W. Thomason of Denver, Colo., deputy United States special officer, came from Bemidji and ordered the liquor held until the department notifies him what disposition to make of the case.

Mr. Thomason carries a business card, the top of which bears this legend:

"You cant always, perhaps not even often, tell by the looks of —well, say a suitcase—what may be inside; and it's always interesting and sometimes exciting to look in and find out."

PAINTS JUDGE'S PORTRAIT.

Likeness of Judge Holland Reproduced for Crow Wing Bar Ass'n.

Brainerd, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Freeman Thorp of Hubert has finished the portrait of the late Judge G. W. Holland. It was made from two different photographs taken about ten years ago and also based on the personal recollections of Col. Thorp, who was well acquainted with the judge and recollections and suggestions of various members of the Crow Wing county bar. The picture was painted as a commission from the bar association of Crow Wing county and suitable exercises will mark the hanging of the picture in the district court room in the courthouse.

There Is Hardly A Woman Who Does Not Rely Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Princeton, Ill.—"I had inflammation, hard headaches in the back of my neck and a weakness all caused by female trouble, and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with such excellent results that I am now feeling fine. I recommend the Compound and praise it to all. I shall be glad to have you publish my letter. There is scarcely a neighbor around me who does not use your medicine."—Mrs. J. F. JOHNSON, R. No. 4, Box 30, Princeton, Illinois.

Experience of a Nurse.

Poland, N. Y.—"In my experience as a nurse I certainly think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a great medicine. I wish all women with female troubles would take it. I took it when passing through the Change of Life with great results and I always recommend the Compound to all my patients if I know of their condition in time. I will gladly do all I can to help others to know of this great medicine."—Mrs. HORACE NEWMAN, Poland, Herkimer Co., N. Y.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CROOKSTON WEDDING IS NEARLY SPOILED

Fisher Woman Fails to Prevent Daughter From Marrying.

Crookston, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was excitement in the offices of Clerk of Court Waage and Sheriff Kelly yesterday afternoon all because an irate mother did not want her daughter to marry a young man from Crookston, but after four automobile tires had been scorched in a chase to locate the lovelorn couple, the mother relented and the two hearts beat as one after all.

Miss Linda Foster Dows of Fisher came to Crookston in the afternoon for the sole purpose of wedding Emory Clifton Wheeler. The latter repaired to the office of the clerk of court and secured a marriage license after declaring Linda was 21 years of age and that he was in his right mind.

Shortly after Miss Boe, the deputy had granted the license, she answered a long distance call, and a high pitched female voice from the other end cried: "This is Mrs. Dows of Fisher. A young man over there wants to marry my daughter. Refuse him a license as the girl is not yet 18 years of age and I prohibit the wedding."

"Wheeler has already received the license," replied Miss Boe.

"Call the sheriff and police and stop the wedding," came hurtling back over the wire with great vehemence.

Sheriff Takes Hand.

Then started the fuss in the sheriff's office. Deputy Sheriff Bolstad ran a marathon to Rev. Mr. Oaten's residence where the couple said the wedding was to take place but the minister was not at home. Deputy Holt discovered Rev. Mr. Oaten was at the fair grounds fixing up a booth and commandeered an auto and tore up the ground in that direction. Arriving he found the ceremony had been performed, but the certificate was not signed. The wedding party and the minister piled into the automobile and came down town where the mother was telephoned as to the status of affairs.

After giving the party a "piece of her mind," she finally relented and permitted Mr. Oaten to put his signature to the certificate and Emory Clifton carried off his fair bride in triumph and assured the preacher and the deputy sheriffs that he would "fix it up with ma" just as soon as he had a chance to talk things over. The bride blushed furiously and said nothing, but looked happy.

FAIR AT CROOKSTON DURING NEXT WEEK

Six-Day Show With Fine Exhibits and Good Racing.

Crookston, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations are about completed for the seventh annual fair and races of the Northwestern Minnesota Agricultural association, to be held here on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

There will be a splendid exhibit of blooded cattle, including thirty-five from the famous Guernseys and Red Polls of the Jean du Luth farm at Duluth, and twenty-four Shorthorns and Aberdeen Angusses from the James J. Hill farm, near Crookston. The best cattle from the most noted herds in the Northwest will be shown. In order to shelter all of the cattle entered it will be necessary to erect three large tents in addition to the cattle quarters.

Some Good Races.

Between 80 and 100 of the fastest race horses in several states will compete for purses of $3,450 on the fastest half mile track in the state, the record, 2:07 flat, having been made last year by Don Densmore. Motorcycle races will also be a feature. In addition to the race purses, $7,350 is offered in premiums.

A large attraction will be the Patterson shows, with three free acts in front of the grand stand each day. There will be free balloon ascensions with four parachute drops. On two evenings there will be spectacular fire works. More than $1,200 has been expended for this feature.

A network of branches of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railways spreads out like a fan from Crookston and excursion trains will be run on all the branches as well as the main lines. The city is preparing to care for record-breaking crowds, and the Commercial club will provide accommodations for all of the thousands who are coming.

Association Rent Free.

The Northwestern Minnesota Agricultural association is in a most prosperous condition and has no indebtedness, although it has spent $18,000 for new buildings during the last year.

W. S. Lycan of the Hotel Crookston, is president, and J. M. Cathcart, secretary and director of the Crookston Commercial club, is secretary.

CROP CONDITIONS IN NORTH DAKOTA GOOD

Despite the Wet Weather Everything Is Looking Very Favorable.

Fargo, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While crops in North Dakota are slightly later than in some other seasons and there is a little worry over damage that might arise from possible early frosts, the conditions in the state generally are good.

Following the cloudbursts in some sections ten days ago, the weather has been extremely favorable. There have been frequent light showers and the weather was so cool that the water standing on the fields did less damage than had the temperature been higher. As a result the water covered fields have been practically cleared of the floods and the large area of the state where the precipitation was less heavy has had an opportunity to develop rapidly.

Conditions About Ideal.

Recently the weather has been of the kind the farmers want for their corn crops and this is making the conditions all the more favorable.

Travelers who have been over the state during the past ten days report conditions outside the Red river valley as nearly ideal as they could be. In the western sections of the state where the drought is usually apparent at this season and quite frequently the soil is dry, the sloughs and coulies are filled with water, the soil is reported moist to a depth of four feet and the moisture in the best available form for crop maturity.

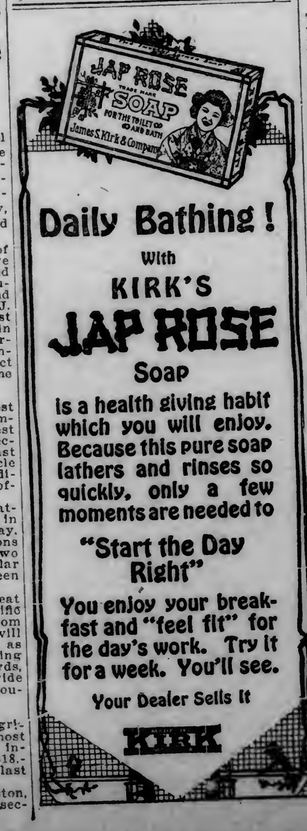

GLOTFELTER'S CORN IN KNEE-HIGH CLASS

Former President of State Fair Wins Wager With Mr. Sherman.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The prediction freely made this season that there would be no knee-high corn on the Fourth of July has been exploded by Charles W. Glotfelter, formerly president of the Minnesota state fair board. Ten days ago Mr. Glotfelter was in the immigration office and declared to Commissioner Sherman that he would have knee-high corn on the Fourth in his forty-acre field on his farm near Waterville, Le Sueur county. Mr. Sherman did not think so, accordingly a wager of a new hat was made, and Mr. Glotfelter is the winner.

Glotfelter Proves It.

On July 4 Mr. Glotfelter took a photographer and drove out to his farm near Waterville, where he had several photographs made of him standing in his 40-acre field with corn several inches higher than his knees. This corn is a variety known as Minnesota 455, and was bred up by Prof. C. P. Bull of the state agricultural school from Missouri and Minnesota 13 in 1908. Mr. Glotfelter has been raising this corn for several years with splendid success. He now has a 40-acre field, and with the exception of a few low spots, the entire stand will go several inches above his knees.

DROWNED IN MONTANA.

Former Mill City Couple Lose Lives While Fishing.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 7.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Smith, former residents of Minneapolis, who were drowned in Brown's Lake, near Melrose, Mont., last Friday, passed through here yesterday en route to Sioux Falls, S. D., where the funeral and burial were held today. Relatives met the bodies here. The couple were in a frail boat on Brown's lake when a storm came up and the craft capsized. Mr. Smith was a resident of Minneapolis for two years and was assistant manager of the Fisk Rubber company. He left here last September to enter the firm of the Minot Auto company at Minot, N. D.

Later the Smiths went to Great Falls, Mont., where they were living when they lost their lives.

Mrs. Smith was the daughter of Steven Donahue, postmaster at Sioux Falls. Mrs. Morris Williams, Mrs. Rose dunn and Bud Williams of Minneapolis are relatives. R. O. Smith of the Fisk Rubber company is a brother of Mr. Smith.

SPORT AT PALISADE.

Celebration of Fourth Eclipsed Any Former Attempts There.

Palisade, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The biggest celebration of the Fourth ever held here was given Monday. The day was ideal, and by noon over 300 people had arrived from neighboring settlements and towns. Bain, Libby, McGregor, and Waukenabo were well represented.

Most of the afternoon was taken up with baseball games. In the game between Hebron and White Elk the latter team easily won. There were many clever plays.

Rat Lake also disposed of Logan township easily. The third game played was a combination of Palisade team and the Rat Lake aggregation in which the boys from the Libby town won the game, 6 to 3.

In the evening came the athletic contests. Most of the prizes were large, and there was keen competition. After the games there was dancing.

ASHLAND GRADUATE GETS CHINESE JOB

Ashland, Wis., July 7.—Paul Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Hodges of this city, has accepted the chair in physiology at Harvard medical school at Shanghai university, China.

Mr. Hodges is a former Ashland boy, having been graduated from Ashland high school in 1909. He has completed his work at Wisconsin university and will take his new position at once, leaving San Francisco for Shanghai Aug. 15.

WATERLOGGED LAUNCH FOUND IN MISSOURI

Van Hook, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While securing driftwood on the banks of the Missouri river, Conrad Smith found a waterlogged launch with the engine missing. The launch had evidently drifted a long distance and may have been stolen and the engine removed, or there may have been a tragedy on the river in which tourists were the victims. An effort is being made to have the boat identified.

PURCHASE MIDWAY SITE.

Automobile Concern to Establish Big Plant at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—The Willys Overland Automobile company of Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio, will build one of the largest automobile plants in the West here and work on a $1,000,000 concern to be located in the Midway, will start next month.

The company has purchased from L. S. and J. M. Hackney, eighteen acres in the Midway. It faces 500 feet on University avenue, opposite the big plant of the Illinois Steel company, and lies between Eustis and Clifford streets.

Work on the erection of buildings costing about $1,000,000 will be started within a month.

Although the consideration for the site was not made public, it is known to be in the neighborhood of $150,000.

JUSTICE BROWN WEALTHY.

Late Member of State Supreme Court Left Large Estate.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—An inventory of the estate left by Phillip E. Brown of Luverne, for four years prior to his death associate justice of the supreme court, has been filed with Attorney General Smith. The inheritance tax soon will be computed.

The value of the property is placed at $254,978, a large part of which consists of real estate in the southwestern section of the state. In addition he held bonds valued at $18,120, mortgages worth $18,410 and $16,514 in personal property.

Admits Eau Claire Theft.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 7.—James Jordan, naming his residence as being in the vicinity of St. Cloud, Minn., pleaded guilty yesterday in municipal court to the theft of $28.65 from William Ploof, who runs a pop corn stand here. He was bound over to the circuit court and is now awaiting trial in the county jail.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Devils Lake, N. D.—Mrs. Anna May Bauer, wife of Raymond Bauer, one of Ramsey county's earliest settlers, died Saturday after an illness of some duration. Mrs. Bauer was born in 1841 in Stockstadt, Germany, and came to this country in 1887. Her husband and three children survive.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Mrs. Henry Day of Raymond, Minn., owes her life to the bravery of hoboes, who rescued her from a watery grave.

Grand Forks, N. D.—William McFarland pleaded guilty to the charge of petit larceny and was sentenced by Justice of the Peace R. J. Purcell to serve thirty days in jail. McFarland accosted George Norby, a farmer of Bygland township, Polk county, on the De Mers avenue bridge Saturday morning, offering to carry his grip to Grand Forks, whether he was bound, and taking the grip disappeared.

Fargo, N. D.—Norval Leeby, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Leeby of Fargo, died at the home of his parents of leakage of the heart. Besides his parents he is survived by four brothers and three sisters. Funeral services were held Tuesday from the home at 2 o'clock and from the Plymouth Congregational church.

Sherwood, N. J.—The long distance telephone department of the Saskatchewan government will build a line into Sherwood in the near future. The line will connect with Edmore.

Oakes, N. D.—Jumping suddenly and falling from her mother's lap, the 11-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Root, living near here, struck the floor head first. Her neck was broken and she died within a few minutes.

Fargo, N. D.—A week ago at Reading, Pa., H. O. Werner, assistant horticulturist at the North Dakota Agricultural college here was married to Miss Elsie Ernst of that city.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Mrs. E. W. Taylor died July 3. Besides her husband, who is employed at the Great Northern shops, a number of little children survive.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Viroqua—At the picnic here, held as a part of the Independence day celebration, Fred Rogers, son of the sheriff, was painfully injured when his horse left the track during a race and stumbled. The horse's neck was broken and died instantly. Three of Rogers' ribs were broken and his shoulder also was injured.

Rhinelander—Seven thousand persons from Rhinelander and many surrounding cities applauded Governor Philipp here on Monday when he told of his plans for improving rural schools. The governor's address and those by other state officials were part of Rhinelander's celebration of independence day.

Milwaukee—The funeral of Peter G. Toepfer, Milwaukee chess expert, who died on Friday at the age of 58 years, was held Monday afternoon from the residence. Burial was in Forest Home cemetery.

Oshkosh—Oshkosh had no general celebration of the Fourth, but a general sane and safe observation was held. Boat parties, picnics and social gatherings were mostly the order of the day.

Birchwood—A movement is on foot to establish a creamery here, and local promoters are soliciting descriptions to the stock company it is proposed to form.

Frederic—A new Masonic lodge was instituted here Friday night. Grand Lecturer Jacob Dreher of Milwaukee representing the grand lodge.

Trade Lake—The Swedish Lutherans have dedicated a $20,000 church building which is one of the finest in this section of the state.

Milwaukee—R. W. Casey, resident of Milwaukee for fifty years, and well known throughout the city, died at his home at the age of 75 years. Mr. Casey organized the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Wisconsin and was president of Division No. 2 of the order (the Milwaukee division), which he organized in 1880. Five years ago, Mr. Casey was struck by an automobile and seriously injured. Although he seemed to recover, his health was never good after the accident, and his death is ascribed to the injuries received.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Gay—Rt. Rev. Bishop Frederick Eis of Marquette was unable to come to the Copper country for the dedication of the new Roman Catholic church here July 4, but he was represented by Rt. Rev. Mons. Pinten of Marquette, who celebrated the dedicatory mass, assisted by local and visiting clergy.

Laurium—Clerk Martin Prisk of Laurium village reports that during the last month of June there were eighteen births and but six deaths in the village.

Ontonagon—One thousand dollars was appropriated to each township for road work. The money so appropriated to be spent under the supervision of the supervisor of each township, where he may deem fit.

Hancock—The Hancock board of public works in regular monthly session awarded a contract to the Peoples Fuel company to furnish 1,000 tons of coal to the No. 1 pumping station.

Laurium—Work was started to put into shape for a public park and playground the large plot of ground on School street, below the Rochm hill and adjoining the Bollmann addition to Laurium, to which the Laurium playground equipment is to be moved next year from the present playground site on the Yotti property, Hecla and First streets.

Iron Mountain—The annual convention of the Italian Federation of the Upper peninsula, to be held here on July 29, 30 and 31, promises to be the most successful meeting in several years.

Ishpeming—Richard Guy of Ishpeming, an employe of the Marquette County Gas & Electric company, was slightly hurt, when he came in contact with a live wire at the powerhouse.

Calumet—M. W. Youngs, editor of the Calumet News, has been quite ill, following an operation for appendicitis.

Marquette—Wilbur Van Evera of Virginia, is in the city for a brief visit. Mrs. Van Evera and children has been here for some days past, the guests of John R. Van Evera and family.

Iron Mountain—The movement of ore from the mines of this range to the Escanaba docks is increasing. The St. Paul is employing twelve train crews in the business and is hauling to the docks about 300 carloads daily. The Northwestern road is hauling about the same tonnage daily, but does not employ as many crews.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Arlington—The 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ortloff, living about three miles south of Glencoe, tried to enter a chicken house through an open window. The window, not being securely fastened, fell and struck him with such force as to break his neck.

St. Paul—When Joseph Brunning returned to his home here Tuesday, from a holiday fishing trip to White Bear lake, he found his wife lying dead in a gas-filled bedroom. The tip had been removed from a gas jet and the gas turned on. Coroner D. C. Jones believes the case to be one of suicide.

Arlington—Former Senator Theodore Streissguth, prominent in the upbuilding of Arlington for forty years, was taken to a New Ulm hospital for a serious operation. His condition is regarded critical.

Ortonville—H. O. Ouverson of Fertile, Iowa, was instantly killed when his automobile ran off a bridge between Ortonville, S. D., and Ortonville, and fell bottom side up into the creek below. He was on his way to Graceville, where he had a daughter, Mrs. George Giddings. He was about 65 years old.

Fergus Falls — Judge Wilbur F. Booth filed a decision in the United States court here, sustaining the findings of Referee N. F. Field, declaring the Red River Potato Growers' association of Barnesville, bankrupt.

Pipestone — Frost was general throughout this section Saturday night. Little damage if any was done to field crops or garden truck. Small grain is looking fine, but the cool, wet weather has kept corn back.

St. James—Several young men from this city went to Mary's lake and the hat of one was carried by the wind far out on the water. Severin Erickson, an expert swimmer, disrobed and swam out after the hat. Just before reaching the shore, he threw up his hands, went down and did not rise.

St. Paul—Prompt use of a pulmotor saved the life of a boy baby born to Mrs. Henry Janbrich, at the City hospital early Monday. Dr. E. H. Buhland, the physician, used the pulmotor for thirty minutes before there was any response. The baby weighs eight and one-half pounds. It is out of danger.

Mankato—Prof. Nickerson of the Minnesota State Historical society, who two years ago made a number of excavations and recovered interesting relics on the site of an old Indian village, supposed to have existed at a point in Cambria township from period to period as far back as 20,000 years, has returned there and is at work again.

Minneapolis—John Anderson, first assistant fire chief, is at the St. Barnabas hospital with severe injuries, the result of an automobile collision which occurred Tuesday.

Winona — When Esther Scheidemantel, 10 years old, lighted the top burners of a gas stove the oven blew up. She was terribly burned about the face and hands, but her clothing did not take fire. The burners had been opened in the oven, it is thought, by a smaller child in the home.

Minneapolis — Theodore H. Sweetser of Minneapolis and Neil H. Swanson, of Wayzata, cadet officers in the University military department, will attend the Federal government's student camp at Ludington, Mich., this month. The board of regents has voted to pay their expenses.

St. Paul—Stephen A. Cisler of St. Paul, superintendent of the Tenth division of the railway mail service, has been placed in charge of the Washington, D. C., division. Clyde M. Reed, superintendent of the Fourteenth division, Omaha, will have charge of the St. Paul division.

Stillwater—Charles Kuhl made two areoplane ascensions with pronounced success here Monday. The street and St. Croix sports and the two bands of music pleased the people.

All Babies Destined to Great Achievement

To be born is to be great. For there are possibilities in every tiny human infant. And for this reason every one should remember that whatever is done to aid the mother, to relieve her of distresses during her trying months, will surely be of marked benefit to the child.

Among the sterling aids is a splendid external remedy known as "Mother's Friend." It is what is called an embrocation. It is applied to the abdominal muscles, gently rubbed in by your own hand guided by your own mind. It makes the muscles pliant, they expand quite naturally and the effect upon the nerves is such that they adjust themselves to the process of expansion so that pain from this source is almost eliminated. Women who use "Mother's Friend" refer to the absence of morning sickness, they are relieved of a great many minor distresses, all apprehension disappears and those peculiar nervous "fidgets" no longer disturb the nights. It is well named "Mother's Friend." Get a bottle today of any druggist. Then at once write for a most entertaining and instructive book for all prospective mothers. WOULD EDUCATE COUNTRY TO THE NEED OF DEFENSE

Speakers at Auditorium Meeting Urge Adequate Supply of Munitions.

Judge Morris "Wouldn't Give One Militia Company for All Mexico."

"Resolved, That in view of the developments of modern warfare, the president and congress are urgently requested to provide for the proper defense of our country and to insure its supply of munitions of war; and resolved that all patriotic societies in the land are recommended to hold meetings similar to this to educate public opinion on this important subject."

About 200 Duluthians interested in more efficient national defense attended the Auditorium mass meeting last evening.

Resolutions asking that President Wilson and congress provide for the proper defense of the country and that patriotic societies in the land hold meetings to educate public opinion in this regard, were adopted by a majority vote, although there were dissenting votes.

All references to President Wilson, his policies, and his work as the nation's chief executive brought loud applause, as did occasional references to the patriotic spirit of the American people.

When Federal Judge Page Morris said: "I thoroughly and heartily believe in every step President Wilson has taken in connection with Mexican affairs, and in connection with German affairs, and I wouldn't give one of Duluth's militia companies for all of Mexico," he was given an ovation.

"It may not be generally understood that throughout the land meetings of this kind are being held," said Mayor Prince, in his opening talk. "Are we as a nation, asleep at the switch?"

"We must realize the possibilities and to some extent, the probabilities, of the situation!

"We must perpetuate the citizenship won under Washington and saved under Lincoln," he continued.

Col. Charles H. Graves, Civil war veteran and former minister to Sweden, opening one of the principal addresses of the evening, said he "was talking in the capacity of a veteran soldier of a volunteer army."

Depend on Volunteers.

"We always depend upon our volunteers to fight our battles.

"In 1861 certain states rebelled and tried to break up the Union. With an army of 60,000 trained men we could have held down the extremists long enough to arbitrate, and we could have bought all the slaves for 1 per cent of what the war cost us."

Col. Graves, referring to greater defenses, or the only alternative, submission, said: "If we ever submit, this great experiment in freedom will be over and the United States will be ruled by some of the virile people of the more aggressive nations.

"You may remember," he continued, "that at the time the Maine was blown up the people went wild and swept the government off its feet with a clamor for war. We must consider the temperament of the American people, for that will be a large factor."

"Can we," said J. L. Washburn, in a forceful address well sprinkled with humor, "can we take a bird cage and put the dove of peace into it, and raise a cotton umbrella over the cage, and when war impends say: 'Look upon this beautiful bird and let us love one another.'

"I don't like the idea of waiting for three weeks for an answer to a note which any diplomat could write in twenty-four hours.

"I don't like the idea of them sinking another boat while we're waiting for the answer.

"I don't like the idea of decorating the chief murderer!"

Pro-ally and pro-German enthusiasts were given no opportunity to express their approval or disapproval at this stage, for the speaker went on, amid mingled cheers and growls:

"I doubt if the United States has a good submarine in its navy. The last play at war didn't show it.

"I doubt if our navy has a high rank in marksmanship. The last play at war, if they would give out the scores, wouldn't show it.

"Above all else," Mr. Washburn concluded, "we must take the navy out of politics. A new secretary of the navy every time there is a new president as reward for party service, is not what we want."

Not Militarists.

Gen. John Dwan of Two Harbors said, "his peace notions were not far out of joint at a national guard meeting. There is not a militarist in the entire state militia, I believe.

"We don't know whether our dreadnaughts are good for anything or not. We hope they are.

"The greatest military genius in the United States knows little more about the exact standing of the country than you or I, but I don't believe they think as badly of us abroad as people would have us believe.

"The world is war mad," said the Two Harbors man, "but they won't be so mad later on. Wilson didn't talk too strongly, and he didn't talk too weakly.

"As a matter of fact, he just about hit the nail on the head, and we are behind him."—Applause greeting this closing remark contained a most enthusiastic note.

Peace at Any Price.

"My friend Congdon," said Federal Judge Morris reminiscently, "calls me a peace-at-any-price man, and I'm half inclined to believe he's right. As long as I can keep out of a scrap, I'm doing it, and if this is a war meeting I'm in the wrong pew."

Aided by approval from Richard Cullen, sitting alone in the front row, who hereupon waived a red-mackinawed arm and cried: "You're all right!" Judge Morris went on: "I am in favor of compulsory military training of the youth of the land. I do not mean the youth should be trained to be a soldier or a fighter, but to be an efficient, disciplined, trained man, not trained to shove his country into war, but to defend it in case of war."

"Compulsory training gave Germany industrial and commercial supremacy. She learned that the art of war taught in the time of peace meant also the height of development in time of peace.

"Give every able-bodied young man in this country a term of military service."

"Drill Instead of Football."

"Give 'em drill instead of football," shouted Mr. Cullen, amid much laughter.

"I'd like to take all the battleships in the world out in the ocean and sink 'em so deep they'd never be seen again," continued the judge, in a characteristic vein, "but as long as England has her little navy, and Germany has hers, we want one, too.

"I'd like to blow up all the shrapnel factories at once, if we could get far enough away so that the explosion would not hurt us, but as long as England is making shrapnel, and Germany is turning out shells by the thousands, we want a little factory or two of our own."

Judge Morris was greeted with laughter when, turning from Germany to Mexico, he said: "Any fool American who leaves this country and goes to Mexico deserves what he gets.

"I'd like to submerge Mexico and get rid of the pestiferous race."

Rev. U. S. Villars, speaking as the descendant of men who fought in the wars of France, the war of the Roses, the Revolutionary, Mexican and Civil wars, but himself still an apostle of peace, urged preparedness. "We are at peace and feel secure, but it is never too soon to meet the enemy."

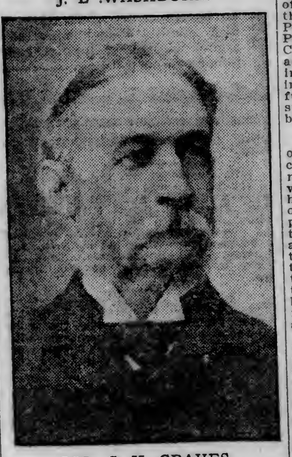

Bishop James McGolrick and J. B. Cotton, both of whom were to address the gathering, were unable to be present.

FIFTEEN-POUNDER CAUGHT AT CAMP MILLER.
Its Size Is Shown By the Comparison With a Yard Stick

James Nelson and S. W. Harris spent a few days at Camp Miller last week. Mr. Nelson returned today and brought back a big fifteen-pound muskellunge caught in the lake in front of the camp site. Mr. Nelson is very proud of his catch and he says it took him twenty minutes to land him. He used 150 feet of line. The Y. W. C. A. girls are passing the week there, and they are expecting to catch many fish. The eighteenth season of the boys' camp will begin Aug. 2 and last for the entire month, more than 100 followers of Izaak Walton will try their luck for the big "muskies."

AFFAIRS COMMITTEE ACTS ON MANY CIVIC PROBLEMS

Duluth Will Not Carry Fight for Deeper Locks Farther.

Changes in Street Names; New Park Projects Considered.

The second public affairs committee meeting of the Duluth Commercial club under the regime of Joseph B. Cotton, as president, and Henry Nolte, as chairman of the committee, took place last night. The midsummer weather was not conducive to large attendance, and, despite the fact that the number present was not up to the usual standard, more were present than was looked for under the circumstances. The meeting was not a very long one, but was replete with stirring things, even the reports being unusually good.

Several addresses were made, these being by E. M. Hornine and W. J. Davis of Atlanta, Ga., who are visiting in the city while on their way to the Pacific coast; President Cotton, Former President W. A. McGonagle, and Vice Chairman C. A. Duncan of the public affairs committee. All were optimistic in tone, and were not simply boosting speeches, but the audience was furnished with the reasons why the speakers looked upon the future as bright.

Thanks for Entertainment.

Secretary Eva read letters and resolutions of thanks to the Commercial club for entertainment, from the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association, which held its midsummer meeting here in June; Senator Fred D. Vibert of Cloquet, in behalf of the legislative party, which was here a month ago; the New England Wholesale Grocers' association, whose members were entertained here last month while on their way home from the Pacific coast; the Boston Grocers' association, on the same matter; and from the members of the Chinese commercial commission, which was here on June 22, and has now returned to China.

At the last meeting of the public affairs committee, the secretary was instructed to write to the chief engineer of the United States army asking that plans and specifications of the new lock at the Sault be changed so that the sill of the lock would permit vessels drawing thirty feet to pass over it. This was on the initiative of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which had taken similar action.

Army Engineer Disagrees.

Last night a reply from Dan C. Kingman, chief engineer of the army, was read, in which Gen. Kingman refused the request. In his letter he said that he is unable to agree with the representation made that unless the depth is fixed now, it will be impossible to increase it after the cement has been placed. He said that when the necessity for greater depth arises, the locks can be deepened; and further says that the only way to bring about a deepening now would be to suspend the work and carry the matter up to congress, which would delay the work at the Sault for at least two years; also he declared, in his letter, that there is nothing to warrant such a change, and that there should be, coincident with such a deepening of the lock, work on deepening the channels to the lock and in the harbors that the lock will serve, which would take government appropriations of millions of dollars.

Secretary Eva said that Chicago wanted to carry the fight up to the secretary of the war department, but that Duluth's harbor committee does not feel like doing that at this time, owing to the fact that no delay to the construction of a breakwater here can be risked.

A communication from the Commercial club of Sioux City, Iowa, was read, in which that organization asks cooperation in having the federal census collected on a per diem rather than a per capita basis, claiming that the latter is unsatisfactory, especially in a city of unusual plan, such as Duluth and Sioux City. The matter was referred to the legislative committee.

Executive Committee Indorsed.

The actions of the executive committee of the club in several matters were approved, as follows:

Appointment of Capt. Alex McDougal to represent the committee at the hearing held on June 10 by Maj. E. D. Peek, United States engineer here, on the matter of a breakwater for the harbor.

Disapproving of the proposed plan for a federation of civic and community clubs for the purpose of forming an intermediary council to advise the city commissioners.

In its vote on questions submitted in referendum on merchant marine by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. On the latter the report of the vote of all of the organizations making up the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, shows that the vote of the club was with the majority except on one question. On the question of a government subscription to the stock of a company with a capitalization of $30,000,000 to loan on mortgages on merchant ships, the executive committee voted in the negative, while the general vote of the chamber was in the affirmative by a close margin. There was a greater difference of opinion on that question among the organizations participating in the vote than on any other. The vote of the executive committee was based upon the belief that the proposed measure would be futile to remedy the conditions at which it would be directed.

Vote on Referendum.

The questions submitted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the vote of the executive committee of the Duluth club on each, follow:

	Vote.
"Do you favor the government undertaking the purchase, construction, or charter of vessels for mercantile purposes, together with the operation of such vessels?"	No.
"Do you favor ownership of merchant vessels by the government but with operation by private parties under leases?"	No.
"Do you favor subsidies from the government sufficient to offset the difference in cost between operation of vessels under the American flag and operation in the same deep-sea trades under foreign flags?"	Yes.
"Do you favor subventions from the government to establish regular mail and freight lines under the American flag to countries in which the commercial interests of the United States are important, and to American dependencies?"	Yes.
"The committee recommends the creation of a Federal shipping board to investigate and report to congress regarding the navigation laws and to have full jurisdiction, under the law, in all matters pertaining to over-sea transportation."	Yes.
"The committee recommends that the government subscribe to the entire stock of a marine development company with a capital of $30,000,000, this company to have authority for several years to lend, under supervision of the Federal shipping board, upon the security of first mortgages on merchant vessels, taking as evidence of this indebtedness bonds which bear a fair rate of interest and contain provisions for amortization, the development company to guarantee the bonds as to principal and interest and sell them to the public."	No.
"The committee recommends that the ocean-mail law of 1891 be amended by lowering the speed for first-class steamers from twenty to sixteen knots and for second-class steamers from sixteen to twelve knots, and by making the compensation adequate to permit the establishment of lines of steamships carrying both mail and freight."	Yes.
"The committee recommends that there should be legislation abolishing deferred rebates and providing for supervision of rates by the Federal shipping board, with requirements for filing with the board schedules of rates and all agreements among oversea lines."	Yes.
"The committee recommends that Federal licenses should be taken out by lines, domestic and foreign, engaged in shipping between ports of the United States and other countries."	Yes.

Forming Convention Policy.

N. J. Upham, chairman of the committee on conventions, reported on the conventions already held here and on entertainment done. He also announced that the committee is endeavoring to frame a definite convention policy to report to the public affairs committee later.

G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the club, reported on work done and being done by the commission. This report is published elsewhere in this issue.

The good roads committee reported through Secretary Eva. Two important projects were before this committee in June. One related to a road from the Carlton-St. Louis county line to Saginaw, in which Cloquet people were interested. A conference was held with Commissioner Charles Kauppi, who agreed to spend $2,500 this year on the Crosby road, legalized some years ago. Later it appeared that the road desired by the Cloquet people and the settlers was one mile west of the Crosby road and efforts are now being made to reach an agreement in relation to it.

The other subject was the short part of the Duluth and St. Vincent road across the corner of Aitkin county. Itasca county has built its portion of the road. The St. Louis county part will be completed this year. Aitkin county has refused to build the mile which would connect up the two parts. The St. Louis and Itasca county commissioners are very likely to build the part in Aitkin county if Aitkin cannot be brought to an agreement.

Changing Avenue Names.

The municipal committee reported in favor of changing the name of Woodland avenue from Fourth street to Victoria street to Eastlawn road, and changing the name of Wallace avenue to Woodland avenue. This recommendation was with the object of avoiding confusion, as Woodland and Wallace avenue join at Victoria street and the Hunter's Park and Woodland car lines run along Wallace avenue up to Victoria street, there going on Woodland avenue, without any perceptible difference to the traveler, and sometimes causing confusion to those not acquainted with the situation. On motion of R. B. Knox this matter was referred to the city planning committee, which was directed to make a joint report with the municipal committee. A recommendation of the committee to request the Duluth Street Railway company to furnish a funeral car was not acted on.

The committee also made a report on the proposed plumbing and electrical ordinances, and added that the committee is still working on them. The committee is not favorable to the proposed ordinances as planned.

Chairman Nolte of the public affairs committee said last night that he was asked if representatives of those wishing those ordinances passed might have a hearing last night and that he told them that they could. None appeared and the matter was put over until the next meeting. The municipal committee has already named a committee consisting of George W. Morgan, W. E. McEwen and W. J. McCabe to confer with the city commissioners and the representatives of those wishing the ordinances passed, and a meeting will likely be held this week.

Another Park Project.

Francis W. Sullivan, chairman of the committee on city planning, reported that the committee is awaiting the representatives of the Jay Cooke estate to complete plans as to the form of dedication of the Jay Cooke park. He said that about 60 to 70 per cent of the funds to be raised among citizens for the exterior decoration of the new armory at Thirteenth avenue east and Jefferson street has been raised and the committee is endeavoring to complete the sum.

"We have before us," said Mr. Sullivan, "another park project, which owners of the tract in question are willing and anxious to donate to the city for park purposes, but it is not yet in shape to announce for publication."

The agricultural committee reported that it is making ready for exhibits to the state fair, and the committee on charitable organizations urged that all who are solicited for funds for charity demand the committee's sanction card of the solicitors.

Goes to Rochester Church.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 7.—The Rev. Robert A. MacMullen has resigned the pastorate of the Garfield Avenue Baptist church to accept an offer to take charge of the First Baptist church of Rochester, Minn., where he will succeed the late George Gamble. The resignation was accepted.

For Douches and Enemas

Poisons, such as carbolic acid (no matter how mild or under what name), bichloride of mercury or other dangerous drugs, should never be used in douches, except under the personal care of a physician.

Benetol, because it is absolutely non-poisonous and because it is by far the most effective harmless germicide known, is particularly adapted and highly recommended for the vaginal douch.

No objectionable odor, no danger of burning or irritating. Just add a teaspoonful of Benetol to a quart of warm water.

For enemas, add a teaspoonful of Benetol to a quart of soapy warm water, or to the glycerine solution (whichever you may choose to use), and you will sterilize the bowel and instantly check any tendency to piles and bowel trouble.

Benetol has many other uses. Always read and follow directions.

Sold, guaranteed and recommended in Duluth by all druggists and leading drug stores everywhere.

Samples sent free upon request direct to The Benetol Co., 130 Benetol building, Minneapolis, Minn.

ROSEAU CELEBRATED FOURTH ON MONDAY

Roseau, Minn., July 7. — (Special to The Herald.) — Roseau celebrated the Fourth on Monday. The Old Settlers also held their annual picnic at the same time in the Roseau park. Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren delivered the oration of the day. The St. Hillaire band furnished the music. R. J. Bell, editor of the Roseau Times and a pioneer of the country, spoke at the Old Settlers picnic, as did Louis Enstrom and Arne Knutson. The big attraction of the day was the Roseau-Karlstad baseball game which was won by Roseau, 1 to 0. Lofgren and Lofgren, battery for Karlstad; Gilbertson and Rice for Roseau.

If Your Little Baby Could Talk

He would tell you that he does not want cow's milk that settles into lumps on his little stomach—that makes the long, hot, close days of summer feel like a leaden weight on his little hot head—that the still, sultry nights would be easy for him and for you, if he had the food his small stomach could digest.

He would tell you that he likes your breast milk best—he tells you now—as best his little voice can—that at about four months breast milk is not enough for his growing bones and body—that he wants something more—as nearly like that breast milk as he can get. And your mothers and grandmothers knew that what their babies needed was the nearest food to mother's milk.

Begin at the fourth month with one feeding a day—then slowly make it two, then three feedings—until at last your baby will be weaned—and neither you nor the baby will know the difference.

Wean your baby on NESTLÉ'S because NESTLÉ'S brings health, while cow's milk may carry sickness. One cow in three has tuberculosis, and the government of England says that these sick cows bring sickness to our babies.

NESTLÉ'S is made from the milk of healthy cows kept in sanitary dairies. All the heavy parts of milk are modified so that the curd is soft and fleecy as in mother's milk. All that your baby needs and the calf doesn't is added. It comes to you in a tight can—you add only fresh water. And—there you have NESTLÉ'S on which three generations have grown healthy and strong.

Send this little coupon for a big can of Nestlé's (enough for 12 feedings) and for the book about the Care of Babies, by Specialists.

PLANNING TO AID FARMERS

Co-operative Creamery for Duluth Is Indorsed By Merchants.

Campaign for Truthful Advertising Begun; Salvage Sales Attacked.

The promotion of truthful methods in advertising, the re-establishment of farmers' markets and the securing of a co-operative creamery for Duluth were among the many interesting topics discussed by the Duluth Retail Merchants' association at its meeting at the Holland hotel last night.

It was pointed out at the meeting that one of Duluth's most urgent needs is the development of the agricultural resources of St. Louis county, and the merchants will co-operate with agriculturists in securing better advantages in the city for them. A co-operative creamery, which would handle the ever-increasing supply of milk and cream from the farm districts around Duluth, was urged as one of the prime essentials for the promotion of farm life. That the farmers are wide awake and eager to help themselves was shown by the fact that a delegation of men from the farmers' clubs called on A. C. Pearsons and William Burgess yesterday afternoon for the purpose of bringing important matters conducive to their welfare before the merchants.

Seven Clubs United.

"There are now seven farmers' co-operative clubs around Duluth," said Mr. Pearsons today, "and the farm interests are rapidly developing. The merchants should do everything possible to encourage farming, and one of the best things that could be done, both for the farmers and the city, would be the establishment of a co-operative creamery. The farmers and merchants are heartily in favor of the idea, as the dairy products from the creamery could be disposed of right here in the city. The farmers' clubs could join in securing sufficient cream and milk to supply the creamery, so that it would prove a paying proposition."

The merchants indorsed the creamery proposition.

Adequate markets for the farmers also were urged by the merchants. The farmers are dissatisfied with the Armory as a market place, and prefer the old courthouse site. It was reported that autoists are "hogging the roads" and that farmers are not securing their right to half of the road. The merchants decided to co-operate with the automobile club in securing equal rights for farmers.

Salvage Sales Attacked.

Untruthful advertising will be the object of a strong attack by the merchants. One of the leading attorneys of Duluth has been retained by the association, and untruthful advertisers will be prosecuted without favor. Members of the merchants' association will be subject to this action just as much as any other dealer in the city, said Mr. Pearsons today.

One of the first moves to be made by the merchants will be to secure the registration of transient merchants as such and not as permanent dealers.

Salvage sales came in for severe criticism, and the association will endeavor to put a stop to any sale of this nature where false values are marked or advertised in conducting such sales. If an article is marked all wool, it must be all wool, and if its value is marked to be a certain amount, the goods must stand the test of expert inspection. It is expected that this campaign will protect the public from the merchant who puts shoddy goods on the market, advertised as honest values.

Investigate Grievances.

Secretary Peterson reported that the furniture men, the clothiers and the shoe, hardware, drug dealers had organized unit organizations to investigate grievances in their departments so that condensed reports can be given to the major organization where disputes will be settled and action taken.

George Fairley extended an invitation to the merchants for the convention of the National Credit Men's association in Duluth next month.

CONEY MAY BE BURIED IN DULUTH

Widow of Murdered Grain Man Would Have Funeral Here.

Duluth officials of the Kellogg, Spencer & Sons grain company were unable to state today whether the body of Harry J. Coney, killed by an insane passenger aboard the British steamer Tennyson July 4, would be brought here for burial or not.

Arrangements first were made to send the body from the Barbadoes islands to Jackson, Mich., Mr. Coney's former home and the residence of his father and mother. Mrs. Coney, Jr., yesterday expressed a desire to have the remains brought here, however, and her wish probably will be observed.

Mr. Coney was returning from Argentina, where he had been for nearly six months while studying flax conditions. It was his third South American trip.

When off the Barbadoes, Caesar Bravo, a Peruvian saloon passenger on the Tennyson, suddenly became insane and ran amuck with a loaded revolver. Mr. Coney, according to reports, was in the insane man's path. At last report, Bravo was dying from the effects of wounds inflicted after he shot the Duluth man.

No further reports of the particulars of the shooting have been obtained by Duluth friends of the Coney family.

Lights and Shadows of Police Court

MOTHER FAILS TO MAKE BLUFF GOOD

Takes Back Her Babies and Husband Stays in Jail.

"Bye Babies bunting, Mama's gone a'hunting."

Thus paraphrased Police Matron Connelley at headquarters yesterday, while she wheeled a baby carriage containing the two children of Mr. and Mrs. M. Rolski, 12 Railroad street.

Mike was a short distance away, behind the bars, and Mrs. Mike, indignant because her husband was held by police, demanded that they care for the children, and stalked out in a high rage, leaving them to their fate.

"You give me my husband, or take care of those kids," she called back as a parting shot.

"Come back here," called Capt. A. G. Fiskett, but it was too late, and Matron Connelley acquired two new charges.

For four hours the healthy-lunged infants were harbored at the station, while Sergeant Weber with Clerk of Municipal Court W. J. Richeson took turns at amusing them.

At the end of the four hours patience was all gone, however, and a policeman was sent to 12 Railroad street, where he told Mrs. Rolski that unless she claimed her offspring at once a charge of child desertion would be lodged against her. She came at once.

Mike was sentenced to seven days at the work farm this morning, while his belligerent spouse looked daggers at the judge.

ACQUITTED FOR SECOND TIME

Police Fail to Convict Owner of Michigan Street "Club."

For the second time within a month Charles Brody, age 45, yesterday escaped conviction on a charge of keeping an unlicensed drinking place at 116 West Michigan street.

When Brody was arrested Friday night after Sergt. John Englert had raided his "club" rooms, a large quantity of "health" beer and many individual gin flasks were seized.

The prisoner contended that no one bought any liquor in his place, and that although his was a social club, the members all bought their supplies elsewhere.

He was arrested on a similar charge May 26, and released a few days later.

STOWAWAYS GIVEN FREEDOM

Bellhops From Detroit and Cleveland "See America First."

Stowaways three, after a trip from the Soo "in brig" on the Mutual line merchandise steamer Lakeland, grew penitent in municipal court this morning and promised never to do it again.

Aloysius R. Boyle, age 22, of Cleveland, Earl L. Wagner, age 21, of Toledo, Ohio, and Joseph E. Ollis, age 22, of Detroit, all of them bell hops at hotels in their respective cities, thought they would follow the dictates of the "See America First" movement, as long as the war was raging abroad.

They started out by trying to see the Great Lakes, but so far they've seen more of Lake Superior from the windows of the Duluth jail than from any other place.

When the Lakeland docked last night, Jailer L. A. Root went to the Northern Pacific dock No. 3 and took the lads in tow. Judge Smallwood suspended sentence.

COMMISSIONER'S DRAG-NET.

Silberstein Causes Arrest of Two More Speed Violators.

Four more speeders, two of them victims of Commissioner Bernard Silberstein's watchfulness, were arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

Edwin L. Plummer was found guilty and paid a fine of $16.12. Martin Rude, appearing for the third traffic violation, pleaded not guilty and will be given a hearing July 8.

George Anderson, a speeding motorcyclist, was brought to headquarters by Officer Nyström of the West end station. He will be given a hearing this afternoon. A. Tylewski, a jitneur, also denied his guilt and will have a chance to prove it this afternoon.

MAY STILL PAY TAX WITHOUT PENALTY

Payment of income tax is still allowable without attachment of a penalty although the final date for payment was June 30. A period of ten days grace is given after notice and demand of payment is made. This time, however, may extend into the month of July to any extent depending upon the time the notice and demand has been received by the taxpayer.

After this ten-day period a penalty of 5 per cent on the tax unpaid and interest at 1 per cent a month on the tax from the time it fell due except in the cases of insane, deceased or insolvent persons is attached.

Montenegrins Released.

Portland, Or., July 7.—After having been retained three hours here today by Federal authorities a party of 145 alleged Montenegrin recruits in charge of two agents, hurrying on a special train from Globe, Ariz., to Vancouver, B. C., was allowed to proceed at 11:35 a. m.

WILL AMEND FAULTY LAWS

Ordinances Providing Ninety-Day Imprisonment for Misdemeanors Invalid.

Because more than a score of ordinances conflict with the state laws by providing for a ninety-day jail sentence, Commissioner Silberstein will ask the city attorney's office to prepare revisions of all such measures for the council to act upon.

He said this morning that he will take the matter up with City Attorney Greene as soon as the latter is out of the St. Luke's hospital, where he has been confined the past two weeks. Mr. Greene's condition is reported as improved and it is believed that he will return to his office within a week or ten days.

"Many of our ordinances provide for a penalty of $100 or ninety days," said Commissioner Silberstein this morning, "and as a result they will not hold water in the courts. The statutes allow only an eighty-five-day sentence for misdemeanors. I am going to take this up right away and have the ordinances changed, wherever the fault exists."

Last winter Judge Cant of the district court held that a ninety-day sentence for a misdemeanor is against the statutes and last week the municipal court threw out a case, because the penalty provided was ninety days imprisonment, or a fine of $100. A cow had trespassed on private property and the police were unable to obtain a conviction because of the technical error in the ordinance.

ARCHBISHOP STILL LIVES; NO HOPE GIVEN

Rochester, N. Y., July 7.—Archbishop James Edward Quigley of Chicago, continues to hover between life and death at the home of his brother here. The report from the sick room early this afternoon was that the archbishop continued to sink. Frank McGuire, a Buffalo specialist, was in consultation with the attending physicians. He held out no hope.

MORGAN TRANSACTS BUSINESS OVER PHONE

New York, July 7.—J. P. Morgan, convalescing at his home in Glen Cove from the effects of Holt's attack was in communication for some time with his office in this city today, transacting business over the telephone. He said he felt much better and word from the physicians in attendance at his home was that his condition continued to improve.

Puts Personality Into Her Work

MRS. SAMUEL SWIFT.

The expression of personality is the key to interior decoration, says Mrs. Samuel Swift, one of New York's foremost decorators. Mrs. Swift is one of the many modern women whose business activities have developed out of a natural talent which had to find outward expression. She helped so many of her friends with suggestions for the decoration of their homes that the gravitation into a business career was very natural.

TWO LARGE JOBS LEFT

All Other Extensive Paving Under Way; Small Jobs Coming.

Only two large paving jobs are scheduled to begin this summer.

Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division, said this morning that work is now under way on every large pavement planned for this summer, excepting Commonwealth avenue, from Eighty-fourth avenue west to Zimmerly avenue, and Grand avenue, from Twenty-ninth to Fifty-fourth avenue west. The contract for the former will be let within a short time, he said, while a petition requesting the Grand avenue pavement is now in circulation, and will be filed some time this month. Many similar improvements will be ordered later in the summer.

The Commonwealth avenue pavement will be an eighteen-foot concrete roadway to connect with the mile stretch completed last summer on the east side of Gary. Work on the brick pavement in Gary was begun two weeks ago.

Other pavements under construction include Minnesota avenue from Twelfth to Thirty-eighth street; Woodland avenue, from Fourth street to Kent road; Ninth street, from Seventh to Fourteenth avenue east; Sixth street, from Fifteenth to Eighteenth avenue east; Sixteenth avenue east, from Sixth to Eighth street; Sixth street, from Twenty-first to Twenty-fifth avenue west; Highland street, from Fifty-ninth to Sixty-fourth avenue west; Exeter street, from Third street to Pacific avenue, and First street, from Twenty-eighth avenue east to Congdon park.

FARM CLUBS WILL HAVE CONFERENCES

St. Louis County Organizations Asked to Be Represented at State Fair.

Farmers' clubs of St. Louis county have been asked to turn out with a good representation at the farmers' club conference to be held during the state fair week at Hamline.

A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of agricultural agents, has received a letter from A. D. Wilson, director of the agricultural extension work of the state university, in which he states that conferences will be held on the state fair grounds daily from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Fair week is from Sept. 6 to 11.

On the second day a discussion will be held on the subject of "County Federation of Farmers' Clubs." St. Louis county is invited to have a speaker at this discussion.

CO-OPERATIVE PLAN MAY BE APPROVED

Insurance Company Selling Policies to Jitneurs Likely to Get License.

From an informal opinion received by City Attorney Greene early this afternoon, it is believed that local jitney drivers will be permitted to operate with co-operative insurance in the state of Minnesota.

The opinion was sent by State Insurance Commissioner Works, who forwarded the city attorney's office a copy of a letter he received from the attorney general, Lyndon A. Smith.

From this letter it is believed that the National Indemnity Exchange of Kansas City will have little difficulty in obtaining a state license in Minnesota.

As a result of this opinion local jitney drivers bring the matter before the city council and a change in the jitney ordinance will be requested making the co-operative policy legal. In that event, the referendum petition for a special election on the ordinance will be dropped.

Made Queen of Spain for Eugenic Reasons

QUEEN OF SPAIN.

This picture shows the queen of Spain as she looks in 1915. She was Victoria Eugenie, daughter of the late Prince Henry of Battenburg and granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria of England. She was selected for the king's consort supposedly on eugenic principles as she was an unusually strong, healthy young woman. She has had five children, most of whom are reported to be in poor physical condition. The royal house of Spain is not a healthy family.

PROTEST ON GRAIN RATES

Northwest Elevator Companies Complain on Freights to Duluth.

Washington, July 7.—More than 100 elevator companies in the Northwest complained today to the interstate commerce commission against grain rates over the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul from Minnesota points to Duluth and to Superior, Wis.

They also attacked rates on anthracite and soft coal from Duluth and Superior to Minnesota stations.

Members of the Duluth traffic commission have no inkling of what the protest consists of or who is responsible for it. G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner, said today that it is probably a move of some farmers' elevator associations instigated by "reparation" lawyers at Washington. Until more information has been received regarding the matter, Mr. Hall said, he would not care to comment on it.

UP TO COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER.

City Health Director Urges Investigation to Avoid Typhoid Epidemic.

Sanitation and drainage conditions at Exeter Farms are declared by E. W. Fahey, city health director, to be a proper subject for investigation at the hands of the county health officer.

In a letter addressed to the county board, Dr. Fahey declares that if the present conditions are allowed to exist there is great liability of an outbreak of typhoid or some other disease.

Dr. I. J. Murphy, county health officer, who recently left for St. Paul to accept a position, has not formally resigned. Two physicians have, however, made application for his job. They are Dr. Fred J. Patton and Dr. J. R. Manley.

AFTERMATH OF FOURTH.

Government Seizes Whisky Found on Indian Reservation.

An aftermath of the Fourth of July celebration near Cass Lake bobbed up in the Federal court today when an action was filed by the government against sixty quarts of whisky, one dapple gray horse, a democrat wagon, one light work horse and a fly net, all of which are now in the hands of the Federal authorities at Bemidji.

The liquor and other property were seized by the Indian Agent J. P. Brandt, and will be confiscated. The owners of the property have not been located.

SUPERIOR

Boy Loses Leg.

Aloysie Siteck, aged 5, son of John Siteck, 1018 Cedar avenue, was run over by a switch engine and had his right leg cut off, at the Omaha crossing near Broadway and Eleventh street, yesterday afternoon. The child was attempting to catch a ride on one of the cars. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where the leg was amputated above the knee.

School Board Elects.

A. J. Wentzel was re-elected president of the school board at its annual meeting held last night. The school board re-elected W. E. Maddock superintendent of the Superior schools. W. J. Whipple was chosen vice president; L. A. Nichols, secretary; Miss Katherine Bruder, stenographer; Dr. H. A. Russell, physician, and Charles Bird, truant officer.

BRAIN REMOVED.

Taken From Body of Frank Holt at Autopsy.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 7.—At the undertaking establishment where Holt's body was taken a telegram was received today from Dr. O. F. Sensabaugh, of Dallas, Tex., Holt's father-in-law, inquiring if the body were ready for shipment to Dallas.

District Attorney Smith said he had no objection to the body being removed today for burial. Accordingly a telegram was sent Dr. Sensabaugh advising him that shipment could be made at once.

The brain was removed from the body during the autopsy.

WOMAN PRESIDENT.

Mrs. Victor Berger Head of the Milwaukee School Board.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 7.—Mrs. Victor Berger, wife of the former Socialist congressman from this district, was elected president of the school board last night. She is the first woman thus to be honored in this city.

Mrs. Berger was re-elected to the school board for the seventh time last spring, polling 24,000 or 6,000 more than her nearest opponent.

Ambassador's Wife Goes to Newport

MME. GEORGE BAKHMETIEFF.

Mme. George Bakhmetieff has gone to Newport from Washington accompanying her husband who is Russian ambassador at the capital. They will spend the summer at the Rhode Island resort where Mme. Bakhmetieff has been a conspicuous figure in social life for several seasons. Mme. Bakhmetieff is an American woman, a sister of Mrs. John R. McLean of Washington.

TO AWAIT REPLY FROM GERMANY

No Views Will Be Expressed Before By United States.

Washington, July 7.—Indications today were that the United States would await the receipt of the German reply to the note on submarine warfare as finally delivered to Ambassador Gerard before expressing a view on the acceptability of the recent German proposals.

Officials here generally declined to express an opinion on the suggestions made by Germany in the tentative draft informally submitted to Ambassador Gerard. It was not understood that Germany had requested Ambassador Gerard to learn the views of this government, but merely had transmitted a rough memorandum of the proposals so the United States could, if it chose, make comment.

It is considered most likely that the United States will decline to enter into discussion, while awaiting Germany's reply. Thus far no instructions have been sent to Ambassador Gerard, although of his own initiative he asked if there were any, and it is not altogether certain that any will be sent except perhaps to make inquiry as to when the final draft of the reply will be ready. Officials here are hoping it will be ready shortly. Almost a month has elapsed since the American note was sent.

VARIOUS PERILS.

Chicago News: "You must admit," said the pretty school teacher to the bos'n, "that war has greater perils than the briny deep."

"Well, perhaps so," answered the bos'n. "But war isn't half as dangerous as moving picture acting. I was reading the other day about bombs knocking some fellows off their horses and the fellows got up and dusted themselves and rode away. Now in the moving pictures under such circumstances the men drag themselves around and make faces for half an hour.

"Those fellows over there aren't real earnest about this war at all. Look at the czar! What does he know about being sassy. In order to be as insulting as possible he calls his own city Petrograd! If he wanted to be real provoking why didn't he call the kaiser's own something like that?"

"If he calls his own city Petrograd I shudder to think what he will call Berlin," suggested the teacher. "And this name changing on the part of Russia is going to be fatal, if the bullets are not. If all the Russian names that can be pronounced are going to be changed to things that cannot be pronounced, much less remembered, it is going to be very rough on my boys."

"The history of this war is going to be rough on your boys anyway. It will read like this:

"'Gen. Serpugov, after consultation with Gen. Zolsoglyebesk, decided to fall back on Surpackov.'"

"I guess that would muss up Surwhatever you call it—some," put in the shoe clerk. "I'd hate to have anything like those two falling back on me."

"That's it," said the bos'n. "The name is enough to scare you. You can't even scare seafaring men with a name. I remember once, when I was on the Slipp'ry Sue, we captured a Russian ship and sunk it. Then when the captain went to make out the report of it he couldn't even begin to spell the name of the boat. That put him in bad, for he had to make a correct report to headquarters.

"It was all we could do to dodge Russian craft after that, for we didn't want to sink them. We didn't want to have to report them and get ditched on spelling the name.

"In fact, we used to have a man up on the yardarm with a paper and pencil ready to copy the name down as soon as he could read it, but that took so long that we were liable to sink the boat before he could get the name copied off. Some of those names ran along one side and all around the stern and back on the other side, so we had to circle around the boat to read it all.

"I tell you some of those names are enough to scare anybody."

WOMEN LASSO WILD BOARS.

Denver Post: Mrs. F. A. Alexander and her daughter, Ruth Mayfield, of 3439 Delgany street do not know how the two wild boars that escaped from the City Park zoo, in the latter part of June, got down in their neighborhood, but they will be glad when they receive the $10 reward for the capture of the animals.

When the two hogs escaped from the zoo systematic search of the surrounding country failed to find them. It was supposed that they could not have gone far. The argument was that two hogs couldn't wander far from the park without being seen, and being seen would be reported to police headquarters and their capture would speedily follow.

However, the two animals did wander more than two miles across the city and were found by the two women in the block in which they live. They captured them with lassoes and began a search for their owners.

One of the women notified the police and in this way the park department heard of the capture. Commissioner Thum, head of the park department, agreed to send the women $10.

UNCLE SAM AS A PROFESSOR OF LITERATURE

Washington Star: A complete course in the world's literature, selected by experts and supervised by government officials who keep in close touch with the needs of the people, is the latest experiment of the bureau of education in Washington—an experiment which it is hoped, will result in the material elevation of the literary tastes of the people throughout the United States.

For years teachers and preachers have been insisting that the average citizen of the United States reads entirely too much "trash" that the children of the nation are being brought up solely on reading which not only does not improve their minds, but which actually injures them. But the movement has stopped there. No one has thought to carry it further or to remedy the evil to which it gave rise.

It therefore remained for P. P. Claxton, chief of the bureau of education of the department of the interior, to see what the government could do to better the literary taste of the country as a whole. Ten reading courses, compiled by the officials of the home education division of the bureau of education, were the result and hundreds of letters are going out daily instructing parents of children, teachers and pupils as to what they could read in order to improve their mind and provide that polish for their public school education which only a selected course in good reading can supply.

"Great Literary Bibles."

The first of these courses is under the general title, "Great Literary Bibles," a list of books so pre-eminent for style and context that they form the highest ideal of literature. The works selected by the bureau to be placed in this class are the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" of Homer, the "Divine Comedy" of Dante, the greater works of Shakespeare and Goethe's" Faust." Each of these is the embodiment and revelation of the ideals of a race, an age or a civilization. They came out of the hearts and minds of the people, for whom their authors were only the spokesmen. They are therefore simple, fundamental and comprehensive —the bibles of literature.

They appeal to the hearts and grip the minds of all people, young or old, learned or unlearned, of all races and creeds. They are human books, and they take a firm hold on the human life which we all live. They are broad-minded books. Their authors saw life steadily, and saw it whole. Kings and priests to God and humanity, they interpreted for man the eternal mysteries. Prophetic men, they stood on the mountain tops and caught the glow of the ever dawning new day. Finely organized men, they felt the heart-throb and pulse-beat of the human race, and understood the hopes and fears and aspirations of humanity better than most. What is more, they have set these emotions to the music of rhythmic winged words.

National Reading Circle.

These books should be read by all who would know the world's literature and life. The bureau of education has, therefore, chosen them for its first course in reading, and invites all serious-minded young men and women to join this, the first national reading circle, the members of which are expected to undertake to read each of these books at least twice within the next three years. To each person giving satisfactory evidence of having read all the books on the list there will be awarded a certificate bearing the seal of the United States bureau of education.

The Shakespearean works included in this course are "The Merchant of Venice," "Macbeth," "Hamlet" and "Othello." In addition to the books I have already alluded to, the government has prepared a secondary course in literary bibles for the use of those who have completed the first course. This includes the Book of Job, the Book of Isaiah, the Book of Deuteronomy, "Prometheus Bound" of Aeschylus," the "Aeneid" of Virgil, the "Nibelungenlied," "Don Quixote," select play by Moliere and Milton's "Paradise Lost."

Best in the World.

These courses will, in a general manner, include all that is best in the literature of the world, compressed into a very small space. The question now arises of how to treat the subdivisions of literature, those books which, by their nature, are intended for certain classes of readers.

To meet this difficulty the bureau of education has prepared other lists of publications which will be issued from time to time, and which will include such subjects as reading courses for parents, miscellaneous reading for boys and girls, a list of thirty books of great fiction, American literature, some of the world's greatest heroes and two courses dealing exclusively with biography and history. In this manner we hope to reach all classes and ages of people, the serious-minded as well as the more frivolous, the young and the old, those who read for amusement and those who read for education. The result, we confidently hope, will be the improvement of the public mind wherever these courses are taken up and followed.

Miss Ellen C. Lombard, who is in direct charge of the government's course in literature, is of the opinion that the reading course for parents will be even more popular than the other branches of this service, because it will appeal to the home-makers, who have hitherto had little to guide them in their troubles or aid them in solving their problems.

"We believe," said Miss Lombard, "that fathers and mothers who have gained experience through parenthood would welcome suggestions as to methods for the fullest development of the physical, mental and spiritual life of the children." That was the reason for compiling this list of books, which have proved valuable to many parents, books which will help fathers and mothers to understand and cope with the problems which they find facing them every day. This list is not intended to be exhaustive. Many helpful books are not included in it. However, the list is typical and these books cannot fail to be very helpful."

Parents' Problems.

Included in this list one finds books dealing with the practical problems of motherhood, marriage and the sex problem, the development of children, care of babies, training boys and girls, domestic economy, clothing, domestic science and a number of the bulletins of the department of agriculture on canning, preserving and fruit growing. The latter are included because of their bearing on the proper education of children in the rural districts.

"We expect that the course in general fiction which we have prepared and are about to give to the public will probably be the most widely followed of all these lists," said Miss Lombard. "Fiction, of course, is more generally cared for than fact, no matter how interesting the latter may be. We all love to lose ourselves in some thrilling novel of adventure or romance, and the bureau, realizing this primary desire, has decided to direct it into the proper channels by authorizing a list of thirty books which bear the stamp of approval of this division.

"The list includes practically every variety of fiction, with the possible exception of detective stories and purely sex problems. The different periods of fiction are all represented from 'The Arabian Nights' and 'Clarissa Harlowe' to 'Treasure Island.'

Classes of Fiction.

"The descriptive style of fiction is represented by 'Adam Bede,' 'The Vicar of Wakefield,' 'David Copperfield' and 'The Ordeal of Richard Feverel;' the school of adventure by 'Treasure Island,' 'The Pilot,' 'Tale of Two Cities,' 'Last of the Mohicans' and 'With Fire and Sword;' 'Pilgrim's Progress' supplies allegorical element, while the geographical range of the authors is as wide as the subjects selected. Tolstoy's 'Anna Karanina' is Russia's contribution to the list; France is represented by 'The Three Musketeers' and 'Pere Goriot;' Sienkiewicz, 'With Fire and Sword,' is Poland's addition. England gave a number of the leading works, including 'Guy Mannering,' 'Henry Esmonde,' 'Lorna Doone,' 'Pride and Prejudice,' 'Cloister and the Hearth' and 'Vanity Fair,' while America is represented by 'The Luck of Roaring Camp,' 'A Modern Instance,' 'The Scarlet Letter,' 'Kidnapped' and 'Treasure Island.'

"It is the intention of the government to follow these lists, already prepared, by several others now in the course of preparation. The best books for boys and girls will also be treated in this manner, as will American literature, the world's heroes and biographical and historical subjects. Some of these courses will necessarily overlap, but every effort will be made to keep them separate and distinct.

Supply the Books.

"The government now possesses copies of a number of the books on these lists, notably those on the reading course for parents. These books, of course, are distinct from the volumes in the congressional library, and it is the aim of this division to supply them to persons who are unable to buy or borrow them. The government does not intend to start a circulating library, but it does intend to help deserving persons as much as possible, and hardly a day passes that we do not receive requests for some of our books from nurses or women in outlying sections of the country—people who are financially unable to purchase the books, but who will be benefited by reading them and who can be depended upon to return them in good condition. Perhaps in time this may grow into a regular governmental service. I am sure that it would be a good one, and most beneficial to the people at large, for there is nothing that would be of more use to the nation as a whole than to have its citizens well grounded in the subjects which we have taken up in this reading course."

SERVANT PROBLEM.

Chicago News: "Servants have all the best of it!" remarked Skimble. "Look at my wife. Before she had a lot of servants in the house she was thin and willowy and graceful, and still she was hearty and strong. She had a good appetite and was the picture of health.

"But all that is changed now. She is fat, so fat, in fact, that she has to walk around the block every day to reduce. First she walked around the block once. Then that was not enough and she increased the number of times around the block and the speed. Now she goes around four times at a pretty good pace.

"The performance provides plenty of entertainment for the neighbors, who are eager to see how long it will be before she adds another block to her course, which, of course, depends upon how long it is before she adds another pound to her stature."

"I presume the neighbors all have stop watches to enable them to keep tab on what rate of speed she is developing? No doubt she has increased her speed considerably," said Corbson.

"Yes, she improves."

"Then, I suppose, if you take on a couple more servants you will have a long distance sprinter in the family?"

"Yes, the less work for her to do in the house the more walking and exercise there will have to be for her outdoors. If she lets servants do all the work and get all the exercise she has the mortification of seeing them get ahead of her all along the line. They get all the exercise in sight and eat like ducks, while my wife has no desire whatever to eat, and eating is one of the joys of life.

"The maids can go ahead and eat their heads off without getting fat. The work they do keeps them thin and graceful. They have the fun of eating without paying the penalty of being fat.

"It is very unfortunate that one's social status depends upon the number of servants one employs. But that seems to be the way in the clique my wife goes with.

"Those who have four servants have some way of proclaiming it—I don't know just how—and that makes the women who have only three servants look kind of foolish.

"I don't know why."

"That's easy," answered Corbson. "The number of servants in the house is proclaimed by the amount of flesh on the mistresses or the number of blocks they do each day."

TRUE ECONOMY IS NOT MONEY SAVING

New York Press: That in addition to the true economy there is another economy which may be termed a false one does not enter into the calculations of many men and women, particularly does it not enter into the consideration of some housewives who, if they are exceedingly careful in spending of their money, feel they have achieved an economy to be proud of.

There is no economy, no saving that can be called a true saving, that means the conserving of mere money and the giving up of other things more worth while than money. The average housewife is the greatest offender in this respect.

In many a home today there is some piece of furniture, some picture on the wall, some rug or carpet on the floor that cries aloud every time the occupants of the home see it, that strikes a discordant note in the harmony of the home, but which is kept there on the mere question of spending a few dollars to replace.

The money were well spent if only for the relief, the banishment of the offending object would give the members of the household, but owing to the false idea of economy it is retained. Oftentimes the harmonious effect of a room is shattered by one piece of furniture, which is too good to throw away and which will not fit in any room in the house. Sometimes this furniture is handed down to one from a relative.

The old furniture—the real antiques —are worth display and fit in well with almost any furnishings in a room, for time has mellowed them and has brought to the full the grace given them by their makers. However, no matter what the source, there is no real reason for spoiling a present-day living room with an "early Garfield" period what-not or other piece of furniture because it was willed by some kindly-intentioned friend or relative.

There are today many pictures, pieces of furniture and carpets or drapes doing duty in otherwise artistic homes that would easily be deemed worthy of the first prize in a bad-taste exhibit. They are retained mainly because it would cost a few dollars to replace them with the harmonious bit. They hold their places in the name of sentiment and of economy, but the true economy of it would be to rid the home of such things that jar on one's nerves. Home would be quieter and more restful then, and in the rest to the nerves the money expenditure would be found to embody the true economy.

Indianapolis News: Two women were absorbingly engaged in an intimate conversation on the street car. No wonder another woman was much interested when she overheard the following:

"Got a letter from my ol' man. Hadn't heard from him for a long time. Says he's comin' home."

"Now, ain't that too bad," said the other consolingly. "An' you got such a good start."

"Yes, I hate it. Was gettin' along so well."

"My exjerience was th' same. Was makin' money and livin' easy, when my ol' man come back. He set around and et until my easy time was over."

Then the woman who had received the letter heaved a sigh. "It's an awful 'sponsibility on a woman havin' a husban' at home," she said.

There are many large associations in Holland for the promotion of bulb culture.

HEAD-ON collisions are not profitable methods of disposing of used cars. Junk heaps are sold by the pound. Thousands of people in Duluth and the Empire of Steel are ready and willing to pay fair prices for used cars. They cannot afford new cars, or want to become thoroughly familiar with gas engines, transmissions, driving, etc., before owning a new car, or they can make use of an old car in their business with a smaller investment.

¶ These prospective buyers recognize "The Herald automobile column" as the best and largest list of used cars for sale. They are watching "Herald want ads" for their favorite make at the price they are willing to pay.

¶ Proof of this constant "watching" is shown by the fact that many used cars have already been sold through "The Herald automobile column."

¶ The reason for these numerous sales was disclosed when a careful comparison was made of the list of names in which automobile licenses have been issued and the circulation books of The Duluth Herald. Ninety-eight per cent of the automobile owners in this vicinity were found to be readers of The Duluth Herald. If 98 per cent of the present automobile owners are Duluth Herald readers it is reasonable to believe that 98 per cent of the future automobile owners are also readers of The Duluth Herald.

¶ If you have a used car for sale and wish to reach this great buying class insert an ad in "The Herald automobile column" and sell it.

¶ For rates or other information concerning "Herald want ads" telephone Melrose or Grand 324 or call at The Duluth Herald business office or write.

DURUM SHOWS SHARP UPTURN

Market Is Strong, With Urgent Bidding and Light Offerings.

Flaxseed Advances Moderately on Crushers' Buying; Trading Still Limited.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 7.—The market was easier around the close, but today was quiet. A fresh bulge in durum on renewed bidding was the feature.

July wheat closed 1½c up; September 1⅜c up and December 1⅝c up. July durum closed 5c up and September 4¾c up.

Oats closed ¼c off at 48¾c for on the track; rye, 5c off at 95c, and barley unchanged at from 65 to 70c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed ¼c up at 59¾c, and October ⅝c up at 42⅝c.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at $1.02¼, and calls at $1.04⅜.

With higher cables and reports of general rains in the Southwest interfering with harvesting, the wheat market turned strong with substantial advances recorded in it today.

Locally the volume of trading was light, and prices rested after their upturn scored during the first hour's business. With the situation in old wheat as tight as it is, high premiums upon it remained the order, but no outside sales were reported to either Eastern or Southern Minnesota millers. On the whole, traders played a waiting game pending the appearance of the July government crop report due tomorrow. Though conditions are fairly well understood, operators desire to have their views backed up from official sources. The market remains a weather proposition, and that is thought likely to largely continue so till the harvesting of spring wheat begins.

The present apathy on the part of exporters is coming in for some comment, as it is conceded that future values must depend mainly upon the attitude of foreigners. In some quarters it is estimated that less than 10,000,000 bu of new wheat has thus far been sold abroad for future shipment, while last year exporters had purchased approximately 75,000,000 bu. Compared with the record of the last two months, there was a fairly good run of wheat here today, inspections amounting to 70 cars. Last year, however, 825 cars came to hand.

Cash markets at Kansas City and St. Louis were strong. At the former point wheat sold at around 2c higher than yesterday. New wheat from Oklahoma was said to have been booked for sale there. At St. Louis cash new wheat sold from $1.25 to $1.28 or 1@3c higher than yesterday. Twenty-two cars of new wheat were received there. Old cash wheat sold at $1.31.

July wheat opened ½c up at $1.34 and gained 1c more up to the noon hour. September opened 1⅛c up at $1.05 and gained ⅝c more. December advanced 1⅜c to $1.05½.

A sharp demand sprung up for durum, and with light offerings and scarcity of stocks, its quotations were easily advanced. July opened unchanged at $1.22 and moped up 3c. September opened ½c up at 1.06 and gained 2c more.

Flaxseed Strong.

Flaxseed again showed moderate strength on good bidding by crushers, while holders showed little disposition to sell at the present range of quotations. Trading was in light volume.

July flax opened unchanged to $1.75 and closed 1¼c up at $1.76¼ asked. September opened unchanged at $1.78¼ and closed ½c up at $1.78⅝ asked. October opened unchanged at $1.79¾ and closed ½c up at $1.80¼ asked.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed 1c up at $1.56 asked and October ¼c up at $1.59¾ asked.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 1½c off at $1.27⅞ and London unchanged at $1.91⅞.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Bradstreet's placed the world's visible supply of wheat at 101,169,000 bu, against 94,738,000 bu last year. Wheat supplies increased 494,000 bu in the week, oats decreased 2,274,000 bu, and corn decreased 1,446,000 bu.

Chicago public and private elevator stocks: Wheat, 140,000 bu, decrease, 370,000 bu, last year, 532,000 bu; corn, 1,224,000 bu, decrease, 709,000 bu, last year, 2,514,000 bu; oats, 1,067,000 bu, decrease, 388,000 bu, last year, 2,664,000 bu.

Price Current says: "The entire winter wheat harvest section is under delay, and where threshing has obtained in the widely separated dry sections, the quality of much of the grain is poor. The spring wheat region has been helped by the cool, rainy weather, and is now needing bright, warm days to mature the crop, which should pass into the blooming period this week, in the southern section of the belt. There doesn't seem to be anything which could seriously hurt the spring wheat, short of early frosts, as the crop will be a late one. Corn planting is completed, and the condition has improved somewhat in the past week, but on the whole the outlook is not the best."

Charles E. Lewis & Co. had the following from Chicago: "Old wheat abroad is firmly held, and with strength in Buenos Aires, Liverpool closed ½@1d higher in face of our weakness. The weather map shows rather unfavorable conditions over the greater part of the belt, heavy rains falling. However, unless they continue, there will probably be a resumption of threshing operations within a day or so. It is now clearing at many points in the Southwest, while a good part of Kansas where harvest is in full swing did not get much rain. The technical situation has been strengthened by the sharp reaction from Saturday's high point."

A wire from Lake Preston, S. D., said: "Crops in this territory are decidedly above the average. Wheat is looking generally well. Condition of wheat in this territory is uniformly good and crop accounts in general are good. Weather is cloudy. Weather is favorable for wheat and oats."

Kuesch & Schwartz company had the following from St. Louis: "The demand here for spot red wheat is coming from outside country mills to fill July contracts of No. 4 red, selling around 20c premium over July, and No. 3 red selling at 5@7c discount under No. 2 red. Demand from this source is very urgent in a small way. Indications are that this premium will hardly be dissipated as a run of wheat, as we generally have at this season is extremely remote."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Weakness in America yesterday was offset by firmness in Buenos Aires and fewer shippers' offers. Old wheat everywhere is strongly held and the American visible statement confirms the small reserves. Spot market was quiet but with firm undertone and 1½ to 1d higher, with cargo market firm, winters 4½d higher, Manitobas unchanged, Plates 9d higher and Indians 6d higher.

"Millers continue to absorb freely of arrivals, but prospective arrivals are liberal if tonnage is available and other menacing conditions attending shipping are obviated. This serves to curtail fresh trades. Country markets are strong, consumption is being reduced by official suggestion. Continental demand is becoming apparent, and it is believed that this will shortly assume importance, as purchase were made in America yesterday. Corn had strong undertone with the dearer Plate offers and strong Argentine freights. Spot demand was urgent at the rise and the cargo market 3@6d higher."

At Minneapolis there was a fair demand for top grades. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 13c over July and velvet chaff at 3@5c over July. Flour sales were moderate, with one small order for export. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from $1.30@1.40, and No. 2 northern at from $1.27@1.37. Stocks of wheat in Minneapolis elevators decreased 170,000 in the week.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Heavy Rains and Higher Cables Cause Wheat Prices to Advance.

Chicago, July 7.—Heavy rains and higher cables resulted today in a swift advance of the price of wheat. Shorts were urgent buyers of the July delivery in particular, as the storms threatened a serious delay in the movement of the domestic winter crop. Besides, Liverpool advices appeared to indicate that decided expansion of European buying was imminent. After opening ⅞@1c to 4c higher the market here steadied at a moderate reaction from the top point of the bulge.

On the setback the market displayed much resistance to selling pressure, despite clearing weather in the Southwest. Closing prices were steady at 1⅛c to 2⅛c above last night.

Corn rose with wheat and as a result of unfavorable weather and bullish cables. The advance was checked, however by increased selling on the part of commission houses. Opening prices, which ranged from ¾ to 1⅜c higher, were followed by slight additional gains.

Country offerings remained small and Eastern demand good. The close was unsettled, ⅝@½c to ⅝c above last night.

Prospects of harvest delay had a quick bullish effect on oats. There were reports also of big sales for deferred shipment to the seaboard.

Weakness developed in provisions. The downturn of values seemed to be related to figures which showed that hog slaughterings of late were remarkably heavy as compared with a year ago.

NOTE—Weekly summaries of condition in the grain region will be telegraphed from Washington, April 13, and each Tuesday thereafter during the growing season, except that this summary will be telegraphed and published on Wednesday whenever the preceding Monday is a holiday.

Summary of weather and crop conditions in the corn and wheat region for the week ending July 6, 1915.

Washington, D. C., July 7, 1915.—In the winter wheat belt between the Appalachian and Rocky Mountains damp, rainy weather in many parts delayed harvest and hurt grain standing in the fields and shocks, especially in Oklahoma and portions of surrounding states. In the Atlantic and Pacific coast states harvesting is proceeding rapidly under favorable conditions.

In the spring wheat belt it was mostly cool and wet but the crop made good growth. In the far Northwestern states hot, dry winds again caused some injury.

In the corn belt cold and wet weather continued and cultivation and growth in many important states was still further delayed. The crop is late and plants are small over all northern districts. Further south conditions were much more favorable and in many sections excellent yields are assured.

Haying and harvesting oats delayed, and some rust in oats and damage to hay.

London Stocks.

London, July 7.—Trading on the stock exchange today maintained the recent increased activity with irregular movements. The feature was the enormous numbers of markings of old war loan at easier prices.

In the American department there was slightly better business with prices a shade under the New York closing of yesterday. Canadian Pacifics shares, however, were steady. A further batch of gold bond was sold and will increase the equipment on Saturday's steamer.

Money was in abundant supply. Discounts were steady.

HEAVY BREAKS IN MINING STOCKS

Market Slumps With Selling on Fears of German Trouble.

Quotations in mining stocks at Boston declined sharply in the late trading today on liquidation precipitated by fears that Germany's reply to President Wilson's note would not be as satisfactory as had been expected.

A wide market was recorded in Butte & Superior. After opening 38 cents off at $71, it declined $2 more and then rallied to a close of $70.25. American Zinc was another especially weak feature, closing $1.38 off at $56.12.

Calumet & Arizona closed 63 cents off at $68.12; Copper Range $1 off at $54; Granby 25 cents off at $87; Greene-Cananea $1.25 off at $37; Mohawk $1.25 off at $78; North Butte 87 cents off at $30.75; Osceola 75 cents off at $85.25, and Shattuck 25 cents off at $27.50.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper closed $2 off at $74.50, and Anaconda 87 cents off at $34.50.

Hollinger has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 4 per cent, payable July 15.

At London spot copper closed off £1 1s; futures off £1 and electrolytic unchanged.

Directors of Wyandotte have levied an assessment of $1, payable July 28. Books close July 17.

Steward Mining company has declared an extra dividend of 25 per cent, payable July 29 to stock of record July 15.

At St. Louis lead closed dull at 5.50@5.60c and spelter dull nominal at 18@21c.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following from New York: "Support of an influential character is lacking and long stock in large volume is coming out. Europe is inclined to sell. The suggestion that the German reply may not be as favorable as has been the general impression recently is causing some concern, but otherwise news is meager."

After payment of its dividend of $3.25 per share on June 30, amounting to $900,000, Butte & Superior is reported to have had $1,700,000 cash remaining in its treasury.

In addition to cash, the company had on that date a net inventory of materials and concentrates amounting to approximately $1,500,000, making net quick assets of $3,200,000.

It is predicted in well informed circles that the company's July earnings should not be less than $4 per share. Shareholders and brokers are now busy trying to figure out what the next extra dividend, payable Sept. 30, will be. Already bids of $5 per share for the regular and extra dividend are reported in the Boston market, but they have met with no acceptances. Persons making the $5 bids are said to be figuring on making from $3 to $5 per share profits on such transactions.

STOCKS MAKE LOW RECORDS

Declines Due to Persistent Liquidation, Largely of Foreign Origin.

Low Prices Made in Last Hour and Closing Heavy.

New York, July 7.—New low records for St. Paul and Missouri Pacific were the features of today's early dealings. St. Paul opened at 80½, its recent low minimum, but soon fell to 79½. Missouri Pacific's initial offerings of 600 shares at 5¼ to 4⅞, a reflection of the $50 assessment on that stock in connection with the capital readjustment of the company. All other parts of the list were under pressure, Reading falling a point with substantial recessions in other standard railways and United States Steel. Studebaker was almost the sole exception to the declining tendency, advancing 2 points.

Prices rallied slightly from opening levels but weakened again when St. Paul fell to 76⅝. Southern Pacific's loss of 2 points was followed by a steady decline of 8½ in Louisville & Nashville, which sold at 105½, its lowest price in years. Atlantic Coast Line lost 6 points and other Southern railroad stocks were adversely affected, Southern Railway preferred falling 4½ and the common 1¾. The break in this group, which was unattended by any known development, soon caused a general reaction of 1 to 2 points. Bonds were irregular on lighter foreign offerings.

Persistent liquidation, largely of foreign origin, was responsible for numerous low records in today's market.

Selling continued for the rest of the session, low prices being made in the last hour, with a moderate rally towards the end. The closing was heavy.

SECTION 30 MINING COMPANY

MINE—This company is operating what is commonly known as the Famous Section 30 Mine, comprising 320 acres in Section 30, 63-11, located about four miles east of Ely on the Vermilion Iron Range of Minnesota. This property was in litigation for many years, and the fight was bitterly contested by many claimants, until under a decision of the United States supreme court, the title was finally vested in the present fee owners. The title is therefore absolutely perfect. It is estimated that $1,000,000 dollars was spent in litigation by the various contestants.

CAPITALIZATION—The Section 30 Mining Company is incorporated under the Laws of the State of Minnesota for One Million Dollars, divided into 100,000 shares of a par value of $10.00 per share.

MANAGEMENT—George A. St. Clair is President and Treasurer, Alfred Merritt is Vice President and John G. Williams is Secretary. Mr. St. Clair is in active charge of all mining operations, and has been an independent miner and shipper of iron ores from the Michigan and Minnesota iron ranges for the past forty years. Mr. Alfred Merritt and his brothers were the discoverers of the Mesaba Range and the builders of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. Mr. Williams acts in a legal capacity for the company. We refer to any bank in Duluth as to their standing and integrity.

DEVELOPMENT—During the last four years 150 to 200 men have been constantly employed. Several miles of underground workings have been made in opening the ore body to this date, and over $750,000.00 have been spent in developing and equipping the mine. The main working shaft is 635 feet deep and has two main hoisting compartments.

EQUIPMENT—The mine is fully equipped, including a concrete engine house, double drum hoist capable of handling a three-ton skip from the 1,000-foot level, air compressor of 30-drill capacity, dynamo, automatic drill sharpeners, steam shovel, locomotive, blacksmith shop, labratory, office building, concrete dry house, 40 houses built to house employes with families, and all other necessary equipment. The tracks of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad run direct to the shaft and all shipments of ore are made over this road to Two Harbors.

PRODUCTION—Shipments of ore to date total 501,123 tons and the list of customers using Section 30 ore includes such concerns as the following: Federal Furnace Company of Chicago, Toledo Furnace Company of Toledo, Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company of Youngstown, Ohio, and the Zenith Furnace Company of Duluth. The average cargo analysis of all Bessemer ore shipped during the season of 1914 gave iron 64.70 and phosphorus .045, and the non-Bessemer ore gave iron 59.60 and phosphorus .072 dried at 212 degrees. The records of all ore shipments from the entire Lake Superior region last year show Section 30 Bessemer ore to be the highest grade iron ore shipped from Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin, with one exception, namely, the Republic mine on the Marquette range of Michigan.

SALES—This season's sales to date total 189,700 tons and additional sales will undoubtedly be made before the season closes. The mine has at present in stockpile 118,908 tons of iron ore and the company is prepared to ship between 250,000 and 300,000 tons this year.

POSSIBILITIES—On the eastern end of the Vermilion iron range are the following shipping mines: Chandler, Pioneer, Zenith, Sibley, Savoy and Section 30 mines. The Pioneer, Zenith, Sibley and Savoy mines are operated by the United States Steel Corporation, and have earned and are earning enormous profits. Section 30 Mining Company has twice the length on the iron formation that any of these mines have. Sales of ore already made for this season will show a handsome profit, and Section 30 Mining Company is destined to enter soon upon a long dividend career.

For the purpose of providing additional capital to facilitate the handling of its constantly increasing business, the Section 30 Mining Company has authorized the sale of 12,000 shares of treasury stock at $12.50 per share. The sale of this stock will increase the cash capital of the company to a total amount of over $200,000.00, which will be ample for all purposes, and will allow the company to distribute its earnings each year as made in the form of dividends to its stockholders, and this will be the policy of the company. As this announcement goes to press

4,000 SHARES IS OFFERED FOR PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION

SECTION 30 MINE is known all over the state of Minnesota, and we anticipate that with the limited offering and the out-of-town subscriptions from the Mesaba and Vermilion range towns and elsewhere, that this 4,000 shares which is offered will be heavily oversubscribed. We reserve the right to reject or pro rate any subscription.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR STOCK—Out-of-town subscriptions must be accompanied by check, draft or cashier's check and mailed to the undersigned. On such subscriptions reservations of stock may be made by long distance telephone or by telegraph, with remittances to follow by mail. Local subscriptions may be made direct to the undersigned or through the subscriber's bank or broker. Certificates of stock will be promptly issued to each subscriber.

INFORMATION—Complete maps of the mine, record of shipments and a book showing the cargo analyses of all Lake Superior iron ores for the season of 1914, issued by the Lake Superior Iron Ore association of Cleveland, Ohio, together with all other data concerning the Section 30 Mining Company, are on file at our office and available for intending subscribers.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—

Default has been made in the payment of the sum of two thousand one hundred and twenty and 77-100 dollars ($2,120.77), which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Mary Roos and John E. Roos, her husband, Mortgagors, to Palmire M. Douglass, Mortgagee, bearing date the 12th day of December, 1911, and with a power of sale therein contained, which said mortgage was duly filed and registered in the office of the Registrar of Titles in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, on the 10th day of January, 1912, at two o'clock in the afternoon thereof, as document number 8540, and entered in Register of Titles number 11, on page 176 thereof, as a memorial upon the certificate of title numbered 3151, covering the mortgaged premises hereinafter described;

Said Mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby was duly assigned by said Palmire M. Douglass, Mortgagee, to Shukri F. Tannus, by written assignment dated the 12th day of May, 1915, and duly filed and registered in the office of said Registrar of Titles on the 22nd day of May, 1915, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, as document number 18493, and entered in Register of Titles number 53, on page 266 thereof, as a memorial upon the certificate of title numbered 16318, covering the mortgaged premises hereinafter described, which last described certificate of title No. 16318 had been issued in place of said certificate of title numbered 3151.

Such default consists in the failure to pay the principal sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) secured by said mortgage, due on the 12th day of December, 1914, the interest upon for sixty dollars ($60.00) due upon said 12th day of December, 1914, and all subsequent interest.

Said above described mortgage is upon and covers certain real estate therein and hereinafter described, which said real estate has been, pursuant to order and decree of the District Court of the Eleventh Judicial District of the State of Minnesota, in and for the County of St. Louis, brought under the operation and provisions of an Act Concerning Land Titles, being Chapter 305 of the Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year 1905, and all acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and the title to the same duly confirmed and registered by said Registrar of Titles as in and by said act provided; and no action or proceeding has been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, and situate in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, namely:

The East half (½) of Lot eighty-eight (88), in Block numbered twenty-eight (28), Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County and State; with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County, at his office in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 23rd day of July, 1915, at ten o'clock A. M., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said mortgage indebtedness and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50.00) attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated June 8th, 1915.

DULUTHIAN IN SOUTH AFRICA SAW RAMIFICATION OF GREAT WAR

E. D. Ranck, Home on Furlough From Johannesburg, Tells How England's Former Enemy, Botha, Kept Union Jack Flying Over South Africa.

E. D. RANCK.

E. D. Ranck, formerly one of the secretaries of the Duluth Y. M.C.A., has returned to the city after a sojourn of more than two years in Johannesburg, South Africa. Mr. Ranck was general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in the famous gold reef district, and for eight months labored with the national defense guard that saw actual warfare as a ramification of the European conflict.

At the outbreak of the war in Europe, Gen. Louis Botha, twelve years ago the commander-in-chief of the Boer armies that were fighting Great Britain, organized a national defense. At one time there were 15,000 soldiers in the camp that Mr. Ranck and his assistants worked in, giving concerts, doing religious work and providing comfort in many ways for the men.

It was during the early period of the European war that the Boers were ordered to capture Southwest Africa. "Some of the Boers refused," said Mr. Ranck today, in telling of the situation in Africa. "There were some Boers that declared they would defend their country if it were attacked, but would take no part in aggression.

"Part of the defense soldiers went to Southwest Africa and attacked the Germans there, and it was while these soldiers were absent on this mission that Gen. De Wet told those who would listen to him that the opportunity was ripe to win back the freedom the Boers had lost to the British empire.

Botha Saved Day.

"Gen. Hertzog was the real leader in this movement, but somehow he has always been able to avoid being directly implicated. Gen. Botha remained and put down the De Wet rebellion and then went to Southwest Africa and completed its subjugation. The man who fought Great Britain so ably during the Boer war proved the empire's greatest ally in the critical time during the outbreak of the European war.

"Had Botha told his people that the time was ripe to strike a blow for their own freedom there is little doubt but that he would have been followed. He remained loyal to the empire and thus a very serious situation was avoided.

"Africa has not allowed a single man to be sent to the fighting front in Europe. At the beginning of the war there were three regiments of British regulars in South Africa. These have been withdrawn. But in South Africa one can never tell when an uprising of some kind is liable to occur. You see there are more than four blacks to one white. Therefore the men of the national defense will remain in South Africa, for the time being at least.

"In the ranks of this band of soldiers were Britons, Boers, Americans and representatives of nearly every nation in the world. It was indeed a picturesque complement of soldiers—soldiers of the world, one might say."

Blew Town to Pieces.

Mr. Ranck returned from South Africa across the Indian ocean, touching at Australia and the South Sea islands. At the island of Tahiti the work of devastation of the Germans was witnessed. The island and the little town of Papiete are a French settlement. Three German cruisers drew up before the town and demanded fuel and water. The French populace opened fire with their small guns. The big guns of the German boats speedily got the range of the town and destroyed it, blowing it literally to pieces.

When Mr. Ranck went to Johannesburg to take charge of the Y. M. C. A. there was scarcely anything there in the way of material evidence of the work of the association. During the stay of Mr. Ranck a new building was constructed and the membership of the local association brought up to 1,500 members.

While Mr. Ranck is on a leave of absence of a year, he doubts whether he will return. The altitude is so high as to prove unhealthy for both him and the members of his family.

Before leaving Johannesburg for the States Mr. Ranck was presented with a handsome testimonial by the co-workers of the Johannesburg association. The gift was an expression of the esteem in which Mr. Ranck was held by his fellow laborers in that distant field.

Johannesburg is situated in the very heart of one of the greatest gold reefs in the world. The net profits are nearly $15,000,000 a day. While declaring that South Africa is one of the greatest mineral countries in the world, and that it has unlimited future greatness along agricultural lines, Mr. Ranck declared that much land was held that was put to no purpose, many of the land holders being content to merely make a living.

BURGLARS, PURSE SNATCHERS AND THIEVES PUT IN BUSY EVENING

Petty Criminals Get $80 Worth of Loot in Six Cases Reported to Police; Purse Snatching By Boys Becoming Common.

Burglars, grand larceny thieves and purse snatchers kept police busy last night.

Two burglaries, two attempted burglaries, a theft from a hotel room and a case of purse snatching netted criminals about $80 worth of plunder, judging from police reports this morning.

One district, within a radius of three blocks from Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, was the scene of all but one burglary and the hotel theft.

Henry Koivisto of Elmer, Minn., in Duluth for the first time, was too democratic, for two newly found friends, after going to bed in the same room, departed during the night. With them went $35 of Henry's cash; his $20 watch; a chain; a pocket knife and his new shoes. All together, his valuables are worth $60.50, he declared this morning when talking to Lieut. E. H. Barber. The three were staying at the Tampere hotel, 603 West First street.

Burglars broke into the confectionary store of Frank Weston, at 21 North Nineteenth avenue west, and took about $3 in cash, after helping themselves to candy and cigars. The cash register showed that $1.16 had been taken, in addition to some change in a money drawer.

Chief McKechnie, with Officers D. Olson, Nyberg, Nysrom and P. Barber, answered a hurry-up call from Carl Janetta, 2116 Piedmont avenue, late in the evening, but the main squad arrived too late, and Officer Olson, acting as scout, frightened away two men who had broken the store windows.

Mr. Janetta told the police that he was awakened by some noise, and saw the two would-be burglars trying to get into the store through the rear.

Mrs. R. Wester, who keeps a candy and cigar store at 401 North Twenty-sixth avenue west, was another victim. Amateur burglars who entered through a rear window were unable to find any money, and departed after helping themselves to sweets and "smokes."

An unidentified woman who told Mounted Officer Noreen that she would rather lose her purse, gloves and $1.11 than to give him her name and address, was the victim of a boy purse snatcher. With a friend, she slowed up in walking to allow the youth to pass them, and as he did so he grabbed her purse. The affair took place in front of a residence at 512 North Twenty-third avenue west, and is the fourth purse snatching case reported from this immediate vicinity recently.

Richard Mandilla, a barber at 228 South First avenue east, left a boy in charge of his shop for awhile late in the day, and thieves called the youth next door, pretending that he was wanted on the phone, and removed every razor in the establishment while he was gone. The seven instruments are valued at about $20 by Mandilla.

MARINE

NIGHT CREW AT ALLOUEZ

Great Northern Ore Docks Are Now Working Double Shift.

Marine Men Now Look for Very Active Ore Season.

One of the best indications of the development of the ore trade was the putting to work last night of a night crew at the Allouez ore docks. The docks employ about 150 men on the day crew, but only about half that number are employed at night. Last night was the first time this season that the night crew has been found necessary, but, it is announced, from now on until the end of the shipping season the night crew will be permanently employed.

Ore shipments out of the Head of the Lakes docks up to July 1 were about 2,000,000 tons ahead of the same period last year, and it is expected that, with the immense growth in demand for ore, by Aug. 1, the gain will be still more; in fact that is considered certain. The old threat that the total shipments of ore this year would not beat last year's record, has been forgotten and the record of the year before, the best in the history of Lake Superior ores, is now the object for defeat. There are many who believe that it will be, at least crowded.

The declaration of President W. A. McGonagle of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club that indications are that this year will beat 1910 in the iron and steel business is regarded as highly significant. Mr. McGonagle has the reputation among marine men of being conservative in his statements, and it is taken as meaning that the steel corporation foresees an unusually active year in the ore trade.

START HARD FIGHT ON SEAMEN'S LAW

Great Lakes Passenger Men Open Bureau and Lobby.

The Great Lakes passenger vessel men already are conducting a systematic lobby at Washington to obtain an amendment to the seamen's law, because they will be required to follow strict regulations that will increase expenses without, it is said, benefiting operation or safety.

According to an announcement just issued a "bureau has been established in Chicago in order that the Great Lakes passenger lines association may place its position frankly before the public." The announcement reads in part:

"The Great Lakes, the last stand of American merchant marine, are as hard hit, if not harder, than the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. This fact has generally been overlooked in dispatches from New York and San Francisco, where they are raving over the transfer of American shipping to foreign flags, because of the increased cost of steamship operation under the provisions of the recent congressional act.

"There will be no underhand, blackguarding, backdoor publicity campaign, no attempt at vote buying, or any of the 'old army stuff' in lobbying. We are going straight to the American public with our story in printers' ink."

FEDERAL STEAMER NEARS COMPLETION

Named After Former Engineer at Duluth—Will Be Used Here.

The new government steamer which has just been built at Muskegon, Mich., for the United States engineers' department at Duluth, is expected to arrive about Aug. 1, according to a dispatch from Muskegon, but Maj. E. D. Peck, United States engineer at this point, doubts that the vessel will be ready that early. "Sometime this fall" was his closest prediction.

The boat is now at Ferrysburg, Mich., having her boilers and engine installed under direction of C. S. North, representing the United States engineers' department.

The steamer, which will be used by the government engineer in the Duluth district, is named Gen. C. B. Sears, in honor of the late officer of that name, who as Maj. Sears, was engineer in charge of the Duluth district for many years, and who died in the East about two years ago.

REACHES HOUGHTON UNDER JURY RIG

Steamer Kalkaska Compelled to Use Hatch Covers for Sails.

Houghton, Mich., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Kalkaska, owned by the Pilsen Lumber company, is tied up here awaiting repairs on a broken shaft, which parted Monday morning, thirty miles west of the Portage ship canal.

The steamer got within sight of the canal by rigging hatch covers for sails, and was towed in Monday night by life-savers with a power boat.

The steamer Lakeland arrived yesterday, twenty-four hours overdue, being compelled to turn back to Whitefish from Grand Island because of adverse winds.

OLD-TIME SAILOR DEAD.

Michael Ellis, Well Known on Lakes, Passes Away at Sandusky.

Sandusky, Ohio, July 7.—Michael Ellis, 66, a sailor who had been an inmate since Sept. 5, 1913, ill and in bed all the time, is dead at the Erie county infirmary. Hardly a freighter put in here but members of its crew visited Ellis, who it was said, was known to every old time lake sailor.

Longest Steamer in Port.

The steamer W. Grant Morden, flagship of the Canadian lake trust, was in port from yesterday morning until this morning, taking ore from the Allouez ore docks. The Morden is the longest steamer on the Great Lakes, but has not the cargo capacity of the W. P. Snyder or the Col. James M. Schoonmaker. The Morden is 625 feet long, over all, but is shorter on the keel and lacks the beam of the two American boats mentioned. This is her first visit here this year. She was in several times last season, which was her first one.

Wind and Weather on Lakes.

The following were wind and weather conditions on the Great Lakes at 7 o'clock this morning, as reported by the weather bureau:

Portage (Lake Superior): South; clear; six miles.
Whitefish Point (Lake Superior): Southeast; cloudy; eight miles.
Middle Island (Lake Huron); South; cloudy; six miles.
Plum Island (Lake Michigan): Southeast; cloudy; twelve miles.

Krakow, so frequently mentioned in the war dispatches, was once the capital of free Poland, with a cathedral equivalent to Westminster Abby, wherein sleep the generations of Polish kings and heroes. It possesses the most striking patriotic memorial in the world. This is the Kosciuskoberg, a mound 300 feet high, erected to the memory of Kosciusko, and formed of earth from every battlefield of Poland.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ELY CELEBRATION WAS BIG SUCCESS

Patriotic Address of Orator—One Accident Mars Parade.

Ely, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ely's celebration Monday came up to expectations. From the raising of "Old Glory" to the music of the "Star Spangled Banner" until way into the night there was something of interest to all. The parade in the morning was a big feature but the pleasure was marred by one accident. A float of about seventy little girls dressed in white, carrying flags and singing national airs collapsed while going uphill on Sheriden street. The girls escaped without injury but several were badly bruised.

Rev. B. E. Williams' address on "American Citizenship" was highly commented on.

Welcome to Foreigners.

Rev. Williams said: "I am in sympathy with a large per cent of this audience to whom this country is not the homeland, the conditions are not more different than they are from the conditions of my native state. I am an American, my fathers have fought in every war for freedom in this country; as a humble American representative, I want to say to all who come here from other lands, welcome, this is your land as well as mine, the privileges and blessings of this country are yours, use them, don't abuse them.

"Aristotle defined citizenship as a right to take part in the legislative and judiciary affairs of the community. American citizens means infinitely more than that, we not only have the right but we do, all of us make all the conditions of society, political, social, and moral. The difference between a subject and a citizen is that a subject is governed and a citizen not only is governed but he also governs."

Some Prize Winners.

Following is a partial list of prize winners in the various events of the day:

Best floats for business house or manufacturer.—J. A. Raathman, coal, wood and teaming, first prize, $15.00; Abraham Savalainen, jewelry, second prize, $10.

Best decorated automobile—Carl J. Anderson, first prize, $15.00.

Largest number of members of any society in parade was awarded to the fire department.

100-yard dash for men—Byron Carlson, first prize, $3; H. J. Molumndy, second, $2.

100-yard dash for boys, 16 years and under—George Lahti, first prize, $2; Charles Makl, second, $1.

50-yard dash for girls, 16 years and under—Rose McCarthy, first prize, $2; Anna Hegfors, second, $1.

100-yard dash for fat men, 200 pounds or over—William Grew, first prize, $3; Richard Hodge, second, $2.

Motorcycle race to Burntside and return—Matt Kangas, first; Matt Martin, second; Jack Gianotti, the third competitor, met with a slight accident which prevented him from continuing the race. In addition to the above races there were several races for children, a bicycle race, and Finnish horse races.

The ball game in the afternoon, Virginia vs. Ely, resulted in a score of 7 to 5 in Virginia's favor.

VIRGINIAN IN ITALIAN ARMY

Writes That Real Fighting With Austrians Will Soon Begin.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Real fighting between the Italian and Austrian armies is yet to be, according to Alderico Bocchi, formerly a resident of Virginia, who is now serving in the "Alpini," or mountain division of the Italian army. Although about 40 years of age, Bocchi writes that he is expecting every day to get orders to the front.

To Join Italian Army.

Constantino Stichiotti and Frank Mulinari, who have been employed at the Alpena mine for several years, will leave on July 10 for Italy to take their places in the army ranks. Stichiotti is married and has a family of seven children in Italy, which he says is his reason for going.

The men will go from Virginia to Chicago and from there to New York. They will sail from New York July 14 on the steamer Principi d'Umder of the Lloyd Sabouda liner.

NEW ADDITION NOW ACCEPTED

Virginia Council Also Cancels Peddlers' Free Licenses.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Alderman Heritage casting the only dissenting vote, the city council last night agreed to accept Ridgewood addition, taking a deed to block 16 as security that sloping and grading work in the addition will be completed by Attorney Louis M. Osborn, owner of the lots in question.

The city assessor was instructed to place lots on Crescent avenue, claimed to be owned by Capt. Dickinson, on the assessment rolls. The use of the land was awarded to Mr. Dickinson by a resolution of the village council in 1894.

Following the reading of a petition from twenty grocers protesting against the free licensing of peddlers, the council requested Mayor Boylan to have peddling permits canceled. The grocers claim the unlicensed hawkers are taking away much of their trade.

The street and alley committee was authorized to extend the West Virginia road to the city limits on the west. Twenty-four inch instead of eighteen inch rollers are to be used on the city's steam roller hereafter.

Crushed Rock on Alleys.

Crushed rock and concrete will be used on two alleys on the South Side. One alley will have a round surface, and the other a sloping, to determine which method is best to use on all alleys.

The city engineer was voted a second assistant at a salary of $90 a month. The street commissioner was authorized to sell the city's dirt on the South Side at 25 cents a load.

A plot of ground at Willow street and Central and Virginia avenues was conveyed to the park board to be beautified.

Consulting Engineer Frederic Bass, who is inspecting the new septic tank, was asked to submit regular reports of his inspections.

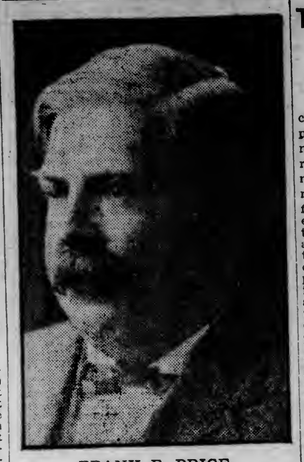

Estimates Allowed.

The city engineer's estimates on the work of Risberg & Marvick for $1,020 on the concrete bridge over the Narrows was allowed, as was his estimate of $1,584 on the sewage disposal plant being erected by Lawrence-McCann.

E. H. Steurs and Charles Roberts were granted renewals of their liquor licenses. Henry J. Segal, proprietor of the Bijou theater, was granted a renewal of his theater license.

Cement walks were ordered laid on Wyoming avenue and Cherry street. The poundmaster reported $50.50 in receipts for June, a banner record.

GRAND RAPIDS LAWYER IS BURIED IN ST. PAUL

FRANK F. PRICE.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Frank F. Price, a local attorney who died in St. Paul July 3, was held in the Saintly city today, burial being there.

Mr. Price practiced law in Itasca county twenty years. He was 55 years old. He is survived by his widow and one son, Douglas, aged 20.

KINNEY MAN'S TROUSERS ARE TAKEN BY FISH POLE.

Kinney, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Awakening early yesterday morning, M. N. German, a local merchant, saw his trousers disappear through the window at the end of a fish pole. He made a grab for his apparel, but failed to get a firm hold and by the time he had made himself ready for the chase the man who operated the fish pole had disappeared in the darkness.

In the trousers were $3.50 cash and a check for $170. The police were called and it was learned that one of the officers had become suspicous at a fleeing figure in the darkness whom he had called to halt. The man kept on running, although the policeman shot at him twice.

TO REMODEL SCHOOL.

Changes to Be Made in Building at Ely.

Ely, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Howard Parsons, an architect, conferred with the board of education in regard to the remodeling of the interior of the high school building. The stage in the auditorium will be removed and the third floor partitioned to make a rest room, superintendent's office and recitation room. The partitions are to be of glass. On the second floor the cloak rooms will be rearranged. On the north side of the cloak room and rest room will be combined to make an extra room for the commercial department, which will then have two rooms with a glass partition separating them. On the first floor the room now occupied by the superintendent's office will be devoted to a dining room for the domestic science classes. The recitation room in the southeast corner will be used for the sewing room and the recitation room in the southwest corner will the cooking room. The removal of the domestic science department from the basement to the first floor will give the manual training department the full basement. Store rooms will be made in the basement of the new grade school and a large vault will also be built, sixteen feet square.

MORE RANGE BUSINESS.

Missabe Railroad Has Increase in Freight Handled.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Business on the Missabe railway company's line is increasing daily according to Supt. J. W. Kreitter of Duluth, who was here yesterday.

He says that there is a noticeable increase in the amount of freight handled, especially merchandise. There is an increase in the shipments of ore over the road and as a result more men are being employed, which in turn makes it necessary to feed them and as a result there is a steady increase in the amount of local freight handled by the Missabe.

MRS. HUNTER SPEAKS TWICE AT CHISHOLM

Chisholm, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under the guidance of Misses Peterson and Palmer, Mrs. Gertrude Hunter of Minneapolis, spoke twice here Tuesday on "Women's Suffrage." The first talk took place on the corner of First avenue and Lake street and the second at the auditorium of the library. Mrs. Hunter first spoke from an automobile to a large audience in the open air. She is here as an organizer of the Congressional Union of Minnesota and will take in all the range cities before leaving the Eighth Congressional district.

COCKROACHES IN THE KITCHEN

How to Exterminate These Pests That Spoil the Food.

Nothing is more repulsive to the neat housewife than to see cockroaches crawling around the kitchen, pantry or closet, spoiling food and injuring clothing. The easiest and most effective way to completely exterminate them is with Stearns Electric Paste, the deadly foe of rats, mice, cockroaches, water bugs and all vermin.

Get a two-ounce box of Stearns Electric Paste from your druggist for twenty-five cents and use it at night as directed, and in the morning sweep up a panful of dead cockroaches. Directions in fifteen languages in every package.

TENTH AVENUE TO BE GRADED LOWER

Two Harbors Council So Decides After Hearing All Interested.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the property owners on Tenth avenue meeting with the council last night in regard to the improvement of that avenue, a new grade was established, and now the street will be made lower from one foot to six inches for the entire length of the avenue. Although the work has been going on on the avenue for some time, and at present the grade is nearly completed in accordance with the original plans, the property owners, especially those living or having property in low places, are just beginning to realize that if the street is improved according to the original plans, their properties will be down in a hole, and many of them will be very much below the level of the street. This is especially true of the properties on the south side of the avenue and in the east end. A long discussion took place between the council and the property owners. About thirty-five property owners were present, and finally a vote was taken, and it was found that the majority wanted the grade lowered.

North Siders Protest.

Many on the north side of the avenue objected to a cut because that side of the avenue is considerably higher than the south side, and they claimed that a deeper cut would put their property up in the air. It was decided by the property owners, after conveying to the council that they wanted a cut, to leave the matter with the council, and that the council see that the avenue was graded in such a manner as not to leave the south side property down in a hole.

The property owners on Tenth between Willow and Maple streets presented a petition asking that that portion of Tenth avenue be completed this year, instead of merely putting a 10-foot-wide stretch of crushed rock down the center of the street, as proposed. They want it paved with crushed macadam. The matter was referred to a committee.

Many of the property owners asked to have the entire street completed this year, but the council advised them that this could not be done owing to the deep fills which will have to be given time to settle.

FIXING HIBBING ROADS.

Because of Wet Weather Highways Are in Bad Shape.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—John McKusick yesterday began scarifying the crushed rock pavement and dirt road between the viaduct on North street to the icehouse between here and Chisholm preparatory to the new crushed rock pavement which will be laid on this highway. John McKusick has the contract to furnish the crushed rock for the pavement. Either oil or tar will be poured on top of the pavement following the packing.

Roads leading into Hibbing, because of the heavy traffic, have been in a deplorable condition, especially during the wet weather. An effort is made by the village council to construct the roads of such material that it will withstand wagon and automobile traffic.

LEAVES FOR ENGLAND.

Ely Woman Hopes to See Husband Before He Leaves for War Front.

Ely, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. John Bailey left yesterday for London, intending to sail from New York July 10 on the St. Louis. Her husband, who joined the English army at the beginning of the war, wrote that he expected his regiment would leave for the Dardanelles or France at any moment and Mrs. Bailey hopes to reach England before Mr. Bailey leaves for active service. Mrs. Bailey expects to make her home in England in the future.

TO ELIMINATE FAKES.

Virginia Merchants to Cut Out Useless Expenses.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is probable that an association of retail merchants will be organized here within the next few weeks.

The matter is being talked up among the merchants and seems to meet with general approval.

The object of the organization will be to cut down unnessary expenses. Among other things it is aimed to do away with contests and other so-called fake advertising schemes and as a result sell considerably cheaper to the public.

SUPERIOR MAN FINED.

Mulcted $12.50 for Fishing Without Minnesota License.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Selling partridges to motor tourists cost J. E. Storm, postmaster and merchant at Central Lakes, on the Canadian Northern railroad, $27.50 in municipal court at Gilbert, before Judge Anderson. Storm also pleaded guilty to the charge of having game in his possession.

Charles P. Howard, chief clerk at the union depot at Superior, Wis., was arrested by Game Warden Wood on a charge of fishing without a non-resident license. He was fined $12.50.

COME FROM GRAND FORKS.

James Curran's Wife and Daughter Join Him in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. James Curran and young daughter, Bessie of Grand Forks, N. D., who visited in Bemidji for several days with Mrs. Curran's sister, arrived here Monday evening to join their husband and father and make this village their permanent home. Mr. Curran is employed as a linotype operator here.

William King, who is employed as a fireman at fire hall No. 1, is enjoying a ten days' vacation at his homestead at Sturgeon lake.

Mr. and Mrs. John Redfern are entertaining Seese Rockwell of Fargo.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sullivan and son, Gordon, of Taconite, are here, the guests of Mrs. Sullivan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everest Lauzon of Alice and Mr. Sullivan's sister, Mrs. Joe Kaiser and Miss Nellie Sullivan.

Clarence Dwyer has returned from Duluth, where he passed the week-end with his wife who is visiting her mother, Mrs. G. Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mann returned Sunday evening from their honeymoon trip in the Twin Cities and Duluth and began housekeeping at once at their new home in Alice.

Mrs. Mary Rue of Fosston, Minn., and daughter, Mrs. Dwight Lohn of Froyd, Mont., visited here Monday with their son and brother, Larry Rue, while en route to Virginia, where they will visit with their daughter and sister, Mrs. John Brandt, for a week.

BISURATED MAGNESIA

For dyspepsia, indigestion, souring of food, gas, and hyperacidity of the stomach (acid stomach). A teaspoonful in a fourth of a glass of hot water usually gives INSTANT RELIEF. Sold by Boyce Drug Store and all druggists in either powder or tablet form at 50 cents per bottle.

WAR ADVANCES PRICES OF COAL TAR PRODUCTS

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There has been an upward sweep in the price of anti-pyrene, a coal tar product, according to local druggists, who say that the last boost in the price was from about $6 to $7.50. The price before the war was $3.20. The raise in price is attributed to the fact that because of patents secured the German companies have kept down all competition. Several other coal tar products are effected by the raise, but none so noticeably.

MRS. HUNTER SPEAKS AT HIBBING MEETINGS

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Gertrude Hunter of Minneapolis, national organizer of the Congressional union, outlined equal suffrage at a meeting on a street corner here this afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock. At 3 o'clock Mrs. Hunter will address Hibbing women in the clubrooms at the Carnegie library.

VIRGINIA NEWS NOTES.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Norwegian Lutheran church met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Hovland, 332 Spruce street.

Mrs. Hunter of Minneapolis, representing the American Association of Woman's Suffrage, spoke at the library clubrooms last evening.

About 300 couples attended the Eagles dance at the curling rink Monday night.

Mrs. C. A. Hine, wife of the manager of the New Fay hotel, left yesterday for Duluth to visit with friends. She was a former resident of Duluth.

Cecil Shea of Duluth was here over the Fourth, a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Shea.

Entertaining Classmates.

Ely, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Martha Trezona is entertaining at a house party at the Trezona cottage on Long lake the following classmates of Stout Institute: Miss Margaret Eleanor Roberts, St. Paul; Sue McQueen, Superior; Mary Agnes Boss, Merna Bell Newell and Grace Bergstrom, Duluth; Gladys Rogge and Blanche Doughty, Oshkosh, Wis.; Priscilla Adams and Etta James, St. Paul.

Hibbing 4 O'Clock Game.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First National sluggers, fast and formidable, will play the fire-fighters of the village at the ball park this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Romer Seeks Salary.

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former City Clerk A. P. Romer, who was discharged by the city councilmen, filed a claim before that body last night for his June salary, amounting to $125. The claim was referred to the city attorney. Contracts for sidewalks to the sum of $4,000 were let to the Eveleth Construction company.

MINER'S DEATH IS NOW BEING PROBED

Gilbert, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A hearing is being held here today before Judge Anderson to determine whether John Jager should be held for killing John Juhant, aged 40, a miner, whose body was found yesterday in the road between here and Eveleth, near the Genoa mine, with the skull crushed in. The men were together at Eveleth Monday during the celebration, and Robert Mitten, Eveleth chief of police, claims the pair had a fight not long ago over the division of some beer bottles. It is said the pair left Eveleth for Gilbert together, and this circumstance was considered sufficiently serious to hold Jager for a hearing.

FIGHTS WITH OFFICER.

Butcher Dennis Makes Complaint, Then Withdraws It.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. P. Dennis, a local butcher, well known in Duluth, had a difficulty last night with Natale Agrista, a policeman, during which Dennis claims the officer struck him with a stick. He swore out a warrant for the officer's arrest but when the case was called by Judge Moyland in municipal court today Dennis withdrew the complaint. The police and fire commission will meet this afternoon and it is expected the charges will be looked into then.

MOTORCYCLIST BUMPS INTO RANGE TROLLEY

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Vontoni, a local man, is in McIntyre hospital with injuries he sustained Monday evening when riding his motorcycle. He was struck by a range trolley car at the Wyoming avenue crossing. His injuries are not considered serious.

JAMES P. BOYLE WILL LOCATE IN ARIZONA

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former State Senator James P. Boyle, at present city attorney of Eveleth, and one of the best known attorneys on the range, gave his friends a surprise yesterday afternoon, when he announced that he would leave here about Aug. 1 for Douglas, Ariz., where he intended to open an office and practice law. Cleon T. Knapp, a former Chisholm attorney, is also located in Arizona, in Bisbee, twenty-seven miles from Douglas, but Mr. Boyle, will not so far as known be associated with Mr. Knapp. Mr. Boyle's departure from Minnesota will be genuinely regretted as he has a wide circle of friends. As state senator, city attorney and well known resident of the range, Mr. Boyle won distinction in many ways. One year ago he was a candidate before the primaries for Republican congressman from this district against Clarence B. Miller, but was defeated after making a strong campaign.

Mr. Boyle is city attorney here, which position he will resign soon. Abe Feldman, his law partner, is said to be a candidate for the office, which pays $125 a month.

Fallon Still Alive.

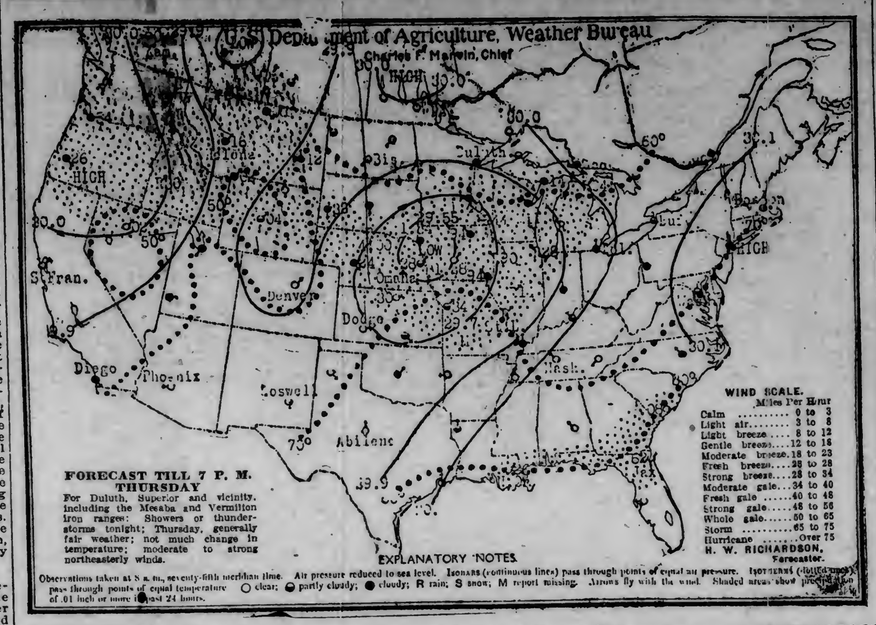

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matrin Fallon, the Duluthian who accidentally shot himself here recently, is reported alive at McIntyre hospital with a fair chance for recovery.

Section 30 Child Buried.

Ely, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 4-month-old daughter, Amelia, of Mr. and Mrs. John Kardel of Section 30 was buried yesterday from the Catholic church. Rt. Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. Buh officiated. The baby died at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Prebil, of the Pioneer, after an illness of a few days.

Mrs. Adolph Schroeder suffered a very acute attack of appendicitis Monday evening and was operated on at the Shipman hospital yesterday morning. She is doing nicely.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. THURSDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges: Showers or thunderstorms tonight; Thursday, generally fair weather; not much change in temperature; moderate to strong northeasterly winds.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature. ○ clear; ◒ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. Shaded areas show precipitation of .01 inch or more in past 24 hours.

SHOWERS

Nobody has been heard to complain because the threatened showers did not come, and there is likely to be a lack of kicking if the predicted showers and thunder storms scheduled for tonight fail to materialize. Today can be given an official o. k. without stretching the conscience, for it certainly is truly delightful.

A year ago today was fair. The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and will set this evening at 8:05, giving fifteen hours and forty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A disturbance of moderate intensity centered over Iowa has caused local showers over North Central states and the Far West during the last twenty-four hours. Heavy rainfalls occurred over Iowa and Southern Minnesota. Light showers also fell over South Carolina, Northern Florida and Southern Louisiana. Moderate temperatures are the rule."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 7.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Thursday:

Minnesota—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday, with showers in east and south portions tonight.

Wisconsin—Showers and probably thunder storms tonight; Thursday partly cloudy with showers in north portion.

Iowa—Unsettled tonight with showers and thunder storms in east and cooler in west portions; Thursday generally fair.

North Dakota and South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday; probably showers in west portion; not much change in temperature.

Lower Michigan—Probably showers and thunder storms tonight and Thursday.

Upper Michigan—Probably showers tonight and Thursday.

Temperatures.

WARRANT FOR THAW'S WIFE

Justice Hendrick Issues Body Attachment for Much Wanted Witness.

Came to City, Said She Would Not Testify; Returned.

New York, July 7.—A body attachment was issued by Supreme Court Justice Hendrick today for Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who failed to appear to testify in the proceedings yesterday, relative to the sanity of her husband, Harry K. Thaw. Mrs. Thaw came down from her summer camp in the Adirondacks yesterday and told Deputy Attorney General Cook that she could not stand the strain of testifying, at the same time saying she did not propose to testify against her husband. She left for the Adirondacks last night.

Issues Statement.

"I came to New York in answer to a subpoena issued by the supreme court, but no woman wishes to testify against her husband. I brought with me a doctor's certificate, showing that I am not in a fit condition to undergo the ordeal of testifying again. I had no intention of offending Justice Hendrick when I issued my statement at the camp.

"I do not want Harry to go back to that hell on earth—Matteawan—but I do think some kind of restraint should be placed upon him. I am going back to the camp to forget it all."

FUNCTION OF NEWSPAPERS

Paramount One to Act as Keeper of Public Conscience.

Belief of Vice President of Foreign Language Press.

San Francisco, Cal., July 7.—Percy Andreae of Chicago, vice president of the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers, addressing the International Press congress here today, asserted his belief that the paramount function of the press in America was to act as keeper of the public conscience.

"This is no mere metaphor," he continued. "There never was a time when men as well as women were so fiercely intent upon appealing to the public conscience, and assuming to speak in its name. And who is to distinguish, amid this babel of tongues wagging in the name of the public conscience, which voice is truly the voice of the people and which is not?

"It is the incessant conflict between the contrary winds of alleged public opinion that does more lasting damage in our day than even those colossal social upheavals which occasionally result from the clashing interests of race and race. Not because the conflict of human opinions is in itself injurious, for we know that it is not, but because, when opinions, however honest, masquerade in a false guise, they are misleading, and perplex and bewilder the public conscience instead of clarifying and strengthening it.

Who Better Qualified?

"Who, then, is better qualified than the trained and experienced newspaper editor, to point the distinction between the mere passing winds that bend and twist the public mind for a fleeting moment and the real storm wind that originates in the public mind itself, searching it to its uttermost depths, and giving it a new and lasting shape?"

The distinction between the foreign language press in America and the American press, Mr. Andreae thought, lay in the efforts of the former to make a good American of the immigrant and the duty of the latter to keep him a good American. In this connection he said:

"I am not at all sure which of the two tasks is the more difficult. The foreigner when he reaches these shores comes in many cases with that one-sided conception of American liberty which renders him blind to the fact that the exercise of his liberty is conditioned upon his due regard for the liberty of others. In his first exaltation upon being delivered from the shackles of his old life he is apt to suppose that, since the order of things he has left behind him meant the denial of individual freedom, therefore the state of freedom into which he enters here implies correspondingly an absence of all necessity to submit to the exigencies of social order. He has to learn, in other words, that, while order may exist without liberty, there is no liberty conceivable without order. It is the task of the foreign-language newspaper to bring this fact forcibly home to him, and I am making no idle boast when I say that it has succeeded in accomplishing this self-imposed task in a remarkable degree.

Depends Upon the Press.

"I have characterized that task as one of making a true American of one of the foreign-born immigrant. Whether, after becoming merged in the general citizenship of the country, he remains a true American or not, depends, as it depends in the case of every one of us, be he foreign-born or native, upon our press than that of keeping the mind of every citizen of this country unalterably fixed upon this fundamental principles of government laid down by our immortal forefathers."

In conclusion Mr. Andreae said:

"It is fit and proper that the press should bow to the public, because the public is sovereign. But, when we so bow, let us first be sure that it is the sovereign public we are bowing to, and not a mere bogy, ingeniously dressed up to resemble it. And, above all, even in bowing, let us remember that, though, right or wrong, the public ever remains the supreme sovereign, the press, too, can never divest itself of its own supreme responsibility towards that sovereign, upon the faithful fulfillment of which he relies, and for the neglect of which he is ever ready to exact a stern account; its responsibility as the keeper of the public conscience."

BOMBS FOUND ON BOARD SHIP

Two Discovered in Cargo of War Munitions From New York.

Smoothness of Sea Prevented One of Them From Exploding.

New York, July 7.—H. C. Hill, European representative of an American automobile company that has made large shipments of military automobiles to the allies, arrived here today on the Espagne and said that a British ship, loaded here in May for Havre, with a cargo of automobiles and grain for the French army, was found to have two bombs on board when she reached her destination. Mr. Hill refused to give the name of the ship, saying that to do so might hamper an investigation now under way.

One of the bombs, consisting, he said, of two metal cylinders, capped with wax, was discovered in one of the automobile cases and the other in a sack of grain. One cylinder was filled with acid, the other with a highly inflammable chemical.

The bomb in the automobile case, Mr. Hill said, was evidently designed to be exploded by the motion of the ship causing the acid and the chemical to mix. An unusually smooth passage probably resulted in the failure of the plot, he thought. One of the boards on the automobile case had been pried loose and the bomb inserted, possibly at the time the case was placed aboard the ship.

"It has also been found," Mr. Hill said, "that attempts to destroy or make useless automobiles shipped to the allies are frequent. We are compelled at Havre a large force of mechanics to examine carefully each machine even before tested. On several occasions during the past few months there has been found emery dust in the cylinders, which will soon make the car useless, and in some instances borings have been made in vital parts of the machinery."

Bombs on Three Ships.

New York, July 7.—Three ships sailing from this port to Havre and reaching there last May, it was learned from an authoritative source today, were found to have unexploded bombs abroad, the missiles having been placed on the ships in this city before sailing.

NAVAL SERVICE MORE ATTRACTIVE

Remuneration for Reserves Made More Liberal By Uncle Sam.

In order that Uncle Sam may improve and build up the naval reserve the service is being made more and more attractive according to Peter Coyle, C. W. T., in charge of the naval recruiting station at Duluth. Jack tars honorably discharged from the navy may hold their present positions and at the same time draw $30 yearly from the government, the same amount in clothes and get a ten-day vacation with all expenses paid. This information was contained in a circular received by Mr. Coyle yesterday afternoon.

"Every member of the naval reserve must do two months drill during the four years of enlistment," said Coyle, "but the regulations permit the two months to be cut into ten-day periods. Under this ruling, a reserve may take his vacation once a year and travel to and from his training post at the government's expense."

"Reserves who have eight to twelve years service are entitled to $60 a year, provided they enlisted in the service within four months after being honorably discharged from the regular navy."
